Per Abdur Rahim, J.—The sections apply to cases falling under Art. 44. The Act does not deprive persons under disability of the common advantages under the Act. It makes certain concessions in their favour. A suit by two Hindu brothers to recover properties alienated by their mother and guardian during their minority without necessity is barred if brought more than 3 years after the elderbrother becomes major but within 3 years of the attainment of majority by the younger.

Per Sundara Iyer, J.—The section does not apply to suits by number of plaintiffs some of whom are under disability. The words "the same period after the disability has ceased, etc.," show that the section applies where but for the disability time would run against the litigant before the cessation of disability. 10 M.L.T. 418=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 450=21 M.L.J. 1041=12 Ind. Cas. 695.

——Ss. 6 and 7—Several plffs.—Joint trustees—Minor, a trustee.

When the right of one of joint trustees to plaintiffs recover the rus. property has become time-barred against a person holding the property in adverse possession, the right of the other joint trustee also is time-barred though the latter brings his suit within three years of his attaining majority. 34 M. 284=20 M.L.J. 421= 8 M.L.T. 134=(1910) M.W.N. 425=6 Ind. Cas. 992.

18. Subsequent disability.

——S. 6—Subsequent disability—Eldest son's right barred on date of suit—Sons born after alienation but before the eldest was 18.

Where on the date of the suit by the eldest son who was over 21, the other sons were less than 21 and were within time so far as they were concerned and where they were not born on the date of the alienation by the father but were in existence before the eldest son attained majority, held, that the minor plffs. being not born when the right to sue accrues, i.e., the date of the alienation the suit was barred by limitation. 1 Lah. 558=59 Ind. Cas. 678.

——Ss. 6 and 9—Subsequent disability—Trespass before birth of minor.

Where a person trespasses on immoveable property belonging to a person and after such trespass the owner dies leaving a minor son, the minor is not entitled to the exemption in S. 6 of the Limitation Act. 55 Ind. Cas. 335 (Lah.).

——S. 6—Subsequent disability.

A minor is not entitled to the benefit of S. 6 of the Limitation Act in respect of a right to sue which accrued before his birth. 2 U.P.L.R. (L.) 39=54 Ind. Cas. 838.

——S. 6—Punjab Limitation Act I of 1900—Subsequent disability—Commencement of minority.

S. 6 of the Limitation Act does not apply to the case of a minor born subsequent to the alienation objected to. Minority begins at birth and not at conception. 173 P.W.R. 1912=14 Ind. Cas. 60.

——S. 6 (Ss. 7, 9 13), Art. 179 (4)—"At the time from which"—Application for execution—Minor—Initial disability—Subsequent disability—Inability to sue—Disability to sue.

On the 13th October, 1891 a decree was passed, and applications for execution were made in 1894 and 1897, the last having been presented on the 10th September, was within time. It was made by G, a major, who died on the 24th July, 1900. G's son, who was a minor made no further application for execution until 1903.

Held: (1) that the application by G's son in 1903 was barred by time, since the application from which it was sought to date the period of limitation was made by an adult and it was only on his subsequent death within the period of three years and after time had commenced to run that G's son became entitled to apply; (2) that S. 9 of the Limitation Act, 1877, applied to the case, because here there was not an initial disability, but a subsequent disability. 20 C. 716, dist. Inability to sue is distinct from disability to sue, which means want of legal capacity. Inability to sue, for the purposes of the Limitation Act, is the state of being a minor insane or an idiot. (1904) 6 Bom. L.R. 639=29 B. 68

——S. 6—Determining age—Medical evidence is not of much help in determining age.

Medical evidence in cases of age of a party to a suit which falls to be decided for purpose of limitation cannot throw much light because from its very nature it is based on conjectures only and it cannot possibly be looked upon for the purposes of determining with precision the exact age of a particular person. In cases when limitation is pleaded in defence, a difference of even a single, day settles the fate of the case one way or the other and no doctor, however conscientious and competent he may be, can give the precise age of a person so as to enable the Court to determine the exact date of that person's birth. 113 Ind. Cas. 53=10 L.L.J. 183=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 250.

——S. 6—Miscellaneous—Insanity, what is.

Per Shah, J.—To be in a state of great mental weakness on account of serious injuries is not a sufficient condition to constitute insanity within the meaning of S. 6. 84 Ind. Cas. 796=25 Bom. L.R. 1333=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 290.

——S. 6—Miscellaneous—'Affect or alter'—Meaning.

The words 'affect or alter' in S. 6 refer to period prescribed but not to the mode in which the period is to be computed. 34 All. 496=10 A.L.J. 3=16 Ind. Cas. 149.

——S. 6 (1)—Miscellaneous—Death of minor—Disability of legal representative.

Where a minor acquiring a cause of action to sue for possession lies within 3 years of his attaining majority his personal representatives can sue on the same cause of action within the 3 years' period though 12 years had expired since the cause of action accrued. 40 Bom. 564=18 Bom. L.R. 579=37 Ind. Cas. 221.

——S. 6—Miscellaneous—Suit by minor and an adult to set aside sale.

A suit by one co-sharer after one year from sale, to set aside the sale on the ground that it was illegal, fraudulent or without jurisdiction, is not governed by S. 8. 14 C.W.N. 128=11 Cr. L.J. 34=2 Ind. Cas. 77.

——Ss. 6 and 8 and Art. 12—Miscellaneous—Suit to set aside auction sale—Limitation.

S. 6 of the Limitation Act gives the minor the same period of Limitation after his attaining his majority as an ordinary person gets. There is nothing in S. 8 to extend the period. A suit by a minor to set aside a sale under Art. 12 of the Limitation Act must be brought within one year from the date of the plaintiffs majority. 40 P.L.R. 1918=30 P.W.R. 1918=43 Ind. Cas. 712.

——S. 6—Miscellaneous—Starting point.

Under the Punjab Limitation Act time runs from the date of Limitation and where the plaintiff in a suit governed by that Act was a minor on that date, he can under S. 6 of the Indian Limitation Act bring his claim within 3 years of his attaining majority. 84 P.L.R. 1914=47 P.W.R. 1914=22 Ind. Cas. 637.

1. Applicability and scope.

——S. 7—Applicability—Dayabhagha family of one adult and four minor nephews—Minors under protection of mother—Execution—Limitation—Extension of time till majority of last minor nephew.

A decree was obtained by one S and his four minor nephews, who were members of a family governed by the Dayabagha School of Hindu Law. The minors were under the protection of their mother, the natural guardian. The decree was passed on 23-6-1932, and an application for execution was presented on 22-5-1944; limitation was sought to be saved on the ground that the four nephews were minors at the time of the decree, and therefore S. 7 applied to the case. The youngest minor was still below eighteen.

Held: that the natural guardian of the minor decree-holders (mother), not having been a co-decree-holder, could not give a valid discharge on the minors' behalf during their minority, and therefore S. 7 of the Limitation Act, applied to the case and operated to save limitation in favour of the decree-holders. S. 7 could not be availed of only when a co-decree-holder could give a valid discharge and it was only in such a case that limitation would not be extended under S. 7. 26 Pat. 744=A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 212.

——S. 7—Applicability—One of decree-holders a minor—Others not competent to give discharge. I.L.R. (1946) 1 Cal. 45=49 C.W.N. 558=80 C.L.J. 198=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 387.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope—Joint Hindu family of two borthers—Suit by younger brother within three years of his becoming major but more than three years after his elder brother's attaining majority, when barred.

Although a suit by the younger of the two brothers constituting a joint Hindu family filed within three years of his attaining majority would be barred by limitation if the elder brother had failed to sue within three years of his majority if the former was a manager of the family, S. 7, Lim. Act, would not operate as a bar if the adult brother was not the manager of the family during the relevant period. 58 M.L.W. 100 (2)=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 200=1945 M.W.N. 182=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 498.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope.

In 1913, a Malabar tarwad consisted of one K, and his niece R, and son of another niece A. On January 14 of that year K executed a deed of gift of certain immovable properties in favour of his own children who were members of another tarwad. According to the deed, the properties were the private properties of K, but in addition to signing the document in his personal capacity he signed it as the karnavan of the tarwad and the guardian of A who was then a minor. R had signed the deed in her individual capacity, not as the karnavan, and it was found that she was the victim of a fraud and not a party to the fraud. K died in 1919, and from that date, R became the lawful karnavan of the tarwad. A attained his majority on October 28, 1927, and within three year of that date, he filed a suit impeaching the gift and relies on S. 7, Lim. Act to save the bar of limitation :

Held, that the limitation for the suit started to run in 1919, when, on the death of K, R admittedly became the de jure and the de facto karnavan. Limitation having commenced to run against the tarwad, it ran against the plaintiff, and S. 7 was not, therefore, of any avail to him. 53 M.L.W. 724=1941 M.W.N. 632=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 678=197 Ind. Cas. 245. [Reversing A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 907=189 Ind. Cas. 167].

——S. 7—Applicability and scope—Suit by father as manager of joint family to recover debt due to joint family—Minor son joined as co-plaintiff unnecessarily.

Section 7 is intended to apply to a case where each of the several persons is jointly entitled to file a suit.

It does not, however, necessarily follow that every suit which a Hindu father brings for himself and as next friend for his minor son is a suit by a father as manager of a joint Hindu family to recover a debt due to the joint family and that the minor son, if joined, is joined unnecessarily and the father's appointment as next friend is unnecessary. The Court is not justified in such a matter in acting merely on the ground of a presumption of jointness. A.I.R. 1941 Sind 166=I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 72=196 Ind. Cas. 572.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope.

Decree in January 1932 in favour of grand-father Karta of family and minor grandson—First execution application in September, 1935 :

Held, that minor must be assumed to have appeared, by next friend—Next friend could not give discharge and application was nottime-barred against grand-father. 5 B.R. 15=19 P.L.T. 855=A.I.R. 1939. Pat. 33=177 Ind. Cas. 713.

——S. 7—Applicability.

Minor members of family carrying on business which is not a joint family business—One member on becoming major not competent to give valid discharge as contemplated by S. 7 of Lim. Act—Claim of other member brought within three years of attaining majority held, not barred though suit was brought after 14 years of transaction. (1938) 67 C.L.J. 88.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope.

Final decree for sale obtained on February 4, 1931, by B for himself and as guardian of minor brothers—Execution application by B on February 2, 1934, in same capacity—Contention by judgment-debtor that B could give valid discharge and so benefit of S. 7 could not be claimed :

Held, (1) that B could not give valid discharge without leave of Court under O. 32, R. 6, C. P. Code.

(2) Principles and procedure under O. 32 applied to execution proceedings.

(3) Decree-holders could claim benefit of S. 7, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 649=65 C.L.J. 981=174 Ind. Cas. 887.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope—Suit by two brothers of joint Hindu family, one being minor—No evidence to show major brother was karta.

Where a suit is brought by two brothers belonging to a joint Hindu family, one of whom had become a major and the suit would have been time-barred but for the minority of one of them and there is no evidence to show that the brother who was major was karta of the family, the suit is not barred, inasmuch as the major brother could not have given a valid discharge or ratification. A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 155=3 B.R. 367=18 P.L.T. 383=167 Ind. Cas. 934.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope.

Joint Hindu family—Suit by member against stranger transferee from manager—Stranger setting up title by adverse possession—Time run out against manager—Existence of minor members does not save limitation—Section 7 does not apply. 1935 A.W.R. 474=1935 R.D. 182=A.I.R. 1935 All. 746 (2)=(1935) A.L.J. 838=57 A. 891=155 Ind. Cas. 569.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope.

It cannot be laid down that in all cases where the operation of S. 7 is invoked, there must be proof of de facto management by the major member.

The fact that there was no other property except the suit property and that, therefore, there was nothing for managing member to manage is no test for the application of S. 7. (1935) M.W.N. 964=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1085=158 Ind. Cas. 874.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope—Failure of Hindu manager to sue—Whether affects minor members.

Where, in a suit for recovery of possession of property which the plaintiffs alleged had been given in trust to the defendants during the plaintiff minority the defendants contended that, as the manager of the family, one of the plaintiffs had failed to sue within three yearr after attaining majority, the whole suit was barred undes S. 7, but this contention was rejected on the ground that the manager of the family was not competent to give a valid discharge in the circumstances of this case as there was obviously no benefit to the family in not instituting a suit for the property in dispute and allowing it to remain in the possession of the defendants :

Held, that S. 7 could not be held to be inapplicable on the ground alleged by the lower Court. The fact that the act of manager was not for the benefit of the family was immaterial for the purposes of S. 7.

Section 7 is not confined in its operation to discharge of debts but is wide enough to cover rights to immovable property. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 479=34 P.L.R. 384=142 Ind. Cas. 295.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope—Gift by widow—Failure of major reversioner to sue—Suit by minor reversioner within three years of attaining majority—Limitation.

A widow made a gift in 1908. In 1925, the plaintiff, who was admittedly a collateral and below 21 years of age, instituted a suit for a declaration that it would not affect his reversionary rights. The plaintiff's father and elder brother who were alive when the gift was made had not challenged the gift, and the defendant contended that the suit was, therefore, barred under S. 7.

Held, that S. 7 was not applicable and the suit was not barred. A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 39=132 Ind. Cas. 665.

——S. 7—Applicability—Mahomedans—Suit to recover dower by sons.

The right to recover dower of Mahomedan lady descends to her heirs. The position of the sons qua their right to the dower debt is not that of joint tenants but is that of tenants-in-common. Where the right to recover the dower debt was inherited in part by the debtor himself, viz., the husband, S. 7 will not apply to a suit by the minor sons on attaining majority. 116 Ind. Cas. 481=1929 A.L.J. 284=A.I.R. 1929 All. 142.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope.

Section 48, C. P. Code, is not a rule of limitation and does not imply that running of time will not be suspended against a minor, because S. 48 cannot override, S. 7, Lim. Act which definitely says that time will not run. 119 Ind. Cas. 39=1929 M.W.N. 158=30 M.L.W. 361=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 394.

——S. 7—Applicability—Reversioners—Section 7 does not apply to the case of reversioners.

The plaintiff brought a suit within three years of his attaining majority to set aside an alienation made by a limited owner. At the time of the alienation he was an infant and there were two persons, one his brother and another a cousin, who could have challenged the alienation. They did not choose to challenge it and the plaintiff's suit was more than twelve years after the date of alienation.

Held, that the suit was barred. 99 Ind. Cas. 668=25 M.L.W. 161=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 216=52 M.L.J. 13.

——S. 7—Applicability.

Section 7 does not apply to the case of a suit by minor to set aside alienation by a de facto guardian. 99 Ind. Cas. 1050=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 145.

——S. 7—Applicability—Idol.

Section 7 is not applicable to a suit to set aside an improper alienation by a shebait of the property belonging to a Hindu God, as the God cannot be deemed a perpetual minor for the purpose of limitation. 93 Ind. Cas. 652=48 All. 348=24 A.L.J. 351=A.I.R. 1926 All. 392.

——S. 7—Applicability and scope—Joint Hindu family—Redemption suit—Major member not filing suit for redemption in time—Minor member is not barred.

The right to redeem a mortgage of joint family property vests in all the members of the family whoever is the manager, and it is difficult to see how the right of a minor member to redeem, which was in existence during his minority could be defeated by the fact that a major member did not file a suit to redeem within the period allowed to him. A suit for redemption of a mortgage, limiation of whichexpired during the minority of the two sons of the deceased mortgagor, brought three years after the attaining of majority of the elder brother but within three years of the attaining the majority of the younger brother, is not barred. 64 Ind. Cas. 972=46 Bom. 535=23 Bom. L.R. 1191=A.I.R. 1922 Bom. 319.

——S. 7—Applicability—Subsequent disability—No saving of limitation.

Where time had already commenced to run against the decree-holders from the date on which their application for the execution of the decree was struck off, the decree-holders were not entitled to the benefit of S. 7 by reason of the minority of some of the decree-holders. 16 A.L.J. 633=40 All. 630=46 Ind. Cas. 584 (F.B.).

——S. 7—Applicability.

The section provides that a minor could apply even after he had attained the age of majority but within a period prescribed. 34 Bom. 589=12 Bom. L.R. 694=7 Ind. Cas. 944.

——Ss. 7 and 8—Applicability—Non-liability of minor to the law of limitation.

Minors have no privilege of disability, in respect of limitation, under the Act of 1908, except as regards suits and applications for execution, though under the older Act, they had this privilege in respect of all applications in judicial proceedings. This is a privilege conferred by law and cannot be affected by any subsequent statute. 14 C.W.N. 845=11 Ind. Cas. 401.

——S. 7—Applicability.

Section does not apply where disability had not existed when the right to apply accrued. 20 C.W.N. 852=34 Ind. Cas. 86.

——S. 7—Applicability.

The provisions of Revenue Sale Law are complete and S. 7 of the Limitation Act does not apply to a suit brough out by a minor to set aside a Revenue Sale. 13 C.W.N. 518=4 Ind. Cas. 70.

——S. 7—Applicability.

Section 7 would apply where time has not run out, under Limitation Act of 1877 before coming into force of the new Act. 8 M.L.T. 341=(1910) M.W.N. 540=8 Ind. Cas. 164.

——S. 7 (S. 8)—Applicability—Bengal Regulation—Putni Regulation (VIII of 1819), S. 14—All co-sharers if must sue jointly.

Where one or more of several plaintiffs is or are a minor or minors if the provisions of S. 8, of the Limitation Act, (XV of 1877), apply time would not have commenced to run against any of them and it would not be necessary to expressly claim exemption. One of several co-owners of a putni taluk can alone institute a suit to set aside a putni sale as contemplated by S. 14 of Reg. VIII of 1819, provided that the purchaser is made a party and the whole sale is sought to be set aside S. 8 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) has no application to such a suit, and a minor co-owner would be entitled to bring such a suit even though the adult co-owners would have allowed their right to be time barred.C.W.N. 128=11 G.L.J. 34=2 Ind. Cas. 77.

——S. 7, Arts. 12, 25—Applicability—Suit by co-sharer of a revenue paying estate for declaration that sale did not affect his interest. See REVENUE SALE LAW, S. 33. 13 C.W.N. 518=4 Ind. Cas. 70.

——S. 7 (S. 8)—Applicability and scope—Tenants in common—Joint obligees.

S. 8 of the Limitation Act does not affect the rule of equity that one tenant in common cannot give a valid discharge for his co-tenants in common and consequently the fact that one of two tenants-in-common is a minor cannot stop the running of limitation as against the other. (1902) A.W.N. 216=25 A. 155.

2. Co-heirs.

——S. 7—Co-heirs—Tenants-in-common—No right to give discharge.

In Mahomedan family, the heirs are entitled to definite shares as tenants-in-common and the cause of action of such heirs cannot be said to be a joint one for the purpose of limitation. 36 M.L.J. 184=51 Ind. Cas. 748.

——S. 7—Co-heirs—Must oin ijn suit for accounts of partnership.

In a suit for accounts of the partnership on the death of a partner all the representatives of the deceased should join. S. 7 applies to the case. 33 Ind. Cas. 564. (Mad.).

3. Co-partners.

——S. 7—Co-partners—Dissolution of partnership—Limitation.

One member of a partnership even if it has been dissolved is entitled to give a valid discharge of a debt to the partnership. A suit by a minor partner for his share of a loan by the partnership within three years after he became a major but more than three years after dissolution is barred. 10 L.W. 67=52 Ind. Cas. 456.

4. Discharge by adult brother.

——S. 7, Art. 182—Discharge by elder brother.

Joint decree in favour of two brothers—Elder acting as next friend of younger who is insane—Decree empowering elder to recover amount—Power of elder to give valid discharge—Younger brother is not entitled to benefit of S. 7. (1933) M.W.N. 895=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 103 (1)=39 L.W. 62=148 Ind. Cas. 54 (1).

——S. 7—Discharge by adult brother.

A joint elder brother in a Hindu family represents the entire family and can therefore give a discharge within the meaning of S. 7 on behalf of his minor brother. 41 All. 435, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 177=6 L.R.A. Civ. 299=A.I.R. 1925 All. 672.

——S. 7—Discharge by adult brother—Every adult brother in a Hindu family is not necessarily manager—The question is one of fact and must be alleged and proved as a fact.

It cannot be predicated of every Hindu family, that an adult brother, as soon as he becomes major becomes the manager and therefore necessarily competent to give discharge. Payment to one may not in every case operate as full discharge. This depends upon several questions of fact and upon a variety of circumstances varying with different families, and unless the necessary facts are properly alleged and proved by the party who wants to deprive the person under disability of the benefit of S. 6 of the Limitation Act the claim cannot be thrown out as barred by limitation.

Unless the questions as to whether the major brother was or was not a manager, as a fact and whether, and if so when, he became capable of giving discharge without the concurrence of others, and whether the right of suit was of such a nature as could be enforced jointly, are decided as questions of fact, it is not possible to decide upon the applicability or otherwise of the first or the second part of S. 7. 88 Ind. Cas. 268=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 385.

——S. 7 and Art. 126—Discharge by adult brother—Joint Hindu family Alienation by father—Suit by Sons subsequently born.

Where a suit to set aside an alienation by a Hindu father is brought by the eldest son within three years of his attaining majority, sons born subsequent to the alienation are entitled to join in the suit and get their share. 44 Cal. 966=(1913) M.W.N. 661=14 M.L.T. 163=17 C.W.N. 1189=18 C.L.J. 237=15 Bom. L.R. 867=11 A.L.J. 865=25 M.L.J. 512=10 N.L.R. 1=40 I.A. 213=20 Ind. Cas. 958 (P.C.).

——Ss. 7 and 6—Discharge by adult brother.

A suit by two sons of one of whom attained majority more than 15 years before suit and the other only within 3 years before suit, to recover properties sold away by their guardian is within time because the elder son could not have given a valid discharge without the concurrence of the younger brother under S. 8, old Act, and the suit was brought within 3 years of the latter attaining majority. 31 All. 156=6 A.L.J. 62=1 Ind. Cas. 824.

——S. 7 and Art. 44—Discharge by adult brother—Sale by mother as natural guardian—Suit to set aside.

Where a Hindu mother as natural guardian of the minor sons sells their property without necessity, a suit to set aside the sale is barred by limitation under S. 7 and Art. 44 if brought more than three years after the eldest son attained majority. 22 Bom. L.R. 1383=45 Bom. 446=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 289.

——S. 7—Discharge by adult brother—Power to give—Cash allowance.

Where plaintiffs are jointly interested in a cash allowance, they can sue to recover it, though one of them is a minor at the date of the suit. 42 Bom. 277=20 Bom. L.R. 161=44 Ind. Cas. 851.

——S. 7 and Art. 44—Discharge by adult brother—Minor co-parceners—Attainment of majority by eldest—Limitation.

Where a minor could on attaining majority give discharge in a joint family on behalf of other minors in the family a suit for setting aside an alienation by a testamentary guardian barred as regards him would be barred against the other minors too. 38 Bom. 94=15 Bom. L.R. 882=21 Ind. Cas. 350.

——Ss. 7 and 8 and Art. 44—Discharge by adult brother—Mitakshara joint family—Suit by younger brother more than 3 years after attaining majority.

A suit brought by a younger undivided brother of a Mitakshara joint family is wholly barred under Ss. 7 and 8 and Art. 44 of the Limitation Act, if brought more than three years after the elder brother attained majority even though the younger brother attained majority, within three years prior to the suit. 38 Mad. 118, Foll. 43 Mad. 842=39 M.L.J. 375=12 L.W. 243=59 Ind. Cas. 662.

——S. 7—Discharge by adult brother—Suit for possession and mesne profits—Enfranchisement of inam.

Time began to run from the date of enfranchisement of an inam, both as against the elder brother and against the present minor plaintiffs and their claim for mesne profits was barred except as to three years before suit. 10 L.W. 422=53 Ind. Cas. 161.

——S. 7—Discharge by adult brother—Joint cause of action.

Where two brothers have got the same cause of action and the elder brother could institute the suit for himself and his younger brother, on that joint right and joint cause of action, S. 7 would become applicable and would bar the younger brother's right when the elder brother's becomes barred. But where the cause of action is distinct, the mere fact that the elder brother could have oined it with his, does not bring the suit within S. 7 of the Act. 41 Mad. 102=33 M.L.J. 309=40 Ind. Cas 664.

——S. 7—Discharge by adult brother—Suit to set aside alienation by guardian—Starting point.

For a suit to set aside alienation by the members of a joint Hindu family, limitation begins to run from the date of the elder brother's attaining majority. (1915) M.WN. 908=32 Ind. Cas. 802.

——Ss. 7, 8 and Art. 44—Discharge by adult brother—Alienation by mother—Suit to set aside alienation—Limitation.

Properties belonging to two minor brothers forming a joint Hindu family were sold in 1895. In 1909 the plaintiffs sued for recovery of possession of the properties and on the date of suit the elder brother was 23 years old. Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 44 of the Limitation Act and the suit was barred against both the brothers on the expiry of 3 years after the date of the elder brother's attaining majority. 38 Mad. 113=25 M.L.J. 405=14 M.L.T. 401=21 Ind. Cas. 410.

——S. 7—Discharge by elder brother—Hindu family.

(Per Abdur Rahim, J.)—Co-parceners of a Hindu joint family seeking to recover family property from alienee are claimants within S. 7 and it is immaterial whether the alienation is manager or guardian. The elder brother on attaining majority becomes capable of giving a valid discharge within S. 7. (Per Sundara Iyer, J.).—The section applies whether the third column of the schedule provides that time would run from a certain date, and the section postpones the running of time. Hence though the elder brother's right of action is barred, that of the younger is not barred. The section does not apply to cases governed by Art. 44. 10 M.L.T. 418=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 450=21 M.L.J. 1041=12 Ind. Cas. 695.

——S. 7—Joint Hindu family of brothers—Discharge by one.

The mother of the plaintiffs, who was appointed their certificated guardian in 1886 obtained permission to sell a portion of the minors' property, and effected a sale on 28th April, 1886, contrary to the terms on which sale had been sanctioned by the District Judge. The present suit was brought by the minors for cancellation of sale-deed and possession of the property. The suit was brought within 3 years of the plaintiff No. 2's attaining majority, but after 15 years of plaintiff No. 1's attaining majority. The lower Court dismissed the suit on the ground that plaintiff No. 1's long silence amounted to giving a discharge by him to the defendant within the meaning of S. 8, of the Limitation Act, and consequently, the suit was barred. Held: that all that plaintiff No. 1 did was to remain quite inactive and he could not give a valid discharge without the concurrence of plaintiff No. 2 within the meaning of S. 8, of the Limitation Act. (1908) 6 A.L.J. 62=31 A. 156=1 Ind. Cas. 824.

——S. 7 (Ss. 7, 8)—Discharge by adult brother—Decree in favour of one adult and three minors, his brothers—Decree for rent—Starting point of limitation—Art. 179.

Where a decree for rent is in favour of one adult and three minors, his brothers by their mother as next friend, the adult plaintiff can give a valid discharge for all and and so S. 8 and not S. 7, of the Limitation Act, applies. The starting point of limitation in such a case is when the money is payable. (1901) 6 C.W.N. 348.

5. Discharge by guardian.

——S. 7—Scope of—Discharge by certificated guardian out of Court—Validity of—Civil Procedure Code, O. 32, R. 7.

Section 7 Limitation Act, contemplates a legal capacity to give discharge without the concurrence of the person under disability. The section requires that the co-decree-holder, in addition to his capacity as a co-decree-holder, must have such legal capacity as would empower him alone to realize the decretal debt and give a discharge without putting the decree into execution, even if his minor co-decree-holder had been under no disability and had the capacity to give his assent.

Consenquently, where one of the joint decree-holders is a minor and one of the others is his certificated guardian, a discharge given by such guardian out of Court is not a discharge without the concurrence of the minor within the meaning of S. 7, as whatever may be the power of the certificated guardian to collect other moneys of the minor, his power to receive money payable to a minor under a decree is subject to the permission of the Court. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 631=63 C. 92=158 Ind. Cas. 567.

——S. 7—Discharge by guardian—Joint Hindu family—Decree in favour of.

Whether a valid discharge for payments made by the judgment-debtors can be given by a manager of joint. Hindu family acting as guardian having regard to O. 32, R. 6, depends upon the construction of the decree.

When the decree dispenses with the separate application and sanction which might otherwise be necessary and allows manager to receive the amount so long as he furnishes security, the manager is competent to grant discharge in favour of the minor and he is not entitled to benefit of S. 7. 121 Ind. Cas. 446=31 Bom. L.R. 963=A.I.R. 1929 Bom. 382.

——S. 7—Discharge by guardian—Joint Hindu family—Granting discharge.

Time cannot be extended under S. 7 in a suit for accounts where, although one of the plaintiffs is a minor the other can give a valid discharge on behalf of both.

Plaintiffs formed a joint Hindu family. One of them was a minor but the other was the manager of the family as well as his certificated guardian.

Held, that the elder plaintiff could give valid discharge in either of his capacities and no time could therefore be extended. 115 Ind. Cas. 354=48 C.L.J. 555=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 165.

——S. 7—Discharge by guardian—Joint Hindu family—Decree in favour of minor—Hindu father acting as next friend of plaintiffs cannot give a valid discharge nor can eldest among brothers—Extension of time is available.

Where Hindu father and his minor sons sue, the latter suing through the former as next friend, the period of limitation for execution of decree runs against each son from the date of the majority.

Where a decree was obtained in a suit in which the plaintiffs were a father and his three sons and the three sons were described on the face of the proceedings as suing through their next friend and guardian, the first plaintiff, i.e., the father and where the father died before execution:

Held, that an execution application taken out by the eldest son within three years after his attaining majority was not barred though more than three years had passed after the passing of the decree, since neither the father nor the eldest son could give a valid discharge for the defendant:

Held, further that so long as one of the decree-holders was a minor no question of limitation really arose in the case. 82 Ind. Cas. 785=47 Mad. 920=20 M.L.W. 342=35 M.L.T. 92=1924 M.W.N. 773=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 78=47 M.L.J. 389.

——S. 7—Discharge by guardian—Right to give valid discharge.

A Muhammadan mother who is a de facto guardian having no authority to transfer or deal with the property of the minors cannot give a valid discharge for the payments made to the minors. 41 All. 473=17 A.L.J. 582=50 Ind. Cas. 770.

——S. 7—Discharge by guardian—Application by guardian of a major decree-holder.

Application for execution made by the guardian of a major decree-holder is not invalid as per decisions in 20 B. 383 and 22-A. 199 and the applicability of those cases had not ceased owing to any change in the words of S. 7 of the Limitation Act of 1908. 34 Bom. 672=12 Bom. L.R. 682=7 Ind. Cas. 939.

——S. 7 (S. 8)—Discharge by guardian manager—Managing member of Hindu joint family—Joint right to sue for tort—Joint creditors or claimants.

In the case of a joint Mitakshara family where a right is vested in all the members jointly, the managing member may, within the meaning of S. 8 of the Limitation Act, give a discharge without the concurrence of the minor members of the family and time may, therefore, run against all the members of the undivided family including the minor members thereof. As a general rule where a joint right to sue arises out of a tort one or some of the holders of such right cannot give a discharge without the concurrence of the others unless they are all partners or executors or members of a joint Hindu family the manager of which has implied authority to bind all the members by a discharge given by them. The test to be applied is whether it is the intention of the parties that each of the persons, in whose favour the obligation is created, is a creditor for the whole; if so a payment to one liberates the debtors against all the creditors; if not each is a creditor for his own share and cannot give a discharge for the whole obligation. The powers of a guardian appointed by the Court to take care of a minor's property cannot be nullified, and the minor's elder brother cannot give a discharge as regards the minor's share without the concurrence of such guardian. S. 8, of the Limitation Act, applies only to cases where the joint creditors or claimants are persons whose substantive right is joint, that is where more than one individual possesses the same identical substantive right; the section does not apply to persons whose right are distinct and different, but who are permitted to enforce such separate right by one judicial process. (1907) 6 C.L.J. 383.

6. Discharge by manager.

——S. 7—Discharge by manager.

Suit in name of joint Hindu family firm by manager on his own behalf and as next friend of his minor brother—Decree obtained—Held, that, manager cannot give valid discharge within S. 7 without leave of Court. 44 P.L.R. 368=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 280=203 Ind. Cas. 295.

——S. 7—Discharge by manager—Eldest member of joint Hindu family—Presumption—Whether can give discharge without concurrence of other members—Burden of proof.

When there is an eldest member of a family, the presumption is that under the Hindu Law, he is the manager of the family. If he is the manager, under S. 7, Limitation Act, discharge can be given without the concurrence of the other members of the family so far as the Madras Presidency is concerned. If anybody wants to displace the ordinary presumption that the eldest member acted as the manager and he was not in a position to give a valid discharge, it is incumbent on the person to prove the facts rebutting the said presumption 51 M.L.W. 648=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 195=A.I.R. 1940. Mad. 530=(1940) M.W.N. 582=I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 752=191 Ind. Cas. 369.

——S. 7—Discharge by manager.

The manager of a joint Hindu family can give a valid discharge without the concurrence of the minor members of the family in the case of an application to execute a decree, just as he can in the case of a suit and the mere fact that one of the members is a minor will not prevent time running against all the members of the family. 41 All. 435; A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 289; 42 Bom. 277 and 21 M.L.J. 1088, Foll. 110 Ind. Cas. 276=52 Bom. 441=30 Bom. L.R. 537=A.I.R. 1929 Bom. 13.

——S. 7—Discharge by manager.

The Manager of a joint Hindu family being member of a joint Hindu family, can give a valid discharge on his own behalf and on that of a minor brother, and therefore the minor cannot take advantage of S. 7. 41 All. 435, Foll. 94 Ind. Cas. 922 (All.).

——S. 7—Discharge by manager—Joint Hindu family—Receipts by manager.

The managing member of a joint Hindu family can give good receipts on behalf of the family, which will bind the family. 34 All. 549 ; 38 Mad. 118 ; 45 Bom. 446, Foll. 80 Ind. Cas. 12=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 386= A.I.R. 1924 All. 738.

——Ss. 7, 9 and 19—Discharge by Manager.

Where a father obtained a loan in September, 1897 and acknowledgment was made on 19th July, 1899 and again on 22nd August, 1902 and a suit was brought by the creditor on the 8th of July, 1902 and a decree obtained in November, 1902 and when the creditor proceeded to execute it against the sons after the father's death the sons resisted execution and then the plaintiff the creditor's son instituted another suit against the debtor's sons,it was held that the acknowledgment merely created a new period but did not give the plaintiff a new cause of action entitling him to rely on S. 7 of the Act ; but that the decree in the previous suit was a debt which the sons had a pious duty to discharge. 6 A.L.J. 378=1 Ind. Cas. 759.

The managing member of a joint Hindu Mitakshara family may give a valid discharge without the concurrence of the other members and so time begins to run against those who were minors at the time of the accrual of the cause of action and they will be entitled to mesne profits, only for 3 years prior to the suit. 13 C.W.N. 815 =1 Ind. Cas. 670.

——S. 7—Discharge by Manager—Decree debt—Joint Hindu family.

A major manager of a joint Hindu family can give a valid discharge of a decree debt within S. 7 of the Limitation Act so as to make time run against minor members of the family. 21 M.L.J. 1088, Foll. (1917) M.W.N. 816=44 Ind. Cas. 566.

——S. 7—Discharge by Manager—'Discharge'—Meaning of—Malabar Tarwad—Karnavan's right to give discharge.

'Discharge' in S. 7 is not confined to pecuniary liability but includes also "release of rights to immoveable property." 25 M. 26, Foll. In the absence of fraud, a Karnavan sufficiently represents a tarwad as to be able to give a discharge even on behalf of the minor members. 1914 M.W.N. 231, Foll. 16 M.L.T. 241=1914 M.W.N. 689=25 Ind. Cas. 755.

——S. 7—Discharge by Manager—Decree in favour of a joint Hindu family—Managing member a major and the rest minors.

In the case of a decree in favour of a joint Hindu family and the managing member where a major is in a position to give a discharge without the concurrence of the other members, the minority of the latter does not extend the period of limitation for execution of the decree. 15 M.L.T. 100=(1914) M.W.N. 159=22 Ind. Cas. 76.

——S. 7—Discharge by Manager—Execution of decree.

The Manager of a joint Hindu family has a right to execute a decree for his own benefit and that of the remaining members of the family and to give a valid discharge without the concurrence of the other members. If the Manager fails to exercise his right, time runs against all the members of the joint family including minors. 30 Ind. Cas. 75 (Oudh).

——S. 7—Hindu Law—Joint family—Managing member's right to give discharge.

In the case of a joint Mitakshara family where a righ is vested in all the members' jointly the managing member may within the meaning of S. 8 of the Limitation Act (1877) give a discharge without the concurrence of the minor members of the family and time may consequently run against all the members of the undivided family including the minor members thereof. (1909) 13 C.W.N. 815=1 Ind. Cas. 670.

7. Interpretation.

——S. 7—"Discharge", whether includes release of rights to institute suit.

The term 'discharge' in S. 7 does not mean merely a discharge of pecuniary liability, but has a wider significance and includes a release of rights in immovable property such as even the equity of redemption or a release of other rights, as for instance, a right to institute a suit. 18 P.L.T. 385=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 435=3 B.R. 717=16 Pat. 422=170 Ind. Cas. 362 (F.B.).

——S. 7—Interpretation.

Section 7 refers beck to S. 6 to which it serves as an appendix and the words "such disability" in S. 7 means a disability of a kind which is of the nature and existed at the time, referred to in the preceding section. 64 Ind. Cas. 757=8 O.L.J. 667=24 O.C. 330=A.I.R. 1921 Oudh 196.

——S. 7 (S. 8)—'Joint claimants', meaning of.

The term "joint claimants" is used in S. 8 with reference to persons whose substantive right is joint, i.e., with refernce to more than one individual possessing the same identical substantive right. The expression does not comprehend persons whose rights are distinct and different, but who are permitted to enforce such separate rights by one judicial process to which all are parties or by a process instituted by one on behalf of all. A right to sue for an account by the members of a deceased partner is joint and indivisible, notwithstanding the several character of their interests inter se in the profits. 15 M.L.J. 363=28 M. 479.

——Ss. 7, 8—Combined operation of—'Discharge —'Joint claimants'.

S. 8 saves the bar in the case of all claimants if they claimed jointly and none of them could give or could at any time have given a valid discharge without the concurrence of the others. 20 M. 461 will not apply to the case of co-heirs of a single promisee. Under the Mahomedan law the manager cannot give a valid discharge on behalf of the minors and so S. 8 will apply. It will be different in the case of a Hindu family. The discharge contemplated by S. 8 of the Limitation Act is by one or more of the joint creditors or claimants by virtue of their being such creditors or claimants. The fact that a minor's guardian, who also happens to be a co-claimant with the minor, can in his or her capacity as guardian of the minor give a discharge is not a discharge within the purview of the section. The combined operation of Ss. 7 and 8 of the Limitation Act considered. 20 M. 461, discussed; 13 M. 236; 7 A. 313, approved on the construction of the Limitation Act. (1901) 25 M. 26.

——Ss. 7, 8, Sch. II, Art. 179—Interpretation—Joint decree in favour of three persons—Previous application more than three years before while one decree-holder was a minor—Attainment of majority by that decree-holder within three years of present application—'joint execution creditors' are not 'joint creditors' within S. 8—C. P. Code, S. 231. (1902) 12 M.L.J. 166=25 M. 431 (F.B.).

8. Joint decree-holders.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders—One of deceased legal representatives minor—Majors cannot give valid discharge—S. 7 is not affected by C. P. Code, O. 21, R. 15.

S applied for execution of a money decree which he had obtained against the judgment-debtor. During the pendency of their proceedings he died leaving three sons, A, B and C, of whom C was a minor. They were brought on record as the legal representatives of S and continued the proceedings which were ultimately consigned to the record room on 21st June, 1924, leaving a balance still payable under the decree C on attaining majority applied for execution on 16th August, 1929 and was met with a plea that the application was barred by limitation.

Held, that the minor and his two brothers, being legal representatives of their father, who was the original decree-holder, constituted one legal representative of the decree-holder and that one of them could not execute the decree nor give a valid discharge.

Held, further that O. 21, R. 15, C. P. Code, did not confer an unconditional right on one of the decree-holders to execute the decree, that such a right was subject to control by the executing Court, that the above rule did not affect S. 7, Limitation Act, and that the application for execution was not barred by limitation. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 5=130 Ind. Cas. 403.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders.

Where a joint decree for possession of land and demolition of a construction is passed in favour of a major and a minor although their interests were distinct and separate, the major cannot give a valid discharge for the minor and, therefore, an execution applicatiin by the minor within three years from attaining majority is not barred. 118 Ind. Cas. 229=1929 A.L.J. 72=A.I.R. 1929 All. 267.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders—Joint decree—Minor daughters—Time extended.

One of several minor Mahomedan daughters, who are joint decree-holders, cannot after attaining majority give a discharge without the concurrence of others. Section 7 will, theefore, apply and time will not run against any of them till all of them become major for the purpose of the execution of the decree and it would make no difference that there was a next friend who had instituted the suit on minor's behalf. 119 Ind. Cas. 234=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 467.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders—Decree-holders not proved to be members of a joint Hindu family—The adult alone cannot give a valid discharge.

A joint decree was passed in favour of three persons, two of whom were minors. It was not proved that the decree-holders were members of a joint undivided Hindu family, nor whether they were living under the Mitakshara or Dayabhaga School of Hindu Law, nor whether the major member was acting as karta of a joint Hindu family of which the decree-holders were members, Held, that the adult member was not able to give a discharge to the judgment-debtors within S. 7, Limitation Act. 104 Ind. Cas. 668=47 C.L.J. 38=32 C.W.N. 192=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 952.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holder—Succession certificate under Act (VII of 1889)—Concurrence of all decree-holders necessary.

Adult certificate-holders are not competent to give a valid discharge to the judgment-debtor without the concurrence of the minor decree-holders.

Where the certificate under Act VII of 1889 was issued in the name of all the decree-holders and where the decree was passed in the name of the adult son and the widow of a deceased person and his three minor sons represented by their adult brother as their guardian.

Held: Suhrawardy, J., (Contra).—S. 7 of the Limitation Act contemplates a case where a decree-holder holds such a legal character as to be able in law to give discharge on behalf of his co-decree-holders. 17 A.L.J. 649, Foll. 84 Ind. Cas. 204=51 Cal. 566=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 710.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders.

Where two of three joint execution creditors are minors the other execution creditor who is sui juris is not competent to grant a valid discharge so as to bind the interest of the minors. 78 Ind. Cas. 285=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 681.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders—Decree in favour of major and minor members of joint Hindu family—Discharge—Limitation.

Where a decree is in favour of major and minor member of joint Hindu family the manager has the same power of dealing with the decree and granting a discharge to the debtor as he had before the debt merged into the decree. S. 7 of the Limitation Act treats the suit by joint creditors on the same footing as an application by joint decree-holders and contemplates that one oint creditor can be empowered to give a discharge without the concurrence of the others. That power could not be given by a minor after the decree in his faovour so that the section contemplates an authority apart from and anterior to the decree. (1913) M.W.N. 288=13 M.L.T. 304=18 Ind. Cas. 723.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders—Discharge by.

If one of several decree-holders can give a discharge without the concurrence of others, S.7 applies. The cases in which one decree-holder can give a discharge binding the other decree-holders must be decided by the substantive law of the parties. 21 M.L.J. 1088=10 M.L.T. 370=(1911) M.W.N. 420=12 Ind. Cas. 503.

——S. 7—Joint decree-holders.

One of the two joint decree-holders cannot give a valid discharge of the decree without the concurrence of the other. Therefore, such a discharge does not prevent the decree-holder from taking advantage of S. 7. 9 M.L.T. 482=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 307=10 Ind. Cas. 464.

——Ss. 7, 8—Joint decree-holder—Limitation Act (XI of 1908), S. 7—Minors—Decree-holders minors—Application to execute the decree an behalf of some of the joint decree-holders—Application ensures for all discharge by one decree-holder under S. 231, C. P. Code, 1882, or O. 21, R. 15, C. P. Code 1908, not one contemplated by S. 8 of the Limitation Act of 1877 or S. 7 of the Act of 1908.

Two minors represented by a guardian obtained a decree in 1901. Applications to execute the decree were made in 1904, 1905 and 1906. At those dates one of the decree-holders had attained majority, but the other was a minor. In 1908 both the decree-holders applied to execute the decree as majors. The defendants contended that the elder decree-holder having attained majority, the applications by the guardian had been, as to her, unauthorized and the present darkast for execution of the decree was barred as regards her. It was also contended that as the elder decree-holder was able to give a discharge, since her majority, for the decretal debt, without the concurrence of the minor time had run against both under S. 8 of the Limitation Act, 1877 and certainly under S. 7 of the Limitation Act of 1908. Held, that though the elder decree-holder had attained majority, the applications made by the guardian as next friend of the younger decree-holder took effect in favour of both, for by reason of the first explanation of Arts. 179, 182, of the Limitation Act an application made by one of several joint decree-holders took effect in favour of all.

Held also, that the contention under S. 8 of the Limitation Act of 1877, or S. 7 of the Act of 1908 was inconsistent with the decisions in 20 Bom. 383, and 22 A. 199. The applicability of 20 B. 383, 22 A. 199 has not ceased owing to any change in the words of S. 7 of the Limitation Act of 1908. (1909) 12 Bom. L.R. 682=7 Ind. Cas. 939=34 Bom. 672.

Where one of several joint decree-holders is a minor, S. 7 of the Limitation Act can save an appliation for execution by the minor decree-holder from being barred by limitation. That section is not limited to a case where the sole decree-holder is a minor, or all the decree-holders are minors. (1901) 5 C.W.N. 767=28 C. 465. Also (1904) 1 A.L.J. 407=1904 A.W.N. 163=27 A. 67.

9. Joint promisees.

——S. 7—Joint promisees—Minority of one.

A payment to one of several joint promisees is a good discharge of the liability. A minor promisee of a pronote cannot sue on it after 3 years, when the adult copromisee allows it to be barred. 36 Mad. 544=13 M.L.T. 268=(1913) M.W.N. 328=24 M.L.J. 333=19 Ind. Cas. 12 (F.B.).

——S. 7—Joint promisees—Person severally entitled—Suit for possession.

Where several persons jointly entitled to a certain property are dispossessed and a suit is brought for the recovery of possession, S. 7 of the Limitation Act does not apply if each individual plaintiff is entitled to sue for his individual share. 51 Ind. Cas. 797 (Cal.).

10. Running of limitation.

——S. 7—Running of limitation.

Where no valid discharge can be given without the concurrence of the minor decree-holder by the other decree-holders, time does not run against any of them till the minor attains majority. A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 387=49 C.W.N. 558=80 C.L.J. 198.

——S. 7—Running of limitation.

Elder brother attaining majority but not being manager unable to sue on behalf of minor brother :

Held, that in such a case, the time will not run against the minor brother. A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 206=40 Bom. L.R. 127=174 Ind. Cas. 820.

——S. 7—Running of limitation—Co-mortgagees—One of the co-mortgagee decree-holders a minor—Time, if begins to run against adult decree-holders

A co-mortgagee cannot give a valid discharge in respect of mortgage debt so as to bind his co-mortgagee. Where one of the mortgagee decree-holders is a minor, limitation does not begin to run against the major decree-holders until the disability of the minor decree-holder ceases. 37 C.W.N. 838=A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 1 (3)=149 Ind. Cas. 1062.

——S. 7—Running of limitation.

Mijority—Suit by two brothers—Elder attaining majority more than three years before suit—Time runs against younger brother also and the suit is barred under S. 7. 39 L.W. 795=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 469=67 M.L.J 27=(1934) M.W.N. 635=58 M. 155=150 Ind. Cas. 76.

——S. 7—Running of limitation—Death of decree-holder—Joint legal representatives—Minority of some, whether stops running of time.

If a decree-holder dies leaving several legal representatives, one of these alone cannot execute the decree or give a valid discharge without the concurrence of the others, and if one of them happens to be a minor, time for applying for execution of the decree will not run against any of them under S. 7, until the minor attains majority.

O. 21, R. 15, C. P. Code does not give an unconditional right to one of several decree-holders to execute the decree and does not really affect the operation of S. 7, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 5=130 Ind. Cas. 403.

——S. 7—Joint Hindu family—Running of limitation—Adverse possession.

Where co-parceners other than the father or the manager are suing, a limitation runs even against a minor member of a joint Hindu family as regards adverse possession if his father who was joint with him was a major at the time that the adverse possession began. 110 Ind. Cas. 293=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 484.

——S. 7—Joint Hindu family—Running of limitation.

Where a cause of action accrues to two brothers of a joint Hindu family when they are minors, limitation runs from the date on which the elder of the two becomes major. 59 Ind. Cas. 662=43 Mad. 842=12 M.L.W. 243=39 M.L.J. 375.

11. Setting aside alienation.

See also LIMITATION ACT, S. 6—REVERSIONERS.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation.

Sons of daughter of last Hindu male-holder—Elde cannot give valid discharge on behalf of younger—Son are joint tenants—Suit by sons one major and one minor to set aside alienation by their mother and for possession—Limitation did not begin to run until all persons entitled to sue became majors. A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 512=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 117=57 M.L.W. 459=1944 M.W.N. 516.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Hindu minor barred—Alienation by mother guardian—Suit to set aside alienation—Suit barred against elder brother—Whether barred against younger.

There can be no doubt that the right of the members of the joint Hindu family consisting of two brothers to institute a suit to recover the property alienated by their mother as their guardian and in the possession of a third person is a right jointly enjoyed by them and they must be regarded as persons jointly entitled to institute the suit. There is no justification for holding that the manager of the joint Hindu family consisting of these two persons is not capable of giving a discharge or release of the right to institute such a suit. On the failure of the elder brother to institute a suit within the period of limitation prescribed for a suit by him, the right of suit for the recovery of this property becomes barred not only against him but also against the other members of the Hindu joint family and it cannot be said that the younger brother has a separate individual right to institute such a suit. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 165=1940 O.W.N. 1237=1941 A.W.R. 12=191 Ind. Cas. 825.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Eldest major brother not acting as manager—Suit by other brothers to set aside alienation by father within three years of their attaining majority.

Where, in a joint Hindu family, the eldest major brother never acted as the manager and could not have given a valid discharge without the concurrence of other brothers, a suit by other brothers to set aside an alienation of the joint family property by their father instituted within three years of their attaining majority is not barred by time. A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 500=40 Bom.L.R. 1029=179 Ind. Cas. 33.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Alienation by mother of two minor sons—No other property belonging to minor brothers as members of joint familt and they maintained by aunt—Presumption—Suit by elder brother after more than three years after attaining majority to set aside alienation.

It is correct to say that he presumption under the Hindu Law is that ordinarily the eldest brother would be the manager of the joint family, but where in a case, the evidence shoes that excepting the property sold by the mother of two minor sons there was no other property as such which belonged to the two brothers as members of the jojnt family and the two brothers were actually thrown on the streets on the dea h of their father and for a long time they were being maitntained by their aunt it cannot be held that the ordinary presumption, which arisesi n the case of a joint Hindu family possessed of ancestral property, that the eldest brother must be deemed to be the manager of the family and its property, can apply to such a case and the suit is, therefore, barred only against the elder brother and not as against the younger brother. A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 392=40 Bom.L.R. 521=177 Ind. Cas. 286.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Alienation of property belonging to Hindu minors by their mother—Suit by minors to set aside alienation.

Where, during the minority of four undivided Hindu brothers their mother sold land belonging to their joint family and after the expiry of more than three years from the date on which the eldest brother had attained majority, the other brothers instituted a suit to set aside the sale :

Held, that as the eldest brother was the manager of the family, and was, as such, capable of giving a discharge without the concurrence of his younger brothers, time ran from the date when the eldest brother attained majority and the suit was time-barred.

The presumption is that the eldest brother, when he is the senior adult member of a joint family consisting of himself and his younger brothers is the family manager and the fact that at some time or other, he did not live with his brothers but at some distance is not sufficient to rebut this presumption and to render S. 7, inapplicable. 44 L.W. 479=(1936) M.W.N. 1128=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 914=165 Ind. Cas. 656.

——S. 7 and Art. 44—Setting aside—Alienation—Sale by mother as guardian-Suit to set aside sale—Cause of action, when arises for minor—Limitation against eldest son—Bar, if operates against younger son.

A suit to set aside a sale of a family property without necessity by a Hindu mother acting as natural guardian of her sons is barred under S. 7 and Art. 44, if instituted after three years of the eldest son's attaining majority. Where the eldest of the sons is capable of giving a discharge within the meaning of S. 7, when the bar of limitation operates against him, it will so operate against his younger brother also. A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 259=37 Bom.L.R. 225=157 Ind. Cas. 592.

——Ss. 7, 6—Setting aside alienation—Personal right—Joint family—Alienation by mother without legal necessity—Failure of elder son to sue within three years of becoming major—Whether debars younger son from suing to set aside sale.

The manager of a joint Hindu family is supposed to represent the interests of the co-parceners in all matters which are for the benefit of them as a whole, but he cannot prejudice the personal right of any one of them by his inaction. The right of a Hindu son to impeach a sale executed by his mother without legal necessity is personal to him and the failure of the elder son to sue within three years of his attaining majority does not debar the younger from instituting the suit, even though the elder may be the manager of the joint family. 15 N.L.J. 87=141 Ind. Cas. 520.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Applicability to suits for setting aside transfers.

Section 7 has got no application to any but the cases to which it is made applicable, namely, to debts and to execution of decrees. Therefore the fact that the manager of the family would have granted a discharge of a debt due to the family does not mean that the claim of each individual member of a joint Hindu family is barred because the karta or manager did not choose to institute a suit to avoid any transfer that any other member could challenge. A.I.R. 1931 All. 398=133 Ind. Cas. 155.

The right to impeach an alienation by father or manager of a joint Hindu family is an individual right enjoyed severally by each of the joint members of the family an consequently a suit by one of the several members of the family is maintainable, and if certain members are minors on the date of alienation any one of such minor members can bring the suit within three years of his date of majority. 1930 A.L.J. 852=A.I.R. 1930 All. 861.

——S. 7—Joint Hindu family—Setting aside alienation—Declaratory suit by major member—Time-barred suit by major plaintiff—Suit barred against minors as well.

Plaintiffs brought a suit for declaration to the effect that a mortgage-deed executed by their deceased guardian during their minority was not binding on them. Plaintiffs were members of a joint Hindu family. One of them was major while rest of them were minors. The major plaintiff was the managing member of the joint family and the suit was filed by him on his own behalf and on behalf of the minors. He had, however, filed the suit more than three years after the attaining of his majority.

Held, that the suit of the major plaintiffs and so also of the minors was barred by limitation as the manager (the major plaintiff) could give a valid discharge and acquitance of the claims without the concurrence by the minor members. 38 Mad. 118 and A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 289, Foll. 114 Ind. Cas. 59=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 14.

——S. 7—Joint Hindu family—Setting aside alienation.

If the eldest brother, who is naturally the managing member of the joint family, does not bring a suit within time to set aside an alienation, any suit by a younger brother would be barred inasmuch as the suit is barred against the elder brother. 38 Mad. 118, Foll. 106 Ind. Cas. 863=1927 M.W.N. 911=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 42=53 M.L.J. 677.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation.

A suit brought by the younger son to recover property of his father passing to a third person after the father's death within three years of attaining majority is not barred by limitation, although the elder son attained his majority more than three years earlier and had taken no steps to question the alienation. 98 Ind. Cas. 508=A.I.R. 1927 All. 188.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation.

A suit brought by some sons within three years of their majority to set aside alienation by father is not barred though one of the sons had long before three years reached majority. 16 Mad. 436 and 83 Mad. 118, impliedly overruled. 93 Ind. Cas. 216=48 All. 152=53 I.A. 36=24 A.L.J. 97=1926 M.W.N. 197=3 O.W.N. 365=43 C.L.J. 374=28 Bom.L.R. 851=30 C.W.N. 698=A.I.R. 1926 P.C. 16=50 M.L.J. 344 (P.C.).

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Alienation by father—Elder son attaining majority but not questioning it—Suit by younger son within three years of his attaining majority is not barred.

A suit brought by the son within three years of his attaining majority to avoid the sale effected by his father is not barred by limitation although the elder son attained his majority more than three years earlier and had taken no steps to question the alienation. A.I.R. 1926 P.C. 16, Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 31=24 M.L.W. 475=1926 M.W.N. 767=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 1190=51 M.L.J. 845.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Right to challenge alienation is a personal right of every co-parcener.

The right of avoidance, or of challenging an alienation is a personal right which every co-parcener enjoys in virtue of his position as such co-parcener in a joint family owning joint or ancestral property and its non-enforcement does not depend upon the sweet will of any particular individual It is the birth right of every member and cannot be therefore taken away by anything done or omitted to be done by another member of the family, unless that another can bind the other. A minor co-parcener is not bound by the mere failure of the major co-parcener to avoid the alienation within 3 years of his attaining majority. expecially where it is found to be not supported wholly by necessity and therefore not binding as against him. 88 Ind. Cas. 268=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 385.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation.

Suit by minor sons to set aside mortgage of ancestra. property by father—Minor brother of vendor living at the time of mortgage—Sons can get no benefit thereby. 1 Lah. 558, Foll. 63 Ind. Cas. 760=3 Lah. 99=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 275.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Rule explained

The plaintiffs sued to recover possession of lands after setting aside the sale-deed passed by their mother during their minority. The plaintiffs were brothers, members of a joint family. One of them was more than 21 years of age and manager of the joint family when he filede the suit.

Held, that he could have given a discharge and acquittance of all claims against the defendants without the concurrence of the other plaintiffs as manager of the joint Hindu family and so the entire suit was barred by limitation.

Per Fawcett, J.—The main object of the Legislature in S. 7 is to limit the indulgence which is otherwise given to minors, so that if there are several minors who can claim the benefit of S. 6 that concession does not extend to cover the whole period of time up to the youngest of the minors becoming a major, but can only be availed of by the eldest of them. 38 Mad. 118, Foll. 59 Ind. Cas. 759=45 Bom. 446=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 289.

——S. 7—Setting aside alienation—Individual right to set aside alienation by father.

The rights of Mahomedan co-heirs to set aside alienation made by father are independent of each other. The fact, therefore that the eldest brother of the minor plaintiff can no longer sue does not affect the right of the plaintiff to sue. 122 Ind. Cas. 92=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 582.

12. Miscellaneous.

——S. 7—Period for suit.

The period of limitation prescribed for a suit of the nature to which the provisions of Ss. 6, 7 and 8 of the Limitation Act apply must be taken to be the period reckoned on the basis of the time provided for by the schedule and also of the provisions of S. 8 of the Act. 81 Ind. Cas. 484=11 O.L.J. 297=A.I.R. 1924 Oudh 385.

——S. 7—Miscellaneous—Discharge by Receiver—Receiver of decree-holder's estate—Right to give valid discharge.

Where in a suit between partners some of whom were minors a Receiver was appointed with full powers to realise the decree debts of the firm,

Held, that the decretal debts vested in the receiver on the date of the appointment and from that date he was competent to give a discharge. An application for execution more than 3 years after the appointment of the Receiver will be barred. 18 C.W.N. 138=20 Ind. Cas. 701.

——S. 7—Miscellaneous—Idol—Shebait.

S. 7 cannot be construcd in such a way as to regard an idol as a perpetual infant with the shebait as its Manager. 13 C.W.N. 805=3 Ind. Cas. 93.

——S. 7—Miscellaneous—If Court bound to raise ex proprio motu the special plea in party's favour—C.P. Code, S. 115.

A Court is bound to throw out a suit or application filed after the period of limitation, but is not bound to protect the interest of a party by raising ex proprio motu the point whether he is entitled to proceed out of time by reason of some special provision of law, e.g., S. 7 of the Limitation Act. 17 C.W.N. 667=18 Ind. Cas. 391.

——S. 8—Alienation by Hindu father.

A suit brought by younger son to set aside alienation by father within three years of his attaining majority, though the elder son had attained majority more than three years earlier and had allowed his claim to set aside the alienations to become barred, is not barred. A.I.R. 1926 P.C. 16, Foll. 109 Ind. Cas. 572=51 Mad. 627=28 M.L.W. 311=1928 M.W.N. 708=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 1055=55 M.L.J. 30.

——S. 8—Cause of action in minority.

Where plaintiff is minor when cause of action arises time does not run against him until minority is over. 1929 A.L.J. 1233=A.I.R. 1929 All. 963.

——S. 8—Minority — Adverse possession—Title when complete.

Title by adverse possession against a minor is not complete before the end of three years after his attaining majority. 33 Mad. 366=20 M.L.J. 355=7 M.L.T. 140=5 Ind. Cas. 84.

——S. 8—Period for suit.

The period of limitation prescribed for a suit of the nature to which the provisions of Ss. 6, 7 and 8 of the Limitation Act apply must be taken to be the period reckoned on the basis of the time provided for by the schedule and also of the provisions of S. 8 of the Act. 81 Ind. Cas. 484=11 O.L.J. 297=A.I.R. 1924 Oudh 385.

——S. 8—Ratification—Effect of.

Where an application for execution was made by the guardian ad litem of a minor the minor had attained majority, but the latter ratified the application with 3 years of his attaining majority :

Held, that the ratification rendered the application valid from the date of ratification. 32 P.L.R. 290=A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 600=135 Ind. Cas. 207 (2).

——S. 8—Revival of right to sue—Revival of right to sue may occur when previous satisfaction is nullified. (Case-law fully discussed).

Ordinarily limitation runs from the earliest time at which an action can be brought and after time has commenced to run there may be a revival of a right to sue when a previous satisfaction of the claim is nullified with the result that the right to sue which had been suspended is re-animated. Whenever proceedings are being conducted between the parties bona fide in order to have their natural rights and obligations in respect of a matter finally settled the cause of action for an application or for a suit the relief claimable wherein follows naturally on the result of such proceedings should be held to arise only on the date when those proceedings finally settle such rights and liabilities. 79 Ind. Cas. 520=39 C.L.J. 40=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 600.

——S. 8—Right to extension.

Where any Court is of opinion, on the true construction of a document, that it is taken in the name of a minor or in the name of a minor acting by his guardian, then the minor has got three years from attaining his majority within which to bring his suit on the document. But if on the other hand, a Court is of opinion that the document is taken solely by the guardian, then that extended period would not be open for the benefit of the minor. 10 Bom. 241, Foll. 100 Ind. Cas. 95=50 Bom. 831=28 Bom.L.R. 1431=A.I.R. 1927 Bom. 61.

——S. 8—Scope and effect.

S. 8 of the Limitation Act provides that, in those case, in which the application of S. 6 of the Act results in an extension of the period prescribed by Schedule I, that extension is not to be for more than three years after the cessation of the disability. If on the other hand, the original period prescribed by Sch. I expires more than three years after the termination of the disability then, up to the date on which the limitation prescribed by that schedule expires, there is no question of any extension of time and S. 8 will not operate to curtail the period of limitatioon. A.I.R. 1948 Oudh 351.

1. Adverse possession.

——S. 9, Art. 141—Adverse possession against Hindu last male-holder—Intervention of limited estate—Effect.

Where adverse possession commences to run against the last male owner himself, the intervention of the limited estate will not prevent time running and will not enable the reversioner coming after the limited owner to say that he has got a fresh cause of action on the death of the owner of the limited estate. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 303=1942 O.W.N. 191=1942 A. W.R. 139=200 Ind. Cas. 265.

——S. 9—Adverse possession, interruption of—Co-sharers—Ouster of, by stranger—Subsequent acquisition of ownership to a portion of the property.

Where a person has begun to hold possession of land adversely to two co-sharers, each being the owner of a moiety, and before the expiration of the statutory period of limitation succeeds to one moiety upon the death of its owner, his possession continues to be adverse to the owner of the other moiety, although he has become jointly interested with the other. 46 I.A. 285=10 L.W. 679=(1919) M.W.N. 724=24 C.W.N. 346=38 M.L.J. 313=18 A.L.J. 274=53 Ind. Cas. 901 (P.C.).

——S. 9—Adverse possession as against vatandar—Title not fully prescribed—Death of the vatandar and succession of minor.

Where a person was in adverse possession against one vatandar for seven years and the vatandar died and was succeeded by a minor, the successor's minority will not stop limitation that had already commenced to run in favour of the person in adverse possession. (1904) 7 Bom.L.R. 135.

2. Applicability.

——S. 9—Applicability—Cause of action remaining cancelled till certain event.

Section 9, Limitation Act contemplates cases where the cause of action continues to exist. S. 9 cannot apply to cases where the cause of action is cancelled by subsequent events. A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 178=I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 422=1943 N.L.J. 159=207 Ind. Cas. 214.

——S. 9—Applicability.

Assuming that the words 'to sue' in S. 9 include an application for delivery of possession, the section contemplates cases where the cause of action continues to exist. It cannot apply to cases where the cause of action is cancelled by reason of subsequent events. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 333=62 C. 66=158 Ind. Cas. 191.

——S. 9—Proviso—Applicability.

The proviso to S. 9 applies only to an administrator under the grant of letters where he is a debtor of the deceased. 11 Bom.L.R. 1187=4 Ind. Cas. 283.

——S. 9—When applicable.

S. 9 has no application in a case where the plaintiff who institute the suit does not derive his right to sue from or through the person who was dispossessed, e.g where a son adopted by the widow sues for recovery of possession of property from which the adoptive mother was dispossessed. (1905) 9 C.W.N. 795=2 C.L.J. 87.

3. "Disability".

——Ss. 9 and 15—"Disability"—"Inability"—Alien enemy—S. 9 of the Limitation Act covers the case of an alien enemy who is disbarred from suing in consequence of a declaration of war.

The general rule is that once a limitation has begun to run, a subsequent 'Disability' to sue will not avail to stop it in the absence of express statutory provision. Per Sanderson, C.J. :—The Legislature in enacting S. 9 of the Limitation Act did not mean the same thing by the use of two words "disability" and "inability". An express statutory provision on a particular matter would have the effect of overriding any common law rule regarding the same. Per Woodroffe, J.,—S. 15 of the Limitation Act refers to orders of Civil Courts and not to the case of an alien enemy is prevented from suing owing to a declaration of war. 46 Cal. 526=23 C.W.N. 157=47 Ind. Cas. 398.

——S. 9—"Disability"—Alien enemy.

S. 9 of the Act makes no exception in favour of alien enemies who are prevented from suing in consequence of a declaration of war. The "disability" in S. 9 means want of legal ability and is quite different from inability to sue. 47 Ind. Cas. 122 (Cal.).

——Ss. 9 and 31—Disability, subsequent—Application of S. 6 to S. 31.

Limitation once begun to run, cannot stop by any subsequent disability and there is no distinction between voluntary and involuntary disabilities. The period fixed under S. 31 cannot be extended by an application of S. 6. 18 Ind. Cas. 306 (O).

——S. 9—Inability and disability to sue Distinction between. See S. 7. 6 Bom.L.R. 639=29 B. 68.

4. Execution proceedings.

——S. 9—Execution proceedings.

Under the Indian Law and procedure an original decree is not suspended by presentation of an appeal nor is its operation interrupted when the decree on appeal is one of dismissal.

Where a decree-holder purchases a property in execution but loses possession of the same in a separate suit by a third party, his fresh application for execution or for revival of execution, if one is maintainable, must be filed within three years of the trial Court's decree. 107 Ind. Cas. 42=50 All. 211=25 A.L.J. 937=A.I.R. 1928 All. 46.

——S. 9—Execution proceedings—Injunction ordered by High Court conditionally on paying interest from dismissal of suit—Time for recovering interest runs from dismissal of suit.

The respondents filed a suit calling in question the validity of petitioner's decree against a common debtor N and for an injunction to prevent petitioner from drawing an amount deposited by N. The respondent's suit was dismissed by the Subordinate Judge on 22nd December, 1915, and the High Court ordered a new trial on 19th October, 1916. Previously on 28th January, 1916, the High Court granted an injunction on condition that the respondents paid 9 per cent. interest to the petitioner from 22nd December, 1915, the date of the dismissal of their suit by the Subordinate Judge. On 28th October, 1919, the High Court finally dismissed the respondent's suit. On 1st October, 1920 the injunction was dissolved on an appeal to the Privy Council being abandoned. The petitioner applied for execution together with 9 per cent. interest on 23rd February, 1922.

The appellant clearly could, from 22nd December, 1915 to 19th October, 1916 (at least) the date when the High Court ordered a re-trial, seek execution. It is extremely doubtful whether having regard to S. 9, Limitation Act, any deduction ought to be made in favour of the appellant and the application must fail on the point of limitation. 104 Ind. Cas. 750=1927 M.W.N. 529=39 M.L.T. 394=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 927.

——S. 9—Execution proceedings.

Where the creditor fails to execute decree, the time taken to prove his will cannot be excluded in calculating the period for execution of decree. 79 Ind. Cas. 284= 1 Bur.L.J. 192=A.I.R. 1923 Rang. 98.

Limitation, when begins to run.

——S. 9—Limitation, when begins to run—Where cause of action has not arisen limitation cannot begin to run.

It is a fundamental principle that limitation always implies an existing cause of action and unless the cause of action for a suit has arisen limitation for such suit cannot begin to run. A.I.R. 1946 Nag. 277=1946 N.L.J. 690=I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 159.

——S. 9—Limitation, when begins to run—Time runs from the knowledge of order.

Where an order has been duly issued and a party is apprised of that order, time will run, even though it is directed that a notice of an order shall be sent.

The appellant knew of an order of an Official Receiver rejecting the proof of her debt in 1926 by 1927. She appealed in 1930, and urged that her knowledge was immaterial so long as formal notice was not conveyed to her as required by the High Court Rules :

Held, that the appeal was barred. 40 L.W. 145= 57 M. 1030=68 M.L.J. 65=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 149= (1935) M.W.N. 176=153 Ind. Cas. 167.

6. Reversioners.

——S. 9—Reversioners.

The right to sue for a declaratory decree is vested in the whole body of reversioners in existence at the time of alienation jointly and severally and time begins to run simultaneously against them all and no subsequent disability stops it. 22 All. 32 (F.B.), Diss. ; 21 P.W.R. 1907 ; 22 P.R. 1907 ; 41 Mad. 659 (F.B.), Foll. 90 Ind. ——S. 9—Reversioner—Suit for possession—Time, once it begins to run cannot stop running.

The father of plaintiff filed a suit during thr lifetime of the widow to set aside alienations by her. The suit was held to be not maintainable as he was held not to be the nearest heir, but another B. After the widow's death B brought a suit to recover possession of the properties. But he was found not to be a reversioner at all. Then plaintiff filed another suit for possession of the properties more than 12 years after the death of the widow.

Held, that limitation when it once begins to run cannot stop running except in the particular exception mentioned in S. 9 of the Limitation Act. 35 All. 227, Foll. 70 Ind. Cas. 446=16 M.L.W. 529=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 108= 44 M.L.J. 87.

——S. 9—Reversioner—Suit to declare an adoption invalid—Nearest reversioner for bearing to sue—Suit by next reversioner, born after adoption—No fresh cause of action.

A suit for a declaration that an adoption is invalid is a representative suit which the nearest reversioner is entitled to bring on behalf of the whole body of reversioners, born and unborn, within the period prescribed in Art. 118, and time begins to run from the time the adoption becomes known to the plaintiff.

The fact that the nearest reversioner did not bring the suit because he had been bribed to give his consent to the adoption and that the next reversioner was born after the alleged adoption and before the suit had become barred under Art. 118, would not give him any fresh cause of action or stop time running which had begun to run against the whole body of reversioners from the date of the adoption. 60 Ind. ——S. 9—Reversioner.

When time once begun to run against a reversioner for contesting the validity of an alienation of ancestral property no subsequent disability to sue on the ground of minority of another reversioner, can suspend it. 61 P.W.R. 1915=144 P.L.R. 1915=29 Ind. Cas. 761.

7. Scope and effect.

——S. 9—Scope and effect of the rule in—Suit for possession on mortgagor entitling mortgagee to possession on default in payment of interest—Payment and acceptance of interest after due dates—Effect on starting point.

While the principle laid down in S. 9 of the Limitation Act cannot be disputed, it is subject to certain exceptions Even where time has begun to run, it can be stopped provided the cause of action which had given the right to sue is discharged or in any way disappears. If the cause of action is discharged the right to sue no longer exists and consequently the time will no longer continue to run.

Where a mortgage provides for the mortgagee obtaining possession in case of default in the payment of interest and there are defaults but the interest is subsequently paid and accepted by the mortgagee and a suit for possession is brought more than 12 years after the execution of the mortgage but within twelve years of the last default, the suit would be in time. The right to sue arising on defaults were satisfied by payments and the cause of action having been discharged, the time for limitation would no longer continue to run. A.I.R. 1950 All. 526.

——S. 9, scope and effect.

Per Cornish, J.—Section 9 fixes the conditions and not a period of limitation to a creditor's right to present an insolvency petition. No period is fixed by the Insolvency Act for presenting an insolvency petition. Certain disputes between a principal and an agent were referred to arbitration and under the award thereon certain moneys were paid by the agent in satisfaction of the claim. The agent afterwards sued to set aside the proceedings on the ground that they were brought about by coercion and succeeded in getting back the amount paid. The principal subsequently sued the agent to enforce the original liability to account. The defendant inter alia pleaded that the suit was barred.

Held, that the setting aside of the satisfaction in the former proceedings gave rise to a fresh cause of action, and that the suit was therefore in time. 43 M. 845=39 M.L.J. 312=(1920) M.W.N. 505=12 L.W. 240=59 Ind. Cas. 472.

——S. 9, Art. 75—Scope and effect—Instalment bond—Default—Waiver—Cause of action—Hindu widow—Adoption—Abstinence from suing.

In the case of instalment bonds with the stipulation of the whole debt becoming due on the failure of payment of a certain instalment, limitation runs from the date of the non-payment of that instalment unless there has been a waiver by the payee or the obligee by the acceptance of overdue instalments: 11 C.W.N. 903 not foll. An unregistered instalment bond was executed in favour of a Hindu widow. It stipulated for payment of money in certain instalments falling due on certain dates and in the event of default in payment of two consecutive instalments the creditor should be at liberty to recover the entire amount due on the bond. Default was made and there was no payment. Shortly after the default the widow adopted the plaintiff, who while still a minor, instituted a suit for the recovery of the amount of instalments other than the first two, more than 9 years after the first two instalments became due.

Held:—That as the cause of action arose on the failure of the first two instalments and as under S. 9 of the Limitation Act, no subsequent disability or inability could arrest the running of limitation, the suit was barred under, the three years' rule of limitation under Art. 75. A mere abstinence on the part of the plaintiff from bringing a suit for the recovery of the whole amount due on the failure of payment of the first two instalments does not amount to waiver. 7 W.R. 21: B.L.R. ——S. 9—Suspension or revival of cause of action—Tests.

After limitation has begun to run, the question whether it can be suspended otherwise than in accordance with S. 9 or other provisions of the Limitation Act admits of two conflicting answers; (1) that there may be a revival of the right to sue when the previous satisfaction of the claim is nullified with the result that the right to sue which has been suspended is animated, and the true test to determine whether a cause of action accrued is to ascertain the time when the plaintiff could have maintained his action to a successful result; (2) that except perhaps in case where injustice has been occasioned by a Court by its own act or oversights, there is no scope for the application of any principles of equity in the administration of the statute law of limitation, and a revival of a cause of section once satisfied or cancelled is foreign to the conceptions of the statute law of limitation. 1. Applicability and scope.

——S. 10 and Art. 98—Applicability—Suit against legal representative of guardian of minor's property for amount taken by guardian from minor and not repaid by him.

A suit against the legal representative of a guardian of minor's property for an amount taken by the latter from the minor while he was his guardian and which had not repaid, is governed not by S.10 of the Limitation Act but by Art. 98 of that Act. S. 10 is inapplicable to the suit as a guardian of property appointed under the Guardians and Wards Act is not a person in whom property is vested for a specific purpose. He is however a trustee within the meaning of the Limitation Act as that term is widely used in that Act in its generic sense to cover every variety of trust including, not only trusts proper, but also all obligations in the nature of a trust, save only those expressly excepted by the definition given in S. 2 (ii). Therefore Art. 98 of the Act applies to the suit. I.L.R. (1948) Nag. 794=A.I.R. 1949 Nag. 235= 1949 N.L.J. 154.

——S. 10 (as amended)—Applicability—Transfer of endowered property for value.

S. 10 (as amended) of the Limitation Act applies to transfers of endowed property which are not for value. Transfer for value are outside that section. 54 C.W.N. 960.

——S. 10—Applicability—Suit to recover trust property—Trustees fraudulently dividing it among themselves.

Where properties have been conveyed to trustees upon express trust for a deity and the trustees fraudulently put an end to the trust and divide the properties amongst themselves, S. 10 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit by the deity to recover the properties and there can be no question of limitation at all. 51 C.W.N. 383= I.L.R. (1946) 2 Cal. 447.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Section covers only express trustee and not constructive trustees.

Section 10 contemplates trustees who are known in English Law as express trustees. A trust for specific purpose is one for a purpose that is either actually and specifically defined in the terms of the will or the settlement itself, or a purpose which from the specified terms, can be certainly affirmed. Trusts Act makes a sharp distinction between trust created by act of parties and certain obligations which are not trusts but which are considered to be in the nature of trusts. Only the former class is covered by S. 10. Under English Law, however constructive or resulting trusts are as much trusts as express trusts. 47 Bom. L.R. 934=A.I.R. 1946 Bom. 131.

——S. 10—Applicability—Sale of property of deceased Mahomedan—Sale proceeds handed over to person for distribution among heirs—If express trust created—Suit for share by one heir—Limitation—Starting point. I.L.R. (1946) Mad. 423=224 Ind. Cas. 21=1945 M.W.N. 671=58 M.L.W. 555=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 116=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 422.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

The word 'trust' in S. 10, Limitation Act is used in the same sense as in the Trusts Act, 1882, and the expred sion 'vested in trust' implies that the ownership in the property has been conveyed to the person referres to in the section.

Where a banker accepts a deposit of trust money with notice of the trust, he does not become a trustee of the money in the strict sense of that expression and consequently a suit for recovery of the deposit by the cestui que trust will not be governed by S. 10, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 519=(1946) 1 M.L.J. 31=I.L.R. (1946) Mad. 429=1946 M.W.N. 9=59 M.L.W. 725.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Section 10 applies only to a case of property which has become vested in trust for specific purpose and it has, therefore, no application to a case where property is held by a donee under a deed of gift which was executed under undue influence. I.L.R. (1945) Kar. P.C. 115 (Sup.)=49 C.W.N. 303=47 Bom. L.R. 274=A.I.R. 1945 P.C. 54=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 253=1945 M.W.N. 217=58 L.W. 176=(1945) A.L.J. 280=11 B.R. 470=I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 440=220 Ind. Cas. 28 (P.C.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Suit for declaration that property is trust.

Section 10 contemplates the following or pursuit of concrete property and not right where the suit is not under S. 92, C. P. Code but under S. 42, Specific Relief Act, for a declaration that certain property is trust property S. 10, Lim. Act does not apply. Suit is governed by Art. 120, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1945 Sind 57=I.L.R. (1945) Kar. 40.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—(Before amendment)—No distinction can be made between property of temple and profits thereof in hands of trustees.

Section 10 is not limited to tracing actions. Section 10 can be used for the purpose of following property in the hands of a trustee or for an account of such property; the section applies where the trustee or the legal representative is asked to account for money that was in his hands as trustee.

The profits of a land are an accretion to the land and stand in precisely the same position as property itself. When the trustees of a temple collect rent from the cultivators, they act as the agents of the temple. The moment the money is paid to them, it belongs to their principal, the temple, and not to them, the agents. Consequently, under S. 10 no distinction can be made between the property of the temple and the profits of that property which comes into the hands of the trustees. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=56 L.W. 479 (2)=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 10—Scope and applicability—Suit against trustee barred before amendment—Amendment cannot revive it.

Although there is provision in Lim. Act of 1908 corresponding to S. 2 of Lim. Act 15 of 1877 the principle embodied in that section, namely, that a suit once barred cannot be revived by a subsequent change in the law still operates. Hence a suit against the trustee of a temple is barred where the plaintiff had lost his remedy against the trustee before the amendment of S. 10 took place. Section 6, General Clauses Act also applies to the amendment of S. 10 and bars such a suit. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=56 L.W. 479 (2)=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—(Before amendment of 1929)—S. 10 or its amendment if creates vested right.

Section 10 or its amendment does not create any vested right. It, in effect, says that the periods of limitation laid down in the other provisions of the Lim. Act shall not apply in certain cases to person in whom property has vested in trust for a specific prupose. It does not create any right in the property or take away any right in it. The trustee who retains or misappropriates temple funds never acquires any right to them. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=56 L.W. 479 (2)=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Where the right of the plaintiff had become barred by limitation before the amending Act of 1929 was passed, the mere institution of the suit after 1929 cannot prove the effect of reviving the right. A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 289=22 Pat. 133=10 B.R. 31=208 Ind. Cas. 129.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Trust void—Property under such trust in possession of the trustee for more than 12 years :

Held, that S. 10 has no application to such a case the provision in the will creating trust being invalid and therefore, the property not having become vested in trust for specific purpose. ——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

What S. 10 contemplates is a breach of an express trust by a trustee, a diversion of trust property or the proceeds thereof to purposes not specified in the trust or a conversion of trust property or the proceeds thereof and a suit for the recovery of such property or proceeds for the benefit of the trust so that such property or proceeds may be utilized for the purposes of the trust. [Essentials stated]. A.I.R. 1942 Sind 145=I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 392=208 Ind. Cas. 230.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Benamidar.

The relationship between a benamidar and the real owner is a relationship of trust. Although he has no beneficial interest in the property or business standing in his name, the benamidar represents the real owner and is in the position of a trustee. A trust of this nature it not an express trust within the meaning of S. 10, Lim. Act. (1941) 2 M.L.J. 222=54 L.W. 115=1941 M.W.N. 727=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 767 (2)=200 Ind. Cas. 249.

——S. 10, Art. 89—Applicability and scope—Executants of deed entrusting property to another for good management with power of sale, but reserving to themselves power to sell or mortgage with consent of manager.

A trust contemplates that the trustee is the legal owner of the trust property. There must be a transfer of the property to the trustee before a trust is created.

Where certain persons have executed a deed entrusting their property to another for good management with power of sale, reserving, however, to themselves the power to sell or mortgage the property with the consent of the manager, the deed does not vest the property in the manager as trustee and a suit for rendition of accounts is not governed by S. 10, Lim. Act but by Art. 89. A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 90=6 B.R. 405=5 C.L.T. 18=186 Ind. Cas. 859.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Clim for account of corpus of trust funds vested in trustee.

Section 10, Lim. Act has no applica tion to a claim for an account of moneys which ought, but for the default of the trustee, to have come into his hands, but in actual fact, never became vested in him. It does apply to a claim for an account on the footing of wilful default. Such a claim is liable to be barred by limitation, and Art. 120, Sch. I is the article applicable. A.I.R. 1940 Rang. 207=1940 Rang. 273=193 Ind. Cas. 61.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Agents not trustees.

The words " vested in trust " in S. 10, if they do not necessarily imply a transfer of ownership in the strict sense, do, at any rate, imply something more than mere possession and temporary control of property.

The plaintiff was the deshmukh and was entitled to certain fees and emoluments out of the revenues of those villages. These were collected for him by people called ajahat gumastas whose office was hereditary. They were either appointed in the first instance or their appointment was confirmed and recognized by the peshwa's Government and the plaintiff had no power to remove them and to collect the money for himself. The defendants were some of these gumastas. They collected moneys belonging to the plaintiff and had not paid them over, and the plaintiff brought a suit to recover the collections made with interest :

Held, that the money collected by the defendants did not become vested in them in trust within the meaning of S. 10 Lim. Act and S. 10 did not therefore, apply. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 126=41 Bom. L.R. 215=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 154=181 Ind. Cas. 375.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Trust invalid ab initio.

Once the trust has been declared invalid ab initio, S. 10, Lim. Act, can have no application at all to a suit for account of rents of property held under trust. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 365=1940 Rang. 136=186 Ind. Cas. 210.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Trust not declared by specific words but which are to be implied from existence of particular facts or fiduciary relations.

There is a well-marked distinction between the relation of agency and that of trust, but agency may often be involved a relation of trust and confidence, and property in the hands of an agent may sometimes be impressed with a trust for the benefit of the principal, and an agent may not in such circumstances, set up the statute of limitation in bar of a suit for an account by the principal.

But S. 10, Lim. Act, was not intended to comprise all fiduciary relations whatsoever. By "specific purpose" in the section must be meant a purpose which has been specified by the person who created the trust. The Indian Legislature did not think it desirable after a certain lapse of time, to enforce trusts which had to be gathered from the terms of a conveyance and had not been declared by any specific words. Such trusts as the law would imply from the existence of particular facts of fiduciary relations are excluded from the operation of S. 10. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 673=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 652 =181 Ind. Cas. 190.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

One useful test for determining whether any particular trust is within the provisions of this section or not is to see if a suit for the purpose of following the trust property in the hands of the trustee would be to restore it to the trust. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 673=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 652=181 Ind. Cas. 190.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Section 10 does not apply to a suit by the next-of-kin for recovery of property under trust. A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 30=37 Bom. L.R. 946=160 Ind. Cas. 612.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Claim for damages for wilful default.

A claim for damages on the footing of wilful default is not one to follow trust funds, and is not saved by S. 10. A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 30=37 Bom. L.R. 946=160 Ind. Cas. 612.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

The purpose of following the property in the hands of the trustees referred to at the end of S. 10 must be the purpose of restoring it to the trust which is specified in the earlier part of the section. A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 87= 58 C.L.J. 502=61 C. 119=150 Ind. Cas. 398.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

One of the two brothers of a joint Hindu family deposited Government Promissory Notes belonging to the joint family as a security for his service. When partition took place, the other brother gave a receipt acknowledging the receipt of his share in Government Promissory Notes which remained in deposit with the former. The Government Promissory Notes were given back from security to the former after his retirement, soon after which he died. Afterwards the heirs of the other brother brought a suit for recovery of their share of Government Promissory Notes against the heirs of the former :

Held, that even assuming that the Government Promissory Notes vested in the former brother for serving as security deposit for his service, the suit was outside the scope of S. 10, Lim. Act, as the present suit was not for restoring those notes to that trust, which had been completed and was no longer capable of administration. 58 C.L.J. 502=A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 87=61 C. 119=150 Ind. Cas. 398.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Suit by succeeding trustee against prior trustee for recovery of sums taken by latter from temple funds—

Section 10 did not apply. A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 542=40 L.W. 275=(1934) M.W.N. 1032=152 Ind. Cas. 345.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Section 10 is not applicable to an equitable claim against a trustee liable to account for an account and ascertainment of what may be due, inasmuch as there is no trust for a specific purpose in such a case. 60 M.L.J. 1=A.I.R. 1931 P.C. 9=33 L.W. 30=35 C.W.N. 145=8 R. 645=33 Bom.L.R. 168=(1931) M.W.N. 137=54 C.L.J. 175=58 I.A. 1=130 Ind. Cas. 609 (P.C.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Administrator—Not a trustee.

An Administrator in whom no special trust is vested for a specific purpose is not a trustee within the meaning of S. 10. 2 P.L.J. 642=4 P.L.W. 337=1918 Pat. 170=40 Ind. Cas. 860.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Administrator—Following property.

In England equity would follow the property in the hands of the administrator who misappropriated it without bar of time. 7 M.L.T. 123=5 Ind. Cas. 832.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Adverse possession.

Where trust property is being adversely possessed, a suit to follow such property in the hands of the adverse possessor will be barred after 12 years. The exception in S. 10 shows that the claim may be defeated by adverse possession. 74 Ind. Cas. 492=40 C.L.J. 20=2 Pat. L.R. 104=18 M.L.W. 903=21 A.L.J. 730=50 I.A. 295=25 Bom.L.R. 1275=28 C.W.N. 493=46 Mad. 751=33 M.L.T. 285=1924 M.W.N. 26=4 L.R.P.C. 180=A.I.R. 1923 P.C. 75=45 M.L.J. 588 (P.C.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Adverse possession—No tacking is allowed between persons standing in entirely different categories.

The executor appointed by will (but who had not taken probate) mortgaged for his own benefits the debutter property which according to the will was not to be alienated on any account and the property was purchased at the sale in execution of mortgage decree by defendant. Plaintiff was granted letters of administration so far as the debutter property was concerned and he sued for possession of the property.

Held, the defendant against whom the suit was in time cannot be allowed to contend that the possession of the mortgagor (executor) was adverse to the debutter and to tack on to his own possession. He was clearly a person in whom the estate became vested in trust for a specific purpose within the meaning of S. 10 of the Limitation Act. The adverse possession of a person so situated in relation to the debutter estate is fundamentally different in quality from the hostile holding of a stranger claimant and it would obviously be unsound on principle to tack together the possession of persons who stand in entirely different categories. There is no cause of action until there is a party capable of suing, so that the Statute of Limitation began to run from the time of granting the letters of administration. 74 Ind. Cas. 630=50 Cal. 49=36 C.L.J. 35=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 1.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

In order to bring a case within the purview of S. 10, there must be a trust for a specific purpose i.e., "a purpose that is either actually and specifically defined in the terms of the will, or the settlement itself or a purpose which, from the specified terms can be certainly affirmed". 49 I.A. 37, Foll. 35 C.W.N. 145=33 M.L.W. 30=33 Bom.L.R. 168=1931 M.W.N. 137=8 Rang. 645=130 Ind. Cas. 609=58 I.A. 1=54 C.L.J. 175=A.I.R. 1931 P.C. 9=60 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Directors of Companies, not trustees.

Directors of Companies under the Indian Companies Act are not trustees for the purpose of S. 10, and the entrustment of the Company's moneys to the directors for the general purpose of carrying on the business of the company cannot be deemed to be an entrustment for a specific purpose. (English cases referred to. Observations in 44 M.L.J. 431 commented upon as too wide). 128 Ind. Cas. 477=1930 M.W.N. 966=32 L.W. 555=54 Mad. 153=60 M.L.J. 280=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 58.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

Section 10 of the Limitation Act does not apply to directors of companies as they are not persons in whom the property of the company is vested, as is contemplated by S. 10. This section applies to cases of express trusts only. 71 Ind. Cas. 899=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 58.

——S. 10—Applicability.

Where the defendant does not purport to hold the property in a manner adverse to trust, and the plaintiffs do not purport to bring their suit either as beneficiaries under the trust, or on behalf of the trust, but for their own personal right to manage or in some way to control the management of the endowment. S. 10 does not apply. 6 All. 1 (P.C.), Appl. 112 Ind. Cas. 496=55 Cal. 903=32 C.W.N. 913=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 670.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope.

S. 10 is confined to cases in which property has became vested in trust for any specific purpose and excludes from its operation such trusts as the law would imply merely from the existence of particular facts or fiduciary relations. 105 Ind. Cas. 721=26 P.L.R. 288=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 773.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Constructive trust.

Per Dawson Miller, C.J.—Where a person directs another to acquire property for him (the person directing) and furnishes some money for the purpose but after some time he withdraws from the venture completely but the person directed continues his exertions and entirely as their result, acquires the property; there is only a constructive trust and S. 10 does not apply.

Per Mullick, J.—There is no trust at all in such a case and limitation begins to run from the date of the withdrawal of the principal. 93 Ind. Cas. 454=5 P.L.T. (Sup.) 1=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 68.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Where trust is only a constructive one, S. 10 does not apply.

In a case where the plaint lands were purchased with the plaintiff's money and in the sale-deed taken by defendants 1 and 2 in their own names there is a rectial that the purchase was on behalf of the plaintiff, and defendants were receiving the rent of the lands subsequently, it is difficult to infer the existence of an express trust or anything other than a constructive trust.

This case being one of a constructive trust or of an obligation in a nature of a trust as the Trusts Act calls it, falling under Chapter IX, S. 10 of the Limitation Act has never been held to apply to such cases. 66 Ind. Cas. 858=45 Mad. 415=1922 M.W.N. 117=30 M.L.T. 238=16 M.L.W. 886=A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 57=42 M.L.J. 119.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Co-sharers.

Section 10 of the Act does not apply to a suit by one co-sharer against other for mesne profits as it cannot be said that the defendant co-sharers in possession have been holding the profits in trust for a specific purpose within S. 10 of the Act. 61 Ind. Cas. 393=3 U.P.L.R. Lah. 53.

——S. 10—Applicability—Suit by co-trustee.

The words of S. 10 are wide enough to cover a case by one of two trustees who claims against the other that the property ought to be held by the two. 74 Ind. Cas. 120=18 M.L.W. 907=33 M.L.T. 225=1924 M.W.N. 90=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 125.

——S. 10—Applicability—Fresh suit based on failure of Trustee to reduce property to possession, S. 10 does not apply.

If a trustee held money which he ought to have held as trustee in another capacity, he could not be heard to say that he held it in the other capacity and not in the capacity of a trustee, and therefore, in such a case S. 10 would apply and prevent him from relying on the Limitation Act. But a suit based on the failure of a trustee to reduce trust property into possession is barred under the Act, notwithstanding S. 10. Trustees are relieved from indefinite liability except in cases of fraud of fraudulent breach of trust or cases in respect of trust property or the proceeds thereof still retained by trustee or previously received by them and converted to their own use. 70 Ind. Cas. 87=1922 M.W.N. 620=A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 409.

——S. 10—Applicability.

Section 10 does not to apply obligations in the nature of trusts under Chapter 9 of the Trusts Act. Where money is paid by a trustee in breach of the trust to creditors who receive it with the knowledge of the breach of trust, a suit by beneficiary to recover the money from the creditor does not fall under S. 10. The cause of action arises on the date of the payment. If the beneficiary is a minor at the time, he can rely on S. 6 of the Limitation Act, but there will be no fresh cause of action on his attaining majority. 61 Ind. Cas. 907=44 Mad. Mad. 277=13 M.L.W. 56=1921 M.W.N. 37=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 125=40 M.L.J. 52.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Lease by shebait—Lease by a trustee for no necessity is not valid beyond his life—Transfer by a trustee is not governed by Art. 134 or 144 of the Act and new shebait can eject transferee.

The language of S. 10 of the Limitation Act gives the clue to the meaning and the applicability of Art. 134. It clearly shows that the article refers to cases of specific trust, and relates to property "conveyed in trust". Neither under the Hindu Law nor in Mohamedan system is any property "conveyed" to or vested in a shebait or mutwali, in the case of a dedication. Therefore alienation made by either cannot be treated as an alienation made by a trustee under S. 10. A lease without justification granted by the head of the mutt is valid for his life, and if adopted by his successor would endure during his terms of office; but neither the original alienation nor the subsequent adoption would create a bar by adverse possession. Possession of the lessee becomes adverse to the successor only on his accession to the office. 65 Ind. Cas. 161=15 M.L.W. 78=3 Pat. L.T. 245=26 C.W.N. 537=20 A.L.J. 497=24 Bom.L.R. 629=30 M.L.T. 66=48 I.A. 302=44 Mad. 831=1921 M.W.N. 449=A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 123=41 M.L.J. 346 (P.C.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Legal representative of co-trustee.

Suit by co-trustee against legal representatives of his co-trustee for recovery of trust property is governed by Art. 120. Section 10 does not apply to such a case. 103 Ind. Cas. 225=29 Bom.L.R. 418=A.I.R. 1927 Bom. 424.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Office of trustee—Adverse possession—Suit to recoverp ossession as Hukdar.

A suit to recover possession of certain villages as Hukdar and for an injunction restraining the defendants, from interfering with the plaintiff's discharge of his duties is barred if it is found that the right of management has been in the adverse possession of the defendant. for nearly 60 years before suit. S. 10 has no application to such a suit. (1915) M.W.N. 76=28 M.L.J. 217=17 M.L.T. 271=26 Ind. Cas. 841.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Office of trustee—Adverse possession.

Where a person has been performing the duties of a shebait of an idol and applying the trust funds for the trust, and claims the right to hold that office and perform those dutires adversely to the lawful shebait, S. 10 has no application and he can acquire that right as against that original shebait by such adverse possession. 36 Cal. 1003; 7 Mad. 387; 023 Mad. 271; 31 Cal. 314 Foll. 3 Pat.L.J. 327=4 Pat. L.W. 283 =(1918) P.H.C.C. 247=47 Ind. Cas. 290.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Palla money kept with bride's father can be recovered at any time.

The plaintiffs were husband and wife. On the occasion of their betrothal in 1871, a sum of Rs. 366, being the amount of the female plaintiff's palla or dowry was made over by the husband's father to keeping of the wife's father, as a fund constituing her Palla in accordance with the usual practice prevailing in the caste. This fund having been misappropriated either by original trustee or after his death by his legal representatatives, a suit was instituted against the latter to recover the sum. It was contended in answer that the suit was barred. Held, that S. 10 applied to the case, and that it was, therefore, not barred. A suit to recover trust money is a suit to follow the trust property within the meaning of S. 10. S. 10 requires, as condrtions precedent to its applicability, first that the suit should be against a person in whom property has become vested in trust for a specific purpose or against his legal representatives or assigns, and secondly, that the suit should be for the purpose of following such property in his or their hands. The phrase "trust for a specific purpose" in S. 10, is merely a more expanded mode of expressing the same idea as that conveyed by the expression "express trust" of English Law. It is used, in the section, in contradistinction to trusts arising by implication of law, trusts resulting and trusts constructive. (1908) 10 Bom.L.R. 540=32 Bom. 394.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Principal and agent.

S. 10 applies only in the presence of a trust between the parties, it does not apply to a suit by a principal against his agent. 81 Ind. Cas. 505=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 115.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Property subsequent to trust.

It is open to a person to create a trust empowering another to go to a certain place for the purpose of acquiring land for him and the land so acquired would become vested in the trustee from the moment of its acquisition and the trust would fasten to that land exactly as if it had been vested in the trustee at the moment of the creation of the trust. 93 Ind. Cas. 454=5 P.L.T. (Sup.) 1=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 68 (F.B.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Recovering property from trustee.

There is no limitation for suits for recovery of property from trustees. 84 Ind. Cas. 631=22 A.L.J. 866=5 L.R.A Civ. 697=47 All. 17=A.I.R. 1924 All. 884.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Suit to recover land placed in charge of defendant's ancestor—Trustee.

Where property was made over to the predecessor in title of the defendant in trust to be restored on demand to the cestui que trust, a suit to recover the same falls within S. 10. Per Aikman, J. Quære.—Whether the trustee had not also khaikari rights which the resumption of the trust would not put an end to. (1905) A.W.N. 89=2 A.L.J. 247.

——S. 10, Art. 62—Applicability and scope—Sui for recovery of deposit.

A suit for recovery of a sum of money kept in deposit with a particular person is governed by Art. 62 and not by S. 10. (1904) 1 A.L.J. 422.

——S. 10, Art. 48—Applicability and scope—Secretary of State—Trustee.

By a consent decree in 1829, certain funds were directed to be invested in Government papers for the maintenance of A, and held by the Registrar of the Sudder Dewani Adawlut so that A should not have the power to negotiate or transfer the papers. By a subsequent order of a Judge in 1837, A was permitted to hold the papers only for the purpose of drawing interest thereon and an endorsement was made upon the papers referring to correspondence which disclosed A's limited interest. One of the papers standing in the name of one I, was renewed in his name without having the endorsement placed upon it and passed to the defendant J in due course. A's representative came to know of this in 1885 and brought this suit in 1898 to recover the note of its equivalent :

Held, that under the circumstances Government was not a trustee for A's representative and that the suit was barred by limitation. 9 C.W.N. 443=32 C. 799.

——S. 10 and Arts. 120 and 148—Applicability and scope—Suit for redemption after voidable sale.

Where a mortgagor sued for redemption of the mortgage after sale of equity of redemption contrary to the provisions of Order 34, rule 14, C.P. Code.

Held, S. 10 of the Limitation Act would not apply to such a case and the mortgagor must set aside the sale before redemption. 47 Cal. 377=24 C.W.N. 229=31 C.L.J. 98=55 Ind. Cas. 157 (F.B.).

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Suit for remuneration—Suit to recover remuneration as dwaris of temple is not covered by S. 10.

A suit by the dwaris of a temple for recovery of certain dues claimed by them as payable as remuneration in respect of their services in connection with the temple is not a suit covered by S. 10. Such a suit is governed by Art. 120 and neither by Art. 102 nor by Art. 131.

There is a vast distinction between a suit brought to establish a periodically recurring right and a suit brought to enforce payments due as remuneration for the performance of services arising out of that right. Article 131, was intentionally drafted so as to include merely a suit to establish a right. 94 Ind. Cas. 826=5 Pat. 249=7 P.L.T 465=1926 P.H.C.C. 1=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 205.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Suit for scheme of management.

Where the plaintiffs bring a suit not to assert their own individual rights but on behalf of the general public, who are interested in the institution for the settlement of a proper scheme of management of the charities and for other reliefs, Held, there is no limitation against such a suit. 69 Ind. Cas. 15=16 M.L.W. 122=1922 M.W.N. 464=31 M.L.T. 125=A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 394=43 M.L.J. 448.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Vesting of property in trustee—Property is not conveyed to shebait under Hindu Law nor to muttawali under Muhammadan Law, and no property vests in them.

For this section two conditions must combine, viz., the trust must have been created for some specific purpose and the property must have become vested in the trustee with the object of carrying that purpose into effect. Neither under the Hindu Law nor in the Muhammadan system is any property conveyed to a shebait or muttawalli in the case of a dedication. Under the Muhammadan Law the moment wakf is created all rights of property pass out of the wakf and vest in God Almighty ; the curator, whether called mutawalli or sajjadanishin or by any other name, is merely a manager. He is certainly not a 'trustee' as understood in the English system. A.I.R. 1922 P.C 123, Foll. Section 10 has no application to the case of an endowment in which there is a dedication in favour of the deity. 94 Ind. Cas. 235=44 C.L.J. 399=30 C.W.N. 415=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 568.

——S. 10—Applicability and scope—Village pasture lands.

——S. 10—Assign—Gratuitous transferee of trust property.

A gratuitous transferee of trust property is within S. 10 of the Act, and therefore there is no limitation of time for following up the property in his hands. 38 M. 1064=33 Ind. Cas. 45.

——S. 10—Assign—Gratuitous transferee of trust property.

A transferee of trust property not acting in good faith and who has paid no consideration is not an 'assign' and in his case, a suit is not barred by any length of time. 26 M.L.J. 537=(1914) M.W.N. 581=24 Ind. Cas. 369.

——S. 10—Assigns.

Under S. 10 or the Limitation Act, time is no bar to an action against the trustee himself, his representative or assigns, except an assign for valuable consideration, but as regards the latter the period of 12 years from the date of the purchase is to the period within which the suit must be brought. (1906) 3 C.L.J. 306=10 C.W.N. 738=33 Cal. 511.

3. Beneficiary.

——S. 10—(Before amendment of 1929)—All trustees of temple involved in breach of trust—Time would not run until trustees are removed and one capable of suing is appointed

Although, for certain purposes, an idol can be compared to a person under tutelage who has a guardian to look after its affairs, the analogy should not be over-strained: otherwise the amendment of 1929 to S. 10, Limitation Act, as well a Arts. 134-A to 134-C, of that Act would be superfluous.

If all the trustees were involved in the same breach of trust, then it might be argued that there was no representative of that temple who could sue and that therefore, until those trustees had been removed and one capable of bringing a suit had been appointed time would not begin to run, but when there was never any lack of trustees who had authority to bring suits to recover money due to the temple from defaulting trustees, limitation must begin to run. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=56 L.W. 479 (2)=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 10—Beneficiary.

Suit to recover from trustees of testators' estate amount alleged to have been bequeathed to plaintiff under will—Declarations prayed for unnecessary and constituting mere grounds of plaintiff's claim—Section 10 does not apply—Suit is governed by Art. 123. A.I.R. 1942 Sind 145=I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 392=208 Ind. Cas. 220.

——S. 10—Beneficiary—Heir of settlor claiming property as trust was void.

A person who claims to be an heir of the settlor and claims to be entitled to the property on the ground that the trust deed was void is not a person claiming against a trustee holding the property for an express purpose. To such a case S. 10, Limitation Act does not apply.

Consequently where, ever since the death of the settlor the trustees administered the property as under the trust deed and their possession is of trustees claiming to be so under the deed in question, they do not claim to hold the property for anyone except the beneficiaries mentioned in the trust deed and, therefore, the claim of the plaintiff as the settlor's heir's heir brought 30 years after the death of the settlor is clearly barred by the law of limitation. A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 307=43 Bom.L.R. 622=196 Ind. Cas. 821.

——S. 10—Beneficiary—Person entitled to receive annuity under will, suit by, against executor for arrears.

Section 10 of the Act has no application to such a case. To claim the benefit of S.10, Limitation Act, a suit against a trustee must be for the purpose of following the trust property in his hands. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 600=19 P.L.T. 202=17 Pat. 350=5 B.R. 551=181 Ind. Cas. 283.

——S. 10—Beneficiary—Money paid monthly to person for benefit of another during her minority.

Where a sum of money is paid monthly to a person for the benefit of another during her minority, the sum becomes vested in trust for a specific purpose, within the meaning of S. 10, Limitation Act. 62 Cal. 393=164 Ind. Cas. 109.

——S. 10—Beneficiary—Sttlement of property on son—Direction to pay certain sums to daughters on attaining majority.

By a document called a settlement deed executed in 1903 the defendant's grandfather settled Rs. 15,000 worth of family properties upon his son, then a minor, and directed the son to pay to each of his three unmarried daughters, Rs. 500 on their attaining majority. The daughters sued in 1926 to recover the Rs. 500.

Held, that as the settlement deed created a valid trust in favour of the daughters for Rs. 500 each, the trust was not indefinite, and the suit was not, therefore, barred by limitation. (1934) M.W.N. 64=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 273=39 L.W. 496=148 Ind. Cas. 685.

——S. 10—Beneficiary.

The plaintiff deposited in 1899, with the defendants, a firm consisting of her brothers, a certain sum of money which had been given to her by her father's family as stridhanam for investment in the firm. A suit was filed by the plaintiff for recovery of the amount in 1925:

Held, (i) that though there was no express trust, the transaction was in the nature of a trust and the suit fell under Art. 120 of the Limitation Act.

The Court, on finding that a fiduciary relationship exists, will put a wide construction on the expression 'trust' rather than regard the transaction in the light of its mere formal characteristics. 63 M.L.J. 232=(1932) M.W.N. 918=36 L.W. 514=A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 685=139 Ind. Cas. 164.

——S. 10—Beneficiary—Receiving and holding property—Duty of receiving property and holding it for another can only be discharged by handing it over to the person entitled and not by appealing to the lapse of time.

Where the duty of person is to receive property, and to hold it for another, and to keep it until it is called for, they cannot discharge themselves from that trust by appealing to the lapse of time. They can only discharge themselves by handing over that property to somebody entitled to it. Nor can it make any difference whether the duty arises from contract or is connected with some previous request, or whether it is self-imposed and undertaken without any authority whatever. If it be established that the duty has in fact been undertaken and that property has been received by a person assuming to act in a fiduciary character, the same consequences must in every case follow. 94 Ind. Cas. 433=5 Pat. 539=7 P.L.T. 679 =1926 P.H.C.C. 145=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 321.

——S. 10—Beneficiary—Suit by beneficiary—Administration suit

A suit by a beneficiary under a will against the executors for administration of the estate, for accounts, for setting aside certain transactions is in fact a suit to follow trust property and falls under S. 10 of the Limitation Act. 5 C. 914, foll. (1902) 7 C.W.N. 353=30 C. 369.

——S. 10—Beneficiary.

A suit by a legatee to recover the rents bequeathed from the executor who had collected them is not barred by limitation. A testator bequeathed the rents of certain houses to his wife and sister-in-law and directed his son to provide them with maintenance. The son was also directed to pay the taxes and keep the house in repair. The son collected rents for six years, but did not pay them over to the widows. In a suit by them to recover the amount:

Held, that the son was executor according to the tenor and that no portion of the claim was barred by limitation. (1900) 3 Bom.L.R. 45=25 B. 429.

4. Executors or Administrators.

——S. 10, Arts. 62 89, 120 and 123—Executors or Administrators—Part of estate of deceased Muhammadan sold by one of heirs and proceeds handed over to third party for distribution among heirs—Suit by unpaid heir for his share of proceeds—S. 10 does not apply as no trust is created by vendor heir's handing over of proceeds to third person—Art. 62 applies and not Arts. 89, 120 and 123—Time runs from date when proceeds were handed over to third party and not from date when plaintiff knew that proceeds were held by third party—Trusts Act (1882), S. 5.

A Muhammadan H died in 1917 leaving several heirs of whom P was one. A part of his estate was sold by R, one P's step-brothers in 1921 with the consent of the majority of heirs and the sale proceeds were handed over to D for distribution amongst the heirs. D paid some of them. P was not paid. P brought a suit against D in November, 1940, to recover the amount of his share from the sale proceeds, alleging that till 1940, he did not know that the amount was in the hands of D. The suit was brought after three years from the date of sale but within three years from the time P knew that the amount was in the hands of D.

Held (1) that, R, who handed over money to D was not its owner but only held it on behalf of the estate of H, and could convey no title to D so as to transfer ownership within meaning of S. 5, Trusts Act, to create a trust but could only be regarded as an administrator de son tort. As S. 10 Limitation Act, applies to cases in which there is an express trust, the suit was not governed by S. 10, Limitation Act:

(2) that Art. 123 cannot apply as this is neither a suit for the administration of an estate nor a suit against a person legally charged with the duty of distributing any portion of the estate;

(3) that Art. 89 could not apply as D was never the agent of P;

(4) that Art. 62 applied to the case and the time began to run when the amount was handed over to D. There is nothing in Art. 62 which implies that knowledge of payment is a factor to save such time; observation of Coutts-Trotter, C.J., to the contrary in;

(5) that as the Article applicable to the case is 62, the residuary Art. 120 did not apply. 1945 Mad.W.N. 671 =(1945) 2 Mad.L.J. 422=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 116=58 Mad. L.W. 555.

——S. 10—Executor—Question of fact.

Whether an executor is a trustee for a specific purpose depends upon the acts of each case. I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 392=A.I.R. 1942 Sind 145=208 Ind. Cas. 230.

——S. 10—Executor.

Section 10, Limitation Act applies to executors under a will who are therein expressly called trustees and are entrusted with the testator's property for certain definite purposes. A.I.R. 1942 Sind 145=I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 392=208 Ind. Cas. 230.

——S. 10—Executor and Receiver.

Where a suit is filed by executors under a will for the recovery of properties left by the testator and some of the properties are in the hands of Receiver appointed by the Court, the Receiver holds the properties subject to the order of the Court for the benefit of those entitled under the will and there can be no question of limitation as regards such properties. 63 Ind. Cas. 104=13 M.L.W. 392=1921 M.W.N. 248=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 528=40 M.L.J. 532.

——S. 10 and Art. 123—Executor—Suit for accounts against—Law of limitation, if a law of proceedure.

Where a legatee brings a suit against the executor of a will for accounts such suit must be restricted to the taking of accounts for 6 years before the date of the suit, S. 10 and Art. 123 of the Act do not apply to this case. If before the amendment of the law of limitation the executor had acquired the right of immunity to render accounts for more than six years before suit that right cannot be lost by any amendment in the law at a later day. The Law of Limitation is not always a law of procedure. 12 Bom.L.R. 881=8 Ind. Cas. 189.

——S. 10 and Sch. II, Art. 120—Executor—Suit for accounts against—Limitation.

Art. 120 will apply to a suit for accounts pure and simple against an executor and S. 10 will have no application to such a suit because it is not a suit against an executor in whom the property had become vested for the purpose of following such property. 13 C.W.N. 557=9 C.L.J. 383= 1 Ind. Cas. 289.

——S. 10—Executor, if a trustee.

The mere appointment of a person as executor does not make him a trustee. Whether an executor is a trustee for a specific purpose within S. 10 is a mere question of fact. 11 Bom.L.R. 1187=4 Ind. Cas. 283.

——S. 10, Art. 120—Executor—Suit against executor—Limitation.

In order to make S. 10 of the Limitation Act applicable it has to be established in the first place, that the executor was a person in whom property had become vested in trust for any specific purpose and for that purpose, it has to be seen whether the provisions of the will are such that the executor as trustee must be treated as trustee. In the second place in order to make the section applicable, the scope and character of the suit have to be considered. It must be a suit for the purpose of following in the hands of the trustee or of his legal representatives property which had become vested in them for a specific purpose, which means, for the purpose of recovering such property, for the trust in question. A suit for account pure and simple, the object of which is not to recover any property in specie but merely to have an account of the stewardship of the defendants and of their predecessors in the administration, which means an account of the money received and disbursed by them on behalf of the beneficiaries, and to obtain any balance which may be found due on the taking of the accounts, cannot be treated as a suit against a trustee for the purpose of following a trust property and S. 10 of the Limitation Act has no application and the only provision applicable is Art. 120. (1909) 9 C.L.J. 383=13 C.W.N. 557=1 Ind. Cas. 289.

——S. 10—Executor.

Under S. 10 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, time will cease to run against an executor only if he is trustee for a specific purpose. (1909) 11 Bom.L.R. 1187=4 Ind. Cas. 283.

——S. 10, Art. 120—Executor—Suit for accounts against.

In a suit brought by the plaintiff against the executors of the will of her grandfather praying for a declaration that in the events that had happened, she was entitled absolutely and solely to the property left by her grandfather, and for account of the property in the hands of the executors the plaintiff is only entitled to accounts from the defendants for six years preceding the suit, as she took no interest under the will, and the executors were not trustee for her, and the property did not vest in them for any specified purpose in her favour. Such a suit is not a suit for the purpose of following such property in the hands of the executors and trustees. (1908) 10 Bom.L.R. 117=32 Bom. 364.

——S. 10—Executor—Executor when debtor, time does not run.

Where an executor who owes money to the deceased accepts the executorship the debt becomes at once assets and he is responsible for the amount of it. In that case no limitation would run as long as he remained executor or died, whichever happened first. (1908) 10 Bom. L.R. 346.

5. Express trust.

——S. 10—Express trust—Trustee must be express trustee, i.e., for specific purpose—Indian law makes distinction between trust for specific purpose and obligation in nature of trust.

A trust for a specific purpose is one for a purpose that is either actually and specifically defined in the terms of the will or the settlement itself, or a purpose which, from the specified terms, can be certainly affirmed. The Indian law as found in the Trusts Act the Legislature has made a sharp distinction between trusts created by the act of parties and certain obligations which are not trusts but which are considered to be in the nature of trusts. Section 10 does not apply in the case of a person whom the law looks upon as a trustee because he has to discharge certain obligations in the nature of a trust. It only applies to a trustee of a trust in the strict sense of the term, i.e. an express trustee. 47 Bom.L.R. 934=I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 1047=A.I.R. 1946 Bom. 131.

Under S. 10 no length of time will bar a suit against an express trustee for his legal representative or assign (but not being assign for valuable consideration) for the purpose of following the trust property in his or their hands. The rule is that an express trustee cannot prescribe for a title by adverse possession against his beneficiary and, of course the trustee's legal representatives or assigns (without valuable consideration) are in no better position than the trustee himself. But the rule does not prevent stranger to the trust who takes possession of the trust property independently of the trustee from acquiring title by adverse possession.

Where a person has assumed either with or without consent to act as a trustee of money other property and has in consequence been in possession of or has exercised command or control over such money or property a Court of equity will impose upon him all the liabilities of an express trustee. A trespasser ab initio cannot be said to be a trustee or manager de son tort within the meaning of para. 2 of S. 10. I.L.R. (1945) Kar. 40=A.I.R. 1945 Sind 57.

——S. 10—Express trust—Nattukottai Chettis—Presents given to bride at time of marriage—Deposit of, with another person.

Where the defendant the person with whom the presents made to the bride at the time of her marriage were deposited well knew that the moneys which were deposited with him formed part of the cash provided by his own father and the father of the bride as her marriage presents or her stridhanam and that they were deposited with him in the name of the husband for the purpose of earning interest and to be augmented for the benefit of the children of the bride and bridegroom and that whoever could demand payment from him whether it was the marladar or the husband on the death of the marladar the fund and its accretions were not personal either to the marladar or the husband but were the children's property:

Held that the defendant had control of the fund which was placed with him for the specific purpose of interest being earned and the total fund being increased or augmented for the benefit of the children of the husband and his wife. That the said fund was a trust money that the defendant was an express trustee coming within the meaning of S. 10, Limitation Act and that S. 10 applied to the suit claiming the amount from him. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 841=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 558=200 Ind. Cas. 357.

——S. 10—Express trust.

S. 10, Limitation Act has no application to what are sometimes called constructive trusts more accurately described in the Trusts Act as "obligations in the nature of a trust" but only to the trust properly so called as defined in the Trusts Act. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 722=(1939) M.W.N. 437=49 L.W. 605=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 820=189 Ind. Cas. 316.

——S. 10—Express trust.

Plaintiff making over certain sum to defendant No. 3 for investment—Defendant No. 3 advancing it to defendants Nos. 1 and 2 on registered bond—Bond taken in his own name—Plaintiff knowing of real facts after over three years—Suit by him on simple mortgage against defendants for recovery of money from defendants Nos. 1 and 2 or for simple money-decree against defendant No. 3—Suit framed as simple mortgage suit.

——S. 10—Express trust.

Where according to a family arrangement a certain hundi vests in a defendant for payment of debts of the husband of the plaintiff and the balance after payments is to be paid to the plaintiff's husband the arrangement is a trust for specific purpose within the meaning of S. 10 and the plaintiff's husband is entitled to call upon the defendant to account for the proceeds of the hundi. A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 876=(1937) M.W.N. 368=169 Ind. Cas. 362.

——S. 10 and Art. 89 Express trust.

Dispute as to property—Agreement between parties that one of them may collect rents and account to the rightful claimant—Suit for account by successful party:

Held, (i) that there was no property constituted trust such as would bring the case within S. 10 and there was also no contract of agency which would bring in Art. 89: Art. 120 applies. A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 170=161 Ind. Cas. 845.

——S. 10—Express trust—Suit for accounts—In an express trust part of trust money misappropriated by the trustee—Suit for account and refund of the amount is not barred by lapse of time.

Where on the death of her husband in 1904 a widow handed over a certain sum of money to her brother for the benefit and education of her two sons and the brother applied part of the trust moneys for that purpose put the balance amounting to Rs. 1,600 and upwards into his pocket. On his death his representatives were called on to refund this balance and to account.

Held that the money being vested for specific purpose a suit for account and refund of the trust property cannot according to S. 10, Limitation Act, be time-barred by lapse of time. 107 Ind. Cas. 705=52 Bom. 184=30 Bom. L.R. 45=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 58.

——S. 10—Express trust, what is.

Where pending disposal of a criminal case property was entrusted to the sapurdar and the reversioners of the owner sued for recovery of the property after seven years:

Held on construction of the document that the case was one of express trust and S. 10 applies. 101 Ind. Cas. 427=A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 614.

——S. 10—Express trust.

Per Mullick, J.—It is not necesary that an express declaration should be proved. Inferences can be drawn from the conduct of the parties sufficient to establish an express trust. 93 Ind. Cas. 454=5 P.L.T. (Sup.) 1=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 68 (F.B.).

——S. 10—Express trust, what is.

Two Mahomedan brothers executed a partition deed wherein they stated that their deceased brother entrusted to them a certain amount which one of the two executan's undertook to pay to plaintiff on his attaining majority with interest at ¼ per cent.

Held, that an express trust was created in favour of plaintiff and the amount was not a deposit.

Held, further that the partition deed evidenced and acknowledged the trust already created by the deceased brother. 85 Ind. Cas. 508=20 M.L.W. 546=1924 M.W.N. 876=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 920.

——S. 10—Express trust for a specific purpose—Trust not exhausting estate—Residue—Trust created by operation of law.

When the testator's property is vested in the trustees for a specific purpose, no resulting trust of the residue which necessarily arises by law, need be specific in words in the will in order to bring it within S. 10. 21 B. 646, Foll. 35 Bom. 49=12 Bom.L.R. 947=8 Ind. Cas. 635.

——S. 10—Express trust—Fiduciary relationship.

An express trust within the meaning of S. 10 of the Limitation Act does not result from a mere fiduciary relationship between two parties such as solicitor and client despositor and banker, principal and agent and creditor and debtor. (But a son-in-law does not stand in a fiduciary relationship to his father-in-law by reason of the matrimonial relationship). 1 L. W. 577=(1914) M.W.N. 606=16 M.L.T. 199=22 Ind. Cas. 936.

——S. 10—Express trust—Applicability.

Section 10 of the Limitation Act 1877 applies to trustees who hold the property for a specific trust and no limitation runs against the particular beneficaries for whom the property is held in trust. But the benefit of the section cannot be sought by parties other than the parties for whom the trust was created. (1905) 7 Bom.L.R. 324.

6. Guardian or Manager.

——S. 10, Explanation—Mere custodian or manager—Explanation, if applies to de facto manager.

The seizin to the property that is the actual de facto seizin and not necessarily the legal seizin cannot reside in two persons at one and the same time unless of course they are co-owners, or co-trustees holding under one right or one title and unless the seizin to the estate resides in the person sued, S. 10, Limitation Act cannot apply. But this fictitous seizin must for the limited purposes of this section reside in one person or set of persons and not in two. There cannot be a manager of a manager for the purposes of the explanation. A mere custodian or manager of property handed over to him for safe custody or management by the legal or de facto manager cannot be reached by this section.

The explanation to S. 10 applies as much to de facto managers as to those legally entitled. A person who wrongfully holds as trustee and pretends to act as such cannot turn round and reprobate the right which he asserts and claim to hold adversely to his beneficiary. An estoppel would arise. A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 181=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 92=1941 N.L.J. 184=201 Ind. Cas. 220.

——S. 10—Guardian or manager—Court guardian—Suit by minor for accounts against guardian more than three years after his becoming major.

In order that a Court guardian may become a trustee in whom property is vested for specific purpose and as such comes under S. 10, some property must vest in him for a specific purpose. There is however no vesting section in the Guardians and Wards Act. The scheme of the Guardians and Wards Act shows that a guardian in is regarded as an agent acting on behalf of the minor with a liability analogous to that of a trustee. That, however, does not make him an express trustee. In the Trusts Act also the only refernce to a guardian is in Ill. (h) to S. 88 which comes under the chapter "Of certain obligations in the nature of trust." This would mean that the relation between a guardian and minor is fiduciary, and his obligations are based on a constructive as opposed to an express trust.

Consequently when a minor files a suit against the guardian for accounts more than three years after his attaining majority the suit is time-barred as section 10 does not apply, the Court guardian not being an express

——S. 10, Art. 120—Guardian or manager.

Section 10 of the Limitation Act does not apply to an implied trust by to an express trust. A Karta of a Hindu joint family is not vested with the property belonging to a joint Hindu family. Art. 120 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit for accounts against a Karta of joint Hindu family. 32 C.L.J. 25=58 Ind. Cas. 877.

——S. 10—Guardian or manager—Joint Hindu family.

Section 10 does not apply to suits for accounts against manager of joint family by a member thereof. Article 120 applies to such suits. 25 C.W.N. 356=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 571.

——S. 10—Guardian or manager—Taking charge and managing of minor's property creates constructive trust and property does not vest in the person taking charge.

The plaintiff while a minor inherited certain property which the defendant her father took charge of and managed for her. On suit by minor after attaining majority.

Held, that as a minor cannot create a trust the position was that the defendant as the plaintiff's father had taken charge of her property and managed it for her and that therefore thee was in fact no trust in that case.

Held, also that as the Indian Trust Act in Chapter IX treats constructive trusts not as trusts but as 'obligations in the nature of trusts' and that as the defendant was not a trustee but by his acts had only incurred obligations similar to those of a trustee the provisions of S. 10 of the Limitation Act would not apply. 18 Bom. 119, Foll.

The word "vest" implies that the property becomes in law the property of the trustee. 20 Cal. 51; 44 Mad. 277 and 84 P.R. 1891, Foll. 86 Ind. Cas. 297=3 Rang. 206=A.I.R. 1925 Rang. 289.

——S. 10—Guardian or manager—Trust property—Acquisition by guardian.

When the guardian gave a discharge for a decree in favour of the minor in consideration of the transfer to him of certain property he holds the property as a trustee for the minor. 28 Ind. Cas. 861 (All.).

——S. 10—Guardian or manager—Suit against trustee—Suit against karta.

S. 10 of the Act expressly provides for the cases of vested trust in a trustee for specific purpose only; a suit against a karta for account is not governed by it as karta is not vested with property of the family. 32 C.L.J. 25=58 Ind. Cas. 877.

7. Implied trust.

See also LIMITATION ACT, S. 10—APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE.

——S. 10—Implied trust.

Where the money is held under an implied trust for the benefit of the plaintiff then S. 10 of the Indian Limitation Act applies to the case. 39 Bom. 572=17 Bom.L.R. 641=31 Ind. Cas. 277.

——S. 10—Implied trust.

A person claiming under a resulting trust may be barred by limitation unless the resulting trust is of such a kind as to fall within the scope of S. 10 of the Limitation Act. A trust for a specific purpose is a trust for a specified purpose. A resulting trust in favour of the heirs of a testator upon failure through invalidity of one of the trusts declared in the will, is not a trust for a specified purpose within the meaning of S. 10. For the purpose of limitation there is a distinction to be drawn between resulting trusts and trusts for specific purposes and limitation may run in favour of a trustee, whether by express words or by operation of law even where he is in not as a trespasser. 37 Bom 447=14 Bom.L.R. 987=17 Ind. Cas. 689.

——S. 10—Implied trust—Applicability.

S. 10 has a very limited application and does not refer to trusts founded on an unexpressed but implied intention of the party creating them or to trusts which are raised by construction of equity without any reference to the intention of parties. 8 S.L.R. 132=27 Ind. Cas. 392.

8. Interpretation

——S. 10—Interpretation—'Trust' and 'vested in trust' meaning of—Deposit of trust money with banker with notice of trust—Suit by cestui que trust for recovery of deposit—S. 10 does not apply.

The word 'trust', S. 10, Limitation Act, is used in the same sense as in the Trusts Act, 1882, and the expression 'vested in trust' implies that the ownership, in the property has been conveyed to the person referred to in the section.

Where a banker accepts a deposit of trust money with notice of the trust he does not become a trustee of the money in the strict sense of that expression and consequently a suit for recovery of the deposit by the cestui que trust will not be governed by S. 10, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 519=(1946) 1 M.L.J. 31=1946 M.W.N. 9=I.L.R. (1946) Mad. 42=59 M.L.W. 725.

——S. 10—(Before amendment)—Interpretation—Word "vested in trust" in S. 10—Meaning of.

The word "trust" in S. 10 is used in the same sense as in the Trusts Act, 2 of 1882, in which a trust is defined as an obligation annexed to the ownership of property so that the expression "vested in trust" implies that the ownership in the property has been conveyed to the person referred to in section. The rules of equity that a person who received money while in a fiduciary relationship to the person for whom he received it was to be treated as an express trustee cannot be imported into S. 10.

Gifts of land can be made to the manager of a temple to be held in trust for the temple. Such a gift would constitute the manager a trustee in the English sense so as to attract S. 11 as it stood before. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=56 L.W. 479 (2)=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 10—Interpretation—"Specific purpose".

The specific purpose required by S. 10, Limitation Act, is the specific purposes mentioned in or deducible from the deed. A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 181=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 92=1941 N.L.J. 184=201 Ind. Cas. 220.

——S. 10—Interpretation.

"Trust for specific purpose" is same as "express trust". A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 841=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 558=200 Ind. Cas. 357.

——S. 10—Interpretation—"Specific purpose".

The words "for any specific purpose" merely indicate an express trust, i.e., a trust that is not constructive or one arising by implication of law or such that there is no doubt as to its specified terms nor any uncertainty as to affirming them. 32 Bom. 394, A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 212, Rel. on. 124 Ind. Cas. 18=A.I.R. 1930 All. 96.

——S. 10—Interpretation.

The expression 'trust for any specific purpose' is merely a more expanded mode of expressing the same idea as that conveyed by the term "express trust" of the English Law, both the terms being synonymous in meaning and thus the section excludes from its operation such trusts as the law, would imply merely from the existence of particulars facts or fidicuary relations. 116 Ind. Cas. 70=A.I.R. 1929 Nag. 298.

——S. 10—Interpretation.

"A specific purpose," within the meaning of S. 10, must be a purpose that is either actually and specifically defined in the terms of the will or the settlement itself, or a purpose, which, from the specified terms, can be certainly affirmed.

The purpose of following the property in the hands of the trustees referred to at the end of S. 10 must be the purpose of restoring it to the trustee which is specified in the earlier part of the section. A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 212 (P.C.), Foll. 103 Ind. Cas. 418 =29 Bom. L.R. 241=A.I.R. 1927 Bom. 398.

——S. 10—Interpretation—"Vested".

The view that the word "vested" in S. 10 is to be taken, when speaking of a person standing in a fiduciary relation, not in the sense of "owned," but in the sense of "held in possession," can no longer be maintained. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 673=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 652=181 Ind. Cas. 190.

——S. 10—Interpretation—'Property'.

It is unnecessary that the property followed should be identical property in respect of which a breach of trust has been committed. It can be anything into which the original property has been converted in whatever form the conversion may have taken provided, of course, the one can be clearly and definitely connected with the other. But under S. 10, Lim. Act whatever form the original property may have taken, it is essential that it should be in the hands of the person sued. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 30=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 94=176 Ind. Cas. 57.

——S. 10—Interpretation—'Vesting'—Requirements of.

While transfer of proprietary rights is not intended mere transference of management or control is not enough to satisfy the requirements of 'vesting' as contemplated by S. 10; a right to call for a transfer and to possess the property for the purposes of the trust and also a power to dispose of it according to the terms of the trust without reference to the owner are the essentials that constitute the 'vesting'. 58 C.L.J. 502=A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 87=61 C. 119=150 Ind. Cas. 398.

9. Religious Endowment.

——S. 10 and Art. 144—Mutawalli—Adverse possession—Acts showing adverse possession are referable to position of Mutawalli..... Mutawalli is estopped from setting adverse title to trust property.

Where a person is a mutawalli of a public charitable trust, all his acts which are claimed as acts showing adverse possession are referable to his lawful fiduciary position as Mutawalli. Adverse possession in such circumstances, is a nation almost void of content. However flagrant the breaches of duty be on the part of the mutawalli he acts on behalf of the trust and has no right to claim adverse possession. Having entered into possession as trustee he is estopped from setting an adverse title until he obtains a proper discharge from the trust. A.I.R. 1946 Nag. 401=I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 518=1946 N.L.J. 511.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—(As amended in 1929)—Amendment, if retrospective—Prior to amendment, legal representatives of mutawalli completing their title to waqf properties by adverse possession—Suit by subsequent mutawalli for recovery of wakf property.

Nothing is contained in the amendment of S. 10 in 1929, which gave it a retrospective effect and revived titles which had already become extinguished by reason of S. 28, Lim. Act. Where certain properties were claimed by legal representatives of a mutawalli adversely to the waqf by reason of having completed their title by twelve years' adverse possession prior to the amendment, S. 10, as amended, could have no application and the suit by the subsequent mutwalli brought after the amendment for recovery of the waqf properties would fail. (1945) A.L.J. 11=1 L.R. (1945) All. 75=A.I.R. 1945 All. 121=1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 414 =222 Ind. Cas. 196.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—Waqf of immovables under Mohamadan law.

Limitation is a matter of procedure and the Lim. Act applies to immovables made waqf under the Muhammadan Law. A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 190= 1944 N.L.J. 170=I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 775=220 Ind. Cas. 57.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—Dedication of property to temple is "specific purpose" within S. 10.

"A specific purpose" within S. 10 is a purpose which is either actually and specifically defined in the deed of trust or a purpose which from the specified terms can be certainly affirmed. The dedication of property to a temple generally, i.e., for conducting of pujas and ceremonies and the upkeep of the temple is sufficiently specific to satisfy the requirements of S. 10. 56 L.W. 479(2)= A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—(Before amendment of 1929)—Dharmakaratha of temple.

The property of a temple belongs to the idol and does not vest in the manager, although he has a wide discretion in the spending of the funds of the institution. The dharmakartha of a temple, therefore, is not the trustee of its property and, therefore, S. 10, Lim. Act as it stood before the amendment of 1929 does not apply to him. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 691=56 L. W. 479 (2)=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 339=212 Ind. Cas. 518.

Suit under S. 539 of old Civil P. C. (Act XIV of 1882), corresponding to S. 92, Civil P.C., (Act V of 1908), for appointing a new trustee for temple and for vesting property in trustees in trust for temple—Decree in terms of section — Person appointed trustee according to scheme given in decree—Property of temple vested in him—Such person is a trustee within meaning of S. 10. ——S. 10—Religious endowment—(As amended in 1929)—Express trustee — Manager of a religious endowment.

For the purpose of S. 10, a manager of a religious endowment is in the same position as an express trustee. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 483=157 Ind. Cas. 181 (2).

——S. 10—Religious endowment.

Where a village was dedicated in waqf for the maintenance of a shrine and for the maintenance of the sajjadanashin, the plaintiff as sajjadanashin and manager of the waqf sued to recover possession of certain lands in the village from the mujawars whom the predecessors of the plaintiff had allowed to occupy the land in suit, being part of the waqf lands, for their maintenance and relied on S. 10, to overcome the bar of limitation:

Held, that in order to bring the suit within S. 10 it would be necessary for the plaintiff to show that the lands in question had become vested in the defendants in trust for a specific purpose, or that they were the assigns of the sajjadanashin, in whom the lands had become vested for such purpose, and as the sajjadanashin could not be said to be a trustee but was only a manager, the suit did not come within the provisions of S. 10. 11 O.W.N. 297=39 L.W. 421=A.I.R. 1934 P. C. 77 =33 C.W.N. 400=36 Bom.L.R. 408=66 M.L.J. 431 =59 C.L.J. 157=(1934) M.W.N. 258=(1934) A.L.J. 466=56 A. 111=3 A. W. R. 387=61 I.A. 50=147 Ind. Cas. 887 (P.C.).

——S. 10—Religious endowment.

The plaintiffs sued as representatives of the Parsi Anjuman of Chikhli. The suit was to recover two houses which had been mortgaged by defendant No. 1 to defendant No. 4. Their case was that originally the father of defendants No. 1 and two other persons, who were the vahivatdars or managers of the old Agyari or fire-temple of Chikhli and were representatives of the Parsi Anjuman, purchased the two houses, which were on either side of the Agyari, for the Anjuman, but subsequently, defendant No. 1's father treated this property as his own and mortgaged it to various persons and ultimately to defendant No. 4 who was in possession. Defendants Nos. 1, 2 and 3 were brothers. The only contending defendants were defendants Nos. 1 and 4:

Held, that in the mofussil, Parsis were governed by rules of justice, equity and good conscience; the vendees, and his two associates, were acting on behalf of Anjuman; the purchase was for the Anjuman, and was made for the express purpose of guarding against the danger of these two houses which adjoined the fire-temple on either side falling into non-Parsi hands and thereby causing some annoyance or obstruction to the religious ceremonies to be performed there; and that there could not be a clearer instance of an express trust, the property having become vested in these three vendees for a specific purpose, namely, the maintenance of the fire-temple without interruption and avoidance of the possibility of alienation of the houses on either side and as there was an express trust or a trust for a specifie purpose, S. 10 of the Lim. Act applied and a suit would not be barred by limitation. 35 Bom. L. R. 1091=A.I.R. 1934 Bom. 1=149 Ind. Cas. 317.

——S. 10—Religious endowment — Property appertaining to an asthan—Whether can be said to have become vested in trust for any specific purpose.

The property held by a mahant of a math for the purpose of maintaining the math and the office relating thereto is not property which "has become vested in trust for any specific purpose." The endowments of a Hindu math are not "conveyed in trust" nor is the head of a math a "trustee" with regard to them save as to specific property proved to have been vested in him for a specific object. Property appertaining to an asthan cannot be said to have become vested in trust for any specific purpose and S. 10, will not apply to a suit by the mahant of the astham for recovery of possession of the property. 11 O.W.N. 39=A.I.R. 1934 Oudh 96=9 Luck. 384= 147 Ind. Cas. 607.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—Alienation by trustee.

A trustee cannot convey a valid title to the transferee and, therefore, Art. 134 does not apply to a suit for the recovery of the temple property, improperly alienated by the trustee. A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 123 (P.C.), Foll. 96 Ind. Cas. 371=49 Mad. 543=23 M.L.W. 657=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 769=50 M.L.J. 589.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—Alienation of wakf property.

Article 144 and not Art. 134, governs a suit to set aside an alienation by a Mutawalli of ordinary waqf property gifted for general pious or religious purposes. Section 10 controls Art. 134 of the Limitation Act of 1908. It clearly shows that the Article refers to cases of specific trust and relates to property "conveyed in trust". There is under Hindu and Muhammadan Law, a distinction between a specific trust and a trust for general religious or charitable purposes. 65 Ind. Cas. 722=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 271.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—Alienation by Mahant.

The limitation for a suit for possession of endowed property by a successor in office of a Mahant who alienated the endowed property runs from the date of the latter's death, as the Mahanth had a life-estate in the endowed properties and time did not begin to run until his death. 63 Ind. Cas. 231=3 Pat. L.T. 264=1922 P.H.C.C. 188= A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 178.

——S. 10—Arts. 12, 131—Religious endowment—Suit for specific share of Tasdik—Suit by Katlai Manager against temple trustee—Relative positions of.

The plaintiffs, as mangers of a Katlai, sued the temple trustee for recovery of a specific share of the tasdik amount received by the latter from the Government for eleven odd years before suit, the same having been allotted for the purpose of th katlai. Held:—(1) That there was nothing in the case to support the view that the trustee acted as agent of the Katlai manager in so receiving the amount. (2) That it was reasonable to presume that the temple trustees were appointed trustees for the receipt of the katlai amount. (3) That S. 10 of the Limitation Act governed the case and not Arts. 62 or 131 and that arrears were recoverable for the whole period of eleven years odd. (1910) 20 M.L.J. 374=8 M.L.T. 130=6 Ind. Cas. 781 (1).

——S. 10, Art. 143 — Religious endowment — Temple trustee getting property from private owner in exchange for temple lands—Transfer for valuable consideration—Suit by paramount owner for lands exchanged—Decree in first Court—Temple dispossessed in execution—Appeal by temple—Final decree—Suit by trustee within 12 years from date of final decree—Limitation.

A transfer by way of exchange of land alleged to belong to a private owner to a temple in exchange for temple properties transferred to such private owner by the temple trustee is a transfer for valuable consideration and is not a mere voluntary transfer within the meaning of S. 10 of the Limitation Act. A temple trustee suing to recover property exchanged by him or by his predecessor by reason of the temple being deprived of property got back in exchange owing to a defect of title will be barred by Art. 143 and will not be saved by S. 10. The cause of action for such a suit does not run when the temple is dispossessed for the first time in execution of a decree obtained in a suit instituted against the temple by a third party claiming under a paramount title but only from the date of the final decree in such suit. A plaintiff's cause of action under S 119 of the Transfer of Property Act does not arise before the date of the final decree in the suit in which he was dispossessed and he will be in time if he brings a suit before the expiration of 12 years from the date of such decree. 30 M. 316=17 M. L. J. 149.

——S. 10 — Religious endowment — Shebait—Person "in whom property has become vested in trust for any specific purpose" — Revival of right to sue barred by the Act.

A shebait of property endowed for the worship of a deity and other religious purposes is a person "in whom the property has become vested in trust for any specific purpose" within the meaning of S. 10. 11 M. 274, foll. 4 C. 455, ref. to. A right barred before the passing of any provision corresponding to S. 10 cannot be revived by reason of the enactment of S. 10. 11 M.I.A. 315, 361; 27 C. 1004; 20 W.R. 375 (P. C.), Foll. (1903) 31 C. 314.

——S. 10—Religious endowment—Trusts—Specific purpose—Limitation.

Properties were vested in the defendants as trustees in trust for a temple. No breach of trust in reference to such trust was alleged, but the plaintiff alleged that income of the properties after defraying the expenses of the trust should be distributed among various persons, including himself, in accordance with the custom of the vatan and claimed a share. Held, that S. 10 did not save limitation in respect of such a suit, as it did not relate to the specific purpose for which the properties were vested in the defendants as trustees. (1901) 3 Bom. L.R. 422.

10. Specific trust.

——S. 10—Trustee for specific purpose—Person merely asked to manage and control minor's share in business.

Where on the death of a minor's father, the minor's mother and other relation merely ask a person as an elderly relation to manage and control the minor's share in his father's business in the minor's interest until the minor comes of age, they cannot be held to have intended to vest the minor's share in the property of his father's business in such person as a trustee. Such a person is not a trustee for a specific purpose, or indeed a trustee at all within the meaning of S. 10 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1947) Kar. 109=A.I.R. 1947 Sind 187.

——S. 10—Specific trust.

Pre-settlement mokhasa in certain zemindari attached in 1831 under Cl. 6 of S. 34, Madras Regulation XXVIII of 1802—Zemindari sold for arrears and came in possession of Government — Government resumed mokhasa in 1856, wrote off arrears and regranted it unconditionally to zemindar in 1860—Zemindar held it since then in his own right—Mokhasadar having knowledge of resumption, acquiescing in and abandoning his right in mokhasa—Suit for possession brought in 1927—It was alleged that zemindar was trustee and no question of limitation arose:

Held, no trust was created and time began to run from date of disclaimer and suit was time-barred. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 295.

11. Trust by operation of law.

——S. 10—Pre-British watan grant—Presumption as to recognition by British Government—Nadgir watandar holding land subject to payment of fixed judi—Default—Sovereign power assuming management—Whether tantamount to trust.

There is no presumption that upon the assumption of sovereignty by the British Government, the pre-British watan grant was recognized.

In order that the statute of limitation might be ousted, there must be a direct trust constituted by the act of parties and not a constructive trust arising by implication of law. Where land is held by a nadgir subject to payment of fixed judi, the mere assumption of management by a sovereign power of lands on failure to pay the customary judi is not tantamount to 'vesting' in trust of such lands under S. 10, Lim. Act. The words "in trust for a specific purpose" in that section must obviously receive a restrictive interpretation. Assuming that the lands were freely surrendered by the nadgirs into the possession of the ancient rulers or the grantees through them on account of their inability to pay the customary judi, the payment of which was the essential condition of the tenure, that surrender, whether voluntary or not, will not necessarily create a trust of the limited character and nature attaching to property within the meaning of S. 10, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1937 Bom. 455= 39 Bom. L.R. 572=171 Ind. Cas. 844.

——S. 10—Trust by operation of law—Trust for a specific purpose—Trust by operation of law—Trust dedicated in a will—No specific trust—Suit to follow residue in trustee's hands.

Once the testator's property is vested in the trustees for a specific purpose, it is not necessary that any resulting trust of the residue which necessarily arises by operation of law should be specified in words of the will in order to bring it within the scope of S. 10. 21 B. 646. (1910) 12 Bom. L.R. 947=35 Bom. 49=8 Ind. Cas. 635.

——S. 10—Trust by operation of law—Trust for a specific purpose—Express trust—Trust Act, Ss. 81, 83.

S. 10 does not apply to a resulting trust in favour of the settlor which arises by the operation of Ss. 81 and 83 of the Indian Trust Act, 1882, on the ground that the object of the original trust is uncertain or undiscoverable. Whether the resulting trust flow from the invalidity of the declared trust or from the impossibility of ascertaining the declared trust, it is equally a substituted trust, that is, a trust which is created by the law forte de mieux, that is, as the best arrangement which the law regards as possible in difficult circumstances. This general rule is affected to this extent only, that where there is a trust covering the whole estate and the bequest do not exhaust the whole estate the trustees are express trustees of the residue for the heir of the testator. (1906) 8 Bom. L.R. 328=31 B. 222.

12. Trustee de son tort.

——S. 10—Administrator de son tort.

Section 10 applies only to a case of an express trust. Where, however, the defendant who undertook to distribute the moneys of the sale proceeds of a property to the persons entitled to it in their proper shares, has no legal title to the moneys under S. 5, Trusts Act, S. 10 has no application. At most, the defendant can be regarded as an administrator de son tort in this connection. 1945 M.W.N. 671=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 422=58 L.W. 555=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 116=124 Ind. Cas. 21.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort—Constructive trustee—Possession of trespasser.

The wrongful invasion or continuance in possession of a stranger whether with or without knowledge of the infirmity of his title will not make the wrong-doer a construtive trustee unless he has been admitted into possession by a trustee.

A person who has been held to be a trespasser ab initio cannot be said to be a trustee or manager de son tort within the meaning of para. 2 of S. 10. A.I.R. 1945 Sind 57=I.L.R. (1945) Kar. 40.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort.

Section 10 does not apply in the case of trustee de son tort. For an executor to be considered holding property in trust for a specific purpose, an express trust must be enacted by the will itself, as the position of an express trustee does not arise from the status of the executor by itself. 1944 N.L.J. 458=I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 817=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 377.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort.

In a suit for accounts against the trustee de son tort S. 10, Lim. Act will not apply, for, it applies to cases of express trust alone. Such a point is governed by Art. 120. A.I.R. 1941 All. 1=I.L.R. (1940) All. 815=(1940) A.L.J. 705=1940 A.W.R. 607=193 Ind. Cas. 697.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort.

Trustees de son tort would come within the operation of S. 10 but the existence of a trust must be first established before S. 10 may be applied against trustees de son tort.

Where a person who is unable to look after his properties, leaves the management thereof to his nephews, who continue in the management after his death, even if it be supposed that a fiduciary relationship was created under the circumstances after his death, such a relationship could, by no stretch of language, be deemed a trust for a specified purpose within the meaning of S. 10. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 673=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 652=181 Ind. Cas. 190.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort.

Section 10 applies to express trustees and their representatives and not to a trustee de son tort. A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 373=1937 O.W.N. 745=13 Luck. 344=168 Ind. Cas. 593.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort.

An executor de son tort does not come within the purview of S. 10 for that section is confined merely to what are called express trustees and has no application to such trusts as the law implies merely from the existence of particular facts or fiduciary relations. 30 P. L. R. 503=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 753.

——S. 10—Trustee de son tort.

To a suit for accounts against a trustee de son tort S. 10 will not apply, for it applies to cases of express trust. 44 Mad. 277; 45 Mad. 419, Foll. 84 Ind. Cas. 631=22A.L.J. 866=5 L.R.A. Civ. 697=47 All. 17=A.I.R. 1924 All. 884.

See Trust. 7 Bom. L.R. 45=29 B. 267.

13. Trust property with stranger.

——S. 10—Trust property with stranger.

An express trustee cannot prescribe for a title by adverse possession againt his beneficiary, and the trustee's legal representatives or assigns (without valuable consideration) are in no better position than the trustee himself. But the rule does not prevent a stranger to the trust, who takes possession of the turst property independently of the trustee, from acquiring title by adverse possession. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 483=152 Ind. Cas. 181.

14. Trustee, who is.

——S. 10—Trustee, who is.

The shebait under the Hindu Law is not a trustee for the idol and no legal estate vests in him. He is only a manager of the estate bestowed upon the idol which is the real owner. A.I.R. 1922 P. C. 123; 13 M. I. A. 270 (P. C.); and 27 C. L. J. 605, Rel. on. Limitation Act, S. 10 does not apply to a suit for accounts against him. 114 Ind. Cas. 734=1929 A.L.J. 229=A.I.R. 1928 All. 689.

——S. 10—Trustee, who is—The position of a mutawali is not that of a trustee within S. 10.

A mutawali or custodian of the endowed property of the temple may, in a general way, be described as a "trustee"—a person in a position of trust with respect to the administration of the temple properties—but no property is vested in him upon trust for any specific purpose. Therefore his position is not that of the express trustee referred to in S. 10, Limitation Act. Whatever sums, therefore, he has received for and on behalf of the idol installed in the temple can be treated only as sums received to the use of the idol, and a suit to recover the money so received is governed by Art 62. A.I.R. 1922 P. C. 123, Foll. 108 Ind Cas. 452=50 All. 265=25 A.L J. 1047=A.I.R. 1928 All. 134.

There is no authority for converting an executor into a trustee by anything like a performance of his duties qua executor. 103 Ind. Cas. 225=29 Bom. L.R. 418=A.I.R. 1927 Bom. 424.

——S. 10—Trustee, who is.

An executor though not a trustee for specific purpose is a trustee with a fiduciary character even as regards, the next of kin. 93 Ind. Cas. 385=42 C. L. J. 280= A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 1.

——S. 10—Trustee, who is.

The mere fact that a person comes to land which originally may have been trust property for an idol and places on that land a new namghur and sets up a new idol, does not constitute him a trustee de son tort for the original idol that was upon the land and S. 10 does not apply to such a case. 89 Ind. Cas. 133=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 1244.

——S. 10—Trustee, who is—Person obtaining jewels under promise to give them to plaintiff is a trustee as per S. 10.

By some agreement the jewels in question which had been pledged to a third person were settled on the plaintiff to be enjoyed by her during her life without power of alienation and upon her death to be divided between the defendant and other parties to the agreement. At the time the document was executed there was an express promise by the defendant that he would within ten days obtain the jewels and deal with them in accordance with the document. The defendant got the jewels from the pledgee but did not hand them over to the plaintiff:

Held, that defendant was 'trustee' within S. 10. The phrase "trust for a specific purpose" in this section is merely a more expanded mode of expressing the same idea conveyed by "express trust" in English Law; and it is used in this section in contra-distinction to "trusts arising by implication of law, trusts resulting and trusts constructive". The word "vested" in S. 10 means nothing more than properly having control of the property. 72 Ind Cas. 842=17 M.L.W. 467=32 M.L T. 217=1923 M. W. N. 284=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 578=44 M.L.J. 431.

15. Trust property.

——S. 10 and Art. 120—Trustee—De son tort—Suit for accounts—Limitation.

A suit for accounts in respect of trust property comes under S. 10 and a trustee de son tort stands in the same position as an express trustee The claim for accounts for six years prior to the institution of the suit would be saved by Art. 120 the obligation of a trustee to account being continuous. Under the new Act, a suit for accounts can be launched against a trustee. Though under the New Act there in no limit to a suit for accounts against a trustee, a right to sue barred under the old Act cannot be revived under the New Act. 24 C.W.N. 752=57 Ind. Cas. 805.

——S. 10—Trust property—Suit by trustee to recover from person claiming as trustee.

A suit by an alleged trustee for recovery of trust property against person claiming himself to be trustee is governed by Art. 144 of the Limitation Act. 46 I A. 201=37 M L J 460=(1919) M W N 850=17 A L J. 1097=10 L. W 642=26 M L.T. 479=24 C.W N. 249 =53 Ind. Cas. 288 (P. C.)

——S. 10—Trust property—Suit against trustee—Misappropriation by trustee—Limitation.

The time against a creditor trustee who had misappropriated begins to run from the date of misappropriation. 1 Ind. Cas. 347 (All.)

——S. 10—Trust property—Deposit as security.

The plff deposited as security his P. O Savings Bank Pass Book with the deft., then manager of an estate. On the plff.'s dismissal a sum due to him was with the Collector's sanction and plff.'s consent and authority, withdrawn from the Savings Bank and credited to the estate. The plff demanded money from the deft. The decree given by the trial court to the plff. was revised by the High Court which held that no property vested in the deft. in trust for the plff and the suit was barred by Limitation being instituted after more than three years. 52 Ind. Cas. 65 (Cal.)

——S. 10—Trust property—Suit against trustee—Neglect to get income of trust property.

S. 10 of the Act of 1877 does not save from limitation, cases where it is sought to render a trustee accountable for property which, but for his wilful default or neglect, would come into his hands. The effect of S. 10 of the Act of 1908 is to make a trustee liable for an indefinite time and without bar of limitation for breaches of trust consisting in failure to get in trust property. A suit against a trustee for failure to obtain possession of the corpus and income of the trust property is not within S. 10 of the Act but is governed by the ordinary law of limitation 42 Ind. Cas. 543 (Cal.).

——S. 10—Trust property—Land granted to custodion as dharmarth.

A suit for the recovery of property from a person in whom it was vested in trust for the upkeep of a shrine, or from a gratuitous transferee from him is governed by S. 10. The custodian of a shrine can acquire private property if he is not a sanyasi. 78 P. R, 1912. 109 P R, 1919=53 Ind. Cas. 577.

——S. 10—Trust property—Land assigned by mutual agreement — Suit for its recovery—Limitation.

Suit against defts. to whose predecessors in interest the suit lands were assigned and who were in posses ion as assignees according to mutual agreements is governed by S. 10 and is consequently not barred by limitation. 12 P.L.R. 1918=70 P.W R. 1918=66 P. R. 1918=45 Ind. Cas. 325.

——S. 10—Trust property—Suit against trustee—Neglect to get income of trust.

A suit against a trustee for failure to obtain possession and income of the trust, falls under the ordinary law of limitation and not under S. 10. 41 Mad. 319=(1917) M W.N 651=6 I. W. 523=22 M. L. T. 388=42 Ind Cas. 544.

——S. 10—Trust property—Suit against trustee—Former trustee.

A suit on behalf of a Devasthanam for recovery of property from a former trustee is governed by S. 10 of the Limitation Act though the former trustee's title to the office was not legally valid. 25 M. L. J. 452=14 M.L.T. 437=21 Ind. Cas. 421.

——S. 10 and Arts. 134, 142 and 144—Trust proprty - Permanent lease—Possession for 12 years—Effect of.

When trust property was permanently leased to the deft. on condition of paying yearly rent and the tenant was in possession for over 12 years; held, that S. 10 did not apply as he was an assignee for valuable consideration and that the deft. acquired by prescription the right of permanent lessee under either Art. 142 or 144 of the Act, Art. 134 does not apply. 23 M. 271; 36 C. 1003; 38 C. 526, Rel. on. There was no creation of a tenancy from year to year by the mere payment of rent as such tenancy can be created only by express or implied contract. 23 M.L. 1. Applicability and scope.

——S. 12—Applicability—Letters Patent appeal.

The provisions of S. 12 of the Limitation Act are applicable to Letters Patent appeals under Cl. 10, Letters Patent of the Patna High Court. The section does not make any reference to C.P. Code or to any other Act and is a general provision which applies to the whole of British India. 26 Pat. 157=A.I.R. 1947 Pat. 329 (S.B.)

——S. 12—Scope—"Prescribed"—If means prescribed by any law.

The word "prescribed" in S. 12 of the Limitation Act must be taken to apply to any Act which may be the subject of consideration in a particular case 26 Pat. 157=A.I.R. 1947 Pat. 329 (S.B.)

——S. 12 (3)—Applicability—Execution.

Section 12 (3) does not apply to an application for execution. (1945) 24 Pat. 421.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope.

Entire law of limitation has not been certified for all times and for all purposes in Lim. Act—Central and Provincial Legislatures can make additional and supplemental provisions which become part and parcel of law of limitation applicable to an action. A.I.R. 1942 All. 396=(1942) A.L.J. 571=1942 A.W.R.H.C. 315=I.L.R. (1943) All. 55=203 Ind. Cas. 331 (F.B.)

——S. 12—Applicability and scope.

Under S. 12, time spent for obtaining copy of order or decree sought to be revised has to be deducted from the period of limitation prescribed for filing revision, where, according to the Rules of the Court, it is essential to file a copy of the order sought to be revised along with the application. Such a practice prevails is Oudh according to R. 5, Chap XII of Oudh Chief Court Rules A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 392=1942 O.W.N. 335=1942 A.W.R.C.C. 220=200 Ind. Cas. 608.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope.

The provisions of S. 12 (2) are applicable to an application under S. 12 (2) of the Oudh Courts Act. Hence the time spent in obtaining copy of judgment should be excluded in computing the period of 30 days prescribed by R. 7, Chap. XII of the Rules of the Oudh Chief Court. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 316=1942 O.W.N. 21 =1942 R.D. 73=1942 A.W.R. 25 (1)=18 Luck. 66= 199 Ind. Cas. 712.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope.

The rules under Cl. 27 of the Letters Patent amount to 'special law.' Within the meaning of S. 29 of the Limitation Act and therefore S 12 of the Limitation Act governs appeals under Cl. 10 form the judgment passed by the High Court in its appellate jurisdiction and the 'time requisite' in obtaining a copy of the judgment appealed from must be excluded. A.I.R. 1041 Lah. 257=I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 191=43 Pun. L.R. 297 =195 Ind. Cas. 452 (F.B.)

——S. 12—Applicability and scope—Appeal under S. 202, Companies Act.

——S. 12—Applicability—Companies Act, appeal under—No.

See: Companies Act, S. 169. 19 M.L.J. 511=4 Ind. Cas. 872.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope.

——S. 12 (2)—Applicability and scope—Appeal and revision—Petition under S. 73, Madras Village Courts Act (I of 1889)—Certified copy of decree.

A petition under S. 73 of the Mad. Village Courts Act can be regarded as being comprehended within the term "appeal" occurring in S. 12 (2), Lim. Act.

Consequently, though S. 73 does not require an applicant to produce along with his petition a certified copy of the decree, yet S. 12 (2), Lim. Act is applicable. Section 12 (2) is applicable even to a case where appeal or application need not be accompanied by a copy of the decree objected to. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 589=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 540=53 L.W. 487=1941 M.W.N. 349=199 Ind. Cas. 651.

——S 12—Applicability and scope—Rules as to computation laid down in Part III, whether apply to other enactments.

The rules as to computation of period of limitation laid down in Part III of the Lim. Act, which rules accord with common sense, are not intended by the Legislature to apply only to periods of limitation prescribed by the Schedule but apply to periods of limitation provided for by other enactments. A.I.R. 1939 All. 403=(1939) A.L.J. 522=1939 A.W.R. 498=I.L.R. (1939) All. 647=183 Ind. Cas. 242.

——Ss. 12 and 29—Applicability and scope.

Section 12 has been made applicable to all special and local laws, by virtue of the amended S. 29. 15 P.L.T. 301=A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 353=151 Ind. Cas. 107.

——Ss. 12 and 29—Applicability and scope.

Sections 12 and 29, do not apply to an application for reference under S. 18 of the Land Acquisition Act. A.I.R. 1932 All. 598=54 A. 282=143 Ind. Cas. 111.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope.

Section 12, Lim. Act, does not apply to proceedings under S. 66 (3). (1931) A.L.J. 593=53 A. 634= A.I.R. 1931 All. 673=133 Ind. Cas. 621.

——S. 12—Applicability.

Section 12 does not apply in computing the periods of limitation prescribed for an application under S. 18 (1), Land Acquisition Act, 1894. 79 P.R. 1904, Foll. 104 Ind. Cas. 397=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 858.

——S. 12—Applicability.

Sections 12 and 14 are only applicable to suits in British India and not to proceedings in foreign Courts. 102 Ind. Cas. 523=8 Lah. 54=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 200.

——S 12—Applicability.

Section 12 (4) applies to an application to the Collector to refer a matter to the Court and the applicant is entitled to exclude the time requisite for obtaining the copy of the Collector's award. 96 Ind. Cas. 110 =5 Bur. L.J. 26=A.I.R. 1926 Rang. 135.

——S. 12—Applicability.

The provisions of S. 12 are applicable to the pauper appeals. 77 Ind. Cas. 908=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 684.

——S. 12—Applicability.

Where accused was convicted and sentenced to 4 years' rigorous imprisonment and fine:

Held, that the appeal from the sentence lies to the Special Judge and not the High Court. Since Act X of 1922, S. 12 of the Limitation Act has been made applicable to this act also. Time for obtaining copies may be excluded. 71 Ind. Cas. 217=16 M.L.W. 764=24 Cr.L.J. 89=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 95=43 M.L.J. 561.

——S. 12—Applicability.

Rule 2, Chap. 7 of the Patna High Court Rules, excludes the applicability of S 12 of the Limitation Act to appeals under Cl. 10 of the Letters Patent. 59 Ind. Cas. 179=2 P.L.T. 42=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 365.

——S. 12—Applicability—Prov. Insol. Act, S. 46—Appeal.

An appeal presentend under S. 46 Prov. Insol. Act falls under S. 12, Limitation Act. 10 A.L.J. 3=34 All. 496=16 Ind. Cas. 149.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope—Application to be before expiry of the period allowed.

To claim the deduction of the period of obtaining copies under S. 12 of Limitation Act from that allowed for the appeal, the application must be made before the expiry of the period allowed as the time requisite for obtaining copy counts from the date on which application is made. 32 C.L.J. 127=58 Ind. Cas. 408.

——S 12—Applicability — Period for obtaining copies.

S. 12 will not apply unless the application for obtaining copies is made before the expiry of the prescribed period. 61 P.L.R. 1911=189 P.W.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 381.

——S. 12 and S. 4—Applicability—Appeals under—Madras Forest Act (1882), S. 10.

Provisions of S. 12, Limitation Act as regards exclusion of time required for taking copies of orders, do not apply to appeals under S. 10, Mad. Forest Act, S. 12 must be read with S. 4 of the Act. 10 M. 210, overruled. 23 M. 389; 22 M. 179; Dist. The section does not apply if under certain Act copy of order appealed against, need not accompany the notice of appeal. 34 Mad. 505=7 M.L.T. 132=20 M.L.J. 283=5 Ind. Cas. 884.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope—Appeals under the Companies Act.

S. 12 does not apply to appeals under the Companies Act and therefore the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the order appealed against cannot be excluded from the period of limitation. 19 M.L.J. 511=4 Ind. Cas. 872.

——S. 12—Applicability—Letters Patent appeal—Time taken in getting copies.

Copies of the judgment need not be filed in an appeal under the Letters Patent from the decision of a single Judge of the High Court and the time taken in obtaining them cannot be deducted from the period of 30 days prescribed by the rules of the High Court for filing such appeal. Per Miller, C. J., S. 12 of the limitation Act is not limited to the class of cases in which it is necessary to file copies of any of the documents referred to in that section. (1920) P.H.C.C. 333=5 Pat. L.J. 709.

——S 12—Applicability—Decree drawn up—Time spent in obtaining copy of decree.

Where a formal decree has been drawn up in a miscellaneous execution case the time requisite for obtaining a copy of such a decree is to be deducted under S. 12. 17 All. 213; 14 Ind. Cas. 1006, Foll. 1 P.L.T. 33=(1920) P.H.C.C. 75=2 U.P.L.R. (Pat.) 26=54 Ind. Cas. 630.

——S. 12 (2)—Applicability and scope—Review—Copy of judgment, if necessary—Applicant obtaining copy—Time for obtaining copy—Whether can be excluded.

According to the practice of the Allahabad High Court, it is not necessary for an applicant to obtain a copy of the judgment for the purpose for making his application for review. But if the applicant obtains such copy under S. 12 (2), Lim. Act, time for obtaining the copy should be excluded for the purposes of limitation. (1933) A.L.J. 1631=A.I.R. 1934 All. 367=3 A.W.R. 48=56 A. 591=148 Ind. Cas. 290.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope—Review—Application for—Limitation.

S. 12 of the Limitation Act applies to an application for review and the period of limitation does not begin to run until at all events the day on which the decree was signed even though it is unnecessary to attach a copy of the decree to such application. 20 C.W.N. 967=24 C.L.J. 235=35 Ind. Cas. 348.

——S. 12 (2)—Applicability and scope—Review—Deduction of time spent in obtaining copies.

A petitioner for review is entitled under S. 12 of the Limitation Act to deduct the time taken in obtaining a copy of the judgment sought to be reviewed. 38 M.L.J. 224=(1920) M.W.N. 228=11 L.W. 217=55 Ind. Cas. 444.

——S. 12—Applicability and scope—Review—C. P. C., O. 47, R. 3.

Though no copy of judgment is required to be filed with the review application, the time spent in obtaining a copy of it must be excluded in computing the period of limitation. 17 A. 213, 24 C.L.J. 235 Rel. 42 Ind. Cas. 504 (Mad.)

——S. 12—Applicability and scope—Suit to set aside certificate of sale.

See : Bengal Acts—Public Demands Recovery Act. 11 C.W.N. 745=34 C. 787=But see 11 C.W.N. 756=5 C.L.J. 696.

2. Copies of other documents.

See also: Limitation Act, S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

——S. 12—Copies of other documents.

Deduction of period spent in obtaining copy of first Courts judgment may be allowed if appellant had applied for copy before limitation and filed it soon after obtaining it. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 378.

——S. 12—Copies of other documents—Time if can be allowed.

The words "time requisite" in S. 12, mean simply the time required by the appellant to obtain a copy of the decree assuming that he acted with reasonable promptitude and diligence. The time requisite for obtaining a copy is the shortest time during which a copy could have been obtained by the appellant and it has nothing to do with the amount of time spent by him in obtaining the copy which he chooses to file with the memorandum of appeal. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 682=38 P.L.R. 1054=17 L. 621=161 Ind. Cas. 72.

3. Copy obtained by another person.

——S. 12 (2)—Copy obtained by another person—Exclusion of time.

The appellant in an appeal preferred to the High Court applied within the prescribed period for a copy of the decree but allowed the application to be dismissed for non-payment of copying charges and subsequently filed the appeal with a copy of the decree obtained by another party, held, that the appellant was entitled to deduct the time for obtaining such copy. 12 M.L.J. 385, not Foll.; 29 A. 264, Foll. S. 12 does not lay down that the copy of the decree must have been obtained by the appellant himself. 43 Mad. 633=38 M.L.J. 340=11 L.W. 370=(1920) M.W.N. 246=56 Ind. Cas. 73.

——S. 12—Copy obtained by another person—Application for copy—Who should make.

It is not necessary that an application for copy should be made by the party himself. 23 Ind. Cas. 209 (Oudh).

——S. 12—Copy obtained by another person—Time taken for copies—No application by appellant—Minority.

Under S. 12 an appellant is entitled to a deduction of the time taken up in obtaining copies only if he had applied for the copy. He is not entitled to a deduction of the time taken by another party in obtaining the copies. Limitation runs against a person for appeal, though he is a minor. (1902) 12 M.L.J. 385.

4. Copy sent by post.

——S. 12—Copy sent by post.

Where copies are despatched by post the period intervening between completion and despatch of the copies is also excluded in the Punjab. 8 N.L.R. 11 and 10 N.L.R. 139 and 6 O.L.J. 660, Foll. 69 Ind. Cas. 818=3 Lah. 280=4 L.L.J. 500=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 219.

——S. 12—Copies sent by post—Time spent between completion and despatch—Central Provinces Courts Act (II of 1904), S. 8 (1) (c).

The period between the completion and despatch of copies of the decree and judgment by post must be included in computing the period of Limitation in cases where copies are applied for and sent by post. 8 N.L.R. 11=14 Ind. Cas. 403.

——S. 12—Copies sent by post.

The time requisite under S. 12 of the Limitation Act is the time from the date of the application to the date of posting the copies irrespective of the fact that the copies are ready for delivery before the latter date in a case where the applicant has asked for the copies to be sent to him by post. 6 O.L.J. 660=54 Ind. Cas. 831.

5. Copy of award.

——S. 12—Copy of award.

Period requisite for obtaining the copy of an award should be allowed in computing the period for filing objections to an award. A.I.R. 1933 Rang. 38=142 Ind. Cas. 835.

——S. 12 (4), Art. 158—Copy of award.

Under S. 12 (4), the period required for obtaining copy is to be excluded in computing the time allowed by Art. 158. A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 588=140 Ind. Cas. 11 (2).

——S. 12 and Art. 158—Award—Time requisite for obtaining copy of—Application to set aside award.

The period taken for obtaining a copy of the award must be excluded in computing the period of limitation for an application to set aside the award. 46 Cal. 721=23 C.W.N. 280=53 Ind. Cas. 46.

——S. 12 (4)—Award—Setting aside—Exclusion of time necessary to get copy.

In an application to set aside an award filed in Court, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the award may be taken into account under S. 12 (4) in calculating the period of limitation. 29 Ind. Cas. 860 (Mad.).

6. Copying agent.

——S. 12—Copying agent—If private agent of applicant.

A 'copying agent' in dealing with an application presented in accordance with the rules, does not act as a private agent for the applicant, but as an official of the Copying Department, which is entrusted with the duty of preparing and certifying copies. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 771=38 P.L.R. 493=17 L. 429=166 Ind. Cas. 467 (F.B.).

The Copying Department cannot be regarded as a private agent of the applicant. 37 P.L.R. 510=A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 120=158 Ind. Cas. 736.

——S. 12—Copying agent.

The copying agent does not remain the agent of the applicant but is the agent of the Court, when an applicant for a copy of judgment and decree complies with the rules framed by the High Court regarding the application for copies of records. A.I.R. 1035 Lah. 682=38 P.L.R. 1054=17 L. 621=161 Ind. Cas. 72.

——S. 12—Copying agent.

The copying agent could only be treated as an agent of the applicant and not that of the Court. A.I.R 1935 Lah. 625=160 Ind. Cas. 788.

——S. 12—Copying agent.

The Copying Agency cannot be regarded as other than an agent of the applicant and is not an agent of the Court. Time spent by the Copying Agency in getting the estimate and putting in the application should not be allowed to the applicant. 61 P.L.R. 1911, Foll. 104 Ind. Cas. 586=28 P.L.R. 605=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 16.

——S. 12—Copying agent.

Held, the copying agent must be taken as an agent of the appellant and delivey of the copies to him must be regarded as delivery to his principal. The appellant was entitled to a deduction of the time till the copies were delivered to the Copying agent. 55 Ind. Cas. 406 (Lah.).

7. Day of judgment or decree.

——S. 12—Day of judgment or decree—Defendant being absent, judgment informed to his Counsel at later date—Limitation for appeal, when starts.

After hearing the arguments of the parties, the Court did not fix any date for the pronouncement of judgment. The judgment was delivered on December 23, 1936, but the defendant being absent, the judgment was sent to the Counsel for the defendant on January 8, 1937, and he wrote down the word "noted" on the margin of the judgment:

Held, that January 8, 1937, must, therefore, be regarded as the date for pronouncing judgment of which due notice was given to the Counsel. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 707=182 Ind. Cas. 108.

——S. 12—Day of judgment or decree—Limitation for appeal.

Limitation for an appeal runs from the date of the judgment, but as the law requires the memorandum of appeal to be accompanied by a copy of the decree, an appellant is entitled to take into account under S. 12, the time taken for obtaining copy of the decree which would necessarily include the period between the date of the judgment and the date of the signing of the decree plus some time taken in the copying department of the Court. Where, therefore, the judgment itself stands, the starting point of limitation would be date of the judgment. Cases where a review of judgment is granted wholly or in part, and thereafter the original decree is amended in conformity with the final judgment passed after review stand on a different footing. The original judgment, in the eye of law, in that case is superseded by the judgment after review. Even where after the review is granted, the original judgment is not altered with the consequence that the original decree is not altered, the original judgment, in the eye of law, is gone and the only judgment is the judgment passed after review; which in that case is a mere repetition of the original judgement. In these cases there is a fresh decree. 40 C.W.N. 83=165 Ind. Cas. 53.

——S. 12—Day of judgment or decree.

Where, deducting the days for the copies, the appeal was within time, even from the date on which the judgment was ready but the date, however, was not communicated to the parties and the record showed that the order was not communicated to the appellants (through their Counsel), till a later date:

Held, that the period of limitation must be reckoned from the latter date in the circumstances. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 135=149 Ind. Cas. 1127.

——S. 12—Day of judgment or decree.

The date of decree means the date when the judgment is signed and not the date when the decree is signed. 94 Ind. Cas. 121 (Nag.).

——S. 12—Day of judgment or decree.

Where application for copies is made on the same day the judgment is pronounced, that day cannot be excluded twice, once as the day on which judgment was pronounced and the second time as one of the days requisite for obtaining copies. The day on which judgment is pronounced has to be excluded first and then the time requisite for obtaining copies has to be excluded. 75 Ind. Cas. 1055=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 599.

——S. 12—Day of judgment or decree.

For the purposes of limitation it is impossible to hold that the date of judgment should be any other than that upon which judgment is pronounced in Court, when the parties know the effect of that judgment, whether it would be necessary for them to appeal or not. 75 Ind. Cas. 879=1 Pat. 771=A. I. R. 1923 Pat. 129.

8. Decree later than judgment.

See also: Lim. Act, S. 12— Interval between Judgment and decree.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

The date of a decree for the purposes of the Limitation Act is the date of the judgment and time can be allowed as time requisite for obtaining copies if the applicant or appellant has actually made an application for a copy. The time requisite for obtaining the copy cannot stop to run until the decree is actually signed. 117 Ind. Cas. 251=7 Rang. 18=A.I,R. 1929 Rang. 116.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

The fact that a decree has not been drawn up is no sufficient reason for not applying for a copy of the decree. 118 Ind. Cas. 212=A.I.R. 1929 Sind 206.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

The period between date of the judgment and the date of signing the decree should be excluded in computing the period of limitation. 13 Cal. 104, Foll. 97 Ind. Cas. 539=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 65.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

An applicant cannot claim as a matter of right a deduction of the period between judgment and signing of the decree, when his application for a copy has not been filed until after the signing of the decree. A.I.R. 1026 Nag. 340, Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 1057=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 1 (F.B.).

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

Where a decree was signed the next day the judgment was pronounced, the time for filing an appeal runs from the day the judgment was pronounced. 97 Ind. Cas. 307=22 N L.R. 60=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 349.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

The period between the date of judgment and the preparation of decree cannot be excluded as time requisite for obtaining a copy. 89 Ind. Cas. 479= 12 O. L. J. 444=2 O.W.N. 420=A.I.R. 1925 Oudh 600.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

There is no provision requiring a party or his pleader to move the Court to draw up a decree and mere omission to ask the Court to do that which it is the duty of the Court to do on its own motion cannot affect his right to appeal. 38 Bom. 331, Foll. Nor is there any obligation on the parties even to apply for a copy of the decree until the Court drew it up. 78 Ind.Cas. 996=20 N.L.R. 131=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 271.

——S. 12—Decree later than judgment.

The period between the delivery of judgment and the preparation and signing of the decree would be excluded from the period of limitation prescribed for filing the appeal if the application for copy is made before the preparation of the decree. 75 Ind. Cas. 265 =1 Pat. L.R. Civ. 479=A.I.R. 1923 Pat. 529.

——S. 12—Decree later than Judgment.

Appellant may be entitled to exclusion of time from date of judgment or from date of copy application up to the date of the preparation of the decree, and may also be entitled to exclude the time taken by the copying department in preparing and delivering the copy, but he is not entitled to the exclusion of time between the date of preparation of the decree and the date of his application for copy of the decree. 69 Ind. Cas. 895=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 170.

——S. 12—Decree later than Judgment.

Time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree within the meaning of S. 12 does not begin until the actual application for a copy has been made; and if the appellant does not apply for copies until after the expiration of the period prescribed by the Limitation Act, provided copies were obtainable within that period, he is not entitled to deduct the time between the actual signing of the decree and the delivery of the judgment. 62 Ind. Cas. 649=2 P.L.T. 361=6 P.L.J. 350=1921 P.H.C.C. 177=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 175 (F.B.).

(1 P.L.J. 573 (F.B.) Overruled).

——S. 12—Decree later than Judgment—Delay by Court in preparation of decree should be included in the "time requisite for obtaining copy."

Where in a suit for accounts the Court gave judgment but the preliminary decree prepared in accordance therewith was not signed by the Judge until about one year and the appellant in the meanwhile applied for a copy of the decree but failing to receive it filed an appeal without such copy:

Held, that as there was an omission of the Court to sign the decree for a long time a liberal interpretation should be given to the words, "time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree" and that there is no substantial reason for excluding, from the time requisite for obtaining copy, any part of the time between the application for a copy and the preparation of the decree. 62 Ind. Cas. 537=15 S.L.R. 16=A.I.R. 1921 Sind 42.

——S. 12—Decree later than Judgment.

In appeal, limitation runs from the date on which the decree was actually signed and the same rule applies in an application for review of a judgment of the High Court. 20 C.W.N. 967=24 C.L.J. 235=35 Ind. Cas. 348.

——S 12 (2)—Decree later than Judgment—Copying fees paid before decree.

An application for a copy of judgment and decree was made on 2nd July 1910. The applicant obtained the copy of the judgment on the 8th July, but his deposit money for the copy of the decree was returned to him on the same date, the decree not being then signed by the Court. The decree was signed on 11th July and on 15th July an application for a copy of a decree was made, which copy was delivered to him on 20th July. He filed his appeal on 17th August. Held, that the appeal was in time, the appellant getting a deduction of the days between the delivery of judgment and signing of the decree. The application for a copy of the decree made on 2nd July ought to have been held pending on 11th July. 15 C. W. N. 787= 10 Ind. Cas. 542.

——S. 12(2)—C.P.C., O. 20, R. 7—Decree later than Judgment—Date of decree.

The 'date of decree' for calculating time for appeal is the date of the judgment but when the decree is drafted later owing to time being granted for extra Court fee, the time given must be excluded under S. 12 (2), Limitation Act. 25 Ind. Cas. 67 (Mad.).

——S. 12—Decree later than Judgment—Delay in signing.

The delay in signing a decree cannot entitle an appellant to His Majesty in Council, to deduct the period between the signing of the judgment and of the decree in computing the period of limitation except when the appellant has made an application prior to the signing of decree but if no application is made the non-signature has no effect. 1 P. L. T. 262=57 Ind. Cas. 312.

——S. 12—Decree later than Judgment.

The time which elapsed between the delivery of the judgment and the signing of the decree should be excluded from computing the period of limitation for the appeal. 20 C.W N. 1303, Rel. The period during which the Court was closed for the long vacation was time requisite for obtaining copies within S. 12 of the Limitation Act. 1 Pat. L. J. 573, Rel. 49 Ind. Cas. 664 (Pat.).

9. Delay in obtaining copies.

See also: Lim. Act, S. 12—Laches.

——S. 12(1)—Time requisite for obtaining copies—Application omitting to furnish particulars—Non-exercise of reasonable diligence by Copying Department—Delay due to—Whether may be excluded.

No time could be excluded as time requisite for obtaining copies if that time was lost on account of the mistake on the part of the applicant, but this cannot be said when with reasonable diligence on the part of the Copying Department which under the rules it is expected to exercise, that delay could have been avoided. In such cases final cause for the delay is non-exercise of reasonable diligence on the part of the Copying Department and for that reason therefore time wasted on that account should be excluded under S. 12 (1) of the Limitation Act. If the applicant omits to give in his application for copies the necessary particulars,. (e. g.), the case number and the date of disposal, the defect is one which could be discovered by the Copying Department immediately on presentation of the application and could be set right by bringing it to the notice of the applicant. If the defect is not discovered and brought to the notice of the applicant immediately, the days between the date of the presentation of the application and the date on which the defect is shown to the applicant at a later stage can be excluded as days requisite for obtaining copies. I.L.R. (1948) Nag. 167=A. I. R. 1948 Nag. 395=1947 N.L.J. 552.

——S. 12 (2) and (3)—Delay in obtaining copies—Duty of Court under S. 29 (g) of Stamp Act to direct proportion of stamp duty to be borne by each party in respect of partition decree—Court not doing so—Time taken in furnishing stamps and getting copy of decree can be excluded in computing limitation for filing an appeal.

S. 29 (g) of the Stamp Act makes it clear that it is the duty of the Court in respect of a decree for partition to direct the proportion of stamp to be borne by each party. Where the Court did not do so and in consequence a party had to postpone furnishing the full amount of the stamp paper required, there is no delay on the part of the party in furnishing the stamps and in computing limitation for filing an appeal against the decree the time taken in obtaining the copies of the decree and judgment must be excluded. I.L.R. (1948) Mad. 413=1947 M.W.N. 501=60 L. W. 502=A.I.R. 1948 Mad. 172=(1947) 2 M.L. J. 201.

The decree was signed on March 13, 1937, and the appeal was filed on April 26, 1937. Application was made for copies of the judgment and decree on March 18, 1937 and the plaintiff was notified about the requisite number of folios and stamps on the same date. Stamps and folios as required were supplied on March 19, 1937, and March 25, 1937, was the date fixed for delivery of the copies. On March 20, 1937, the copying department notified that further folios and stamps would be required. This fact was not notified directly to the plaintiff or his lawyer but was notified in the manner provided by R. 626 and R. 636 of the High Court Rules and Circular Order by making an entry in the prescribed register which was kept in the Court offices at a place convenient for public inspection. On March 25, 1937, the plaintiff came to know that further stamps and folios would be required. March 26 to March 29, were holidays. On March 30, the plaintiff supplied the additional stamps and folios and on March 31 the copies were delivered:

Held, that as the plaintiff was expressly told that the copies would be ready on March 25, 1937, there was no further duty on him or his lawyer to go to the Court on intervening days to ascertain from the register whether further stamps or folios were necessary. In circumstances like these, an entry in the register on an intervening date to the effect that more folios and stamps were required would not amount to a notice to the plaintiff. The Court, by its previous intimation to the plaintiff that the copies would be ready for delivery on March 25, 1937, relieved the plaintiff of the duty of making any further inquiry before March 25, hence, the whole period from March 18, 1937, to March 31, 1937, was requisite for obtaining copies. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 378=45 C.W.N. 498=74 C.L.J. 121 =I.L.R. (1941) Cal. 536=196 Ind. Cas. 193.

——S. 12 (2) — Delay in obtaining copies — Time during which copying is stopped for want of funds, whether should be excluded as time required for obtaining copy of decree when extra charges are paid without delay—Delay by Court in finding out that wrong number is given, whether also should be excluded.

Time during which copying is stopped for want of funds, at least where there is no absence of bona fides, and where there is no delay in supplying the extra charges when demanded, should not count but should be excluded as time required to get a copy of the decree. Time required means time properly required, and if time is wasted because of the appellant's own negligence, that time does not count. But if a wrong number is given and a Court takes three weeks to find out that wrong number is given, the error is the cause of the delay. The error causes such delay as it is due to it. If the office does not take up the application for a week, there would be a week's delay error or no error. Then, there being an error, the office is delayed. It is delayed until after communicating with the applicant, or where the applicant is ordered to appear, the correct information is given and that delay is due to the order. 1938 N.L.J. 159= A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 287=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 312=177 Ind. Cas. 538.

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies—Validity of application.

Application bearing necessary court-fee stamp addressed to proper officer is valid even if not accompanied by full cost of preparing and certifying copy. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 771=38 P.L.R. 493 =17 L. 429=166 Ind. Cas. 467 (F.B.).

——Ss. 12, 5—Delay in obtaining copies—Application for copy—Demand for payment—Payment made under impression that it was for copies of decree judgment decree not signed—Deposit not demanded for decree—Delay in filing appeal.

Judgment was pronounced on August 28, 1933, and on August 29, the appellant applied for copies of the judgment and the decree. No deposit, as required by the rules, was made with this application nor was the application returned to the applicant (as also required by the rules). On September 1, 1933, Rs. 7-12-0 were paid by the applicant. This sum was demanded from him and was, therefore, paid and he remained under the impression that his sum had been demanded for copies, both of the judgment and the decree, and when a copy of the judgment was furnished to him on September 1, 1933 he thereafter repeatedly made demands for a copy of the decree-sheet as well. He was told that the decree had not been signed and therefore no copy could be supplied. On September 19, 1933, annas 12 were deposited by him for the decree-sheet and, the decree having been signed on that date, a copy of the said decree was supplied to him, on the same day. During this period no sum was ever demanded from him as deposit for the decree-sheet. On October, 16, 1933, he filed the appeal:

Held, that the appellant was entitled to the time between August 29, 1933, and September 19, 1933, and the appeal was within time by reason of S. 12, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 670=38 P.L.R. 852=161 Ind. Cas. 215.

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies.

The appellant applied for copy of judgment and decree on the 4th January and went to the copying department on the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th but was told that the file had not come. On the 9th, a note demanding deposit of Rs. 10 for costs was written on the application. But this was not communicated to the appellant. He again called on the 16th and deposited Rs. 10 and got copy on the same day. When the application was made there was no practice of demanding deposit in advance and the appellant was also not asked for deposit:

Held, that appellant was entitled to an allowance of 12 days, (from 4th to 16th January) as time requisite for obtaining a copy of the Judgment. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 650=166 Ind. Cas. 716.

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies.

A litigant cannot be made to suffer for the laches and inaction of any department connected with the administration of justice and hence there is no reason why a party should loose his right of appeal for the dilatory methods of the copying department. The copying department is not the agent of the applicant for copies but of the particular department of the Government which is in charge of the Deputy Commissioner. 38 P.L.R. 220=A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 550=163 Ind.Cas. 223.

——S. 12 — Delay in obtaining copies — Time noted by department as having elapsed between application and completion of copy—Whether can be regarded as time requisite.

'Requisite time' within the meaning of S. 12 (2), means time properly required. When there has been no mistake of Counsel, no negligence nor inaction nor want of bona fides imputable to the applicant but the delay in giving a copy is due to the slipshod and negligent procedure of the Copying Department, the time which the department itself notes as having elapsed between the application and the completion of the copy is to be regarded as 'time requisite' and such period should be excluded in computing limitation for the appeal. 37 P.L.R. 510=A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 120=158 Ind. Cas. 736.

——S. 12—Delay due to negligence of party.

Under S. 12 (2), the time requisite for obtaining copy of decree has to be excluded. But the time requisite does not include the time which may have elapsed by reason of carelessness or negligence on the part of the parties in applying for a copy or in paying the amount of the costs thereof. The appellant must show that no part of the delay beyond the prescribed period was due to his default. A.I.R. 1936 Sind 53=29 S.L.R. 445=163 Ind. Cas. 30.

——S. 12—Delay due to non-preparation of decree-sheet.

Copies of the judgment and decree-sheet were applied for urgently on January 3, 1934, with an urgent fee of Rs. 2. From January 3 to 13, 1934, copies could not be given as the Court had not prepared the decree-sheet. On January 13, this had been done, and the Copying Department was able to prepare an estimate for the preparation of copies on that date. The estimated price was not paid till January 25, and copies were ready on January 30:

Held, that the appellant was entitled to the time from January 3 to 13, and from January 25 to 30. 37 P.L.R. 235=157 Ind. Cas. 181.

——S. 12—Party responsible for delay.

Any delay in obtaining a copy of the decree or order for which delay the appellant is responsible is not to be excluded in computing the time requisite for obtaining such a copy.

Where a draft decree was settled and passed but it could not be signed and filed due to the negligence of the appellant and failure to rectify an error on the application for amendment under the Courts' order:

Held, that the time occupied for completing the order for amendment was not time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree and that the delay thus caused could not be excluded in computing the period of limitation for the appeal. 61 C. 306=38 C.W.N. 702=A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 543=151 Ind. Cas. 809.

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies.

No period can be regarded as requisite under the Act which need not have elapsed if the appellant had taken reasonable and proper steps to obtain a copy of the decree or order. A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 352, Foll. 97 Ind. Cas. 728 (Cal.).

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies.

If the applicant does not appear and apply for the copy on the date on which, he is told, the copy of the decree would be ready, any further delay is due to his own default and that period cannot be considered to be time requisite for obtaining the copy unless there are some special reasons why the applicant could not obtain the copies on the day on which they were ready. A.I.R. 1930 Rang. 209.

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies.

Any failure in reasonable diligence which produces unnecessary delay owing to default of appellant to do things required by law to be done by him at some stage of obtaining copies will disentitle an appellant to claim the whole of the time actually occupied in obtaining the copy as the time unnecessarily occupied is not time "requisite" within S. 12. 103 Ind. Cas. 235=54 Cal. 481=45 C.L.J. 553=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 623.

——S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies—A delay caused by the error of the applicants in making the computation is not to be included in the time requisite for obtaining the copy.

The Judgment of the Trial Court was delivered on the 30th of May, 1925. On the 1st of June following the defendants made an application for copies of the judgment and the decree. On the 8th of July the application was returned to the defendants on the ground that the folios supplied were insufficient. The application thus returned was received by the defendants on the 15th of July. On the 17th of July the application reached back the office with the necessary folios:

Held, that the time requisite for obtaining a copy should be computed from the 17th of July and not from 1st June. A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 352, Foll. 101 Ind. Cas. 136=2 Luck. 447=4 O.W.N. 220=A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 129 (F.B.).

10. Interval between Judgment and decree.

See also: Lim. Act, S. 12—
Decree later than Judgment.

——S. 12—Applicability—Interval between Judgment and decree—Application for copy of decree not filed within period of limitation for appeal by reason of decree not being signed.

Under S. 12, Limitation Act, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree begins to run in favour of the proposed appellant from the date on which he applies for a copy. Where the appellant is prevented from filing an application for a copy within the period of limitation prescribed for the appeal by reason of the decree not being signed, he cannot rely upon S. 12 of the Limitation Act. He is not entitled to ask the Court to deduct the period between the signing of the judgment and the signing of the decree in computing the period of limitation for appeal. 85 C.L.J. 299.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree—Time requisite for obtaining copy—Time between date of judgment and signing of decree—Whether can be excluded.

The time taken from the date of the pronouncement of the judgment to the date of the signing of the decree, cannot be properly excluded as time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree under S. 12 of the Limitation Act. 12 A. 461, Foll. I.L.R. (1950) Assam 12=A.I.R. 1950 Assam 83.

——S. 12—Construction—Time for obtaining copies—Time between date of judgment and date of signing of decree—If to be excluded twice over.

Under S. 12, Limitation Act, the period between the pronouncement of judgment and the signing of the decree is properly and necessarily excluded both as part of the time required for obtaining a copy of the decree and also as part of the time required for obtaining a copy of the judgment. For all practical purposes therefore, time always begins to run from the date on which the the decree is actually signed. Once time has begun to run, it continues to run unless interrupted by an application being made. Where an application for a copy of decree and an application for a copy of the judgment are made consecutively and the two periods overlap, the common days can be excluded only once and cannot be excluded twice over. The same period cannot be deducted twice over. 26 Pat. 295=A.I.R. 1948 P. 260.

——S. 12—Reasonable time in applying for copies can be included in period requisite under S. 12—Each case is to be decided on its own facts.

Having regard to the fact that some time is bound to be taken up between the passing and the signing of the decree, if an applicant for leave to appeal to his Majesty in Council waits for a reasonable time in applying for copies, he would be entitled to include that time in the period requisite under S. 12. If, however, he waits for an unreasonable time in applying for copies, he will not be able to include that period within the requisite time. So that each case is to be decided on its own facts. (Interval of 26 days was held unreasonable). A.I.R. 1946 Bom. 437=48 Bom. L.R. 97=226 Ind. Cas. 95.

——S. 12—Interval between delivery of judgment and signing of decree can be excluded.

The Interval between the delivery of the judgment and the date of the signing of the decree can be excluded under S. 12 irrespective of the date of the application for copies of the judgment and decree. A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 10=49 Cal. W.N. 753=222 Ind. Cas. 475.

——Sub-S. 2 of S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree—Decision of case on May 18, 1939—Decree-sheet to be prepared on supply of stamp duty—Application by A on January 28, 1943 for preparation of decree-seeet on payment of stamp duty—Time between May 18, 1939 and January 28, 1943, held not requisite.

The case was decided on May 18, 1939 and the trial Court ordered that decree-sheet should be prepared if proper stamp duty was supplied by the parties on either on them within a week. No stamp duty was put in by either of the parties with the result that no decree was prepared. On May 26, 1939, A made an application for copies and it was returned to him on June 2, with the endorsement that no copy could be given because the decree had not been prepared and decree-sheet could not be prepared until stamp duty had been put in. Nothing further happened till January 28, 1943 when A applied to the trial Court saying that he was prepared to pay stamp duty and praying that a decree-sheet be prepared. The decree was prepared on February 21, and the appeal was instituted on March 13, 1944:

Held, that the time between the date of the judgment and the preparation of the decree-sheet could not be allowed to be deducted under S. 12 as the time which would not have elapsed if A had taken reasonable and proper steps to obtain a copy of the decree could not be regarded as requisite time within Sub-S. (2) of S. 12:

Held, also that A could not claim indulgence as he was negligent in complying with the orders of the Court.

Held, further that it was for A to put in entire stamp duty since it was he who wanted to have the decree quashed or modified on appeal and it was for him to enable the Court to prepare the decree. 47 P.L.R. 193=A.I.R. 1945 Lah. 233.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

Where the decree or order is to be drawn up without reference to the parties, the party appealing is entitled to the exclusion of the time between the date of judgment and the date on which the decree is signed. A.I.R. 1944 Oudh 154=1943 O.W.N. 408=1943 A.W.R. C. C. 127=19 Luck. 456=215 Ind. Cas. 272.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

In case an application for obtaining a copy of the decree has already been made, and a decree is signed later on, the period which thus elapses would be deemed to be the time requisite for the obtaining of the copy, because the signing of the decree is a matter which is not within the control of the applicant. By the mere act of applying for the copy, the applicant does whatever is within his power with due diligence and caution to obtain the benefit of S. 12, Lim. Act. But if he does not put in the application for a copy till after the decree has been signed, he cannot be, said to have exercised due diligence and caution, and in that case, the period which elapses between the date of the judgment and the date of the signing of the decree cannot be considered to be the time requisite for obtaining the copies. A.I.R. 1941 Pesh. 74=196 Ind. Cas. 654.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

The judgment was pronounced on June 1, and the decree was signed on June 15. On August 28, the appellant applied for a copy of the decree, and a copy was supplied to him on September 5. He filed his appeal on September 13:

Held, that though there was some delay in applying for the copy of the decree, the appeal was filed very shortly after the application for the copy; so that the actual delay in applying for the copy of the decree was not very material. The applicant was entitled to a reasonable time to apply for a copy. A party was entitled to some time to make up his mind whether a copy of the decree was required. If the time between the date when the decree was pronounced and the date when it was signed which was only 14 days were excluded, the appeal was within time and that was time which was requisite, that is to say, properly required for obtaining a copy of the decree. A.I.R. 140 Bom. 415 =42 Bom.L.R. 872=192 Ind. Cas. 275.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

There is nothing in S. 12 which says that time requisite is not so because an application for copy has not been made. In those cases where the decree of the trial Court must follow upon the judgment without the parties to the suit or proceeding being required to do anything for the purpose of the decree being drawn up, appellant is entitled to the exclusion, not only of that time which is spent between the date of his making an application for copy and the date on which the copy is ready for delivery but also to the time spent between the date of the judgment and the date of the signing of the decree, excepting when the portions of the said two periods overlap, in which case, that time should be excluded only once. 1940 O. W. N. 158=A.I.R. 1940 Oudh 173=1940 A.W.R. 80=15 Luck. 376=186 Ind. Cas. 136.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree —Application for copy of decree not made within 30 days.

An appellant is entitled to get the benefit of the period between the signing of the judgment and the signing of the decree even though he made no application for a copy of the decree within 30 days of the signing of the judgment. A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 711=43 C.W.N. 1139=186 Ind. Cas. 58.

——S 12—Interval between Judgment and decree —Time taken for preparing decree including assessment of cost, if can be excluded in computing limitation for execution.

The costs are allowed by the judgment itself and not by any subsequent order. The decree merely gives effect to the judgement. The law requires that the decree should be considered to be of the same date as the judgment, although some time would ordinarily be taken in the preparation of the decree. The period of limitation usually leaves sufficient margin for such preparation. The time taken for preparation of a decree including the assessment of cost cannot, therefore, be deducted in computing limitation for an application for execution. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 110=41 P.L.R. 105=I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 319=182 Ind. Cas. 871.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

In computing the period of limitation for an appeal, the period between the date of the delivery of the judgment and the date of the signing of the decree should be excluded, treating it as a time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree, as such time is not within the control of the appellant. Even where an application for the copy of the decree is not made within the period of limitation this exclusion can be claimed. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 135=5 B. R. 455=20 P.L.T. 316=180 Ind. Cas. 314.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

Judgment pronounced—Decree signed after an interval —Application for copies after the decree was signed—Claim to exclude period between the date of judgment and the date on which decree was signed—Cliam cannot be allowed. 1939 Rang. L.R. 686.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

Mofussil Court signing decree later than judgment—Party applying for copy within 30 days—Exclusion of time between date of judgment and date of signing decree in addition to period actually taken in obtaining the copy of the decree can be allowed. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 732=42 C.W.N. 72=176 Ind. Cas. 361.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

According to practice of the Calcutta Court, the interval between judgment and the signing of the decree should be excluded as part of the time requisite for obtaining the copies. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 732=42 C.W.N. 72=176 Ind. Cas. 361.

——S 12—Interval between Judgment and decree —Decree not drawn up within time—Limitation, when commences—Practice in Punjab deprecated.

There can be no legal obligation on a litigant to apply for a copy of the decree which is non-existent; the existence of a decree is a necessary condition precedent to the accrual of a right or obligation to apply for a copy. Where a decree is not drawn up within the period of limitation prescribed for preferring an appeal against the decree, the suit must be deemed to be pending up to the date on which the decree is actually drawn up, and limitation for preferring an appeal will commence to run only from that date.

[Practice prevalent in the Punjab, regarding obtaining of copies criticised and the necessity of framing simpler rules for this purpose, pointed out.] A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 976=168 Ind. Cas. 897.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

Where a judgment was delivered on December 6, but the decree was not signed until the 13th, and the copy of the decree was delivered to the appellant on the 15th:

Held, that the period between December 6, the date of delivery of the judgment and December 15, the date on which the copy of the decree was delivered to the appellant was not under the control of the appellant and should be excluded in computing the period of limitation. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 45=16 P.L.T. 849=2 B.R. 213=15 Pat. 284=160 Ind. Cas. 447 (F.B.)

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree —When can be excluded.

Section 12 does not apply to a case where it is not necessary for the applicant to file a copy of the decree with the grounds of appeal or the application. In such a case, the period between the delivery of the judgment and the signing of the decree cannot be excluded. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 341=158 Ind. Cas. 120.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree —Appeal—Limitation for—Beginning of limitation, if affected by date on which decree is actually signed.

As a decree must bear the same date as the judgment and since limitation begins to run from the date of the decree, the date from which the period of limitation begins to run is not affected by the date on which the decree is actually signed 11 O.W.N. 1359=A. I. R. 1935 Oudh 30=10 Luck. 250=152 Ind. Cas. 419.

——S. 12—Interval between Judgment and decree.

In the Central Provinces, the interval between the delivery of judgment and signature of decree could not be excluded from the period of limitation prescribed for an appeal unless the preparation of the copy was actually delayed. A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 125=29 N.L.R. 220=143 Ind. Cas. 745.

——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

Where the High Court insists also on a copy of the first Court's judgment being filed in appeal, time occupied in obtaining copy of such a judgment though it cannot be excluded under S. 12 should be allowed under S. 5. 115 Ind. Cas. 880=A.I.R. 1928 All. 416.

——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

Where the judgment passed on review by the trial Court does not give all facts of the case but is merely supplementary to the first judgment, inasmuch as it modifies a portion of the first it is necessary for the appellant to file copies of both the judgments as the two must be regarded as one judgment, and the appellant is entitled to deduct time spent in obtaining copies of the first judgment also and not only of the second. 112 Ind. Cas. 46=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 655.

——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

The High Court may allow the deduction of time spent in obtaining copy of the first Court's judgment where the appellant had applied for the same before expiry of the period for filing the appeal, though he is not entitled to the deduction as of right. 113 Ind. Cas. 498=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 717.

——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

There is no legal authority empowering the High Court in second appeal to interfere with the provisions of S. 12 and allow an extension of time for obtaining a copy of the order of the Court of first instance. ——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

Where an application under S. 476 of the Cr.P. Code was treated as a separate miscellaneous civil case, and given a separate number and was treated quite distinct from the civil suit which gave rise to it and when the Court passed its order according to the approved practice, a formal order was drawn up on the printed form provided for such formal order in miscellaneous cases, embodying the result of the judgment passed in the case:

Held, that time taken for obtaining a copy of the formal order should be deducted under the provisions of S. 12 of the Limitation Act. 1920 P.H.C.C. 75, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 417=47 All. 462=23 A.L.J. 297=26 Cr.L.J. 961=6 L.R.A.Cr. 109=A. I.R. 1925 All. 419.

——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

Technically under S. 12 the only deduction should be for the time occupied in obtaining the copies of the decree and judgment of the lower Appellate Court but where the rules of the High Court require that a certified copy of the judgment of the trial Court should also be filed with the appeal, the Court might in its discretion excuse the dealy caused in obtaining the copy of the judgment of the Court of first instance. 90 Ind. ——S. 12—Judgment other than appealed from.

Only the time requisite for obtaining the copy of the judgment on which the decree appealed against is founded should be excluded. The rule framed by the High Court making it necessary to file a copy of the First Court's judgment with the memorandum of appeal cannot operate to extend or alter the period of limitation provided by the Act. 40 All. 1, Foll. 68 Ind. ——S. 12 — Judgment other than the one appealed from—Second appeal—Time taken in obtaining copy of first court's judgment.

An appellant preferring a second appeal is entitled to deduct the time occupied in obtaining a copy of the Ist Court's judgment. 53 Ind. Cas. 137 (Lah).

12. Laches.

See also: Lim. Act, S. 12—Delay in obtaining copies.

——Ss. 12 and 5—Laches—Copies applied for after expiry of period for appeal.

An appellant who does not, within the period of limitation, apply for a copy of the order appealed from, and who was within that period taken no steps to procure the copy, can not be allowed after the period of limitation has run out, to claim exclusion of time requisite for procuring such a copy. The appeal could not be admitted under S. 5 of the Limitation Act as there was no sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within time. 23 C.W.N. 553=52 Ind. Cas. 582.

——S. 12—Laches—Period requisite—Meaning.

The period to be excluded under this section is the period requisite and not that actually spent in obtaining copies. An appellant is not therefore entitled to deduct the days during which the copies lie ready but undelivered in the office. 4 P.L.R. 1919=50 Ind. Cas. 760.

——S. 12 (2) (3)—Laches—Time spent in getting Vernacular decree copy—When to be excluded.

Where a decree of the first court is drawn up in English, an appellant is not entitled to the exclusion of the time he has to wait for getting a copy of the decree in vernacular which he filed with the memorandum of appeal, inasmuch as the practice was to file only an English copy of the decree in the Lower Appellate Court. 64 P.W.R. 1917=124 P.L.R. 1917=39 Ind. Cas. 617.

——S. 12—Laches—Application for a copy of the judgment mislaid in jail—Limitation for appeal.

Where in an appeal filed through the jail authorities it appeared that an application for a copy of the judgment of the Magistrate was made within the period of limitation but was somehow mislaid and a second application had to be sent after the limitation, Held, in the circumstances that the appeal must be treated as filed within time. 191 P.L.R. (1915)=3 P.R.Cr. 1915=16 Cr.L.J. 300=28 Ind. Cas. 524.

——S. 12—Laches—'Time requisite for obtaining a copy.'

An appellant required to appear on a certain day to ascertain if copy was ready, failing so to appear, is not entitled to count it, as 'time requisite.' 12 N.L.R. 66=34 Ind. Cas. 458.

——S. 12—Laches—Time requisite for obtaining copies—How reckoned.

The time requisite for obtaining copies is the time which an applicant takes to obtain copies using all due diligence either by himself or by an agent. The applicant must (1) present an application at the proper time and place, accompanied by the prescribed fee. (2) He must take delivery of the copies on the appointed day. If an applicant elects to work through an agent he does so at his risk because the time is the same for both the Principal and Agent. No discretionary extensions of the time for obtaining copies of judicial records are permissible. 10 N.L.R. 139=26 Ind. Cas. 819.

——S. 12—Laches—Copy of decree—Application for—Date fixed for attendance to obtain copy—Copy ready before time.

Under the general Rules and Circular Orders of the Calcutta High Court followed in Patna, the copying department notified on the counterfoil of the application for copies the date when the applicant was to attend the office for receiving copies. The copies were as a matter of fact made ready much earlier. Held, that the applicant was entitled to a deduction of time upto the date when he was required to attend the office for copies. The period of time spent in obtaining a copy can be enlarged if the delay has been caused not through his fault but by the negligence of the copying department. 1 Pat. L.T. 383=57 Ind. Cas. 266.

——S. 12—Laches.

Delay in supplying copy stamps not to be deducted. An applicant for copies should deposit the required number of folios and deposit stamps not later than the first day on which the office is open after that on which the number of folios and stamps is notified to him and if he neglects to do so, he is not entitled to deduct the intervening days between the notification and supply of the stamped folios. 49 Ind. Cas. 1000 (Pat.)

——S. 12—Laches.

An appellant is entitled to deduct the whole time spent in obtaining copies irrespective of the fact that he supplied less stamps and was called upon to furnish more but delay in furnishing folios after the number of such folios were notified will not entitle him to such indulgence. 1 Pat. L.J. 573=1 Pat. L.W. 35=(1917) P.H.C.C. 21=35 Ind. Cas. 868 (F. B.)

——S. 12—Laches—Delay in getting decree copy.

Where an application for a copy of the decree is refused on account of the decree not being ready, the delay in obtaining the copy will be excused, though copying charges have not been deposited. 6 S.L.R. 244=19 Ind. Cas. 671.

13. Leave to appeal to Federal Court.

——S. 12 (2)—Application for leave to appeal to Federal Court—No application made for copy of decree—Time spent in obtaining such copy—If can be deducted.

Under S. 12 (2) of the Limitation Act, an applicant for leave to appeal to the Federal Court who never made an application for a copy of the decree, is not entitled to deduct the days spent in obtaining the copy of the decree, even though he has obtained a copy of the decree. A.I.R. 1950 E.P. 195.

——S. 12 (2)—Application for leave to appeal to Federal Court—Time taken in obtaining copy of judgment—If can be excluded.

S. 12 (2), Limitation Act, is a specific provision which deals with applications for leave to appeal, and an applicant for leave to appeal to the Federal Court is not entitled to deduct any time expended on his obtaining a copy of the judgment. A.I.R. 1950 E.P. 195.

14. Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

——S. 12 (3) — Applicability — Application for leave to appeal to Privy Council.

S. 12 (3) of the Limitation Act is inapplicable to an application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council. Therefore, the time requisite for obtaining a capy of the judgment cannot be excluded in computing the period of limitation for such an application. A.I.R. 1950 Lah. 76=Pak. L.R. (1949) Lah. 884.

——S. 12—Application for leave to appeal to Privy Council—Time requisite for obtaining copy of judgment and decree can be excluded.

In the case of an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council the time taken in obtaining certified copies of the judgment and decree can be excluded. A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 10=49 Cal. W.N. 758=222 Ind. Cas. 475.

——S. 12 (2)—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Application for leave to appeal to Privy Council—Copy of judgment and decree applied for—Judgment supplied earlier but decree subsequently—Judgment contatining all information required:

Held, whole time spent in getting copy of decree should be excluded. A.I.R. 1935 All. 258=(1935) A.L.J. 291=1935 A.W.R. 138=57 A. 751=157 Ind. Cas. 170.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Section 12 (3) is to be read as enabling an applicant for leave to appeal, to exclude in computing the period of limitation for his application, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment on which it is founded. A party who seeks leave to appeal to the Privy Council is entitled in computing the period of limitation prescribed for such an application, to have the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree and a copy of the judgment on which it is founded excluded in computing for purposes of limitation, the period which has elapsed from the date of the judgment. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 247=1941 O.W.N. 352=1941 A.W.R.C.C. 106=16 Luck. 638=1932 Ind. Cas. 295.

——S. 12 (2) and (3)—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

In computing the period of limitation for an application for leave to appeal, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment cannot be excluded. 11 R.L. 651=41 P.L.R. 152=I.L.R. (1939), Lah. 156=A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 43=179 Ind. Cas. 912.

——S. 12—Application for leave to appeal to Privy Council—Time for obtaining copy of judgment.

Section 12, sub-s. (3), permits the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment to be excluded from the 90 days within which the application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council must be presented. A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 82=13 R. 762=161 Ind. Cas. 464.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Section 12, subs-s. (3), Lim. Act, does not apply to an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council but applies only to appeals.

Judgment in a case was pronounced on January 23, 1934 and and a decree was prepared later on. An application for copy of decree was filed on April 28, 1934, and the copy was ready for delivery on May 16, 1934. An application for leave to appeal was filed on July 21, 1934:

Held, that it would be barred by time unless the applicant could show good cause for extension of time under S. 5, Lim. Act. (1934) A.L.J. 1211=A.I.R. 1935 All. 99=4 A.W.R. 848=57 A. 455=152 Ind. Cas. 384.

——S. 12, Sch. 1, Arts. 179, 181—Income-tax Act (XI of 1922), S. 66 (a) (2)—Application for leave to appeal to Privy Council.

An application in an income-tax case for a certificate that the case is a fit one to be taken on appeal to His Majesty in Council is governed by Art. 179 of Sch. 1 of the Lim. Act rather than by Art. 181, and, therefore, time has to be computed for the purposes of limitation from the date of the judgment. Further, a party in such a case is entitled to the time required to obtain a copy of the judgment by virtue of the provisions of S. 12, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1932 Cal. 587=36 C.W.N. 127=59 C. 251=139 Ind. Cas. 236.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Sub-section (3), S. 12 does not apply to an application for leave to appeal but merely to appeals from decrees. The time requisite for obtaining copy of judgment can be excluded in addition to time for obtaining a copy of the decree only in cases where a decree is appealed from or sought to be reviewed. Therefore in an application for leave to appeal the law permits exclusion only of the time occupied in obtaining copy of the decree and the applicant is not permitted to deduct time required for obtaining copy of judgment. 118 Ind. Cas. 212=A.I.R. 1929 Sind 206.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

The time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree should be excluded in computing the time prescribed for presenting an application for leave to appeal to Privy Council. Such petition after 90 days is not barred if in support of exclusion of copying time, the copy of decree is filed by applicant. 105 Ind. Cas. 852=24 N.L.R. 97=10 N.L.J. 242=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 63.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Sub-Section (3) of S. 12 does not apply to a case of an application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council, and so such an applicant is not entitled to exclude the time for obtaining a copy of the judgment of the High Court. 92 Ind. Cas. 897=24 A.L.J. 349=A.I.R. 1926 All. 286.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment appealed against may be excluded in calculating limitation even in the case of an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council. 90 Ind. Cas. 601=48 Mad. 939=22 M.L.W. 330=1925 M.W.N. 288=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 1241=49 M.L.J. 418.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

Time taken in obtaining copy of judgment can be excluded in addition to the time taken for the copy of the decree only where decree is appealed from or is sought to be reviewed.

Therefore time taken in taking copy of judgment cannot be excluded in an application for leave to appeal to Privy Council. 78 Ind. Cas. 953=17 S.L.R. 306=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 60.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council—Time taken for obtaining copies of decree and judgment, can be excluded.

In computing the period of limitation under Art. 179 the applicant is entitled under S. 12, Cl. 2 to exclude the day on which the judgment complained of was pronounced and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree. Section 12, Sub-S. 2 is general in its terms and applied to all applications for leave to appeal including an application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council. Under Sub S. 3 of S. 12 the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment ought also to be deducted in cases of application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council. The provisions of Sub-S. 3 are meant to apply generally to cases covered by Sub-S. 2 and the reason seems to be this that if the appeal in question is from a decree then it is generally necessary that the judgment on which that decree is based should also be obtained. 66 Ind. Cas. 88=3 Pat. L.T. 289=1922 P.H.C.C. 193=1 Pat. 429=A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 255.

——S. 12, Sch. 1, Art. 179—Leave to appeal to Privy Council.

S. 12 of the Act applies to applications for leave to appeal to the Privy Council and hence time required for obtaining a copy of the decree is excluded. 38 All. 82=13 A.L.J. 1114=31 Ind. Cas. 906.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council—Computation of period.

In an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree is to be excluded. 42 Cal. 35=18 C.W.N. 1066=24 Ind. Cas. 273.

——S. 12 (2) and Art. 179—Leave to appeal to Privy Council—Time for obtaining copies of judgment and decree—Exclusion of.

The time spent in obtaining the copies of the judgment and decree of the High Court is to be excluded in computing the period of six months within which an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council must be presented. 39 Cal. 510=15 Ind. Cas. 497.

——Ss. 12 (2) and 5—Leave to appeal to Privy Council—Period occupied in obtaining copy of decree—Date of decree—Delay of applicant—Sufficient cause—Erroneous decision.

S. 12 of the Limitation Act, 1908 is applicable to application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council and allowance must be made for the period occupied in obtaining a copy of the decree. The applicant is only entitled to be excused for a delay for which he was not himself responsible. 12 A. 461 (F.B.) Rel. There is no rule in the High Court providing for the Judge's signing decrees to note the date on which they sign so that in fact there is no definite record from which the date when a decree signed can be accurately ascertained. An applicant for copies of a High Court's decree could not be allowed to say that he was prevented from filing the application in time by reason of the fact that the decree was not signed. He is not entitled to a deduction of the period which expired between the signing of the judgment and the signing of the decree. 13 C. 104 (F.B.), Dist. But as he was possibly misled by the Full Bench ruling in 13 C. 104 the High Court under S. 5 of the Limitation Act admitted the application. 39 Cal. 766=15 Ind. Cas. 59.

——S. 12—Leave to appeal to Privy Council—Separate appeals—Disposed of by one judgment—Separate petitions for leave.

Only time actually and necessarily required by the plaintiff in making active steps to obtain a copy of decree or judgment is excluded in computation. Separate appeals disposed of by one judgment require separate petitions for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council. 1 Pat. L.T. 262=57 Ind. Cas. 312.

15. Plea under.

——S. 12—Plea under.

A Court is not bound to go beyond the prima facie facts in matters of limitation and, to inquire how long the applicant took to obtain copies. There are many ways in which limitation, as fixed by definite period of time, may be extended but if the appropriate plea is not put forward, it is not the business of the Court to conduct an investigation in order to satisfy itself before acting that it has complied with all the provisions of the law. A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 588=140 Ind. Cas. 11 (2).

16. Time requisite.

(a) Computation.

——S. 12—Computation—Time spent in preparing copy outside the copying department—If can be excluded.

Where a copy of a judgment filed with an appeal was not prepared in the copying department of the Court which passed the order (though certified by the office of that Court as a true copy), the time spent for obtaining that copy cannot be excluded under the provisions of S. 12 of the Limitation Act. The time spent in the preparation of the copy anywhere cannot be treated as time requisite for the obtaining of the copy of the decree. 51 Cr.L J. 1310=1950 A.L. J. 794 =A.I.R. 1950 All. 486=4 A.I.Cr.D. 541.

——S. 12 —Computation of limitation for appeal— Rule as to—Exclusion of time taken in obtaining copy of decree, application for which was made after expiry of period of limitation

An appellant would be within time if his appeal is filed within the total amount of periods granted to him under S. 12 of the Limitation Act, namely the initial period of limitaiton plus the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment plus the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree. Where an application for a decree is made within the expiry of the initial period of limitation as extended by the time required for obtaining a copy of the judgment, the time taken for obtaining such a copy of the decree can be excluded. 1949 R.D 98.

——S. 12 (2)—Computation—Time requisite for obtaining copy—Date on which necessary funds were paid—Whether can be excluded.

In calculating the time requisite for obtaining a copy the applicant is entitled to exclude under S. 12 (2) of the Limitation Act the date on which he pays the necessary funds. 1944 N. L. J. 313, dissented from. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 323=230 Ind. Cas. 83=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 50=1947 N.L. J. 206.

——S. 12 — Computation — Review application, time taken by.

Time taken by an application for review of the judgment, which has been deligently prosecuted should be excluded in calculating the period of limitation for preferring an appeal from the second judgment. 49 C. W. N. 758=A. I. R. 1946 Cal. 10=222 Ind. Cas. 475.

——S. 12—Computation.

While computing the time requisite for obtaining copies the day on which the copies are applied for and the day on which they are delivered are both excluded. The law takes no account of the fraction of a day. But if the copying work is stopped for inadequate funds, the day on which the intimation about the deficiency is given to the applicant should be excluded, but the day on which funds are supplied cannot be excluded. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 725=1944 N.L.J. 313= A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 356.

——S. 12—Computation.

Under S. 12 (2), Lim. Act, in reckoning the time for presenting an appeal, the time required for obtaining a copy of the decree and judgment must be excluded even though, by the Rules of the Court, it is not necessary to obtain such copies. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 316=1942 A.W.R.C.C. 25 (1)=1942 O.W.N. 21= 1942 R. D. 73=18 Luck. 66=199 Ind. Cas. 712.

——S. 12 (2)—Computation—Application for copies made on same day on which judgment is pronounced.

Per Stone, C. J. and Niyogi, J., Clark, J., contra,—

There is nothing fundamentally unjust or unreasonable in excluding the same day twice. The day on which copies are applied for is a day requisite for obtaining copies.

Consequently, where an application for copies of judgment and decree is made on the day on which the judgment is pronounced, that day should be included in the days requisite for obtaining copies, though that day is otherwise excluded by law in computing the prescribed period of limitation for appeal. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 150=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 185=1939 N.L.J. 173= 182 Ind. Cas. 662 (D.B.).

(Overrules A.I.R. 1917 Nag. 196=40 Ind. Cas. 425).

——S. 12—Computation—Day on which copy is notified to be ready.

What is "time requisite," would depend upon what, in the circumstances, is reasonably requisite. Although the word "requisite" is a strong word and may be regarded as meaning something more than the word "required," the idea of reasonableness is inherent in the word: it means nothing more than "properly required". It, therefore, follows that it is consonant to reason that the day on which the copy is notified to be ready should be excluded. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 823 =(1938) 2 M.L. J. 283=48 L.W. 242=(1938) M.W.N. 847=182 Ind. Cas. 759.

——S. 12—Computation.

In computing the period of limitation for filing an appeal both the periods of time taken for obtaining the copies of judgment and of decree are to be excluded. (1937) 65 C.L J. 415.

——S. 12—Computation.

The plaintiff applied to have the decree drawn up on March 7, 1936, and the decree was finally filed on April 28, 1936. On May 18, 1936, when limitation was about to expire but had not expired the defendant applied for a copy of the decree. He obtained a copy on May 20, 1936, on which date he filed his memorandum of review:

Held, that as under the Rules the person against whom a decree or order is obtained cannot apply for drawing it up unless the other party fails to do so within four days from the date of the decree or order, the defendant was entitled to exclude the period from May 18 till May 20, as well as the period from March 4 to April 24, and he was just within the period of limitation. 41 C.W.N. 129=170 Ind. Cas. 653.

——S. 12—Computation.

The judgment of the first Court was dated May 30, 1933, and the vacation began on June 3, and ended on July 2. An appeal was put in on the first opening day, but it was not accompanied by copies of the judgment and of the decree, and it was accordingly returned for proper presentation by an order of the District Judge dated July 7, 1933. The copies were applied for on July 3, 1933, that is to say, they were applied for on the last day of limitation. The copies were ready on July 12, and delivery of them was taken on July 13. The appeal was presented again on that date and was admitted on July 17, 1933. There was a deficiency in the court-fee. This was ordered on July 17, 1933, to be made good within a week and the deficiency was made good within that time:

Held, that the appellant was clearly entitled, for the purpose of saving limitation, to the period from the 3rd to July 12, 1933, inclusive, and that as the appeal was presented again on July 13, 1933, it was within time. 1936 O. W. N. 967=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 26=12 Luck. 531=165 Ind. Cas. 269.

——S. 12—Computation—Period between date of application and date on which full costs are deposited.

Under the rules for the supply of copies, the time neeessary for ascertaining the costs of preparing a copy is time 'requisite' for obtaining the copy within the meaning of S. 12, and an applicant is entitled to exclude from the prescribed period of limitation the period between the date of presentation of the application and the date on or by which the full cost of preparing the required copy is deposited provided he deposits with reasonable diligence the aforesaid amount as and when required by the Copying Department and provided further that in the case of an application made by post, he remits Rs. 5 with the application. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 771=38 P.L R. 493=17 L. 429=166 Ind. Cas. 467 (F.B.).

— S. 12—Computation.

Under the note to R. 10 of Chap. XIII-A of the Lahore High Court District Office Manual, where the cost of the copy cannot be quickly ascertained, the procedure in Sub-Cls. (iv) and (v) should be followed. These provide for applications for copies by post and lay down that Rs. 5 must be paid with the application and any other sum paid in, if necessary, when the estimate is prepared. Where this is done, the whole period from date of application for copies with deposit for expense until the date on which copies are supplied should be held to have been requisite and excluded. (1936) 17 L. 574=38 P. L. R. 1050=167 Ind. Cas. 275 (1).

——S. 12—Computation—Time to be excluded under S. 12—Computation of.

In computing the time to be excluded under S 12 from a period of limitation, the 'time requisite for obtaining a copy' does not begin until an application for copy has been made. It, therefore after judgment, the decree remains unsigned, such interval is not to be excluded from the period of limitation, unless an application for copy having been made, the applicant is actually and necessarily delayed through the decree not having been signed. 11 O W.N. 1359=A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 30=10 Luck. 250=152 Ind. Cas. 419.

——S. 12—Computation.

When the requisite copying fees are not filed with the application for copies, the date of the application must be considered to be that on which the fees were filed. (1934) 35 P.L.R. 713.

——S. 12—Computation.

Judgment pronounced—Application by plaintiff for copy of judgment and decree—Order that decree was not drawn up in view of High Court Rules—Subsequent petition that no decree need be drawn up—Appeal by plaintiff;

Held, that the period between the date upon which a copy of the judgment was given to the plaintiff, and when he petitioned the Court to order the preparation of the decree was a period within the control of the plaintiff and therefore, could not be deducted for the purpose of determining the question of limitation. A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 266=13 Pat. 371=15 P.L.T. 649=149 Ind. Cas. 142.

——S. 12—Computation.

In computing the period of limitation for filing an appeal, it is impossible to exclude from the time requisite for copying the day on which the copy was finally finished and was ready for delivery. A. I. R. 1933 Nag. 362=147 Ind. Cas. 1113.

——S. 12 (2) — Computation — Period during which copy is stopped for want of funds.

An applicant, for obtaining copy from Court, is not bound in the very first instance, to deposit the whole of the advance required or obtaining copies. At the time of presenting his application for copies, he should make the deposit according to his own estimate. If this estimate is discovered by the Copying Department to be mistaken, it is their obvious duty to bring the mistake to the notice of the applicant and demand the deficit of the costs when he appears on the successive dates. Consequently, the period during which the copying is stopped for want of funds during the first period when he is told to appear after the date of the representation of the application for copies, or during the subsequent weekly periods to which delivery of copy may be postponed, must not be counted against an applicant if he attends on those dates but is not asked to pay further advance and this period must be counted as time requisite for obtaining copies within the meaning of S. 12 (2). A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 218=145 Ind. Cas. 742.

——S. 12—Computation.

The time which may be legitimately excluded from limitation under S. 12 is that between the date of the application for the copy of judgment and decree and the date on which it is despatched, whether by ordinary post or V. P. P., from the copying department. A.I.R. 1933 Peth. 22=142 Ind. Cas. 230.

——S. 12—Computation—Time requisite—Time before applying for copies, whether can be excluded.

In the case of an appeal from the Original Side, the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree or order within the meaning of S. 12, may begin to run before an application for a copy has been made.

The question whether S. 12 applies when the application for a copy is made after the expiry of 20 days from the date of the decree or order depends on the facts of each particular case.

An order was made on March 17, 1931. The respondents' attorneys filed a requisition for drawing up the order on March 18. On March 25, the appellants' Attorney filed a similar requisition but it was refused as a requisition had already been filed on behalf of the respondents. On April 30, the appellants' Attorney requested the Registrar to expedite the drawing up of the order. On May 6, he received the draft order for approval. It was returned on May 8, and the order was settled by the Registrar on May 20, and filed on June 1. Meanwhile, the appellant's Attorney had applied for copies on May 18;

Held, that in the circumstances of the case, the appellant was entitled to claim that the period prior to May 18 should be excluded under S. 12. 36 C.W.N. 459=A.I.R. 1932 Cal. 331=59 C. 1215=56 C.L.J. 537=137 Ind. Cas. 526 (F.B.).

——S. 12—Time requisite—Computation.

According to practice of Nagpur High Court in the case of an application for copy of the judgment and decree, time begins to run not from the date on which application compliance with which owing to wrong information given in it, is impossible is made but from the date on which correct information is supplied. S. A. No. 227 of 1928 of Nagpur, Misc. Judicial Case No. 25 of 1928 of Nagpur, Rel. on; 121 Ind. Cas. 647=26 N.L.R. 149=A.I.R. 1930 Nag. 129.

——S. 12—Computation.

Where an application for amendment of a decree is rejected, the period of limitation cannot be computed from the date on which the application for amendment of the decree was rejected. 113 Ind. Cas. 580=A.I.R. 1928 Pat. 265.

——S. 12—Computation.

Where an appeal of one district is heard by the District Judge of another District in his capacity as Additional Judge of the former district and application for copies of judgment and decree is filed in the former District Court and the appellants' deposit of fees is accepted there and an order made for supply of copies but the application is subsequently returned directing it to be presented in the latter Court and copies are obtained from there:

Held, that the time from the date of first application to the date of obtaining copies may be excluded. 94 Ind. Cas. 1055=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 455.

——S. 12—Computation.

The time to be allowed for copies should be calculated from the date of application up to the date when the copies were despatched. 92 Ind. Cas. 966=27 P.L.R. 18=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 223.

——S. 12—Computation.

The Court in calculating the time requisite for obtaining copies under S. 12, is to consider that the appellant has acted with due diligence, but by due diligence it should not be understood that a party should be ready and willing to pay any sums which are not legally leviable from him. 91 Ind. Cas. 406=A.I.R. 1926 Sind 114.

——S. 12—Computation.

Under S. 12 only the time from the date of making the application for copies up to the date on which the copies are ready for delivery can be excluded. The time between the latter date and the date of actual delivery cannot be excluded. The finding as to is one of fact. 73 Ind. Cas. 447=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 696.

——S. 12 — Computation — Time required for obtaining certificate includes time during which appeal from order refusing certificate was continued.

The judgment of the lower Appellate Court was pronounced on the 24th June, 1918, and the appeal to High Court was preferred on the 14th May, 1919. An application for certificate was presented on the 31st July, 1918, and though it was rejected on the following day, the appellant succeeded in obtaining from the Chief Court order remitting the question of the grant of certificate to the lower Appellate Court who upon re-consideration granted the certificate on the 7th May, 1919:

Held, in the circumstances the application for certificate must be deemed to have been pending during the period from 31st July, 1918 to 7th May, 1919, and this period should be excluded in computing the period prescribed for filing the appeal. 70 Ind. Cas. 299=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 11.

——S. 12—Computation.

From the day when copy is ready, to the day when it is despatched, the time is excluded. 72 Ind. Cas. 797=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 415.

——S. 12 (3)—Computation — Practice of Patna High Court—Connected appeals—One copy of the judgment filed—Time for obtaining copies.

According to the practice of the Patna High Court when several suits are disposed of by one judgment, only one copy of the judgment is required to be filed in appeal to the High Court. Under S. 12 (2) of the Limitation Act the time taken for obtaining a copy of the judgment will be deducted in computing the period of limitation for each of the several analogous appeals. 17 All. 213, Appl. Thus in the computation of the period of limitation in all such cases, the time required for obtaining the copies will be excluded although only one copy is filed. 1 Pat. L.T. 562=58 Ind. Cas. 991.

——S. 12—Computation of time.

'Time requisite' for obtaining a copy in S. 12 must be computed by the whole days and not by hours. Days must be reckoned from midnight to midnight and a part of a day is equal to a whole day. 5 L.B.R. 15=2 Ind. Cas. 359.

——S. 12 (2) — Computation of time—Decision, date of—Communication to parties.

The date of a decision for purpose of limitation is the date of its communication to the parties. 6 M. 139 and 12 M. 1, Foll. Where sufficient notice is given to parties of the day on which a decision would be announced and the decision is so announced on that day, that is the date of communication though the parties may not care to listen. But when the decision is published by sending copies thereof to the parties, the date of the receipt of the order is the date of communication. 34 Mad. 151=8 M.L.T. 310 =(1911) 1 M.W.N. 28=8 Ind. Cas. 398.

—— Ss. 12 and 5—Computation of time—Exclusion of one day twice over.

The appellant applying for copies on the day on which the judgment is delivered is not entitled to exclude that day twice over. 13 N.L.R. 89=40 Ind. Cas. 425.

——S. 12—Computation of time.

In computing the time required for obtaining copies for the purpose of appeal, an extra day cannot be allowed for the delivery of the copies in addition to the day they are ready for delivery. 10 S.L.R. 165 =38 Ind. Cas. 464.

——S. 12 (1)—Computation of time.

In a suit filed on 9th May, 1910 a Monday, on a promissory note dated 7th May 1907 held that limitation began to run from the expiration of the 7th Mav 1907 and expired, at 12 midnight on 7th May 1910 and hence the suit was barred by time. U.B.R. (1912) 1. 146=18 Ind. Cas. 574.

——S. 12—Computation of — Appeal—C.P C., S. 212—Determination of mesne profits before decree—Time to obtain copy.

Where the Court determines the amount of mesne profits before passing the final decree, the party dissatisfied with the decree is entitled to deduct in his favour the period required for obtaining the copy of the final decree for purposes of limitation of the appeal. (1904) 32 C. 175.

——S. 12—Computation of time—Appeal—Copies of judgment and decree, time for —See: Limitation Act, S. 5. 3 Bom. L.R. 244=25 B. 586.

16 (b). Holidays.

——S. 12—Time Requisite—Holidays.

Judgment delivered by trial Court on day when Civil Court closed for vacation—Party applying for copy of judgment and decree on first day when Courts reopened after vacation:

Held, that period of vacation can be excluded as time requisite for obtaining copies. 1941 A.W.R. 944=1941 O.W.R. 1223=17 Luck. 314=196 Ind. Cas. 689.

——S. 12—Holidays.

Limitation expiring on Sunday—Application for copies on Monday—Filing of appeal on next day on getting copies—Appeal, held within time—One day's delay, held excusable. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 46= 40 Bom. L.R. 1211=179 Ind. Cas. 645.

——S. 12—Time Requisite — Holidays—Judgment delivered on last working day—Limitation for filing appeal expiring during vacation —Application for copies of Judgment and decree not made on opening day but later on.

Where a judgment is delivered on the last working day before vacation, the period of limitation for filing appeal will not be extended if the application for copies of judgment and decree is not made on the opening day after the vacation but later on, if the period has already expired during the vacation. It is only in case the application for copy is made on the opening day that S. 12 (2), Lim. Act, can be applied. A.I.R. 1938 All. 106= (1937) A.L.J. 1279=1937 A.W.R. 1192=I.L.R. (1938) All. 209=174=Ind. Cas. 50.

——S. 12—Holidays.

Limitation for appeal expiring on Sunday—Next day public holiday—Appeal presented before limitation—Application for copies made next working day—Appellant, held entitled to deduct time required for obtaining copies. A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 288=40 Bom. L.R. 389=175 Ind. Cas. 508.

——S. 12—Holiday—Limitation for filing application for copy of decree expiring on holiday—Application on re-opening day—Whether within time.

In calculating the period of limitation for filing an appeal, time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment of the appeal and a copy of the decree-sheet must be excluded.

Even if it be assumed that the application for obtaining a copy of the decree does not strictly fall within the purview of S. 4, the general principle underlying this section, which has been reproduced in S. 10, General Clauses Act, must be given effect to, namely that where an act or proceeding is allowed to be done on a certain day, then if the Court or office is closed on that day, the act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court or office is opened. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 707=182 Ind. Cas. 108.

——S. 12—Holidays.

Appeal — Limitation expiring when Court is closed—Application for copies made on re-openirg day—Time required for copies can be deducted. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 317=40 P.L.R. 74=177 Ind. Cas. 672.

——S. 12—Holidays—Copy stopped for want of correct information—Supply of correct information on day immediatey following holiday.

Where the original advance is insufficient and the deficiency is supplied on a day immediately following a holiday, credit may be given for the period during which the deficiency could not be supplied. The same principle applies to supplying correct information. A.I.R. 1936 Nag. 289=I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 342=166 Ind.Cas. 965.

——S. 12—Holidays.

A decree was passed on August 23, 1935. The Court closed during the long vacation from August 27 to November 5, both days inclussive. During the vacation, however, the copying department of the Court remained open and this was known to the appellant's Advocate. On October 23, 1935, a memorandum of appeal was presented but it was not accompanied by a copy of the decree. Copy was applied for on November 6, and the appeal was filed with the copy on November 11. The appellant contended that it must be deemed that the appeal was duly presented on November 6, 1935, because he said that the appellant was entitled to deduct the period from November 6 until November 11, as being "the time requisite for obtaining a copy" of the decree under S. 12 (3), Lim. Act:

Held, that the appellant was not entitled to deduct these days as being time "requisite for obtaining a copy" of the decree in the circumstances as he might have applied for a copy of the decree during the four days preceeding the commencement of the vacation or at any time during the vacation, but that he failed to do so and that he was not entitled to deduct the period from November

6 to November 11, as being "time requisite for obtaining a copy" of the decree. 14 R. 276=A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 201=162 Ind. Cas. 853.

——S. 12—Holidays—Rangoon High Court Rules and Orders, Appellate Side, Chap. 1, Part III, Chap. I(A)Cl. 5—Appeal from original side—Time requisite for obtaining copies of Judgment and decree —Vacation period.

The judgment at the trial on the Original Side was delivered on July 25, 1933, in favour of the respondents: the 20 days within which the memorandum of appeal normally ought to have been filed expired on August 14, 1933. An application for a copy of the judgment, however, was made on August 3, 1933, and the copy of the judgment was ready for delivery on August 10. An application for a copy of the decree was made on August 5, and the copy of the decree was ready for delivery on August 23; the long vacation of the High Court commenced on September 2, the memorandum of appeal was filed on September 6, 1933:

Held, that the appeal was in time under the provisions of S. 12, Lim. Act, and of Rules and Orders of the High Court Appellate Side. 12 R. 525= A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 65=154 Ind. Cas. 852 (F.B.).

——S. 12—Holidays.

A certain judgment was delivered on September 28, 1932. The Civil Courts were closed from September 29 to November 1, 1932, on account of the annual vacation. The appellant applied for copies on November 19, and received the copies on November 29. Appeal was filed on February 8, 1933, the appellant excluding the period during which the courts were closed:

Held, that the appellant was entitled to exclude the period contended for and that the appeal filed on February 8, 1933, was in time. A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 4 =146 Ind. Cas. 931.

——S. 12—Holiday.

Application for copy — Holiday immediately following the day of notification of requisite number of stamps and folios:

Held, holidays must always be excluded in computing the period of limitation for appeal. This exclusion is not resricted to the cases where the stamps and folios are supplied on the re-opening day. A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 731=35 C.W.N. 451=58 C. 969=134 Ind. Cas. 895.

——S. 12 (4), Sch. I, Art. 155—Holidays—Court closed on expiry of peroid of Limitation—Copy applied for on re-opening day—Limitation—Right to exclude time taken for copies.

A judgment was pronounced on September 27, 1929, and a copy of the decree was applied for an November 8, 1929; the decree, however, was signed on November 9, 1929, and the copy was ready on the same day, that is, November 9, 1929. The copy of the judgment was applied for on January 2, 1930; it was ready on January 6, and the appeal was filed on January 7. The period of limitation was 90 days from the date of the decree which expired on December 26, 1929. The Court was, however, closed on that date and re-opened only on January 2;

Held, that the appellant was entitled to 96 days as the Court re-opened only on January 2 and he was entitled to exclude from this the seven days taken for obtaining copies and the appeal was consequently not barred. A.I.R. 1931 Pat. 60=14 P.L.T. 91=130 Ind. Cas. 265 (1).

——S. 12—Holidays.

Provided copies of judgment and decree have not been obtained previously, if the period prescribed for the presentation of an appeal expires on a day on which the Court is closed, and if the appellant has not obtained copies of the decree and judgment before the closing of the Court and applies for such copies on the date of the re-opening of the Court, whilst his right of appeal is still alive he is entitled to the benefit of the time requisite for obtaining the copies, and if his appeal be presented before expiry of that time it is not barred by limitation. 19 All. 342, Foll.; 120 Ind. Cas 169=11 Lah. 111=31 P.L.R. 356=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 216.

——S. 12—Holidays.

The order rejecting the plaint was made on 4th October, 1926. The Courts closed for annual vacation on 5th October, 1926, and re-opened on 8th November, 1926. The plaintiff applied for a copy of the order on 23rd November, 1926, and the copy was furnished on the same day. The appeal was filed on the 1st December, 1926, Held, that under the circumstances the period of vacation can be excluded and the appeal was not barred by limitation. 120 Ind. Cas. 765=10 P.L.T. 545=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 615.

——S. 12—Holidays.

Where the time for filing an appeal expires during vacation and the appellant applies for copies on the day the Court re-opens, an appeal filed on the day next after the issuing of the copies is within time. 19 All. 342 and 25 Bom. 584, Foll. 115 Ind. Cas. 667= 6 Rang. 743=A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 96.

——S. 12—Holidays—Copies can be applied for when the right of appeal still subsists.

Time for filing an appeal expired during the vacation. The appellant applied for the copies of judgment and decree after the prescribed period but while the right of appeal was subsisting (before the Court was opened) and obtained the copies two days after the Courts opened. The appeal was filed on the next day of obtaining the copies.

Held, that copies can be applied for at any time when the right of appeal still subsists even though the application is made after the expiry of the period prescribed. The appeal was, therefore, in time. 112 Ind. Cas. 670=10 L.L. J. 257=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 655.

——S. 12—Holidays.

If on the date when the copies of judgment or decree were applied for, the limitation for filing the appeal had not expired in consequence of holidays then the appellant is entitled to file the appeal on the day when he obtained copies. 19 All. 342, Foll.; 89 Ind. Cas. 956=6 L.R.A. Civ. 589=A.I.R. 1926 All. 111.

——S. 12—Holidays.

Copying agent, who receives his salary from the Government, is not the agent of the litigant for the purpose of receiving applications for grant of copies. If the period prescribed for the presentation of an appeal expires on a date on which the Court is closed, and if the appellant has not obtained copies of the decrees and judgment before closing the Court, and applies for such copies on the date of re-opening of of the Court whilst his right of appeal is still subsisting, he is entitled to the benefit of time requisite for obtaining copies, and if his appeal be presented before the expiry of that time, it is not barred by limitation. 19 All. 342, Foll. 89 Ind. Cas. 437=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 121.

——S. 12—Holidays.

The general rule is that the time requisite for obtaining a copy does not begin until an application for copies has been made. 12 All. 461, Ref. to.

But the case, where the judgment is not delivered until the last day before vacation and the application is made on the first day, when the Courts re-open it is an exception to that rule and it is reasonable to include vacation as part of the time requisite for obtaining copy. 68 Ind. Cas. 250=25 O. C. 71=9 O.L. J. 436=A.I.R. 1922 Oudh 39.

——S. 12—Holidays.

It is no doubt correct that an application for copies may be made so long as the right of appeal was subsisting but there is no warrant for the proposition that, not only the period following the application for copies but all the prior holidays can be excluded. 28 Mad. 452; (1911) 1 M.W.N. 264; 43 Mad. 640; 12 L.W. 460; 36 Mad. 131; 36 Mad. 482 and 36 Bom. 268, Appr. and Foll.; 63 Ind. ——S. 12—Holidays.

Holidays should be taken into consideration in computing the time where judgment was pronounced sufficiently early on the last day preceding the vacation. 63 Ind. Cas. 922=12 M.L.W. 460.

——S. 12 (2)—Holidays.

The time from the date of the application till the re-opening of the courts should be taken as the time requisite for obtaining copy of judgment though the notice of readiness was posted on the board during the vacation as the applicant was not bound to take cognizance of the notice. 34 All. 41=8 A.L. J. 1095=12 Ind. Cas. 183.

——S. 12—Holidays—Closing of Court immediately after date of signing of decree—Exclusion of time.

Where immediately after the signing of a decree, the court is closed, the period during which it is so closed ought to be excluded in computing the period of limitation. 13 C.L. J. 544=11 Ind. Cas. 387.

——S. 12—Holidays—Closing of Courts after pronouncing of Judgment—Application on the re-opening day.

Judgment was pronounced and the court closed the next day. An application for copy was made on the re-opening day and an appeal was duly filed. Held, that the appeal was in time as the days on which the court was closed do not count against the appellant. The intervention of holidays between the date of judgment and the application for copies (made on the re-opening day) entitles the appellant to deduct such holidays. 7 Cr.L.R. 235.

——S. 12—Holiday.

An applicant should pay in advance a sum sufficient for the preparation of the copy. If the applicant is informed that the advance is insufficient and supplies the deficiency on the day immediately following a holiday, he may be given credit for the holidays during which he could not supply the deficiency. But where he supplies the deficiency not on the day immediately succeeding the holidays but on a subsequent day he is not entitled to this privilege. 61 Ind. Cas. 889=A.I.R. 1921 Nag. 141.

——S. 12—Holidays — Application for Judgment after re-opening day—Vacation time.

"Time requisite" means 'time reasonably requisite.' Where the judgment was delivered on the first day of the Christmas vacation and the appellant applied for copies on 7th January, i. e., some days after the re-opening. Held, that the time for appeal began to run from the first day of the Christmas vacation and that the appellaat was not entitled to add the days during which the Court was closed for Christmas as part of the time requisite for obtaining copies. 43 Mad. 644=38 M.L. J. 465=11 L.W. 483=(1920) M.W.N. 293=56 Ind. Cas. 67.

——S. 12 (2) and (3)—Holidays—Long vacation—Notification that copies will be supplied—Vacation, if can be excluded.

The publication of a notification that copies will be granted during the long vacation prevents the vacation from being excluded as the period for granting a copy of the judgment or decree. On the other hand, the whole period of the vacation must be reckoned in computing the period. 36 M.L. J. 122=(1918)M.W.N. 886=9 L.W. 8=25 M.L.T. 245=50 Ind. Cas. 518.

Where a party applied for copies before the long vacation of the Court and in accordance with a Gazetted notification the copies were ready during the vacation but the copies were taken delivery of only on the re-opening day of the Court after the vacation he is not entitled to deduct the time between the date when the copies were ready and the re-opening date. 5 Mad. 189, Foll. 36 M.L. J. 62=49 Ind. Cas. 626.

——S. 12—Holidays—Intervention of Sunday.

Sundays intervening after the calling for the stamps and the date the copies being announced as ready must be included in the time requisite for obtaining copies and should be deducted in calculating the time for appeal. 14 M.L.T. 194=25 M.L. J. 354=(1913) M.W.N. 805=21 Ind. Cas. 192.

——S. 12—Holidays—Judgment delivered during vacation—Application made long after re-opening—Deduction if can be allowed.

Where judgment in a case was delivered during the summer vacation of a Court but application for copies of the decree and judgment was made 17 days after the re-opening of the Court the time during which the Court was closed cannnot be deducted in computing limitation for an appeal as such an application was not made at the first available opportunity. (1911) 1 M.W.N. 364=11 Ind. Cas. 339.

——S. 12 (2)—Holidays—Court closing the next day after judgment.

Where the decree was signed on the day when the judgment was delivered and the Court closed for a month from the next day except for copying purposes and the party applied for copies on the re-opening date and filed the appeal the next day after grant of copies to him, held, that the appeal was in time. (28 M. 452, Dist.). 11 N.L.R. 104=29 Ind. Cas. 833.

——S. 12—Holidays—Tender of copying fees on—Validity of.

Where a copy application is made through post, the time occupied by the Post Office in conveying the application and fees to the copying office and in carrying back the copies to the applicant is outside the computation under S. 12 of the Act. A tender of copying fees transmitted by money-order and reaching the office on a holiday, is not a tender at the proper time. 10 N.L.R. 139=26 Ind. Cas. 819.

——S. 12—Holidays—Copies applied by post reaching office only after vacation.

A decree was passed on 12th May 1911 and on 15th May the deft. applied by post for a copy of the judgment and decree. The application did not reach the office before the vacation and so it was treated as received on 16th June after the Courts re-opened. The copy was ready on the 3rd July; the deft. took it personally on 4th. On the same day he preferred an appeal against it. Held, that the appeal was not barred and that the 3rd and 4th of July should be included in the time requisite for obtaining copies. 8 N.L.R. 172=17 Ind. Cas. 624.

——S. 12—Holidays—"Time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree"—If continuous.

Time requisite for obtaining a copy need not be continuous; hence vacation is part of such time. 20 C.W.N. 1303=1 Pat. L.J. 485=1 Pat. L. W. 209=35 Ind. Cas. 888.

——S. 12—Holiday—'Time requisite for obtaining copies.'

Where the lower court was closed for the recess but the appellant had prior to such closing some 80 days to apply for copies and failed for no reasonable cause to do so and applied for copies after the appeal time was over on the first day of the re-opening of the lower court after the midsummer recess, and the second appeal was filed on the first day of the re-opening of the lower court, the time during which the lower court was closed could not be excluded under S. of as the time requisite for obtaining copies. (1905) 15 M.L.J. 109=28 M. 452.

——S. 12—Holidays—Time required to obtain copies of judgment and decree.

A decree was issued on the 11th September 1903, and prepared on the 8th September; application for copy of decree was made on the 12th September, with four folios; the applicant was asked on the 23rd September, to supply the deficient court fees when the court was closed for the Dusserah vacation; the comparing clerk refused to receive the folios on the 23rd and directed the applicant to file them on the re-opening day, i.e., the 26th October. The appeal was filed without the copies on the 26th; the deficient court fees were supplied on the 26th; the copies were received on the 27th and filed on the 31st October.

Held, that the appeal was not barred. (1903) 8 C.W.N. 141.

——S. 12—Holidays—Time requisite for obtaining copies—Judgment pronounced by Court after 4 p. m.—Court closed for Christmas—Application for copy on the first day of re-opening—Computation of time.

Where judgment was pronounced in a suit at 4 p. m., on the last day the court sat before the Christmas holidays, and according to the practice of the court no papers would be received after 4 p. m. and application was made for a copy of the judgment on the day the court re-opened for the first time after Christmas:

Held, that an appeal presented within 90 days after deducting the Christmas holidays when no application could have been presented was in time and that the appellant was entitled to a reduction of such time under the circumstances as being time requisite for obtaining copies of the judgment. (1903) 13 M.L.J. 300 =27 M. 21.

——S. 12—Holidays—Appeal barred during holidays—Copies obtained after re-opening—Deduction of time.—See Limitation Act, Ss. 5, 12. 3 Bom. L.R. 143=25 B. 584.

16 (c). Scope and interpretation.

——S. 12—Time requisite—Reference to copy accompanying appeal and not any other copy.

The time requisite for the preparation of a copy is to be with respect to the time required for preparation of the copy which accompanied the appeal and not for the preparation of any other copy. I.L.R. 57 Mad. 560, Foll. 51 Cr.L.J. 1310=1950 A.L.J. 794=A.I.R. 1950 All. 486=4 A.I.Cr.D. 541.

——S. 12 (2) and 3—Scope and interpretation—Construction—Time 'requisite'—Meaning of—Time for obtaining copy of decree and time for obtaining copy of judgment—If can be deducted twice over in case of overlapping.

The term "requisite" in the expression time requisite in S. 12 (2) and (3) of the Limitation Act, means something much more than required. The proper connotation of that expression is that the time indicated in sub-sections (2) and (3) of S. 12 must be properly required before it could be excluded. The right given to an appellant to exclude the two periods is no doubt absolute; but in order that the appellant should get the time excluded which falls under sub-Ss. (2) and (3), the time taken for obtaining a copy of the decree and the time taken for obtaining a copy of the judgment must be distinct. If the time taken for obtaining a copy of the decree and the time required for obtaining a copy of the judgment is identical, then the sub-sections do not provide that the time should be computed over again, although the time is overlapping.

The expression "shall also be excluded" in S. 12 (3) cannot be read as indicating that the two periods covered by sub-Ss. (2) and (3) should be excluded even though they may be overlapping. "Also" in Cl. (3) only means that an additional right is given to the appellant to exclude the period for obtaining a copy of the judgment. But if such time has already been excluded as falling under Cl. (2) then that period is not to be computed over again for the purpose of Cl. (3).

The judgment under appeal was pronounced on 29—9—1948. Copies of the judgment and the decree were applied for on 11—10—1948. Copies of the judgment were furnished on 21—10—1948. The decree was signed on 22—10—1948, and a copy thereof was furnished on 26—10—1948. The appeal was preferred to the High Court on 27—1—1949.

Held, that though the decree was not signed till 22—10—1948, and therefore no copy of the decree could have been supplied, once the time was excluded because the decree was not signed till 22—10—1948, the same period could not be excluded over again because the appellant had applied for a certified copy of the judgment or he had applied for a certified copy of the decree and the only exclusion to which the appellant would be entitled was from 29—9—1948, when judgment was pronounced and 26—10—1948, when the copy of the decree was furnished, and on that basis the appeal should have been properly preferred on 24—1—1949, and the appeal preferred beyond that time was out of time.

Held, further, that since the delay was only of three days, the same should be condoned for "sufficient cause". A.I.R. 1950 Bom. 350=52 Bom. L.R. 405.

——S. 12 (2)—"Time requisite" — Scope and interpretation—If includes time taken in preparation of decree-sheet.

Under S. 12 (2), Limitation Act, no period can be regarded as time requisite which is not subsequent to the presentation of an application for a copy. Therefore the time spent in the preparation of the decree-sheet cannot be excluded under the section. A.I.R. 1950 E.P. 195.

——S. 12 (2)—Scope—Appellant applying for copy of decree after limitation—If entitled to extension of time.

In order to secure under S. 12 (2), Limitation Act the benefit of the time that elapsed until the date when the decree is signed, it is not necessary for an appellant to apply for a copy of the decree before the expiry of the period of limitation for the appeal if the application is made even a day before the decree is signed. I. L. R. (1947) Kar. 76=A.I.R. 1948 Sind 18.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

Section 12 assumes that time requisite for obtaining copy of decree must begin before prescribed period is over—Section 4, pre-supposes that prescribed period has expired and cannot extend period prescribed under Act—Application for copy of decree made under S. 4 on date on which Court re-opened:

Held, that extension granted under S. 4 cannot be combined with extenion sought under S 12. 1942 M.W.N. 503=A.I.R. 1042 Mad. 604=(1942) 2. M.L. J. 104=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 868=55 L.W. 426=203 Ind. Cas. 5.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation—What is not—Time to obtain copies.

The application for copies filed on August 10, 1932, in terms only asked for "a copy of the order" and it was not until September 3, 1932 that a memorandum was filed asking that a decree might be drafted and a copy of it might be granted:

Held, that the earlier application dated August 10, 1932, was not an application for a copy of the decree and that there was no ground for excusing the delay in filing memorandum asking copy of the decree. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 203=49 M.L.W. 147=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 120=(1939) M.W.N. 443=189 Ind. Cas. 320.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation—Whether can be excluded when application for copy of decree is not made till after expiry of time for appeal.

There is no justification in the language of S. 12 to impose a restriction upon the statutory right of an appellant not warranted by the Act and in computing the time for appealing from a decree, it is legitimate in a proper case to exclude the period requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree when no application for such copy was made till after the expiration of the time limited for appeal. Consequently, a rule providing that no time shall be allowed for obtaining a copy of the decree unless such copy be applied for within 20 days from the date of the decree would be ultra vires. 39 Bom. L R. 32=A.I.R. 1937 Bom. 162=I.L.R.(1937) Bom. 443=168 Ind. Cas. 77 (F.B.)

——Ss. 12 (2), 5—Scope and interpretation—"Time requisite", meaning of.

"The time requisite" does not mean the time actually taken in obtaining a copy of the decree, but means the time properly required for such purpose, and does not include time taken unreasonably by the appellant. In applying S. 12 (2), the Court has to consider whether the appellant has exercised reasonable and proper diligence in obtaining a copy of the order.

Judgment on July 31—Draft order sent on August 2, to appellant for approval—Application to Prothonotary for settling order on August 16—Appellant doing nothing between August 2 and 16—Copy issued on September 10—Appeal on September 28:

Held, that the delay, under S. 12 (2) was reasonable, which, according to the practice of the Bombay High-Court, was excusable under S. 5, though, in future, it would not be excused. A.I.R. 1937 Bom. 64=38 Bom. L.R. 1281=I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 421=167 Ind. Cas. 664.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

In order to enable the appellant to deduct the period required for obtaining necessary copies, a proper application for copies must be made within the period of limitation, and not after the appeal had alredy become time-barred. In the Punjab it is laid down by the rules governing the grant of copies in the year 1933 that every application for copy of a record, other than an application made by post shall be accompanied by a deposit in cash of a sum which shall not be less than the cost of preparing and certifying such copy. An application not accompanied by such deposit is not a proper application which can save limitation. 39 P.L.R. 374=167 Ind. Cas. 250.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

An application for certified copy of the judgment was properly made to the District Copying Agent but no payment accompanied, although a fixed sum should have ordinarily accompanied the application for copies. No demand for the deposit was made and the application was accepted as valid. The preparation of copies was not held up, for want of deposit and the full copying fee was paid on date of delivery of the copy:

Held, that the applicant, was entitled to deduct the full time spent in obtaining copies, no fee having been demanded from him at the time of the presentation of his application although the rules require that an application should be returned when it is not accompanied by a deposit. A I.R. 1936 Lah. 123=37 P. L. R. 792=161 Ind. Cas. 243.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation—Period under appellant's control.

The words in S. 12 Sub-Ss. (2) and (3), "the time requisite for obtaining copy of the decree appealed from" mean "time which would have been necessary in any case" for obtaining the copy of the decree appealed from. No period, which may be under the control of the appellant between the date upon which judgment is pronounced (which is the date of the decree under the Civil P.C.) and the date on which copy of decree was delivered can be considered as the time requisite within the meaning of S. 12. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 45=16 P.L.T. 848=2 B.R. 213=15 Pat. 284=160 Ind. Cas. 447 (F. B.)

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

Time spent in ascertaining cost of copies is time requisite for obtaining them. (1935) 37 P.L.R. 794.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

An application for the copies need not be made by the appellants in person. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 135=149 Ind. Cas. 1127.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

Where two copies were obtained, time requisite refers to time requisite for copy actually filed with memorandum of appeal. 66 M.L.J. 687=39 L.W. 559=57 M. 560 =A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 306=(1934) M. W. N. 105=149 Ind. Cas. 172 (F. B.)

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

Time which need not have elapsed if the appellant had taken reasonable and proper steps to obtain a copy of the decree or order cannot be regarded as "requisite" time within the meaning of S. 12 (2). 7 O.W.N. 600= A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 369.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

The word "requisite" is a strong word; it may be regarded as meaning something more than the word required. It means "properly required" and it throws upon the pleader or counsel for the appellant the necessity of showing that no part of the delay beyond the prescribed period is due to his default. 109 Ind. Cas. 1=6 Rang. 302=55 I. A. 161=32 C.W.N. 845= 26 A.L.J. 657=47 C.L.J. 510=30 Bom.L.R. 842= 5 O.W.N. 479=28 M.L.W. 207=A.I.R. 1928 P. C. 103 =54 M.L.J. 696 (P. C.).

There can be no saving of limitation apart form the provisions of Limitation Act. 102 Ind. Cas. 523=8 Lah. 54=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 200.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

In determining what is the requisite time referred to in S. 12, Sub-S. (2) of the Limitation Act, the conduct of the appellant must be considered, and no period can be regarded as requisite under the Act, which need not have elapsed if the appellant had taken reasonable and proper steps to obtain a copy of the decree of order. 89 Ind. Cas. 277=52 Cal. 342= A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 735.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

No period can be regarded as requisite under the Act, which need not have elapsed, if the appellant had taken reasonable and proper steps to obtain an order. There is no warrant for the preposition that, the time actually consumed in obtaining the decree must be deducted. 13 Cal. 104, Ref. to. 68 Ind. ——S. 12—Scope and interpretation.

Period from the date when copies are ready to the date of actual delivery is not time requisite. 67 Ind. Cas. 478=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 423.

——S. 12—Scope and interpretation—"Time requisite for obtaining a copy".

The words "time requisite for obtaining a copy" in the second and third paragraphs of S. 12 are not confined to cases where the person appealling has in person or by a properly authorized agent applied for a copy of a judgment or a decree. 12 M.L.J. 385, diss. from. ——S. 12—Separate applications—"Time requisite for obtaining copies"—Separate applications for Judgment and decree.

A party is entitled to deduct the aggregate period taken in obtaining copies of Judgment and decree even though he put in seperate applications for the same the one after obtaining copy of the other. A party applied for copy of the decree on 18-10-05 and obtained it on 19-12-05. He then applied for a copy of the judgment on 22-12-05 and obtained it on 16-2-06. The appeal, was filed ond 3-3-06. Held, the party was entitled to deduct both the periods from 18-10-05 to 19-12-05 and the periods from 22-12-05 to 16-2-06 =(1909) 33 M. 256=7 M.L.T. 29=(1910) M.W.N. 141 =4 Ind. ——S. 12—Time requisite—Separate applications for decree and judgments.

Not only the time taken for obtaining a copy of the decree but time taken for obtaining a copy of judgment also is deducible in calculating the period of limitation for filing an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis. 57 M.L.W. 165 (1)=1944 M.W.N. 160=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 229=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 430.

——S. 12—Separate applications.

Where applications for copies of the judgment and the decree are made at different times, the appellant is entitled to the time occupied in obtaining the copies of both the judgment and the decree. 1936 O.W.N. 1008=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 65=12 Luck. 472=165 Ind. Cas. 578 (2).

——S. 12—Separate applications.

Under S. 12, a litigant is entitled to seperately apply for the copy of the judgment and the decree-sheet, and the aggregate amount of time spent in obtaining the two copies should be allowed to him, provided that the overlapping period is not counted twice over. (1936) 165 Ind. Cas. 712 (Peshavar).

——S. 12—Separate applications—Aggregate time spent in getting copies when shall be allowed.

A party can separately apply for copy of the judgment and the decree-sheet and the aggregate amount of time spent in getting the two copies should be allowed to him, provided the overlapping period is not counted twice over. The Appellate Court cannot disallow the time spent in taking the copy of the decree-sheet merely because he had applied for it during the extended time and not during the period orginally allowed for appealing against the order of the trial Judge. A.I.R. 1936 Pesh. 179=164 Ind. Cas. 1069.

——S. 12—Separate application for judgment and decree—Time for obtaining copy of judgment plus time requisite for obtaining copy of the decree must be excluded—Overlapping period is, however, to be subtracted from total.

Where a party applies for a copy of the judgment alone and sometimes later applies for a copy of the decree, the time required for obtaining the copy of the judgment plus the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree should be excluded, provided that days on which both copies were being prepared cannot be doubly excluded, from the computation of the period of limitation. It is immaterial whether the period of limitation prescribed in Sch. 1 to the Limitation Act had expired when a copy of the decree was applied for. 123 Ind. Cas. 470=26 N.L.R. 66=13 N.L.J. 51=A.I.R. 1930 Nag. 113 (F.B.)

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree—Application for copies of judgment and decree need not be made at the same time provided they are made before the period of limitation.

The law does not prescribe any particular time for making of applications for copies or require that copies of both decree and judgment must be applied for simultaneously provided they are made before the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed for filing the appeal. The aggregate period taken in obtaining copies of judgment and decree should be excluded when computing limitation, even though applications for those copies were made on different dates.

Where on the dismissal of a suit on 24th August, 1926, the plaintiff applied for a copy of the judgment on 8th September, 1926, and obtained the same on 30th September, 1926, and thereafter applied for a copy of the decree on 7th October, 1926, and obtained it on 12th october, 1926 and the appeal was filed on that day:

Held, that the appeal was not time-barred. 106 Ind. Cas. 57=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 131.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree.

(Obiter).—Under S. 12 (2) of the Act, when an application is made for copy of a judgment even the period required for obtaining copy of the decree may also be excluded provided the application for the copy of the decree is made before the expiry of the extension of time allowed by S. 12 (3) as time required for obtaining copy of the judgment. 106 Ind. Cas. 57=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 131.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree.

Where on the day the application for a copy of the decree appealed from is made, the appeal would have been in time adding the time required for obtaining a copy of the judgment, the time required to obtain the copy of decree should be also excluded in computing the time allowed for filing of the appeal. 95 Ind. Cas. 302=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 529.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree.

An appellant would be within time, according to S. 12 if his appeal is filed within the total amount of periods granted to him, namely, the initial period granted by Sch. I, plus the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree, plus the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment. Of course, if any of the two periods requisite for obtaining copies overlap each other, one of the overlapping periods has to be left out of account. 87 Ind. Cas. 484=23 A. L. J. 342=47 All. 509=A.I.R. 1925 All. 436.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree—Time for copies of judgment and decree is to be excluded.

The order appealed against was passed on the 7th January, 1921. On the same day the plaintiff applied for a copy of judgment and that copy became ready for delivery and was delivered to him on the 14th January, 1921. He filed an appeal on the 4th February, 1921 accompanied by a copy of the judgment, but without any copy of the decree, for no decree was then in existence. On the 10th February, 1921, he applied for a copy of the decree. On 15th February, 1921, the formal order was drawn up and a copy of that formal order became ready on the 17th February, 1921 and was delivered to him two days later. On the 23rd February, 1921, he filed the copy of the formal order in the appeal:

Held, that adding the time spent in obtaining the copy of the formal order the appeal was clearly within time. 74 Ind. Cas. 486=A.I.R. 1924 All. 162.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree.

Where the period for obtaining a copy of the judgment and the one for obtaining a copy of the decree are distinct and separate both of the two distinct periods should be excluded in computing the time for the admission of the appeal. 87 Ind. Cas. 545=48 Bom. 433=26 Bom. L. R. 362=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 425.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree.

In order that a party may be entitled to deduct the time taken in obtaining a copy, it is necessary for him to make an application for copies of the decree and the judgment before the expiration of the time allowed to him by law to prefer an appeal. If this is done there is no reason why the time occupied in obtaining copies of the decree and the judgment should not be deducted as provided by S. 12 excluding the overlapping period. (1916) 21 C.W.N. 217 and (1909) 33 Mad. 256, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 93=48 Bom. 292=25 Bom. L.R. 1309=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 185.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree—The time taken for preferring the copies of judgment and decree is to be excluded though both applied for at different times.

The term of 90 days for filing an appeal against the decree expired on the 29th January, 1923, but before the time expired the appellant applied for a copy of the judgment on the 17th November, 1922 and obtained a copy on the 23rd of November, 1922 thus the time for filing the appeal was extended, from the 29th January, 1923 to the 5th of February, 1923; but before the expiry of this extended time, the appellant made an application for a copy of the decree on 31st January, 1923 and obtained a copy on the same date. On the 6th February, 1923 he filed the appeal.

Held, that the appeal was filed within time. 77 Ind. Cas. 401=1923 P.H.C.C. 235=4 P.L.T. 619=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 113.

——S. 12—Separate application for Judgment and decree.

A party is entitled to exclude both periods one for obtaining copy of judgment and for copy of decree so long as they are not counted twice over. 33 Mad. 256 and 8 M.L.J. 148, Foll. 66 Ind. Cas. 23=14 M.L.W. 269=1921 M.W.N. 557=41 M.L.J. 273.

——S. 12—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Both periods, to be excluded.

Under S. 12 Cls. (2) and (3) the appellant can deduct the time requisite as well for obtaining a copy of the judgment though he has applied for copies of the judgment and decree at different times, both these periods should be excluded, unless the two periods overlap partially or entirely in which case the appellant cannot deduct the same time twice over. 21 C.W.N. 217=38 Ind. Cas. 66.

——S. 12—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Exclusion of time.

Deduction of time cannot be had twice for the same cause and therefore when the time for obtaining copy of judgment is included in the period during which the decree was being drawn up both the periods cannot be deducted. 12 Ind. Cas. 677 (Cal.).

——S. 12 (2) and (3)—Separate copy application for decree and judgment—Exclusion of time—Mode of calculation.

The appellant is entitled to deduct the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree appealed from as well as the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment under S. 12 (2) & (3) of the Limitation Act respectively and he is not obliged to ask for both copies in the same application. 163 P. R. 1919=54 Ind. Cas. 879.

——S. 12—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—"Time requisite for obtaining copies".

Under S. 12 of the Limitation Act an appellant can only deduct such time as was "requisite" for obtaining copies. A person cannot claim deduction of the time spent in obtaining copies of the judgment and decree by separate applications. What time is requisite for this purpose is a question of fact. Where the Divisional Judge has decided that two deductions, viz., one for obtaining the copy of the judgment and another for obtaining copy of the decree of the lower court were not requisite in the particular case and made only one allowance, the question whether he was right or wrong is not a question of law. 100 P.R. 1918=185 P.W.R. 1918=48 Ind. Cas. 31.

——S. 12 (2)—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Exclusion of time.

An application for copy of a decree was made beyond the period of limitation prescribed for appeal but within the period if the time taken in obtaining copy of the judgment is excluded. An appeal was filed appending the copies so obtained. Held, that the appeal was filed in time. 18 O. C. 74=2 O. L. J. 159=28 Ind. Cas. 366.

——S. 12—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Exclusion of time.

The time occupied in obtaining copy of a judgment ought also to be deducted in addition to the time required for obtaining copy of the decree. (33 M. 256 F.) 12 M.L.T. 360=17 Ind. Cas. 393.

——S. 12—Sch. II, Art. 152—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Computation of time.

Where after obtaining a copy of the judgment the copy of the decree was applied for:

Held, that in computing the time for filing the appeal the time taken for obtaining the judgment copy and the time taken for getting the decree copy, should both be excluded. 33 Mad. 256=7 M.L.T. 29=21 M.L.J. 152 =(1910) M.W.N. 141=4 Ind. Cas. 301.

——S. 12—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Computation, mode of.

An appellant is entitled to deduct the aggregate period taken in obtaining copies of judgment and decree if they are applied for on different dates provided that both the applications are made before the expiry of the period of Limitation prescribed for filing the appeal. 42 Ind. Cas. 965, Foll. 49 Ind. Cas. 961 (Nag.).

——S. 12—Separate copy applications for decree and judgment—Aggregate period—Whether excluded.

Where two separate applications are filed for copies of the judgment and the decree in a case, each within the period of limitation prescribed by law for appealing, the aggregate period occupied in obtaining copies on both the judgments and the decree is excluded from the period for filing the appeal. 42 Ind. Cas. 965 (Nag.).

——S. 12 and 5—Separate copy applications for decree and Judgment.

The time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree appealed from does not ordinarily begin till an application for the same is made and the period required for obtaining the copy is excluded. But when first only copy of judgment is asked for and then afterwards, after the usual period of limitation is run out, a copy of the decree is asked for, the period required for that copy cannot be excluded unless sufficient reason is shown. The words "time requisite for obtaining copy" should be strictly construed. 7 N.L.R. 67=10 Ind. Cas. 866.

16 (e). Sufficient cause.

——S. 12—Time requisite — Sufficient cause —Time occupied in making application to Registrar for something connected with the settling of the order—Held, period should be excluded in computing limitation for appeal.

The period occupied in an attempt to obtain a variation of the order as to costs and the period occupied by an attempt by application to the Registrar for something which was connected with the settling of the order, can be deducted under S. 12 (2), Lim. Act in computing the period of limitation under Art. 151 for appealing against the order:

Held, also, that it was arguable that the period that elapsed between a letter by the appellant to the Registrar asking him to do something, and a second letter which was a reminder that he had asked him, although, in form, it made no reference to the previous letter, could also be deducted. 1937 O.W.N. 364=A.I.R. 1937 P.C. 107=3 B R. 405=45 L.W. 449 =18 P.L.T. 335=41 C.W.N. 650=(1937) A.L.J. 440 =(1937) M. W. N. 649=39 Bom. L. R. 744=(1937) 1 M. L. J. 702=31 S. L. R. 239=65 C. L. J. 289 =(1937) A.W.R. 408=167 Ind. Cas. 345 (P.C.).

——S. 12—Sufficient cause.

Where necessary stamps and folios were supplied in time, but the Court unnecessarily asked for more folios which were not promptly supplied:

Held, that this delay in supplying additional folios should not count against the appellant. 98 Ind. Cas. 748=44 C. L. J. 44=30 C. W. N. 926=A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1105.

16 (f). Unnecessary copies.

——S. 12—Time requisite—Unnecessary copies—Time spent in obtaining copy not filed with application.

Petitioners are not entitled to have the time spent in obtaining a copy of the judgment which has not been filed together their application for review but which they have filed in another case, excluded in computing the period of limitation. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 184=156 Ind. Cas. 733.

——S. 12—Unnecessary copies—Unsigned translation of decree filed with memo of appeal.

Where an appeal was filed on the last day of limitation after deducting the time taken in obtaining the copies of the judgment and the decree but with the memorandum of appeal, a translation of the decree not signed by the Judge was filed and no copy of the decree was applied for till late after filing the appeal:

Held, that the unsigned translation was not a proper substitute for a copy of the decree. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 304=150 Ind. Cas. 781 (1).

——S. 12—Unnecessary copies.

In reckoning the time for presenting an appeal, the time required for obtaining a copy of the decree and judgment must be excluded, even though by the rules of the Court it is not necessary to obtain such copies. 109 Ind. Cas. 1=6 Rang. 302=55 I. A. 161=32 C.W.N. 845=26 A.L. J. 657=47 C.L.J. 510=30 Bom. L.R. 842=5 O. W. N. 479=28 M.L.W. 207=A. I. R. 1928 P.C. 103=54 M.L. J. 696 (P.C.).

——S. 12—Unnecessary copies.

Time spent in obtaining copy of an order which is not necessary for filing is not excluded. 106 Ind. Cas. 324=46 C.L.J. 452=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 46.

——S. 12—Unnecessary copies.

No period can be regarded as "requisite" under the Act when there is no need at all to apply for and obtain a copy of the decree, the rules of the Court allowing the appellant to file his memorandum of appeal unaccompanied by a copy of the decree. A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 352 (P.C.), Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 417=4 Rang. 265=5 Bur. L. J. 187=A.I.R. 1927 Rang. 20.

——S. 12—Unnecessary copies.

In an application for restoration of a suit dismissed for default, the time spent in obtaining copy of the order dismissing the suit for default cannot be excluded. 93 Ind. Cas. 1023 (Lah.).

——S. 12—Unnecessary copies.

The time spent in obtaining a copy of the translation of the judgment appealed against cannot be excluded in computing the period of limitation for an appeal under S. 12. 59 Ind. Cas. 965 (Lah.).

17. Miscellaneous.

——S. 12—Miscellaneous.

Where parties' Counsel have been duly communicated the date fixed for delivery of judgment limitation for appeal will run from such date in spite of the fact that neither the parties nor the Counsel were present. 98 Ind. Cas. 942=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 59.

——S. 12—Miscellaneous.

Where an application for copies is struck off under R. 129 of Madras High Court Civil Rules of Practice for non-deposit of requisite stamp, papers and a subsequent petition is put in for restoration of the previous application, the Court has power to restore the original application and to treat the subsequent application as a continuation of the original application for the purpose of computing the time for filing an appeal. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 369=1942 M.W.N. 261=(1942) 1 M.L. J. 372= 55 M.L.W. 113=204 Ind. Cas. 523.

——S. 12—Miscellaneous.

Where cause of action arose, on 17-2-13, in the case of breach of contract not in writing and registered, a suit filed on 17-2-16, is in time. 78 Ind. Cas. 87=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 709.

——S. 12—Miscellaneous—The word 'day' in S. 19 and 'time' in S. 12 have the same meaning.

The plaintiff filed the suit on 13-7-20, for debts which had been acknowledged in writing on 13-7-17 to be due. The Subordinate Judge held that the provisions of S. 12 do not apply to the computation of a period starting from the signature of an acknowledgment under S. 19 for the reason that the word time is used in the latter section and the word day in the former and therefore dismissed the suit.

Held, that the two words have the same meaning and therefore the suit is in time. 71 Ind. Cas. 556= 6 N.L. J. 281=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 143.

——S. 12—Miscellaneous.

By S. 12 (1) or S. 8 of the General Clauses Act and S. 160 of the Land Revenue Act the period of limitation is not three years but three years and one day.

Therefore, either the claim in respect of the first year is not time-barred or the claim in respect of the fourth year is not premature, if the suit is brought on the first day of the Revenue year which is the first day of limitation in respect of the fourth year and last day in respect of the first year. 69 Ind. Cas. 527=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 261.

——S. 12 (2)—Miscellaneous—Copies—Deduction of time.

An appellant is not entitled to deduct time taken to obtain a copy of the judgment to be filed in another connected appeal. 25 Ind. Cas. 28 (Mad.).

——S. 12—Miscellaneous—Exclusion of time.

Exclusion of time under S. 12 can be claimed only from the date of the deposit of the copying fee and not from the date of the application accompanied by the deposit. 5 S.L.R. 47=10 Ind. Cas. 210.

——S. 12 and Sch. 1, Art. 151—Miscellaneous—Extension of time for appeal—Practice.

An extension of the time provided in Art. 151 of the Act cannot be claimed unless an application is made to the Court for a copy of the decree or judgment indicating the intention to appeal, within the period fixed by the Article. 15 Bom. L. R. 681=20 Ind. Cas. 537.

——S. 13—Applicability—"Time during which defendant has been absent," interpretation.

The expression "time during which the defendant has been absent from British India" must be read as "time during which the defendant or any person from or through whom the defendant derives his liability to be sued has been absent from British India."

Where defendant No. 1 from or through whom defendant No. 3 derived his liability to be sued, was absent from British India, S. 13 would apply and save the suit from being barred against the appellant. 58 M.L.W. 181=(1945) 1 M.L. J. 275=1945 M.W.N. 244=A.I.R. 1945 Mad, 315.

——S. 13—Applicability.

Section 13 is attracted only when the cause of action has arisen in British India. Payments made in discharge of a decree of a foreign Court do not save limitation. 57 M.L.W. 355=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 437= (1944) 1 M.L. J. 440=1944 M.W.N. 494.

——S. 13—Condition precedent.

Quaere.—Whether S. 13 applies only to cases where defendant was in India at the time when the transaction took place and left it afterwards, or whether it applies to all cases of person not in British India. 112 Ind. Cas. 139=1928 M.W.N. 543=28 M L.W. 645 =A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 1088.

——S. 13.

In order to get the benefit of S. 13 the cause of action or the transaction which gives rise to the cause of action must have taken place in British India. 112 Ind. Cas. 139=1928 M.W.N. 543=28 M.L.W. 645 =A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 1088.

——S. 13.

A Suit would be in time provided that the defendant has not been within British India beyond the time allowed by the Indian Law of limitation, to bring the action, wherever the cause of action may have risen. 63 Ind. Cas. 959=45 Bom. 1228=23 Bom. L.R. 543=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 460.

——S. 13—Construction and scope—Chiefs of Foreign States can be held to reside in British India in so far as they actually carry on their business through representatives in British India.

Section 13 must be read consistently with the provisions contained in Part IV, C. P. Code, for "suit in particular case" against defendants who ordinarily would be always out of British India, e. g., (1) the Secretary of State for India in Council; (2) an alien corporation and (3) a Sovereign Prince or Ruling Chief sued in the name of his State.

Section 13 must be read so as to avoid the obvious absurdity that arises, if such corporate bodies are deemed to reside out of British India, so that suits against them can never be barred at all. And this can be done by treating them as defendants, who, by reason of their special character, are not absent from British India within the meaning of the section, because they have not got the same liberty as private individuals to reside personally in British India and attend to their affairs and they must do so through agents or representatives. They can be held to reside in British India in so far as they actually carry on business through representatives in British India. 115 Ind. Cas. 369=53 Bom. 12=30 Bom. L. R. 1463= A.I.R. 1929 Bom. 14 (F.B.).

——S. 13—Military occupation of place.

The military occupation of Basra in 1914 did not bring Basra within "territories and places" governed by Governor-General of India so as to exclude the operation S. 13. 20 A.L. J. 786, Foll. 68 Ind. Cas. 978 =20 A.L. J. 786=45 All. 18=A.I.R. 1923 All. 64.

——S. 13—Person staying in Secunderabad Contonment—If can claim extension.

Secunderabad Cantonment is under the administration of the Govt. of India though it is not within British India. A person, therefore, cannot claim any extension of time under S. 13, Lim. Act, on the ground of his residence at a place in Secunderabad. A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 225=40 P. L. R. 92=176 Ind. Cas. 255.

——S. 13—Burden of proof—Secunderabad, if under administration of the Government of India.

When a person seeks to take advantage of the extension of time allowed under S. 13, Lim. Act, he must bring himself within tha terms of the section. That is to say, the burden is upon him to prove both that the defendant has been absent from British India and from territories under the administration of the Govt. of India. Secunderabad is under the administration of the Govt. of India. 39 Bom. L.R. 263=A.I.R. 1937 Bom. 242=169 Ind. Cas. 651.

——S. 13—Absence from British India—Proof.

Strict proof of the duration of the deft.'s absence from British India must be adduced by the plaintiff. 9 M.L.T. 217=9 Ind. Cas. 568.

1 (a). Applicability and scope of section—General.

——S. 14—Applicability—Cases governed by Bengal Tenancy Act.

S. 14 of the Limitation Act applies to cases governed by the Bengal Tenancy Act. I.L.R. (1949) 1 Cal. 365 =53 C.W.N. 159.

——S. 14—Applicability—Complaint under Cattle Trespass Act, S. 20—Computation of 10 days' time—Exclusion of time.

S. 14, Limitation Act, is not applicable to the case of a complaint under S. 20 of the Cattle Trespass Act, in the computation of the period of 10 days fixed in that section. 4 A.I.Cr.D. 256=16 C.L.T. 51=A.I.R. 1951 Orissa 40.

——S. 14—Complaint under S. 9, Child Marriage Restraint Act (XIX of 1929).

Section 14, is, in terms, restricted to civil proceedings and cannot be taken advantage of by a person making a complaint under S. 9, Civil Marriage Restraint Act. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 512=49 M L.W. 547 (1)= (1939) M.W.N. 415=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 775=40 Cr.L.J. 816 (1) =183 Ind. Cas. 595.

——S. 14—Benefit of—Availability—Delay in filing suit under S. 180, U. P. Tenancy Act by reason of prosecution of miscellaneous proceedings for the correction of village papers—Time taken in such proceedings —If can be deducted.

The mere fact that certain miscellaneous proceedings for the correction of village papers was prosecuted in the S. D. O.' s. Court would not justify the delay in the filing of ejectment suit under S. 180 of the U. P. Tenancy Act and the benefit of S. 14 of the Limitation Act cannot be claimed in such a case. (1947) A.W.R. ——Ss. 14 and 29 (1)—Applicability—Registration Act, S. 77.

Under S. 29 (1) nothing in this enactment affects or alters any period of limitation specially prescribed for any suit, appeal or application by any special or local law, and inasmuch as Ss. 71 to 77 of the Registration Act lay down a complete procedure where registration is refused, and as S. 77 limits the period within which suit is to be brought to 30 days, the period cannot be extended under S. 14 of the Limitation Act on the ground of prosecution of proceedings in good faith in a Court not having jurisdiction in the matter. 89 Ind. Cas. 884=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 126.

The tendency has been not to restrict the operation of S. 14 but to follow its principle in suitable cases even in proceedings which cannot strictly be called proceedings in a Court of Law. Where the party seeking its benefit has established his good faith and that he has been prosecuting with due diligence another civil proceeding, he is entitled to its benefit. I. L. R. (1945) All. 394=A.I.R. 1945 All. 377=(1945) A.L.J. 185.

——S. 14—Conditions for applicability.

Under S. 14 the time during which the plaintiff has been prosecuting with due diligence another civil proceeding against the same defendant can be excluded where the proceeding is founded on the same cause of action, is prosecuted in good faith and and in a Court which, from defect of the jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature, is unable to entertain it. 33 P.L.R. 360 =138 Ind. ——S. 14—When the previous suit is decided on merit and not on want of jurisdiction, in a subsequent suit filed after limitation—Section 14 cannot be applied.

Mortgage filed Darkhast against other properties of mortgagor. The High Court decided that the mortgage decree could not be said to be a personal decree merely because it directed the defendants to pay the amount and that there must be a decree personally made against the mortgagors before it could be executed against property other than the mortgaged property. Thereupon the mortgagee filed an application under O. 34, R. 6 on 10th February, 1920. And the time occupied by the previous darkhast was sought to be excluded in computing limitation under S. 14, Lim. Act:

Held, S. 14 did not apply as the previous darkhast in this case was decided on the construction of the decree and not on the ground of want of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature. The decree-holder's proper remedy, if any, was to apply under O. 34, R. 6, for a supplemental decree and not execute the previous decree which had not given any personal relief. 113 Ind. ——S. 14—Execution application.

Section 14 is not applicable to an application for execution. It applies exclusively to suits. 93 Ind. Cas. 292=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 345.

——S. 14 and Art. 182 (5)—Applicability—Decree passed by District Munsiff as Small Cause Judge in 1939—Successive execution petitions on the Original Side of same Court in 1941 and 1942 successively dismissed and last execution petition pending in 1945—Decree-holder realising mistake and filing execution petition on Small Cause side—Limitation.

A District Munsiff sitting as a Small Cause Judge passed a decree for a sum of money on 19th January, 1939, and the decree-holder filed successive execution petitions on the Original Side of the same Court. The first of them filed on 1st September, 1941, was dismissed for default of prosecution on 25th September, 1941. The second filed on 15th July, 1942, was dismissed on 19th February, 1943. A third application was filed on 17th July, 1943, and after various interlocutory and other orders, this was pending on 3rd September, 1945, when the decree-holder realised his mistake and filed an execution petition in the Small Cause Side. On a question of limitation:

Held: (1) the decree-holder is entitled to invoke the aid of S. 14 of the Limitation Act and thereby deduct the period during which the three execution petitions were pending before the Original Side of the District Munsiff's Court, because he was bona fide prosecuting petitions for the same relief which the Court, in which they were prosecuted could not give on account of want of jurisdiction.

But since the decree was passed on 19th January, 1939, and the correct execution petition was filed only on 3rd September, 1945, a period of six years, seven months and fifteen days had elapsed and deducting two years, nine months and odd during which the petitions on the Original Side were actually pending there is a gap of three years and ten months and odd and that being more than three years as provided under Art. 182 (5) of the Limitation Act, the application for execution is barred by time. It cannot be contended that the successive applications on the Original Side should be deemed to be continuations of the earlier applications as each of the three applications were distinct and separate. 1949 M.W.N. 219=A.I.R. 1949 Mad. 849=(1949) 1 M.L.J. 432.

——S. 14, Art. 182 (5)—Distinction pointed out—Words of Art. 182 (5) cannot be imported in S. 14.

Article 182 (5) and S. 14 deal with quite distinct matters. The former prescribes the terminus a quo the point from which limitation shall begin to run the latter has nothing to do with this and relates only to the method to be adopted in calculating the total time that is to be counted after the starting point has been fixed. Clause (5) of Art. 182 has nothing to do with any period of time; it has only to do with a fixed point of time. Only five conditions have to be satisfied for the application of 14 (2), and no condition that the proceeding must be in accordance with law is to be found in them, either expressly or by implication. Nor, can the words of Art. 182 (5) be imported into S. 14 (2), since the provisions relate to quite different matters. 19 Pat. 354=A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 677=7 B.R. 245=191 Ind. Cas. 695.

——S. 14.

Decree certified as satisfied—Decree-holder applying for re-consideration on ground of mistake—Application treated by Court as one of review—In revision, review, held not tenable—Fresh application under Ss. 47 and 151, Civil P. C.:

——S. 14.

An order passed in execution proceedings by Assistant Collector—Appeal before District Judge—District Judge holding that it had no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal which was for the order passed in execution proceeding and not in suit—Second appeal.

Second Appellate Court holding that 'suit' included execution proceedings and reversing the judgment of the District Judge:

Held, that the District Judge had no jurisdiction. Memorandum of appeal directed to be sent to Commissioner and not to be thrown out as time-barred as the time elapsed is excused under S. 14 of the Lim. Act. 1942 O.W.N. 595=A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 52=1942 R.D. 762=18 Luck. 480=204 Ind. Cas. 215.

——S. 14.

Execution petitions filed in competent Court—Last petition dismissed by Court on erroneous ground that it had no jurisdiction—All petitions could be availed of to save limitation under S. 14. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 493=73 C.L.J. 410=196 Ind. Cas. 534.

——Ss. 14 and 184—Scope.

Section 184 provides the period of limitation, and S. 14, provides, not the period of limitation but means to compute that period which is an entirely different thing. Therefore S. 184 does not exclude the application of S. 14. 56 Cal. 805=33 C.W.N. 227=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 325.

——S. 14—Plaintiff failing to execute the decree within the given time under a bona fide mistake when defending another suit concerning the same subject matter—Time occupied cannot be deducted.

Plaintiff obtained a decree for possession on February 13th, 1913. There was an appeal first to the District Court and then to the High Court, which ultimately confirmed the decree on December 10, 1913. He filed his application for execution of this decree on June 28th, 1920. During the interval, however, the defendant filed Suit No. 42 of 1916 for a declaration that the plaintiff's decree had been obtained by fraud. That litigation lasted till July 31st, 1920, and ended in the present plaintiff's favour:

Held, that plaintiff may have been under an honest but mistaken impression that during all this time it would be futile for him to prosecute the application for execution of the decree which was challenged by the suit of 1916. That in a case of this kind it may be desirable that the plaintiff ought to be in a position to deduct the time taken up in defending a litigation of the nature such as in the present case. But that, as it was impossible to bring the case within the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, the application was time-barred. 76 Ind. Cas. 557=25 Bom. L.R. 863=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 39.

——S. 14—Execution application—Prosecution of suit—Error of Law.

In counting the period of limitation for an application for refund of excessive moneys levied in execution of a decree the time taken up by the deft. in prosecuting a suit for the purpose in another Court, under an error of law, ought to be deducted under S. 14 of the Indian Limitation Act. 44 Bom. 97=22 Bom. L.R. 238=55 Ind. Cas. 967.

——S. 14—Plaint presented in Court having no jurisdiction.

Obiter.—Where a plaint is presented in a Court which has no jurisdiction and it is re-presented after return by that Court in a Court which has jurisdiction, the date of presentation in the latter Court must be deemed to be the date of its institution in the said Court. The proceedings in the former Court are of no avail and the proceedings in the latter cannot be treated as a continuation of the proceedings in the former suit. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 724=50 M.L.W. 139=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 329=189 Ind. Cas. 204.

——S. 14—Suits for recovery of arrears under Bengal Ten. Act.

Section 14 being a rule for the computation of the period of limitation, applies to suits for recovery of arrears of rent of agricultural land, although the period of limitation for such suits is prescribed in the Ben. Ten. Act. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 517=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 262=177 Ind. Cas. 948.

——S. 14—Mistake of Court.

Where it is on account a mistake more on the part of the Court than through any fault of the plaintiffs that the case remained pending in the wrong Court, the plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. 1935 O W.N. 1045=A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 501=158 Ind. Cas. 267.

——S. 14.

Suit filed in wrong Court—Plaint returned to be filed in proper Court very late—Plaint filed in proper Court next day—Suit beyond limitation—Held, benefit of S. 14 should be given. 1935 O.W.N. 1942=A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 444=157 Ind. Cas. 629.

——S. 14—Order dismissing suit on the ground of being filed in wrong Court—Whether bars institution of second suit before Court having jurisdiction.

The plaintiff is entitled to claim the benefit of this provision whether he comes up on the second occasion with the original plaint or with a new plaint. It cannot be argued that the plaintiff could not have believed in good faith that his suit should be instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge, when this was the view taken by the Subordinate Judge himself. In such circumstances, the case properly falls within the provisions of S. 14 of the Lim. Act. An order dismissing a suit on the ground that it ought to have been instituted in the Settlement Court is not a disposal of the suit on the merits; it is merely a refusal of relief which, from the defect of jurisdiction, he was unable to give, and the order of dismissal by a Court which had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit cannot operate as a bar to a second suit instituted before a Court having jurisdiction. A.I.R 1935 Pat. 82=1 B.R. 133=153 Ind. Cas. 155(2).

——S. 14—Continuance of same proceeding.

Section 14 does not apply in the case of continuance of the same proceeding. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 412=36 P.L.R. 215=150 Ind. Cas. 739.

——S. 14—Withdrawal of proceeding.

Execution sale—Proceedings under O. 21, R. 89 and R. 90 by different sets of defendants—Sale set aside under R. 90—Withdrawal of application under R. 89—Sale confirmed on appeal—Application to revive proceedings under O. 21, R. 89.

Held, that S. 14, Lim. Act had no application to the case. 40 M.L.W. 26=67 M.L.J. 189=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 593=152 Ind. Cas. 519.

——Ss. 14 and 15.

Section 14 is mandatory and if the Court has to exclude the time spent in prosecuting a case in good faith, the Court must determine whether the prosecution was, in fact, in good faith or not and it appears to be a necessary corolary that if the prosecution time of the suit is divided into stages, it must, in order to arrive at the period which is to be excluded, also determine how much must be included whether, by reason of prosecution in bad faith or owing to any other reason.

After the order of February 27, 1930 to the effect that the Court had no jurisdiction, the plaintiff still had five months and two days from the date of his original cause of action within which he could either file a fresh suit or get his case transferred to the right Court. But he filed the suit in the proper Court on August 10, 1931:

Held, that under Ss. 14 and 15 of the Lim. Act, he was entitled to present his plaint on any date upto February 25, 1932 and how he spent his time upto that date was no concern of the Courts. He was entitled to remain idle and do nothing until that date and he was equally entitled in law to prosecute his suit in a wrong Court in bad faith until that date. A.I.R. 1934 Nag. 145=30 N.L.R. 294=149 Ind. Cas. 956.

A cause of action is not suspended while the plaintiff is seeking to prove in other proceedings the facts upon which his cause of action depends. In a suit for damages for wrongful attachment, the time taken in getting the seizure declared illegal either on appeal or by other means cannot be deducted. 7 Rang. 269= A. I. R. 1934 Rang. 329=154 Ind. Cas. 153.

——S. 14—Suit against dead person—Legal representative impleaded after time.

Where a plaint is filed against a person who is in fact, dead at the time of presentation, no application by way of amendment or bringing on record legal representatives can be validly made because the whole proceeding is void and has no effect whatever and if the Court wrongly allows the legal representative to be brought on the record, the plaintiff cannot claim the exclusion of the period during which he was prosecuting the suit against the deceased under S. 14, Lim. Act. 37 L.W. 489=(1933) M.W.N. 644=A I.R. 1933 Mad. 454=143 Ind. Cas. 596.

——S. 14—Applicability.

A decree was passed on 22rd November, 1922 and the money claimed was payable within one year from that date. In December, 1922 however one of the parties applied to have the decree set aside under O. 9, R. 13. The same was dismissed in 1923 and an appeal having been preferred the latter was dismissed on 28th July, 1926. An application for execution was filed in January, 1928:

Held, that S. 14 was inapplicable to the circumstances of the case. 35 C.W.N. 155=131 Ind. Cas. 263= 52 C.L.J. 594=A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 332.

——S. 14—Applicability.

Section 14 has no application when bad faith is established. 122 Ind. Cas. 241=8 Pat. 851=A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 54.

——Ss. 14 and 19—Acknowledgment of liability and bona fide prosecution of suit held to have extended period of limitation.

A firm carrying on business at Amritsar agreed to purchase 2,00,000 francs from a Bank doing business in Bombay, and paid Rs. 10,000 as margin money. The date of delivery was 30th April, 1923. In its correspondance dated 13th July, 1923, and 6th August, 1923 the Bank admitted receipt of Rs. 10,000. On 29th April, 1926, the firm filed a suit to recover the deposit from the Bank in the Court at Amritsar. In this suit the Bank again, in its written statement filed on 1st July, 1926, averred the acknowledgment of deposit money. On 2nd December, 1926 the Court at Amritsar returned one plaint to the firm for presentation to proper Court. The firm brought the prerent suit in the Bombay High Court on 29th January, 1927. The Bank pleaded bar of limitation.

Held, that Ss. 14 and 19 should be read together.

Held, also that the period of 29th April, 1926, to 2nd December, 1926, must, under S. 14, be deducted from the period of limitation prescribed for the suit.

Held, further, that the statements made in the written statement of 1st July, 1926, and those made in the letters of 13th July and 6th August amounted to an acknowledgment of liability under S. 19 and therefore the present suit was instituted prior to the expiry of the period of limitation. 32 Bom. L.R. 58=A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 187.

——S. 14—Section 14 applies when a fresh cause of action arises as a result of the judgment in a previous case.

The purchaser did not buy the goods from the seller according to a previous agreement between them; so the seller sold the goods by public auction and sued the purchaser to indemnify it for loss sustained. But the suit was dismissed. Thereupon the sellers instituted a suit for damages for breach of contract. They further maintained that original cause of action remained suspended from the date of award or the filing thereof or of the execution proceedings up to the date of the judgment of the Court of appeal, that alternatively a fresh cause of action for the same amount arose in consequence of that judgment: that their original claim remained satisfied up to the judgment and that they had a right of set off against the sum which they had been ordered to refund.

Held, the suit was maintainable either on the ground that upon literal construction of S. 14, Limitation Act, limitation was in suspense or upon the ground that a fresh cause of action arose as a result of the judgment of the Court of appeal. 12 M. I. A. 244 and A.I.R. 1916 P.C. 96, Foll. 120 Ind. Cas 710=56 Cal. 639=A.I.R. 1930 Cal. 5.

——S. 14.

The parties to the two suits were not different, and the previous litigation was carried on with due diligence. There was no want of good faith on the part of plaintiff in instituting previous suit.

Held, that S. 14 is directly applicable. 112 Ind. Cas. 715=1929 A.L.J. 73.

——S. 14.

So long as there was no legal impediment to the filing of the suit eariler, no time can be excluded under S. 14 and the third column of Art. 73 operates. 100 Ind. Cas. 776=50 Mad. 417=25 M.L.W. 426=1927 M.W.N. 160=39 M.L.T. 116=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 597= 52 M.L.J. 396.

There is no provision of law according to which a plaintiff, who upon failing to obtain one remedy sues for an alternative one is entitled to exclude the time taken up by the former proceedings. 100 Ind. Cas. 40=25 M.L.W. 11=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 273.

——S. 14.

An application which does not lie in any Court cannot be taken into account for the sake of extending time under S. 14. 22 P.R. 1912, Foll. 92 Ind. Cas. 299 (Lah.).

——S. 14—Proceeding taken in right Court but continued in wrong Court justifies exclusion of time occupied by proceeding in wrong Court.

On 10th April, 1912, an application to execute decree was presented to the proper Court (Wadgaon Court). As the Judge happened to sit in the Court at Haveli he passed orders at Haveli on April 15th, 1912. The High Court on appeal held on 3rd February, 1915, that the proceedings from and after 15th April were without jurisdiction. On the direction of the High Court the application was therefore further heard but was struck off on 30th June, 1915. A fresh application was presented on 3rd January, 1919. The application was in time by excluding the period from 15th April, 1912 to 3rd February, 1915;

Held, that the period should be excluded under S. 14 (2) for the decree-holder ought not to suffer because when the proper proceedings were in the Wadgaon Court, the Judge sitting in the Haveli Court wrongly passed the orders on 15th April, 1912, and the proceedings thereon should be treated as a separate proceeding and pertaining to the original proceeding which was held in the Wadgaon Court. 85 Ind. ——S. 14.

A suit in respect of an order under S. 283 of the Code of 1882 made against a minor ought to be filed within one year of his attaining majority under Art. 11.

Where within one year from the date of the order the minor's grandmother instituted such suit which was dismissed;

Held, it was not afterwards again permissible to bring the suit and the period of limitation cannot be extended. 80 Ind. Cas. 992=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 379.

——S. 14—Proceeding partially wrong is also covered. (Pratt, J., contra).

Per Marten, J.—The two separate Courts of Poona and Wadgaon have a Common Judge; from the 1st to the 20th of each month, the judge sits at Haveli, Poona, from 21st to 25th he sits at Wadgaon, and from the 25th to 30th of the month he sits at Lonavli a part of the Wadgaon Court. The plaintiff filed his Darkhast No. 284 of 1912 on the 10th April, 1912. He filed it at Wadgaon quite correctly, but as the Judge was then sitting at Haveli, the Court officials apparently sent the papers to the Judge at Haveli, and he on the 11th April, 1912 gave a notice to the defendants returnable on the 14th or 15th April, 1912 in the Haveli Court. The defendants did not appear, and on the 15th April the Judge sitting in the Haveli Court made the warrant for possession absolute. Defendants appealed and on the 26th February, 1913 this order was set aside on the ground that the Judge had no jurisdiction to direct the defendants to appear in the Haveli Court nor to make the order against them in that Court. It was accordingly directed that the Court of first instance should take up the Darkhast at the point where it was when the order for issuing the warrant of possession was passed. The plaintiff appealed to the High Court, but on 3rd February, 1915 his appeal was dismissed. On 29th June, 1915 the Darkhast was brought on again, the plaintiff was present but as the Judge was away the proceedings were adjourned to the next day. The plaintiff this time was not present in Court and accordingly the Darkhast was struck off. The next Darkhast he filed was on the 7th June, 1916.

Held, that it was not time barred. 76 Ind. Cas. 317=A.I.R. 1923 Bom. 218.

——S. 14—Application to set aside ex parte decree.

Section 14 does not apply to an application to set aside an ex parte decree. 84 Ind. Cas. 538=21 A.L.J. 205=45 All. 332=4 L.R.A.Civ. 144=A.I.R. 1923 All. 319.

The plffs. applied to continue a prior suit but their application was dismissed as the suit was held to have abated and the dismissal was confirmed on appeal. The plffs. then brought a suit in their own right. Held, that in computing the limitation for the second suit plff. could deduct the interval between the date of their application to be allowed to continue the previous suit and the date of the High Court's order in second appeal dismissing that suit. 25 M. ——S. 14 — Prosecuting one suit for several claims—Deduction of time.

Several portions of a property were sold to separate vendees on different occasions but the pre-emptor in good faith sued all the vendees jointly, the suit was eventually restricted to only one of the sales. Held, that S. 14 applied in computing the period of limitation for the other suits subsequently instituted in respect of the rest of the property. 26 P.W.R. 1915=87 P.L.R. 1915=27 Ind. 1 (b). Applicability and scope of section — Appeals.

——S. 14—Applicability—Appeals.

The principles of S. 14 apply to the appeals also. 1936 O.W.N. 325.

——S. 14—Applicability—Appeals.

Section 14 is not applicable to appeals. But the Court can admit it if sufficient cause is shown under S. 5. 18 R.D. 706=A.I.R. (1935) All. 92=4 A.W.R. 1460=152 Ind. Cas. 939.

——S. 14.

Time spent in carrying out a wholly independent litigation cannot be excluded from the time given to an appellant to appeal. 112 Ind. Cas. 246=A.I.R. 1929 All. 101.

——S. 14—Applicability—Appeals.

Provisions of S. 14 can be applied to appeals.

Where the appellant through bona fide mistake preferred his appeal in a wrong Court, but lost no time in re-filing it in the proper Court after it was returned to him;

Held, that the provisions of S. 14 would apply and the appeal should be heard. 14 A. L. J. 212 and A.I.R. 1917 P C. 156, Foll. 101 Ind. Cas. 750=49 All. 555=25 A.L.J. 410=A.I.R. 1927 All. 719.

——S. 14—Appeal — Deduction of time—Dismissal for default.

An appeal under the Letters Patent filed against the order by a single Judge dismissing an application for restoration of an appeal cannot be treated as an appeal against the order dismissing the appeal if it is beyond time. The question of deduction of time on account of the mistake of the appellant under S. 14 will arise when the latter appeal is filed. 28 M. L. J. 67=(1915) M.W N. 101=28 Ind. Cas. 64.

——S. 14—Applicability—Appeals—Not governed by section.

S. 14 of the Limitation Act has no application to appeals. 22 C. L J. 66=19 C. W. N. 473=28 Ind. Cas. 211.

——Ss. 14, 5—Applicability to appeals.

S. 14 applies only to suits and not to appeals, but the circumstances contemplated in S. 14 might, and ordinarily would, constitute a sufficient cause in the sense of S. 5, and the reason why S. 14, is limited to courts of original jurisdiction is merely because the earlier section has given a large and more unfettered power in the same behalf to appellate courts. 5 A. 591, foll. (1907) A.W.N. 219=4 A.L J. 515=29 A. 638.

1 (c). Applicability and scope of section —Insolvency proceedings.

——S. 14—Insolvency proceedings.

Quaere.—Whether proceedings in insolvency are completely outside the scope of S. 14, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 438=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 588=1942 M.W.N. 430=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 852=55 M.L.W. 301=202 Ind Cas. 490.

——S. 14—Insolvency proceedings.

Time during which the insolvency proceedings were pending, held could be deducted under Ss. 14 and 15, Lim. Act. 13 L. 70=A.I R. 1932 Lah. 281=33 P.L.R. 1003=137 Ind. Cas. 820.

——S. 14—Section 14 does not apply to insolvency proceedings.

The original insolvency petition was presented by a creditor under S. 6 (4) of Act III of 1907, on June 28th, 1919, to the District Munsif of Razole who had no jurisdiction to entertain it. Having been returned by that Court on September 22nd, 1919, it was represented to the District Court which had jurisdiction under S. 3 on October 1st, 1919, on which date more than 3 months had elapsed since the commission of the act of insolvency upon which the petition was grounded. Thus the petition was liable to be rejected as out of order. But the District Judge, on a petition to excuse delay being presented on Febrauary 21st, 1921, acted under S 5 of the Limitation Act, and holding that there was "sufficient cause" for the petition not being presented earlier, excused the delay and proceeded to enquire into the merits of the case.

Held, that S. 78 of the new Provincial Insolvency Act (1920) was not in force on 1st October, 1919, and S. 14 of the Limitation Act does not apply to insolvency proceedings. Hence the order of District Judge excusing delay was wrong. 72 Ind Cas. 488=1923 M.W N. 195=18 M.L.W. 35=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 462=44 M.L.J. 303.

——S. 14—Insolvency proceedings.

A creditor taking no part in the insolvency proceedings of his debtor cannot, in a suit to recover his debt, exclude the period of insolvency of the debtor from the limitation period either under S. 14 or S. 15 of the Act. 64 Ind. Cas. 50=13 Bur. L. T. 197.

——S. 14—Applicability—Prov. Ins. Act, S. 36.

S. 14 cannot be invoked to enlarge the period under S. 36 of the Prov. Ins. Act. 5 L.W. 123=(1917) M.W.N. 103=36 Ind. Cas. 828.

——S. 14—Applicability—Insolvency proceedings.

The provisions of the Limitation Act are not applicable to proceedings under the Prov. Ins. Act. Therefore the fact that the petition was filed in wrong court not having jurisdiction cannot save limitation under S. 6 of the Prov. Insolv. Act. 39 Mad. 74=29 M.L. J. 451=27 Ind. Cas. 144.

1 (d). Applicability and scope of section —Withdrawal of suit.

——S. 14—Withdrawal of suit.

Where a suit is withdrawn under O. 23, R. 1, Civil P. C. with liberty to file a fresh suit and the plaintiff accordingly files a fresh suit, S. 14, Lim. Act does not apply. (1942) 2 M.L. J. 442=1942 M.W.N. 622=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 80=55 L.W. 622=206 Ind. Cas. 394.

——S. 14.—When Rr. 1 and 2 of O 23, Civil P. C. apply, it would exclude the application of S. 14, Lim. Act. A.I R. 1940 Sind 125=I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 225=190 Ind. Cas. 328.

——S. 14.—There is no conflict between S. 14 and O. 23, R. 2. A.I.R. 1940 Sind 125=I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 225=190 Ind. Cas. 328.

——S. 14—Feeling difficulty on question of jurisdiction, plaintiff obtaining leave to withdraw suit with liberty to file fresh one on same cause of action—No decision on question of jurisdiction.

The plaintiff, feeling that he might get into difficulty on the question of jurisdiction, applied for leave of the Court to withdraw the suit with liberty to institute a fresh one on the same cause of action. The Court, however, without deciding the question of jurisdiction granted leave:

Held, that the provisions of S. 14. Lim. Act, could not be invoked in order to save limitation for the fresh suit instituted subsequently. 69 C.I. J. 540=43 C.W.N. 1074=A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 625=I.L.R. (1930) 2 Cal. 316=184 Ind. Cas. 631.

A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 625=69 C.L J. 540=43 C.W.N. 1074=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 316=184 Ind. Cas. 631.

——S. 14.—Suit on pro-note in High Court having jurisdiction to entertain it—Defendants, alleging themselves agriculturists—Plaintiff withdrawing suit—Fresh suit filed in Court of Subordinate Judge:

Held, that the jurisdiction of the High Court to decide the question whether the defendants were agriculturists was not affected by the action of the plaintiffs. The Court had jurisdiction to make an order under O. 23, R. 1, and the case, therefore came under O. 23, R. 2, and not under S. 14, Lim. Act, and the plaintiffs were bound by the law of limitation just if as the first suit had not been instituted. The time of prosecution of the first suit could not, therefore, be excluded. A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 281=40 Bom. L.R. 377=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 327=175 Ind. Cas. 528.

——S. 14—Withdrawal of suit—Subsequent suit on same cause of action.

Where a plaintiff chooses to withdraw his suit under O. 23, R. 1, he is not entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act, in a subsequent suit founded on the same cause of action, because it can not be considered that the previous suit failed on account of a defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature. A.I.R. 1937 All. 124=1936 A.W.R. 1014=167 Ind. Cas. 371.

——S. 14—Withdrawal of suit.

Where plaintiffs are permitted to withdraw their suit and bring a fresh suit, in such fresh suit, they must be bound by the law of limitation in the same manner as if the first suit had not been instituted. That is to say, S. 14, Lim. Act, cannot apply. A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 259=37 Bom. L.R. 225=157 Ind. Cas. 592.

——S. 14—'Is unable to entertain it'—Significance and meaning of—Application of S. 14, Limitation Act and O. 23, Rr. 1, 2, Civil Procedure Code.

When O. 23, R. 2, Civil P. C. provides that a previous suit should be treated as non-existent, then it cannot be taken into account by the Court at all when applying the provisions of S. 14. The words "is unable to entertain it" in S. 14, do not merely mean that the court has expressed its mind that the suit is defective, but must mean that the Court has passed an order terminating the suit or proceeding on the ground that there is a defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature on which the suit must fail. So long as the Court has not terminated the proceeding but has merely given an option to the plaintiff to choose one of two alternatives and the plaintiff voluntarily chooses one, it cannot be said that the case falls within S. 14 of the Lim. Act. (1934) A.L.J. 535=A.I.R. 1934 All. 688=3 A.W.R. 806=57 A. 145=150 Ind. Cas. 135 (F.B.).

——S. 14—Conflict between special law and general law.

The provision in O. 23, R. 2, Civil P. C. is a special provision relating to suits, as a particular case whereas the provision in S. 14 is a general provision applying to all suits which have failed for want of jurisdiction or causes of a like nature. In case of a real conflict, the special provisions would, therefore, prevail and must be treated as an exception to the general rule. (1934) A.L.J. 535=A.I.R. 1934 All. 688=3 A.W.R. 806=57 145=150 Ind. Cas. 135 (F. B.).

——S. 14.—The provisions of S. 14 are not applicable where a suit is withdrawn by a plaintiff under O. 23, R. 1, C. P. Code, with permission to bring a fresh suit, and the plaintiff shall be bound by the law of limitation in the same manner as if the first suit had not been instituted. 29 Bom. 219 and 39 Mad. 936, Foll. 114 Ind. Cas. 910=9 L.R.A. Rev. 178=A.I.R. 1928 All. 402.

——S. 14—Suit withdrawn with liberty—Limitation for fresh suit.

Where a suit is withdrawn with liberty to bring a fresh suit the limitation for the latter nevertheless runs from the date of the original cause of action. 29 B. 219=20 C. 205, Foll. 39 Mad. 936=2 L.W. 1002=18 M.L.T. 385 =29 M.L.J. 569=(1915) M.W.N. 850=31 Ind. Cas. 234.

——S. 14—C.P.C., Ss. 373, 374—Leave to withdraw under S. 373 given in a case of which the Court had not proper seizen by reason of leave of Registrar only under Cl. 12, Letters Patent.

A Court is not properly seized of a case instituted with the leave of the Registrar only under Cl. 12 of the Letters Patent; and has no jurisdiction to grant leave to withdraw under S. 373 (C. P. C.). When leave is given without jurisdiction, S. 374, (C. P. C.) will not apply and S. 14 of the Lim. Act can be invoked for the purpose of excusing the delay. (1908) 12 C.W.N. 921= 35 C. 924.

1 (e). Applicability and scope of section —Ss. 4 and 14.

See also under S. 4 supra.

——Ss. 14 and 4—Interpretation and scope.

Section 4 can be applied to a case in which extension of time has been claimed under S. 14 and a plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of S. 14 and S. 4 tacked together. 33 C.W.N. 221=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 315.

——Ss. 14 and 4.—Provisions of S. 4 can be available only where the period prescribed expires when the Court is closed and the application is made to the proper Court on the day on which the Court re-opens; but if on the re-opening day the applicant files his application in a wrong Court he cannot be entitled to take advantage of both the sections and to tack on the vacation to the period spent in prosecuting the application filed in the wrong Court. 36 Mad. 131; A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 654; 14 A.L.J. 310; A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 114, Foll. 118 Ind. ——Ss. 14 and 4—Applicability—Presentation to wrong Court.

Where a suit, which, in order to be within limitation had to take the advantage of a holiday under S. 4 was instituted in a wrong Court, S. 14 will not be applicable to bring it within time when subsequently instituted in a proper Court, A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 114; 116 P.L.R. 1920, Foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 314=11 Lah. 12=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 425.

——S. 14.

Holidays preceding the period specified by S. 14 cannot be excluded under S. 14. If a plaintiff, after the expiration of the full period of limitation on account of the intervening holiday, files a suit on the re-opening day in a wrong Court, S. 14 can never be of any avail to him. 69 Ind. ——Ss. 14 and 4.

Where on the day the limitation period expires the Court having jurisdiction is closed and on the day of re-opening, the suit is instituted in a Court having no jurisdiction and the plaint is thereafter returned for presentation to the proper Court and is accordingly presented therein, the suit should be held to be barred; for the purposes of S. 4 account cannot be taken of the closing and re-opening of any other Court than that in which the suit was rightly instituted. 36 Mad. 131; 36 Mad. 482 and 8 M.L.W. 256, Foll.

The period allowed by S. 14 cannot be tacked on to the period during which the proper Court was closed, when such latter period precedes the period under S. 14. 63 Ind. Cas. 924=44 Mad. 817=13 M.L.W. 631=1921 M.W.N. 442=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 654=41 M.L.J. 84.

——S. 14—Applicability—Excusing delay under S. 5.

The existence of circumstances mentioned in S. 14 constitutes a sufficient ground for excusing the delay under S. 5, caused by wrong proceedings. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 170=1941 M.W.N. 989=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 873=201 Ind. Cas. 84.

——S. 14—Application under S. 5.

Although S. 14 does not, in terms, apply as it deals with suits and not with appeals, that section is relevant in considering applications under S. 5, and may be availed of in excluding the period taken by an appellant in applying to the lower Court for review of judgment. 2. "Civil proceeding."

See also: Notes 13, 15 and 17.

——S. 14—'Civil proceeding'.

The term "civil proceeding" used in S. 14 is not meant to cover an application made under Ss. 28 and 29 or S. 42 of the Land Registration Act and the Land Registration Deputy Collector cannot be called "a Court" for the purpose of deciding cases under those sections. 90 Ind. Cas. 244=7 P.L.T. 61=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 194.

——S. 14—Collector having power to determine application under O. 21, R. 100, C. P. Code, is Civil Court but not where he had no jurisdiction.

It is necessary in each case to examine the precise nature of the proceeding and the constitution of the authority before whom such proceeding is taken in order to decide whether it should properly be termed a Civil proceeding in a Court. If the proceeding in question was one which the Collector was competent to determine, he should be regarded as a Court within the meaning of S. 14, Collector is not invested with power to dispose of objections under O. 21, R. 58, C. P. Code. It would appear that he has no power under O. 21, R. 100, C. P. Code, which is of the same nature as O. 21, R. 58. When the Collector had no jurisdiction there is no bona fide mistake of jurisdiction such as would justify the Court in excluding the time occupied in applying to the Collector from the period of limitation. 23 Bom. 531 and 44 Bom. 50, Foll. 78 Ind. Cas. 580=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 309.

——S. 14—Proceeding need not be in another Court.

The fact that S. 14 requires that there should have been "another civil proceeding" does not contemplate a proceeding in a different Court to the one in which the proceeding said to be time-barred is pending. 62 Ind.Cas. 507=15 S.L.R. 11=A.I.R. 1921 Sind 13.

——S. 14—Civil proceeding—Application for copies.

When person applies for a copy of judgment and the decree or order to enable him to prefer an appeal against that order he may be taken to have been prosecuting a civil proceeding during the time taken to prepare the certified copies. 15 C.L.J. 160=7 Ind. Cas. 775.

——S. 14—"Civil proceeding"—Suit to recover possession of immovable property—Time occupied in prosecuting—Mutation proceedings before Revenue Officers.

The prosecution of an application for mutation of names under the provisions of U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1873, and of appeals from the order of the Settlement Officer refusing mutation does not fall within the terms of S. 14. "Prosecuting with due diligence another civil proceeding in a court of first instance or in a court of appeal, &c., &c.," An application for mutation of names is not a civil proceeding nor are the Settlement Officer, the Commissioner and the Board of Revenue "Court," but are executive officers of Government. 1904 A.W.N. 54=26 A. 382.

3. "Court"—Meaning of.

See also: Note 13.

——S. 14—Governor-General in Council, if Court—Proceedings before Railway Advisory Board.

For the applicability of S. 14, Lim. Act, an enquiry by the plaintiff must have been prosecuted in good faith in a Court which, from defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature, was unable to entertain it. But where the plaintiff had recourse to the Advisory Board which is not a Court instead of to the Railway Commissioner, he cannot be said to have prosecuted his claim in good faith and hence, in such a case S. 14, cannot extend time.

Similarly, though the Governor-General in Council is the supreme executive authority in India, there is no statute constituting him a Court. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 141=1939 N.L.J. 124=185 Ind. Cas. 241.

——S. 14—Court, if includes foreign Court.

The word 'Court' in S. 14 applies only to Courts in British India and does not include a foreign Court such as a Court in a Native State. An arbitrator might take into consideration the principles of the Lim. Act and exclude from the period of limitation, time spent in a previous instructuous arbitrations. 41 C.W.N. 193=I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 541=169 Ind. Cas. 788.

——S. 14.

A Berar Court is not a Court contemplated by S. 14. The word 'Court' in that section means Court in British India. 76 Ind. Cas. 305=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 321.

——S. 14—'Court'—Foriegn Court not included.

Court in S. 14 does not include Foreign Court. All legislation is primarily territorial and a limit must be placed upon the general sense of a word used in a statute with reference to this principle of law unless the language or object of the statute which contains something compels the Court to interpret the word in its wider sense. ——S. 14—Court—Exclusion of time—Proceeding before Collector—Bombay Heriditary Offices Act (III of 1874), S. 11.

An application to the Collector to take action under S. 11-A, of the Bom. Heriditary Offices Act, 1874, is not a proceeding in a Court within S. 14 of the Limitation Act; and the time taken up in prosecuting such an application cannot be excluded under S. 14. 20 Bom. L.R. 918=43 Bom. 201=48 Ind. Cas. 467.

——S. 14—"Court" — Regulation Collector—Claim made within time—Reference by Decree Collector—Extension of time.

Where there were both a Regulation Collector and a Decree Collector and a claim was preferred to the Regulation Collector in respect of a debt before the recovery of it was barred by limitation, the claim is not liable to be dismissed as barred on the ground that the reference by the Decree Collector to the Civil Court was made after the expiry of the limitation period in consequence of the delay that happened in the disposal of the Regulation Collector. The reference by the Decree Collector to the course is not to be regarded as the institution of a suit by the claimant, and S. 4 of the Limitation Act has no application to it. The question that could properly be referred is whether the claim was legally enforcible when it was made to the Regulation Collector and not whether it was legally recoverable on some subsequent date arbitrarily fixed by the Regulation Collector. Obiter: —The case will be different if there was no Decree Collector at all, but there was only the Regulation Collector, when the suit will have to be filed before it is barred. A Regulation Collector is not a Court "which from defect of jurisdiction was unable to entertain the claim" within the meaning of S. 14 of the Limitation Act, and S. 14 will not avail for the exclusion of the time taken before the Regulation Collector. (1907) 18 M.L.J. 581=31 M. 495=4 M.L.T. 321.

4. Same cause of action.

——S. 14—Same cause of action.

In order to claim exemption under S. 14, the cause of action in the two suits must be the same. 35 Bom. L.R. 929=A.I.R. 1933 Bom. 450=58 B. 200=145 Ind. Cas. 630.

——S. 14—Applicability—Different causes of action.

The essential point to be considered in any application under S. 14 of the Act is that the previous proceeding was founded upon the same cause of action as is sought to be enforced in the subsequent suit. The section would not apply when the causes of action in the two suits are entirely distinct. 14 B. 365 approved. 17 C.L.J. 596=20 Ind. Cas. 513.

——S. 14—Same cause of action.

Suit to enforce mortgage—Return of plaint for presentation to proper Court—Plaintiff amending the same plaint—Change in relief and not in cause of action:

Held, that the plaintiff could get the benefit of S. 14. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 498=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 362=1943 M.W.N. 310=I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 104=213 Ind.Cas. 270.

——S. 14—Suit on mortgage—Striking out relief for sale of property, whether changes cause of action.

"Cause of action" and "relief" are quite distinct and the question whether two proceedings are based upon the same cause of action or different causes of action cannot be decided upon the terms of the reliefs claimed in either proceeding.

A suit based upon a mortgage deed is essentially a suit to recover a loan and the cause of action for such a suit is the failure of the defendant to discharge the loan. A mortgage in a suit founded upon a simple mortgage proceeds on the same cause of action whether he claims only to recover the loan advanced by him or process also for the additional relief of enforce the charge in his favour. Where the plaint based on a mortgage deed after deletion of relief as to sale is returned from regular side for presentation to the Small Cause Court, the plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1940 All. 145=(1939) A.L.J. 1075=1939 A.W.R. 875=187 Ind. Cas. 336.

Where the same cause of action entitles a party to several reliefs and he chooses to sue only for one of them he cannot subsequently bring a suit for another relief and so far as limitation is concerned, claim the benefit of S. 14 of the Lim. Act. In order that S. 14 may be applicable, the relief should also be the same. 38 L.W. 595=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 778=146 Ind.Cas. 361.

——S. 14(1).—Suit for partition—Issues framed not covering question of how property was to be divided—Appointment of arbitrator to decide "all matters at issue between parties"—Arbitrator attempting compromise—Several properties divided by agreement—Respondents agreeing to pay plaintiff certain amount in lieu of certain share and executing pro-note—Compromise failing—Award by arbitrator—Appellant treating incomplete partition as binding and seeking to enforce it in partion suit—Respondent pleading that award was void—Preliminary decree in accordance with award—On appeal, Appellate Court holding that incomplete partition was binding on parties but could not be enforced in partition suit—Suit by appellant to recover amount on pro-note beyond limitation:

Held, that the case fell within the very words of S. 14 (1), and the limitation began to run from the date of the Appellate Court's decree as the appellant was seeking to enforce the incompleate partition by means of the partition proceedings and was, therefore, founding himself upon precisely the same cause of action as that upon which the subsequent suit was founded and in seeking to enforce the partition in the earlier proceedings, the appellant was acting with due diligence and in good faith. A.I.R. 1939 P.C. 128=5 B.R 671=43 C.W N. 648=1939 O.W.N. 800=(1939) A.I.J. 738=1939 A.W.R. 174=50 L.W. 708=I.L R. (1939) Kar. (P.C) 211 Sup.=181 Ind. Cas. 471 (P.C.).

——S. 14—Cause of action—Act of Court restraining person from obstructing possession of another.

An order of the Court does not give a cause of action to a party to start a judicial proceeding. A cause of action briefly means "right and the infringement of the right." An act of the Court restraining a person from obstructing the possession of another can never amount to an infringement of his right to the property. A right can only be infringed by an act on the part of the opposite party. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 1=40 Bom. L.R. 1134= I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 173=179 Ind. Cas. 178.

——S. 14.

Where a claim is satisfied either by agreement of parties or by a decree of the Court, and if the satisfaction or the decree is set aside subsequently in a judicial proceeding, then a new cause of action will arise in respect of which the claimant will either get a fresh period of limitation provided for in the Act or the cause of action will be revived and he will be entitled to deduction of the time occupied in the proceedings resulting in the annulment of the satisfaction or the setting aside of the prior decree. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 1=49 Bom. L.R. 1134=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 173=179 Ind. Cas. 178.

——S. 14—Claim for rent and for the mesne profits or damages, distinction between.

The claim for rent and claim for mesne profits or for damages for use and occupation are founded on distinct causes of action; the claim for rent being founded upon a subsisting relationship between the land-lord and tenant either based on a tenure or on a contract. The claim for mesne profits is not based on such relationship but essentially on trespass:

Held, on facts that since the claim for rent was not founded on the same cause of action as the claim for mesne profits, the condition of the identity of the causes of action required under S. 14 was wanting and consequently, S. 14 had no application. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 724=50 L.W. 139=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 329=189 Ind. Cas. 204.

——S. 14.

Where, in a subsequent suit, a larger sum of money has been claimed by way of damages or mesne profits because the claim has been made for a large period of time, that is, four years instead of two years as in the previous suit, the dispossessions, though for a longer period of time, is the same dispossession as regards a part of the period as was the subject of cause of action in the previous suit. Therefore, as regards two years of the period of dispossession, the cause of action is identical and may be excluded. As regards the period prior to that period of two years, the cause of action is different in this sense that although the cause was the same dispossession it was for a different period of time and hence can not be excluded. A.I.R. 1934 All. 824=(1934) A.L.J. 630=4 A.W.R. 258=152 Ind. Cas. 800.

——S. 14.

A suit was filed on a pro-note in a Native State and decreed. A suit was then filed in British India on the basis of the foreign judgment which was dismissed on the ground that the Court in Native State had no jurisdiction. Plaintiff then filed a fresh suit on pro-note in British India and claimed benefit of S. 14:

Held, that causes of action in the two suits in British India were different and S. 14 did not apply. 112 Ind. Cas. 139=1928 M.W.N. 543=28 M.L.W. 645 =A.I R. 1928 Mad. 1088.

——S 14—A person is not entitled to the benefit under the section when there is not the same cause of action and when the suit is not conducted with due diligence and in good faith.

A Chettiar firm being a partnership of three partners carried on a money lending business at Thonze by an agent. It made certain advances to a certain person and when accounts were settled between them it was found that he owed a certain sum to the firm. The respondent guaranteed payment of this amount to the firm and gave their agent a promissory note. Two of the three partners sued the debtor to recover the sum. They instituted the suit at Tharrawaddy and they alleged that the defendant had borrowed the sum from their firm at Thonze which is within the jurisdiction of the Tharrawaddy Court. In the plaint they did not refer to the document mentioned above, but they mentioned it in an annexure to their plaint as one of the documents on which they relied.

The suit was filed on the last day of limitation and the third partner—the present appellant—joined the suit as plaintiff later. The suit was found not within jurisdiction of the Court. The plaint was subsequently presented in the Small Cause Court of Rangoon, but before the case came on for trial there, appellant filed an amended plaint in which he claimed to sue alone on the basis of the document as a promissory note. He claimed exemption from the law of limitation on the ground that he had been in good faith prosecuting against the respondent another suit on the promissory note in the Tharrawaddy Court:

Held, that as the latter cause of action, which was based on the document as a promissory note, was not the cause of action in the suit as originally instituted, and the appellant was not prosecuting the suit with due diligence and in good faith, he was not entitled to the benefit of S. 14. A.I.R. 1922 P. C. 249, Foll. 105 Ind. Cas. 701=5 Rang. 600=A.I.R. 1928 Rang. 21.

——S. 14.

When defendant sued plaintiff for a declaration that a certain sale was invalid and after his suit was finally dismissed, plaintiff sued for possession of the land sold to him:

Held, that the time occupied by defendant's suit cannot be availed of by plaintiff under S. 14, especially where causes of action for two suits were different and defendant's suit was not in a wrong Court. 104 Ind. Cas. 726=28 P.L.R. 403=9 L.L. J. 477=A. I.R. 1927 Lah. 785.

——S. 14—Different cause of action.

A suid for recovery of rent against a non-occupancy raiyat is barred if not brought within three years from the last day of the agricultural year in which the arrear fell due, under the provision of Art. 2 (b) of Sch. III. The period cannot be extended under the provisions of S. 14 owing to pendency of proceedings under S. 46, B.T. Act, as the two suits are not founded on the same cause of action. 92 Ind. Cas. 37=43 C.L.J. 45=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 693.

——S. 14—Ejectment—Arrears of rent.

The limitation for a suit to recover arrears of rent accruing due whilst a suit by land-lord for ejectment of the tenant on the ground of forfeiture was pending is not extended by reason of the continuation of the ejectment suit. 39 Ind. Cas. 865 (Cal).

——S. 14—Suit for arrears of rent—Pendency of suit for possession.

The pendency of a suit for possession does not save limitation for the rent suit. 1 L. W. 438=23 Ind. Cas. 942.

5. Same parties.

——S. 14—Same parties—Suit by firm against D—Subsequent suit by some partners against D—Other partners joined as defendants—Both suits are between same parties.

A suit by an unregistered firm against D and a subsequent suit against D by some of the partners as partners in personam impleading the other partners in the firm, as defendants they being absent from the station, are suits between the same parties within S. 14. ——S. 14—Appeal by Offical Receiver against dismissal of application under Ss. 53 and 54, Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920—Appellate Court directing that suit by creditor under S. 53, Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882) for declaration of transfer as void was proper remedy—Suit by creditor.

In the insolvency proceedings, the Official Receiver applied for setting aside transfers by the insolvent under Ss. 53 and 54, Prov. Insol. Act. The Court held, that the transfers were bona fide and dismissed the application. On appeal, the District Judge directed that the further remedy was a suit by the creditors under S. 53, T. P. Act for declaration that the transfers were void. In the suit by one of the creditors under S. 53, T. P. Act, the plaintiff claimed to deduct the time spent in the prosecution of the appeal before the District Judge:

Held, that S. 14, Lim. Act had no application. Although the Official Receiver represented the credtiors, it could not be said that the plaintiff was prosecuting those proceedings. The person who was prosecuting the proceedings, was the Official Receiver, who was asking that the transfers be set aside under the provisions of Ss. 53 and 54, Insol. Act, which refer to transactions which are void against the Official Receiver. The cause of action in the suit by the creditor fell within the provisions of another Act the T. P. Act. Moreover, the suit which was filed by the creditor as the result of the order of the District Judge could have been filed by him during the pendency of the insolvency proceedings. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 483=(1942) 1 M.L. J. 588=55 L. W. 301=1942 M.W.N. 430=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 862=202 Ind. Cas. 490.

——S. 14—Parties.

A suit against a firm, and a subsequent suit, against the surviving partners of the firm and the heirs of a deceased partner are both against the same parties within the meaning of S. 14 of the Limitation Act. 112 Ind. Cas. 715=1929 A.L.J. 73.

——S. 14—Suit against same defendant in different capacity is not covered. (Obiter).

Where the plaintiff had sued defendant for some cotton yarn as part of the accounts which were presented against the defendant in the partnership and in a second suit by the plaintiff for the price of the same cotton yarn against the same defendant in his personal capacity:

Held, that the plaintiff could not be said to have been prosecuting with due diligence another civil proceeding which was founded upon the same cause of action. 102 Ind. Cas. 870=A.I.R. 1927 All. 628.

Section 14 of the Limitation Act renders it essential that the proceedings should be between the contesting parties. 64 Ind. Cas. 315=60 Ind.Cas. 698=33 C.L.J. 366=26 C.W.N. 271=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 596.

——S. 14—Properties beyond pecuniary Jurisdiction of first court—Person not entitled added as co-plaintiff in first suit—Same cause of action—Same parties.

Where two plaintiffs as next heirs of the last male owner brought a suit in the District Munsif's Court for the recovery of certain properties and a third person who, however, was subsequently found to have no real claim was added on that third person's application as a co-plaintiff and on its being found that the value of the properties was beyond the pecuniary jurisdiction of the District Munsif, the plaintiffs withdrew a portion of the claim, but the final order was that the plaint should be returned to the proper court.

Held: (1) that a subsequent suit by the two plaintiffs for recovery of the properties including the properties withdrawn in the course of the first suit was founded upon the same cause of action; (2) that such subsequent suit was between the same parties not withstanding the fact that a third person who, however, was found to have no real claim, was added as a co-plaintiff in the first suit on his application; and (3) that the plaintiffs were entitled, under S. 14 to a deduction of the time occupied in prosecuting the first suit. (1903) 14 M.L.J. 287.

6. Same relief.

—S. 14 (2)—"Same relief"—Application by decree-holder to get debtor adjudicated insolvent—Time spent in prosecution—Right to exclude from period of limitation for execution application.

A decree-holder who asks the Court to get his judgment-debtor adjudicated insolvent is not asking for the "same relief" as the decree-holder who applies for execution of his decree against his judgment-debtor within the meaning of S. 14 (2), Limitation Act. Therefore the period spent by a decree-holder in prosecuting a petition for his debtors' adjudication as insolvent cannot be excluded under S. 14 (2), Limitation Act, in computing the period of limitation prescribed for an execution application. 25 Lah. 451 (F.B.), foll. I.L.R. (1949) Bom. 634=51 Bom. L.R. 603=A. I. R. 1949 Bom. 379.

——S. 14 (2)—Applicability—Same relief—Application for final decree and subsequent application for execution.

An application for a final decree in a mortgage suit and an application for execution of a decree are not applications for the same relief within the meaning of S. 14 (2), Limitation Act. Hence a prior application for a final decree though made bona fide can be of no avail to limitation in respect of the subsequent application for execution under S. 14 (2). 49 Bom. L.R. 864=A.I.R. 1948 Bom. 185.

7. "Prosecuting proceeding."

——Ss. 14 and 15.

Administration suit—Preliminary 'decree' passed and Receiver appointed—Suit dismissed on appeal:

Held, that decree-holder defendant could not deduct period between date of suit and its dismissal in calculating limitation for execution of his decree, Sections 14 and 15 did not apply. A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 67=56 L.W. 658=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 510=(1943) M.W.N. 728=I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 410=215 Ind. Cas. 318.

——S. 14—Merely defending suit, whether prosecuting it.

Merely defending a suit is not and cannot amount to the prosecution of a suit. The terms "plaintiff" and "defendant" have a well-known technical meaning. The Legislature must be deemed to be aware of that meaning when they choose to allow benefit of the time occupied by an earlier proceeding only to the plaintiff as against the defendant. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 1=40 Bom. L.R. 1134=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 173=179 Ind. Cas. 178.

——Ss. 14 and 15.

Dispute about family property—Reference to arbitration and an award in favour of defendant—Decree on award without objection — P, a minor member of the family on becoming major disputing the claim of defendant at the time of mutation—Revenue authorities referring them both to civil suit—G's suit for declaration that the adoption of P was invalid and for injunction against him—G obtaining decree which was upheld by High Court but was reversed by Privy Council—Suit by P for recovery of possession of property from defendant, seeking the benefit of S. 14:

Held, that S. 14 did not apply as P was not prosecuting the earlier suit but was merely defending it. Section 15 also did not apply as the injunction and the decree in the earlier suit did not operate as a stay of the suit for possession by G. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 1=40 Bom. L.R. 1134=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 173=179 Ind. Cas. 178.

——S. 14.

The plaintiff applied for execution of their decree on August 21, 1926, upon which there was objection preferred by the judgment-debtor under S. 47, Civil P. C. and the execution proceeding started by the plaintiffs was held to be not maintainable in view of the order passed by the Court on August 27, 1925, recording full satisfaction. The order passed by the Court of execution on January 8, 1926, against the plaintiffs, was appealed against and there was a further appeal by the plainstiffs against the decision of the Appellate Court to the High Court. The order in the execution proceedings holding against the plaintiffs that they were not maintainable was affirmed by the High Court on March 18, 1929. The suit for the rectification of the petition of adjustment was instituted by the plaintiffs on March 26, 1931, and the bar of limitation was sought to be avoided by asserting that the plaintiffs were prosecuting some other proceedings:

Held, that the application for execution made by the plaintiffs on August 21, 1926, must be taken to be a proceeding which the plaintiffs had been prosecuting till March 18, 1929, and it would be going against the scope and operation of S. 14, Lim. Act, if it were held that it was the judgment-debtor's objection that was the proceeding before the Court of execution, and not the proceeding in execution started by the plaintiffs to which objection was raised by the judgment-debtors and that the plaintiffs were entitled to invoke the aid of the provisions contained in S. 14 of the Lim. Act. for saving the bar of limitation. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 400=40 C.W.N. 914=165 Ind. Cas. 756.

——S. 14—Plaintiff in later suit consisting same matter by way of defence in previous suit.

In order that S. 14 may be applicable, the plaintiff in the later suit must have been prosecuting another civil proceedings. The word 'prosecuting' used in first paragraph of the section means that the plaintiff in the later suit must be either the plaintiff or applicant in the previous civil proceeding which was not entertained by reason of defect of jurisdiction. This position has been made clear by Expl. II. Consequently, the plaintiff in the later suit, is not entitled to deduct time during which he had been contesting the same matter by way of defence to a petition of objection filed under S. 47, Civil P. C. 39 C.W.N. 966=164 Ind. Cas. 651.

——S. 14.

Decree for sale in terms of compromise—Instalment payment—Default—Application for execution—Objection that final decree has not been made—Dismissal of application by High Court—Application for final decree:

Held, that plaintiff was not entitled to exclusion of time spent in lower Court and High Court. 4 A.W.R. 1352=(1935) A.L. J. 201=A.I.R. 1935 All. 323=153 Ind. Cas. 1058.

——S. 14—Whether applies to defences.

Where the defendant who had executed a promissory note to the plaintiff instituted a suit for a declaration that the note had been discharged and for an injunction restraining the plaintiff from suing upon it and the plaintiff in a subsequent suit upon the note sought to exclude the period of time during which he was defending the former suit:

Held, that S. 14 was not applicable to the case of a defendant defending a suit. 28 N.L.R. 348=A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 13=141 Ind. Cas. 34.

——S. 14—'Prosecuting'.

The expression "prosecuting" referred to in S. 14 is generally applicable to a proceeding by a person as a plaintiff or an applicant and not to a proceeding in which such person is merely resisting as a defendant or respondent the claim of another. A.I.R. 1933 Sind 379=27 S.L.R. 422=147 Ind. Cas. 94.

——S. 14—Claims in defendants' written statements found against but suit dismissed wholly —The pendency of appeal does not save limitation as to the claims made in the written statements.

The suit was a partition suit. The controversy was between the plaintiff and his son (the 5th defendant) on the one side and the remaining defendants on the other. The question was as to whether the limitation as to the plaintiffs' claim to certain items was saved by reason of a previous litigation in which he and his son (the 5th defendant) had taken part. The previous litigation was also a partition suit by another co-parcener. The plaintiff of that suit claimed on the footing that he had been adopted by a deceased co-parcener. The present plaintiff and his son who were defendants in that suit alleged that the present plaintiff's son was adopted by the deceased co-parcener in question, that the adoptive father had been divided from the rest of the family and had left a will. They also alleged that various items were due to the joint family from the father of the plaintiff of that suit. The trial Court found that both the alleged adoptions were false. The alleged division and the will were also found against. As regards the disputed items claimed from the father of the plaintiff of that suit, the trial Court found that some of the items claimed in the present suit were due. But there was no decree in respect of it. As the plaintiff's case had failed the Court dismissed the whole suit. There was an appeal by the plaintiff. The present plaintiff and his son filed a joint memorandum of objections in which the stated that the trial Court's finding as regards thy adoption of the present plaintiff's son, the will and and the partition were wrong and unnecessary and that his findings about the liabilities and outstandings of the family were not entirely correct. But they contended that the Trial Court having found against the (then) plaintiff's adoption rightly dismissed suit but erred in disallowing costs to them. The (then) plaintiff's father also put in a memorandum of objections in regard to the findings against him about the family's liabilities and outstandings; but that was superfluous as there was neither any decree nor appeal in respect of them. There was no dispute about these matters between the (then) plaintiff and his father. The appellate Court dismissed both the appeal and the memorandum of objections:

Held, that while the appeal was pending, the present plaintiff and his son were not prosecuting their claim in respect of the unadmitted items now in question, within the meaning of S. 14 of the Limitation Act. 91 Ind. Cas. 202=1925 M. W. N. 241=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 922.

——S. 14 and Art. 178—Prosecution of proceeding —Resisting a suit.

An applicant to file an award could not be allowed to deduct the time spent by him as deft. in setting up the award in bar of a prior suit instituted by the plaintiff. 89 P.R. 1919=52 Ind. Cas. 561.

——Ss. 14 and 15—Prosecution of proceeding—Resisting an application in insolvency.

In computing the period of limitation for a suit the plaintiff is entitled to exclude the time during which he has been opposing the deft.'s application for insolvency. 12 Bur. L.T. 83=52 Ind. Cas. 934.

——S. 14—Prosecution of proceeding.

A mere routine order registering an application for review does not constitute a bona fide prosecution of a civil litigation. 19 C.W.N. 1113=31 Ind. Cas. 705.

8. Good faith and due diligence.

——S. 14—"Good faith"—Meaning of.

The expression "good faith" in S. 14 (2) itself involves due care aad attention, as is clear from the definition of "good faith" in S. 2 (7) of the Act. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 301=25 Pat. 50=12 B.R. 698=226 Ind. Cas. 195.

——S. 14.

"Good faith" means that which is done with due care and attention. (1936) 38 P.L.R. 311.

——S. 14—Applicability—Suit filed by layman in wrong Court after attempting to ascertain law—Court also falling into error in thinking it had jurisdiction—Suit filed on last day of limitation—Plaintiff, if entitled to protection.

Where a plaintiff who is a layman files his suit in Court having no jurisdiction after doing all he can to ascertain the law, and the Court also falls into an error in thinking at the time that it has jurisdiction, the plaintiff must be held to have acted in good faith and with due diligence and he is entitled to the protection of S. 14 of the Limitation Act, although the suit is filed by him in the wrong Court on the last day of limitation. I.L.R. (1949) Nag. 743=1949 N.L.J. 586=A.I.R. 1950 Nag. 37.

——S. 14—"Good faith"—Application for execution omitting to mention property to be attached.

An execution application, if it is intended for purposes of execution, cannot be said to have been made in good faith, (e. g.) with due care and attention if it omits to set out the property which the decree-holder wants to be attached and brought to sale. I. L. R. (1947) Nag. 497=1947 N.L.J. 376=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 189.

——S. 14—Due diligence—High Court in revision ordering return of plaint for presentation to proper Court—File returned to trial Court and trial Court again ordering return of plaint—Held, period elapsing after date of order of High Court or at least of trial Court could not be excluded under S. 14.

Section 14 allows exclusion of that period only during which the plaintiff has been prosecuting with due diligence another civil proceeding.

A suit was filed on 25—3—1935. On 30—4—1936 the Court ordered the return of the plaint for presentation to the proper Court. This order was set aside in appeal but was restored in revision by the High Court on 12—8—1938. The file was returned and received by the trial Court on 21—9—1938. That Court, on the same date, noted that the plaint be returned for presentation to the proper Court. But nobody appeared. The plaint was actually returned on 26—9—1938 after a notice was issued by the Court to the plaintiff's counsel, and was presented in proper Court on 27—9—1938:

Held, that the conduct of the plaintiff or his counsel did not show that he acted with due diligence. The civil proceeding ended on 12—8—1938 or at the latest on 22—9—1938 when the trial Court noted the result of the case and ordered the plaint to be returned. Any period that elapsed after that date was not such a period which the plaintiff was entitled to exclude in computing the period of limitation prescribed for the suit. A.I.R. 1946 Oudh 116=1946 Oudh W.N. 24=222 Ind. Cas. 355.

——S. 14—Legal adviser found to have acted not in good faith—Party, if entitled to benefit of S. 14.

In certain cases, mistakes or slips on the part of an Advocate may be condoned. It is human to err and such mistakes may be consistent with a general mental attitude on the part of an Advocate to apply due care and attention to his professional work. But where it is found on the evidence that the legal adviser has not acted in good faith, i. e., with due care and attention, the party is not entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 47=(1943) 2 M. L. J. 375=56 M.L.W. 580=1943 M.W.N. 703=211 Ind. Cas. 480.

——S. 14 has no application where there is negligence.

Where the plaintiff had not only failed to give notice but also failed to implead an obviously necessary party, it would be impossible to hold that there had been no gross negligence. A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 256=43 P.L.R. 530 =199 Ind. Cas. 866.

——S. 14.

Judgment-debtor not aware of decisions whether certain order under N. W. F. P. Agri. Relief Act (IV of 1939), is appealable or only revisable—Appeal wrongly but bona fide filed, dismissed as not maintainable—Time taken in prosecuting appeal can be excluded in computing limitation for revision. A. I. R. 1941 Peh. 85=197 Ind. Cas. 183.

——S. 14—Party acting contrary to clear provision of law.

A party proceeding contrary to a clearly expressed provision of law cannot be regarded as prosecuting another civil proceeding in good faith. A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 5=41 Bom. L.R. 1190=187 Ind. Cas. 85.

——S. 14—Proceedings carried on in wrong Court.

Although, where a person had initiated proceedings contrary to clearly expressed provisions of law, he cannot, in the words of S. 14, be regarded as prosecuting another civil proceeding in good faith, and therefore, is not entitled to claim the benefit of that section, yet where the procedure to be followed is not clearly indicated, a person carrying on abortive proceedings can claim the benefit of S. 14. A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 184=162 Ind. Cas. 865.

——S. 14—Good faith and diligence—Proceeding contrary to law.

Proceeding contrary to a clearly expressed provision of law cannot be regarded as prosecuting another civil proceeding in good faith in the sense in which the words "good faith" are defined in the Act.

Thus if a person, against whom an order is made under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code, instead of bringing a suit applies for revision of the order, and brings a suit when his application for revision is dismissed, he is not entitled to the exclusion of the period for which he was prosecuting his application for revision. 120 Ind. Cas. 236=7 Rang. 466=A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 297.

——S. 14—Ignorance of law.

Ignorance of law may afford a good ground for the application of S. 14.

A sued B who was an agriculturist in the Court at X on the basis of a bahikhatas on May 2, 1936. The transaction took place within the jurisdiction of the Court at X. The suit, however, ought to have been instituted in the Court at Y within whose jurisdiction the defendant resided, under S. 7 of the U. P. Agri. Relief Act. The plaint, after being returned on July 13, 1936 was, presented the very next day in the proper Court and was beyond limitation by merely two and half months:

Held, that the plaintiff should be deemed to have been prosecuting in good faith the proceedings following the presentation of his plaint in the Court at X and was entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1940 Oudh 412=1940 O.W.N. 657=1940 R.D. 357=1940 A.W.R. 325=190 Ind. Cas. 93.

——S. 14—Ignorance of law.

Ignorance of or inattention to the law by persons who should be well aware of its provisions cannot be regarded as a bona fide mistake within the scope of S. 14. A.I.R. 1933 Lah 58=145 Ind Cas 245

——S. 14.

Plaint presented in wrong Court due to ignorance of provisions of newly passed Act—Held, plaintiff should be deemed to have been prosecuting in due diligence and was entitled to benefit of S. 14. 1937 A.W.R. 140= (1937) A.L.J. 176=1937 R.D. 113=A.I.R. 1937 All. 333 =168 Ind. Cas. 936.

——S. 14—Ignorance of law.

Proceedings coming under S. 14 must be such as are recognized by law as legal in their initiation, though a party has carried the proceeding to the wrong Court. It can hardly be said that a party who is proceeding in ignorance of law has been proceeding with due diligence or in good faith. The word "good faith" connotes due care and attention. 78 Ind. Cas. 482=A.I R. 1924 Pat. 716.

——S. 14—Right to institute suit in more than one Court—Plaintiff's choice causing inconvenience to defendant—No lack of good faith.

A plaintiff who has a right to institute a suit in more than one Court is not bound to consider the convenience of his opponent in making his choice. If the unfortunate effect of that choice is to cause inconvenience to the defendant, it does not constitute lack of good faith on the part of the plaintiff in the sense in which that phrase is used in S. 14. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 86=5 B.R. 792=20 P.L.T. 893=182 Ind. Cas. 632.

——S. 14—Tests of bona fides—Plaintiff instituting suit in place convenient to him.

If two Courts have jurisdiction to try a suit it is initially the privilege of the plaintiff to decide in which Court he would file the suit and the exercise of this option by filing it in a particular Court does not affect the question of jurisdiction or his bona fides. The mere fact, therefore, that the plaintiff instituted the suit in the Civil Court at a certain place because it was convenient for him to do so, does not indicate that he did not institute the suit in good faith. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 264=144 Ind. Cas. 184.

——S. 14 (2).

Application for execution made on last day of limitation and filed in good faith in wrong Court—Application returned and presented in proper Court next day:

Held, that the application was not barred by limitation. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 791=179 Ind. Cas. 160.

——S. 14.

Section 14 is not intended to apply where the suit has failed owing to the negligence and laches of the plaintiff and where that suit was not prosecuted in good faith. 62 Cal. 510=39 C.W.N. 606=A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 377=164 Ind. Cas. 111 (2).

——S. 14.

Indulgence should be granted only in cases where error was an error that might be committed by a reasonable and prudent man exercising due diligence and caution:

Held, that applying this rule the plaintiff did not make such an error as to disentitle him to the benefit of S. 14 in lodging the suit at J where the defendant had land and to where he originally belonged. He was, therefore, entitled to deduct the time spent in prosecuting the suit at J. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 704=40 P.L.R. 631 =181 Ind. Cas. 290.

——S. 14—Circumstances justifyiug either of two views as regards value of property.

'Good faith' as used in S. 14 means 'exercise of due care and attention.' Where the circumstances are such as would justify either view as regards the value of the property, the plaintiffs cannot be regarded as having acted dishonestly and without due care and attention, because they followed the view which was more advantageous to them. 1938 N.L.J. 107=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 300=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 422=179 Ind. Cas. 837.

——S. 14—Negligence of Pleader.

Held, on facts that this was a case of gross negligence, and that, therefore, the plaintiffs were not entitled to the benefit of S. 14 and the fact that the Court did not point out the mistake to the plaintiffs could not help them where they had begun with a mistake caused by gross negligence. A.I.R. 1938 Oudh 112=1938 O.W.N. 360=173 Ind. Cas. 956.

——S. 14.

Speaking generally, a negligence on the part of Counsel cannot be relied upon by the litigant in order to support a plea that he was prosecuting an application in good faith though in a wrong Court within the meaning of S. 14, Lim. Act. 1938 O.W.N. 360=A.I.R. 1938 Oudh 112=173 Ind. Cas. 956.

——S. 14 (2).

Time spent in prosecuting entirely unnecessary applications cannot be excluded. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 318= 177 Ind. Cas. 923.

——S. 14—Good faith—Persistence with suit in village Court and re-presentation of plaint to proper Court with delay—Benefit of section.

Since, without the consent of the defendant, the village Court has no jurisdiction to hear suit beyond the value of Rs. 60, if in a suit filed in such Court, he refuses to give consent, the plaintiff should at once represent his plaint to the proper Court. If he delays, that would be evidence of lack of good faith and he will not be entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. 1937 M.W.N. 715.

——S. 14—Plaint filed on last date of limitation in Court having no jurisdiction—Plaint ordered to be filed in another Court.

A plaintiff who files a suit on the very last date available to him under the law of limitation does so at his own risk, especially as the law does not make any provision for extension of time except in cases coming under Cl. (2) of S. 14. Where the Court has no jurisdiction to try a case, it has also no jurisdiction to pass an order to the prejudice of one of the parties. Besides, the rule of equity can be invoked only in aid of a party who has been diligent in persuing his remedy and not of a person who, having postponed the institution of his suit until the last date of limitation, institutes it in a Court which has no jurisdiction to try it. 18 P.L.T. 250=3 B.R. 363=A.I.R. 1937=Pat. 495=167 Ind. Cas. 941.

——S. 14.

Deputy Commissioner wrongly and without sufficient care moving Subordinate Judge—Held, S. 14 does not apply and time cannot be excluded. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 857=167 Ind. Cas. 501.

——S 14—Necessary condition.

In order that S. 14 may apply, the plaintiff must show that he had used due care and attention in prosecuting proceedings in a wrong Court and it must also be shown that the proceedings failed for want of jurisdiction or a defect of a like nature. The mere fact that the plaintiff might have honestly believed that he could get all he wanted by proceeding in a particular way is not enough. 41 M.L.W. 138=(1935) M.W.N. 107=68 M.L.J. 487=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 731=156 Ind. Cas. 640.

——Ss. 14, 15.

Time spent in prosecuting a case in wrong Court—Part of it in good faith—Time left from the original cause of action after an order directing the suit to be presented to proper Court—Benefit of Ss. 14 and 15 can be allowed. A.I.R. 1934 Nag. 145=30 Nag. L.R. 294=149 Ind. Cas. 956.

——S. 14—Erroneous advice of Pleader.

Presentation of an appeal in the wrong Court on the mistaken advice given bona fide by a Pleader is a sufficient ground for excusing delay in presenting the appeal to the proper Court. 14 Lah. 206=A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 541=34 P.L.R. 554=149 Ind. Cas. 968.

——S. 14—Bona fide mistake of Advocate.

Where the Advocate's mistake is bona fide, the time spent in prosecuting a prior proceeding can be excluded. A.I.R. 1933 Oudh 231=10 O.W.N. 424=8 Luck. 646=150 Ind. Cas. 533.

——S. 14—Due diligence—Error which could have been avoided with due care—Party acting on the advice of pleader.

The fact that a litigant acted on the advoice of a pleader will not improve his position if the error made is so patent that it would have been avoided with the exercise of due care. 6 L.J. 294=226 O.C. 39=51 Ind. Cas. 590.

——S. 14 and Art. 11—Due diligence—Mistaken advice of pleader—Duties of Court.

A party suing under O. 21, R. 63, C.P.C. to establish his title cannot deduct the time spent in appeal or revision from the claim owing to the mistaken advice of his pleader, and is bound by the advocate's negligence. S. 5 leaves it to the discretion of an appellate court to exclude the time where as S. 14 obliges a court to exclude time if it finds a certain state of facts. 8 Bur. L.T. 93=8 L.B.R. 146=27 Ind. Cas. 829.

——S. 14—Due diligence—Litigant prosecuting—Proceedings after taking wrong legal advice.

A litigant who takes action without taking legal advice or consults only a practitioner of inferior standing cannot be said to have exercised due diligence within S. 14 of the Act. But when he consults a leader of the Bar and follows his advice he cannot be said not to have exercised due diligence merely because the court holds that the advice was wrong. 254 P.L.R. 1913=159 P.W.R. 1913=20 Ind. Cas. 3.

——S. 14—Due diligence—Acting on pleader's advice.

S. 14 will operate to save limitation in a case of bona fide mistake such as where a plaint is presented in a wrong court under the advice of the pleader and then represented in the proper court. 6 A.L.J. 711=3 Ind. Cas. 79.

——S. 14 - Filing of plaint in Civil Court - Admission by plaintiff that suit is cognizable by Revenue Court—Return of plaint for presentation to proper Court.

Cases are easily conceivable in which a party may be in doubt as to whether a suit should be instituted in a Civil or a Revenue Court. If a suit is honestly and with due care and caution instituted in one of such Courts but at a subsequent stage, it is found that a wrong forum had been chosen, it cannot be doubted that if an admission to that effect be made and the Court which has no jurisdiction returns the plaint for presentation to the proper Court, S. 14 of the Lim. Act, which is couched in comprehensive terms, will be applicable.

Where a plaint filed in a Civil Court, could be construed as one for avoidance of a lease and for compensation for use and occupation of land, and as the parties and the Subordinate Court construed it as a simple suit for arrears of rent by a land-holder against the thekadar and the plaint was returned for presentation to the Revenue Court:

Held, that there was no want of good faith on the part of the plaintiff who was consequently entitled to the benefit of S. 14. (1932) A.L.J. 421=A.I.R. 1932 All. 377=138 Ind. Cas. 108.

——S. 14—Suit for contribution decreed ex parte against one defendant—Appeal—Non-service of notice on that defendant—Application for re-hearing of appeal.

A decree was passed in a suit for contribution against certain persons and the liability of each of the defendants was specified. The decree was ex parte against one of them P, and all excepting P appealed in vain. P was made a party to the appeal but notice was not served on him. The plaintiff applied for a final decree and P then applied to the original Court to have the ex parte decree set aside. On dismissal of this application P appealed against the decision and also applied for re-hearing of the appeal against the original decision:

Held, that the order of the Appellate Court dismissing the application for re-hearing the appeal was erroneous; S. 14, Lim. Act applied, and as P had been contesting a bona fide application in the original Court to have his case re-heard, his application could not be dismissed as too late. A.I.R. 1932 All. 340=(1932) A.L.J. 257=54 All. 423=140 Ind. Cas. 178.

——S. 14—Institution of suit in wrong Court through under-valuation.

Where a suit has been instituted in a wrong Court owing to under-valuation, the plaintiff may invoke the provisions of S. 14, if he had acted bona fide and had not intentionally under-valued the suit. 36 C.W.N. 326=A.I.R. 1932 Cal. 504=138 Ind. Cas. 349.

——S. 14—Good faith—Under-valuation.

S. 14 of the Limitation Act had no application where it was found as a fact that the plaintiff was not acting in good faith in under-valuing the property and instituting the suit and prosecuting it in the Munsif's Court. (1919) P.H.C.C. 409=53 Ind. Cas. 892.

——S. 14—Good faith—Under valuation not wanton.

Where there is nothing to show a deliberate or reckless under-valuation, S 14 will apply. 17 O.C. 210=25 Ind. Cas. 403.

——S. 14—Good faith—Form of appeal mistaken by reason of under-valuation in plaint.

Where a deft. has been misled in selecting form of appeal owing to a wrong valuation in the plaint, he is entitled to the benefit of S. 14 of the Limitation Act. 18 Ind. Cas. 92 (Oudh)

——S. 14—Good faith—Reckless valuation—Effect of.

If a plaintiff relies on S. 14 he must prove that he prosecuted the previous proceeding in good faith (i.e.) with due care and attention. So when a person recklessly under-values his claim and prosecutes the suit in a wrong Court, he is not entitled to the benefit of S. 14. 14 Ind. Cas. 86 (Oudh).

——S. 14 (2).

High Court judgment—Dismissal of appeal to Privy Council—Application for review:

Held, that the period between the granting or leave to appeal and the Privy Council judgment could not be excluded under Ss. 14 (2) as there were no grounds for believing that an appeal lay to the Privy Council as a matter of law. A.I.R. 1932 Cal. 171=36 C.W.N. 40=144 Ind. Cas. 561.

——S. 14—Negligence, effect of.

The benefit of S. 14 cannot be claimed by parties who are guilty of negligence, laches, inaction or bad faith. 9 O.W.N. 430=A.I.R. 1932 Oudh 220=138 Ind. Cas. 149.

——S. 14—Party displaying great carelessness is not entitled to benefit of S. 14.

Since Act X of 1922 was passed the provisions of S. 14 undoubtedly apply to proceedings under S. 111, Land Revenue Act of 1901. In other words, when a party is required to institute within three months a suit in Civil Court for the determination of such a question and he does institute such a suit and prosecutes it with due diligence he shall have the right, if it be discovered that the Court in which he has instituted the suit has no jurisdiction, to obtain the extension contemplated in S. 14 when proceeding in the Court which has jurisdiction. 18 O. C. 343 and 4 O.L.J. 553, held no longer good law.

But it must be shown that the party can be granted this aid; where the party is guilty of great carelessness and the error committed is not an error which could be committed by a reasonable and prudent man exercising due diligence and caution, the party is not entitled to the benefit of S. 14. 6 O.W.N. 932=A. I.R. 1930 Oudh 64.

——S. 14—Negligence in prior proceeding.

A plaintiff cannot invoke the aid of S. 14 to bring his claim within limitation for the simple reason that the proceedings in insolvency failed not for want to jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature within the meaning of S. 14 but on account of the plaintiff's negligence in not effecting service of notice of the order admitting his petition on the defendant according to law. 121 Ind. Cas. 55=A.I.R. 1931 Nag. 109.

——S. 14—Time taken in prosecuting the previous suit in good faith and due diligence should be excluded.

A person filed an objection petition claiming certain property as his own and seeking to have it excluded from attachment in execution of a decree. The claim was refused whereupon he filed a suit to establish his title. The suit was finally dismissed by the High Court as it considered the application as one under S. 47 against which order they held that the applicant should have preferred an appeal and not filed a suit referred to. The applicant therefore filed the appeal but the appeal was time-barred:

Held, that as the claimant was diligently prosecuting his case, hence time taken in suit ought to be excluded. A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 307=129 Ind. Cas. 660.

——S. 14—Application to sue as pauper, mala fide—Its rejection—Court-fee paid on date when suit was time-barred.

Where an application to sue as a pauper is mala fide and is rejected under O. 33, R. 7 (3), Civil P.C. and on applicant's paying court-fee the suit is regarded as filed on the date on which court-fee was paid, S. 14 does not apply and the period during which the applicant was prosecuting his pauper application cannot be deducted. A. I. R. 1939 Cal. 394=I L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 68=43 C.W.N. 686=69 C.L J. 420=184 Ind. Cas. 345.

——S. 14—Good faith and diligence—Pauper application.

Where an application for leave to sue as a pauper has been disposed of and dismissed and where, moreover, it has been found that the application was made in bad faith, any payment of Court-fees made thereafter cannot operate retrospectively for the purposes of calculation of limitation. 118 Ind. Cas. 687=12 N.L.J. 69=A.I.R. 1929 Nag. 268.

——S. 14—An appellant acted bona fide in preferring his first appeal, there was sufficient cause within S. 5—His second appeal therefore will be protected.

A revenue officer rejected the application of appellant to adduce further evidence and made final order making correction in the record as against appellant. Appellant first appealed against the portion of the order rejecting his application believing bona fide that he would thereby get the whole relief that he wanted. The appeal, however, was dismissed. About 17 or 18 days after the appeal was dismissed he again appealed against the other portion of the order whereby correction in the record was made against him.

Held, that S. 14 constitutes sufficient cause within the meaning of S. 5 but that section would entitle one to the deduction of the period during which the suit or proceeding was prosecuted. A.I.R. 1917 P.C. 156, Rel. on.

Held, futher, that S. 14 is not exhaustive of all the circumstances that may constitute sufficient cause. In this case as the appellant acted bona fide in preparing his first appeal there was sufficient cause for him for not preferring the present appeal within time. And this case is fit for the Court to exercise its discretion under S. 5 since the 17 or 18 days that elapsed between the dismissal of the first and preferring of the present appeal is not a period which can be called unreasonable or which would show that there was any want of diligence on the part of the appellant in preferring the appeal. 119 Ind. Cas. 383=33 C.W.N. 76=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 240.

Mere error of judgment is quite a different thing from bad faith. 112 Ind. Cas. 715=1929 A.L.J. 73.

——S. 14—Bona fide claim.

A plaintiff obtained a decree for rent which was revised in appeal on the ground that provisions of S. 12, Rangoon Rent Act, were not satisfied. In Trial Court no specific issue was raised on the point. Plaintiff sued again for the rent.

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to deduct the whole time required for the previous suit as he was bona fide litigating his claim throughout that period. 117 Ind. Cas. 52=6 Rang. 691=A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 55.

——S. 14—What is a bona fide claim.

In a suit by some trustees of a mosque for removal of its manager and for the appointment of a Receiver, the manager (defendant) claimed that the suit was not maintainable and that the mosque owed him considerable sums of money which he had spent out of his pocket. An issue was raised as to the amount payable to or by the manager and the Trial Court found on evidence that the manager was entitled to be paid a sum of Rs. 3,302 from the mosque and directed the Receiver appointed in the suit to pay up the said sum. The manager thereupon brought a suit for recovery of the amount found to be due to him deducting the amounts actually paid by the Receiver appointed in the previous suit. The trustees pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation:

Held, that the manager was entitled to exclusion of the time spent in the prior suit and in appeal therefrom under S. 14. 73 Ind. Cas. 139=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 347=44 M.L.J. 179.

——S. 14.

Where a plaint is returned for presentation to proper Court, and the order returning the plaint is appealed against, but before the decision of the appeal the plaint is presented to the proper Court, the period required for the prosecution of the appeal subsequent to the presentation of the plaint to the proper Court cannot be excluded under S. 14, as the plaintiff cannot be said to have prosecuted his appeal in good faith. 116 Ind. Cas. 509=25 N.L.R. 99=A.I.R. 1929 Nag. 219.

——S. 14.

Where an application for review is admitted to a hearing and there is a reasonable ground for review inasmuch as the Court had referred to statements that were not a part of the record of the suit, the application is prosecuted bona fide and the period should be exempted. A.I.R. 1917 P.C. 156, Foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 315=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 964.

——S. 14—S. 14 applies when the suit is filed in a wrong Court in good faith.

A suit for redemption the value of which for the purposes of jurisdiction was Rs. 99, was decreed against the appellant who presented an appeal to the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge who, after enquiry, held that the suit was for possession by redemption of "land" as the property in suit was initially land and its character had not been changed by anything alleged to have been done thereon by the defendant. He, therefore, returned the memorandum of appeal for presentation to the proper Court. The next day, the appellant filed the appeal in the Court of the District Judge though the presentation was not within time. The appellant claimed reduction of the time spent by him in prosecuting his appeal in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge under S. 14.

Held, that the provisions of S. 14, Lim. Act, applies to this case as the reasons given by the appellant in support of his contention that the property in suit had changed its character were not such as could summarily be rejected. It had not been shown that the appellant had any motive for filing the appeal in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge; he honestly believed that the appeal lay to that Court. 106 Ind. Cas. 812=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 136.

——S. 14.

Where the decree on the face of it shows that it has been passed by the Court of the Subordinate Judge, there have been two previous execution proceedings, both in the Court of the Subordinate Judge and some money had been realised, and the heading of the decree showed it was one of the Subordinate Judge's Court; but still the decree-holder filed the next execution application in Munsif's Court and re-filed it in proper Court, beyond limitation:

Held, that the decree-holder was not entitled to the protection of S. 14 as such an act cannot be said to be done with due care and attention. 101 Ind. Cas. 674=8 P.L.T. 561=A.I.R. 1927 Pat. 256.

——S. 14—Suit against wrong person.

In computing the period of limitation for a suit against the Secretaay of State, time spent in conducting a suit wrongly filed against Traffic Manager instead of against Secretary of State cannot be deducted. 96 Ind. Cas. 144=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 572.

——S. 14—Mistake in judgment.

Where a suit is decided under C. P Code, O. 17, R. 3, but by mistake R. 2 is mentioned in the judgment instead of R. 3 and the party is misled by this and wastes his time in seeking for re-hearing and after limitation for appeal is over, files an appeal, he can apply to be excused for the delay. 86 Ind. Cas. 356=A.I.R. 1925 Oudh 495.

——S. 14.

A claim cannot be said as not bona fide when two Courts concur in decreeing the claim, although the final Court of appeal holds the decree to be erroneous. 86 Ind. Cas. 130=29 C.W.N. 202=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 456.

——S. 14.

Where the defendants were recorded in the revenue record as tenants under the plaintiffs:

Held, that the plaintiff's action in attempting to secure their ejectment as tenants cannot be held to have been other than a bona fide proceeding even if their evidence was stigmatized by the Revenue Courts as false. 84 Ind. Cas. 733=6 L.L.J. 522=26 P.L.R. 27=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 264.

——S. 14—Good faith was held not to be established on the facts.

Where the suit was prosecuted in wrong Court owing to plaintiff's allegation in plaint that accounts had been made but which was found to be untrue and was left unamended in the plaint when it was presented for the first time in the right court; and though the matter was brought prominently to the plaintiff's notice when the plaint was again returned to him and it was practically the only matter discussed in his appeal; and the plaintiff was very reluctant to make up his mind to amend the plaint and abandon the allegation that there had been a settlement of accounts:

Held, that the allegation was made deliberately in the hope of establishing later on an allegation of fact that had been found to be untrue and was now admitted to be untrue; and that whatever may be the full extent of the meaning of "good faith" in S. 14 it cannot cover conduct of that sort. 74 Ind. Cas. 317=8 N.L.J. 76= A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 241.

——S. 14—Good faith and diligence—Bona fide mistake.

Where an application was made under S. 144, C. P. Code under a bona fide mistake instead of filing suit for money wrongly paid under a decree in a previous suit, time required for prosecuting the application was excluded. 71 Ind. Cas. 42=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 94.

——S. 14.

The interpretation to be put upon the section must be a wide one. "Limitation would without doubt remain in suspense whilst the plaintiffs were bona fide litigating for their rights in a Court of Justice". 73 Ind. Cas. 139=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 347=44 M.L.J. 179

——S. 14—Execution application by one of several decree-holders.

When application to execute a decree was taken by only one of the several decree-holders and it was dismissed as not in accordance with law and subsequently all the decree-holders joined in the application it was held that the previous application was prosecuted in good faith and the second application is not time barred. 62 Ind. Cas. 507=15 S.L.R. 11=A.I.R. 1921 Sind 13.

——S. 14—Error of law.

A proceeding may be treated to have been prosecuted in good faith even though it was founded upon an error of law. 45 Cal. 94 (P.C.), Foll. 10 All. 587, held obsolete. So, where a plaint is returned under C. P. Code, O. 7, R. 10, for presentation to the proper Court, the period spent in the first Court may be excluded, in a proper case. 61 Ind. Cas. 203=24 O.C. 137=8 O.L.J. 76=A.I.R. 1921 Oudh 100.

——S. 14—Good faith—Bona fide prosecution of suit.

A suit was filed in the S. C. Court for contribution. The plaint were returned for presentation to the proper Court, but plaintiff filed a revision in the High Court against the order of return. The revision was dismissed. Three months after the order of dismissal plaintiff applied for the return of the document which was returned 15 days after the application on which day the plaint was presented in the proper Court:

Held, on the above facts that it was not a valid presentation and the interval of time between the application for return of the plaint and the date of representation should not be excluded since the plaintiff did not prosecute the suit with due diligence as required by S. 14 of the Limitation Act and she waited for three months to apply for a return of the plaint. 16 A.L.J. 429=45 Ind. Cas. 991.

——S. 14—Execution—Dismissal of application for transfer—Subsequent application for attachment—Appeal and second appeal.

The time for preferring an appeal and a second appeal against an order refusing the transfer of a decree should not be deducted so as to save limitation for an execution application for the abetment of the judgment debtor's properties. The second application being more than 3 years from the date of the first application, is barred by time. S. 14 of the Limitation Act is not applicable to such a case since there is no bona fide mistake in persuing a wrong remedy or no want of jurisdiction in the Court in dealing with the first application. 33 M.L.J. 682=45 Ind. Cas. 460.

——S. 14—Good faith—Suit in wrong Court.

Where plaintiff acted in good faith and neither the court nor the defendant objected to the cognizance of the suit he is entitled to the benefit of S. 14. 15 A.L.J. 573=40 Ind. Cas. 447.

——S. 14—Good faith—Deduction of time—Ejectment—Suit by some co-owners other co-owner's made defendants setting up their own title—Decree in their favour by first court, set aside on appeal—Fresh suit.

Some of the co-sharers in a Dayabhaga joint family sued for a declaration that purchase in the name of a widow was benami for themselves and the other co-sharers whom they joined as defendants. The latter associated themselves with plaintiffs and asked for an adjudication of their right to a one-third share and a distinct issue in respect of their claim was without objection raised and decided and the court made a decree on 20th April 1903 in favour of both co-sharer defendants. But on appeal the decree so far as it was in favour of the co-sharer defendants was set aside on 22nd February 1904 on the ground that not being plaintiffs they could not be given any relief in that suit; and the co-sharer defendants, thereupon on 14th November 1904 instituted a fresh suit for recovery of their fresh share.

Held, that though limitation began to run against them from January 1892, it remained in suspense whilst they were bona fide litigating their rights in the previous suit and this suit was therefore not time-barred. 12 C.W.N. 326; 35 Cal. 209, Affirmed. 43 Cal. 660=20 C.W.N. 522=24 C.L.J. 1=30 M.L.J. 529=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 332=20 M.L.T. 10=3 L. W. 471=18 Bom. L. R. 418=33 Ind. Cas. 452 (P.C.).

——S. 14—Due diligence.

A person who claims exclusion of time during which a former proceeding was pending must prove first that he had prosecuted the former proceeding with due diligence and secondly that the former Court had been unable to entertain it from defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature. Where therefore, each of the two plaintiffs in a suit came into a court originally to sue separately in respect of a contract which gave them a joint but not several right and their error was pointed out to them and they were given every opportunity of rectifying it, but they elected to proceed with their suits as then framed and by the time they were dismissed on the ground of non-joinder the period of limitation had expired.

Held, that the plaintiffs had not exhibited that degree of diligence which alone could entitle them to the benefit of S. 14. 19 P.R. 1888, Foll. 41 P. R. 1916=33 P.W.R. 1916=32 Ind. 497.

——S. 14—Good faith—Absence of fraud.

Whether a party acted in good faith in S. 14 is a mixed question of law and fact. When a plaint is presented in wrong court on the last day and returned, was later filed in right Court, held the plaintiff is not entitled to benefit under the section as the error was not one that would be committed by a reasonable and prudent man acting in good faith with due diligence. A Court can grant the indulgence allowed by S. 14 only where the error is one that might be committed by a reasonable and prudent man exercising due diligence and acting in good faith. Mere absence of fraud is no ground for exemption. Where plaintiff filed a suit in a Sub-Judge's Court which should have been filed in a Munsif's Court on the last day of limitation, and the plaint on being returned was filed in the latter Court, held that the plaintiff cannot get the benefit of S. 14. 3 O.L.J. 387=19 O.C. 367=36 Ind. Cas. 702.

——Ss. 14 (2) and 15 (1) and Art. 18—Good faith.

The appellant obtained a mortgage decree against respondents on 15th October 1900 for sale; the decree was made absolute on 12th August 1902. The mortgaged property was sold on the 25th June 1906, and a portion of the decree was realized. On 24th July 1906 one of the Respondent instituted a suit for a declaration that the decree was not binding on him. The suit which was dismissed by the First Court was decreed by the first appellate court on 30th April 1907. This decree was reversed by the second appeal on 8th July 1908. On 8th December 1909, the present application for execution was made. On objection as to limitation it was urged that the mortgaged decree was in abeyance from 30th April 1907 to 8th July 1908 and that time should be excluded. Held, that the appellant could not claim the benefit of S. 14 (2) or 15 (1) as it was not a case of bona fide proceedings in a wrong court or of the staying of a decree by injunction. Even on general principles of equity the time could not be excluded. 10 Ind. Cas. 21 (Oudh).

——S. 14—Pre-emption suit instituted in Subordinate Judge's Court—Plaint returned for presentation to the Munsif—Exclusion of time—Bona fide mistake.

The plaintiffs instituted a suit for pre-emption on the last day of limitation in the Court of the Subordinate Judge. The plaint was admitted, but on an objection by the defendants, it was returned for presentation to the proper court. The next day it was presented to the Munsif who admitted it and decreed the suit on the merits. The subordinate Judge on appeal dismissed the suit, holding that the plaint had not been filed in the Subordinate Judge's Court under a bona fide mistake. Held, that the question of bona fides in this case was not a question of fact but was one of legal inference from facts, and that it was manifest from the conduct of the parties that the mistake was bona fide. S. 14 of the Limitation Act was applicable, and the plaintiffs were entitled to exclusion of the time during which they had been prosecuting the proceedings in the Subordinate Judge's Court. Held, further, that the suit instituted in the Subordinate Judge's Court was a different proceeding from that in the suit instituted in the Munsif's Court, although the plaint filed in both the suits was the same. (1909) 6 A. L. J. 741=3 Ind. Cas. 79.

——S. 14—"Due diligence"—U. P. Rent Act, (XVI of 1881), S. 148—Suit by intervenor to establish title in a civil court.

D sued C, for rent of agricultural land alleging C to be his occupancy tenant. C, pleaded that he was not the tenant of D, but of B and others. B and others were accordingly added as defendants to the suit. The suit was decided by the Rent Court of first instance against B and others. C, the tenant, appealed to the Collector. B and others did not appeal to the Collector, but when C's appeal was dismissed, appealed to the District Judge. The District Judge, on the 28th March 1895, dismissed this appeal. B and others then brought a suit in the civil court for declaration of their title. The suit was filed on the 3rd August, 1898. Held that the suit was barred by limitation. Whatever might have been the case with B, C and others, though perhaps acting in good faith, did not prosecute the former proceedings in the Court of Revenue with due diligence within the meaning of S. 14. (1901) A.W.N. 123=23 A. 434.

——S. 14—Good faith—Has to be decided on facts.

What amounts to good faith is to be decided on the facts of each case. 9 S.L.R. 167=32 Ind. Cas. 616.

——S. 14—Good faith—"Due diligence".

Held, on the facts that the plaintiff acted in good faith and with due diligence up to 22nd July 1913 when the plaint was returned for presentation to the proper court but after the date he did not, and failed to satisfy the requirements of S. 14 of the Limitation Act. 51 P.L.R. 1915=54 P.W.R. 1915=28 Ind. Cas. 347.

——S. 14—Onus to prove good faith.

A person who claims to come within S. 14, Lim. Act has to show that in persuing this remedy in other proceedings, he acted in good faith, the burden of showing lack of good faith is not on his opponent. This is made clear by O. 7, R. 6, Civil P. C., and S. 103, Evi. Act. (1937) 1937 M. W. N. 465=A. I. R. 1941 Mad. 319=53 M.L.W. 164=1941 M.W.N. 125=(1941) I M.L.J. 257=I. L. R. (1941) Mad. 347=194 Ind. Cas. 328 (F.B.).

——S. 14—Finding about 'due diligence' is finding of fact and binding in second appeal.

S. 14 allows exclusion of that period only during which the plaintiff has been prosecuting with due diligence, another civil proceeding. The finding by the lower appellate Court holding that the plaintiff had not succeeded in showing that he acted with due diligence is prima facie a finding of fact and is binding in second appeal. (1946) 1946 O.A. (C.C.) 10 =A.I R 1946 Oudh 116.

——S. 14.

Question whether plaintiff acted with due diligence is a mixed question of law and fact. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 704=40 P.L.R. 631=181 Ind. Cas. 290.

——S. 14.

Obiter.—(Smith, J., contra). The question of good faith under S. 14 of the Lim. Act, is a question of fact.

Per Smith, J.—It is a mixed question of law and fact. A.I.R. 1938 Oudh 100=1938 O.W.N. 257=14 Luck. 4=173 Ind. Cas. 648.

9. Defect of Jurisdiction.

——S. 14 (2)—Execution application dismissed on ground that decree was superseded by that of High Court—Dismissal, if due to defect of jurisdiction.

If an application for execution of a decree was dismissed on the ground that the decree was not in existence, having been superseded by the decree of the High Court on appeal, the dismissal was not due to a defect of jurisdiction as to a defect similar to a defect of jurisdiction. The decree-holder, therefore, is not to entitled to exclude the time spent in prosecuting that execution application in computing the period of limitation for a subsequent execution application. A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 117.

——S. 14 (2).

Petition by creditor to adjudicate debtor as insolvent dismissed as alleged act did not constitute act of insolvency—Execution application by creditor against debtor:

Held, that the time spent in prosecuting insolvency petition cannot be excluded firstly because the reliefs in the insolvency petition and the execution application cannot be said to be the same and secondly because the insolvency petition cannot be said to have been dismissed by the insolvency Court as a result of its inability to entertain it for "defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature."

——S. 14.

Suit under O. 21, R. 103, Civil P.C.—Order in claim case—High Court refusing to interfere:

Held, that limitation runs from date of original order and not from order of High Court—Section 14 does not apply as High Court's refusal is not due to defect of jurisdiction. A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 225=23 Pat. 14=11 B.R. 243=218 Ind. Cas. 75.

——S. 14 (2)—Applicability.

S. 14 (2) of the Limitation Act is available only where there was initial want of jurisdiction. I. L. R. (1948) 2 Cal. 334=A.I.R. 1948 Cal. 226.

——S. 14—Defect of jurisdiction existing at beginning or occurring at later stage.

A Court may have no jurisdiction at all to entertain, that is to say, to embark upon a particular suit. Or it may have jurisdiction to entertain it at the outset, but a defect of jurisdiction may occur, at a later stage. In that case, it will, from the moment when the defect occurs, be unable to entertain the suit. Whether the defect exists at the beginning or whether it occurs at a later stage, the requirements of S. 14 are equally satisfied. A.I.R. 1943 All. 162=(1943) A. L. J. 69=1943 A. W. R. 62=I. L. R. (1943) All. 467=207 Ind. Cas. 571.

——S. 14—Objection to jurisdiction taken—Court acquiring jurisdiction during pendency of suit but after expiry of limitation for suit—Plaint, if should be returned.

Where objection to the jurisdiction of the Court was taken under S. 7 (a) of the U. P. Agri. Relief Act, but the Court acquired jurisdiction during the pendency of the suit but at a time when the limitation for the institution of the suit had expired and it was established that the suit was prosecuted with due diligence and in good faith;

Held, that the original plaint did not become time-barred and the Court could not return the plaint for presentation to proper Court under O. 7, R. 10, Civil P.C. In any case, the plaintiff was entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. 1940 O.W.N. 1212=1940 R. D. 590=A. I. R. 1941 Oudh 61=1941 A.W.R. 3=16 Luck. 402=191 Ind. Cas. 708.

——S. 14—Want of jurisdiction, if should exist at date of suit.

The want of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature referred to in S. 14, need not be in existence at the very institution of a suit. All that the law requires for the applicability of S. 14 is that the Court in which the previous proceeding is prosecuted should be unable to entertain it from defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature. Want of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature may arise at any stage of a suit or proceeding and, it upon that basis, the Court in which the suit or proceeding is being prosecuted arrives at the conclusion that it cannot entertain it and makes an order accordingly, the condition laid down in S. 14 is sufficiently fulfilled. A.I.R. 1940 All. 145=(1939) A. L. J. 1075=1939 A. W. R. 875=187 Ind. Cas. 336.

——S. 14—Court in other proceeding erroneously holding that it had no jurisdiction.

Even if the Court, in the other proceeding, erroneously decided its inability to entertain the question, S. 14 would apply. In such a case, it is not open to the second Court to say that there was no want of jurisdiction in the first Court. A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 460=76 C.L.J. 183=209 Ind. Cas. 71.

——S. 14.

The time spent in prosecuting a suit in a Court which has no pecuniary jurisdiction over the subject-matter cannot, under S. 14, be allowed in computing the period of limitation for a suit under O. 21, R. 63, Civil P.C. Hence, in a case where the suit is filed in the Court of a Munsif on a valuation which is found to be a gross under-statement of the value of the property, the time spent in the Munsif's Court cannot be allowed in computing the period of limitation for filing the suit. 24 Pat. 462=A. I. R. 1945 Pat. 369=26 P.L.T. 245.

——S. 14.

Plaint returned for presentation to proper Court for want of pecuniary jurisdiction—Plaintiff striking off part of claim to bring it within jurisdiction and representing amended plaint on date when suit was time-barred;

Held, that suit must be deemed to have been instituted on date of representation and was barred—Plaintiff could not claim benefit of S 14 A I R. 1940 Mad 689=(1940) 1 M L. J 590=51 M. L. W. 471 =(1940) M.W.N. 662=194 Ind. Cas. 646.

Reversing A.I R. 1939 Mad. 397.

——S. 14—Return for want of pecuniary jurisdiction—If delay could be excused.

Where plaint is presented to the proper court but is sent by that court for trial to a court which, for want of pecuniary jurisdiction, returned the plaint, suit when again represented must be treated as a continuation of the suit 18 P.W.R. 1916=33 Ind. Cas. 808.

——S. 14.

Where the suit fails for want of jurisdiction in the Court and is, on the order of the Court, returned for presentation to the proper Court, S 14, Lim Act, applies. A.I R. 1040 Sind 125=I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 225 =190 Ind. Cas. 328.

——S. 14.

Where a suit for refund of nazrana by the lessee against the lessor is filed in a Court of Small Causes and the Court returns the plaint for presentation to the proper Court on the ground that it has no jurisdiction to hear the case, the plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of S. 14. A I R. 1935 All. 759=1935 R.D. 345=(1935) A L. J. 966=1935 A.W.R. 818=155 Ind. Cas. 1092.

——S. 14.

Previous execution application not in accordance with law—Court discovering defect:

Held, that the executing Court in this case was not one that did not have jurisdiction to execute this decree. It had jurisdiction, but the decree holder failed to move the Court in accordance with law. Section 14, therefore, had no application to a case like this. A. I. R. (1937) Mad. 760=(1937) M. W. ——S. 14.

Suit filed in Bombay Small Cause Court—Court holding, it has no jurisdiction—Plaint subsequently filed in proper Court—Bombay decision becoming final—Time taken in prosecuting suit in Bombay can be deducted. A I R. 1937 Nag. 69=I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 311=170 Ind. Cas. 115.

——S. 14.

Suit filed in Court without jurisdiction—Objection not taken—Subsequent discovery in Court—Time spent in former Court can be deducted in computing limitation. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 652=146 Ind. Cas. 125.

——S. 14.

Where the defendant instituted a suit for a declaration that the pro note which he had executed, has been discharged and for restraining the plaintiff from suing upon it and the plaintiff, in a subsequent suit upon the note sought to exclude the period of the former suit:

Held, that even assuming that the present plaintiff was prosecuting the proceeding or defending a suit brought by the defendant, it would be difficult to say that the Court was unable to entertain the proceeding within the meaning of S. 14 (2) from the defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature and the plaintiff was not, therefore, entitled to the exclusion of the period in computing limitation. 28 Nag. L. R. 348=A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 13=141 Ind. Cas. 34.

——S. 14.

Absence of jurisdiction of Court in which suit is instituted—Subsequently the suit instituted in Court of proper jurisdiction—Later suit is not in continuation of the former one. The plaintiff may, however, claim under S. 14. exemption from time during which he was proceeding with due diligence and in good faith his first suit. A.I.R. 1933 Sind 117=144 Ind. Cas. 56.

——S. 14.

The word 'jurisdiction' in S. 14 must be construed liberally.

If all the requisites mentioned in S 14 are found to exist, the benefit given by that section cannot be taken away on the mere ground that, in the opinion of the Court, the court adopted before was not a well conceived one.

Section 14 was intended to protect a bona fide plaintiff from the consequence of some mistake which was made by his advisers in prosecuting his claim. (1932) M W. N. 1317=A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 197=140 Ind. Cas. 270.

——S. 14—Misconceived litigation.

Time spent in previous litigation cannot be excluded, when the previous suit does not fail from any defect of jurisdiction or other causes of like nature but fails because it is misconceived. 121 Ind. Cas. 70=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 211.

——S. 14—Proceeding and remedy misconceived.

Section 14 of the old Act, allowed an applicant the time spent only in making another application, not in conducting a suit, whereas under the present law, allowance can be claimed for the time spent in prosecuting another civil proceeding, whatever its character. Where the proceeding and the remedy have been wholly misconceived, S. 14 has no application because the failure of the appellant in the prosecution of his claim by suit cannot be attributed to anything connected with the jurisdiction of the Court. 70 Ind Cas. 743= 16 M.L.W. 178=1022 M.W.N. 514=31 M. L. T. 135 =A. I. R. 1922 Mad. 417=43 M.L. J. 184.

——S. 14.

It is only when the civil proceedings is prosecuted in a court, which from defect of jurisdiction or other causes of like nature, is unable to entertain it, that S. 14 can apply.

When the court sold properties after an attachment, which was proved 'ultra vires' in appeal, the time, spent by the party in determining the legality of the sale cannot be excluded under S. 14 The Court had jurisdiction to sell the property. A.I.R. 1931 Nag. 47 =13 N.L. J. 200=130 Ind. Cas. 157.

——S. 14—Defect of jurisdiction—Fresh suit.

Where a suit has been instituted in a Court which is found to have no jurisdiction and it is found necessary to raise a second suit in a Court of proper jurisdiction, the second suit cannot be regarded as a continuation of the first, even though the subject-matter and the parties to the suits were identical. 115 Ind. Cas. 713=1929 A.L.J. 254=33 C.W.N. 485=29 M.L.W. 682=6 O.W.N 473=49 C.L.J. 462=31 Bom. L.R. 741=56 I.A. 128=1929 M.W.N. 546=56 Cal. 1048=A.I.R. 1929 P.C. 103=56 M.L.J 614 (P.C.).

——S. 14—Defect of Jurisdiction—Change in Law.

Plaintiff losing time in seeking appointment of land revenue in a Civil Court was held to be entitled to the benefit of S. 14.

Plaintiff who was already the owner of a 12 annas share bought a four annas share of a certain village except a sir field from the defendants. The plaintiff sued defendants claiming proportionate land revenue in respect of the sir field for five years from 1920 to 1926 as fixed by the Sub-Divisional Officer in 1925. But before that he had sued the defendant in 1923 for contribution in the Civil Court but there it was decided that a Civil Court had no jurisdiction to make on apportionment. The defendant contended that plaintiff was not entitled to land revenue for the years 1920 to 1923 as the claim was time-barred.

Held, that the claim was not time-barred and the plaintiff was entitled to get the benefit under S. 14, Limitation Act, as before the new Land Revenue Act came into force, the Civil Court had power to make apportionment and the time which the plaintiff spent in persuing his remdy of apportionment of land revenue in a Civil Court must be deducted. 107 Ind. Cas., 910 =11 N.L.J. 93=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 227.

——S. 14—Defect of Jurisdiction—Court not declining to entertain.

Where a suit to recover money lent upon interest payable on demand was filed before a Union Court and that Court finding that it was desirable, that the suit should be tried by persons versed in law, ordered that it should be conducted in proper Court and by the time the suit was filed in the Small Causes Court, the cause of action was time-barred:

Held, that the plaintiff is not entitled to deduct the period during which he was prosecuting the suit in the Union Court. 106 Ind. Cas. 324=46 C.L.J. 452= A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 46.

——S. 14—Defect of Jurisdiction—Delay owing to Court's mistake.

Where owing to some mistakes of the Court itself the plaintiff was driven from Court to Court for a period of six to seven months, after which he could finally file his suit in the right Court:

Held, that he should be given the benefit of S. 14. 89 Ind. Cas. 443=12 O.L.J. 297=2 O.W.N. 383=A.I.R. 1925 Oudh 493.

——S. 14—Defect of Jurisdiction—What is not.

The rejection of an application that a certain decretal debt be entered in the schedule of creditors of the J. D during insolvency procéedings for want of affidavit is not due to any defect of jurisdiction and S. 14 is not applicable. 79 Ind Cas. 696=1923 P.H.C.C. 271= A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 40.

——S. 14.

Where a prior suit is in different capacity and is on a different cause of action, the period of that suit cannot be excluded as the proceedings were not infructuous on the ground of defective jurisdiction or any other cause of a like nature. 76 Ind. Cas. 639=1 Rang. 402=A.I.R. 1924 Rang. 123.

——S. 14—Return for want of Jurisdiction—Wrong valuation.

Time spent in prosecuting an infructuous appeal, due to wrong valuation may be deducted in computing the period of limitation. 4 P.W.R. 1919=31 P.L.R. 1919= 70 P.R. 1919=50 Ind. Cas. 645.

——S. 14—"Defect of jurisdiction"—Scope.

The words "defect of jurisdiction" in S. 14 of the Limitation Act mean a defect of jurisdiction which is quite peculiar to the court in which proceedings were taken; they do not cover such general questions as presentation and prosecution of an appeal which did not lie at all, in any court. 63 P.R. 1886; 55 P.R. 1893; 34 P.R. 1898, Foll. 22 P.R. 1912=163 P.W.R. 1911= 244 P.L.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 880.

10. "Other causes of a like nature."

——S. 14—"Other cause of a like nature"—Bona fide mistake of law or defect of procedure—Sufficiency of.

The essential object of and the principle which underlies, S. 14, Limitation Act, is that the bar of limitation should not affect a person honestly doing his best to get his case tried on merits, but failing, the Court being unable to give him such a trial. This principle is clearly applicable not only to cases in which a man brings his suit in the wrong Court, that is, a Court having no jurisdiction to entertain it, but also where he brings his suit in the wrong Court in consequence of a bona fide mistake of law or defect of procedure. Given good faith and due diligence, a cause is not prevented from being of a like nature to defect of jurisdiction, merely because it was in the plaintiff's own power to avoid, or resulted from his own act, or from a bona fide mistake of law or procedure which prevented the Court in limine from entertaining the suit. 23 Pat. 14, Overr. 28 Pat. 102=A. I. R. 1949 Pat. 293= 30 P.L.T. 201 (F.B.).

——S 14—"Defect of Jurisdiction"—"Other cause of a nature"—Meaning of—Party misconceiving remedy—Right to exclusion of time—"Due diligence".

Where a suit fails not because of want of jurisdiction in the Court in which it is instituted, but because the plaintiff had misconceived the remedy open to him, S. 14, Limitation Act, cannot apply, so as to entitle him to exclude the period spent in prosecution of that suit. The words "other cause of a like nature" cannot be construed as being wide enough to include instances in which the failure of the plaintiff's suit is due to the fact that the remedy he sought is misconceived.

Where a party persists in preferring an appeal which does not lie, after he is advised by the Court as to his proper remedy instead of adopting that course, he is not entitled in a subsequent litigation to the benefit of the exclusion of the period occupied in the prosecution of the appeal. It cannot be said in such a case that he was persuing the previous litigation with due diligence. The failure of the appeal is due not to any defect in the jurisdiction of the Court to entertain it, but is due to the party's own fault in choosing a remedy not open to him. 43 M.L.J. 184, foll. 27 Pat. 137=A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 362.

——S. 14 (1)—Time spent in prosecuting application dismissed as barred by time—Whether can be excluded.

When a Court dismisses a suit or an application on the ground that it is barred by limitation it decides it on merits. In any case, it cannot be said that it is unable to entertain it either from defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature. The time spent in prosecuting such suit or application cannot, therefore, be excluded under S. 14 (1) of the Limitation Act. 50 P.L.R. 185=A.I.R. 1948 E P. 63.

——S. 14, Expl. III.

Applicability—Abandonment of suit against one of the defendants—Liberty to file a fresh suit—Fresh suit filed beyond time. See: C.P. Code, O. 23, R. 1 and 2 and Limitation Act, S. 14, Expl., III. (1947) 2 M.L.J. 337.

——S. 14—"Other cause of a like nature"—First suit dismissed for non-registration of plaintiff's firm—Time taken in prosecuting—Right to deduction of.

Two partners of a firm filed a suit in the firm's name against the appellant to recover a sum of money, but the suit was dismissed on the ground that the firm was not registered as required by S. 69, Partnership Act. This dismissal was affirmed in appeal and second appeal. A second suit was then brought by the two partners impleading as defendant to that suit not only the appellant but also the other partner of the firm as well, found on the same cause of action.

Held, that the period taken in prosecuting the first suit could be deducted in computing the period of limitation for the second suit under S. 14 of the Limitation Act as the Court was unable to entertain the first suit "for other cause of a like nature" within the meaning of the section. I.L.R. (1945) Kar. 293=223 Ind. Cas. 291=A.I.R. 1946 Sind 14.

——S. 14.

The words "or other cause of a like nature," must be read so as to convey something ejusdem generis or analogous with the preceding words relating to the defect of jurisdiction. If these words are read along with the expression "is unable to entertain" they would denote that the defect must be of such a character as to make it impossible for a Court to entertain the suit or application either in its inception or at all events as to prevent it from deciding it on its merits. It is not possible to give an exhaustive list of defects that these words may be taken to cover. (Scope of the expression discussed.) A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 136=I.L.R. (1944) Lah. 451=217 Ind. Cas. 65 (F.B.).

——S. 14—Arbitration proceedings.

Where one of the arbitrators appointed by the parties refuses to act in the course of the arbitration proceedings and the agreement to refer contains no provision as to what should be done in such a case, the remaining arbitrators are not competent to go on with the proceeding and the provisions of S. 14 will be applicable on the ground that the defect is "of a like nature" to defect of jurisdiction within the meaning of S. 14. A.I.R. 1943 All. 162=1943 A.W.R. 62=(1943) A.L.J. 69=I.L.R. (1943) All. 467=207 Ind. Cas. 571.

——S. 14, Sch. I, Art. 83.

What is a "defect of a like nature" within the meaning of S. 14 must depend upon the facts of each case. These words must mean and connote something which is quite distinct from defect of jurisdiction. Only because it is held that the cause of action was premature, it cannot be said S. 14 cannot apply.

If a claim of a person is fully satisfied, either by an agreement or by a decree of a Court and if that satisfaction is subsequently annulled by another decree of the Court, a fresh cause of action would accrue in favour of the claimant, or would entitle him to deduction of time occupied in the previous litigation.

Where claim was fully satisfied by agreement or decree of Court but the satisfaction was subsequently annulled by another Court:

Held, that under S. 14, plaintiff was entitled to exclude the time occupied in prosecuting the proceedings in pursuance of the personal decree. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 26=40 Bom. L.R. 1169=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 9=179 Ind. Cas. 441.

——S. 14.

Where the jurisdiction of a Court to entertain a particular suit depends upon leave being granted by that Court, and leave is so granted, the subsequent recalling of the leave brings the case within the words "other cause of a like nature" in sub-S. (1) of S. 14. The time between the granting of the leave and its recall should, therefore, be excluded under S. 14. 20 P.L.T. 893=A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 86=5 B. R. 792=182 Ind. Cas. 632.

——S. 14 (2).

Order of executing Court on plaintiff's claim-petition on November 10, 1923—Appeal to Sub Court and then to High Court according to law then prevailing—High Court deciding on November 11, 1927, that plaintiff's remedy was by separate suit—Suit filed on August 7, 1928:

Held, that the plaintiffs, according to interpretation of the law in 30 M. 215 (subsequently overruled by 51 M. 46) then prevailing had no right of suit and, therefore, the appeals were preferred bona fide in 'good faith.' The failure of the plaintiffs in their appeals was, therefore, due to 'a cause of like nature' with want of jurisdiction within meaning of S. 14, and the matter, therefore, fell under S. 14. The time, therefore, spent in prosecuting the appeals could be excluded in computing the period of limitation. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 41 =(1937) M.W.N. 141=175 Ind. Cas. 767.

——S. 14—Party's mistake regarding relief.

There is nothing analogous to a defect of jurisdiction in a mistake of a party with regard to the relief he seeks: such a question arises out of incompetence on the part of those advising the litigant. A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 158=152 Ind. Cas. 415.

——S. 14—Cause of like nature.

Where a suit is dismissed for default of prosecution under O. 9, R. 2, C.P. Code and a fresh one is brought under R. 4 of the same order, S. 14 is not applicable as the prior suit failed for plaintiff's negligence in prosecuting it and not because of defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature within the meaning of S. 14. 6 W. R. 184 (F.B.), Foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 509=25 N.L.R. 99=A.I.R. 1929 Nag. 219.

——S. 14.

A holder of money-decree against one brother as member of a firm attached certain property to which the other brother of judgment-debtor objected under O. 21, R. 58, C. P. Code. The objection was allowed. After this the decree-holder applied under O. 21, R. 50 (2), C. P. Code, but was unsuccessful, the Court holding the order on claim petition as a bar. He then sued as required by R. 63, but was met with the defence of bar of limitation:

Hold, that the cause of action on which the application under O. 21, R. 50, was based was the same as the cause of action in the suit and the reason why his application under O. 21, R. 50 was held as not maintainable was a reason contemplated by S. 14; therefore, the period during which the application under R. 50 was pending should be excluded in computing the one year's period. 108 Ind. Cas. 134=26 A.L.J. 127=A.I.R. 1928 All. 10.

——S. 14.

The interpretation of S. 14 should be a wide one. Where in a prior suit for declaration of title possession was not prayed for and the suit was dismissed as not maintainable on that ground:

Held, that the defect was of a nature similar to a defect of jurisdiction and that time taken for prosecuting that suit can be deducted under S. 14. 98 Ind. Cas. 14=24 M.L.W. 634=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 1081=51 M.L.J. 391.

——S. 14.

——S. 14.

The dismissal of the previous execution application on the ground that the relief asked for was not in conformity with the decree is a cause of a nature similar to defect of jurisdiction. 75 Ind. Cas. 312=3 Pat. 42 =A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 471.

——S. 14.

Res judicata does not constitute "other cause of a like nature" under S. 14 (2), 13 C.L.R. 214 and 32 Cal. 118, Foll. 63 Ind. Cas. 593=2 P.L.T. 585=6 P.L.J. 593=1921 P.H.C.C. 233=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 225.

——S. 14—'Cause of a like nature'—Failure to give notice under S. 80, C. P. Code.

The failure to give notice under S. 80, C.P. Code is not a 'cause of a like nature' with defect of jurisdiction within S. 14 of the Act. 5 S.L.R. 181=13 Ind. Cas. 260.

——S. 14—'Cause of a like nature'—Mesne profits, suit for—Mesne profits accrued due during the pendency of the former suit.

The words 'other cause of a like nature' cannot be so construed as to include a case where the claim for mesne profits was actually made in the prior suit, and the court, though by inadvertence or otherwise, did not deal with it, but yet did entertain it and there was no defect of jurisdiction which prevented it from giving plaintiff a decree. (1903) 32 C. 118.

——S. 14—Non-joinder of parties.

Mis-joinder and non-joinder are only variations of the same defect, namely, the omission to have the proper parties or causes of action included in a suit or application. There is nothing that requires a Court to make an absolute distinction between cases of mis-joinder and non-joinder in regard to S. 14. 62 Ind. Cas. 507=15 S.L.R. 11=A.I.R. 1921 Sind 13.

——S. 14 (1) and Limitation Act (IX of 1908) S. 14, Expl.—"Causes of like nature"—Exclusion of time.

Where a suit on a promissory note executed to a firm was dismissed for want of endorsement to the plff. of the note and a second suit was instituted with the necessary requirements, Held, that the 1st. suit having failed from a cause not within the knowledge of the plff. and by reason of a rightly technical and legal character, the plaintiff was entitled to exclude the time spent in it. The words "causes of like nature" include mis-joinder of parties and causes of action. 22 A. 248, followed. 6. L.B.R. 43=14 Ind. Cas. 437.

——S. 14—Suit dismissed for mis-joinder of causes of action—Time of prosecuting it diligently deducted. (1900) 24 M. 361.

——S. 14—'Cause of like nature.'

An improper joinder of parties or causes of action is not a 'cause of like nature' inasmuch as the court has jurisdiction to entertain the suit but is not able to decide the suit by reason of defect in the form of the suit. 8 P. R. 1911=77 P.L.R. 1911=78 P.W.R. 1911=9 Ind. Cas. 680.

——S. 14—"Cause of a like nature"—Non-joinder —Dismissal of suit after trial and before trial.

S. 14 cannot apply to a case where the prior suit is dismissed for non-joinder and such dismissal is based on the findings arrived at by the lower courts after trial. (1904) 28 M. 338.

——S. 14—'Cause of a like nature'—Mis-joinder of causes of action and parties. (1904) 7 Bom. L.R. 90=29 B. 219.

See also: 12 C.W.N. 473=35 C. 728.

11. "Entertain" — Meaning of.

——S. 14—"Entertain," meaning explained.

To "entertain" is to "admit a thing for consideration" and when a suit or proceeding is not thrown out in limine but the Court receives it for consideration and disposal according to law, it must be regarded as entertaining the suit or proceeding no matter whatever the ultimate decision might be. A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 381=49 C.W.N. 499=221 Ind. Cas 429.

——S. 14—'Unable to entertain.'

'Unable to entertain' is not equivalent to 'unable to decide.' (34 P.R. 1898, 28 M. 338; 35 C. 728, Foll. 22 A. 248, Diss.) 8 P.R. 1911=77 P.L.R. 1911=78 P.W.R. 1911=9 Ind.Cas. 680.

12. Computation of period.

——S.14—Only time during which other proceeding was actually being prosecuted can be excluded under S. 14 (2).

The time that can be excluded under S. 14 (2) is merely the time during which the other proceeding is actually being prosecuted with due diligence.

Where the decree-holder files an application for execution in a wrong Court and allows it to be dismissed for default and then files another application almost three years after and has been doing nothing during the long period between the dismissal of the first and the filing of the second execution application he cannot be said during that interval to have been actually prosecuting a proceeding within the meaning of. S.14 (2). No doubt, if the interval has been short and such as has been necessary for taking steps, acquiring information and so on different considerations might arise. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 301=25 Pat. 50=12 B.R. 198=226 Ind. Cas. 195.

——S. 14—Scope and effect—Suit re-filed in proper Court—Period of limitation—How determined.

S. 14 of the Limitation Act does not prescribe any period of limitation but provides only for a method of calculation of that period where a suit has been instituted bona fide in a Court without jurisdiction. It is well settled that the effect of the section is not to render the suit after refiling in the proper Court a continuation of the original suit, and consequently the period of limitation has to be determined for that suit as if it was a new suit, and the period will be that which was prescribed for the original suit, but excluding the period during which the suit was being prosecuted bona fide in a wrong Court. I.L.R. (1948) 1 Cal. 488=52 C.W.N. 316.

——S. 14—Return of plaint for presentation to proper Court—Extent of time claimable as a deduction.

A plaintiff claiming a deduction of time between the date of the filing of a plaint and its return for presentation to the proper Court would be entitled to the deduction of only the time till the date of the endorsement on the plaint required by R. 10 (2) of O. 7, C.P. Code is actually made. He would not be entitled to any deduction thereafter except perhaps where he can show that the Court delayed the return of the plaint in spite of his endeavour to take it back. I.L.R. (1947) Mad. 694=60 L. W. 135=1947 M.W.N. 66=A.I.R. 1948=Mad. 26=(1947) 1 M.L.J. 90.

——S. 14—Expl. 1—Scope—Exclusion of time—Time between order for return of plaint and actual return—If allowable.

The period between the pronouncement in Court of the want of jurisdiction in the Court and the return of the plaint to the plaintiff or his pleader would be allowable as time under S. 14, Expl. I, Limitation Act, if during that period also the plaintiff was prosecuting his suit with due diligence. 48 Bom. L.R. 788=A.I.R. 1947 Bom. 140=231 Ind. Cas. 282.

——S. 14.

When plaint is returned for want of jurisdiction, the time up to the date of actual return of the plaint can be excluded in a proper case. A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 37=45 Bom. L.R. 1014=215 Ind. Cas. 121.

——S. 14—Expl. 1.

Proceedings end on date on which plaint is actually returned and not on date on which order directing return of plaint is recorded. A.I.R. 1939 All. 590=(1939) A.L.J. 460=I. L. R. (1939) All. 709=1939 A.W.R. 477=184 Ind. Cas. 860.

——S. 14.

Suit filed before Munsif at B on last day of limitation—Court finding that it should have been filed before himself at M, and ordered the plaint to be presented to proper Court on or before a certain date—Plaint so presented on that date:

Held, that for purposes of computation of time for limitation, plaintiff was entitled to exclude only the time during which the plaint was pending in Court at B and not between the date on which the plaint was returned and the date on or before which it was ordered to be presented to the proper Court. 18 P.L.T. 250=3 B. R. 363=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 495=167 Ind. Cas. 941.

——S. 14 (2), Expl. 1—Return of plaint for presentation to proper Court—Period between date of order and date on which plaint is ready for return.

No litigant should be made to suffer on account of the laches or delay of the Court or its officers. The time between the date of the order for return and the date when the plaint was ready to be returned is to be deducted for purposes of limitation and the proceedings are not considered to be at an end for the purpose of S.14, Expl. 1, Lim.Act, until the endorsement is made and the plaint is ready for return. The plaintiff is entitled to exclude the period till the plaint is ready for return. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 47=41 P.L.T. 371=182 Ind. Cas. 732.

——S. 14.

Where a suit is filed in a wrong Court but the plaint is returned to be filed in proper Court, the only period which can be excluded under S. 14, is the period between the date of the presentation of the plaint in a wrong Court and its return for presentation to the proper Court. A.I.R. 1938 All. 78=(1937) A.L.J. 1308=1937 A.W.R. 1186=I.L.R. (1938) All. 192=173 Ind. Cas. 461.

——S. 14—Return of plaint for presentation to proper Court—Period of time between date of order and date on which plaint is ready for being returned.

Where a Court orders a plaint to be returned for presentation in the proper Court, the proceedings cannot be regarded as having ended until the Court, in whom the duty lies of conforming to the provisions O. 7, R. 10, Civil P. C., is in a position to carry out the order of return of the plaint. Till that point of time, no question can possibly arise as regards the plaintiff not being entitled to exclusion of time under S. 14. When that point of time is reached, the question whether the plaintiff would or would not be entitled to a further deduction of time thereafter would depend upon various factors. Ordinarily, no further time would be excluded. But it is not inconceivable that in exceptional circumstances, even subsequent to such point of time, the proceedings may have to be regarded as still continuing. And in determining whether they should be so regarded or not, the question of the plaintiff's diligence or otherwise may have to be considered. 60 C. 1122=A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 914=149 Ind. Cas. 79.

——S. 14—Plaint represented under an order of the Court is to be deemed to be presented when it was first presented.

There is no provision of law which necessitates or even empowers the Court to return a plaint on the ground that the plaintiff has not mentioned therein the list of the documents on which he relies. The only effect of a person not furnishing the list of documents on which he relies is that, unless the Court permits him to do so, he is not entitled to produce them at a later stage.

Where a plaint is returned under circumstances mentioned above, and it is represented, the suit must be deemed to have been instituted on the date when the plaint was first presented and not on the date on which it was represented after the order of the Court had been complied with. 122 Ind. Cas. 488=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 480.

——S. 14.

When a plaint is returned by a Court for want of jurisdiction and is represented to another Court, the suit is considered to be instituted on the date on which the plaint is presented to the latter Court and if by that time the period of limitation prescribed by the law in force (Punjab Act III of 1923 in this case) has expired the suit becomes time barred. 117 Ind. Cas. 900=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 877.

——S. 14.

Where a plaint is returned under O. 7, R. 10, C. P. Code, the time to be excluded under S. 14, is the period from the date of presentation until the date of return of the plaint. 3 M.L.J. 190, Diss.; 92 Ind. Cas. 373=22 M.L.W. 816=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 178.

——S 14.

Where a Court returns a plaint for want of jurisdiction the time occupied in that Court counts towards limitation and saves it under S. 14 from being barred. 80 Ind. Cas. 286=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 54.

——S. 14.

The plaintiff filed a suit in a Court without jurisdiction and his plaint was ordered to be returned for presentation to the proper Court but was actually returned after five days after the order on which day it was presented to the proper Court which dismissed it on the ground of being without the period of limitation.

Held, the five days of delay must be excluded in computing the period of limitation. 64 Ind. Cas. 160 =46 Bom. 211=23 Bom. L.R. 1023=A.I.R. 1922 Bom. 160.

——S. 14.

When a party is ordered to take back his plaint and present it in the proper Court, the proceedings do not end until the party gets back his plaint.

Where the first court was closed when limitation expired and so the plaint filed on the re-opening day was in time, the plaintiff is entitled to take advantage of those days during which the first Court was closed for the vacation, and the calculation should be made in the same way as if the second Court had been closed for the vacation. 36 Mad. 131, Dissented from. 59 Ind. Cas. 743=45 Bom. 443=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 379.

——S. 14—Computation of time—Vacation—Time taken in obtaining delivery of copy of the plaint.

The plaintiff is entitled to exclude the vacation period on the termination of which he filed the suit in the wrong court and also the period from the date when the order for return was made and the date when the plaint was actually returned. 22 Bom. L.R. 1387=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 379.

——S. 14—Discretion of Court—Time within which plaint must be represented.

The only period which the plaintiff is entitled to exclude under S. 14 of the Limitation Act, is the period during which the suit was actually pending on the file of the Dt. Munsiff's Court and Munsif had no power to alter or enlarge the period within which the suit ought to have been filed by fixing a period of one month for presenting the plaint to the proper Court. 30 C.L.J. 522=53 Ind. Cas. 955.

——S. 14—Discretion of Court—Suit filed on last day, returned as under-valued.

There is no provision in the Limitation Act or in the C. P. Code for allowing further time to refile a plaint. 24 C. L. J. 355=35 Ind. Cas. 595.

——S. 14, Expl. 1—Computation of time—Plaint returned—When proceedings ended.

Where a plaint is returned and costs ordered, the proceedings terminate on the day of the return and on the day when the costs are assessed. 24 C.L.J. 355=35 Ind. Cas. 595.

——S. 14—Delay after order of return—Plaint returned three days after order for return—Exclusion of time.

Where a plaint was actually returned for presentation to the proper court only three days after the order directing the plaint to be returned was signed, Held, that for purposes of S. 14 of the Limitation Act the date on which the plaint was actually returned must be taken to be the date on which the order was promulgated. 24 W.R. Dist. A.W.N. (1887) 302, Foll. 17 C.W.N. 1043=20 Ind. Cas. 183.

——S. 14—Computation of time—Date of institution—What is.

The date of institution of a suit is the date on which the plaint is filed in the proper court excluding for the purpose of reckoning limitation, only the periods excluded under that section. 17 C.W.N. 515= 18 Ind. Cas. 121.

——S. 14—Computation of time—Plaint ordered to be presented in proper court.

Proceedings instituted wrongly in an incompetent court are not legally valid and capable of being continued in another court. Where the plaint instituted in a wrong court is represented in the proper court the proceedings in the right court are not a continuation of the proceedings in the wrong court for purposes of limitation. 21 M.L.J. 1000, Foll; 36 Mad. 482=22 M.L.J. 377=(1912) M.W.N. 457=14 Ind. Cas. 157.

——S. 14—Delay after order of return—Exclusion of.

For the purposes of limitation, an applicant for representation is entitled to deduct the time spent in the Dt. Munsif's Court after order of return. 9 M.L.T. 374=9 Ind. Cas. 157.

——S. 14.

Court ordering plaint to be returned to proper court —Costs awarded—Time required till preparation of decree can be excluded. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 203=4 B.R. 522=175 Ind. Cas. 89.

——S. 14—Plaint returned for amendment and then for representation—Exclusion of both period, legality of.

Where a plaint was returned first to have it amended and then for representation to proper Court, and the Court before which the plaint was re-presented, while computing the period of limitation excluded both the periods, the High Court did not interfere in second appeal with the discretion exercised by the trial Court. A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 632=131 Ind. Cas. 461.

——S. 14—Dismissal of pauper application—Court fee paid beyond limitation.

Application to sue as pauper dismissed—Court fee paid beyond limitation but within time allowed by Court under S. 149, Civil P. C. If suit is regarded as filed when court-fee paid, plaintiff is entitled under S. 14, Lim. Act to be excused the period during which the pauper application was pending. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 730=I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 112=179 Ind. Cas. 271.

——S. 14.

Defendant, as share-holder of a company, had his shares forfeited more than a year prior to commencement of winding up. The winding up order by the Court was on 21st July, 1923. On 10th October, 1924, the liquidator filed his list of contributories under S. 156, Companies Act. On 13th October, 1925, the Court held that the name of the defendant had been wrongly entered in the list of contributories, and it directed a suit to be filed. A suit was accordingly filed against defendant on his liability under Art. 28 of Table A.

Held, that the period between 10th October, 1924 and 13th October, 1925, cannot be excluded under S. 14. 110 Ind. Cas. 33=52 Bom. 477=30 Bom. L.R. 549=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 252.

——S. 14.

Plaintiff's suit was dismissed for default on 27th July, 1926. The plaintiff applied for copy on 29th July, 1926 and obtained it on 5th August, 1926. He appealed against the decree on 2nd September, 1926, and was informed on 27th October, 1926, that he had misconceived his remedy and should apply to set aside the order of dismissal under O. 9, R. 4, C. P. Code. On 18th November, 1926, he made the application.

Held, that the period between 27th July, 1926, and 2nd September, 1926, cannot be excluded as until 2nd September, 1926, there was neither Court nor proceeding. 110 Ind. Cas. 47=1928 M.W.N. 239= A.I.R. 1928. Mad. 556.

——S. 14—Plaintiff must have been prosecuting the previous suit or his claim must have been adjudicated upon if he wants to apply S. 14.

A putni tenure was sold for arrears of rent under Regulatidn VIII of 1819 on 15th May, 1916. On 29th May some of the putnidars brought a suit for setting aside the sale. During the pendency of this suit the putni having fallen again into arrears was sold on the 16th November, 1916, a second time and the putnidars applied for amendment for setting aside the second sale also. On 21st February, 1918, both the sales were set aside. But the zemindar appealed and the High Court, reversing the decision, confirmed the sales on the 29th February, 1920. In the mean-time one of the putnidars instituted a suit alleging that he had an 8 annas share in the purchase at the first sale, he having paid one half of the purchase-money and prayed that the second sale might be set aside. On 24th January, 1917, the purchaser with-drew the surplus sale proceeds from Court and subse-quently the plaintiff on 31st May, 1920, made on application for amendment of his plaint adding a prayer for the recovery of one half of the surplus proceeds:

Held, claim for the surplus sale proceeds came under Art. 62 of the Limitation Act, under which a suit has to be brought within three years from the date on which the money was received be the defen-dant. The period between the date on which the sale was set aside by the Court below and the date on which the High Court reversed that decision and upheld the sale (23 Feb. 1920) should not be deducted and that the claim for the surplus sale proceeds was barred. 83 Ind. Cas. 110=41 C.L.J. 149=28 C.W.N. 1009=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 67.

——S. 14.

The time during which a Court holds up a case while it is discovering that it ought to have been presented in another Court, is time which ought to be excluded in computing the period of limitation which is applicable, as provided by S. 14. It cannot be said that a plaintiff is not prosecuting a suit with due diligance in a Court of first instance when the delay is caused by the action of the Court itself. 70 Ind. Cas. 613=A.I.R. 1922 All. 404.

——Ss. 14 and 4—Computation of time—Suit filed in wrong court—Holiday.

A plaintiff though entitled to deduct time of actual pendency in a wrong court, cannot exclude any extra day on the ground that it is a holiday. 14 A.L.J. 310 =35 Ind. Cas. 292.

13. Time spent in arbitration proceedings.

——S. 14—"Court"—If includes arbitrator—Time spent in arbitration proceedings—If may be excluded.

Arbitrators are a "Court" and proceedings before them are civil proceedings before a Court within the meaning of S. 14 of the Limitation Act. It would therefore follow that time spent in arbitration proceedings is to be excluded from computation of the period of limitation in a suit instituted subsequently in respect of the same subject-matter, provided the other requirements of S. 14 are satisfied. Even if the failure of arbitration proceedings may not be due to defect of jurisdiction, nevertheless the section would apply on the ground that there was "a cause of a like nature" to a defect of jurisdiction within its meaning. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 477=1947 N.L.J. 417=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 334.

——S. 14—Proceeding before arbitrators—Civil proceeding.

The proceeding before the arbitrators appointed by parties is a civil proceeding in a Court within the meaning of S. 14, and hence time spent in those proceedings must be excluded in computing limitation in subsequent suit or proceedings in the Civil Court. A.I.R. 1943 All. 162=1943 A.W.R. 62=(1943) A.L.J. 69=I.L.R. (1943) All. 467=207 Ind. Cas. 571.

——S. 14—Proceedings under Arbitration Act.

In an arbitration between a Bank which was a company with a limited liability, and a private individual, an award was given in favour of the Bank, which, diligently and in good faith prosecuted proceedings for the execution of the award in the Court of the Sub-Judge believing that Court to have jurisdiction. Subsequently, it was ruled that the awards of the nature were cognizable by the District Judge:

Held, that the Bank was entitled to the benefit of S. 14, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1941 Pesh. 3=192 Ind. Cas. 758.

——S. 14—Time spent in arbitration proceedings subsequently set aside by Court.

In a suit brought in a Civil Court, the time taken in previous arbitration proceedings relating to the subject matter of the suit cannot be excluded for the purpose of computing limitation under S. 14.

Arbitrators are not a Court within the said section and further the decree of a Civil Court that an award delivered by arbitrators is not valid and binding does not deprive the arbitrators of their jurisdiction and the cancellation of the award cannot be considered a cause of a like nature within the meaning of S. 14. A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 130=29 N.L.R. 272=144 Ind. Cas. 948.

——S. 14.

Proceedings before an arbitrator are proceedings in a Court. 120 Ind. Cas. 710=56 Cal. 639=A.I.R. 1930 Cal. 5.

——S. 14.

Aribtrations under the Indian Arbitration Act are not prosecuted by filing suits and preferring appeals from the decrees in such suits but by procuring awards and filing them in Court and resisting applications to set them aside; so also civil proceedings in a Court cover civil proceedings before arbitrators whom the parties have substituted for the Courts of law to be the Judges of the dispute between them. An arbitrator should, therefore, exclude the time spent in prosecuting in good faith the same claim before an arbitrator who was without jurisdiction. 115 Ind. Cas. 713=1929 A.L.J. 254 =33 C.W.N. 485=29 M.L.W. 682=6 O.W.N. 473= 49 C.L.J. 462=31 Bom. L.R. 741=56 I.A. 128=1929 M.W.N. 546=56 Cal. 1048=A.I.R. 1929 P.C. 103=56 M.L.J. 614 (P.C.).

——S. 14—Arbitration proceedings are not covered unless such proceedings oust Civil Court's jurisdiction.

The mere fact that there is an arbitration pending before an arbitrator does not and cannot oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Court.

Could the defendant have taken the plea that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the action because identically the same matter was pending before a certain arbitrator and if it be held that such a plea would be available to the defendant, then it must follow that the right to sue remained in suspense until the arbitrator made his award. 61 Ind. Cas. 807=2 P.L.T. 556=6 P.L.J. 273=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 166.

14. Time spent in appeal.

——S. 14.

Under the Indian Law and procedure an original decree is not suspended by presentation of an appeal, nor is its operation interrupted, where the decree in appeal is one of dismissal. Where a sale is set aside and an appeal against the decree setting aside the sale is dismissed, limitation for a suit by the vendee to recover the purchase-money from the vendor begins to run from the date of the decree setting aside the sale not from the date when the appeal against the decree is dismissed. A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 184 and A.I.R. 1918 P.C. 151, Foll. 100 Ind. Cas. 19=28 P.L.R. 1=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 734.

——S. 14—Temple trustee is not entitled to deduct period between first Courts decree and the decree in High Court in a suit against the defendants who were the same in a previous suit.

Where the trustee of a temple filed a suit on 15th August, 1919, against the archakas and staneekas for the recovery of offerings of money taken without right, by the latter from the hundials of the temple during the period 25th August, 1911 to 31st August, 1914, and sought exemption from the obvious bar of limitation, on the ground that a suit filed on 25th August, 1911, by the worshippers against the same defendants for a declaration that the lease to the latter of the said offerings by the Devasthanam Committee was invalid, failed both in the Munsiff's Court on 22nd February, 1913, and an appeal before the Sub-Court on 15th December 1913, but succeeded in the High Court on 22nd September, 1916:

Held, that the period between 22nd February, 1913, and 22nd September, 1916, could not be deducted in favour of the plaintiff as the decisions of the Munsif and Subordinate Judge were only declaratory and, therefore the suit was barred by limitation. 89 Ind. ——S. 14.

Where the plaintiff was given a decree by which it was ordered that on his paying certain sum within a certain date the defendadnt was to execute a conveyance of certain property to him and where the matter went up in appeal and second appeal:

——S. 14—Putni sold for arrears—Sale set aside and possession restored—Appeal by purchaser—Time between restoration of possession and decision of appeal cannot be deducted.

A putni taluk was sold under Regulation VIII of 1819 for arrears of rent for the year 1321 and purchased by one B. The defendants sued to set aside that sale. The suit was decreed on the 4th October, 1917, by the Trial Court. The sale was set aside and the defendants were held entitled to possession and they actually got possession in October 1917. There was an appeal by the purchaser but the decree of the Trial Court was confirmed by the High Court on the 12th August, 1919. Plaintiff instituted a suit for rent on the 20th March, 1920. It was originally for rent of 1323 and for the kists up to Falgun 1326. Subsequently on the 4th March, 1921, there was an application for the amendment of the plaint and the arrears of rent for the year 1322 were included in the claim. The defendants were restored to possession of the putni in October, 1917, which was more than 3 years before the 4th March, 1921, and there was nothing to prevent the plaintiff from suing them for rent of 1322 and accordingly the claim for the year 1322 was barred by limitation. The period between the date when defendants got possession and the date of decision in appeal cannot be deducted. (1868) 12 M.I.A. 244, Foll. 84 Ind. Cas. 425=40 C.L.J. 97=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 1059.

——S. 14.

Per Spencer and Devadoss, JJ.—When an appeal to a Superior Court only results in the decree appealed against being confirmed, in India there is no interruption in running of time calculated from the date of the original decree. 74 Ind. Cas. 416=17 M.L.W. 254=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 392.

15. Time spent in execution proceedings.

——S. 14—Execution application.

Decree-holder prosecuting bona fide execution before Judge believing him bona fide though erroneously, to have jurisdiction—Time taken by such proceeding can be excluded. A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 677=19 Pat. 354=7 B.R. 245=191 Ind. Cas. 695.

——S. 14—Applicability to steps taken after decree—"Civil proceeding."

The principle of S. 14 is that if andso long as a person has been bona fide and with due diligence seeking the relief that he was entitled to in a Court which he believed to be a Court competent to grant him that relief, he ought not to be penalised for having instituted that action in the wrong Court. The reason of the rule applies equally to the steps taken by him after the decree as to the steps taken by him prior to the decree. The fact that for processual purposes the Code makes a distinction between steps prior to the decree and steps subsequent to the decree does not affect the underlying principle of S. 14, Lim. Act. A party is seeking the relief that he was eltitled to as much in the execution stage as during the pre-decree stage; and in mortgage suit, the relief that he is entitled to is the sale of the property and till that has been carried out, all steps taken by him, provided they were taken with due diligence and in a Court which he bona fide believed to be the Court competent to grant him that relief, may legitimately be held to be steps taken in another civil 'proceeding' within the meaning of S. 14. (1936) M.W.N. 1221=45 L.W. 270=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 303=I.L.R. (1937) Mad. 161=A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 357=170 Ind. Cas. 524.

——S. 14—Decree against minor—Proceedings in execution attacking validity of decree on the ground of fraud and gross negligence of guardian—Subsequent suit for same relief—Exclusion of period of prior proceedings.

Where the plaintiff instituted a suit to set aside a decree which had been passed against him in a former suit on the ground of the fraud and negligence of his guardian, and sought to exclude in computing the period of limitation for the suit the time during which he was prosecuting certain proceedings in execution of the former suit in which he had attacked the validity of the decree on the ground that the guardian had suppressed the fact of his adoption and was grossly negligent and that he was not a party at all to the decree in the sense that there was no representation of him as the adoptod son:

Held, (i) that the material facts constituting the cause of action in the suit were substantially the same as were alleged in the former application (ii) that the former proceedings must be deemed to have been taken in good faith as the plaintiff had acted under legal advice, (iii) that the executing Court had no jurisdiction to grant the relief sought for in the suit, (iv) that the prior proceedings ware not entirely mis-conceived and the plaintiff was, therefore, entitled under S. 14, to the exclusion of the period during which he was unsuccessfully prosecuting the proceedings in execution. (1932) M.W.N. 1317=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 197=140 Ind. Cas. 270.

While counting limitation for the presentation of an application for the preparation of the final decree, time spent in prosecuting previous application for the execution of the decree cannot be excluded as the two reliefs are different S. 14 (2) will not be applicable. 118 Ind. Cas. 670=1929 A.L.J. 976= A.I.R. 1929 All. 677.

——S. 14—Time spent in execution proceedings.

Time spent in prosecuting the first application must be excluded under S. 14 of the Limitation Act from limitation. 1 Pat. L.T. 612=58 Ind. Cas. 40.

——S. 14 and Art. 36—Time spent in execution proceedings—Extension of time.

Under Ss. 5 and 6 of the Malabar Com. for Ten. Impr. Act, the Court executing the decree in a suit brought for ejectment of a tenant has jurisdiction to award compensation to the decree-holder for damages done to his property after passing of the decree. In a suit brought by a decree-holder against his judgment debtors to recover compensation for damages done by them after and before the decree-holder's entry upon the property, the plaintiff is not entitled under S. 14 of the Limitation Act to a deduction of the time spent by him in prosecuting execution proceedings to obtain the same relief though the Executing Court held that it had no jurisdiction to grant that relief. 33 M.L.J. 463=6 L.W. 696=(1917) M.W.N, 822= 43 Ind. Cas. 6.

——S. 14—Time spent in execution proceedings—Exclusion of time.

Time spent in another execution proceedings in respect of the same property is excluded in counting limitation for application for execution. 78 P.W.R. 1909=52 P.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 102.

——S. 14—Application for execution to wrong court—Jurisdiction—Bona fide mistake—Mistake of law.

Proceedings in execution taken before a wrong court which the petitioner bona fide believed under a mistake of law to have jurisdiction are within S. 14 and the time taken up by such proceedings are excusable under that section. (1900) 5 C.W.N. 150=28 Cal. 238.

16. Time spent in review.

——S. 14—Time spent in review.

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for preferring an appeal, the appellant is entitled to deduct the period during which an application for review was pending. 68 Ind.Cas. 200=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 291.

——S. 14—Time spent in review.

Before the appellant can claim the deduction of the period occupied in review proceedings, it must be found that the proceedings in the review were reasonably presented and in good faith. 62 Ind. Cas. 957 (Cal.).

——S. 14—Review.

The time spent in prosecuting with due diligence a proper application for review of judgment can be deducted under S. 5. 78 Ind. Cas. 677=22 A.L.J. 365=5 L.R.A. Civ. 298=A.I.R. 1924 All. 867.

——S. 14—Time required for review before Registrar—Registration Act, S. 76.

S. 14 will not help a party in excluding the time taken by him in prosecuting a review petition before the Registrar against an order by him under S. 76 of the Registration Act refusing to register a deed. 18 C. 368; 18 M. 99 and 17 C. 263 ref. to. 10 C. 265 diss. from. (1903) 7 C.W.N. 550 =30 C. 532.

17. Time spent in revision.

——S. 14—Scope—"Civil proceedings in the Court of appeal" — Meaning of—If includes revision petition in High Court.

There is no reason why a revision petition in the High Court should not be regarded as a "Civil proceeding in a Court of appeal." The expression "Court of appeal" should be taken as being used in a broad sense of any Court which has the power to bring under review the decision of an inferior Court, whatever may be the extent of jurisdiction that the superior Court may possess in reviewing the decision of the inferior Court. S. 14 ought to be liberally construed.

Manohar Lall, J.—Any application by a party to an Appellate Court, asking it to set aside or revise a decision of a subordinate Court is an appeal within the ordinary acceptation of the term. 28 Pat. 102=A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 293=30 P.L.T. 201 (F.B.).

Word "appeal" in S. 14 (1) includes revision. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 633=(1943) M. W. N 455 = (1943) 2 M.L.J. 41=213 Ind. Cas. 236.

——S. 14—Quaere.

It is doubtful as to whether the expression "Court of appeal" as used in S. 14 (1), would include a Court of revision. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 577=68 C.L.J. 261=42 C.W.N. 1051=179 Ind. Cas. 40.

——S. 14—Time taken in civil revision.

The words "Court of Appeal" merely indicate the Court whose order is in question and the words "civil proceeding" are wide enough to include not merely an appeal but also a revision and, therefore, the time taken in a civil revision in a High Court may be excluded under S. 14. A.I.R. 1938 All. 78=(1937) A.L.J. 1308=1937 A.W.R. 1186=I.L.R. (1938) All. 192 =173 Ind. Cas. 461.

——S. 14—Exclusion of time spent in revision.

There is no inflexible rule that when the statute provides for a remedy by way of suit, a party who applies for revision cannot be regarded as having done so in good faith. If, on examining, the proceedings in revision, it is found that there was no want of due diligence and good faith, there is no reason why the plaintiff should be deprived of the benefit of S. 14. A. ——S. 14 (1).—Claim under O. 21, R. 58, Civil. Application under O. 21, R. 100, Civil P.C. dismissed—Revision on order of dismissal, also dismissed after notice to opposite party—Subsequent suit under O. 21, R. 103, Civil P.C., that the plaintiff was entitled under S. 14, Lim. Act, to the exclusion of the time spent in prosecuting the application for revision, but even in this view, the suit was barred. A.I.R. 1931 Nag. 17= 27 N.L.R. 251=130 Ind. Cas. 145.

——S. 14—Revision proceedings.

Where a person does not file a suit within one year after the adverse order under O. 21, R. 103 and chooses to apply for revision of such order, he cannot get the benefit of S. 14 and ask for exclusion of time taken in the revision proceedings. Proceedings contrary to the clearly expressed provisions of law cannot be regarded as civil proceeding in good faith. 39 Mad. 62; A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 297, Foll. 32 Bom.L.R. 1186= A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 505.

——S. 14—Time spent in revision.

Time cannot be deducted under S. 14 in favour of a person ocupied in prosecuting a revision petition in the High Court when he had another remedy open to him. 39 Mad. 62=16 M.L.T. 509=27 M.L.J. 640=1 L.W. 952=26 Ind. Cas. 219.

——S. 14—"Civil proceeding"—Revision petition to the High Court.

A revision petition under S. 115, C. P. Code is a "Civil proceeding" within S. 14. The expression 'Court of appeal' in S. 14 means a court which has the power to bring under review the decision of an inferior court, irrespective of the extent of jurisdiction that the superior court may possess in reviewing the decision of the inferior court. Where a plaint was returned for presentation to a proper court and the plaintiff having unsuccessfully appealed against that order moved the High Court in revision and the High Court dismissed the revision petition. Held, that plaintiff should deduct the time during which the revision petition in the High Court was pending. 17 Ind. Cas. 593 (Mad.).

——S. 14—Time spent in revision—Plaint returned for presentation to proper court.

Where a person, whose plaint was returned for presentation to proper court, filed an appeal against the order which was also dismissed and thereupon filed a revision petition to the High Court he could deduct the time spent up to the disposal of the appeal but not the time spent in revision. 14 Ind. Cas. 259 (Mad.).

The Act is undoubtedly an exhaustive Code governing the law of limitation in India. The cases in which the running of limitation can be suspended are contained in the sections of the Act. It would be dangerous to lay down generally that there is some principle outside the Limitation Act under which limitation can be suspended. 35 All. 227 (P.C.), Foll. 102 Ind. ——S. 14.

R, along with three other persons obtained a contract from the Municipal Committee, and the firm in whose name the contract stood deposited Rs. 2,000 by way of security. Subsequently, one S instituted a suit for recovery of some money against R in his individual capacity and obtained a decree against him. In execution of that decree, he made an application for attachment and sale of the amount lying in deposit with the Municipal Committee. That amount was sold in favour of B. In the meantime, one of the four partners of the firm in whose name the contract had been obtained instituted a suit against the Municipal Committee for recovery of the deposit money. Throughout the pendency of the suit or the appeal, B never made an attempt to be brought on the record as a plaintiff in the case. He, however, instituted a suit for recovery of certain sum against the Municipal Committee, on the basis of the alleged purchase of R's rights in the monies lying in deposit with the said Committee. The suit was beyond limitation:

Held, that anything done behind the back of a debtor did not tend to extend the period of limitation originally provided for the recovery of a debt under the Lim. Act. Had R put forward a claim against the Municipal Committee for recovery of the amount lying in deposit with it, he could sue only within the period prescribed for the suit under the Lim. Act. His rights were in the execution of a decree purchased by B who, as an assignee from R, stood in his shoes and could not, by the mere fact of his purchase, override the provisions of the Lim. Act. It could not be argued, that once an attachment of debt is made, the Lim. Act ceases to operate and that an auction-purchaser is at liberty to recover the amount at any time that he likes in complete disregard of the provisions of the Lim. Act. Moreover, B could not claim a fresh period of limitation merely on the basis of an order which referred him to a regular Court of law, if so advised. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 437=40 P.L.R. 768=181 Ind. Cas. 294.

——S. 14 and Art. 74—Suit to set aside award—Waiver—Estoppel.

Under an award in a business dispute the defts. passed an instalment bond in plff.'s favour. The bond, besides providing for monthly instalments, provided for the recovery of principal and interest on default of three instalments. The deft. paid the instalment till May. The instalments for May and June were returned by the plff. In August he sued to set aside the award which was upheld on 26th February 1908 and by the appellate court by 19th January, 1910. During the appeal the plff.'s vakil applied for the decree of unpaid instalments but it was rejected. After the appeal the plff. sued for the recovery of instalments due. Deft. pleaded Art. 75 as bar. Held, there was no default on the part of the deft., that there was waiver on the part of the plff. and that the plff. could not deduct under S. 14 the period of previous litigation and also that the defts. could not plead the bar of limitation and that the plffs. were entitled to interest on the instalments due as there was no true legal tender of those instalments. 23 M.L.J. 335=(1912) M.W.N. 967=17 Ind. ——S. 15—Scope—If exhaustive—General principles of suspension of limitation or right of action. See Limitation Act, Arts. 62 and 120. 228 Ind. Cas. 493= A.I.R. 1947 A. 256.

——S. 15—Applicability — Application for final decree.

There is no reason in principle why an application for a final decree in a suit on the basis of a mortgage should be excluded from the relief allowed by S. 15 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1946) All. 709=A.I.R. 1947 All. 187=226 Ind. Cas. 424=1946 A.L.J. 394= 1946 A.L.W. 457=1946 A.W.R. (H.C.) 452.

——S. 15 (1)—Applicability—Limitation prescribed under S. 48, C. P. Code.

S. 15 (1) of the Limitation Act governs S. 48 (1), C. P. Code, and is to be taken into consideration in computing the period of 12 years prescribed by S. 48, C. P. Code. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 25=228 Ind. Cas. 576 =1947 N.L.J. 33=A.I.R. 1947 Nag. 101.

——S. 15.

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for an application for the execution of decree, S. 15, Lim. Act, allows a certain period to be excluded. The provision is perfectly general. It is not restricted to the limitation prescribed by Sch. I, Lim. Act. Section 48, Civil P. C., prescribed limitation. Therefore, the provisions contained in S. 15, Lim. Act, can be invoked in computing the period of limitation prescribed by S. 48, Civil P. C. A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 155=1944 N.L.J. 127= I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 250=217 Ind. Cas. 298.

——S. 15.

S. 15, Lim. Act controls S. 48, Civil P. C. and consequently, a stay order from the Court has the effect of extending the period of limitation prescribed by S. 48. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 164=45 Bom. L. R. 234=208 Ind. Cas. 254.

——S. 15—Applicability—Suits and applications for execution stayed under U. P. Encumbered Estates Act.

The rule contained in S. 15 of the Limitation Act applies to suits and applications for execution stayed under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act. I.L.R. (1946) All. 709=A.I.R. 1947 A. 187=226 Ind. Cas. 424=1946 A.L.J. 394=1946 A.L.W. 457=1946 A. W. R. (H.C.) 452.

The order passed under S. 6 of the U.P. Encumbered Estate Act, is such an order as contemplated under S. 15 of the limitation Act having an effect of staying all suits in Civil Courts against the debtor. Hence a creditor suing such a debtor on a promissory note is entitled to have the time between the date of the order under S. 6 of the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act and the date of the rejection of the debtor's application under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act excluded for purposes of computing the period of limitation for his suit against the debtor. 229 Ind. Cas. 62=1947 A.W.R. (C.C.) 33=1947 O.A. Encumbered Estates Act. [25 (XXV) of 1934], Ss. 7 (1) (a) and 6 and 4.

A compromise decree dated 16th October 1933 provided that the judgment-debtor shall pay a certain sum either in a lump sum or in instalments, but within three years. Interest on decretal amount at 6 per cent. per annum was payable every six months till realisation. In case of default the plaintiff had a right to realise the amount of the decree from the judgment debtor's property. On 3rd January 1936, the judgment-debtor applied under S. 4, U. P. Encumbered Estates Act, which was forwarded to Special Judge in due course but was dismissed for default on 19th April, 1938. The application for restoration was also dismissed. His appeal against the dismissal was also dismissed on 2nd December 1938. The decree-holder applied for the execution of the decree on 9th September 1939. The judgment-debtor contended that the decree became executable six months after its date i.e., from 16th April 1934 when the first default in payment of interest occurred, and no application for execution could be entertained after 16th April 1937 and hence the application dated 9th September 1939 was barred by time:

Held, that though the judgment-debtor was liable to pay interest on the decretal amount every six months, yet, the realisation of the decretal amount would not have been warranted before the expiry of three years. The language of the comprimise was rather vague but the default could hardly be ascribed to the default in payment of six monthly interest:

Held further that the decree became incompetent of execution by reason of S. 7 (1) (a), U.P. Encumbered Estates Act, from 3rd January 1936 when the order under S. 6 of that Act was passed and the incompetency continued till 2nd December 1938, i. e., till the judgment-debtor's application for liquidation of his debts under the Act was dismissed finally. According to S. 15, Limitation Act, the decree-holder was entitled to the exclusion of this period and hence the execution application dated 9th September 1939 was clearly within time. A.I.R. 1946 Oudh 161=1946 Oudh W.N. 125=223 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 15.

Since, after an order by the Collector under S. 6, U.P. Encum. Estates Act, no creditor can, during the pendency of proceedings under the Encum. Estates Act, institute a suit for the recovery of the debt due to him from the land-lord, the order of the Collector under S. 6 attracts the provision of S. 15, Lim. Act, and the period intervening between the date of that order and the conclusion of the proceedings under the Encum. Estates Act must, therefore, be excluded in the computation of the period of limitation for a suit by a creditor. A.I.R. 1943 All. 291=(1943) A L. J. 258=I.L.R. (1943) All. 569=1943 A.W.R. H.C. 140 (2)=209 Ind. Cas. 541.

——S. 15—Principle of S. 15 applies to restitution proceedings.

Though the provisions of S. 15 cannot be attracted to proceedings for restitution because an application for restitution under S. 144, Civil P. C., is not to be regarded as an application for execution and the time during which a party is precluded from making an application for restitution cannot be excluded under S. 15, there is no reason why the same principle on which S. 15 is based should not be extended to an application for restitution as well. A. I. R. 1945 Lah. 227.

——S. 15.

Quaere.— Whether S. 15, Lim. Act applies to an instalment rent-decree without an exigibility clause. 24 Pat. 222=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 398.

——S. 15—Stay by injunction or order—Basis.

The question whether, in order to attract the application of S. 15, in a particular case, a party has been restrained by an injunction or order from instituting a suit must always depend for its decision upon the order or the decree made in the case. Where there is nothing in the injunction or in the decree to support the contention that the party was prevented from instituting a suit for possession at any time before the expiry of the period of limitation, the provisions of S. 15 can have no application. 1944 M. W. N. 711=I. L. R. (1945) Kar. P. C. 43=(1944) 2 M.L. J. 358=49 C.W.N. 6=47 Bom. L.R. 1=A.I.R. 1945 P.C. 5 (P.C.).

——S. 15—Condition for applicability—Barring suit or execution—Must be a bar in substance and not merely in form—Decree declaring promisee not entitled to sue on promissory note—Reversed in appeal—Filing of suit effectively suspended till the date of the appellate decree.

In order to justify application of S. 15 the Court has to see whether the order or decree in a previous litigation between the same parties is in substance and not merely in form one which prevents a party from filing a suit or executing a decree. 5 Pat. L. J. 39; 47 Ind. Cas. 907, Appl.

A promissory note was executed in 1917 in renewal of a prior promissory note of 1914 executed by the defendant in favour of the plaintiff's father. The alpintiff's father's sister filed a suit on the promissory note of 1914 alleging that the note was nominally taken in plaintiff's father's name, with her money and that she was entitled to the amount due on the promissory note. The District Munsif passed a decree in her favour in 1919. Subsequent suit was filed on the 11th October, 1922. The decree in 1919 declared the plaintiff's right and directed the present plaintiffs who were defendants in that suit to endorse the promissory note in her favour. There was an appeal and the Subordinate Judge on 13th October, 1919, reversed the decision of the District Munsif and dismissed the plaintiffs' suit. Both the present plaintiffs and the defendant were parties to the previous suit.

Held, that the effect of the decision of the District Munsif was that the present plaintiffs had no right to recover the money due on the first promissory note, and as they were directed to endorse that note to the plaintiff in that suit they could not, when that decree was in force, claim any money on the renewed promissory note till the decision of the District Munsif was reversed in appeal. The fact that they were defendants in that suit made no difference. 105 Ind. Cas. 304=1927 M.W.N. 757=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 997=53 M.L. J. 520.

——S. 15.—Section 15, Lim. Act is applicable to cases in which either as a direct or as an indirect consequence of an order of a Court, a plaintiff is debarred from instituting a suit. A.I.R. 1943 All. 291=(1943) A.L. J. 258=1943 A.W.R.H.C. 140 (2)=I.L R. (1943) All. 569=209 Ind. Cas. 541.

——S. 15—Injunction or order must be express in its terms.

Section 15 of the Lim. Act is explicit in its terms. In order to call its provision in aid, it must be shown that a suit or application for the execution of a decree had been stayed by an injunction or order. The injunction or order must be express in its terms and a person cannot escape the bar of limitation under that section by pleading in equity an implied order or a collateral litigation which would render the proceedings futile.

Some months after the appellant obtained her decree on a mortgage, certain worshippers impleading both the mortgagor and the mortgagee got it declared that the security of the mortgage was a religious endowment and not the property of the mortgagor. On an application to execute her decree, the mortgagor sought to treat this decree as an order staying the execution of her prior decrees until it was set aside on appeal by the High Court.

Held, that the applicant was not entitled to exclusion of the period under S. 15, Lim. Act. 37 M.L.W. 607=64 M.L.J. 664=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 418=(1933) M.W.N. 566=56 M 490=143 Ind. Cas. 1 (F.B.).

Under S. 15, "expressly excluded" means excluded by express words. A.I.R. 1933 Sind 240=148 Ind. Cas. 178.

——S. 15.

Provisions of S. 15, Lim. Act have not been excluded in computing the period of limitation prescribed by Sch. III of Bihar Ten. Act. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 499=8 B.R. 59=196 Ind. Cas. 609.

——S. 15—Applicability—Stay under administrative orders.

Stay of execution proceedings in lower Courts under administrative orders of Chief Court—Section 15, does not apply. 1940 O.W.N. 1202=A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 93 =1940 A.W.R. 472=16 Luck. 495=191 Ind. Cas. 757.

——S. 15—Application for delivery of possession by auction-purchaser.

Section 15, refers to a suit or an application for the execution of a decree. An application for delivery of possession by the auction-purchasers may be treated as an application in an execution proceeding but it cannot be treated as an application for execution. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 333=62 C. 66=158 Ind. Cas. 191.

——S. 15.

An order which stayed the execution of a decree being merely an order staying the Court and not putting an end to the rights of either the judgment-creditor or the judgment-debtor to apply for execution will not come under S. 15, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 352=164 Ind. Cas. 896.

——S. 15—Applicability—Royal proclamation.

Effect of S. 15 of the Limitation Act relates to injunctions or orders of Court, and not to royal proclamations which prevent the institution of suits by alien enemies. 47 Ind. Cas. 122 (Cal.).

——S. 15 (1)—Applicability—Execution application.

S. 15 of the Limitation Act 1877, was limited in its application to suits and had no application for execution of decrees. But in the case of a previous application for execution followed by an injunction or prohibitory order, the subsequent application for execution could be treated as one in revival of the previous application. S. 15 of the Limitation Act of 1908 however has been so framed as to be applicable not only to suits but also to applications for execution of decrees. 7 Ind. Cas. 886 (Cal.).

——S. 15 (1)—Applicability—Property under Court of Wards—Execution.

A mortgagee holding a decree against an Estate under the Court of Wards management is not entitled to the benefit of exclusion of the period of management by the Court of Wards when the decree itself was not transferred to the Collector for execution. 29 Ind. Cas. 556 (Mad.).

——S. 15—Applicability—Estate under Court of Wards—Madras Court of Wards Act, S. 45.

The provisions of S. 45 of the Madras Court of Wards Act allowing deduction of time during which the estate was under the Court's management will apply when decrees have been transferred to the Collector for execution, and an amendment of it in execution petition cannot be permitted to revive a barred claim. 36 M 378; 35 W. R. 820; 26 M.L.J. 83. Foll. 37 M. 186, Diss. Whether the section of the Limitation Act relating to exclusion of time spent in necessary acts, etc., govern also the 12 years period prescribed by S. 48, C. P. C. 27 M.L.J. 25=24 Ind. Cas. 195.

2. Stay of execution.

——S. 15 (1)—Order for stay—Order granting time to pay decretal amount—If amounts to.

An order of an executing Court granting time to a judgment-debtor to pay the decretal amount by certain date operates as an order for stay within S. 15 (1) of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 25=228 Ind. Cas. 576=1947 N.L.J. 33=A.I.R. 1947 Nag. 101.

——S. 15—Time for payment given to judgment-debtor operating as stay—Must be excluded.

An application for execution was made on 21st September, 1923, the judgment-debtor paid Rs. 50 in part payment and prayed for a week's time for payment of a sum of Rs. 200. The Court granted time to the judgment-debtor to pay the money up to 29th September, 1923. No payment was, however, made on this date and the execution case was dismissed on 3rd October, 1923. On 24th September, 1926 an application for execution was filed:

Held, that the application was not barred. The order granting time prevented decree-holder from taking any further step and the order of 21st September must be considered to be an order of stay of execution and not in furtherance of execution. 119 Ind. Cas. 890=7 Pat. 829=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 36.

——S. 15—Time to judgment debtor for payment—Does not operate as stay.

An order merely giving time to judgment-debtor for payment is not an order staying execution or an injunction and S. 15 does not apply in such a case. 40 All. 198, Foll. 100 Ind. Cas. 475=9 L.L.J. 76=28 P.L.R. 93=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 106.

——S. 15—Time given for paying decretal amount—Subsequent application within three years from the expiry of such period is within time.

Section 15 applies to suits and execution proceedings alike and so the time for which execution proceedings are stayed is excluded.

Where after stay of execution on application of parties, a certain period is given to the judgment debtor for paying off the decretal amount a subsequent application from execution, made within three years from the expiry of the period given to the judgment-debtor, is within time. 94 Ind. Cas. 482=A.I.R. 1926 All. 473.

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution—Order granting time to judgment debtor—If operates as.

An order granting time to the judgment debtor for the payment of the decree-amount is not an order staying execution within S. 15. "Prescribed" in S. 15 refers to periods prescribed by the Act and has no application to the provisions of S. 48 of the C. P. Code. 40 All. 198=16 A.L.J. 71=44 Ind. Cas. 24.

——S. 15—Execution not absolutely stayed.

Section 15 does not come into play if the execution is not completely and absolutely stayed. Thus where the execution of a decree is stayed as regards a portion of the property and the decree-holder is at liberty to proceed against the rest of the property, the section can have no application. 46 Bom. L.R. 666=A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 303.

——S. 15.

Sale of some property of judgment-debtor stayed—Benefit of S. 15 cannot be claimed. A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 75 =190 Ind. Cas. 379.

——S. 15 — Stay of execution — Absolute stay — contemplated.

Section 15 contemplates an absolute stay of execution which renders the decree-holder incapable of taking out execution of the decree. 120 Ind. Cas. 315=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 597.

——S. 15—Stay-partial.

Quaere.—Whether a partial stay order may be governed by S. 15, Limitation Act. 110 Ind.Cas. 518=51 Mad. 583=28 M.L.W. 60=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 627=57 M.L.J. 156.

——S. 15—Stay must be absolute — Stay under O 21, R. 53 (1) (b)—Does not apply to.

Section 15 only applies to an absolute stay, and not to a limited stay as would be ordered by the notice under O. 21, R. 53 (1) (b). The stay under this rule does not prevent either the holder of the decree sought to be executed or his judgment-debtor from seeking to execute the original decree and that being the case, time must be taken as running against them. 80 Ind. Cas. 239=48 Bom. 435=26 Bom. L.R. 317=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 383.

——S. 15—Bar of arrest in execution—Attachment still open—Period of bar therefore not to be excluded.

Though the decree-holders may have been debarred from one particular mode of execution still it is open to them to execute their decree in any other way, e.g., by attachment and sale of any movable or immovable property of the judgment-debtor. Therefore S. 15 of the Limitation Act does not apply. 82 Ind. Cas. 1=5 L.R. A.Civ. 408=A.I.R. 1924 All. 707.

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution — Execution of decree in part—Exclusion of time.

Where on appeal an order staying the execution of a decree was obtained, the decree-holder was entitled under S. 15 (1) to exclude the period of stay in computing time for an another execution application. The fact that the execution order related only to a part of the decree is immaterial. 38 Bom. 153=15 Bom.L.R. 936=21 Ind. Cas. 713.

——S. 15(1)—Stay of execution—Partial—Execution of time.

A partial stay of execution in respect of a particular property against which execution is sought amounts to a stay of execution within the meaning of S. 15 of the Limitation Act so that in computing the period of limitation prescribed for an appplication for execution of a decree the time during which the execution of the decree has been partially stayed should be deducted. 3 U.B.R. (1918) 73=46 Ind. Cas. 399.

——S. 15—Stay of execution.

Section 15 does not contemplate case of one decree being rendered impossible of execution by subsequent inconsistent decree passed in other suit.

A decree-holder obtained a decree for possession of a temple in 1926. Before he could execute his decree, a suit was instituted by the pujari of the temple and a decree was passed in 1928 declaring the pujari to be the owner of the temple an restraining the decree-holder in the previous suit from taking possession of the temple. In 1931, this decree was set aside by the High Court and the decree-holder in the previous suit applied in 1933 for execution of his decree passed in 1926:

Held, that S. 15 did not apply, the decree of 1928 did not operate as an injunction or stay of execution within the meaning of S. 15 and therefore, the decree of 1926 was time-barred in 1933 when the decree-holder attempted to put the decree into execution. 1939 A.W.R. 93=A.I.R. 1939 All. 82=(1939) A.L.J. 29=I.L.R. (1939) All. 207=180 Ind. Cas. 927.

——S. 15—Stay of execution.

The decree-holder was a judgment-debtor under the decree passed in previous case which decree he was challenging in appeal. He applied to the Court for stay pending the disposal of the appeal. The Court ordered stay on terms as to security. The then judgment-debtor, (the decree-holder in subsequent decree) was offering as security the subsequent decree which he had, by that date, obtained. It was a decree for a sum of over Rs. 10,000 and it was against a judgment-debtor whose estate had recently been taken under the management of the Court of Wards. The Judge considered the security proper and ordered that the officer-in-charge of the Court of Wards should be written to deposit the amount in Court. The order contained the following sentence: "The judgment-debtor undertakes not to accept any payment direct from the Court of Wards towards the satisfaction of his decree":

Held, that the order was not tantamount to a stay by an injunction or order within the meaning of S. 15. 1939 N.L.J. 40=A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 81=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 627=181 Ind. Cas. 516.

——S. 15—Stay of execution.

Where, after a person had obtained a decree against another, a Receiver was appointed for the judgment-debtor's properties in another suit and on an application made by the decree-holder in the latter suit for permission to levy execution against the property in the hands of the Receiver, the Court ordered that he should wait for some time and it appeared that there was in fact no application for execution pending in the former suit at the time when the application for permission was made:

Held, that the order made in the latter suit was not in any sense a stay of the execution by injunction or order within S. 15 and the decree-holder was not entitled to exclude the period during which that order was in force in computing the period for a subsequent application to execute the decree. 10 O.W.N. 226=37 L. W. 335=(1933) M.W.N. 112=A.I.R. 1933 P.C. 52 =14 P L.T. 167=37 O.W.N. 548=(1933) A.L.J. 359 =12 Pat. 195=64 M.L.J. 599=35 Bom. L. R. 526= 57 C.L.J. 276=60 I. A. 43=141 Ind. Cas. 760 (P.C.).

——S. 15—By agreement.

Only an agreement to desist from execution would not attract the provision of S. 15, Limitation Act. 100 Ind. Cas. 20=38 M. L. T. 42=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 347=52 M. L. J. 137.

——S. 15 (1) and Art. 182 (5)—Agreement not to execute—Running of time.

An agreement not to arrest the judgment-debtor is not binding on the decree-holder or judgment-debtor especially where it had been broken by the decree-holder and it would not save the period of limitation from running against him. 13 A.L.J. 305=28 Ind. Cas. 381.

——S. 15—There must be clear order for stay.

Although under S. 15 a written order staying the execution of the decree is not necessary, there must be clear order staying the execution of the decree. 60 Ind. Cas. 916=23 Bom. L.R. 107=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 33.

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution—Due to decree-holder—Exculsion of time.

Where the stay of a sale in execution is due entirely to the decree-holder, such stay cannot be regarded as a legal stoppage of the execution proceedings, so as to entitle the decree-holder to the benefit of S. 15 of the Limitation Act. (1920) P.H.C.C. 109=53 Ind. Cas. 85.

——S. 15 and Art. 182—Stay of execution—Execution application—Case struck off—Suspension of limitation.

Where the final decree in a mortgage suit was set aside against some of the owners of the equity of redemption, and the case was ordered to be retried, the decree-holder's application for execution, against the other defts. was struck off till the liability of the defts. against whom the decree had been set aside, was finally settled the execution of the decree is thus stayed until the liability is determined. 47 Ind Cas. 907 (Cal.).

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution—Decree accepted as security for costs of appeal—If operates as.

Plaintiff appealed to the Privy Council and offered as security for respondent's costs in that appeal a a decree which he had obtained against the latter in another suit. Held, that the acceptance of the decree as security did not amount to an order by the Court that execution of the decree should not proceed pending the disposal of the appeal to the Privy Council. The period between the dismissal of the suit by the High Court and the date on which the application for execution of the decree was filed could not be excluded under S. 15 of the Limitation Act. 3 Pat. L. J. 132=44 Ind. Cas. 570.

An attachment before judgment is not an injunction or order staying execution within the meaning of S. 15 of the Limitation Act whether the subject matter of attachment is decree or any other property. 21 C.W.N. 1147=40 Ind. Cas. 816.

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution—Attachment of decree, if operates as—Limitation—C. P. Code, O. 21, R. 53.

An attachment of a decree under O. 21, R. 53, C. P. C. operates as a stay of execution of the decree by order of Court and that the time during which it was under attachment should be deducted in computing the period of limitation for execution. 30 Ind. Cas. 587 (Cal.).

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution — Adjournment of execution application, if operates as.

In order to apply S. 15 a party must point out the injunction or order staying the execution of the decree, the dates of its issue and withdrawal. The section does not apply where the hearing of an application is adjourned for some time as the judgment-debtor objected to the execution. 36 Ind. Cas. 939 (Cal.)

——S. 15.

If, by the order of a competent Court, the decree has been rendered a nullity, the period during which that order is in force must be excluded, otherwise the period of limitation allowed to the decree-holder would be reduced to less than three years. A.I.R 1944 All. 88=(1944) A.L.J. 98=1944 O.W.N.H.C. 50=1944 A.W.R.H.C. 67=I.L.R. (1944) All. 197=212 Ind. Cas. 621.

——S. 15—By injunction or by decree being set aside—Period excluded.

Where a decree-holder is restrained by injunction from executing the decree or where his decree has ceased to exist having been set aside in a separate suit the time of injunction or the period for which the decree ceased to exist should be excluded. 102 Ind. Cas. 327=6 Pat. 635=8 P.L.T. 770=A.I.R. 1928 Pat. 86.

——S. 15—Stay on condition of security—Period from date of order to date of acceptance of security to be deducted.

Where an order granting stay of delivery of possession is made conditional upon security being furnished and security is subsequently given and accepted, the order of stay must be taken to have been in force from the date of the original order granting stay and the time that elapsed between the date of the stay order and the date of the actual acceptance of the security should also be deducted in favour of the purchaser. 99 Ind. Cas. 632=25 M.L.W. 108=1927 M.W.N. 60=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 391.

——S. 15—By injunction—Period of exclusion—From date of last execution to date of dissolution of injunction.

On 7th July, 1917, the execution of a mortgage decree for a sale of a house was first taken out. On September 12th, 1917, injunction was granted restraining the sale of half the house. On 19th November, 1917 an application was made to take a step-in-aid of execution with respect to the other half of the house. That half of the house was sold. The injunction was dissolved on 8th November, 1918. Application for execution with respect to the other half was made on January 10th, 1922:

Held, that the last application was made on 19th November, 1917, and limitation began to run from that date. The only period which the decree-holder was entitled to exclude on account of the injunction was from 19th November, 1917, the date on which limitation began to run, to 8th November, 1918, the date on which the injunction was dissolved. Therefore, the application made on 10th January, 1922, having been made more than 3 years after the date of the last application, after deducting the period covered by the injunction the application was time-barred. 78 Ind. Cas. 478=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 298.

——S. 15—Decree-holder required to produce judgment in a suit—Period till that judgment was passed should be excluded.

The decree-holder was asked by the executing Court to produce the judgment in a certain suit before a certain date before the decree could be transferred to the Collector for execution. The judgment in that suit was passed at a much later date. Upon the decree holder's failure to produce the judgment before the required date, the Court dismissed the application for execution. In calculating the limitation for a subsequent execution application by decree-holder:

Held, that the time during which the suit, the judgment in which was required to be produced, continued should be excluded. 64 Ind. Cas. 598=19 A.L.J. 905=A.I.R. 1921 All. 174.

——S. 15—Injunction as to part by another Court—Stay as to the rest by executing Court—Period till both the injunction and stay ceased to be operative to be excluded.

Sub-section (1) of S. 15 contemplates the stay of execution of a decree either by injunction or by order; an injunction to stay execution may be issued in a proceeding other than the execution proceedings, while an order for stay of execution may be made be the execution Court itself in the course of those proceedings.

Where a decree is stayed by injunction as to part of the properties and by order of the executing Court itself as to the rest, the decree-holder is entitled to deduct the time during which the injunction and the order continued, the date on which the injunction was issued and the order was made, and the date on which the injunction and the order ceased to be operative. 64 Ind. Cas. 594=34 C. L.J. 163=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 696.

——S. 15—Injunction—Entire proceedings stayed—Period of stay excluded.

Where in consequence of an injunction obtained by a claimant to a share in the property sought to be sold in execution, the executing Court stays the whole proceedings, S. 15, Sub-section (1) applies, and the decree-holder is entitled to a deduction of the time between the date when the order for stay was made and the date when that order ceased to be operative. 64 Ind. Cas. 849=35 C.L.J. 135=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 594.

——S. 15 (1) and Arts. 181 and 182—Execution—Limitation, suspension of.

Where no obstacle actual or resulting is imposed upon the execution of a decree by the Executing Court or by a Court before which an appeal is pending or by the Court before which a suit or appeal to contest the validity of the decree or the order passed in execution, is awaiting trial, there is nothing to stop the running of limitation either under Art. 181 or under Art. 182. 6 O.L.J. 656=54 Ind. Cas. 426.

——S. 15 and Art. 182—Stay of execution—Order permitting execution on security—Deduction of time during which order was in force.

Pending appeal to the Privy Council, the High Court made an order allowing the decree-holder to execute the decree on furnishing security within one month. The decree-holder was unable to find the required security. Thereupon execution could not proceed and the Privy Council eventually dismissed the appeal for default. Held, that the order of the High Court whatever its form, did in fact stay the execution of the decree, prevented him from executing the decree unconditionally as he was entitled to do. As the condition could not be performed, the effect was to stay the execution altogether. The time during which the order was in force could be deducted in reckoning the period of limitation for filing the execution petition. 5 Pat. L. J. 39=(1919) P.H.C.C. 434=53 Ind. Cas. 9.

——S. 15 (1) and Art. 181—Stay of execution.

Where there was nothing to prevent the decree-holder from prosecuting the execution such as an order staying further execution, the decree-holder is not entitled to deduct the time spent in proceedings started by the judgment-debtor. (1917) P.H.C.C. 58=42 Ind. Cas. 811.

3. Stay of suit.

——S. 15 and Arts. 109 and 129—Suit for mesne profits — Execution proceedings to take delivery of property restrained—S. 15 of the Limitation Act, if applies—Acknowledgment of liability for mesne profits—Period for which mesne profits could be decreed.

The plaintiff purchased certain property in execution of a mortgage decree on 22nd November, 1937, and the sale was confirmed in his favour on 18th February, 1938. Some of the defendants then filed a suit impugning the mortgage and both the trial Court and the appellate Court (High Court) dismissed the same. Pending the disposal of the appeal the defendants obtaining an order of injunction restraining the plaintiff from interfering with their possession on 7th November, 1938, and the order was confirmed on 6th March, 1939. After the appeal was dismissed, the plaintiff obtained delivery of the property on 12th November, 1941, and sought during the course of execution to obtain mesne profits by way of restitution, and during these proceedings, on 8th December, 1942, some of the defendants filed a counter in which inter alia they admitted that if at all, they were liable only from and after 6th March, 1939. The plaintiff's application for mesne profits was dismissed, where upon he filed the present suit for the same from 22nd November, 1937, the date of his purchase to 12th November, 1941. The trial Court gave a decree for mesne profits only for three years prior to the date of the suit, but the appellate Court admitting the counter, as additional evidence and treating the contents therein as an acknowledgment gave a decree from 7th November, 1938, the date of the order of injunction passed by the High Court. On appeal, held, (i) that S. 15 of the Limitation Act did not, in so many words, apply to the facts of the case, for the institution of the present suit was not stayed by the injunction order and that the institution of a suit can never be said to be futile if it would thereby prevent the running of limitation.

(ii) It cannot be said that the defendant's possession was not wrongful and it could become rightful possession by the filing of the suit.

(iii) But even treating the counter as an acknowledgment, it was made on 8th December, 1942, and can therefore only be regarded as an acknowledgment of mesne profits that had not become time-barred by that date and the acknowledgment would entitle the plaintiff to mesne profits only from 8th December, 1939; and as it was not signed by all the defendants it would bind only those who signed it. 61 L.W. 609=A.I.R. 1949 Mad. 279=1948 M.W.N. 631=(1948) 2 M.L.J. 314.

——S. 15—Stay of suit.

Mere stay of delivery of possession of property in execution of a decree cannot serve to extend time for the institution of a suit for mesne profits under S. 15, Lim. Act.

A plaintiff cannot be allowed any extension of time to save limitation merely on equitable consideration unless the extension is provided for by the statute. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 615=34 P.L.R. 1085=146 Ind. Cas. 939.

——S. 15—Estate attached under Chota Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act—Suit if filed, keeps alive claim—If not filed, period of attachment cannot be excluded.

There is no provision in the Chota Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act providing that a vesting order under S. 2 has the effect of barring the institution of suits. 20 Cal. 609, Diss. But if such a suit be instituted, the institution of the suit has the effect of keeping the claim alive as against the person whose estate is attached under the Act. But where no such suit is filed, the period during which the property was under attachment cannot be excluded by the mortgagee of the attached property from limitation for instituting his suit on mortgage. 105 Ind. Cas. 643=7 Pat. 109=9 P.L.T. 252=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 179.

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of suit —Ejectment suit—If suspends rent suit.

During the pendency of a suit for ejectment the right to sue for rent for the period of suit continues and the limitation for a suit for the rent is not suspended by the ejectment suit. 11 W.R. (P.C.) 5 Dist. 9 C. 255 (P.C.), Foll. 57 Ind. Cas. 992 (Cal.)

4. Stay against one of several judgment-debtors or defendants.

——S. 15—Stay against one of several judgment-debtors.

The institution and continuance of the insolvency proceedings against one of the judgment-debtors does not prevent the decree-holder from proceeding to execute the decree as against the other judgment-debtors as the liability of the other judgment-debtors in respect of the decree is not in any way affected by the insolvency proceedings. The period between the stay order and final disposal of insolvency case cannot be excluded under S. 15 as against the other judgment-debtors. A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 149=6 B.R. 64=21 P.L.T. 618=184 Ind. Cas. 701.

——S. 15—Stay against one Judgment-debtor—Period of stay not excluded against other Judgment debtors.

Period which should be excluded from computation because there was a stay order against one judgment-debtor should not be excluded from computation as against the other judgment-debtors, when there is no stay order against them. A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 116, Diss. 110 Ind. Cas. 518=51 Mad. 583=28 M.L.W. 60=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 627=55 M.L.J. 156.

——S. 15—Several defendants—Plaintiff entitled to deduct time against one defendant entitled against all defendants as well.

In a single suit brought against several defendants if the plaintiff is entitled to deduct a certain period from the period of limitation in respect of one defendant, he is also entitled to the same period of limitation in the case of the other defendants. A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 549 and A.I.R., 1927 Pat. 344, Foll. 111 Ind.Cas. 749=9 Lah. 519=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 349.

See also: 70 Ind. Cas. 109=3 Pat. L.J. 643=1922 P.H.C.C. 254=A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 549.

Where execution against one of several joint judgment-debtors is stayed, limitation is suspended against the others also. 61 Ind. Cas. 901=13 M.L.W. 59=1921 M.W.N. 188=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 116.

——S. 15 and Sch. I, Arts. 181 and 182—Stay of execution—Mortgage decree against three persons—Stay order on application by one under Chota Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act—Fresh application for execution after stay order withdrawn.

Where an application for execution of a mortgage decree against A, B and C was dismissed by reason of an order staying the proceedings, issued by the Commissioner on an application therefor by A under the Chota Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act, a fresh application for execution after the withdrawal of the stay order must be deemed to be one for the revival and continuance of the previous application and is governed by Art. 181 of the limitation Act, Where the mortgaged property was to be sold substantially as the property of A and it would have been futile for the decree-holder to proceed against B and C while the order of stay of execution against A was in force, the decree-holder is, as against B and C entitled to a deduction, under S. 15 of the Limitation Act, of the period during which the stay order was in force. 20 Ind. Cas. 439 (Cal.)

5. Injunction.

——S. 15—Attachment before judgment of decree—Amounts to injunction.

An attachment before judgment of a decree and a consequent order issued by the court attaching the decree absolutely prohibiting the execution of the decree by anybody amounts to an injunction and the period of its pendency is excluded under S. 15 in executing the decree. 80 Ind. Cas. 103=19 M.L.W. 650=1924 M.W.N. 527=47 Mad. 641=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 673=47 M.L.J. 4.

——S. 15 (1)—Injunction—If includes attachment.

The words "injunction or order" in S. 15 of the limitation Act do not include "attachment". 42 Mad. 637=10 L W. 333=26 M.L.T. 147=(1919) M.W.N. 448=50 Ind. Cas. 380.

——S. 15 (1)—Injunction—Execution.

Where a decree-holder is prevented by an injunction from executing his decree he must apply for execution within three years from the termination of the injunction period, to save his decree from being barred. 18 A.L.J. 642=56 Ind. Cas. 1006.

——S. 15—Injunction—Order striking off case on ground of insolvency—Revival of execution—Execution against firm.

A decree-holder applied on 30-8-1912 for execution of a decree against the firm B and J. On 1-10-1912 an order striking the case off the list was passed on the ground that the firm had been adjudicated an insolvent. On 3-4-1916 it was decided in the insolvency proceedings that B alone was the proprietor of the firm. Thereafter on 19-4-1917 they made an application for execution against J. Held, that the application for execution dated 19-4-1917 was not barred by limitation under Art. 182 as the application of 13-8-1912 was to be considered against all the persons who were mentioned in the decree as members of the firm. Even if the application dated 19-4-1917 be regarded as new, the order of 1-10-1912 amounts to an injunction within S. 15 of the limitation Act. The period from 1-10-1912 to 3-4-1916, is therefore to be excluded. 17 P.W.R. 1919=51 Ind. Cas. 64.

——S. 15—Execution—Injunction—Limitation.

The period during which an injunction not to execute a decree is in force will be deducted from the period of limitation for execution of the decree. 2 Pat. L. J. 24=38 Ind. Cas. 85.

——S. 15 (1)—Injunction—No order of—Exclusion of time.

A party cannot claim to exclude under S. 15 the time during which no injunction staying a suit was in force against him 27 M. L. J. 734=26 Ind. Cas. 267.

——S. 15 and Art. 182—Injunction—Exclusion of time—Pendency of claim suit.

Where in execution of a decree a claim was put in by two persons and was disallowed and the latter brought a regular suit to set aside the attachment and an injunction was obtained and an order was passed releasing the property from attachment, it was held that an application by the decree-holder for execution within three years of the date when the attachment was raised was not barred by limitation since time began to run from that date and that time should in any case be deducted during which the injunction staying sale was in force. 34 All. 436=9 A. L. J. 540=14 Ind. Cas. 343.

6. Insolvency of Judgment—debtor.

——S. 15—Applicability—Exclusion of period between date of adjudication and the date of the closing of the proceedings. See PROVINCIAL INSOLVENCY ACT (V OF 1920), S. 78 (2.) (1947) 1 M.L.J. 4=A.I.R. 1947 Mad. 238.

——S. 15—Insolvency of judgment-debtor—Whether insolvency operates as stay.

Quaere. Whether an order adjudicating a person as an insolvent does not operate as an order staying execution of the decree against him. 110 Ind. Cas. 518=51 Mad. 583=28 M. L. W. 60=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 627=55 M.L.J. 156.

——S. 15—Adjudication—No bar to suit—Period of pendency of insolvency—Not to be excluded.

It cannot be said that when an adjudication order is made there is any injunction or order against the institution of a suit by a creditor. Section 17 of the Presidency Towns Insolvency Act does not present an absolute bar to the creditor's right to institute a suit but only prevents him from suing without the leave of the Court. And it is only when leave is refused that it can be said that there is an injunction or order staying the institution of the suit. The creditor cannot, therefore, claim a deduction of the time during which the insolvency was pending, in computing the period of limitation in any suit brought by the creditor after the insolvency proceedings are quashed. 67 Ind. Cas. 757 24 Bom. L. R. 509=47 Bom. 244=A. I. R. 1923 Bom. 33.

——S. 15 and Art. 182—Stay of execution—Insolvency proceedings—Absence of protection order—Time does not stop.

The pendency of an insolvency proceedings under the Presy. Towns Ins. Act does not in the absence of a protection under S. 15 of the Act, bar the remedy of the decree-holder to execute his decree by the arrest of the judgment-debtor. The limitation for the execution of a decree, therefore continues to run against a decree-holder during the pendency of an insolvency proceeding (1918) P. H. C. C. 357=47 Ind. Cas. 798.

——S. 15 (1)—Stay of execution—Insolvency proceedings, if operates as.

The pendency of an insolvency proceedings at the instance of the judgment-debtor will not arrest the running of time as against the decree-holder seeking execution unless the proceedings are stayed by the Insolvency Court or Executing Court. 80 P. W. R. 1912=155 P. L. R. 1912=14 Ind. Cas. 335.

7. Revival or continuation of execution.

——S. 15—Where there is no stay order passed under S. 10, Agri. Debtors Relief Act, S. 15, Lim. Act, has no application. Where an execution case is struck off for the time being, because some other suit is pending with regard to the property involved in the execution, the application to proceed with the execution after the matter has been finally decided in appeal and revision amounts to an application for revival of the original application, although the application may not say it in so many words and is governed by Art. 181, Lim. Act. A. I. R. 1941 Pesh. 17=212 Ind. Cas. 628.

——S. 15—A decree was passed on January 17, 1931. An application for execution was made on January 22, 1931. Property was attached but the judgment-debtor made an application for being declared an insolvent, and on January 31, 1931, had obtained an order from the Insolvency Court that execution be stayed. In the circumstance, the decree-holder's Pleader made a statement to the execution Court on February 17, 1931, which was the date fixed for sale that the case be consigned to record, but that attachment should continue. Accordingly, the execution Court made an order to the same effect. Ultimately, the judgment-debtor withdrew his insolvency petition on September 9, 1932. On August 8, 1934, the decree-holder made another application praying that the execution proceedings which were consigned to records be revived. He prayed in the alternative that proceedings be started afresh against the property which had been attached previously and the said property be sold :

Held, that the application dated August 8, 1934, should be treated as a continuation of the previous application dated January 22, 1931. 1936 O. W. N. 1239=A. I. R. 1937 Oudh 158=12 Luck. 743=165 Ind. Cas. 798.

——S. 15—The enlargement of the scope of S. 15 by the Lim. Act of 1908 has not superseded the principle that a later application can, in certain circumstances, be treated as an application for revival or in continuation of the earlier application. Section 15 contemplates the filing of an application for execution and does not in terms, apply to any other application. If, therefore, an application is made by the decree-holder, after the removal of the bar to execution, to revive or continue an application for execution which could not have been by reason of the bar, proceeded with, such an application not being in terms a fresh application for execution, does not come within the section. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 239=39 C.W.N. 1030=63 C. 57=162 Ind. Cas. 654.

——S. 15—Revival of pending execution—Not prohibited.

The Limitation Act, as amended, does not prohibit either expressly or by necessary implication the making of an application for revival of execution pending in Court. 27 All. 334 (P.C.) and A. I. R. 1921 All. 99, Foll. 100 Ind. Cas. 692=49 All. 276=25 A.L.J. 201=A.I.R. 1927 All. 16 (F.B.).

——S. 15—Revival of execution.

There is an essential difference between an application for the execution of a decree and an application to a Court asking it simply to revive a previous application made for the execution of the decree. It is to an application of the former class that S. 15 would apply and not to an application of the latter class.

Per Sulaiman, J.—The question of exclusion of time can only arise when a fresh application for execution is made, whereas it is only a pervious application which has not been properly and finally disposed of which can be revived. The application for revival is not a fresh application for execution. The principle is based on equity and justice, and the decree-holder is merely to request the Court to take up and continue the proceedings which have not finally terminated, but which have remained in abeyance for some reason or other beyond his control. It is not correct to say that the amendment of S. 15 was intended to sweep away and replace the old doctrine of revival. The two principles are not co-extensive or identical. The application for revival not being a fresh application for execution cannot be governed by Art. 182. The proper article is Art. 181. 42 All. 564, Foll. 100 Ind. Cas. 692=49 All. 276=25 A.L.J. 201=A.I.R. 1927 All. 16 (F.B.).

——S. 15—Execution suspended by orders of Court—Revival after three years—If valid.

Where the execution of a decree has been suspended through no act or fault of the decree-holder, the execution proceeding will not be time-barred even if the subsequent application is presented more than three years after the order of suspension was passed. 27 All. 334 (P.C.); 43 All. 383 and 37 Cal. 796, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 205=6 L.R.A. (Civ.) 249=A.I.R. 1925 All. 572.

——S. 15—Execution suspended by objection found groundless—Subsequent application may be a continuation or revival.

An application for execution of a decree may be treated as one in continuation or revival of a previous application, similar in scope and character, the consideration of which has been interrupted by the intervention of objections and claims subsequently proved to be groundless or has been suspended by reason of an injunction or like obstruction. 37 Cal. 796, Foll. 68 Ind. Cas. 207=35 Cr. L. J. 84=26 C.W.N. 338=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 472.

——S. 15—No fault of decree-holder—Right to revive suspended execution.

Where the execution of a decree has been suspended through no act or default of the decree-holder, the latter has a right to ask the Court to revive and carry through the execution proceedings which have been thus suspended. 61 Ind. Cas. 417=43 All. 383=19 A.L.J. 174=A.I.R. 1921 All. 99.

——S. 15 (1)—Execution—Application in continuation of a former application - When valid.

An application prima facie barred could be deemed as in continuation of a former application only if the decree-holder shows that he has not been remiss. 35 Ind. Cas. 579. (Pat.).

8. Notice of suit—Sub-S. (2).

——S. 15 (2)—Section 15 (2) applies in computing the special limitation under S. 535 (2), Beng. Municipal Act. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 544=46 C. W. N. 943=202 Ind. Cas. 762.

——S. 15—Period of one month's notice can be deducted under S. 15 from period of three months provided in S. 146, Ben. Local Self Govt. Act. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 305=44 C.W.N. 362=188 Ind. Cas. 705.

——S 15 (2)—Plaintiff sent some goods by Railway from F to Z. The delivery of the goods was not taken by the consignee. After some correspondence between the parties, the defendant railway wrote to the plaintiff to take delivery of the goods within 15 days from the receipt of the letter. Within this period, the plaintiff sent his man to Z to take delivery. On reaching there the plaintiff's man found that the goods had been sent by the Railway authorities to the lost property office at H. The plaintiff wrote to the Chief Commerical Manager who asked him to pay the railway freight from Z to H and back from H to Z and take delivery; the plaintiff refused to do so. He thereafter filed a suit for damages for wrongful detention of goods. The summons was served on Agent, E. I. Ry. The goods had arrived at Zon December 30, 1935, and the suit was filed on February 24, 1937:

Held, that the suit was within time even if Art. 31 applied. The period of two months should be deducted from the period of limitation for the suit under S. 15 (2). A.I.R. 1939 All. 277=(1939) A.L.J. 154=I.L.R. (1939) All. 392=1939 A.W.R. 216=181 Ind. Cas. 948.

——S. 15—Section 15, does not operate so as to exclude from the benefit of the proviso to S. 48 (c), Ben. Ten. Act, any period covered by the ejectment notice. I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 499=A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 656=174 Ind. Cas. 31.

——S. 15—Per Jailal, J.—The phraseology of S. 15 (2) is sufficient to include a notice which has been given in accordance with the requirements of an enactment of a local Legislature.

[Whether S. 54, U. P. Court of Wards Act is an enactment in force for the time being in the Province of Delhi within the meaning of S. 15 (2) considered.] 38 P.L.R. 992=A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 41=I.L.R. (1937) Lah. 11=164 Ind. Cas. 1090.

——S. 15—Although under S. 15 (2), the period of notice prescribed by the Court of Wards Act will be excluded in computing the period of limitation for a suit, it cannot be made the basis of an argument that a suit is barred in every case in which notice is prescribed by the Court of Wards or any other Act. 1937 O.W.N. 165=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 282=13 Luck. 171=166 Ind. Cas. 928.

——S. 15 (2)—Section affects the provision of S. 167, Bom. District Municipal Act and consequently, a plaintiff is entitled to exclude the period of one month of notice from the period of limitation for his suit. A.I.R. 1932 Bom. 259=56 B. 135=34 Bom. L.R. 143=137 Ind. Cas. 545.

——S. 15—Section 15 (2) does not apply to extend time for filing suit under S. 167 of the Bombay District Municipal Act (1901).

Section 167 of the Bombay Dt. Municipal Act (1901) in plain and unambiguous terms prevents the claimant from commencing his suit after six months from the date of act complained of and thereby expressly excludes the time being extended, under S. 15, Cl. 2 of the Limitation Act. Public interests require that such suits should be instituted without any delay and the period of six months is sufficiently long to enable a claimant to comply with both the conditions precedent required by S. 167 of the Municipal Act. 32 Cal. 277, Foll. 90 Ind. Cas. 44=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 322.

——S. 15—Suit against Government wards—Government wards, at the date of cause of action Ceasing to be wards before hearing—Time is extended by two months.

Plaintiff is entitled to include in the limitation period the two months required to serve notice as required by S. 31 of the Court of Wards Act, on defendants who were Government wards at the time the cause of action arose, and the extension cannot be refused on the ground that they ceased to be wards before the suit came on for hearing. 81 Ind. Cas. 750=26 Bom. L.R. 364=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 364.

——S. 15—Suit to recover water cess paid under protest—Period of notice of suit—Exclusion of period of. 73 Ind. Cas. 106=46 Mad. 485=17 M.L.W. 683=32 M.L.T. 236=1923 M.W.N. 258=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 652=45 M.L.J. 12.

——S. 15(2)—Notice—Suit against private person—Joinder of Secretary of State—Limitation.

Where a plaintiff under a mistake of law or fact conceives that he has a cause of action against the Secretary of State and impleads him as a party along with a private individual he shall not be entitled to invoke S. 15 of the Limitation Act and to extend the period of limitation ordinarily allowed against the private person by two months. 22 O.C. 342=2 U.P.L.R. (O.C.) 25=54 Ind. Cas. 535.

——S. 15 (2)—Applicability—Suits under S. 104-A of the B. T. Act.

S. 15, sub-S. (2) of the Limitation Act, does not extend the period of six months mentioned in S. 104-A, of the B. T. Act. 45 Cal. 934=27 C.L.J. 374=45 Ind. Cas. 228.

——S. 15 (2)—Notice—C.P. Code, S. 80.

When notice to government is compulsory under S. 80 C.P.C. the period of two months should be excluded in computing the period of limitation prescribed for the suit against government. 42 P.W.R. 1917=52 P.R. 1917=38 Ind. Cas. 600.

——S. 15—Claim against joint defendants—Notice necessary against only one defendant—Period of notice given excluded with regard to other defendants also.

If it is necessary, for the plaintiff to bring a suit claiming relief against all the defendants jointly, and if notice under enactment was necessary against one defendant only and was in fact given, the period of notice is to be excluded in computing the period of limitation for the suit and not merely so far as the defendant to whom notice was given is concerned. 1930 A.L.J. 1443=A.I.R. 1930 All. 742.

9. Miscellaneous.

——S. 15.—' Period of limitation '—Per Thom, C. J.— If the result of a statutory provision is, in substance, to fix a period within which a person must take appropriate and necessary action if he desires to assert his rights in a Court of law, that provision prescribes a period of limitation. 1939 A. W. R. 498=A. I. R. 1939 All. 403 =(1939) A. L. J. 522=I. L. R. (1939) All. 647=183 Ind. Cas. 242 (F.B.).

——S. 15—Suit on foreign judgment—Application before foreign court to set aside ex parte decree—Deduction of time.

Plaintiff suing on a foreign judgment is not entitled to deduct the time during which the defendants were applying before the foreign Courts to set aside the ex parte decree; for until it is in fact set aside it remains a final decree capable of execution. 102 Ind. Cas. 523=8 Lah. 54=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 200.

——S. 15—Decree nisi for foreclosure—Receiver appointed pending appeal—Right to apply for final decree accrues from date of discharge of receiver.

In a case where, after the passing of the preliminary decree for foreclosure in a mortgage suit, a Receiver was appointed at the instance of the defendant pending an appeal to His Majesty in Council and the latter appeal is dismissed for non-prosecution, the right to apply for making decree final accrues from the date of the order giving the decree-holder liberty to so apply. The decree-holder is incompetent to make such an application so long as the Receiver is in possession of the mortgaged properties. 66 Ind. Cas. 97=3 Pat. L. T. 565=1 Pat. 435=1922 P. H. C. C. 342=A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 201.

——S. 15—Application for decree absolute—Order of court suspending right to apply—Period of suspension to be excluded.

Subsequent to the date fixed for payment in the preliminary decree obtained by a third mortgagee a second mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage in which the Court expressed opinion that the third mortgagee could not sell the property before he had paid off the second mortgage:

Held, that the period from the date of the judgment which contained that opinion to the date when the third mortgagee paid the sum due to the second mortgagee, should be deducted in calculating the time limit for an application for decree absolute by the third mortgagee, assuming Art. 181 applied. 62 Ind. Cas. 418=33 C.L.J. 260=25 C. W. N. 376=A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 381.

——S.16—Applicability—Auction-purchaser obtaining symbolical possession.

S. 16 of the Limitation Act can help an auction-purchaser only when he has not obtained possession through Court. Where he has obtained symbolical possession, he cannot avail of the provisions contained in that section. A.I.R. 1950 Assam 50.

—— S. 16 and Arts. 138 and 144—Property purchased at auction-sale and formal possession obtained—Suit by purchaser for actual possession—S. 16 and Art. 138 not applicable—Art. 144 applies.

Plaintiff obtained through an executing Court formal possession of the property purchased at an auction-sale and brought a suit for actual possession of the same after 12 years from the date when formal possession was given to him seeking to exclude under S. 16 the period during which the proceedings to set aside the sale were prosecuted:

Held, (1) that S. 16 could be helpful only to an auction-purchaser who had not obtained possession through Court. As the plaintiff had obtained symbolical possession he could not avail of S. 16.

(2) that Art 138 had no application as the suit by the plaintiff was not one by an auction-purchaser but an ordinary suit for possession by the owner of the property whose title had become complete and effective by the confirmation of the sale and delivery of symbolical possession.

(3) that the possession of the defendant-judgment-debtor became adverse from the date of the delivery of symbolical possession and as the suit for possession was brought more than twelve years of the date it was barred under Art. 144. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 202=24 Pat. 717.

——S. 16—Suit by auction-purchaser—Symbolical possession delivered—Period during which application to set aside sale continued cannot be excluded.

Symbolical possession is as effective as actual possession against the judgment—debtors; and if the judgment-debtors continued in possession even after symbolical possession is delivered to the auction-purchaser, their possession becomes adverse against such purchaser from that very day. The purchaser therefore has a fresh cause of action for instituting the suit for possession against the judgment-debtor, and such a suit would not be one governed by Art. 138, which evidently refers to a case where the purchaser has not obtained delivery of possession, but Art. 144 would apply, and in such a case the period during which an application to set aside sale continued cannot be excluded. 70 Ind. Cas. 420=26 C.W.N. 364=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 385.

——S. 16 Proceeding—If applies to suits as well as applications.

The word 'proceeding' in the section is comprehensive and includes a suit as well as an application (Per Mookerjee, J.)—Limitation does not run against an auction-purchaser during the time the land is unoccupied, as possession vests in him as the rightful owner, as soon as the judgment-debtor has vacated it. 21 C. W. N. 304=25 C. L. J. 133=38. Ind. Cas. 547.

——S. 17—Scope.

Intention of section is to limit the time during which an action may be brought and not to take away the rights of a person who is a possible defendant to an action, and it is not intended to accelerate any right of action against such a person. 2 B. R. 797 =1936 O. W. N. 851=A.I.R. 1936 P. C. 309=44 L.W. 579 =(1936) M.W. N. 1258=38 Bom. L. R. 1233=41 C. W. N. 22=71 M.L.J.831=17 P. L. T. 914=I. L. R. (1937) Mad. 94=63 I. A. 429=164 I. C. 337 (P. C.).

——S. 17—'Legal representative', if include heir-at-law.

The expression "legal representative" in S. 17 is not intended to be confined to an executor or administrator, but also includes heir-at-law. A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 157=(1937)M. W. N. 1153=46 L. W. 880=(1938) 1 M. L. J. 146=I. L. R. (1938) Mad. 533=174 Ind. Cas. 638.

——S. 17—A residuary legatee under the will of a Hindu male in Sind and relating to property in Sind is not bound to take probate of a will before he sues as a legatee. Consequently, a legatee residing in Sind is, even before he obtains letters of administration "a legal representative capable of instituting suit" within the meaning of S. 17. A.I.R. 1937 Sind 318=172 Ind. Cas. 805.

——S. 17—Underlying presumption—Assumes that legal representative holds property in the right of testator.

Section 17 of the Limitation on Act proceeds on the assumption that the legal representative holds the property in the right of the deceased and that it is his duty to sue in respect of a cause of action that has accrued to the testator after his death. 83 Ind. Cas. 812=3 Pat. 880=5 P.L.T. 513=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 721.

——S. 17 (1) and (2)--Capability to sue—Executor and administrator—Accrual of right to sue.

The executor of a will capable of probate in Br. India is a legal representative capable of instituting a suit within S. 17 (1) from the date of the testator's death and not only from the date when he obtains probate. The title and authority of the executor are derived from the will and not from the probate. An administrator on the other hand derives his title solely under his grant, and cannot, therefore, sue an administrator before he gets his grant.

Quaere:—As to an executor who renounces probate, the cause of action arises in favour of the estate of a deceased person at or after his death (1) if there be an executor, time will begin to run at once, even though probate has not been obtained; (2) if there be no executor time runs only from the actual grant of letters of administrtaion. 20 C.W.N. 833=)1916) 1 M.W.N. 455=18 Bom. L.R. 642=85 L.J.P.C. 179= 43 I. A. 603=(1916) 1 A.C. 113=114 L.T. 1002=35 Ind. Cas. 323 (P.C.).

The right of an executor to sue, begins from the date of the death of the testator. 37 Mad. 175=24 Ind. Cas. 852.

——S. 17 and Art. 124—Capability to sue—Trespasser of temple properties—Vacancy of trusteeship—Adverse possession.

Limitation will not run where there is no person competent to sue and a trespasser of the temple properties cannot be said to be in adverse possession till some person is appointed as trustee. 18 Ind. Cas. 373 (Mad.).

——S. 18—Suit for dower—Knowledge of divorce withheld.

Where a Muhammadan husband has deliberately and fraudulently withheld from the wife all knowledge of the divorce, time for instituting a suit for dower by the wife would only begin to run against her when the fraud has become known to her. A I.R 1943 Lah. 215=I.L.R. (1944) Lah. 186=45 P.L.R. 231=209 Ind. Cas. 157.

——S. 18—Scope.

Section 18, Limitation Act, has nothing to do with Art. 6 of Sch. III of Bihar Ten. Act. Section 18 is confined to cases in which a person has been fraudulently kept-out-of knowledge of his rights. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 499 =8 B.R. 59=196 Ind. Cas. 609.

——S. 18—Applicability—Suit by certificate-debtor to set aside sale—Fraud of—Auction-purchaser.

Section 18 has no application where a certificate-debtor brings a suit to set aside a sale of his property held in execution of a certificate, on the ground of fraud of the auction-purchaser after the expiry of period of limitation prescribed by S. 36, Ben. Public Demands Recovery Act. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 207=70 C.L.J. 329=43 C.W.N. 849=188 Ind. Cas. 169.

——S. 18—Suit on ground of want of consideration and necessity—Attempt to conceal factum of gift.

In a suit by reversioners challenging a mortgage on the ground of want of consideration and necessity, the reversioners ore not bound to disclose that the mortgaged property was gifted to them by the mortgagor and even an attempt on their part to conceal the factum of gift cannot bring the case within the purview of S. 18, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 262=192 Ind. Cas, 105.

——S. 18—Sale fraudulently described as transaction conferring occupancy rights to defeat pre-emption:

Held, that time runs when fraud becomes known to pre-emptor. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 97=I.L.R. (1937) Lah. 202=39 P.L.R. 889=172 Ind. Cas. 104.

——S. 18—Extended time cannot be claimed against innocent third party.

Under S. 18 the extended time can only be claimed against a person guilty of the fraud and against accessory thereto and against a person who claims through the person who committed the fraud, and it cannot be claimed against an innocent third party against whom ordinary limitation would apply. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 706=166 Ind. Cas. 127.

——S. 18—Applicability—Suit for pre-emption—Plea of fraud—Starting point of limitation.

Where the document was executed as a deed of gift but it appeared that the parties really effected a sale and the person who sued for pre-emption was shown to have been aware of the passing of consideration:

——S. 18 and Art. 164—Fraud.

The fraud which can be relevant to be considered for the purpose of Art. 164 is not only a fraud with reference to the service of notice but it covers any fraud and S. 18 can be applied. 94 Ind. Cas. 56=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 388.

——S. 18—Fraud by judgment-debtor guardian—Minor decree-holder—Judgment-debtor getting guardianship by fraud—Time allowed to lapse—Judgment-debtor cannot plead limitation.

A judgment-debtor, who gets himself appointed guardian of a minor decree-holder without disclosing his indebtedness to the estate, perpetrates fraud and if he allows the period of limitation for the execution of the decree against him to elapse, he cannot plead limitation as a bar to the execution of the decree. 88 Ind. Cas. 61=52 Cal. 63=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 584.

——S. 18—Fraudulently keeping from exercising right.

Section 18 does not deal with the exercise of the right, but with the knowledge of the right. Where it was alleged that the decree holders had fraudulently kept the judgment-debtor for exercising his rights under O. 21, R. 2 by giving him assurances, no extension was granted. 68 Ind. Cas. 924=11 L.B.R. 363=1 Bur. L.J. 226=A.I.R. 1923 Rang. 103.

——S. 18—Discovery of void sale—Time runs from date of discovery.

When the true nature of rights bought was not discovered by the plaintiff earlier than the time at which his demand for possession was resisted:

Held, limitation began from the date of resistance. 71 Ind. Cas. 629=50 I. A. 69=37 C.L.J. 346=45 All. 179 =27 C.W.N. 949=26 O. C. 223=18 M.L.W. 383=33 M.L.T. 216=5 Pat. L.T. 281=9 O.L.J. 652=5 P.L.T. 281=2 Pat. L.R. Civ. 237=A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 403=44 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.).

——S. 18—Fraudulent collection of debts—Suit to recover the money—Time runs from plaintiff's knowledge of the collection.

Where defendant has wrongfully collected the debts due to a deceased's estate and holds them as against plaintiff the heir of the deceased and has been concealing from the plaintiff the fact of his having made the collection, S. 18 applies and limitation for the suit to recover the money from the defendant runs only from the time that plaintiff comes to know of the collection. 60 Ind. Cas. 774=45 All. 440=19 A.L.J. 268=A.I.R. 1921 All. 155.

——S. 18—Fraud antecedent to accrual of cause of action—If comes within S. 18.

The view that fraud antecedent to the accrual of the right of action can never be considered under S. 18 is erroneous. Such fraud can and must be considered because fraud is a continuing influence and until that influence ends it retains its power of mischief. 17 Bom. 341, Foll. 85 Ind. Cas.622=6 P.L.T. 567=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 521.

——S. 18—Fraud—Antecedent to cause of action—Applicability of section.

S. 18 of the Limitation Act applies only to such cases of fraud as amount to concealment and is intended to keep from the injured party the knowledge of his wrong or of its remedy ; it is however doubtful if the section applies to a case in which the fraud was antecedent to the accrual of the right. 15 C.W.N. 965=11 Ind. Cas. 295.

——S. 18—Case covered by Art. 62—Subsequent act of fraud—S. 18 does not apply.

Section 18 cannot apply to a case under Art. 62 where there was no fraud at the date when the payment was made and the cause of action arose, but a subsequent act of fraud was relied on to save limitation. 69 Ind. Cas. 274=1921 M.W.N. 539=A. I. R. 1921 Mad. 283 =41 M.L.J. 274.

——S. 18 and Art. 147—Applicability—Suit to set aside order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code.

S. 18 and Art. 147 apply to a suit brought to set aside the order of the Magistrate under S. 145, Cr. P. Code. 9 M.L.T. 81=12 Cr. L.J. 47=9 Ind. Cas. 285.

2. Construction—"Against any person."

——S. 18—Construction of—'Against any person.

The words "against any person" should be understood to follow the words "a suit" in the beginning of the section. A sold his land to B. M. being the real purchaser, K who had a right to pre-empt brought a suit for pre-emption within one year of the knowledge of M's rights, but after one year from the sale to B: Held, that the suit was within time and that time began to run from the knowledge of the fraud. 89 P.R. 1911 =186 P.W.R. 1911=156 P.L.R. 1911=10 Ind. Cas. 114.

3. Execution Sale.

——S. 18 and Civil Proceedure Code (5 of 1908), Order 21, rule 90—Fraud contemplated by S. 18—Application to set aside execution sale filed beyond time—Allegation of fraud of decree-holder in publishing and conducting rule—Requirements to attract S. 18 of the Limitation Act.

The fraud contemplated under S. 18 of the Limitation Act must be a fraud of the person against whom the suit or application is made. An application under Order 21, Rule 90, Civil Procedure Code, is an application against the decree-holder though those who are affected by the sale would be necessary parties. A judgment-debtor who is kept out of the knowledge of the execution sale by fraud can, in an application under Order 21, Rule 90, Civil Procedure Code, to set aside the sale, invoke the aid of S. 18 of the Limitation Act to extend the period of limitation where fraud is proved to have been committed by the decree-holder or the auction-purchaser or both. 65 M.L.J. 139= I.L.R. 56 Mad. 734, followed. 63 L. W. 322=A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 509=(1950) 1 M.L J. 471.

——S. 18—Scope of—Applicability against bona fide auction-purchaser—Conditions to be satisfied —Application to set aside execution sale pleading fraud of decree-holder.

Where in an application to set aside an execution sale filed nearly 15 months after the confirmation of the sale it is alleged that the judgment-debtor was kept in ignorance of the decree by the fraud of the decree-holder, what S. 18 of the Limitation Act requires is not merely proof of fraud which vitiates a sale but also proof of fraud which kept the judgment-debtor in ignorance of his right to make an application for setting aside the sale. The decree-holder's fraud may have an continuing influence so as to keep the applicant, in ignorance of his right to file a petition for setting aside a sale. In cases where he is unaware of the decree and of the sale this will ordinarily be so. But, when the sale has been confirmed in favour of a bona fide auction-purchaser the ignorance of the applicant of his right to file an application must also be established as due to the fraud of the auction-purchaser. Otherwise, the right of the auction-purchaser which though inchoate before the confirmation have become crystallised by confirmation, would run the risk of being nullified by petitions filed long after the due time and after considerable delay for which he is in no way responsible. The policy of the Legislature appears to be that judicial sales should be challenged only within a comparatively short period. Except in cases where there was no jurisdiction to sell and the sale is a nullity, on that ground bona fide Court auction-purchasers must not be deprived of the benefit of the provisions of the Limitation Act under Article 166 and Article 12 and it is not consistent with the policy of the Act to apply S. 18 against them where they were not shown to be parties to the continuing influence of the fraud of the decree-holder. (1914) 28 M.L.J. 525=I.L.R. 38 Mad. 1076: followed. 1950 M.W.N. 240=A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 460 =(1950) 1 M.L.J. 432.

——S. 18—Application to set aside sale—Extension of limitation—Ground for—Fraud of decree-holder—Auction-purchaser not accessory thereto.

S. 18, Limitation Act, may be availed of to extend the period of limitation of an application for setting aside a sale where fraud is proved to have been committed by the decree-holder though the auction-purchaser who was a stranger was not a party or accessory to the fraud. 53 C.W.N. 587, foll. A.I.R. 1950 Cal. 166.

——S. 18—Applicability—Application under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code—Fraud established on part of decree-holder—Dismissal of application as out of time for want of proof of fraud on part of purchaser—If justified.

For setting aside a sale under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, on the ground of fraud in publishing and conducting a sale, the judgment-debtor has to prove fraud only on the part of the decree-holder as such, and not on the part of the auction-purchaser, when he happens to be a third party, and not the decree-holder himself. The auction-purchaser third party does not come into the picture at all, for if there is fraud on his part, it can be only after the sale, and fraud subsequent to the sale is not necessary to be proved in an application under O. 21, R. 90. Where, therefore, fraud has been proved against the decree-holder, in an application under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, the applicant is entitled to have the delay in presenting his application, excused, under S. 18, Limitation Act; S. 18 does not become inapplicable or unavailable because no fraud is proved as against the auction-purchaser. A.I.R. 1949 Cal. 212=53 C.W.N. 587.

——S. 18—Application for setting aside execution sale—Limitation—Extension of time—Fraud of auction-purchaser—Necessity for proof. See B. T. ACT, S. 174 (3). 82 C.L.J. 9=A.I.R. 1948 Cal. 63.

——S. 18—Auction-purchaser guilty of fraud—Applicants, if entitled to benefit of S. 18.

Where the auction-purchaser against whom the application for setting aside the sale under S. 173, Ben. Ten. Act is directed along with some of the judgment-debtors, is guilty of fraud, the applicants for setting aside the sale can avail themselves of the provisions contained in S. 18. 60 C.L.J. 36=A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 89= 154 Ind. Cas. 347.

——S. 18—Fraud, not of decree-holder but of auction—purchaser—Applicability of S. 18—Civil P. C., O. 21, R. 90.

Any person whose fraud has kept from another person the knowledge of his right to institute a suit or make an application is within the provisions of S. 18.

If a judgment-debtor is able to show that the auction-purchaser committed such a fraud as brought about the circumstances which appear in the first part of S. 18 then time for his application to have the confirmation of the sale set aside, would run only from discovery of such fraud. (1933) M.W.N. 589=65 M.L.J. 139=38 Mad. L.W. 131=A I.R. 1933 Mad. 626=56 Mad. 34=145 Ind. Cas. 388.

——S. 18—Execution sale—Fraud of the decree-holder to be proved—Fraud of auction-purchaser, if need be proved.

Where an application under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code was made out of time and the judgment-debtor sought the benefit of S. 18 of the Limitation Act:

Held, that it was incumbent on the judgment-debtor to show that he was kept from the knowledge of his right to apply within the period of limitation by the fraud of the party concerned and that the same continued till that date:

Held, also that though the auction-purchaser was a necessary party to such proceedings fraud on his part need not be alleged and proved. 99 Ind. Cas. 946=44 C.L.J. 565.

——S. 18—Fraud by third person—Application to set aside execution sale—Decree-holder not party to fraud—S. 18 does not apply.

A judgment-debtor is not entitled to the benefit of S. 18 for the purpose of making an application under C. P. Code, O 21, R. 90 to set aside an execution sale if the decree-holder was not a party to the fraud alleged. 86 Ind. Cas. 745=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 1227.

——S. 18—Unless there is fraudulent concealment of execution proceedings on the part of decree-holder limitation could not be extended under S. 18. 85 Ind. Cas. 622=6 P.L.T 567=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 521.

——S. 18—Fraudulent sale without notice to judgment-debtor—Suit to set aside one year later—Fraud not specifically pleaded—Fraud can be inferred and relief given.

In spite of an order passed in his first execution application that the decree-holder was not entitled to proceed against the shares of the property allotted to a party defendant, the decree-holder again applied by a fresh execution application some time later for the same relief and for the sale of the whole of the property ; and without giving any notice to the party defendant had the whole property sold in 1918, and himself became the purchaser ; and again without any notice to him the decree-holder managed to get symbolical delivery behind his back. The party defendant came to know about the fraudulent act of the decree-holder only in 1919, when the decree-holder interfered with his possession.

Held, that in the circumstances though S. 18 has been specifically referred to in the plaint, the case would really come under S. 18 and the period before 1919 could not be counted ; such an inference could not legitimately be drawn in the particular circumstances of this case, though originally facts bringing a case under S. 18 have to be specifically pleaded. 123 Ind. Cas. 24=1929 M.W.N. 811=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 12.

——S. 18—Suppression of powers—Section 18 applies.

Even after the payment of decretal amount decree-holder's karinda proceeded to sell the judgment-debtor's property and took steps so that no notice of the sale may reach the judgment-debtor. Thereupon the judgment-debtor applied to have the sale set aside.

Held, that S. 18 would apply to such a case. 108 Ind. Cas. 899=26 A. L J. 412=A. I. R. 1928 All. 354.

——S. 18—Applicability of section—What must be proved—Process fraudulently suppressed—Suit to set aside sale—Sale not known to plaintiff till a few days before suit—Suit maintainable.

When a judgment-debtor makes an application to have an execution sale set aside under O. 21, R. 90, after the expiry of 30 days he must bring his case within S. 18 of the limitation Act and to enable him to do so, it is not enough for him to show that the execution proceedings were irregular and fraudulent but he must carry the fraud further and show that the existence of his right to set aside the sale has been kept concealed from his knowledge by the fraud of the decree-holder or the auction-purchaser. 1 C.W.N. 67, Foll. But in order to make limitation operate when a fraud has been committed by one who has obtained property thereby, it is for him to show that the injured complainant has had clear and definite knowledge of the facts constituting the fraud at a time which is too remote for the suit to be brought. 17 Bom. 341, Foll.

Where in a suit to set aside an execution sale it was found that processes in connexion with the execution case had been fraudulently suppressed and that the plaintiffs came to know of the fraudulent sale only seven or eight days before the institution of the suit.

Held, that it was not an unreasonable inference to draw that as a matter of fact the fraud that had been committed in the execution proceedings continued and by reason of its continuing influence the plaintiffs were kept out of the knowledge of the sale, and the plaintiffs were entitled to the benefit S. 18 of the Limitation Act. 87 Ind. Cas. 555=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 229.

——S. 18—Fraudulent concealment of execution proceedings—Judgment-debtor's right to apply to set aside sale—Accrues when he became aware of the sale.

If owing to the fraudulent concealment of the proceedings by the decree-holder all knowledge of the proceedings up to the time of sale is withheld from the judgment-debtor, then so long as he does not come to know of the sale the effect of the fraud continues and the only conclusion which can be drawn is that he had been kept from the knowledge of the sale in consequence of the initial fraud practised by the decree-holder. It is only after he becomes aware of the sale that he comes to know of his right to apply. 88 Ind. Cas. 500=47 All. 850=23 A.L.J. 760=6 L.R.A. Civ. 388=A.I.R. 1925 All. 778.

——S. 18—Time runs from knowledge of sale.

Period of limitation for application to set aside execution of sale where notice of the sale was fraudulently suppressed runs from the date when the applicant came to know of the sale. 84 Ind. Cas. 970=20 M.L.W. 606=1924 M.W.N. 759=35 M.L.T. 96=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 859=47 M.L.J. 535.

——S. 18—Setting aside sale in execution—Time runs from the date of knowledge.

The starting point for limitation is the date of the knowledge of fraud committed by the decree-holder who brought about the sale in fraud of the judgment-debtors. Section 18 applies to application under R. 90. 80 Ind. Cas. 761=5 P.L.T. 200=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 496.

——S. 18—C. P. Code, O. 21, R. 92.

Where fraud is alleged and proved, S. 18 of the Limitation Act applies and the time for application to have the sale set aside is 30 days from the time the applicant becomes aware of the fraud. Judgment of Piggott, J. in 17 Cal. 769 at 776, Foll. 71 Ind. Cas. 631=45 All. 316=21 A.L.J. 176=4 L.R.A. Civ. 129=A.I.R. 1923 All. 282.

——S. 18—Concealment of sale—Fraud—Judgment debtor kept in ignorance of a Court sale—Section applied.

Where a decree-holder not merely failed to serve judgment-debtor with notice of the intended sale but even after sale actively concealed from him the knowledge of his right to object to the sale.

Held, that S. 18 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908 applied. 72 Ind. Cas. 46=17 M.L.W. 152=32 M.L.T. 252=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 353.

——S. 18—Time for application runs from applicant's knowledge not only of sale but of fraud.

The applicant for setting aside a sale under O. 21, R. 90, must have knowledge not merely of the factum of the sale, but a clear and definite knowledge of the facts which constitute the fraud before time can run against him. When by a fraud involving suppression of process and submission of false returns the applicant is kept out of knowledge of the sale of his property, such fraud must be held to have a continuing influence in such a case it is for the other side to show that the injured party had clear and definite knowledge of the facts with constitute the fraud at a time from which, taken as a starting point, the suit is barred. 60 Ind. Cas. 801=48 Cal. 119=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 251.

——S. 18—Execution sale—Setting aside of—Fraud subsequent to sale, if to be proved.

In order to avail himself of S. 18, the judgment-debtor need not prove fraud subsequent to execution sale. The right to have execution sale set aside accrues the very moment the sale takes place, and if the judgment-debtor was by means of fraud, kept from the knowledge of the sale, he was necessarily kept from the knowledge of his right to have the sale set aside and S. 18 of the Act will apply to such a case. 19 C.W.N. 553=24 Ind. Cas. 249.

——S. 18 Fraud—Antecedent to execution sale—Effect.

There can be no inflexible rule of law that fraud antecedant to an execution sale necessarily indicates fraud subsequent to the sale. It is also clear that fraud antecedent to the sale may have an important bearing on the question whether there was fraud subsequent to the sale, sufficient for the purpose of S. 18. 17 C.W.N. 478=16 C.L.J. 581=17 Ind. Cas. 972.

——S. 18 and Art. 166—Execution sale—Setting aside—Limitation.

When a sale is confirmed it becomes absolute under the code; but it is liable to be challenged by a person interested, who is able to satisfy the Court that the sale ought not to have been confirmed either because of fraud or irregularity; and the petitioner can bring his case within S. 18 of the Limitation Act. 16 Ind. Cas. 436 (Cal.).

4. Fraud.

(a) Burden of proof.
(b) What is.

4. (a) Fraud—Burden of proof.

——S. 18—Burden of proof.

Where an applicant for pre-emption had been kept from the knowledge of the sale by the fraud of the vendee, it is for the latter to establish that the influence of his fraud had ceased to operate at sometime beyond the period of limitation. If he does not discharge that onus, the benefit of the fraud will continue to be available to the applicant for pre-emption. A. I. R. 1949 Cal. 307.

——S. 18—Burden of proof.

In cases falling under S. 18, Limitation Act, it is for the party who has committed fraud to show that injured complainant has had clear and definite knowledge of the facts constituting the fraud. Proof of the fact that some hint or clue had reached the aggrieved party which might have led to such knowledge is not enough. A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 377=9 C.L.T. 37=10 B.R. 166=209 Ind. Cas. 521.

——S. 18—Transfer of non-transferable tenancy and relinquishment of possession amounts to forfeiture of tenancy. Where no case under S. 18 has been made out by the landlord, the transferee acquires limited interest of a permanent tenant by adverse possession for more than 12 years. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 541=I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 44=45 C.W.N. 590=74 C. L. J. 145=97 Ind. Cas. 376.

——S. 18—Burden of proof, Evidence of fraud.

It is clear from the language of S. 18, that a person who makes an application after the ordinary statutory period of limitation, must prove that he has been kept from the knowledge of his right to make the application by the fraud of the person against whom the application is directed. In case, therefore, in which an applicant is seeking under O. 21, R. 90, Civil P. C., to set aside a Civil Court sale, if his application has been filed more than 30 days after the date of the sale, he will have to prove fraudulent concealment on the part of the decree-holder or such other person against whom his application may be directed. If by doing so he establishes his right to file a time-barred application it will then be for him to prove fraud or irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale, within the meaning of O. 21, R. 90, Civil P. C., sufficient to enable him to have the sale set aside under that rule. It is not merely necessary to show that fraud has been committed in order to enable the judgment-debtor to get the benefit of S. 18. Limitation Act, but the element of fraudulent concealment requires to be established. Mere under-valuation of property in the sale proclamation cannot possibly amount to the fraudulent concealment which is required under S. 18. It is a matter which, along with other matters, may be considered but in order to establish fraudulent concealment, it would be necessary to show that through the fraudulent conduct of the decree-holder or such other person against whom the application has been directed, the jugment-debtor had been prevented from having any knowledge of the sale proclamation or the fact that a sale had actually taken place.

Obiter.—A Court may be perfectly justified in setting aside a sale in a proper case established on an application filed within the prescribed period of limitation where the Court is satisfied that the property sold was grossly undervalued. Civil Court sales should not, however, be lightly set aside and, even in a case in which no question of limitation arose, the Court would necessarily demand a high standard of evidence to prove that there had been fraud or irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale on account of under-valuation. A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 663=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 163=43 C.W.N. 862=186 Ind. Cas. 335.

——S. 18—Plaintiff establishing defendant's fraud in keeping him away from knowledge of his right—Burden of proof, if shifts to defendant.

The terms of S. 18 are materially different from S. 26, Real Property Limitation Act (3 and 4 Will. IV, C. 27) and when a plaintiff has established that by fraud of the defendant, he had been kept from the knowledge of his right to sue, the burden is shifted on to the defendant to show that the plaintiff had knowledge of the transaction impeached beyond the period of limitation. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 779=160 Ind. Cas. 250.

——S. 18—Nature of fraud to be proved under S. 18.

Where a suit is, on the face of it, barred, it is for the plaintiff to prove in the first instance the circumstances which would prevent the statute from having its ordinary effect. A person, who, in such circumstances, desires to invoke the aid of S. 18, must establish that there has been fraud, and that, by means of such fraud, he has been kept from the knowledge of his right to sue, or of the title whereon it is founded. Once this is established, the burden is shifted on to the other side to show that the plaintiff had knowledge of the transaction beyond the period of limitation. Such knowledge must be clear and definite knowledge of the facts constituting the particular fraud. Mere suggestions of fraud do not amount to such knowledge as is required by S. 18. A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 878=36 P. L. R. 114=16 Lah. 408=155 Ind. Cas. 654.

——S. 18— Co-sharer having duty to disclose knowledge about property—Non-disclosure :

Held, that there was conceald fraud and S. 18 applied. The burden was on defendant to show that the plaintiff had 'clear and definite knowledge,' of the facts which constituted fraud. A. I. R. 1933 Cal. 253=36 C. W. N. 758=55 C. L. J. 420=143 Ind. Cas. 402.

——S. 18—Burden of proof—Party defrauding should show that effects of fraud had been removed.

Where fraud has been established in a case against a party who is deriving benefit therefrom it is for him to show that the continuing effects of fraud which was perpetrated have been removed. 17 Bom. 341 (P.C.) : A.I.R. 1923 Pat. 435 and A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 496. Foll. 123 Ind. Cas. 637=A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 58.

——S. 18—Initial burden to prove date of knowledge on plaintiff—When onus shifts.

Where the plaintiff alleges fraud and states that he acquired knowledge on a particular date in ordinary cases the initial burden would be on him to lead evidence, prima facie at any rate establishing the date of his knowledge. 17 Bom. 341 (P. C.). Expl.; 27 All. 540, Not appr.

But if notwithstanding the fact that the plaintiff did in most specifie terms allege in his suit the date and the circumstance in which he acquired knowledge for the first time, the defendant's pleadings are evasive and do not raise specifically an issue as to the date of the plaintiff's acquisition of knowledge the burden of proving the date is not on him. 1929 A.L.J. 1153= A.I.R. 1929 All. 721.

—S. 18—Proof of fraud essential—Onus on party defrauded.

Before a plaintiff can avail himself of the provisions of S. 18 it is incumbent upon him to show that he was kept out of the knowledge of his right to institute the suit by means of fraud. 116 Ind. Cas. 726=49 C.L.J. 16=33 C.W.N. 248=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 188.

——S. 18—Fraud proved—Starting point must be proved by party commiting fraud.

When once fraud is established, then it is for the decree-holder to establish at what precise point the judgment-debtor had clear and definite knowledge of those facts which would entitle him to set aside the sale. 16 C.W.N. 894, Foll. 117 Ind. Cas. 46=10 P.L.T. 231=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 228.

——S. 18—Proof of removal of effects of fraud—Onus on party guilty of fraud.

The party guilty of fraud must show that the continuing effects of the fraud had been removed. Where judgment-debtors were kept from knowledge of the sale by the fraud of the decree-holder und consequently must also have been kept from knowledge of their right to apply to set aside sale so long as that fraud continued and its effect was not removed :

Held, unless the decree-holder shows that the effect of that fraud was removed, the judgment-debtors were entitled to the benefit of S. 18. 17 Bom. 341 (P.C.) and 19 C.W.N. 553, Foll. 72 Ind. Cas. 625=4 P L.T. 906=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 435.

——S. 18—Continuation of fraud—Decree-holder's fraud—Onus on him to prove opportunity for judgment-debtor to discover fraud and when fraud was discovered.

Fraud once committed continues and therefore the decree-holders guilty of fraud in bringing about a sale in ignorance of the judgment-debtors must prove that the judgment-debtor was given opportunity to discover the fraud and the time when the fraud was actually discovered. 80 Ind. Cas. 761=5 P. L. T. 200= A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 496.

——S. 18—Party invoking S. 18 must prove fraud—Burden then shifts to the other side to prove date of knowledge.

Where a suit is on the face of it barred, it is for the plaintiff to prove in the first instance the circumstance which would prevent the statute from having its ordinary effect. A person who, in such circumstances desires to invoke the aid of S. 18, must establish that there has been fraud, and that by means of such fraud, he has been kept from the knowledge of his right to sue or of the title whereon it is founded. Once this is established the burden is shifted on to the other side. 63 Ind. Cas. 94=49 Cal. 886=36 C.L.J. 295=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 157. See also 80 Ind. Cas. 590=20 N.L.R. 23=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 94.

——S. 18—Specific allegations of fraud—Fraud must be specifically alleged.

It is incumbent on a plaintiff seeking the benefit of S. 18 to distinctly allege the particular fraud, by which he has been kept from the knowledge of his right of suit against the defendant, specifically and with detailed particulars. 101 Ind. Cas. 322= A. I. R. 1927 All. 437.

——S. 18—Fraud—Onus of proof.

The onus is on the person committing the fraud to prove that the person injured thereby has had clear and definite knowledge of the fact constituting the fraud at a time too remote to allow him to seek the assistance of the Court. 27 C.L.J. 528=46 Ind. Cas. 221.

——S. 18—Fraud—Suit to set aside decree obtained by fraud—Burden of proof.

In a suit to set aside a decree on the ground of fraud the onus is on the plaintiff to give some evidence of the fraud on which the onus is shifted on to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff had knowledge more than three years before suit. The plaintiff is not required to prove when he became aware of the alleged fraud where he alleges a date within 3 years of the suit. 2 Pat. L.W. 12=41 Ind. Cas. 385.

——S. 18 and Art. 144—Non-transferable holding—Ejectment by landlord.

A plaintiff suing in ejectment a purchaer of a non-tranferable occupancy holding cannot succeed unless he makes out a case under S. 18 of the Act where his right to possession accrued long before 12 years before commencement of suit. 19 C.W.N. 136=28 Ind. Cas. 708.

——S. 18 and Art. 181—Fraud—Proof—Onus—C. P. Code, S. 47.

Where more than six years after an execution had taken place the representative of the judgment-debtor applied under S. 47, C.P.Code, to recover possession of a house from the decree-holder on the ground that it was fraudulently obtained possession of by the latter by misleading the Court, held, that the onus lay on the applicants to prove that they are within S. 18 of the Limitation Act. 36 C. 654. Foll. 20 Ind. Cas. 538. (Oudh).

——S. 18—Fraud—Concealment—Alienation by a sonless male proprietor—Limitation—Burden of proof.

It is for the plaintiffs who sue as reversionary heir to show that their claim is within time. Where the alienation is made openly and mutual union is published and there have been settlements giving effect to the alienation there is no fraudulent concealment of which advantage can be taken under S. 18 of the Limitation Act. 177 P.L.R. 1912=236 P.W.R. 1912=16 Ind. Cas. 844.

——S. 18—Applicability—Burden of proof.

In a suit or application which is on the face of it barred, the plaintiff or applicant must satisfy the court, of circumstances preventing the statute from having its ordinary effect. 36 Cal. 654=2 Ind. Cas. 844.

——S. 18—Onus.

When a suit or an application is, in the face of it, barred, it is for the plaintiff or the applicant to satisfy the court or circumstances which would prevent the statute from having its ordinary effect ; and it is incumbent upon a petitioners who seeks to set aside an execution sale on the ground of fraud to show that not only had he know knowledge of the sale until some date within three years of his application, but that he was kept from that knowledge in the manner and by the act of the person specified in S. 18 of the Limitation Act. (1909) 36 C. 654=2 Ind. Cas. 844.

——S. 18—Fraud—Proof of knowledge of facts.

When a man has committed a fraud and has got property thereby, it is for him to show that the person injured by the fraud and suing to recover the property has had clear and definite knowledge of those facts which constitute the fraud as a time which is too remote to allow him to bring a suit. (1905) 2 A.L.J. 350= 1905 A.W.N. 88=27 A. 540.

——S. 18—Fraud—Proof.

Fraud must be clearly alleged and proved with precision to invoke S. 18 of the Limitation Act. In a suit to recover joint possession plaintiff proved his title by prescription for over the statutory period. The defendant pleaded that the property was granted to his father exclusively and that the plaintiff fraudulently concealed the original deed of grant and kept him in ignorance of his rights. It appeared in the evidence that the plaintiff had the deed, but it was not produced by him. The defendant who gave evidence did not say that he was ignorant of the deed or when he became aware of it.

Held, that fraudulent concealment had not been definitely made out and that the plaintiff had made out a prescriptive right. (1901) 5 C.W.N. 545=3 Bom. L.R. 303=24 M. 387=28 I. A. 81 (P.C.).

4 (b). Fraud—What is.

——S. 18—Suit under S. 36, Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, brought more than one year after the delivery of possession to purchaser, alleging fraudulent suppression of notice under S. 7, Public Demands Recovery Act—No attempt made to prove fraud—Finding that service of notice was not effected—Question of limitation in appeal to the High Court :

Held, that no fraud having been established under S. 18, plaintiff's suit was time-barred. (1942) 76 C.L.J. 323.

——S. 18—Suit for pre-emption.

Vendor residing in Tahsil A and vendee and pre-emptor residing in Tahsil G—Small and useless piece of land situate in Tahsil A included in sale-deed to get sale-deed register at A and conceal sale from pre-emptor—Vendee not applying for mutation till after one year from date of registration nor taking possession nor collecting rent:

Held, that the vendees were guilty of fradulent concealment of the fact of sale from the plaintiff pre-emptor under S. 18, Limitation Act, and the plaintiff pre-emptor was, therefore, entitled, while filing suit for pre-emption to exclude the time during which he was kept out of knowledge of the sale deed. 1938 A.W.R. 847=A.I.R. 1939 All. 113=180 Ind. Cas. 525.

——S. 18—Application under S. 4, U. P. Encum. Estates Act, omitting to mention debt—No notice to creditor—Creditor not having knowledge of proceedings—His claim under S. 10, U. P. Encum. Estates Act beyond limitation:

Held, that the time can be extended under S. 18' A.I.R. 1939 Oudh 227=1939 O.W.N. 719=1939 A.W.R. 109=1939 R. D. 453=14 Luck. 694=183 Ind. Cas. 382.

——S. 18—Auction-purchaser, held should get benefit of S. 18 and his suit was within time.

Held, on facts that after the plaintiff-auction-purchaser got the sale certificates, the landlord did realise rents from him for about three years knowing full well that he had no right to receive the same. It was an act of fraud on the part of the landlord which lulled him into security and led him to believe that it was only a third party who was obstructing him in getting possession. He did institute a suit against this third party who set up the title of the real tenant and it was in course of litigation that he came to know the real state of affairs. The auction-purchaser could get extension of time under S. 18, Limitation Act, as against defendant who, by fraudulent misrepresentation and suppression of truth subsequent to the sale, kept the auction-purchaser out of knowledge of his right to institute the suit within the proper period. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 263=67 C.L.J. 16=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 512=182 Ind. Cas. 244.

——S. 18—Fraud, what is not.

Under statement of price in a sale proclamation does not bring the case within the purview of S. 18 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 496=41 C.W.N. 993.

——S. 18—Decree against female member—Execution of decree against minor sons and sale of property—Suit by minor to set aside sale—Concealment of existence of near relations in guardianship application, does not amount to fraud. (1935) M.W.N. 964=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1085=158 Ind. Cas. 874.

——S. 18—Possessory mortgage—Possession not delivered—Defect in title—Suit for mortgage-money or in alternative for possession and substituted security:

Held, that the mere fact that the mortgagor had concealed his want of title from the plaintiff did not amount to fraud so as to attract the application of S. 18. 6 Luck. 374=7 O.W.N. 1045=A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 5=129 Ind. Cas. 168.

——S. 18—Active concealment with intention to deceive is fraud.

If a vendor or a vendee wishes that a sale should not be nullified by a pre-emption suit, it is necessary for him to inform the pre-emptor before the transaction and get his refusal but a mere omission to inform the pre-emptor or the bare fact of concealing the sale transaction from him cannot amount to a fraud, but where there is an active concealment of the transaction coupled with an intention to deceive the pre-emptor there would undoubtedly be a fraud within the meaning of S. 18. 115 Ind. Cas. 798=1929 A.L.J. 342=A.I.R. 1929 All. 213.

——S. 18—Actual fraud with intent to keep the person out of knowledge, omission to furnish information—No fraud.

Per Fawcett, J.—Section 18 requires that a person should have been kept from certain knowledge by means of fraud. There must be actual fraud in the means adopted to keep the person out of knowledge, and it is entirely a misuse of words to say that merely because certain persons did not fur ish the particulars which they ought to have done under the contract, there was fraud. 117 Ind. Cas. 417=53 Bom. 271=31 Bom. L.R. 21=A.I.R. 1929 Bom. 119.

——S. 18—Not constructive but actual and active fraud.

The fraud contemplated by S. 18 is an actual and active fraud and not what is called constructive fraud The words "has . . . been kept," in S. 18 point to the conclusion, that in order to constitute a fraud, it is not enough that there should be merely a tortuous act unknown to the injured party but that there must be some abuse of a confidential position, some intentional imposition, or some deliberate concealment of facts: there must be something actually said or done which is directly intended to prevent discovery. 101 Ind. Cas. 322= A.I.R. 1927 All. 437.

——S. 18—Fraud, what is.

A mere omission by mortgagor to inform the mortgagee regarding his want of title in the property mortgaged is not enough to constitute active fraud so as to attract the application of S. 18. The section is directed against cases of active and designed fraud. 7 O.W.N. 1045=6 Luck. 374=A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 5.

——S. 18—Mere carelessness or negligence—No fraud.

There is all the difference in the world between a failure to serve the notices and a deliberate contrivance on the part of a party to suppress the notices. The one is due to negligence, carelessness or various other circumtances ; the other is the result of a deliberate contrivance on the part of a party for his own advantage. Mere negligence or carelessness on the part of the process-server or the identifier is insufficent as a basis for a finding of fraud. 97 Ind. Cas. 798=8 P.L.T. 28=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 397.

——S. 18—Fraud—Neglect by agent to settle accounts.

Neglect to settle accounts with the object of concealing his misconduct from the principal is not "fraud" within this section. 9 Bur. L. T. 130=36 Ind. Cas. 418.

——S. 18—Fraud—Mis-statement of value of property in execution petition.

To make S. 18 applicable to an application to set aside an execution sale, the fraud need not be subsequent to the sale for a fraud is a continuing influence and until that influence ends, it retains its power of mischief. Fraud is not to belightly charged or lightly found. The mis-statement in an execution petition of the value of the property assuming it to be a fraud, does not constitute such fraudulent concealment as is necessary to save limitation. Even if the non-publication of the sale proclamation in the mofussil exposed the sale to attack, to bring the case within S. 18 of the Act, it must be shown that the judgment-debtor was by means of fraud of which the decree-holder was guilty or to which he was accessory, kept from the knowledge of his right. 16 C.W.N. 894=16 Ind. Cas. 464.

——S. 18—Fraud—plea of—Ex parte decree.

For getting benefit of S. 18 in setting aside an ex parte decree, fraud in keeping defendant ignorant of the decree must be proved. Mere fraud in getting decree is not sufficient. 57 Ind. Cas. 15. (Lah.).

——S. 18—Fraud—What is—Plea of—Express avertment—Necessity of.

If the allegations in the plaint imply fraud on the part of the defendant or indeed suggest that any such imputation is intended, the absence of express description of the defendant's conduct as fraudlent is no bar to the plaintiff's relying on it. In such cases, the court should return the plaint under O. 6, Rr. 4 and 17, C.P.Code, to the plaintiff for amendment. A mere omission to give notice of a breach of the contract to the plaintiff. cannot of itself be regarded as an act of fraud on the part of the defendent. who was so in default. 265 P.W.R. 1912=259 P.L.R. 1912=32 P.R. 1913=16 Ind. Cas. 804.

——S. 18—Fraud—Failure to give pre-emptor notice of sale.

The omission by a vendor to give notice of sale to a pre-emptor does not amount to fraud within the meaning of S. 18, unless there was an intentional fradulent concealment or an indication to that effect. 130 P.W.R. 1911=209 P.L.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 313.

——S. 18—Insolvent not disclosing acquisition of property after personal discharge—No fraud.

There is no duty cast upon the insolvent to disclose to the Official Assignee that he has become possessed of property since the making of the order of personal discharge and consequently the non-disclosure of the fact cannot be regarded as fraud within the meaning of S.18. (1904) 28 M. 168.

5. Knowledge of fraud.

——S. 18—Knowledge of fraud—Nature of knowledge to be proved.

To show that the plaintiff had knowledge of the transaction beyond the period of limitation, such knowledge must be clear and definite knowledge of the facts constituting the particular fraud. It is not sufficient for the defendant to show that the plaintiff had some clues and hints which, perhaps, if vigorously and acutely followed up, might have led to a complete knowledge of the fraud. 6 All. 406 ; 16 C.W.N. 894 ; 18 C.W.N. 1266 ; 19 C.W.N. 553 ; 16 Ind. Cas. 517 ; 25 M.L.J. 531 and 40 Ind. Cas. 37, Foll. 68 Ind. Cas. 94=49 Cal. 886=36 C.L.J. 295=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 157.

——S. 18—Knowledge of fraud—Guardian's knowledge, if binds ward.

Where a fraud was committed in a business and was brought to the notice of the guardian after two years, the ward cannot say that he got its notice 10 years after and sue to set aside the transaction within 3 years from the time, the fraud became known to him. 37 Bom. 158=15 Bom. L.R. 192=19 Ind Cas. 406.

——S. 18—Knowledge of fraud—Onus.

The onus is on the defendant, setting up the plea of limitation to prove that the injured plaintiff has had clear and definite knowledge of the fraud at a time which is too remote for the suit to be brought. (17 B. 341, Foll.) 14 Bom. L.R. 771=17 Ind. Cas. 10.

——S. 18—Knowledge of fraud—Fraudulent transfer.

Where a Lambardar gets a common land mutated in his own name on the basis of a fraudulent deed of transfer, limitation begins to run only when the claimants become aware of the fraud. 53 P.W.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 313.

6. Knowledge of right.

——S. 18—Fraud affects limitation only when the fraud prevents a person from knowing of his right or the title on which his right is founded. A.I.R. 1933 Rang. 110=144 Ind. Cas. 980.

——S. 18—Essentials—Mere fraud insufficient—Party defrauded must have been kept from knowledge of his right or title.

It is not sufficient to make S. 18 operative that the cause of action should be based on fraud. It is necessary that the right claimed or the title on which it is founded, should have been kept from the knowledge of the applicant by means of fraud, although it may be that in certain circumstances it could be assumed from the act of fraud itself which gave the cause of action that this act of fraud was fraudulently concealed from the person affected. A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 507; 17 Cal. 769 and 30 Cal. 142, Appr. 117 Ind. Cas. 63=7 Rang. 104=A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 62.

——S. 18—Fraud by which party is kept from knowledge of right.

For purpose of S. 18 it is not the alleged fraud by which dispossession was carried out which is pertinent, but the fraud by which the plaintiffs have been kept from the knowledge of their right to institute a suit. 92 Ind. Cas. 597=7 L.L.J. 600=27 P.L.R. 24=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 128.

——S. 18—Adjustment of decree—Fraud on judgment-debtors—Right to apply for certifying adjustment.

Where a settlement had been come to, to satisfy the respective decrees in two suits and the decree-holders represented to the judgment-debtors that this was the case, and on the strength of such representation judgment-debtors signed it, and thought that as it was filed, the two decrees were adjusted:

Held, such conduct could be said to keep the judgment-debtors from the knowledge of the right of applying to the Court for the adjustment of the decree to be certified. 70 Ind. Cas. 859=1 Bur. L.J. 43=A.I.R. 1922 L.B. 31.

——S. 18 and Art. 174—Knowledge of right—C.P. Code, O. 21, R. 2.

S. 18 of the Limitation Act applies only to those cases in which a person has been kept from knowledge of his rights. Where a decree-holder fraudulently promised to certify an adjustment out of Court and failed to do so, the judgment-debtor cannot claim the benefits of S. 18, in order to extend the time for an application under R. 2 (2) of O. 21 of the C. P. Code, which owing to the fraud of the decree-holder is made after the time prescribed therefor. 3 U. B. R. (1919) 169=52 Ind. Cas. 958.

——S. 18—Knowledge of right—Fraud of decree-holder, if can extend time for judgment-debtor to apply under O. 21, R. 2 (C.P.Code.)

In the case of an uncertified adjustment, it is not open to the judgment-debtor to claim an extension of time to apply under O. 21, R. 2, C. P. Code on the ground of fraud on the part of the decree-holder because the judgment-debtor cannot be held to be kept thereby from his knowledge of his right to apply within the meaning of S. 18 of the Limitation Act but only from the exercise of his right. 16 C. W. N. 923=16 C. L. J. 174=13. Ind. Cas. 63.

——S. 18—Fraud—Plea of—How sustained.

To take the benefit of the section the party must show that he was prevented by fraud from knowledge of his right to institute a suit or make an application. Fraud in any other connection is immaterial. 2 P.W.R. 1919=29 P.L.R. 1919=50 Ind. Cas. 610.

——S. 18 and Art. 166—Knowledge of right—Court auction sale—Setting aside of—Court—Duty of.

When an application to set aside a sale is made after 30 days from the date of the sale the court cannot apply S. 18 of the Limitation Act without first finding the time when the applicant came to know of the sale. 48. Ind. Cas. 970 (Cal.).

——S. 18 and Art. 166—Knowledge of right—Execution sale—Application to set aside—Fraud.

Where a judgement-debtor was by the fraud of the decree-holder and auction purchaser induced to omit to make an application under R. 89 of O. 21 of the C.P. Code on the assurance that they would themselves apply to have the sale set aside. Held, that the fraud was not of the kind which would operate to extend the limitation provided for an application to set aside a sale on the ground of irregularity. The fraud did not keep the judgment-debtor from the knowledge of his rights but merely prevented him for making an application. 43. Ind. Cas. 671 (All.).

——S. 18—and Art 62—Knowledge of right.

On 6th July, 1893, plaintiff a Jenmi granted a Kanom to the second defendant and on 28th January, 1904, he granted Melcharth of the same and to the first defendant who was to redeem the Kanom and to pay the plaintiff the rent due by Kanombar for 1896 to 1905 and 1910 to 1913; the first defendant getting possession of the property did not redeem the Kanom but assigned the Melkanom to the second defendant in 1909 under which the latter undertook to pay the arrears of rent to the plaintiff. On 18th January, 1912, the plaintiff by a notice demanded the arrears and brought the persent suit. Held, (Wallis, C. J., and Kumaraswami Sastri, J.) the Melkanom was not invalid, the plaintiff could recover the arrears from the second defendant, that Art. 62 governed the suit. (Wallis, C. J.) Owing to the assignment the second defendant became bound to redeem the old Kanom the redemption cannot be considered as having taken place on the date of assignment; even if it were, time runs against the plaintiff under Art. 62 and S. 18 so long as he did not know as to the manner in which the assignment affected his right. (Kumaraswami Sastri, J.) The assignment extinguished the Kanom from the date the Jenmi assented to the assignment; the Kanomdar could not claim the advantages by the assignment of the Melcharth without performing the obligations imposed by it. (Bakewell, J.) The demise under the Melkanom did not take effect till Melkanomdar paid the rent to plaintiff. The first defendants stipulation to redeem the kanom to pay rent to Jenmi was persent and could not be enforced against the Kanomdar. 41 Mad. 488=8 L.W. 118=22 M.L.T. 543=(1918) Mad. W.N. 93=34 M.L.J. 193=43 Ind. Cas. 625.

——S. 18—Knowledge of right.

Where a right of suit is not known owing to the practice of fraud, limitation runs only from the date of discovery of the fraud. 42. Ind. Cas. 548. (Cal.).

——Ss. 18 and 22—Knowledge of right—Benamidar impleaded deftendant.—Real owner added after period of limitation—Effect.

Where in a mortgage suit a Benamidar subsequent mortgagee was made a defendant. And on objection being taken, the real subsequent mortgagee was impleaded but after the limitation period. Held, that the suit is not barred against him either in the view that he must be deemed to have been on the record in the name of his Benamidar or in view that the plaintiff's cause of action against him had been kept concealed from the plaintiff's until the date of the objection and that S. 18 of the Limitation Act would apply. 26 Ind. Cas. 860 (Cal.).

——S. 18—Knowledge of right.

S. 18 of the Limitation Act applies only when a party is kept by fraud from knowledge and not from exercising his right. 25 Ind. Cas. 884 (Cal.).

——S. 18—Fraud—Ignorance of right.

Mere ignorance of a plaintiff of his right to sue would not prevent time from running against him; it is only when such ignorance has been brought about by the fraud of his opponent that S. 18 of the Limitation Act can be applied in his favour. To constitute fraud within S. 18, it is not enough that the right to sue should be merely unknown to plaintiff but there must have been some intentional imposition or some deliberate concealment of facts by which the ignorance of the plaintiff was brought about. 16 Ind. Cas. 547 (Cal.).

——S. 18—Knowledge of right—Nature of proof required.

A party gaining by fraudulent action of his, must show that the other party had full knowledge of the circumstances. A mere suggestion of his having been defrauded does not amount to knowledge. 17 B. 341 (P. C.), Foll. 15 C.W.N. 102=6 Ind. Cas. 154.

——S. 19—Suit under s. 72, Dekhan Agriculturists' Relief Act.

Having regard to S. 29 (2), the plaintiff in a suit govetned by S. 72, Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act, is not entitled, for the purpose of limitation, to the benefit of S. 19. A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 200=47 Bom. L. R. 27=I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 167=220 Ind. Cas. 67 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Applicability—Suit for rent—Essentials and effect of acknowledgments—Joint crediters.

S. 19 of the Limitation Act is applicable to suits for rent. Although the plaintiff is obliged to rely on S. 19 his claim does not cease to be a claim for rent. An acknowledgment does not alter the quality of the debt. The acknowledgment referred to in S. 19 must point with reasonable certainty not merely to a liability but the liability or that out of which it arises. An acknowledgment of sums due for rent to two creditors jointly is sufficient to keep alive the right of one of the creditors to enforce the claim for rent under the Bengal Tenancy Act. (1909) 10 C.L.J. 517=3 Ind.Cas. 34.

——S. 19—Applicability—Application of, for execution of rent decree—Bengal Tenancy Act, Sch. III Art. 6, S. 185—Acknowledgment of liability saves limitation of application for execution of rent decree not exceeding Rs. 500.

S. 19 of the Limitation Act is applicable to applications for execution of rent decrees, coming under Art. 6 of Sch. III of the Bengal Tenancy Act by reason of sub-S. 2 of S. 185 of that Act. S. 19 of the Limitation Act applies to applications for execution of decrees and an acknowledgment of liability under that section can save an application for execution of a decree for arrears of rent for a sum of money not exceeding Rs. 500 from being barred by limitation. 8 C. 716; 9 C. 730, App. (1902) 3 C.L.J. 347.

——S. 19—Special and local laws—Applicability to U.P. Rent Act, S. 94—Suit by assignee of co-sharer for profits—Acknowledgment—Limitation.

The general provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, are applicable to suits and proceedings under special or local laws except in so far as they affect or alter the period of limitation prescribed by those laws, unless the special or local law is a complete code in itself. Hence where the assignee of profits from a co-sharer sued the lambardar to recover profits for certain years, the claim in respect of some of which was apparently barred by limitation, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to pray in aid an acknowledgment made by the lambardar in a suit brought by other assignees from the same assignor for the profits of those years against the lambardar. (1902) A.W.N. 34.

——S. 19—Person having two separate and distinct remedies arising out of one and same transaction—Acknowledgment to save one of remedies—Other remedy, if also saved.

In a case where, for the unpaid sale price, the vendor has taken a promissory note from the vendee, he has two remedies open for the recovery of the unpaid sale price, one by way of enforcement of the personal liability under the note and the second by way of enforcement of the statutory charge by sale of immoveable properties which is not extinguished by the execution of the promissory note. Where two remedies flow either by operation of law or by agreement between the parties out of one and the same transaction and the remedies are separate and distinct in their scope and in their essential feature, anything said or done to save one of the remedies from the bar of limitation cannot operate by itself to save the other also. Therefore, an acknowledgment of liability evidenced by endorsement on the promissory note cannot be treated as acknowledgment of liability in respect of the vendor's lien. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 167=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 939=54 L.W. 591=1942 M.W.N. 102=201 Ind. Cas. 172.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Not mutually exclusive.

Sections 19 and 20 are not mutually exclusive. 1945 N. L. J. 213=I. L. R. (1945) Nag. 745=A.I.R. 1945 Nag. 181.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Party setting up case under S. 20, in trial Court and under S. 19, in Appellate Court: Held that the party could set up such pleas provided the aggrieved party was not taken by surprise. A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 391=1937 O.W.N. 719=13 Luck. 334=168 Ind. Cas. 799.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Sections 19 and 20 do not apply to S. 48 of Civil P. Code. 10 Luck. 208=11 O. W. N. 1103=A.I.R. 1934 Oudh 465=151 Ind. Cas. 541.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Scope of—Not exclusive.

Ss. 19 and 20 are not mutually exclusive. Part-payment endorsed, but not in the debtor's hand-writing is ineffectual under S. 20 but is effectual in saving limitation under S. 19. 40 Mad. 698=3 L. W. 576=(1916) 2 M.W.N. 256=36 Ind. Cas. 240.

——Ss. 19 and 21 (2)—Application restricted to cases satisfying its requirements.

The word "only" in S. 21 (2) is not a mere surplusage and if effect be given to the word the sub-section would not in any way interfere with the operation of Ss. 19 and 20, but would restrict the application of those sections to cases which strictly satisfy their requirements. 98 Ind. Cas. 381=44 C.L.J. 475=A. I. R. 1927 Cal. 193.

——S. 19—Scope—Acknowledgment if need be communicated.

There is nothing in the terms of S. 19 to suggest that an acknowledgment of a debt to be operative must be addressed or communicated to the creditor or some one on his behalf. 33 Cal. 613, Diss. 7 O. W. N. 1195=A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 54.

——S. 19—Enforceability of claim when making acknowledgment—Not material.

Under S. 19 it is not material whether the claim in respect of which acknowledgment was made, could have been enforced against him personally at the time when he made the acknowledgment. 80 Ind. Cas. 940=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 134.

——S. 19—Oral acknowledgment.

An oral acknowledgment of a debt would not extend the period of limitation under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 93 P. R. 1911=151 P.W.R. 1911=223 P.L.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 445.

——S. 19—Starting point of limitation—Oral agreement to give time for payment of debt, not barred—Validity of.

An oral agreement, before a debt is barred, to give further time to payment is valid and does not contravene S. 19, Limitation Act, or S. 25 Contract Act. Limitation begins to run from the end of such extended period. (1902) 4 Bom. L.R. 50.

2. Acknowledgment.

(f) What constitutes.

2. (a)—Acknowledgment—Construction.

——S. 19—Ackuowledgment—Construction of document—Construction in the light of context.

A document taid to constitute an acknowledgment has to be construed in the context in which it is given and where its language is not clear in itself, the context may be examined to see what it is to which the words refer. That is not to say that any equivocation in an acknowledgment can be cured by ascertaining what the probable intention of the acknowledgor was. That is quite a different thing. But where, after examining in the light of the context what it was that the person giving the acknowledgment was actually referring to the conclusion follows that it is an unequivocal acknowledgment of a right, then that acknowledgment is sufficient to satisfy S. 19, Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1947) All. 11=229 Ind. Cas. 583=1947 A.W.R. (H.C.) 101=1947 A.L.J. 129=1947 A.L.W. 376=A.I.R. 1947 All. 74 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Per Venkataramana Rao, J.—(In order of reference): The purpose for which the acknowledgment was made is immaterial for the purposes of S. 19, Limitation Act. ——S. 19—Entry in creditor's account book.

Entry in creditor's account books "the sum of Rs. 800-11-3 will be paid by me immediately"—Lower Court holding the entry as pro-note not duly stamped and hence inadmissible :

Held, that the entry was not a pro-note as there was no name of the payee. But it was an agreement or a memorandum of agreement. 38 L.W. 846=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 25=(1933) M.W.N. 1243=146 Ind. Cas. 943.

2. (b) Acknowledgment—Effect of.

——S. 19 Acknowledgment Effect off.

In case of an acknowledgment of liability, the fresh period of limitation is to be computed from the time when the acknowledgment is signed even though it purports to fix a period of payment. 57 L.W. 499=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 225=A.I.R. (1945) Mad. 10=219 Ind. Cas. 231=1944 M.W.N. 788.

——S. 19—Fresh period commences from date of acknowledgment.

Where a mortgage document dated 1906 acknowledged the liability under a mortgaged dated 1904 a fresh period of limitation can commence only from 1906, the date of the later mortgage and not from the date fixed for payment of the amount due under that mortgage. 6 N.L.J. 14=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 256.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—If a promise to pay—Express promise to pay—If barred debt also revived.

No doubt under the English Law an acknowledgment of a debt implies a promise to pay (even a barred debt). But in India in view of the express provision in S. 19 an acknowledgment, in which there is no express promise implying a new contract to pay, must be made before the several components of the account at various dates are barred by time and in this respect an acknowledgment under S. 19, Limitation Act, differs from a promise to pay a barred debt under Cl. (3), : S. 25, Contract Act. Where, however, the acknowledgment is not merely an admission of an existing debt but the words there are such from which a clear promise to pay is made out, such as fixing the date of payment and so on, such an acknowledgment would come under S. 25 (3), Contract Act and not only under S. 19, Limitation Act. 120 Ind. Cas. 470=8 Pat. 706=10 P.L.T. 169=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 258.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—If a promise to pay.

An acknowledgment that a debt was due, without anything more, will be held to imply a promise to pay. 33 Cal. 1047, Foll. 78 Ind. Cas. 919=5 P.L.T. 551=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 806.

——S. 19—Effect of.

An acknowledgment of liability though made after the expiry of the period of limitation for a suit on the mortgage but within the special period of limitation prescribed by S. 31 gives a fresh period from the date of acknowledgment. 34 All. 375; 49 All. 67; 26 M.L.J. 23; 55 Cal. 1210, Foll. 1930 M.W.N. 930 =32 M.L.W. 502=128 Ind. Cas. 867=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 991=59 M.L.J. 881.

——S. 19—Effect of—Definite sum acknowledged—Limitation saved only to that extent.

Although no doubt if no definite sum is mentiond and there is acknowledgment in general terms, the amount of debt can be discovered from evidence as mentioned in S. 19, Expl. 1, where a definite sum has been aeknowledged, the acknowledgment can be used to save limitation only with respect to sum acknowledged. A.I.R. 1930 All. 461=127 Ind. Cas. 424.

——S. 19—Acknowledging part of claim—Saving as to that part only.

Where in a suit against Railway for loss of goods, a letter written by Railway Company was relied upon which stated that Railway Company was liable for Rs. 1,000 and nothing more:

Held, the letter saved limitation to the extent of Rs. 1,000 only but not in respect of the whole claim 86 Ind. Cas. 228=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 8.

——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—Partial liability.

Where there is a liability to account and it is admitted in part, the admission, but not under S. 19 of the Limitation Act operates to save the entire right. 22 C.W.N. 104=27 C.L.J. 403=43 Ind. Cas. 893.

——S. 19—Revival of barred debt.

The statute of limitation, being a law of procedure, is generally retrospective in its operation but there is no provision in the Act so retrospective in its effect as to revive and make effective a barred right. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 245=68 M.L.J. 63=(1935) M.W.N. 122=41 L.W. 721=157 Ind. Cas. 272.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment does not revive barred debts.

Acknowledgment only gives a fresh period of limitation from the date of acknowledgment in respect of such items only as were not already barred at the time when the acknowledgment was made. 1 P.L.T. 190, Foll. 120 Ind. Cas. 470=10 P.L.T. 169=8 Pat. 706=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 258.

——S. 19—Effect of acknowledgment—Barred debt.

An acknowledgment under S. 19 of the Limitation Act saves limitation if it is made before the original debt, which is always the basis of the suit, is time barred. 5 Pat. L.J. 37=1 Pat. L.T. 190=2 U.P.L.R. (Pat.) 105=56 Ind. Cas. 379.

——S. 19—Effect of acknowledgment—Barred right—Not revived.

An acknowledgment does not revive a right which has become barred at the date of acknowledgment. 22 M.L.T. 419=(1917) M.W.N. 864=33 M.L.J. 753=43 Ind. Cas. 50.

——S. 19—Effect of acknowledgment—Admission of a barred debt.

An admission of a barred debt is not an "acknowledgment of the debt." 18 Ind. Cas. 595, Foll. 24 Ind. Cas. 507 (Mad.).

——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—Barred debt.

After a right is lost there can be no acknowledgment of liability within S. 19. 12 Bom. L.R. 621=7 Ind. Cas. 134.

——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—Minor—Effect.

If a balance be struck or an acknowledgment made within S. 19 of the Limitation Act in favour of a minor, the period of limitation is to be computed from the date when the plaintiff becomes a major. 37 P.L.R. 1919=52 Ind. Cas. 115.

——S. 19—Effect of acknowledgment—Fresh cause of action.

If a payment is made by way of an acknowledgment on foot of general debt a new cause of action springs from it and limitation begins to run afresh. 2 Pat. L.J. 24=38 Ind. Cas. 85.

——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—General Clauses Act, S. 6 (b).

An acknowledgment of liability only extends the period of limitation and does not confer title and is not a "thing done" within S. 6 of the General Clauses Act. 35 All. 227=40 I.A. 74=25 M.L.J. 131=13 M.L.T. 437=17 C.W.N. 605=11 A.L.J. 389=(1913) M.W.N. 470=17 C.L.J. 488=15 Bom. ——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—Extension of time.

An acknowledgment does not confer title; it only extends limitation for filing the suit. 32 All. 33=6 A.L.J. 931=3 Ind. Cas. 725.

——S. 19—Effect of acknowledgment—Judgment debt.

——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—New Act.

An acknowledgment invalid under Act (14 of 1859) but valid under subsequent Limitation Acts is valid within S. 19. 34 All. 109=8 A.L.J. 1272=12 Ind. Cas. 604.

——S. 19—Effect of acknowledgment—Acknowledgment of mortgage in a plaint, if an acknowledgment of liability in respect of mortgagor's right to redeem.

A statement in a plaint admitting a mortgage in plaintiff's favour amounts to an acknowledgment of his liability in respect of the mortgagor's right to redeem the mortgage within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 82 P.W.R. 1911=180 P.L.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 377.

——S. 19—Effect of—Acknowledgment—Rent—Limitation—B.T. Act, S. 185.

An acknowledgment by the purchaser of certain properties that he would himself pay the arrears of rent is not a novation so as to make him personally liable but the property in his hands is liable. An acknowledgment does not alter the quality of the debt or operate as a novation. The acknowledgment must point with reasonable certainty not merely to a liability but the liability of that out of which it arises though all its legal consequences need not be specified. 10 C.L.J. 517=3 Ind. Cas. 34.

2 (c). Acknowledgment—Essentials.

(i) Before expiration.
(ii) Intention.
(iii) Particular liability.
(iv) Signature.
(v) Stamp and Registration.
(vi) Subsisting liability.
(vii) Miscellaneus.

2 (c) (i.) Acknowledgment—Essentials—Before expiration.

——S. 19—Barred debt.

An acknowledgment of a barred debt does not save limitation under S. 19. But the acknowledgment made on December 5, 1928, relating to mortgage which was executed on December 19, 1916, was of a subsisting liabilty and therefore, amounted to an acknowledgment under that section. (1945) A.L.J. 58=(1945) A.W.R. (H.C.) 22=1945 O.W.N. (H.C.) 28=A.I.R. 1945 All. 224=I.L.R. (1945) All. 120.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be made within time. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 180=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 441=174 Ind. Cas. 374.

——S. 19—Execution of fresh pro-note for balance due after 3 year's from date of mortgage, if valid acknowledgment.

By the terms of S. 19, sub-S. (1), an acknowledgment in writing of a liablity to permit of a fresh period of limitation shall be computed from the date of the acknowledgment only where the acknowledgment is made before the expiration of the poriod prescribed. Consequently, the fresh promissory note having been executed after the personal remedy was barred could not operate as an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19 even though the plaintiff could have sued on the promissory note which was a new promise under S. 25 (3), Contract Act. A.I.R 1938 Rang. 134=1938 Rang. L.R. 6=177 Ind. Cas. 63.

——S. 19—Distinction between "acknowledgment" under S. 19 and "promise" under S. 25(3), Contract Act (9 of 1872), pointed out.

The distinction between an acknowledgment under S. 19, Limitation Act, and a "promise" within the meaning of S. 25 (3), Contract Act, is of great importance. Both an acknowledgment and a promise are required to be in writing signed by the party or his agent authorised in that behalf; and both have the effect of creating a fresh starting point of limitation. But while an acknowledgment under the Limitation Act is required to be made before the expiration of the petiod of limitation, a promise under S. 25 (3) to pay a debt may be made after the limitation period. After the period of limitation expires nothing short of an express promise will provide a fresh period of limitation. A. I. R. 1937 Lah. 642=174 Ind. Cas. 258.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be before expiry of the limitation period.

One condition precedent to the application of S. 19 is that the acknowledgment should have been made before the expiration of the period prescribed for the suit. 7 O.W.N. 420=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 287.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must have been made within period of limitation.

A letter by the general agent written at the instructions of the judgment-debtor can serve as a valid acknowledgment only when it is shown that it was made within the time prescribed by the law of limitation for the recovery of debt due under a decree and where it is not so shown the acknowledgment does not save limitation. 120 Ind. Cas. 825=6 O.W.N. 776=A.I.R. 1929 Oudh 479.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment to be made before expiry of limitation.

An acknowledgment of debt implies a promise to pay, and though an acknowledgment is required by S. 19, Limitation Act, to be made before the expiry of the period of limitation a promise under S. 25, Contract Act, may be made after the period. 106 Ind. Cas. 661 =A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 124.

——S. 19—Admission after limitation ineffective.

Admission of mortgage by mortgagee in a suit for possession against mortgagors does not extend period of limitation for redemption when the admission was made after the 60 years had run out. 78 Ind. Cas. 617=6 L.L.J. 194=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 484.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Must be before claim is barred.

An acknowledgment of a debt to be effective for the purpose of saving limitation must be made before the enforcement of it by suit is barred. An acknowledgment of a barred debt is of no avail to save limitation. 67 Ind. Cas. 298 (Cal.).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Essentials.

An acknowledgment of a liability, after the right to enforce it is barred, is not a good acknowledgment, and the onus of proving that it was made at such a time is upon the person who set up the bar by limitation. (1903) A.L.J. 1=1904 A.W.N. 38=26 A. 313. See also 26 M. 34; 10 C.L.J. 517.

2. (c) (ii) Acknowledgment—Essentials—Intention.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of liability—Balance-sheet of company—Signing by director—If saves limitation.

The mere signing of a balance-sheet of a company by a director does not operate to save limitation because the director in drawing up a balance-sheet does not do so with the intention of acknowledging liability but under a duty where he is bound to set out, among other things, the claims made on the company. It is then for the directors, and later for the company, to pass on these claims and either accept them or reject them. I.L.R. (1950) Nag 562=1950 Comp. C. 225=A.I.R. 1951 Nag. 255.

——S. 19—Mortgage replacing prior mortgage—Subsequent mortgage invalid—Whether an acknowledgment of the prior one.

Identical parties to a mortgage of 1916 created a second mortgage in 1922. Clause II of the mortgage-deed read: "This document has been executed in place of the previous document therefore, the creditors shall have all the usual rights to the property hypothecated under this document, which they had under the document dated the 12th and registered on February 15, 1916." The second mortgage was held to be invalid on ground of fraud:

Held, that, as the intention of the parties could be clearly seen, the deed was an acknowledgment of the liability of 1916, under S. 19. I.L.R. (1946) All. 375=A.I.R. 1947 All. 211=1946 A.W.R. (H.C.) 476=1946 A.L.J. 104=222 Ind. Cas. 632 (D.B.).

——S. 19—In the khewat of 1852 Fasli, there was a mention of two areas of 6 biswansis odd being in possession of Lachhman, Maharam and Mahasukh as mortgagees, the mortgage-money being shown as Rs. 278-4-0 and Rs. 383, respectively. In the settlement khewat of 1283, Mahasukh and Maharam were shown as mortgagees of these two properties in equal shares. A reference was made to the earlier khewat prepared at the time of revision settlement, and it was further stated that the interest was equal to profits and that the mortgage was redeemable at Daschra in the month of Jeth. These entries both in 1852 and in 1878, were attested by the mortgagors and the mortgagees or their representatives.

(Per Collister, Allsop, Bajpai and Hamilton, JJ).—It could not be said that the mortgagees or their representatives at the time of attesting the entries were conscious that they were acknowledging a subsisting and enforceable liability against themselves and admitting the title of the mortgagor and the liability of the mortgages to be redeemed. The entries therefore, did not save limitation. A.I.R. 1943 All. 393=1948 A. W. R. H. C. 291=(1943) A.L.J. 548=I.L.R. (1944)All. 76 =212 Ind. Cas. 238 (F.B.). Overruling A.I.R. 1920 All. 92.

——S. 19—Intention to make new contract must be clear.

The intention of the law is to make an admission in writing of an existing jural relation equivalent for the purposes of limitation to a new contract, but for this purpose, the consciousness and intention must be as clear as they would be in a contract itself.

The writing in question contained details of account and the amount finally due by the debtor. The debtor had also mentioned therein that he was giving certain documents to the creditor in lieu of the amounts due and the word bhuktan which means fully satisfied was also used:

Held, that the admission was an admission of liability due by the debtor to the creditor and he proposed to hand over the document on account of his dues which would be satisfied by the assignment thereof. Something more was to be done before the documents would be held to have satisfied the debt and in order that the documents in the hands of the creditor should be capable of realising the amount mentioned against each document, a formal assignment would be necesary; otherwise the document cannot be said to be equal to the amount mentioned against it:

Held, also, that there was only an inchoate proposition on arrangement for the liquidation thereof and there was no novation of contract within the meaning of S. 62, Contract Act. 22 P.L.T. 1057=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 170=8 B.R. 608=199 Ind. Cas. 657.

——S. 19—Decree in respect of charge—Application by judgment-debtor for adjournment.

To bring a case within S. 19, there must be a clear acknowledgment of liability.

Where a decree in respect of a charge on property is passed, applications by the judgment-debtor for adjournment on various dates in the proceedings for rehearing under O. 9, R. 13, Civil P. C., do not constitute any acknowledgment of liability within S. 19, Limitation Act. Adjournments are often obtained for the purpose of delay and often for the purpose of convenience and the prayer for adjournment to compromise the dispute as to debt by no means admits the debt itself when proceedings to set it aside have been taken. A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 488=43 C.W.N. 800=70 C.L.J. 320=183 Ind. Cas. 473.

——S. 19—For the purpose of S. 19, there must be a clear acknowledgment of liability in respect of a right. A.I.R. 1936 All. 522=(1936) A.L.J. 625=1936 A.W.R. 533=1936 R.D. 254=163 Ind. Cas. 872.

——S. 19—Conscious admission of liability, necessity of.

In order to find whether there is an acknowledgment in a document, the document should be read as a whole and there must be conscious acknowledgment that the party concerned is liable to pay.

The purchaser of properties which were subject to a mortgage agreed to sell one of them to the mortgagee and the latter paid an advance of Rs. 700. The contract did not fructify and the sale did not come off. The mortgagee sued upon the mortgage and in the written statement, the defendant set up the agreement and receipt of Rs. 700 and contended that the suit was not maintainable on account of the said agreement, which the defendant was prepared to complete :

Held, in a subsequent suit to recover the Rs. 700, that the admission in the written statement was not an acknowledgment of any liability by the defendant to pay Rs. 700 to the plaintiff sufficient to save limitation. (1935) M.W.N. 237=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 287=41 L.W. 476=159 Ind Cas. 486.

——S. 19—Where there is no definite or unequivocal acknowledgment of the debt, a case cannot be brought within the purview of S. 19. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 152=156 Ind. Cas. 783.

——S. 19—A signature by a debtor on the back of the Promissory note executed by him is not an acknowledgment of liability. Unless intention is proved, it does not indicate liability to pay. A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 287=152 Ind. Cas. 501.

——S. 19—Entry by mortgagor in mortgagee's book—Mortgagee signing as scribe.

Where the mortgagor signed an entry in the bahi of the mortgagee showing the balance due to the mortgagee and the mortgagee in whose handwriting the entry was made, also put down his name under the entry as its scribe :

Held, that the entry was not an acknowledgment of the mortgage debt by the mortgagee and the fact that the mortgagee wrote it at the instance of the person acknowledging the debt and put down his own name under it merely as a scribe, could not alter the nature of the entry or convert it into an acknowledgment by the mortgagee.

An acknowledgment must be a conscious acknowledgment of liability, in order to be effective under S. 19. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 122=131 Ind. Cas. 349.

——S. 19—Definite acknowledgment—Creditor can pursue his claim in any way.

Where the liability to pay the debt is definitely acknowledged by an authorized agent, it is immaterial that the right to enforce the liability in any particular manner is not admitted. The liability to pay having been admitted the creditor can pursue his claim in any way recognized by law. 109 Ind. Cas. 872=27 M. L.W. 544=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 713 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Exact nature of right need not be stated but definite acknowledgment essential—Ambiguity—Effect.

An acknowledgment under S. 19 may be sufficient though it omits to specify the exact nature of the right. But there must be a definite acknowledgment.

An endorsement on a money bond stated that accounts made up showed a certain sum and that a usufructuary mortgage was executed for a portion of the sum. It was not clear whether the execution of the usufructuary mortgage was in lieu of the whole amount due to the creditor or whether the debtor still held himself bound to pay the balance of the debt:

Held, that in order to extend the period of limitation the creditor must show that the debtor signed an acknowledgment to the effect that there was a balance due to the creditor on the bond after crediting the debtor with what was properly due to him in respect of the execution of the usufructuary mortgage deed, and as the endorsement was ambiguous on this point it could not be held to be an acknowledgment deed. 89 Ind. Cas. 617=23 A.L.J. 869=6 L.R.A. Civ. 399=A.I.R. 1926 All. 75.

——S. 19—Admission of purchase of mortgagee rights—No acknowledgment as to being redeemed.

When a man says that he purchased a certain mortgage rights he only means that he purchased certain property which came into possession of the vendor as a mortgagee. All that he admits is that the vendor came into possession of the property on foot of a mortgagee. No question arises in his mind as to whether the mortgage subsists or has become time-barred. The statement by itself does not signify to the mind of the person making the statement or to anybody else that the maker of the statement thinks or believes that he is liable to be redeemed at the date of making the statement. Such statement therefore is not an acknowledgment within S. 19 as any acknowledgment of the original transaction would not necessarily amount to an acknowledgment that the liability which would follow from the original transaction subsists at the date of the statement. 85 Ind. Cas. 584 =6 L.R.A. Civ. 139=A.I.R. 1925 All. 553.

——S. 19—Admission must be conscious—Jural relationship when admission was made must have existed.

An acknowledgment under S. 19, Limitation Act, must be a conscious admission of the existing liability in respect of the property or right which is claimed in the suit and must show an existing jural relationship between the parties at the time when the admission was made. 79 Ind. Cas. 914=17 S.L.R. 324=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 181.

——S. 19—Letter of information.

A letter of information of the trace of the goods and its disposal awaiting instructions, is not an acknowledgment within S. 19 of the Act. An acknowledgment after the expiry of the period of limitation cannot save the operation of the Act. 42 All. 390=2 U.P.L.R. (All.) 84=18 A.L.J. 377=58 Ind. Cas. 547.

——S. 19—Hatchita entry in—Signature sufficient—Customary mode—Intention of parties.

Where at the foot of certain entries made in a hatchita which bore at its top the debtor's name of signature, the debtor wrote the words likhitar knode (writer's self) .

Held, that this was the mode adopted by the debtor of signing the hatchita, and as it appeared that it was the debtor's intention thereby to acknowledge a debt, the entry constituted an acknowledgment. It is necessary in such cases to consider the intention of the parties. 18 B. 586, appl. (1904) 9 C.W.N. 83=31 C. 1043.

2 (c) (iii) Acknowledgment—Essentials—Particular liability.

——S. 19—Words must indicate acknowledgment of liability of particular debt.

Before S. 19, Limitation Act can apply, the words used must be words which clearly indicate an acknowledgment of liability of the particular debt. It is wrong to say that unless the words used amount to a total repudiation of liability they should be read as an acknowledgment of liability:

Held, on facts that there was no evidence on record which identified the word 'debts' used in the statement to the mortgage deeds of August 9, 1921 and January 6, 1923, and that the words used there did not amount to acknowledgment of these debts. 54 M.L.W. 718=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 892=1941 M.W.N. 827=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 460=198 Ind. Cas. 611.

——S. 19—Only one debt in existence.

A letter amounting to an acknowledgment need not specify the debt in respect of which the acknowledgment is made where there is only one debt. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 827=169 Ind. Cas. 973.

——S. 19—Mere statement of existence of earlier mortgage deed.

Where a second mortgagee who had obtained a a decree on his mortgage stated in the verified statement accompanying an application for sale of the property under O. 21, R. 66, Civil P.Code, that upon an examination of the Registration Office, he found that there was a mortgage deed of the property of which the sale proclamation was to issue which had been registered on a certain date (which was prior to the date of his mortgage).

Held, that this did not amount to an acknowledgment of any liability affixed to the property or personal, under the earlier mortgage and did not give a fresh starting period for a suit on the earlier mortgage. A.I.R. 1932 All. 62=(1931) A.L.J. 862=136 Ind. Cas. 624.

——S. 19—Receipt showing payment under decree does not amount to an acknowledgment of liability to deliver properties under same decree. 8 O.W.N. 1117 =A.I.R. 1932 Oudh 154=134 Ind. Cas. 1022.

——S. 19—Identity of right—Right claimed must be acknowledged.

The acknowledgment referred to in S. 19 of the Limitation Act must be an acknowledgment of liability in respect of the right claimed, and the right acknowledged must be the of same description as the right which is the subject of suit. A recital in a sale-deed that a sum of money has been left with vendee to pay off a mortgage by the vendor does not amount to an acknowledgment of the rights of the mortgagee to obtain possession of the mortgaged property. 21 O.C. 151=46 Ind. Cas. 813.

——S. 19—Identity of right—Acknowledgment of liability.

An acknowledgment of liability need not be made to the person entitled to the right; if it points with reasonable certainty to the liability in dispute or to the rights out of the which that liability arises as a legal consequence, it is an "acknowledgment" of liability within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 19 C.W.N. 263=22 Ind. Cas. 650.

——S. 19—Identity of right—General acknowledgment—Nature of—Admission that accounts be taken.

The acknowledgment of the liability in respect of a right must be in respect of the right which is the subject of the suit. In a suit for a definite sum of money and admission that accounts must be taken and settled does not amount to an acknowledgment. 36 Mad. 68=10 M.L.T. 251=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 225=21 M.L.J. 1024=12 Ind. Cas. 378.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must refer to the liability and not any liability.

An acknowledgment must distinctly and definitely relate to the liability in dispute. It need not be express; it may be left to implication. It must be a necessary implication from the words used that the person acknowledging was referring to and admitting the liability, not any liability. (1907) 9 Bom. L.R. 715.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Khatas—Limitation.

Under S. 19, it is open to the plaintiff by reference to the accounts or otherwise to establish a connection between the two khatas and show that the latter one was an acknowledgment of the debt due under the first. (1900) 2 Bom. L.R. 1086=25 B. 330.

2 (c) (iv)—Acknowledgment—Essentials —Signature.

——S. 19—Signature—Giving name of firm only.

It is customary in business circles in India to give the name of the firm only in statements of accounts, and this amounts to signature for the purpose of S. 19, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 376=1941 R.D. 279=1941 O.W.N. 527=1941 A.W.R. 300=16 Luck. 727=194 Ind. Cas. 168.

——S. 19—An endorsement at the back of the bond was as follows: "to-day.....Rs. 360-10-0.....were paid towards this bond." It was thumb-marked by the debtor;

Held, that it amounted to an acknowledgment under S. 19, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 23=192 Ind. Cas. 118.

——S. 19—Name of debtor written by person with authority to do so and acknowledge debt.

Section 19, Limitation Act, does not draw any distinction between a person who is literate and one who is not literate. In either case, an acknowledgment signed by an agent with his authority would be enough. The section also does not say as to what should be the form of the singature, and it is now well-settled that if the name of the debtor is introduced into the document of acknowledgment in such a way as to show that the acknowledgment was intended to be his own such name, whether written or printed, would constitute his signature within the meaning of the expression as used in S. 19. Thus it is not necessary that the name should be written by the debtor himself. It is suffieient if it is written by a person acting with authority to write his name and to acknowledge the debt in question. A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 6=18 Pat. 715=20 P.L.T. 927=6 B.R. 312=186 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 19—Affixing of initials.

A party's initials are equivalent to his signature for the purpose of S. 19. The word 'signed' in the said section does not mean 'signed in full.' (1935) M.W.N. 490=68 M.L.J. 623=41 L.W. 744=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 555=59 M. 72=156 Ind. Cas. 449.

——S. 19—Initials—Not proper.

Acknowledgment merely bearing initials instead of signature is not proper. 96 Ind. Cas. 700=23 M.L.W. 771=1926 M.W.N. 392=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 827=51 M.L.J. 414.

——S. 19—Rubber stamp containing principal's name affixed.

When the acknowledgment is written by an agent duly authorised in that behaif and if he affixes there to the name of his principal in any position, even by impressing it with a rubber stamp, such affixation of the name of the principal must be held to be a 'signing' of the document within the meaning of S. 19. A. I. R. 1935 Rang. 160=13 R. 322=156 Ind. Cas. 589.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be signed.

Section 19 makes it perfectly clear that an acknowledgment must be signed by a person making it. 109 Ind. Cas. 398=26 A.L.J. 420=A.I.R. 1928 All. 310.

——S. 19—Actual signature not necessary—Signing in the manner usual to the party sufficient.

Under S. 19 of the Limitation Act, the actuel signature of the acknowledger is not necessary. Acknowledgment in the acknowledger's handwriting aud signed by him in a manner which is customary with him in his communications is enough. Where the habitual method of a Guru while sending communications to his disciples is to subscribe the communication with the words "Shree Hari Sharanam" and not to affix his signatures, any communication of this form and written by the Guru himself personally will be regarded as signed by him even though it may not contain his actual name; so that, any acknowledgment of liability signed in this manner and made in the Guru's own handwriting will save limitation under S. 19. 75 Ind. Cas. 1004=A.I.R. 1925 All. 85.

——S. 19—Plan attached to plaint—Plan unsigned and unverified—Contents of plan cannot be considered as admitted.

An admission in a plan filed with a plaint, might possibly for certain purposes be regarded as an admission made in the plaint, but such an assumption does not convert an unsigned and unverified plan into writing signed by the plaintiff or plaintiffs. 86 Ind. Cas. 859=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 529.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be signed.

Where a certain acknowledgment said to have been made at the time of the settlement by the predecessors-in-title of the defendant was relied on and it was contended that under S. 19 of the Limitation Act a fresh period of limitation arose from the date of that acknowledgment:

Held, the acknowledgment under S. 19 in order to be operative must be signed by the party against whom any particular right is claimed, and if there was no evidence to show that the alleged acknowledgment was ever signed by any of the predecessors-in title of the present defendant, it was not operative as such. 78 Ind. Cas. 617=6 L.L.J. 194=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 484.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Signature—Vilasam of the firm written at the top of the letter—No signature—Nattukottai Chetties.

According to the practice of Nattukottai Chetties who do not sign their letters at the foot but begin by saying that the sender is such and such a firm, the name so written is a sufficient signature within S. 19 of the Limitation Act, I.A 683: 6 C. 340, Foll. 6 L. W. 790 =1918 M.W.N. 42=43 Ind. Cas. 20.

Where it is proved that Nattukottai Chetties usually do not sign their name but write words invoking the help of the family deity, a letter so signed may be taken as signed by the writer for the purpose of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 27 M.L.J. 631=26 Ind. Cas. 911.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknewledgment—Future promise—"Will sign after looking into accounts."

A letter merely saying that the writer after looking into the account will sign it is not an acknowledgment of liability; even assuming that it were, it is not an acknowledgment of liability to pay the sum due on the accounts for the year. 19 C.W.N. 170=23 Ind. Cas. 57.

——S. 19—Document undated and unsigned.

A document undated and unsigned by the mortgagee or his duly authorised agent cannot save limitation under S. 19 of the Act, in a suit for redemption of the mortgage. 20 Ind. Cas. 62 (Oudh.).

——S. 19—Unsigned entries in accounts.

Entries as to payment of rent in an account book not signed by defendant or his authorised agent are not acknowledgment. 34 All. 464=10 A.L.J. 1=16 Ind. Cas. 146.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Signature—Valid signature.

A Signature written by a third person under the directions of the person whose signature is in question, and in his presence, is proper signature and is personal signature for the purposes of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 10 Ind. Cas. 215 (All.).

——S. 19—Accounts settled—Settlement not signed.

An account settled must be signed by the debtor and in view of the absence of signature three years from its date cannot be allowed for limitation purposes. 7. M.L.T. 372=6 Ind. Cas. 719.

——S. 19—Certified copy.

It is one of the essential elements of an acknowledgment under S. 19 of the Limitation Act that it must be signed by the party personally, or by an agent duly authorised in his behalf, or by some person through whom he derives title or liability. It is not necessary according to Expl. I of S. 19 that an acknowledgment must be addressed to the mortgagor. Any statement contained in a certified copy of the translation of a judgment under S. 185 of Act 8 of 1859 does not satisfy the requirements of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 4 Ind. Cas. 579 (All.).

——S. 19—Signature.

The acknowledgment must be signed by the person to be bound thereby. 1907 A.W.N. 263=4 A.L.J. 628=29 A. 773.

——S. 19—Signature obtained by intimidation.

Acknowledgment of liability to pay a certain sum cannot be held to be binding where it is found that the signature of the excutant was obtained by intimidation and that the amount acknowledged has been paid. 59 Ind. Cas. 781=29 P.L.R. 1921=A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 362.

2. (c). (v). Acknowledgment—Essentials—Stamp and registrotion.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Registration, whether necessary.

An Acknowledgment does not in itself create any title or right in the owner which would attract the provisions of 3. 17 (1) of the Registration Act but is a mere statement, an admission of an existent fact. A.I.R. 1942 Nag. 102 = 1942 N.L.J. 412=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 541 : 201 Ind. Cas. 748.

——S. 19—Unstamped signature in an account book showing a certain amount as due on previous dealings. See STAMP ACT (2 OF 1899), SCH I, ART. 1. (1949) 2 M.L.J. 543=A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 135.

——S. 19—Unstamped unconditional acknowledgment. 119 Ind. Cas. 417=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 177.

——S. 19—Unstamped acknowledgment — Inadmissible.

An unstamped acknowledgment is inadmissible in evidence for extending limitation. 1921 P.H.C.C. 304=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 292.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Stamp—Unstamped payment—Acknowledgment.

Payments in discharge of a debt evidenced by unstamped and therefore inadmissible pronote are payments against or acknowledgments of the original debt and not on account of the pronote. 34 Ind. Cas. 417 (Mad.).

2 (c) (vi). Acknowledgment—Essentials Subsisting liability.

——S. 19—Ordinary meaning—Subsisting liability.

In the absence of anything to the contrary, when a debtor makes an acknowledgment of his liability to pay a debt, it would ordinarily mean that he was admitting a subsisting liability to pay. (1945) A.L.J. 58=1945 A.W.R. (H. C.) 22=1945 O.W.N. (H. C.) 28=A.I.R. 1945 All. 224=I.L.R. (1945) All. 120.

——S. 19—Admission of liability coupled with plea of discharge—Effect.

Where there is a statement in a document by the debtor that he was under a liability and at the same time it is coupled with a statement that he had discharged the debt, the intention of the executant must be gathered by reading the document as a whole and such a statement will not amount to an acknowledgment of a subsisting liability so as to save limitation under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 1948 M. W. N. 743=61 L. W. 786=A. I . R. 1949 Mad. 401=(1948) 2 M. L. J. 454.

——S. 19—Debt admitted but discharge stated—No acknowledgment.

The statement that there was a debt but it has been discharged is not sufficient. 42 Mad. 637, Foll.

Where there was an acknowledgment that there was a mortgage but there was no express statement that it was discharged but there was a statement that in order to pay it off a sale was effected and since the date of the sale the vendees had been in possession of the property:

Held, that the writing did not constitute acknowledgment of liability under S. 19. 78 Ind. Cas. 919=5 P. L. T. 561=A. I. R. 1924 Pat. 806.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—What will not constitute.

As an acknowledgment should be of a subsisting liability, a letter written by the defendant to the plaintiff along with a statement of account to the effect that according to the account it is the plaintiff who owed something to the defendant, cannot amount to an acknowledgment of liability by the defendant. On the other hand it is a denial of liability. 50 P. L. R. 85=A. I. R. 1948 E. P. 36.

——S. 19—Statement that creditor owes more than the debtor and calling for payment of balance due after deduction—No acknowledgment.

A letter sent by the debtor to the creditor stated: "I do not understand why you persist in sending me bills when you yourself owe me Rs. 528. Please deduct your bill from the money you owe me and send the balance of Rs. 181-8 at your earliest. It will oblige. Don't send any more bills please;"

Held, that it is not an acknowledgment of liability coupled with a claim to a set-off within S. 19, but it is one denying any liability. 100 Ind. Cas. 189=A.I.R. 1927 All. 317.

——S. 19—Mortgage decree for sale—Execution by mortgagee barred—Subsequent execution by simple money creditor by sale—Application for leave to bid—Statement admitting mortgage and expressing willingness to purchase subject to mortgage—If saves limitation.

An acknowledgment under S. 19, Limitation Act, must be an admission of some present liability of the person acknowledging corresponding to a present right in some one else. The person making an acknowledgment must, if he is not personally liable, be interested in some property which was liable for the debt in respect of which the acknowledgment is made.

Where a mortgagee's right to execute a mortgage decree for sale has become barred by limitation, a statement by a simple money decree-holder in a subsequent execution application by him to execute his decree and for leave to bid at the sale, to the effect that he would be willing to purchase the property subject to the mortgage, will not amount to an acknowledgment to save limitation for a later execution application for sale by the mortgagee. I. L. R. (1947) Bom. 827=49 Bom. L. R. 770=A. I. R. 1948 Bom. 125.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment should merely import existing liability—Oral evidence to show that acknowledgment refers to debt in suit.

Per Lokur, J.—Though the exact amount or the nature of the liability need not be disclosed by the written acknowledgment, the writing should unmistakably import that the person making the acknowledgment is then under an existing liability to the plaintiff. There is nothing in S. 19 or in the Evidence Act which precludes the letting in of other evidence (also oral) to explain to what debt a document said to be an acknowledgment necessarily refers. 47 Bom. L.R. 27=A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 200=I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 167=220 Ind. Cas. 67 (F. B.).

——S. 19—Letter acknowledging subsisting liability.

A decree was obtained by plaintiff against his brother; and a charge was kept on defendants' property. Plaintiff then assigned the decree to a stranger who sought the arrest of judgment-debtor in the execution proceedings of the decree. The judgment-debtor wrote the following letter to his brother:

"When you have the security of the property why should you send me to jail unnecessarily? Realise the amount by proceeding against the property":

Held, that the letter unmistakably shows that there was a subsisting liability and it amounts to an acknowledgment under S. 19. A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 407 =(1945) 2 M.L.J. 17.

——S. 19—Person acknowledging need not have interest at time of acknowledgment—It is sufficient if right is claimed against him. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 461: =45 Bom. L.R. 831=I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 701=211 Ind. Cas. 6.

——S. 19—If limitation is to be saved under S. 19, one must be able to read into an endorsement not merely that a payment has been made but that a further sum is admitted to be due. Bare statements of payments cannot serve as acknowledgments of a debt. (1942) 2 M.L.J. 610=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 133=55 L.W. 808=1942 M.W.N. 685=205 Ind. Cas. 546.

——S. 19—In order that an acknowledgment should be valid, it must be a conscious acknowledgment of an existing liability. A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 425=1943 O.W.N. 302=209 Ind. Cas. 604.

——Ss. 19, 21—An acknowledgment, by its very nature, must be an admission of some present liability of the person making it, corresponding to a present right in someone else.

Hence a statement made by a mortgagee relating to the original mortgage subsequent to the redemption of the mortgage by one of the co-mortgagors, cannot be regarded as an acknowledgment of any liabitity or right. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 147=21 P.L.T. 702=6 B.R. 861=19 Pat. 938=189 Ind. Cas. 855.

——S. 19—Payment of monthly allowance alal hisab.

Entries of payments towards guzara, followed by words that they are made alal hisab, i.e., on account, amount to general and unconditional acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act and would cover any arrears existing within three years of the date at which that acknowledgment was made. A.I.R. 1940 Oudh 305=1940 O.W.N. 425=1940 A.W.R. 204=15 Luck. 537=187 Ind. Cas. 624.

——S. 19—An acknowledgment, to save limitation, must either be a direct acknowledgment of the debt or an acknowledgment of such a kind that an acknowledgment of the debt is inevitably implied. An acknowledgment of a decree debt is obviously and necessarily the same as an admission that if the debt which had ripened into a decree had still been alive at the time of the acknowledgment he would have been liable. A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 826=176 Ind. Cas. 939.

——S. 19—Acknowiedgment after transfer of title.

There is nothing in the wording of S. 19 to support the contention that where the acknowledgment is made by a person from whom the defendant derives his title, it must have been made before the transfer of the title. 39 P.L.R. 21=I.L.R. (1937) Lah. 171=A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 507=170 Ind. Cas. 245.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by transferor after transfer.

For an acknowledgment under s. 19, it is enough that it was made by the party against whom the right is claimed or by some person through whom he derives title or liability. The operation of this section, in the case of acknowledgments made by some persons through whom a party derives title or liability is not confined to acknowledgments made before such title or liability was derived. 8 O.W.N. 522=7 Luck. 26=A.I.R. 1932 Oudh 314=139 Ind. Cas. 626.

——S. 19—Suit for redemption—Acknowledgment by mortgagee at the sale of his rights.

Held, that mere making of an acknowledgment does not and cannot imply that it was being made within time nor does the fact of a mortgagee having claimed the status of a mortgagee and not that of an owner estop his assignee from demanding proof from the mortgagor that the mortgage was subsisting at the time the mortgagee described himself as a mere mortgagee. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 515=37 P.L.R. 392=155 Ind. Cas. 576.

——S. 19—Admission of past liability unaccompanied by allegation of discharge.

There is no rule of law that an admission of a past liability unaccompanied by an allegation of discharge should, in all cases, be interpreted as an admission of subsisting liability. The question in each case is, is it a proper inference to draw from the facts and circumstances, that the debtor intended to make an admission that on the date it was made the debt was existing.

Where a letter from the defendant in effect was as follows: "there was on my part a past liability for a larger sum. But owing to certain claims I made, the mediators fixed my debt at a reduced amount. For that sum alone I am liable, which I am remitting";—

Held, that far from being an admission, there was distinct assertion amounting to a denial of the original amount being due and that the letter did not constitute an acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 371=68 M.L. J. 73=41 L.W, 747=(1935) M.W.N. 783=157 Ind. Cas. 259.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment coupled with refusal to pay.

Under S. 19, the words relied on, in order to constitute a valid acknowledgment, must be such as to show an existing jural relationship of debtor and creditor. An admission of a present debt coupled with a refusal to pay because parties have arranged for payment elsewhere amounts to an acknowledgment. 44 L.W. 362=(1936) M.W.N. 881=A.I.R. 1936 Mad 943=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 24=170 Ind. Cas. 288.

——S. 19—Admissions, accompanied by refusal to pay.

Explanation 1 of S. 19 is very wide in its scope. It shows that admissions, however indirect, and even if accompanied by a refusal to pay can be sufficient as acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 170=11 O. W.N. 880=153 Ind. Cas. 987.

——S. 19—Statement admitting execution of pro-note but denying consideration.

A statement admitting the execution of a promissory note but containing a clear and express denial of the receipt of consideration and, therefore, of any liability does not amount to an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 36 Bom. L. R. 334=A. I. R. 1934 Bom. 186=151 Ind. Cas. 376.

——S. 19—Where the debtor promises to execute a document which will give the creditor the right to claim payment, it cannot be held to be a promise to pay the debt. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 658=60 C. 714=37 C.W.N. 326=146 Ind. Cas. 834.

——S. 19—Mortgage of 1834—Admission in kabuliyat of 1864—Further admission by heirs of mortgagee in 1877—Suit for redemption in 1924:

Held, that the admissions in the kabuliyat in 1864 and in the plaint of 1877, were acknowledgments and as they were made when the right to sue subsisted, they saved limitation.

Whether an acknowledgment is an acknowledgment of an existing liability or not, depends upon the terms of the acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1932 Bom. 531=34 Bom. L. R. 953=139 Ind. Cas. 218.

——S. 19—An "acknowledgment of liability" may be and is generally found in a statement of facts. Thus, if in a later deed the fact is stated that there is a mortgage, it must mean that the debt secured thereby is an existing debt and the statement will amount to an acknowledgment of liability. 8 O.W.N. 541=A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 295=132 Ind. Cas. 542.

——S. 19—Answer to interrogatories in previous suit merely stating presence of entry in account-books no acknowledgment.

The answer given to one of the interrogatories in a previous suit by the firm merely stated an existing fact, namely, that there was an entry in the firm's account-books credited to the name of a certain person; a bare

Held, it was wrong to infer that an acknowledgment of an existing liability was made at the time the answer was given to the interrogatories. A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 883.

——S. 19—Admission must be distinct and of an existing liability—Not limited to a debt, can be of any property or right need not be express.

An acknowledgment must be a conscious and distinct admission of an existing liability or jural relation between the parties but there is nothing in law to require that an acknowledgment should be express. It may be implied provided the implication is a necessary implication so as to render the acknowledgment clear and unequivocal.

An acknowledgment of liability is not limited in respect of a debt. It may be in respect of any property or right which is the subject-matter of the suit, and it need not specify every legal consequence of the thing acknowledged. 104 Ind. Cas. 572=22 S. L. R. 117=A.I.R. 1928 Sind 45.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be clearly of an existing liability.

An acknowledgment under S. 19 in itself should import that the person, making the acknowledgment is then under an existing liability and such liability cannot be read into it by proof aliunde. 91 Ind. Cas. 833=21 M.L.W. 593=1925 M.W.N. 361=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 675.

——S. 19—Statement that a decree was passed does not amount to acknowledgment.

The mere statement of a fact that a decree was passed against a party, on a certain date, for a certain amount, is not an acknowledgment that that decree is capable of execution, so as to come within S. 19. It is merely a statement of a fact that a decree was passed, and not an acknowledgment that there was a present liability under the decree. 18 All. 384, Foll. 91 Ind. Cas. 833=21 M.L.W. 593=1925 M.W.N. 361=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 675.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of present liability only necessary—Promise to pay not necessary.

It is not necessary that there should be a promise to pay the amount due. All that is necessary under S. 19 of the Limitation Act is there should be an acknowledgment of the liability before the claim is barred by limitation. 85 Ind. Cas. 297=48 Mad. 693=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 261=47 M. L. J. 840.

——S. 19—New consideration or promise to pay unnecessary—Mere acknowledgment in writing—Sufficient.

All that is required by S. 19 of the Limitation Act is the acknowledgment of the existing debt. Neither new consideration nor an actual promise to pay is required. Acknowledgment alone is required. That must be in writing and signed by the defendant and the original debt can be enforced. But a new promise for a new consideration is a cause of action in itself and is in no way obnoxious to the Limitation Act. 10 Cal. 284, Foll. 79 Ind. Cas. 489=28 C. W. N. 322=50 Cal. 974=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 388.

——S. 19—Non-denial of existing debt in a written statement—Intention to represent the debt as subsisting—If can be inferred.

An admission to prevent the running of the time under the Limitation Act need not be in the full sense of the word an admission of the existence of liability at the date of the admission, if the proper inference to be drawn from the admission, which is made is that it was intended to represent the debt as then subsisting. 33 Cal. 1047, particularly at page 1059; 16 M. L. J. 30; 41 M. L. J. 217, Foll.

For the purpose of preventing the running of the statute of limitation it would be quite enough, if there was such a passing over of a certain allegation in silence in a written statement signed by the party making the admission which in law amounted to an admission; because he must be taken to know the law and therefore he would be making an admission at that time; for the purpose of limitation an admission made to some other person is sufficient.

In each case the Court has to consider the circumstances in which the statement was made that there was a debt and see whether it was really intended to convey an impression that that debt was subsistlng at the date of the statement or not; and if it can from the circumstances infer that the intention of the person making the statement was to convey the impression that the debt was still subsisting it will be justified in holding that it is an acknowledgment of subsisting liability. 77 Ind. Cas. 740=19 M.L.W. 331=33 M.L.T. 235=1924 M.W.N. 19=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 286=46 M. L. J. 1.

——S. 19—Subsisting liability—Mortgage proved but date unknown—Onus of proving acknowledgment is in time.

In a suit for redemption plaintiff set out and proved all the particulars of the mortgage excepting the date for which he mainly relied on an acknowledgment, enumerating the mortgage in detail, and mentioning that it was redeemable upon payment. There was no evidence either way as to whether this acknowledgment within 60 years of the mortgage. Held, Per Piggott and Walsh, JJ. that no inference could be drawn that the mortgage was at that date subsisting as a mortgage and was not barred by limitation; before the plaintiff could succeed upon an acknowledgment at all, he had to establish that it was made before the expiration of the period of limitation. (Per Banerji, J.) Where a mortgagee has acknowledged a mortgage, that acknowledgment is prima facie evidence until rebutted, that it was a mortgage which subsisted at the time when the acknowledgment was made and was not a mortgage which had become extinct by lapse of time. 42 All. 575=2 U.P.L.R. (All.) 187=18 A. L. J. 789=56 Ind. Cas. 986 (F. B.).

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Recital of past events—Whether acknowledgment.

Recitals of past events cannot be construed as acknowledgment of existing liability. Such a recital coupled with a statement that it was already discharged, is no acknowledgment. 20 M. 239=25 M. L. J. 259=18 A. 384, foll. 41 P.R. 1916=33 P.W.R. 1916=32 Ind. Cas. 497.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Execution—Application for order for foreclosure—Limitation—Application for certifying payments.

Where in an application by the mortgagor for cerifying payments made by instalments the decree ordering payment for redemption is mentioned as an outstanding decree, if amounts to an acknowledgment within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 38 Bom. 47=15 Bom. L. R. 930=21 Ind. Cas. 407.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Existing liability.

There must be a distinct acknowledgment of an existing liability or jural relation. 5 Bur. L. T. 81=15 Ind. Cas. 363.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Statement of liability.

A statement setting out the admission of liability in general terms, amounts to an acknowledgment. 35 Bom. 302=13 Bom. L. R. 264=10 Ind. Cas. 888.

——S. 19—Existing liability.

Acknowledgment of liability existing at a past date without any allegation that the liability has since ceased, is presumed to be an acknowledgment of a liability existing when the statement is made. 5 M.L.T. 71=2 Ind. Cas. 522.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by a preson, who, when he made the acknowledgment had no right, to the property.

S. 19 does not require that the person making an acknowledgment should have an interest in the property in respect of which the acknowledgment was made at the time when the acknowledgment was given. It is sufficient, if, before the period of limitation expired an acknowledgment of liability or right has been made in writing by the person against whom the right is claimed. (1906) A. W. N. 286=3 A. L. J. 680=29 A. 90.

2. (c) (vii). Acknowledgment—Essentials—Miscellaneous.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Validity without promise to pay.

There may be a valid acknowledgment of liability under S. 19, Limitation Act, without a promise to pay. I. L. R. (1950) Bom. 741=A. I. R. 1950 Bom. 94=51 Bom. L. R. 830.

——S. 19—Promise to pay.

An acknowledgment for the purposes of S. 19, Limitation Act, need not necessarily contain a promise to pay or amount to a promise to pay. A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 939=166 Ind. Cas. 750 (1).

——S. 19—Promise to pay not necessary—English law.

There is a fundamental difference in the theory of acknowledgment according to the law in India as compared with the law in England. In England, the acknowledgments or part payments, in order to be effective, must be such as to amount to a fresh promise to pay. Under the Indian law no promise to pay, either express or implied, is required. Therefore, the English authorities cannot afford any guidance in determining the question, which must be decided on the proper construction of the provisions of the Indian Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1932 Oudh 1 (4)= 8 O.W.N. 1160=7 Luck. 279=138 Ind. Cas. 800.

——S. 19—Section 19 is undoubtedly free from the doctrine of English Law which puts the value of an acknowledgment upon its being the equivalent of a new promise to pay. Under S. 19 there must be no doubt about the identity of the debt; and once it is clear that the defendant admits that he owes the money and it is clear what debt he has admitted, it cannot be said that it is not made to the person claiming or through whom he claims. 97 Ind. Cas. 710=30 C.W.N. 968=44 C.L.J. 529=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 1140.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment need not amount to promise to pay.

Under the Indian Law there is no necessity to show anything in the acknowledgment from which a promise to pay could be inferred. A Statement by the debtor, viz., "I executed the promissory note and the contents of the note are correct" amounts to acknowledgment of the debt under the note if there is no allegation that the note was satisfied. 70 Ind. Cas. 593=14 M.L.W. 148=1921 M.W.N. 475=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 464=41 M.L.J. 270.

——S. 19—Promise to pay—Plea of discharge.

Under S. 19 all that is necessary is an acknowledgment of liability and a promise to pay is not necessary. Neither a plea of accord and satisfaction nor a plea of denial and in the alternative that debt if due is set off against money due is an acknowledgment. (1913) M.W.N. 682=25 M.L.J, 259=21 Ind. Cas. 30.

——S. 19—Nothing short of an express promise can provide a fresh period of limitation. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 164=161 Ind. Cas. 703.

——S. 19. Expl. 1—Omission to specify exact nature of amount of liability.

Per Sen, J. (In second appeal.)—Under Expl. 1 to S. 19, Lim. Act, the omission to specify the exact nature of the amount of the liability is immaterial, or even the averment that no balance is due from the defendant. Hence the words, "you should take proper accounts and if, on taking accounts, some balance be found due from the defendant, you should absolve him from those dues" addressed to the creditor by Counsel on behalf of his debtor-client constitute a valid acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 172=I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 225=42 Bom. L.R. 262=188 Ind. Cas. 805.

See also A.I.R. 1933 Rang. 147=144 Ind. Cas. 996.

——S. 19—Need not be express—Exact nature of right need not be specified.

Section 19 does not prescribe that an acknowledgment should be express; it may be implied. Nor is it necessary that it should specify the exact nature of the right. The question as to whether there is or is not an acknowledgment is one of construction of document in which the alleged acknowledgment is contained and to construe the document is function of the Court. 6 O.W.N. 943= A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 67.

——S. 19—Acknowledging something due or may be due—If sufficient—Written admission of unsettled accounts—Sufficient.

The word "acknowledgment" is not a word of art, and ought to be construed in its plain literal sense. It need not contain an admission that a precise sum is owing, but an acknowledgment that something is, or may be due is sufficient. Any written admission by the debtor of the existence of unsettled account either with or without a promise to pay the balance, if any, due, is a sufficient acknowledgment. A statement of accounts by defendant showing a balance due from defendant to plaintiff is sufficient acknowledgment. 96 Ind. Cas. 79=21 S.L.R. 396=A.I.R. 1926 Sind 264.

——S. 19—Liability in respect of property or right—Not necessary that particular relief should be acknowledged.

It is a sufficient acknowledgment, if it is of a liability, whether pecuniary or in relation to other obligation, and is in respect of the property or right which is the subject-matter of the suit or application. The acknowledgment need not necessarily be in respect of the particular relief prayed for in a suit or application.

The word "exact" in Expl. (1) to S. 19 is intended to qualify the specification of the nature of the property or rights rather than of the properties or right itself. 60 Ind. Cas. 189=23 O.C. 176=7 O.L.J. 451=2 U.P.L.R. (J.C.) 152.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Partial—It is open to an executant of a promissory note to acknowledge a part of debt—Such acknowledgment, is good to the extent of amount acknowledged. 1936 M.W.N. 886.

——S. 19—Contained in sale-deed not intended to take effect—Still an acknowledgment.

In considering whether a particular document amounts to a proper acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, all that one has to see is whether the document contains an acknowledgment of liability in respect of the debt now sued upon. The circumstance that the acknowledgment was contained in a sale-deed executed by the debtor which was not to take effect at all or was executed with an ulterior motive is not a relevant consideration in connexion with the question arising under the Act. 125 Ind. Cas. 68=33 M.L.W. 264=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 796.

——S. 19—Legal consequences need not be acknowledged.

An acknowledgment by a judgment-debtor of the amount due by him under a mortgage decree falls under S. 19 of the Limitation Act and saves limitation for a final decree for sale. If the right itself is acknowledged, the right to take legal steps for enforcing the right need not be acknowledged. 42 Mad. 52=(1918) M.W.N. 792=35 M.L.J. 552=8 L.W. 526=24 M.L.T. 486=48. Ind. Cas. 298.

——S. 19—Legal consequences need not be acknowledged.

Reference to the mortgage and its transfer as the title under which a party holds is sufficient acknowledgment of the right to redeem within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. The legal consquences need not be acknowledged. 28 M.L.J. 266=17 M.L.T. 170=(1915) M.W.N. 105=28. Ind. Cas. 69.

——S. 19—Admission of legal consequences of right unnecessary.

An admission of a right necessarily implies the admission of the legal consequences of that right, so that when a person admits that a certain property of which he is in possession is the property of another, he admits his liability to restore it to him by implication. 19 C.W.N 263=22. Ind. Cas. 650.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment — Specification of legal consequence not necessary :—

It is not required that an acknowledgment should specify every legal consequence of the thing acknowledged. 25 I. A. 95 foll. (1902) 4 Bom. L.R. 447=26 B. 562.

2 (d) Acknowledgment—By whom

See also NOTE 4.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be by party against whom right is claimed or by person through whom he derives title.

It is not sufficient to show that an acknowledgment has been made. It has to be shown that it was made by the party against whom the right is claimed or by some person through whom he derives title or liability. 32 Cal. 1077, Appr.. 6 O.W.N. 1068=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 56.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment when effective—Purchaser subsequent to creation of charge—Acknowledgment by purchaser—Whether can save bar of limitation to execution.

The appellant, a mortgagee decree-holder was seeking to execute the decree against properties in the hands of contesting respondent, who came to be impleaded before decree as legal representative of 5th defendant in the suit. The 15th defendant was the purchaser of properties subsequent to the mortgage. In an execution filed more than 3 years from the date of the order in the last petition the appellant contended that the execution petition was saved from bar of limitation by a letter of acknowledgment passed by the 15th defendant within three years of the present petition. On the question whether the acknowledgment of purchaser of the property subsequent to the charge could be deemed binding on the charge holder or her legal representative:

Held, that as the person sought to be bound by the acknowledgment was a person who had, prior to such acknowledgment or payment, acquired an interest in the property, the acknowledgment would be not binding upon him, although he making the acknowledgment or payment, was at the time possessed of some interest or other in the properties mortgaged.

Under S. 19 of the Limitation Act, the 5th defendant or her legal representative the 22nd respondent, could not be treated as a person deriving title or liability from the 15th defendant long prior to whose purchase the charge in favour of 5th defendant had come into existence. 63 L.W. 384=A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 553=(1950) 2 M.L.J. 13.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by a person through whom title is derived—Attaching creditor, if bound by acknowledgment made by the judgment-debtor

Under S. 19, an acknowledgment must be by the party against whom such property or right was claimed, or by some person through whom he derives title or liability. It is now well-settled that an attaching creditor derives his title through the judgment-debtor and, therefore, any acknowledgment by the judgment-debtor will be deemed to be an acknowledgment by a person through whom the attaching creditor derives his title and the ackgowledgment would be a good acknowledgment against him under S. 19. (1945) A. L.J. 58=1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 22=1945 O.W.N. (H.C.) 28=A.I.R. 1945 All. 224=I.L.R. (1945) All. 120.

2 (e) Acknowledgment—To whom.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—To third person—Good evidence of debt.

As between solvent persons, an acknowledgment, express or even implied by A, that he owes money to B, is about as good evidence as could be had that A owes B that money, even if it does not, as in some circumstances it clearly does give B a fresh cause of action. A.I.R 1941 Rang. 244=198 Ind. Cas. 516.

——S. 19—Recital in deed executed to third person and addressed to him.

An acknowledgment in a deed of assignment executed by the obligor in a favour of a third person is sufficient to save limitation within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. An acknowledgment is valid even if it is addressed to a person other than the person entitled to the property. 49 Ind. Cas. 868 (Pat.).

——Ss. 19, 20 — Validity—Acknowledgment not addressed to any person.

Acknowledgments made in documents, though not addressed to any particular persons, are good acknowledgments. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 237=41 Bom. L.R. 391=183 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment addressed to dead person.

where an acknowledgment of a debt is duly signed by the acknowledgor, it will operate as a valid acknowledgment of the debt to save limitation, although it is addressed to a dead person. A. I. R. 1938 Pat. 180=4 B. R. 480=174 Ind. Cas. 779.

——S. 19—Execution of bond in favour of some persons having equal shares—Acknowledgment in favour of one—Other persons, whether entitled to benefit of S. 19.

There is a clear distinction between addressing the acknowledgment and acknowledging. In order to bring his case within limitation, the person who attempts to enforce his right must show that the acknowledgment of liability was in his favour though it need not have been addressed to him, as acknowledgment of liability to the person who is claiming relief may be addressed to another person. Consequently where an acknowledgment of liability is made in favour of only one of the obligees having equal shares, the others are not entitled to the benefit of S. 19.

And the obligee having the benefit of S. 19, is entitled to recover his share only and not the whole amount. 38 P.L.R. 855=A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 659=165 Ind. Cas.74.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of a debt, to be operative under S. 19, need not be addressed to the creditor. 7 O. W. N. 1195=A. I. R. 1931 Oudh 54=130 Ind. Cas. 347.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment to whom—Acknowledgment in document to which creditor is not a party is valid.

It is not necessary that the acknowledgment should be made in a document to which the creditor need be a party and an acknowledgment made in a document to which the creditor is not a party is a valid acknowledgment. 33 Cal. 1047, Foll. 115 Ind. Cas. 263=A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 850.

——S. 19—Not necessarily to claimant.

A general acknowledgment under S. 19 is sufficient and it is not necessary that it should be addressed to the person claiming or to somebody through whom he claims. 37 Bom. 326 (P.C.) and 16 C. W. N. 263 Appl. 97 Ind. Cas. 710=30 C. W. N. 968=44 C. L. J. 529=A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1140.

——S. 19—Recital in a deed as to subsistence of debt—Sufficient.

The acknowledgment need not be addressed to the creditor or to any one representing him. A statement contained a kobala that a certain mortgage on some of the properties comprised in the kobala is still subsisting has the effect of an acknowledgment so as to create a new period of limitation. 33 Cal. 613, Diss. from: 33 Cal. 1047 (P. C.), Foll. 91 Ind. Cas. 461=A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 686.

——S. 19—Need not be addressed to person entitled.

An admission of liability contained in an endorsement of the Sub-Registrar about admission of execution and receipt of consideration and signed by the debtor is acknowledgment within S. 19. An acknowledgment need not be addressed to the person entitled to the property or right. 33 Cal. 1047, Foll. 76 Ind. Cas. 751=A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 369.

——S. 19—Sanad register—Entry signed by Sanad holder showing him to be mortgagor—Acknowledgment—Sufficient.

Entries made in a register of Sanads, showing that the Sanad-holder is a mortgage and signed by the Sanad-holder, may be an acknowledgment within S. 19.

Explanation 1 to S. 19 does away with the necessity of the acknowledgment being addressed to the creditor. 37 Bom. 326 (P.C.), Foll. 61 Ind. Cas. 406=45 Bom. 934=23 Bom. L.R. 294=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 291.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment to whom—Government—Kist—Mortgage—Redemption—Limitation.

The acknowledgment in a receipt given as mortgagees to the Government is a sufficient acknowledgment that the interest of the persons receiving money from Government was that of mortgagees and a suit for redemption can be brought within 60 years from the date of such acknowledgment. 37 Bom. 326=17 C. W. N. 573=13 M. L. T. 415=(1913) M.W.N. 428=40 I. A. 68=25 M.L.J. 101=11 A.L.J. 432=17 C.L.J. 474=15 Bom. L. R. 483=18 Ind. Cas. 909. (P. C.) [Affirming 11 Bom. L. R. 318=2 Ind. Cas. 469.]

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of liability in sale-deed—Mortgage—Wrong date—Effect.

An acknowledgment of liability of a mortgage cannot be ruled out merely because the date of the mortgage given is not correct. An acknowledgment need not be made to the person entitled to the property or right. 11 A.L.J. 86=18 Ind. Cas. 95.

——S. 19—If must be addressed to the person entitled.

An acknowledgment to have the effect of saving limitation need not be addressed to the person entitled to the property. So where a judgment-debtor filed an insolvency petition in which he set out his debts including the one for which execution was sought. Held, that it was an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 16 C.W.N. 346=13. Ind. Cas. 603.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment to whom—Creditor.

Acknowledgment to be valid need not be addressed to the creditor. 12 C.L.J. 423=8 Ind. Cas. 788.

[Also 11 A.L.J. 86=18 Ind. Cas. 95.]

——S. 19—Amount due—Creditor—Not specified.

An acknowledgment is valid within S. 19 though it does not specify the amount due to the creditor and is not addressed to him if it does admit that he has a good and subsisting claim. 43 P.R. 1910=14 P.L.R. 1909=79 W.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 902.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by mortgagee in a sub-mortgage.

An acknowledgment of a mortgage debt in a sub-mortgage by a mortgagee is sufficient to save limitation and an acknowledgment to be effective need not necessarily be made to the person entitled. 1 Ind. Cas. 510 (All.).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment in written statement—Need not be addressed to creditor.

An acknowledgment contained in an application by the judgment-debtor by way of a written statement, wherein he said that he was unable to pay the amount then but would pay if time were given him, is a valid acknowledgment. (1908). 10 Bom. L.R. 374=32 B. 296. Also 24 M. 36.

——S. 19—Writing in sarkat—Effect of—Negotiable Instruments Act, S. 4—Stamp Act, S. 2 (22).

A writing in a sarkat or book of the creditor by the debtor to the effect "for making your account of the sarkat I will come on 22nd November, 1936, to your place and will give (make payment)", is not an unconditional undertaking to pay a certain sum of money, and does not therefore amount to a promissory note as defined in S. 4 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, or as defined by S. 2 (22) of the Stamp Act, which is more comprehensive. The writing only amounts to an acknowledgment of liability with a promise to pay the amount found due on taking accounts. I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 796=226 Ind. Cas. 568=1946 N.L.J. 622= A.I.R. 1947 Nag. 145.

——S. 19—Letter promising to pay money within certain days.

Where a debtor writes a letter to the creditor that he would pay the amount due to the latter within certain time, say eight or nine days, the acknowledgment contained in the letter saves limitation for 3 years from the date of the letter and the period or the days within which the payment is promised to be made cannot be taken into account. 1944 A.L.J. 447=1944 A.W.R. 295 (2)=1944 O.W.N. 286.

——S. 19—Debtor's letter to the effect that according to his accounts only a particular amount was due from him, amounts to acknowledgment of his full liability on the settlement of accounts. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 216= 41 P.L.R. 557.

——S. 19—The expressions, baqi dene, baqi lene, or baqi rahe, mean really the same things. Balance couched in words baqi rahe lene lekha karke written by creditor, signed by debtor and attested by witnesses, amounts to acknowledgment within Art. 1 and not to agreement within Art. 5 or to bound within Art. 15. A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 50=I.L.R. (1942) Lah. 282=44 P.L.R. 10=199 Ind. Cas. 161 (F.B.)

——S. 19—Admission of existence of open account.

Where there is an admission of the accountability by a person liable to pay to a person to whom the payment is due, an admission that the account was not settled, an expression of willingness to have it settled, and a query whether anything would be due as a result, implies an admission of liability for the amount which may be found due upon the settlement. This is sufficient to save limitation for a suit for the balance due on an account. 49 L.W 106=A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 300=(1939) M.W.N. 392=184 Ind. Cas. 108.

——S. 19—An admission of liability coupled with a declaration as regards the arrangement proposed for its satisfaction is a sufficient acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 496=(1938) M.W.N. 207=47 L.W. 351=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 450=179 Ind. Cas. 236.

——S. 19—An extension of time granted by the creditor upon the written application of the debtor will amount to an acknowledgment and will operate to save the bar of limitation. A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 391=1937 O.W.N. 719=13 Luck. 334=168 Ind. Cas. 799.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment.

An extension of time granted by the creditor upon the written application of the debtor will amount to acknowledgment and will operate to save the bar of limitation. (1902) 12 M.L.J. 351.

——S. 19—Pro-note, when amounts to acknowledgment.

Where a person executes a pro-note in favour of another and after a time, the executant sells some of his immovable property to him and asks him to appropriate the sale price in part payment of the dues under the pro-note, if the document of sale is not registered, it cannot be relied upon by the vendee to prove his title to the property. Where, however, it is relied on to serve as an acknowledgment and part payment of the executant's liability it is relied upon to serve a collateral purpose and can be relied upon to save limitation of the pro-note under S. 19 Limitation Act. It is not necessary that the actual amount due should be mentioned so long as there is an acknowledgment of liability under the promissory note in writing signed by the debtor. A.I.R; 1936 Lah. 276=162 Ind. Cas. 306.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of an unsettled account without more amounts to an acknowledgment of liability to pay whatever might be found due by either party on account being taken, and, therefore, it is an acknowledgment of liability within the terms of S. 19. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 629=17 L. 737=165 Ind. Cas. 723.

——S. 19—A distinction exists between an acknowledgment of a right to an account and an acknowledgment of a debt. For an acknowledgment of a right to an account there need not be an acknowledgment that debt or even a specified amount thereof is actually due. There need not be an express statement that the balance would be paid: the words "settle the account" indicate that the parties agree to pay whatever is found to be due on the accounts being looked into.

Where, on a dissolution of partnership, the parties entered into an agreement that there was a right to pending account between them, each having a claim to recover the balance found due on taking accounts and each agreed to pay the balance found due and to settle the accounts according to the decision of arbitrators:

Held, that the agreement constituted an acknowledgment of right to account within S. 19, Limitation Act and being an agreement between the parties for consideration, could be enforced at law. A suit for account brought within two years of the agreement would, therefore, be in time. (1936) M.W.N. 998=A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 38=169 Ind. Cas. 340.

——S. 19—Document denying and repudiating liability to pay.

Whether a particular document or letter amounts to an acknowledgment of liability or not within the meaning of S. 19 must depend upon the terms thereof. Under the Indian statute, there need not be a promise to pay, but the document in question must, on a fair reading, amount to an admission of liability, absolute or conditional, and in the latter case, the condition must be fulfilled, But where the letter or the document relied upon expressly states that there is no liability, and the liability is, in fact, denied and repudiated, limitation cannot be said to be extended under S. 19. 39 C.W.N. 139=60 C.L.J. 396=A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 255=155 Ind. Cas. 721.

——S. 19—Repudiation of liability.

The acknowledgment under S. 19 must be an acknowledgment and not repudiation of liability. 86 Ind. Cas. 228=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 8.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Repudiation.

An express repudiation, by a letter, of the plaintiff's claim coupled with a denial of existing liability is not an acknowledgment of liability under S. 19 of the Act. 11 A.L.J. 601=20 Ind. Cas. 10.

——S. 19—Two pro-notes executed by defendant in favour of plaintiff—Suit on one—Admission of execution of two pro-notes in written statement.

Two promissory notes—Suit in respect of one—Written statement admitted having executed two promissory notes but pleaded that there had been agreement between the parties by which plaintiff agreed to accept a certain sum as the amount due to him on both the pro-notes and that a part of this amount had been paid. Plaintiff subsequently sued on the other promissory note

Held, that Expl. 1 to S. 19 shows that for the purposes of that section, an acknowledgment is sufficient thought it omits to specify the exact nature of the property or right, and that the written statement was a sufficient acknowledgment. A. I. R. 1933 All. 352=144 Ind. Cas. 903.

——S. 19—Condition not fulfilled.

Where there is a promise to pay on a condition, in order that the promise may operate as an acknowledgment, that condition must be fulfilled.

Where there was a conditional promise to pay if the arbitrator found the sum to be due and the arbitration proceedings proved abortive :

Held, that the condition was not fulfilled and there was no acknowledgment which was sufficient to save limitation. A. I. R. 1934 Lah. 973=154 Ind. Cas. 687. See also A.I.R. 1933 All. 348=144 Ind. Cas. 1029.

——S. 19—Refusal of conditional offer.

When a plaintiff refuses the defendant's offer made on 'certain conditions, he cannot claim that this sum should have been decreed to him in any case, as if it had been offered unconditionally. A.I.R. 1933 All. 348=144 Ind. Cas. 1029.

——S.19—Acknowledgment, conditional, effect of.

Acknowledgment of a conditional liability will not give a fresh starting point so long as the condition remains unfulfilled. (1906) 16 M.L.J. 563=29 M. 519 = 1.M.L.T. 318.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment, conditional—Fulfilment of condition—Acknowledgment of existence of open and current account.

An acknowledgment to take the case out of the statute of limitation, must be either one from which an absolute promise can be inferred, or secondly, an unconditional promise to pay the specific debt, or thirdly, there must be a conditional promise to pay the debt, and evidence that the condition has been performed. 6 Ch. A.C. 822, 828, Foll. An unconditional acknowledgment implies a promise to pay because that is the natural inference, if nothing is said to the contrary. Where the acknowledgment consisted in the statement " that the respondent had an open and current account " with the plaintiff's predecessor in title:—Held, that the words imported an admision of liability if the balance should prove to be against the respondent coupled with the fulfilment of that condition. S. 19 only requires a definite admission of liability. An unqualified admission and an admission qualified by a condition which is fulfilled stand upon the same footing. The English and the Indian Law are the same in respect of this matter. (1906) 8 Bom. L.R. 501=4 C.L.J. 94=10 C.W.N. 874=3 A.L.J. 525=16 M.L.J. 300=33 C. 1047= 1. M.L.T. 199=33 I.A. 165 (P.C.).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment.

Where a debtor acknowledges the balance claimed by the creditor and promises to pay it after some time, it is a vaild acknowledgment. 32 Bom. L.R. 1390=128 Ind. Cas. 911= A.I.R. 1931 Bom. 74.

——S. 19—Suggestion as to compromise—Not an acknowledgment.

Suggestion made by defendant that the matter in dispute might be settled "without prejudice" cannot operate to extend limitation as it does not amount to acknowledgment of liability. 90 Ind. Cas. 135= A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 57.

——S. 19—Admitting purchase—No admission of title.

An admission that a certain party has purchased the property is not an admission that that party has acquired a good title in the property, for it is quite consistent with an assertion that the purchase was bad in law and did not operate to confer any title on the alleged purchasers. 88 Ind. Cas. 478=7 P.L.T. 9=1925 P.H.C.C. 111=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 473.

——S. 19—Admitting correctness of account—Not acknowledgment.

A letter written in reply to a letter sending a statement of account, and stating that the account sent is correct is not an acknowledgment. 39 Cal. 789 and A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 352 Foll. 91 Ind. Cas. 494=22 M.L.W. 12= 1925 M.W.N. 484=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 1215=49 M.L.J. 306.

——S. 19—Mablakbandi good acknowledgment but not promise to pay.

A Mablakbandi is not a promise to pay under S. 25 of the Contract Act capable of reviving any debt which was time-barred at the date it was made. But it is a good and valid acknowledgment under S. 19 of the Limitation Act so as to preserve any debt due and not barred at the time when the Mablakbandi was made. 78 Ind. Cas. 139=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 333.

——S. 19—Adverse possession—Bidding at auction—No acknowledgment of liability to be ousted.

Where the tenants of a landlord who were in possession of certain tanks belonging to the landlord bid at an auction in connexion with the landlord's advertisement for tenants for the tank lands:

Held, that they might have done so from various motives and their action could not be either disturbance of the adverse possession otherwise constituted, or acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19 of Limitation Act. 84 Ind. Cas. 657=40 C.L.J. 160= A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 193.

——S. 19—Promise to pay interest at certain rate—Acknowledgment—Not a pro-note.

A document was in the following terms :—

" Age rupai mau snu tumkare hamare pas jama hainge. Biyaj dar das aune sainkra denge:"

Held, that the document does not contain any unconditional undertaking to pay the principal sum of money and the only undertaking given is to pay interest at the rate of ten annas per cent., per mensem. The document clearly is an acknowledgment of a debt and not a promissory note. 78 Ind. Cas. 163=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 684.

——S. 19—Admission of debt coupled with denial of liablity.

Where the debtor's statement was : "The debt due to the creditor was a mortgage debt. It ripened into a decree. He gave me a letter that he would proceed against the mortgaged properties only and would not proceed against my person," together at the end with :—" These debts are due by me along with others, but they were paid by me alone. I therefore owe no debt to any of my creditors:"

Held, that the statement was an acknowledgment, within the meaning of S. 19. 82 Ind, Cas. 933=20 M.L.W. 562=1924 M.W.N. 877=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 856.

——S. 19—Prayer that account may be taken and settled.

In a suit for balance due on taking accounts an admission that accounts must be taken and settled is a pertinent acknowledgment though the suit as framed was for definite sum where really the suit is for an amount due on accounts. 80 Ind. Cas. 355=19 M.L.W. 683=34 M.L.T. 200=1924 M.W.N. 355= A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 619=46 M.L.J. 468.

——S. 19—Admission of execution not acknowledgment.

On the back of the note there was in the handwriting of the defendant the words " Execution admitted " and the endorsement of the Munsif showing the date:

Held, the mere fact that in some other case the defendant merely admitted the execution of the document is not an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of the section. 74 Ind. Cas. 353 =45 All. 579=21 A.L.J. 669=4 L.R.A. Civ. 315= A.I.R. 1924 All. 70.

——S. 19—Debt admitted in statement of accounts stamped and signed—Interest aud time for payment mentioned—Not acknowledgment but promise to pay.

The document executed by the defendants was in the following terms :— "Account of money, in the name of Panaullah Miji and Umer Ali Miji of Nanupur, Mokam Chandpore, amount due. Brought forward from the account of Panaulla Miji at page 24, of this book Rs, 3,535. Interest at the rate of one rupee per cent. per mensem, stipulated time for payment the month of Bhadra of the year 1318 B.S." Then followed the signatures of the executants on one anna stamp:

Held, that it sets out a promise made in writing and signed by the persons to be charged therewith to pay wholly the debt specified therein, and not an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 79 Ind. Cas. 77=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 659.

——S. 19—Failure to deliver—Oral agreement to pay damages—No acknowledgment.

Where there was a Sauda and a date fixed for delivery and defendant failed to deliver and thereafter he said he would pay damages at a certain rate:

Held, the mere fact that at a later date he said he would pay the damages could not extend the time where the cause of action had already accrued. 75 Ind Cas. 440=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 332.

——S. 19—Promise to pay if found due on comparing accounts—Not conditional on accounts being gone into.

Defendant wrote as follows in reply to the plaintiff " In case the account is compared now and any amount is due, my client is prepared to pay it. The amount mentioned in your notice is not due as per your accounts. As my client is not aware of certain amounts contained in the kaichits given to the aforesaid person, it is not possible to set right the accounts of my client. I am therefore instructed by my client that your client should be made to give forth wifh the Kaichits and accounts and on getting them compared should receive the amount found to be true."

Held, that there was sufficient acknowledgment of the liability to save limitation and it was not conditional on the accounts being gone into. 59 Ind. Cas. 898=12 M.L.W. 352.

——S. 19—Hatchitta—If effective acknowiedgment.

A hatchitta is an acknowledgment within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 33 Cal. 1047, Foll. 46 Cal. 746 =53 Ind. Cas. 854.

——S. 19—Hundi and Cheque—Payment by—Dishonour.

A payment by a cheque and a Hundi which was dishonoured on presentation do not constitute an acknowledgment within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 46 Cal. 168=27 C.L.J. 392=45 Ind. Cas. 241.

——S. 19—Dakhalnama.

The acknowledgment contained in the dakhalnama executed by defendant's predecessor is mere description of the property purchased and not an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19. 38 All. 540=14 A.L.J. 834=36 Ind. Cas. 452.

——S. 19—Promissory note for pre-existing debt.

When a Court of Wards which has power to give an acknowledgment of an existing debt authorises a promissory note to be executed, the note could in any event be used as acknowledgment of the pre-existing debt. 43 Cal. 211=34 Ind. Cas. 205.

——S. 19—Promise to remit money due.

A promise to remit money due on a particular document is a sufficient acknowledgment. 29 Ind. Cas. 36 (Mad.).

——S. 19—Mortgage debt referred to in subsequent pro-note for another debt as an extra or additional debt.

Reference in a promissory note of a debt due under a mortgage executed some years previously as an extra or additional debt amounts to an acknowledgment of that debt under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 38 Bom. 177=16 Bom. L.R. 20=23. Ind. Cas. 353.

——S. 19 and Art. 148—Receipt in Collector's books.

In 1793 a desai mortgaged with possession certain desaigiri dastur. In 1831 the Government resolved on paying a money allowance to the desai from the treasury instead of allowing him to collect from raiyats. In 1843 the persons in whom the mortgage rights were vested received the payments from the Government. The payment was entered in the Collector's books, the recipients being described as the mortgagees of the desai. To confirm this entry the mortgages signed a receipt as mortgagees.

Held, that the receipt amounted to an acknowledgment and a suit for redemption in 1901 was not barred. 37 Bom. 326=40 I.A. 68=17 C.W.N. 573=13 M.L.T. 415=(1913) M.W.N. 428=11 A.L.J. 432=17 C.L.J. 474=15 Bom. L.R. 483=25 M.L.J. 101=18 Ind. Cas. 909 (P.C.) [Affirming 11 Bom. L.R. 318=2 Ind. Cas. 469.]

——S. 19—Sarkhat.

Deft. executing a Sarkhat for fresh loans and admitting the previous claims of the plff. and agreeing to pay a certain rate of interest is deemed to have made a fresh contract and not merely acknowledged the barred debt. 5 Ind. Cas. 418 (All.).

——S. 19—Admission of liability to pay interest,

Admission of liability to pay interest in subsequent bonds on a previous mortgage amounts to an acknowledgment of liability. 25 Cal. 844, 54 Ind Cas. 985, Foll. 2 Lah. L.J. 549.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Agreement to pay in instalments.

An agreement under which the defendants accept the accuracy of the accounts and agree to pay the debt in certain instalments with interest, the defendents not being able to pay interest on the original debt, gives a fresh cause of action. 4 Ind. Cas. 38=5 M.L.T. 351 19 M.L.J. 372=32 M. 284.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment.

Where A sends a bill to B, and B writes in reply that he will examine the same and see if anything is due by him to the former, such a reply would not be a sufficient acknowledgment within S. 19. Where plaintiff, a oontractor and builder, wrote to defendant enclosing a bill for repairs and work done on defendant's premises, and the defendant in reply sent a memo. in the following terms:—"Received from Babu Joggessur Roy a letter and bill for the works and repair done in the garden-house situated at No. 15-3, Gopal Lal Tagore's Road, Baranagore. The bill glanced over is incorrect; large amounts have been wrongly introduced, I will first have the work examined, although I know that the whole of the work is not yet finished. Then I will examine the estimates and after deducting what has to be deducted, I will see what is due." Held, that the memo. of the defendant did not constitute an acknowledgment as contemplated by S. 19. (1903) 8 C.W.N. 168=31 Cal. 195.

——S. 19 (1)—Acknowledgment.

The plaintiff delivered to defendants 200 cases of oil for carriage from Bombay to Jeddah. The steamer reached Jeddah on the 11th July 1900, where the defendant's agents delivered only 165 cases and granted to the consignee a certificate that 35 cases were short delivered. On the 15th November 1900 plaintiff, on receiving this certificate, made a claim in writing to the defendants. in Bombay. On the 18th July, 1901 the defendants, at plaintiff's request, wrote to their Jeddah agent for the 35 cases and handed up the letter to plaintiff for being forwarded to Jeddah. On the 20th December, 1902 they again wrote to their Jeddah agent for the cases and entrusted the letter to plaintiff to be despatched to Jeddah. On the 28th January, 1902, plaintiff sued defendants for damages for non-delivery of the 35 cases Held, that the certificate and the two letters contained acknowledgment of liability. (1902) 4 Bom. L.R. 447=26 B. 562.

3. Admission.

(a) In arbitration proceedings.
(b) In court.
(c) In letters:
(d) In settlement records.

3 (a). Admission—In arbitration proceedings.

——S. 19—Admission of liability contained in agreement of reference to arbitration—Whether amounts to acknowledgment.

Where an agreement of reference to arbitration contains an unqualified admission of the fact that the defendants purchased from the plaintiff goods and that a difference cropped up in the account in respect of those dealings, the legal effect of such an admission is that whoever on account should be shown to be the debtor is bound to pay the debt to the other. The admission is not subject to a condition that the defendants would be liable only if the liability is ascertained by the arbitrators. It therefore amounts to an acknowledgment of liability within the terms of S. 19 of the Limitation Act and affords a fresh starting point of limitation quite independently of the settlement of accounts by the arbitrators for purposes of a suit instituted after the failure of the arbitration proceedings. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 477=1947 N.L.J. 417 =A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 334.

——S. 19—Recitals in reference to arbitration.

An acknowledgment in a reference to arbitration admitting liability to pay a debt extends the period of limitation even though the reference may prove infructuous. A.I.R. 1939 Sind 113=I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 693=181 Ind. Cas. 596.

——S. 19—Reference to arbitration implying promise to pay in case liability is found out.

A reference to arbitration implying a promise to pay in the event of the arbitrator deciding that there is a liability is not the same thing as unconditional promise to pay. It is, if anything, a promise to pay coupled with a condition, and unless that condition is fulfilled, that is to say, unless something is found by the arbitrator to be due, it will not operate to give a fresh start to limitation. A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 616=4 B.R. 89=171 Ind. Cas. 946.

——S. 19—Reference to arbitration—Recitals—Non-denial of liability.

Recitals in a reference to arbitration to settle partnership accounts and not denying any liability to pay under it amount to an acknowledgment to render account in Court to pay what is paid due, although the reference proves infructuous. 3 S.L.R. 53, Foll. 104 Ind. Cas. 572=22 S.L.R. 117=A.I.R. 1928 Sind 45.

——S. 19—May be absolute or conditional—Mortgage of joint family—Members of family disputing liability but agreeing to be bound by decision of arbitrator—Agreement to refer and award amount to acknowledgment of mortgage debt.

An acknowledgment to take a case out of the Statute of Limitations must be either one from which an absolute promise to pay can be inferred, or secondly an unconditional promise to pay the specific debt or thirdly there must be a conditional promise to pay the debt and evidence that the condition has been performed. 33 Cal. 1047, Rel. on.

Where there was a mortgage of the joint family property, and the members of the joint family were disputing among themselves as to the liability and all of them were ready to undertake to discharge the liability if it were found by the arbitrators to be existing:

Held, an agreement to refer to arbitration the dispute and the award thereon would amount to an acknowledgment of mortgage debt. 102 Ind. Cas. 181=49 All. 801=25 A.L.J. 526=A.I.R. 1927 All. 488.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Arbitration—Reference.

Where the parties to an abihalnama acknowledged that accounts remained unadjusted which the arbitrators were to adjust and each party agreed that he would pay such amounts as might be found due from him on adjustment of accounts. Held, that this was suffi cient acknowledgment. It is not necessary that the acknowledgment should be addressed to any particular persons and it is a sufficient acknowledgment even if it be accompanied by a refusal to pay. 23 C.W.N. 921=53. Ind. Cas. 898.

——S. 19—Conditional acknowledgment.

A request to leave partnership accounts to arbitration and to accept its award is only a conditional acknowledgment of liability. It will not save the period of limitation under S. 20 if the arbitration fails and consequently there is no award. 37 M.L.J. 353=48 Ind. Cas. 89.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Arbitration—Reference.

Admission of the existence of relationship of creditor and debtor is necessary for an acknowledgment under S. 19. A reference to arbitration is not such relationship. A promise to pay on condition is a conditional acknowledgment which operates only on fulfilment of the condition. 40 Mad. 701=4 L.W. 48=20 M.L.T. 129=31 M.L.J. 231=35 Ind. Cas. 575.

——S. 19—Award—Acceptance.

Acceptance of an award directing the parties to share equally the outstandings and amounts found payable in the accounts of the partnership is not an acknowledgment of liability under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 28 Ind. Cas. 864 (Mad.).

3 (b) Admission—In court.

——S. 19—Judgment-debtor admitting his liability in answer to application for making final decree—Effect.

Where in answer to an application by the decree-holder for making a final decree in mortgage suit, the judgment-debtor applies for instalments admitting his liability under the decree, the admission is an acknowledgment of liability under S. 19 of the Limitation Act, and if it is consciously made of a subsisting liability a fresh period will start from the date when that acknowledgment is made. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 683=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 308=1947 N.L.J. 502.

——S. 19—A statement that in view of the fact that all mortgage property has not yet been sold, the application for the preparation of a personal decree under O. XXXIV, R. 6, Civil P.C, is premature does not amount to acknowledgment within S. 19, Limitation Act. 1943 O.W.N. 352=A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 453=19 Luck. 279=209 Ind. Cas. 129.

——S. 19—Application to Debt Conciliation Board including decretal debt in list of claims—If amount to acknowledgment.

An application by the debtor under S. 6 (1) of the C.P. Debt Conciliation Act which includes in the list of claims against him a decretal debt with reference to the number of the decree amounts to an acknowledgment of liability in respect of that debt under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 493=225 Ind. Cas. 340=1946 N.L.J. 368=A.I.R. 1946 Nag. 344.

——S. 19—Composition deed filed in insolvency.

A deed of composition filed in Insolvency Court signed by the insolvent and his creditors, held amounted to acknowledgment of debts specified in the deed. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 327=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 173=55 L.W. 108=1942 M.W.N. 81=201 Ind. Cas. 782.

——S. 19—An entry of decretal debt in the list of creditors signed by the debtor in an application to the Official Assignee amounts to an acknowledgment within S. 19, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 210 (1)=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 523=44 C.W.N. 322=188 Ind. Cas. 280.

——S. 19—Mention of decree-debt in statemen of insolvent.

The inclusion of a decree-debt in an insolvency petition signed by the debtor amounts to an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. Similarly, the mention of the decree-debt in a statement made by the insolvent at an examination made for the purpose of ascertaining his assets and liabilities and the reference to the decree-debt without mentioning any payment towards its discharge amounts to an implied admission that the decree was than subsisting. A.I.R 1933 Mad. 565=38 L.W. 204=1933 M.W.N.1303= 143 Ind. Cas. 681.

——S. 19—Schedule of Creditors—Signed by insolvent—Amount stated to be due—Valid acknowledgment.

Where the executants of a pro-note are adjudged insolvents and they file a schedule of creditors signed by them in which the payee of the note is described as one of the creditors and a certain amount is stated therein to be due to him, there is a valid acknowledgment of liability in respect of the amount. A.I.R. 1928 Rang. 326, Foll.: 117 Ind. Cas. 571=A.I.R. 1928 Rang. 327.

——S. 19—Signing schedule mentioning debt acknowledgment.

The mention of the debt and the signing of the schedules operates as an acknowledgment under the provisions of S. 19. 117 Ind. Cas. 570=6 Rang. 533=A.I.R. 1928 Rang. 326.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Inclusion in schedule filed by insolvent.

S. 19. is much wider and more comprehensive than the English law, and includes every case in which the debtor has acknowledged and signed in writing even though the acknowledgment may not have been to the creditor or may have been accompanied, by a refusal to pay. The inclusion by an insolvent debtor of a debt in his schedule which is signed by him is an acknowledgment. 35 Bom. 383= 13 Bom. L.R. 123=9 Ind. Cas. 944.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Insolvency petition—Statement by one of the judgment-debtors.

If one of several judgment- debtors in a joint decree acknowledges in a petition of insolvency the existence of the several pecuniary claims against him, the decree-holder gets a fresh starting point against that particular judgment-debtor to the extent of the amount stated in the petition of insolvency. 10 C.W.N. 551, Not Foll. 14 Ind. Cas. 1 (Cal.).

——S. 19—Application to Court time for payment.

A new starting point for limitation arises when the udgment-debt applies for time for payment. (1941) 22 P.L.T. 416.

——S. 19—Mortgage decree made final-Judgment-debtor transferring portion of property—Decree holder applying for injunction—Admission by judgment-debtor of existence of mortgage decree:

Held, that the statement of the judgment-debtor admitting the existence of the decree amounted to an admission of subsisting liability and was, therefore, an acknowledgment made within limitation. Consequently, the decree-holder's application was saved from being barred by time. A.I.R. 1939 All. 483=(1939) A. L. J. 746=I.L.R. (1939) All. 728=1939 A. W. R. 640=183 Ind. Cas. 685 (D.B.).

——S. 19—Admission before Registrar.

Upon a presentation of a document for registration, the executants not only admit the fact of its execution but also the contents of the documents, viz., their liability upon it. So, where a person admits before the Registrar execution of a mortgage bond which recites the debt due, his acknowledgment of liability is implied and is sufficient to save limitation. A. I. R. 1938 Mad. 429=(1938) M.W.N. 113=182 Ind. Cas. 355.

——S. 19—Admission of execution before Sub-Registrar.

Admission of execution by the executant of a mortgage-deed before the Sub-Registrar will amount to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19, if, from the surrounding circumstances, an acknowledgment of liability is necessarily implied in uch admission.

Except where a benami transaction is suggested, the admission of execution before a Sub-Registrar within 4 moths after the execution of the document is to make the document operative. It will be the strongest case where a man is anxious to admit his liability. 38 L. W. 439=A. I. R. 1933 Mad. 713=65 M. L. J. 380=(1933) M. W. N. 1046=57 M. 43=145 Ind. Cas. 654.

——S. 19—Pro-note in consideration of previous loan granted on pro-note—Both pro-notes insufficiently stamped, hence inadmissible—Suit on original loan—Suit barred by time:

Held, that in view of the admissions by defendant in his written statement, the receipt for Rs. 400, dated August 4, 1931, constituted on acknowledgment of liability in respect of the loan advanced on August 10, 1928, and had the effect of extending the period of limitation under S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 1937 O.W.N. 622=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 387=13 Luck. 376=168 Ind. Cas. 927.

——S. 19—Where, in a suit instituted for recovery of money due on various promissory notes executed by the same defendant, the defendant files a written statement wherein he admits the execution of the promissory notes but alleges that he had made several repayments in respect of several promissory notes, the statement amounts to an admission that all the pro-notes were at least in part undischarged at the date of filing the written statement. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 721=40 C.W.N. 132=63 C. 512=159 Ind. Cas. 618.

——S. 19—Where the vendor brings a suit on the pro-note delivered to him by the purchaser for payment of the price of the goods, acknowledging the title of the purchaser, a suit brought within 3 years of that acknowledgment is within time. 1934 M.W.N. 1291.

——S. 19—Pleadings, statemets in—How for will constitute acknowledgment.

A died leaving a widow, a daughter married to B and a pre-deceased son's widow C. The widow gifted half the land to B. Certain reversioners brought a declaratory suit and it was decided that the alienation did not bind the reversioners. On the death of widow, the reversioners sued for possession of the house and for a declaration regarding the land of which they were already in possession. B contested the suit on a plea which succeeded, namely, that the reversioners could not sue for possession in the presence of C, the pre-deceased son's widow who was a preferential heir. C also filed a rent suit against the reversioners and in the written statement to this suit, C admitted the correctness of the plaint. The suit of the reversioners having been dismissed, C brought a suit for possession of the land which was gifted to B by A's widow. The suit was prima facie time-barred but it was contended that B's pleading in the suit by the reversioner and in C's rent suit constituted acknowledgments which extended the period of limitation:

Held, (i) that so far as the suit of the reversioners was concerned, B merely pleaded jus tertii to defeat the suit and this did not constitute acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act;

(ii) that so far as C's rent suit was concerned, she was a co-owner with B who merely stated that he did not object to her getting a decree for the whole amount of rent and that this also was not an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19.

Limitation must be dependant to some extent on the form and substance of the suit. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 491=34 P.L.R. 841=145 Ind. Cas. 343.

——S. 19—Claim dismissed as barred—Subsequent admission in written statement in partition suit—Award on arbitration on the claim accepted—Sufficient promise tod ay.

Plaintiff sued for return of Rs. 500 deposited with defendant 1 and the father of defendant 2. Plaintiff's suit was dismissed on the ground of limitation. In a suit for partition which was instituted by the mother of defendant 2, as his next friend a written statement was put in by defendant 1, in which he admitted this deposit by the plaintiff. In the partition suit the matter was referred to arbitration and an award was made on 10th September, 1924, by which the liability of defendants 1 and 2 was declared in equal shares with regard to what ever was the deposit made by the plaintiff. That award was accepted by a petition to which both defendant 1 and the mother of defendant 2 were parties:

Held, that the written statement coupled with the award and joint petition amounted to a promise by defendant 1 to pay the debt. 115 Ind. Cas. 263=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 850.

——S. 19—Written Statement.

A acknowledgment in a prior written statement of the delivery of certain articles in sufficient to save limitation in a suit for the recovery of its price. 25 C. 844, Foll. 6 M. 182, not Foll. 6 M.L.T. 155=19 M.L.J. 650=3 Ind. Cas. 19.

——S. 19—Prior written statement—Suit dismissed for misjoinder of causes of action—Written statement treated as acknowledgment.

Where a suit was dismissed for misjoinder of causes of action, in a later suit the Court treated the defendant's written statement in the first suit as an acknowledgment under S. 19 from the date on which the period of limitation should be calculated. (1900) 24 M. 361.

——S. 19—Where a judgment-debtor applied to the Court that a letter of the decree-holder, to the effect that there was a settlement between the parties that no further execution should be taken out in respect of the money due under the decree until a specified date, should be placed on the record:

Held, that the letter could not be construed otherwise than as an acknowledgment that the applicant was a judgment-debtor and that the decree was unsatisfied, and that this was a sufficient acknowledgment to satisfy the requirements of S. 19, Limitation Act. (1933) A. L. J. 256=A. I. R. 1933 All. 364=55 A. 393=146 Ind. Cas. 836.

——S. 19—Entry in dakhalnama filed in execution proceeding against mortgagors.

A suit for redemption of a mortgage was instituted more than sixty years after the date of mortgage. The plaintiff relied on an acknowledgment contained in a dakhalnama filed in Court in an execution proceeding against the mortgagors where, after describing what property the auction-purchasers had purchased, they expressly stated that that property did not include an 8 bighas and odd area which was in their possession as mortgagees and which belonged to the mortgagor's representatives :

Held, that thereby, the mortgagees clearly admitted that they were in possession of the area belonging to specific persons as mortgagees and there was, therefore, the necessary implication that the mortgage was subsisting and they were in possession as mortgagees, and that it was a valid acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. (1932) A.L.J. 1010=A.I.R. 1933 All. 99=142 Ind. Cas. 784.

——S. 19—A proprietor to whom the estate had been released and made over under the Chota Nagpur Encumbered Estates Act made a gift of a portion of the estate to his wife in 1909 without the sanction of the Commissioner and delivered possession to her. In 1916, the wife filed a petition to the Commissioner referring to the gift and requesting that the Commissioner may be pleased to sanction the gift or order a fresh grant on the same terms to be executed. The donor died in 1924 and his grandson filed a suit for possession in 1924 against the widow and her transferees :

Held, that the petition filed by the wife contained a clear acknowledgment of the title of her husband within the meaning of S. 19. 9 O.W.N. 43=36 C.W.N. 250=A.I.R. 1932 P.C. 55=35 L.W. 217=(1932) A.L.J. 186=55 C.L.J. 136=62 M.L.J. 296=34 Bom. L.R. 463=13 P.L.T. 279=11 Pat. 272=(1932) M.W.N. 660=59 I.A. 130=136 Ind. Cas. 798 (P.C.).

——S. 19—Deposition in Court—Acknowledgment may be inferred from.

Per Ramesam, J.—An acknowledgment in a deposition need not be express and may be a matter of inference. It can be implied from the facts and the surrounding circumstances and not implied as a mater of law.

Per Reilly, J.—When the admission of a liability in the past is made in a deposition given in Court, the Court must be particularly careful to consider whether the witness had an opportunity of denying the continuance of the liability.

Plaintiff (vendor) sued for the recovery of a part of purchase money unpaid. In a previous suit there was a contention that the sale was a nominal one and the defendant (vendee) in order to make out a case that the sale was real transaction for consideration, stated : "I was directed to pay Rs. 6,000 to defendant's mother Seethalakshmi Ammal in Exhibit B. I executed a pronote in her favour on the date of Exhibit B immediately after Exhibit B was written and delivered the said pronote to Subbarama Aiyar. I owed Rs. 6,000 more under Exhibit B:"

Held, that the statement amounted to an acknowledgment of subsisting liability. 100 Ind. Cas. 10=50 Mad. 548=25 M.L.W. 411=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 219=51 M.L.J. 856.

Deposition containing an admission may amount to an acknowledgment for the purpose of S. 19, if it is signed by the deponent. 194 P.W.R. 1911=151 P.L.R. 1911=10 Ind. Cas. 142.

——S. 19—Statement made and signed before a Judge.

An acknowledgment in a statement made and signed before a Judge in a suit, is sufficient within S. 19. 33 C. 1047 (P.C.), Foll. 35 All. 437=11 A.L.J. 638=20 Ind. Cas. 27.

——S. 19—Application.

An application signed by the widow of the deceased mortgagor distinctly admitting the mortgage constitutes an acknowledgment under S. 19. 191 P.W.R. 1911=75 P.R. 1911=152 P.L.R. 1911=10 Ind. Cas. 147.

3. (c) Admission—In letters.

——S. 19—Letters by debtor asking to send accounts.

In his first letter, the debtor made a request to send to him a complete statement of accounts. In the second letter, the debtor acknowledged the receipt of some sort of accounts and demanded further particulars and incidentally admitted the liability to pay interest. In the third letter, the debtor again said that the creditor should send him particulars of the net amount due and the interest charged thereon specifying the rate at which interest had been charged. The last letter said that the debtor wanted the name of each of his creditors from whom the plaintiff creditor had borrowed money for the debtor with particulars of the account payable to each such creditor so that payment of the debts could be made. A specific request was added when the letter said "Please also write the amount of money due to you" :

Held, that the letters were acknowledgments within the meaning of S. 19 and saved limitation. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 65=215 Ind. Cas. 30.

——S. 19—A debtor wrote a letter to his creditor informing him that he had arranged with his debtor that the money due from him be despatched by money-order to the creditor and that he, too, was sending money in two or four days :

Held, that the debtor acknowledged that money was due from him and the acknowledgment was in respect of his total liability to the creditor on the date on which the letter was written, and it was not necessary for the debtor to specify any particular item. 1939 A.W.R. 6=(1939) A.L.J. 2=A.I.R. 1939 All. 179=180 Ind Cas. 542.

——S. 19—Creditor's letter stating amount due—Reply by debtor's secretary that arrears would be paid in a certain month.

In a letter, the creditor stated that a sum of money was due to him under accounts and the secretary of the debtor replied that he had been directed to intimate that all arrears under accounts would be paid by a certain month :

Held, that it was a statement by a duly authorised agent and constituted an acknowledgment of liability under S. 19, and saved limitation. 11 O.W.N. 880=A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 170=153 Ind. Cas. 987.

——S. 19—Letter—Inevitable deduction from admission is acknowledgment—Doubtful on which side balance would lie sufficient acknowledgment.

If from the letter it appears that inevitable deduction from the admission is that the party against whom money is claimed acknowledged his liability to pay his debts if the balance should be ascertained to be against him the statement is sufficient acknowledgment. Even where it is doubtful on which side the balance would lie the statement is sufficient acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 124 Ind. Cas. 24=A.I.R. 1930 All. 124.

——S. 19—Banker and customer—Letter forwarding bills against overdraft—Sufficient acknowledgment.

Where defendants who carried on business in partnership opened an overdraft account with the plaintiff bank and it was arranged that each partner was eligible to sign cheques in the firm's name and the bank agreed to advance money to enable the defendants to purchase materials and on receipt of bills given on payment for goods supplied to customers would collect the same on commission and deduct the same balance from the overdraft, a letter forwarding such bills with request to credit amount to sender's account is sufficient acknowledgment of the debt or payment of the principal. 56 Cal. 556=33 C.W.N. 412=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 714.

——S. 19 -Letter assuring payment.

A letter written by a debtor to the creditor's brother recited: "There is no use creating unnecessary hitch, because I would pay and you would receive the balance, paying and dying cannot be avoided:"

Held, that the letter was a sufficient acknowledgment within S. 19. 33 Cal. 1047 (P.C.) and 10 Mad. 259, Foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 617=30 Bom. L.R. 688.

——S. 19—Promise to pay if found due on comparing accounts.

A statement contained in a letter that, if upon a comparison of accounts any amount is found due by the writer of the letter he is prepared to pay it, is a sufficient acknowledgment of liability under S. 19, Limitation Act. 33 Cal. 1047 (P.C.) and 12 M.L.W. 352, Foll. 107 Ind. Cas. 533=7 Pat. 238=A.I.R. 1928 Pat. 221.

——S. 19—Letter asking copy of account showing amount due.

Where, in a letter to writer definitely asked the plaintiff to send a copy of the account showing what amount was due by him to the plaintiff:

Held, that it was an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 33 Cal. 1047 and 1 Lah. 357, Foll. 101 Ind. Cas. 544=28 P.L.R. 169=9 L.L.J. 146=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 832.

——S. 19—Letter stating that arrears have not been paid because accounts have not been made up.

A letter written by the agent of debtors stating that the arrears have not been paid up for the sole reason that the accounts have not been settled is an acknowledgment that accounts have to be settled and that the arrears found to be due, upon settling accounts, will then be paid up. Such acknowledgment is enough to extend limitation within S. 19. 91 Ind. Cas. 338=22 M.L.W. 195=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 1260.

——S. 19—Admission of running account—Promise to pay if found due on comparing accounts.

The writer admitted the existence of a running account between the parties and went on to say that his representatives would compare accounts and pay what was found to be due:

Held, that the words were a clear admission of liability, within the meaning of S. 19. 33 Cal. 1047, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 985=23 A.L.J. 248=6 L.R.A. (Civ.) 301=A.I.R. 1925 All. 340.

—S. 19—Co-sharers—Letter by one to the other calling for payment of his share of expenses—Acknowledgment of title.

Where one co-sharer in possession called by letter on the other co-sharer out of possession to pay his share of the moneys expended on repairs or surrender his interests in the house.

Held, that the letter amounted to an acknowledgment and his possession could not be said to be adverse till the date of the acknowledgment. 79 Ind. Cas. 279=5 L.L.J. 47.

——S. 19—Debtor asking for account—Condition of acknowledgment.

The cash-keeper of a fund wrote to the manager thus; "If you write to me in detail as to how much is payable by me to the said Nidhi obtaining the orders of the higher authorities and communicate to me a copy of the order together with the aforesaid account, I am willing to pay accordingly."

Held, this was not a conditional acknowledgment of liability by the cash-keeper but was sufficient to keep the liability alive as against him. 10 L.W. 586=58 Ind. Cas. 446.

——S. 19 and Arts 30 and 31—Suit for damages—Misdelivery of goods—Letter repudiating liability.

In an action for damages for non-delivery of goods by a Railway Company, plaintiff relied on a letter by the Railway Company stating that the delivery of the goods under an indemnity bond was perfectly correct and that his claim, was against the person to whom the goods had been delivered and not the Railway. Held, that the letter relied upon by the plaintiff from the Railway contained no acknowledgment of liability under S. 19 of the Limitation Act, but, on the contrary, amounted to a denial of liability. 13 S.L.R. 1=51 Ind. Cas. 570.

——S. 19—Essentials of acknowledgment—Letter.

A letter admitting dues on settlement of accounts is an acknowledgment. 12 Ind. Cas. 410 (Mad.).

——S. 19—Reply asking for detail bill.

A reply by a customer to a tradesman to his bill with the words "accounts rendered," that detailed accounts be sent, does not amount to an acknowledgment. A debtor's letter in reply to a creditor's letter of demanding a definite sum of money, asking for a copy of accounts or their inspection does not amount to an acknowledgment. 36 Mad. 68=10 M.L.T. 251=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 225=21 M.L.J. 1024=12 Ind. Cas. 378.

——S. 19—Letter.

Letter by debtor to creditor requesting him to object to sale of debtor's property attached by another creditor and stating that his property is mortgaged to him amounts to acknowledgment. 75 P.W.R. 1909=52 P.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 102.

3. (d) Admission—In Settlement records.

——S. 19—Entries in the khewat of the settlement evidencing acknowledgment of status as mortgagees.

Entries in the khewat of the second settlement evidencing an acknowledgment on the part of the predecessors of the appellants of their status as mortgagees vis-a-vis the predecessors-in-interest of the respondents as mortgagors, are enough to constitute a valid acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act where the accuracy of the entries have been accepted, signed, verified and attested at the foot of it by the parties concerned. 1948 O.W.N. 87=A.I.R. 1948 Oudh 257=1948 A.W.R. (C.C.) 83.

——S. 19—Entries in khewat of 1878 showing mortgagees to be in possession mentioning amount and stating that mortgage was redeemable at Dasehra in Jeth—Entries attested by mortgagors and mortgagees or their representatives.

Held, that entries did not save limitation. A.I.R. 1943 All. 393=(1943) A.L.J. 548=1943 A.W.R. 291=I.L.R. (1944) All. 76=212 Ind. Cas. 238 (F.B.).

Overrules—(1) A.I.R. 1929 All. 209=115 Ind. Cas. 451. (2) 1 A. 425. (3) 5 Ind. Cas. 77. (4) 1 A. 117 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Signed statement mentioning mortgagee in pedigree table and wajib-ul-arz—Sufficient acknowledgment.

Evidence of a statement mentioning the mortgage in a pedigree of the co-sharers of a village which was the subject of mortgage, signed by the mortgagees, and of an entry signed by them in the village wajib-ul-arz, duly verified before a Settlement Officer, the pedigree and wajib-ul-arz both forming part of the settlement record, satisfies all the essentials of a valid acknowledgment required by S. 19. 105 Ind. Cas. 93=4 O. W. N. 882=A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 457.

——S. 19—Statement in Settlement Report

A statement of the existence of a mortgage contained in Settlement Report thirty years old and purporting to have been signed by the mortgagor and coming from proper custody is an acknowledgment within S. 19. 15 A.L.J. 121=38 Ind. Cas. 162.

——S. 19 and Art. 148—Entry in a Settlement Record of mortgagor's right to redeem.

——S. 19—Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Co-mortgagee.

Signature on Wajib-ul-arz referring to the Khewat, by a mortgagee is not sufficient acknowledgment of mortgagor's title. The acknowledgment by one mortgagee does not bind other co-mortgagees. 8 A.L.J. 605 =10 Ind. Cas. 238.

——S. 19—Entries in Wajib-ul-arz.

Entries in wajib-ul-arz signed by a party to the effect that a certain mortgage was to be redeemed in the month of Jeth of any year, operates as acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 5 Ind. Cas. 77 (All).

(f) Limited owner.

(j) Onus of proof.

4. (a) Authority to acknowledge—Agent.

——S. 19, Expl. II—"Duly authorised on this behalf" authorisation, if must be in writing.

The words "duly authorised on this behalf" in Expl. II to S. 19, Limitation Act, do not connote that such authorisation must be in writing. A.I.R. 1950 Ajmer 4 (2).

——Ss. 19 and 47 (a)—Authority to acknowledge—Duly authorised agent.

'Duly authorised in that behalf' do not mean specially or expressly authorised, but the words correctly apply to an agent acting within the scope of his powers, ordinary or special. 55 P.R. 1910=136 P.L.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 948.

——S. 19—Agent—Letter written at desire of debtor or by general agent having no special power to make acknowledgment.

A letter written by the general agent of the debtor at his desire, is a valid acknowledgment. The fact that he had no authority under the mukhtarnama to make the acknowledgment is immaterial when the letter is written at the desire of the debtor so as to give authority independently of the mukhtarnama. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 254=1941 O.W.N. 108=1941 A.W.R. 70=16 Luck. 701=192 Ind. Cas. 885.

——S. 19—Agent.

Where a letter acknowledging debt is written by a person at the instance of and on the instructions given by the debtor and the debtor has got it duly posted to the address of the creditor, these circumstances clearly indicate that the writer had been duly authorised to make the acknowledgment. 18 Pat. 715=20 P.L.T. 927=A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 6=6 B.R. 312=186 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 19—Letter by general agent.

A letter written by a general agent of the debtor at the desire of the debtor within the period of limitation is an acknowledgment. 100 Ind. Cas. 784=4 O.W.N. 275=A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 613.

——S. 19—General agent—Presumption of authority.

It is unquestionable that no valid acknowledgment can be made by a general agent unless he is expressly or impliedly authorised in that behalf; but the authority may be presumed from the attendant circumstances. The question of authority in each case is one of fact or any inference to be drawn from the surrounding circumstances. 85 Ind. Cas. 633=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 736=A.I.R. 1925 All. 176.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Person having general authority to settle claim.

An agent who had general authority to settle the purchase price of the goods and thus could pay the amount of the claim could plainly also arrange to prevent time from becoming a bar to it. 24 C.W.N. 153=2 U.P.L.R. (P.C.) 1=55 Ind. Cas. 543 (P.C.).

——S. 19—Usually writes letters for principal—If authorised agent.

The mere fact that the defendant used to write letters on behalf of his principal is not sufficient in law to enable the Court to infer that he was an authorised agent for the purpose of making an acknowledgment of liability. 80 Ind. Cas. 6=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 638=22 A.L.J. 807=46 All. 892=A.I.R. 1924 All. 855.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Agent—Contract Act (9 of 1872), Ss. 208 and 209.

A had dealings with B's firm. C being the gumasta with whom A transacted his business. An acknowledgment of a debt was made by C to A shortly after B's death, but before A had knowledge of it:

Held, that it was a proper acknowledgment C being B's agent for A. 35 Bom. 302=13 Bom. L.R. 264=10 Ind. Cas. 888.

4. (b) Authority to acknowledge—Co-heirs.

——Ss. 19, 20—Co-heirs—Mortgage by deceased Muhammadan—Acknowledgment by one heir, if saves limitation against other.

An admission of liability contained in a deed executed by the debtor in favour of a third person is a valid acknowledgment under S. 19, Limitation Act, and it is not necessary for its validity that it should be addressed or communicated to the creditor. Hence an admission of liability in respect of the mortgage debt by the mortgagor in a sale-deed transferring the equity of redemption in favour of a third person constitutes a valid acknowledgment under S. 19.

A deceased Muhammadan mortgagor held a 14 annas share in the equity of redemption. Some of his heirs made acknowledgments of liability in the sale-deeds transferring their equity of redemption. But the remaining two annas sharer did not part with his share. The mortgagor instituted a suit on the mortgage and claimed that acknowledgments saved time against the two annas sharer as well:

Held, that since the parties were Muhammadans, the share of each of the heirs of the mortgagor was defined by law. The acknowledgments by the 14 annas sharers could not save limitation against the two annas sharer. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 73=20 Pat. 770=8 B.R. 600=23 P.L.T. 431=199 Ind. Cas. 566.

——S. 19—Co-heirs.

An acknowledgment of liability by some only of the heirs of a mortgagor against whom a decree for sale on the basis of a mortgage has been passed does not operate to save limitation as against the other heirs of the mortgagor. What the Court has to see is the relation which subsists between the various persons at the time when the acknowledgment is made or the payment is made and not the relation which existed at the time of the original transaction. If, at the time when the acknowledgment is made or the payment is made, there are more than one person in existence who stand in relationship to each other as joint contractors, partners, executors or mortgagors, than the acknowledgment or payment made by one would save limitation as against that person and would be of no avail against the others. (1936) A.L.J. 1140=A.I.R. 1936 All. 820=I.L.R. (1937) All. 272=1936 A.W.R. 996=166 Ind. Cas. 106 (F.B.).

Overrules—A.I.R. 1918 All. 61=47 Ind. Cas. 845.

4 (d.) Authority to acknowledge—Court of wards.

——S. 19—Court of wards—Power of local authorities to act as agents on its behalf.

Obiter—Generally speaking, the local authorities have wide powers to act as agents on behalf of the Court of Wards. 47 P.L.R. 174=A.I.R. 1945 Lah. 210.

——Ss. 19, 20—Court of wards—Manager's statement in circumstances of the case, whether amounted to acknowledgment—Collector's letter, held did amount to acknowledgment and saved limitation.

The plaintiff was born on October 10, 1909. The defendant's father had executed a mortgage in favour of the plaintiff's father on July 22, 1907. The defendant's father died in 1908 and the plaintiff's father died on January 19, 1911. On attaining majority on October 10, 1930, the plaintiff filed a suit on October 9, 1933; payments towards the mortgage were made in the years 1916 and 1920. But they were neither made towards interests as such nor did the fact of the payment appear in the handwriting of the person making them. After framing of the issues in the suit, a clerk in the Collector's office produced on summons, the record of the Court of Wards pertaining to the defendant's property which was under its superintendence, during the years 1909 and 1913. During the course of the suit, the Collector informed the Court that the record was confidential and claimed privilege and requested the Court to decide the matter and return the papers. The Court, without taking any notice of the request, allowed the parties to take certified copies of the papers in the record, which, among other things, consisted of (1) report by the manager, appointed under the Court of Wards Act, of the defendant's estate to the Collector, dated October 18, 1910, regarding defendant's debts; (2) Collector's letter to the plaintiff's father, dated October 22, 1910, referring to the mortgage-deed and asking whether he was prepared to take eight annas in a rupee of the mortgage debt in full satisfaction of the claim; (3) a statement by the manager of the defendant's estate, dated May 12, 1911, addressed to the Collecter giving names of creditors of the defendant together with debts due to them and the amounts of interest calculated and due up to that date, the suit mortgage being specified therein with principal and interest shown under heading of amount of debt; and (4) Collector's report to the Commissioner, dated June 9, 1911, based on the manager's report of May 12, 1911:

Held, that the payments made by the defendant did not save limitation either under S. 19 or S. 20, Limitation Act.

Held, further that the letter of the Collector addressed to the plaintiff's father and dated October 22, 1910, did not extend the period of limitation in favour of the plaintiff as it was addressed during the life-time of the latter.

Held, (1) (Per Sen, J.) that the manager's statement of May 12, 1911, was a statement of a duly authorised agent within the meaning of S. 19 and since it satisfied all other requirements of S. 19, it saved limitation.

(2) (Per Wassoodew, J.) that the statement could not be accepted as such for purposes of S. 19.

Held, that the Collector's letter to the Commissioner of June 9, 1911, mentioning the defendant's debts due on mortgage bonds included an acknowledgment of the debt and consequently, a suit filed within three years of the plaintiff's attaining majority was within time. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 237=41 Bom L.R. 391=183 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 19—Court of wards.

Where the Court of Wards is in charge of the property of the executant of a promissory note, the Collector in charge of the Court of Wards is the duly authorised agent of the executant for the purpose of making an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1938 All. 217=(1938) A.L.J. 252=1938 A.W.R. 153=I.L.R. (1938) All. 363=175 Ind. Cas. 556 (F.B.).

——S, 19—Held, on construction that the letter signed by the officer acting under the Deputy Commissioner as Special Manager of the Court of Wards as well as the letter under the orders of the Special Manager but initialled by head clerk and signed by an ahlmad constituted valid acknowledgment of the plaintiff's claim by the Court of Wards as duly authorised agent of the defendant, and the limitation for the suit was saved under S. 19. 1936 O.W.N. 967=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 26=12 Luck. 531=165 Ind. Cas. 269.

——S. 19—Letter of offer by Collector—Bombay Court of wards Act (1905), S. 16.

The proviso to S. 16 of the Bombay Court of Wards Act does not prevent the claimant from using the letter of offer by the Collector as acknowledgment to start a fresh period of limitation under S. 19, Limitation Act. though the offer made by Collector cannot by proved in a suit by the claimant if he does not accept the offer. 22 Bom. L.R. 943=58 Ind. Cas. 319.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Court Wards.

Court of Wards has power to give an acknowledgment so as to give a new period of limitation. 43 Cal. 211=34 Ind. Cas. 205.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Court of Wards—Collector.

The Court of Wards as well as the Collector as agent of Court of Wards can make acknowledgment to extend the limitation against minor. But it is doubtful whether a sarabarahkar or manager can admit such fresh liability. 34 Mad 221=8 M.L.T. 105=(1910) M.W.N. 453=20 M.L.J. 808=6 Ind. Cas. 407.

4. (d) Authority to acknowledge—Guardian.

——Ss. 19 and 21—Acknowledgment by de facto guardian of minor debtor—Validity.

It is evident from S. 21 (1) of the Limitation Act that only a lawful guardian or manager can sign an acknowledgment for purposes of S. 19, or in their absence an agent duly authorised either by lawful guardian or by the manager. Accordingly an acknowledgment signed by a de facto guardian of a minor debtor does not fulfil the requirements of S. 19 read with S. 21 (1) of the Act. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 710=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 293=1947 N.L.J. 405.

——S. 19—De facto guardian.

The de facto guardian (paternal aunt) of a Hindu minor executed a mortgage purporting to act on behalf of the minor but without any legal authority to do so :

Held, that the circumstances did not justify any inference that the de facto guardian was acting as the agent of minor so as to save limitation. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 386=45 Bom. L.R. 740=I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 486 =210 Ind. Cas. 532.

——S. 19—De facto guardian.

The expression "de facto guardian" means and implies a person who is not a legal or lawful guardian but merely in fact performs the functions of a guardian. The expression "agent duly authorised" in Ss. 19 and 20, Limitation Act does not, therefore, include a de facto guardian in view of S. 21. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 381=45 Bom. L.R. 740=I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 486=210 Ind. Cas. 532.

——S. 19—De facto guardian.

A de facto guardian of a Hindu minor has no power to keep a debt alive against the minor. 24 M.L.J. 428, Diss. from. 108 Ind. Cas. 529=1927 M.W.N. 356= A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 226.

——Ss. 19, 21—Guardian de facto—Mahomedan mother.

A Mahomedan mother cannot made a valid acknowledgment on behalf of her minor son, not being the guardian of his property under Mahomedan law. 61 P.L.R. 1917=143 P.W.R. 1917=42 Ind. Cas. 17.

——Ss. 19, 21—Guardian.

Held, on facts that the execution application upon the personal decrees was within limitation as the written statement filed by the mother on behalf of her minor sons amounted to an acknowledgment of the decretal debt. A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 399=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 33= 69 C.L.J. 543=43 C.W.N. 604=187 Ind. Cas. 831.

——S. 19—Guardian.

Where a guardian has authority to borrow on behalf of the minor, he can well be invested with authority to keep also the debt alive by acknowledgment. A. I. R. 1939 Mad. 414=49 L.W. 207=(1939) I M.L.J. 664= (1939) M.W.N. 555=184 Ind. Cas. 735.

——Ss. 19, 20, 21—Acknowledgment by guardian on behalf of minor.

A guardian of a minor cannot acknowledge liabilities in respect of any debt due from a minor so as to extend the period of limitation against the minor in accordance with Ss. 19 and 20 unless it was shown that the Guardian's Act was for the protection or benefit of the minor's property. 10 O.W.N. 188=A.I.R. 1933 Oudh 132=145 Ind. A guardian cannot renew or acknowledge a debt unless it is for the benefit of the minor or unless the document appointing him guardian expressly gives him such power. 1917 M.W.N. 744=22 M.L.T. 380=6 L.W. 640=43 Ind. Cas. 865. [See also 41 Mad. 561 =34 M.L.J. 381=45 Ind. Cas. 905.]

——S. 19, Expl. II—Acknowledgment—Natural guardian—Computation of limitation—Fresh start.

Held by Banerji and Richards, JJ. (Stanley, C. J., dissenting) that when a natural guardian acknowledges a debt. such acknowledgment is by an agent duly authorized in this behalf within the meaning of S. 19 and gives fresh start for the computation of limitation against the minor. 26 A. 598, not foll.

Held, by Stanley, C. J.—that the relation between a guardian and a ward is not that of an agent to a principal but that of a trustee to a cestui que trust. A guardian is not competent to acknowledge a debt due from a minor so as to give a fresh start to the computation of limitation. 4. (e) Authority to acknowledge—Joint Hindu family.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of debt—Authority of manager of joint family.

A manager of a joint family has general authority to keep alive by acknowledgment a debt which is not yet statue barred. But the acknowledgment must be such as to satisfy the conditions of S. 19, Limitation Act. It must be in writing and it must be signed. 77 I. A. 22=29 Pat. 273=1950 A.L.J. 130=63 L.W. 150=16 Cut. Held, (i) that the statement of liabilities amounted to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19, Lim. Act.

(ii) that the writing of the initials by the father on the statement of liabilities constituted a full compliance with the requirements of S. 19;

(iii) that since it was in evidence that the father had signed the statement on behalf of himself and as agent of his son, the acknowledgment extended limitation against the son as well;

(iv) that the plaintiff was entitled to recover the amount due under the pro-note. 55 L. W. 398=1942 M.W.N. 532=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 680=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 927=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 242=205 Ind. Cas. 583.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Manager of joint Hindu family—Acknowledgment or payment by manager—Payment by an agent through his servant—Payment for principal.

An acknowledgment by the manager of a Hindu joint family cannot extend the period of limitation as against other members of the family who are also parties to the original contract. 25 Mad. 220 (F.B.), Foll. Where the son writes and attests a mortgage-deed executed by the father in which part of the consideration is the payment towards a promissory note signed by both of them and the mortgagee pays the money to the creditor under the promissory note:

Held, that the son must be deemed to have authorised his father to make the payment and acknowledgment and that time was saved as against him also. 10 L.W. 466=(1919) M.W.N. 797=54 Ind. Cas. 318.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Manager of Joint Hindu family.

A managing member of a joint Hindu family who executed a promissory note on behalf of himself and his brothers has no authority to renew it after he ceases to be the manager of the family and an acknowledgment by him will not bind the other members of the family so as to save limitation against them. 32 Ind. A Karta of a joint Hindu family is an agent authorised to make acknowledgment under S. 19 of the I.L.A. of a debt not contracted for illegal or immoral purposes, 19 C.W.N. 860=31 Ind. Cas. 30.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Karta of Hindu family.

An acknowledgment by the Karta of a Hindu family would not be sufficient to keep the debt alive if the debt was contracted not for a family purpose but for securing a particular sum of money. 25 M. 220, foll. 26 Ind. Cas. 511. (Cal.).

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Manager of a joint Hindu family—Whether binds other members.

An acknowledgment of a debt made within limitation by the manager of a joint Hindu family, binds other members of the family. 36 All. 264=12 A.L.J. 374= 23 Ind. Cas. 429.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Authority to acknowledge—Manager of joint Hindu family.

The manager of a joint Hindu family, is an agent duly authorised within the meaning of S. 20, he has power to acknowledge and to pay interest as such, so as to save limitation. Part payment operates to extend limitation against all persons liable to pay the debt, and not only against the person actually paying, when the latter is a manager of a joint Hindu family. 37 Cal. 461 =11 C.L.J. 484=14 C.W.N. 741=5 Ind. ——S. 19—Hindu joint family—Signing of schedule in insolvency proceedings.

Per Full Bench.—The signing of the schedule in insolvency proceedings by the insolvent constitutes an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. The acknowledgment is, however, a purely personal matter, and where the insolvent is a Hindu father, he cannot be treated as being the agent of his sons. ——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Brothers—Younger brother cannot bind elder—Father binds by acknowledgment minor son.

Where there was no evidence to show that the younger brother had been authorised by his brother or his minor nephews to make an acknowledgment,

Held, his acknowledgment is not binding on his brother or his nephews and S. 19 cannot help the plaintiff against them inasmuch as they did not deprive their title or liability through the acknowledgor. But minor son of the acknowledgor derives his liability through his father and an acknowledgment by the father and must be held to be binding on him. 71 Ind. Cas. 737=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 135.

4. (f) Authority to acknowledge—Limited owner.

——S. 19—Hindu widow—Amendment in 1927.

After the amendment of S. 19, in 1927, a Hindu widow can, by acknowledgment save a debt from limitation and this acknowledgment is binding upon the reversioners. A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 40=17 P.L.T. 780=3 B. R. 183=16 Pat. 45=166 Ind. Cas. 555.

——S. 19—Hindu widow.

An acknowledgment by a Hindu widow is not operative against the reversioners. 86 Ind. Cas. 353=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 862.

——S. 19—Female heir—Trespasser.

As against a reversioner the acknowledgment by a limited female heir of mortgage debt, or a renewal of the mortgage by a trespasser, cannot extend the period of limitation. 35 All. 227 (P.C.), Foll. 82 Ind. Cas. 1052=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 207.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Limited owner—Effect of on reversioner.

An acknowledgment of liability by a Hindu woman in possession, for her limited interest, of the estate of her husband or father, will not extend the period of limitation as against the reversioners. The reversioners do not claim title through the limited owner within the section. 35 All. 227=40 I.A. 74=25 M. L. J. 131=13 M.L.T. 437=17 C.W.N. 605=11 A. L. J. 389=(1913) M.W.N. 470=17 C.L.J. 488=15 Bom. L. R. 489=19 Ind. Cas. 291 (P.C.) [Affirming 32 All. 33=6 A.L.J. 931=3 Ind. Cas. 725].

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Widow—Effect on reversioner—Effect of acknowledgment.

An acknowledgment made by the widow does not extend the period of limitation as against the reversioner under S. 19. as a reversioner under the Hindu Law does not derive his title from the widow of the last male owner. 32 All. 33=6 A.L.J. 931=3 Ind. Cas. 725.

——S. 19., Sch. II, Arts 120, 148—Acknowledgment—Widow in possession of husband's estates—Reversioner not bound—General Clauses Act, S. 6—Suspension of limitation by fusion of the interests of mortgagor and mortgagee.

A reversioner does not derive his title from a female heir holding a limited interest. An acknowledgment by such a female heir of the right of redemption of the mortgagor of an estate subject to mortgage is not an act done for the benefit of the estate. A reversioner therefore, is not bound by such acknowledgment. The act does not bind the estate. The rule of res judicata by which a decree fairly and properly obtained against a widow is binding on the reversioner does not apply to an acknowledgment by the widow. An acknowledgment of liability only extends the period of limitation for the institution of suit and does not confer title to property. A suit based upon an acknowledgment made when Act 14 of 1859 was in operation, but which was instituted when the Act of 1877 had come into force, is governed as to limitation by the latter Act. S. 6, General Clauses Act of 1868, does not apply inasmuch as the acknowledgment, the basis of the suit, is not a thing done in pursuance of any legislature. Consequently under S. 19 of Act 15 of 1877 the suit would be barred, the reversioners not deriving title from the widow who had made the acknowledgment, Art. 120, Sch. II, Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply in that the mortgagor having acquired the widow-mortgagee's limited interest, there was not complete fusion of interest. (1909) 6 A. L. J. 931=3 Ind. Cas. 725=32 A. 33.

4. (g) Authority to acknowledge—Partner.

——Ss. 19, 21—Acknowledgment by partner in going mercantile concern.

In a going mercantile concern, a partner has an implied authority to make an acknowledgment on behalf of the others partners and this is a sufficient to save limitation in spite of the provisions of S. 21, Limitation Act.

It is more so, when the acknowledging partner was throughout acting on behalf of the firm and made acknowledgments from time to time. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 397=41 P.L.R. 90=184 Ind. Cas. 734.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by partner.

Where an endorsement is made and signed by one of the partners in the ordinary course of business with the implied consent of other partners, he does so with authority and the endorsement is sufficient to save limitation. Direct evidence of authority to acknowledge is not necessary. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 559=158 Ind. Cas. 260.

——Ss. 19 and 21 (2)—Authority to acknowledge—Partnership—Evidence of express authority, if necessary.

Direct evidence of a specific authority by a co-contractor or partner to make acknowledgments or payments saving limitation on his behalf, is unnecessary

——S. 19—Partnership dissolved — Acknowledgment by one partner authorised to collect or pay debts.

In the absence of express evidence of authority an acknowledgment of a partnership debt by an ex-partner, after the dissolution of partnership is not binding, on any ex-partner other than the one making it. Where however an ex-partner is authorised to collect the outstandings and pay all debts of the partnership, such authority includes the lesser power of acknowledging debts. 18 M.L.T. 273=(1915) M.W.N. 722=2 L. W. 823=30 Ind. Cas. 675.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Payment or acknowledgment by one partner, how far binding on others.

To render one of several partners liable by reason of a written payment or acknowledgment by another, it is not enough to show that the payment was an act necessary for the partnership. Authority to act on behalf of the other partners cannot be presumed but must be proved. 32 M. 421; 35 M. 142, Foll. 37 Mad. 146=25 M.L.J. 501=21 Ind. Cas. 634. [This is no longer correct. See 41 Mad. 427=45 Ind. Cas. 18.].

——Ss. 19, 20 and 21—Partners—Acknowledgment by one partner, how far binding on others—Implied authority.

There is no implied authority vested in one partner, to acknowledge a partnership debt so as to bind the other from the mere fact that the former is actually in management of the business; there should be an express authority to do so which should be clear and unequivocal. 35 Mad 142=(1911) 1 M.W.N. 347=9 M.L.T. 473=11 Ind. Cas. 332. [Dissente d from 41 Mad. 427=34 M.L J. 373=45 Ind. Cas. 18.].

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Partners—Managing partner.

To say that the managing partner of a firm must have an express authority from every partner to give a valid acknowledgment of debt is to place a very narrow construction on S. 19 of the Limitation Act and to open the door to very serious fraud. Such is not the law. 32 All. 51=6 A.L.J. 953=4 Ind. Cas. 708.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by one partner.

A partner may acknowledge liability on behalf of himself and his partners but unless he clearly acknowledges liability on behalf of others the acknowledgment will avail against him only. (1901) 3 Bom. L.R. 144.

——S. 19—Partner—Acknowledgment after dissolution—When binds firm.

Acknowledgment by a partner after the dissolution of the firm binds the firm if the creditor had no notice of the dissolution. 118 Ind. Cas. 229=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 266.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by one of partners—Partnership—Dissolution—Creditor ignorant of.

An acknowledgment taken from one of the partners in ignorance of a dissolution of the partnership of which no notice was given to the creditor, will save limitation just as if the partnership was not dissolved and the mutual agency between the partners still subsisted. (1901) 3 Bom. L.R. 484=26 Bom. 42.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Partner.

A partner of a money lending business, which is being wound up has no authority to give an acknowledgment for a subsisting debt so as to bind the firm. L.B.R. 363=9 Bur. L.T. 239=36 Ind. Cas. 225.

——Ss. 19 and 21—Authority to acknowledge partnership—Acknowledgment by insolvent partner, effect of.

An acknowledgment by a partner in accordance with statutory provisions, and not in the ordinary course of business, is not one made under authority of the other partners or on their behalf. Admission of liability by a partner in his insolvency schedule does not bind the other partners. 36 Ind. Cas. 389 (Mad.).

4 (h). Authority to acknowledge—Principal and Surety.

——S. 19—Principal and surety.

An acknowledgment by the principal debtor does not save limitation against the surety, unless it is shown that the latter allowed himself to be represented by the person who made the payment. This principle applies to the continuing guarantee also. The surety cannot be called on to pay a time-barred debt. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 31=1939 N.L.J. 80=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 415=179 Ind. Cas. 771.

——S. 19—Principal and surety.

An acknowledgment by the principal debtor does not save limitation against the surety unless it is shown that the latter allowed himself to be represented by the person who made the payment. 33 P.L.R. 59=A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 691=13 L. 240=132 Ind. Cas. 590.

4 (i). Authority to acknowledge—Other cases.

——S. 19, 20—Deposition of party admitting liability for claim reduced to writing and signed by judge—Judge, if agent.

Explanation 2 to S. 19, Limitation Act means not only that the agent must be duly authorised to sign the document in question but that he must be authorised to sign for the purpose which the section contemplates, that is to say, he must be authorised to sign on behalf of the person sought to be made liable for the purpose of acknowledging liability. The authorisation need not necessarily be direct, It can be implied, as for instance from the nature of the employment, but the authorisation, whether it be express or implied, must be to acknowledge the liability in question and not merely to sign the document. Though a Judge of a Court is authorised, and indeed required by law, to sign the statements which he records, he is authorised to do so for the purpose of authenticating the depositions and not for the purpose of acknowledging liability. 1940 N.L.J. 445=A.I.R. 1940 Nag. 354=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 182=193 Ind. Cas. 401.

——S. 19—Court—Defendant's deposition in insolvency proceedings signed by clerk under Civil P.C., O. 18, R. 5 (Rang.)—If can be used as an acknowledgment within S. 19, Limitation Act.

In a suit on a pro-note, a deposition by the defendant made in an insolvency proceeding to the effect that "I borrowed Rs. 600 from the plaintiff on a promissory note" and recorded under Civil P.C., O. 18, R. 5, (Rangoon) was sought by the plaintiff to save limitation by way of acknowledgment under S. 19, on the ground that the clerk who signed the certificate at the end of the deposition was the agent of the defendant for the purpose of making such acknowledgment of indebtedness:

Held, that neither the Judge nor the clerk, who signed the certificate at the end of the deposition in the insolvency case, had any authority, either derived from the defendant himself or by reason of any duty cast upon them by law to make an acknowledgment of indebtedness on his behalf. In order that there should be an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, it must in the form of a writing which has been signed either by the debtor or by some person duly appointed as his agent in that behalf, acknowledging the correctness of the statement contained in the writing. In this case, there was no such signature by the debtor or by any other such person. 12 R. 610=A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 282=153 Ind. Cas. 957.

——S. 19— Deposition—Not signed by the defendant or his agent.

A deposition made by the defendant in another case which was not signed by him or his duly authorised agent does not constitue a valid acknowledgment. 184 P.W.R. 1911, foll. 34 P.R. 1918=45 Ind. Cas. 99.

——S. 19—Deposition in previous suit of defendant acknowledging liability—Co-mortgagor has no authority as such to acknowledge on behalf of a mortgagor—Manager's acknowledgment not enough where previous dealings had been with all the members of the undivided family.

By a deed dated 4th August, 1882, three defendants mortgaged certain immoveable property. On 16th April, 1885 the mortgagors executed a written acknowledgment of their liability in respect of that advance. Plaintiff sued on 21st April, 1897 to recover the amount, and, in default of payment thereof, for sale of the mortgaged property. The first defendant had deposed in a previous suit that his estate was under mortgage:

Held, (1) The suit was not barred against the first defendant. For S. 19 the acknowledgment, if it is to be effective as saving the bar of limitation, must, on the face of it, purport to be that of an existing liability. But the name of the creditor, and the identity of the debt may be proved by parol evidence. 16 M. 366 ; 5 M,H.C.R. 320, foll. (2) The acknowledgment by a co-mortgagor won't save the bar of limitation against the other mortgagors. An agency within the meaning of the Explanation 2 to S. 19 cannot be inferred from the mere fact that the person making the acknowledgment is a joint contractor. (3) The acknowledgment by manager of an undivided family won't save the bar of limitation, if the creditor deals with all the members of the family as co-obligors, and enters into a transaction. There may, however, be cases in which that circumstance, viz., his managership coupled with the conduct of the joint contractors, may warrant the conclusion that as a matter of fact the managing member was duly authorised to make the acknowledgment on behalf of all. (4) In this case the mortgage sued upon was assigned by way of sub-mortgage with concurrence of the defendants—the mortgagors—and the plaintiff redeemed the sub-mortgage on 13th April, 1897, and it was contended that time should be reckoned from that date. But the contention was overruled. (1901) 25 M. 220 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Held, on facts, that the Court in recording payment of Rs. 50 as "admitted," was not making an admission within meaning S. 19 on behalf of the judgment-debtor. It was merely recording an admission made by the judgment-debtor or somebody appearing on his behalf. In any event, this admission having been made more than three years after the decree did not save limitation. A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 760=1937 M.W.N. 355=174 Ind. Cas. 28.

——S. 19—Mukhtar given authority to look after case work only.

It cannot be assumed that a Mukhtar-i-am or general agent has power to acknowledge liability within the meaning of S. 19 and such a liability can only be fastened upon the principal by a person duly authorised in this behalf, that is to say, who has been given authority to make such an acknowledgment of liability. 1936 O.W.N. 957=A.I.R. 1936 Oudh 332=162 Ind. Cas. 448.

——S. 19—Where a purshis signed by a Pleader in the course of a suit contains a statement of liability, it is binding on the client as an acknowledgment of liability under S. 19, Limitation Act. 36 Bom. L.R. 334=A.I.R. 1934 Bom. 186=151 Ind. Cas. 376.

——Ss. 19, 21—Authority of agent need not be express.

Sections 19 and 21, do not contemplate that the authority of an agent must in every case be an express authority.

Where the Vakil appointed by the guardian of a minor for making an application to the Court for appointment as guardian made an acknowledgment of a debt due by the minor in the application:

Held, that the acknowledgment was valid and binding on the minor even though the Vakil had no express authority to make any such acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1931 All. 398=133 Ind. Cas. 155.

——S. 19—Mukhtariam—Must be specially authorised to acknowledge.

A Mukhtariam has no power to acknowledge liabilities within the meaning of S. 19 of the Indian Limitation Act. Such a liability can only be fastened upon the principal by a person duly authorised in this behalf, that is, who has been given authority to make such an acknowledgment of liability. 66 Ind. Cas. 394=44 All. 546=20 A.L.J. 359=A.I.R. 1922 All. 230.

——S. 19—Official Assignee.

An acknowledgment by the Official Assignee of a debt due by the insolvent is not an acknowledgment made by an agent duly authorised on behalf of the insolvent which takes the case out of the Limitation Act. 35 Bom. L.R. 12=58 B. 505=A.I.R. 1933 Bom. 91=143 Ind. Cas. 698.

——S. 19—Husband and wife.

A wife has an implied authority to pledge the credit of her husband for necessaries and this implied authority is not taken away or diminished by reason of her husband's insanity. But it is a limited authority and limited only to necessaries.

The executant of a promissory note became insane and his wife put in a petition to get herself appointed guardian, in which she acknowledged the promissory note. Her petition was allowed but she never furnished security and was in fact not appointed guardian. It also appeared that the wife was managing the husband's business after he became insane. In a suit on the promissory note :

Held, that the wife was not an agent duly authorised, within the meaning of S. 19, and the acknowledgment of the promissory note could not give a fresh starting point for the running of limitation. (1933) M.W.N. 365=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 686=38 L.W. 321=65 M.L.J. 355=56 M. 964=146 Ind. Cas. 49.

——S. 19—President of Committee.

Where the President of a Committee is authorised to purchase goods, he has equal authority to acknowledge and such authority need not be express. 37 L.W. 429= A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 332=144 Ind. Cas. 784.

——S. 19—Pre-emptor and vendee.

A pre-emptor does not derive his title through the vendee within the meaning of S. 19, so as to make an acknowledgment of the vendee made in his written statement filed after the claim for pre-emption has been brought, an acknowledgment of his predecessor-in-title binding upon the pre-emptor. (1932) A.L.J. 898= A.I.R. 1932 All. 700=54 A. 1023=143 Ind. Cas. 41.

——S. 19 — Administrator — Acknowledgment before obtaining letter of administration—Effect.

An acknowledgment of liability professed to be made on behalf of a deceased's estate by a person whose power to make the acknowledgment solely depends upon his being the administrator of the deceased is not made effectual by his subsequently obtaining letters of administration. 122 Ind. Cas. 504=31 M.L.W. 65=1939 M.W.N. 16=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 218= 58 M.L.J. 210.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment as heirs—Sufficient.

Where an acknowledgment of liability is made by the petitioners for administration in their character of heirs, being the sons and widow of a Mahomedan the acknowledgment has the effect of preventing limitation. 122 Ind. Cas. 504=31 M.L.W. 65=1930 M.W.N. 16= A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 218=58 M.L.J. 210.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Executor—Can bind the estate.

An executor has the power as legal representative to admit and dispose of claims against the testator's estate, when he includes such a claim in Annexure B, Sch. 3, Court-fees Act, as owing from the testator and payable from his estate and he may be assumed to acknowledge liability of the estate for the debt within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. 122 Ind. Cas. 504=31 M.L.W. 65=1930 M.W.N 16=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 218=58 M.L.J. 210.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Director—Managing Director—Can bind others.

An acknowledgment signed by a director, who is acting as a manager to do the ordinary acts necessary in the conduct of business of the company, is a sufficient acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 115 Ind. Cas. 177=48 C.L.J. 597=33 C.W.N. 833=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 155.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Trustee.

Constructive liability—Acknowledgment by beneficiary. A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 349=52 M.L.J. 135.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Trustees—Not binding on others.

A mere acknowledgment of payment by one of the trustees who did not really receive the money, cannot bind the institution. (1912) M.W.N. 181=15 Ind. Cas. 186.

——S. 19—Co-contractors—Special authority to bind—Essentials.

In case of co-contractors, jointly and severally liable, an acknowledgment of liability or a payment by one of them does not deprive the other of the benefit of limitation, unless the payer is authorized to make the payment by the other as an agent on his behalf. 96 Ind. Cas. 353=2 Luck. 180=6 O.W.N. 1232= A.I.R. 1926 Oudh 601.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Co-sharer—Special authority to bind other co-sharers—Essential.

A note of the Revenue Officer in his report to the effect that a mortgagee made an oral statement of an acknowledgment of the mortgage before him, does not help to extend limitation. A co-sharer as such cannot acknowledge that some other co-sharer is a mortgagee like himself. Authority to acknowledge must be duly proved. 89 Ind. Cas. 161=6 L.R.A. (Civ.) 481 =A.I.R. 1926 All. 85.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by different sharers in respect of their shares, sufficiency of—Effect on the whole property.

Where the mortgaged property having been split up into two, each sharer represented his own share and made an acknowledgment in respect of it and the two acknowledgments put together comprised the whole property, it was held that they were valid acknowledgments although they were not signed at one time by all the mortgagees of that time or by each one in respect of the whole of the mortgaged estate. (1909) 11 Bom. L.R. 318=2 Ind. Cas. 469.

——S. 19, Expls. 11 and 21—Authority to acknowledge—Receiver—Acknowledgment by—Firm under dissolution.

An acknowledgment of a debt due by a firm under dissolution made by a receiver of that firm is valid to save limitation if it is authorised by the terms of the order appointing the receiver. A receiver may be an agent authorised to make an acknowledgment within S. 19, Expl. 11. A receiver appointed to take charge of the property of a firm with power "to do all things necessary for the preservation of the assets of the firm", is entitled to make acknowledgments if at the time the acknowledgments are made, they are acts necessary for the preservation of the estate. 35 M.L.J. 571=(1918) M.W.N. 877=8 L.W. 594=25 M.L.T. 371=48 Ind. Cas. 179.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Receiver of insolvent's property—Power to bind by acknowledgment.

A receiver of an insolvent's estate appointed under S. 351, C. P. Code (1882) applied for sanction of Court to sell the insolvent's property and in the petition admitted a mortgage on the property:

Held, that the admission is an acknowledgment of liability within S. 19, Limitation Act, against the mortgagor and the Receiver. 5 L.W. 222=38 Ind. Cas. 169.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by Receiver—Limitation—Saving of—Receiver's authority.

An acknowledgment of a debt by a Receiver of a partnership firm whose powers were limited to collecting outstandings and doing all things necessary for the realisation and preservation of the assets, and upon whom no power of managing or carrying on the business of the firm had been conferred by the Court, does not save limitation. Payment of interest would stand on a different footing 8 L.B.R. 159=29 Ind. Cas. 27.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by Receiver—Receiver, If agent—Admission—Estoppel—Bona fide prosecution of claim in administration suit—claimant directed to institute fresh suit—Limitation—Exclusion of time.

A receiver appointed in an administration suit instituted by a creditor of a deceased person against his executor is not an agent of the executor within the meaning of S. 19. He is the agent and an officer of the court. But when in such a suit another creditor of the estate applied to rank as such and the receiver submitted a statement in the presence of the executor admitting the debt due to the applicant, but the court after some time directed the applicant, to bring a fresh suit, but on the suit being instituted he was met with the plea that the claim was barred by limitation:

Held, that in the face of the admission made in his presence the executor was estopped from setting up the statute of limitation as a bar. That in any case S. 14 applied and the time during which the plaintiff was bona fide prosecuting his claim in the administration suit should be excluded in computing the period of limitation. (1909) 10 C.W.N. 959.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Judgment-debtor—Auction-purchaser—If bound.

An acknowledgment by a judgment-debtor may save limitation against the auction-purchaser. An acknowledgment if made after the attachment cannot prevail against the auction-purchaser who is entitled to have property purchased by him in the condition in which it was at the time of the attachment. 22 C.W.N. 278=44 Ind. Cas. 533.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Co-judgment-debtors—Effect.

An acknowledgment in writing by some of several judgment-debtors within three years from the date of the last execution application saves limitation against all. 22 Ind. Cas. 709 (Cal.).

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Co-judgment-debtor.

An acknowledgment made by one of several judgment-debtors cannot save limitation against any but the person making it. 15 C.L.J. 251=16 C.W.N. 439=13 Ind. Cas. 702.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Servant.

A receipt acknowledging delivery of goods by a maistry who had authority to grant the same, is an acknowledgment of liability. 19 M.L.J. 650, Foll. 8 M.L.T. 199=7 Ind. Cas. 797.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Village community.

A resolution whereby the members of a village community empower certain members to bind them by the latter's actions includes an authority to make acknowledgment under S. 19 of Limitation Act. 32 Mad. 284=5 M.L.T. 351=19 M.L.J. 372=4 Ind. Cas. 38.

4 (j). Authority to acknowledge—Onus of proof.

——S. 19—Onus to prove authority on person relying on acknowledgment.

The burden of proving why a certain acknowledgment was made by the person while prima facie he had no business to do so, lies upon the person who makes it; but in order that it may bind others, some sort of agency and authority must be proved, from the persons attempted to be bound. 80 Ind. Cas. 940=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 134.

5 Basis of suit.

——See also CONTRACT ACT, Ss. 9 AND 25.

——S. 19—Unequivocal acknowledgment of liability involves implied promise to pay and gives fresh cause of action.

An agreement in which the debtor admits certain amount to be due and provides a contingent security for that amount involves an implied promise to pay the amount acknowledged to be due and the creditor can recover the amount by a suit on the agreement. A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 19=45 Bom. L.R. 957=211 Ind. Cas. 155.

——S. 19—Where a pro-note and a receipt executed in lieu of the amount due on previous transactions, are insufficiently stamped, but the necessary penalty is paid in respect of the receipt and thus it becomes admissible in evidence, the creditor is entitled to a decree on the basis of the acknowledgment contained in the receipt. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 388=1942 O.W.N. 343=1942 A.W.R. 222=18 Luck. 191=200 Ind. Cas. 515.

——S. 19—No cause of action can be founded on an acknowledgment. All that an acknowledgment can do is to extend limitation. A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 294= I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 177=1941 N. L. J. 456=201 Ind. Cas. 77.

——S. 19—A guardian filed a list of debts due by the estate of the minor. At the end of the list, he added three notes, the third being to the effect that as the original documents were in the possession of the creditors, it was difficult to fix the correct amount of each debt and to admit the correctness of the documents until they had been seen:

Held, that it could not be said that this was an unconditional acknowledgment of the debts. No suit, therefore, could be based on it. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 31 =41 P.L.R. 356=182 Ind. Cas. 330.

——Ss. 19, 4—Acknowledgment implying promise to pay—Suit on it—Defendant not raising plea of lack of consideration—Question referred to Full Bench being whether acknowledgment made after limitation but during time in which owing to S. 4 to S. 25 of Act, the suit might have been instituted, would give fresh start of limitation—Full Bench, if can allow such new plea.

Per Dalip Singh and Din Muhammad, JJ., Coldstream, J., contra—Acknowledgments implying a promise to pay are agreements and, therefore, could form the basis of a suit provided consideration is proved. Where a suit is actually brought on the basis of such acknowledgments treated as agreements, plaintiffs must be taken to allege that the agreement was for consideration and the consideration must be taken to have been proved where the defendant does not plead the lack of consideration.

Looked at from this point of view, the question whether an acknowledgment of a debt made after the period of limitation for a suit prescribed by Sch. 1, Limitation Act, has expired but during the time in which, owing to the provisions of Ss. 4 to 25 of the Act, the suit might have been instituted, will start a fresh period of limitation under the provisions of S. 19, aoes not really arise, for, it is obvious that if this is an tgreement for consideration before the expiry of limitadion or even after it, a suit on its basis would succeed and could not be held to be barred by limitation.

Where the above question was referred to the Full Bench, it is open to the Full Bench to allow such point to be newly taken before it, as the question to be decided in both the points is the same, viz., whether the suit is barred by limitation. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 234= I.L.R. (1938) Lah. 193=40 P.L.R. 533=174 Ind. Cas. 277 (F. B.).

——S. 19—Oral acknowledgment of debt implying unconditional promise to pay cannot be basis of suit under S. 25 (3), Contract Act as it would make the provision of S. 19, Limitation Act, nugatory. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 180=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 441=174 Ind. Cas. 374.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment itself cannot be used as basis of suit—Suit must be on original cause of action. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 180=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 441=174 Ind. Cas. 374.

——S. 19—Receipt merely stating that money had been taken under pro-notes—Pro-notes not capable of being acted upon.

In order that a written acknowledgment may be of avail to a plaintiff under S. 19, it is necessary that such acknowledgment must have been made before the expiration of the period prescribed for the suit. It is equally necessary that it must be a clear and unambiguous acknowledgment specifically admitting liability in respect of the debt sued upon and it must be signed by the party or by his authorised agent. If an admission amounts to such an acknowledgment, then, if it is made before the expiry of the period, it is helpful and the suit can be maintained for the recovery of the earlier debt, the time being extended by the acknowledgment. In such an event, there is no question of there being a fresh cause of action or a fresh promise to pay a debt which can be sued upon. On the other hand, if the acknowledgment is made after the period of limitation has expired, then the acknowledgment is of no utility and cannot save limitation.

But a receipt containing an acknowledgment of a previous debt may not be a mere acknowledgment, i.e., a bare admission of the existing liability, but it may contain words indicating an implied promise to pay the earlier debt. Whether it is a mere acknowledgment or it is more than an acknowledgment and contains an implied promise to pay will depend on the terms of the particular document. But assuming that it amounts to an implied promise to pay, it does not follow that it can be made the basis of a suit and treated as giving rise to a fresh cause of action. If the debt had not become barred by time then even an express promise to pay it is nothing more than a promise to do what a person is, under the law, bound to do. It cannot be treated as a fresh contract or a novation of the old contract and is on no higher footing than a mere acknowledgment. On the other hand, if the debt had become barred by time, then an implied promise to pay it would be of no avail because under S. 25 (3) of the Contract Act it cannot be treated as a promise made in writing to pay a time-barred debt. When there is no express promise to pay but the intention is inferred only indirectly, it cannot be treated as a promise in writing to pay the time-barred debt. The plaintiff, therefore, would not be entitled to take advantage of such an implied promise to pay a time-barred debt.

On the other hand, if there is fresh consideration proceeding from the promisee and the parties enter into a new contract which replaces the previous contract and supersedes it, then it certainly becomes the basis of a new cause of action and a suit would lie upon it because the contract is binding on the parties, being for consideration. But where there is no fresh consideration proceeding from the promisee, the transaction cannot be treated as an agreement between two parties as it is only a one-sided promise to pay a debt which was due.

Where certain receipts do not purport to acknowledge liability for an earlier debt but merely state that money had been taken under promissory notes of even dates by the executant, then if the promissory notes cannot be sued upon, the receipts cannot amount to an acknowledgment of any earlier debts of which the plaintiff can take advantage. (1934) A.L.J. 1185=A.I.R. 1935 All. 129=4 A.W.R. 754=57 A. 434=152 Ind. Cas. 370.

——S. 19—Promissory note not stamped according to law—Suit on pro-note, if maintainable—Acknowledgment of debt due on pro-note—Fresh cause of action, if arises.

When money is lent on a promissory note which is inadmissible, it is not open to the plaintiff to recover his money by proving orally the terms of the contract. It is only when the debt is separable from the promissory note that the debt could be proved, although the promissory note was inadmissible in evidence.

Where a promissory note is not stamped according to law and the debt is acknowledged in it, the acknowledgment is part of same transaction of the loan by the promissory note and cannot be treated as an independent transaction upon which the plaintiff can frame a cause of action. A.I.R. 1933 All. 280=144 Ind. Cas. 130.

——S. 19—An unconditional acknowledgment implies a promise to pay and, therefore, a suit can be based upon such an acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 47=34 P.L.R. 252=141 Ind. Cas. 425.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Implied promise to pay—fresh cause of action.

An unconditional acknowledgment has always been held to imply a promise to pay, because that is the natural inference if nothing is said to the contrary. It can therefore be the basis of a suit. 124 Ind. Cas. 624.

——S. 19—Clear acknowledgment before expiry of limitation—Itself a basis.

An acknowledgment, clear and unconditional and made before the limitation period expires, can itself be the foundation of an action. 121 Ind. Cas. 108=1929 A. L. J. 1279=A.I.R. 1929 All. 980.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment on settlement of account before expiry of limitation—If implied promise to pay.

The result of certain dealings between the plaintiff and the defendant was that the defendant incurred debts to the plaintiff. When the account of the dealings was made, the defendant signed an acknowledgment for a certain sum. The plaintiff's suit to recover the amount due on the khata was dismissed by the Subordinate Judge on the ground that a suit on a Ruzu Khata was not maintainable :

Held inasmuch as the acknowledgment made before the limitation period expired implied an unconditional promise to pay, there was no reason why it should not form the basis of the suit. 33 Cal. 1047, Foll. 63 Ind. Cas. 923=46 Bom. 24=23 Bom. L.R. 606=A.I.R. 1922 Bom. 183.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of time barred debt—Promise to pay—When can be basis of suit.

An unconditional acknowledgment always implies a promise to pay. The promise, express or implied, is a new contract, the consideration for which is the old debt and such a promise constitutes a new cause of action. Where two persons examine their mutual dealings and one of them formally acknowledges his indebtedness to the other to a certain extent in a document which complies with all the formalities of the law, for example, Stamp Act, no other explanation than that he promised to pay the amount is conceivable. If, in making the acknowledgment, he has included time-barred debts, which he might have well repudiated, it may still be open to him to plead failure of consideration to that extent. The creditor places himself in a disadvantageous position in this respect by omitting to take a bond containing an express promise to pay which alone can successfully meet the plea of want of consideration. This is to be taken to be the effect of S. 25, Contract Act.

Per Sulaiman, Actg. C. J.—A mere acknowledgment is not always evidence of a new contract which can be the basis of a suit.

The question whether a mete acknowledgment or a simple receipt can be made the basis of a suit is one more of procedure than of substantive law. If the transaction has amounted to a new contract, it can be made the basis of a suit. But if it is nothing more than a mere acknowledgment, then, if made beyond the period of limitation, it cannot be made the basis of a fresh suit; if made within limitation, then the cause of action is kept alive and all that would be at most necessary will be an amendment of the plaint if the original debt is not referred to therein.

An acknowledgment implies a promise to pay and every acknowledgment of liability may be treated as a fresh binding contract for consideration or the shifting of the onus of proof on the opposite party may be brought about by its means. A.I.R. 1932 All. 199=53 A. 963=(1932) A.L.J. 77=137 Ind. Cas. 243.

——S. 19—Basis of suit—Acknowledgment made after debt was barred.

Section 19, Limitation Act, requires that an acknowledgment should be made before the expiry of the period of limitation. An acknowledgment therefore contained in the sale-deed with respect to some items which had become time-barred at the date of the acknowledgment, cannot serve as a basis of plaintiff's claim. A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 985.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment after limitation—Nature of.

Though an unconditional acknowledgment has been held to imply a promise to pay, it is not by itself sufficient to constitute a 'promise' within the meaning of S. 25 (3) of the Contract Act. So an acknowledgment made after the expiry of the period of limitation on the original note cannot form the basis of a suit. A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 604=129 Ind. Cas. 95.

——S. 19—Barred debt—Mere acknowledgment—No promise to pay—Insufficient to create new contract—English and Indian Law.

Although the English Law, makes no distinction between an acknowledgment or promise which is sufficient to extend time in the case of a debt which is not yet barred, and an acknowledgment or promise which is sufficient to create a new contract where the debt has already become barred by lapse of time, in India a distinction has always been drawn between an acknowledgment which is sufficient to extend time under S. 19, Limitation Act, and a promise to pay a barred debt under S. 25 (3), Contract Act, and that a mere acknowledgment of the debt without a promise to pay is insufficient to create a new contract to pay. A I.R. 1921 Pat. 19, Foll. 112 Ind. Cas. 24=52 Bom. 521=30 Bom. L.R. 733=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 319.

——S. 19—Contract Act, Ss. 25 (3), 62—Acknowledgment, whether gives fresh cause of action.

An acknowledgment satisfying the requirements of S. 19 does not create any new right of action but only enlarges the time and has the effect of making a new period run from the time of the acknowledgment.

A promise such as is referred to in S. 25, Cl. (3) of the Contract Act must be an express promise to pay a debt after the period of limitation in respect of it has expired.

Where a plaintiff sued upon a promissory note which was inadmissible in evidence for want of proper stamp and the evidence showed that the consideration for the promissory note was some previous debt but there was no evidence as to that debt:

Held, that no decree could be passed for plaintiff on the basis of the acknowledgment contained in the promissory note. 8 O.W.N. 1210=A.I.R. 1932 Oudh 49=7 Luck. 313=135 Ind. Cas. 390.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment amounting to novation.

Where, in a suit for recovery of money, it was alleged in the plaint that there had been an accounting between the parties in Asarh 1334-F., that Rs. 54-8-0 were acknowledged by the defendant as due to the plaintiff, that an entry to that effect was made by the defendant in plaintiff's account-book and that the defendant agreed to pay the principal amount with interest at 2 per cent. per mensem within six months:

Held, that the allegations made set up a case of novation and a suit on the acknowledgment was maintainable. 8 O.W.N. 126=A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 97=130 Ind. Cas. 503.

——S. 19—Ruqqa acknowledging liability—Rate of interest fixed—Amounts to new contract.

Where a claim was made on the ground of a 'ruqqa' containing an acknowledgment of liability and a post scriptum fixing a rate of interest was also found on it:

Held, that where an acknowledgment contains an entry fixing the rate of interest to be payable by the debtor it amounts to a new contract and constitutes a fresh cause of action. 117 Ind. Cas. 377=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 511.

—S. 19—Acknowledging not creating new contract suit lies.

When from the plaint it is clear that the creditor sues on mere acknowledgment and not on basis of the old debts, and no new contract or no new obligation is created by the acknowledgment the suit cannot succeed. 121 Ind. Cas. 83=6 O.W.N. 902=A.I.R. 1929 Oudh 529.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment under S. 19 of Limitation Act cannot be construed as a contract under which the defendant can be held liable for any sum of money. It may extend the period of limitation for three years from its date but it cannot form the basis of fresh cause of action. 106 Ind. Cas. 619=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 1200.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment cannot be basis of suit independently of original debt.

A mere acknowledgment of a liability cannot be made the basis of a suit so as to constitute a fresh cause of action but in a suit based on the original consideration the acknowledgment would be a good piece of evidence. 89 Ind. Cas. 402=23 A.L.J. 900=6 L.R.A. (Civ.) 525=A.I.R 1926 All. 155.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment, if can be basis of suit

It is doubtful if a suit can be maintained on a mere ackowledgment of debt, but an acknowledgment of debt at least implies a promise to pay. 97 Ind. Cas. 800=27 P.L.R. 317=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 472.

——S. 19—Pro-note for past consideration—Failing as such—Serves as acknowledgment.

When a person borrows a certain sum of money and executes a promissory note, he executes it for the consideration received by him and when it is executed in respect of a consideration already passed it is an acknowledgment of the liability to pay the amount mentioned in the note and the acknowledgment can give rise to a cause of action, if the pro-note fails as pro-note for any cause. 92 Ind. Cas. 626=1926 M.W.N. 141=23 M.L.W. 678=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 452=50 M.L.J. 36.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—Can form basis of suit.

A suit is maintainable on the basis of a Ruju or acknowledgment as every acknowledgment implies a promise to pay. 78 Ind. Cas. 234=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 9.

——S. 19—Hatchita—Promise to pay amount due on adjustment—Stamped and signed.

A suit on a Hatchita sthmped and signed by the debtor, containing a statement of adjustment of accounts and consisting in itself a distinct and unqualified promise to pay the amount found due on adjustment is governed by Art. 115 and not by Art. 64. In every case where Art. 64 is made applicable there need not be always a reciprocity of demands. 76 Ind. Cas. 603 =A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 578.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of old loan with new gives rise to a new agreement.

Where old loan is acknowledged along with new, the transaction amounts to an agreement. 72 Ind. Cas. 692 =36 C. L. J. 228=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 71.

——S. 19—Effect of 'Ruqqa.'

A 'Ruqqa,' which is an admission of indebtedness is not an express or implied agreement to pay upon which to base a suit. 76 P. R. 1915=154 P.W.R. 1915=31 Ind. Cas. 209.

——S. 19—No promise to pay—Suit if lies.

A suit based on an acknowledgment which contains no promise to pay is not maintainable. 180 P.W.R. 1913=292 P.L.R. 1913=20 Ind. Cas. 501.

——S. 19 — Acknowledgment—Account, suit on balance of—Signature in account book.

A suit for money lent and advanced can be based upon an acknowledgment by the principal defendant in the account book made by way of affixing his signature testifying to the accuracy of the details of the account. (1905) 3 A.L.J. 800=1906 A.W.N. 185.

6. Endorsement.

(a) In Account Books.
(b) Of payment.
(c) On Life Policy.
(d) On Pro-notes and Bonds.

6 (a). Endorsement—In account books.

——Ss. 19, 20 — Endorsement of payment by debtor in creditor's bahikhata "towards above amount."

A payment made merely in respect of the amount due on the promissory note on which the payment is endorsed may be a final payment, earlier payments not having been evidenced by endorsement so that a mere endorsement of a payment in respect of the note does not involve by itself an admission of further liability on the note.

There was a loan made by the plaintiff to the defendant on April 2, 1933 of Rs. 1,120 which was entered in the khata of the plaintiff, and the entry was signed by the defendant. On April 10, 1935 that is to say, within three years of the loan, an entry was mad in the khata in these terms : "Credited Rs. 30-10-0 on December 15, 1934, as the price of paddy." This was signed by the defendant. Then the entry continued: "This has been credited this day the date April 10, 1935, towards the above amount." That again was signed by the defendant. That suit was filed on the khata on December 14, 1937 :

Held, that as the payment was not made in respect of interest but the creditor appropriated the amount towards interest, the payment did not operate to save limitation by virtue of S. 20, it being neither a payment of interest as such nor a part payment of capital :

Held, further that the payment 'towards the above amount,' clearly meant 'towards the amount specified on the other side of the khata' as due on the loan and therefore, the endorsement of April 10, 1935, did amount to an acknowledgment within S. 19, Lim. Act, and prevented the suit from being barred by limitation. A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 218=44 Bom. LR. 426=I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 512=202 Ind. Cas. 277.

——Ss. 19, 20—Amount previously due by creditor to debtor—On subsequent date of accounting, such amount entered to credit of debtor.

An acknowledgment for the purposes of S. 19, need not necessarily contain a promise to pay, or amount to a promise to pay. The endorsement made by the debtor acknowledging the correctness of an account which showed him a debtor to the extent stated is a clear acknowledgment of the debt with the ordinary implication of a promise to pay, and this is sufficient for the purposes of S. 19.

Under S. 20, Lim. Act, it is not necessary that money should actually pass, as a settlement of account may be as effectual as a real payment and a transaction whereby the parties agree that an amount previously due by the creditor to the debtor shall be treated as amount paid by the latter to the former, is, in substance, identical with a transaction where the debtor receives actual payments and pays the amount back to the creditor and gives a fresh start of limitation from such date. 4 B.R. 461=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 139=174 Ind. Cas. 585.

——S. 19—If the debtor and creditor agree to the debtor making an entry in the books that a sum has been paid whereas, in fact, it has not been paid, such would be a payment to take the case out of the statute. It might be that entries could, in certain special circumstances, amount to acknowledgments by the debtor, but merely entering a fictitious payment cannot possibly amount to payment itself and what the statute requires is a payment or at least something which is tantamount to a payment. (1937) A.L.J. 166 =A.I.R. 1937 All. 260=1937 A.W.R. 138=168 Ind. Cas. 152.

——S. 19—Entry in account books—Unsigned entry.

An entry in the account books unsigned by the party against whom the money is claimed does not save limitation. 34 All. 464, Foll. 124 Ind. Cas. 24= A.I.R. 1930 All. 124.

——S. 19—Accounts—Signature of debtor.

Mere signature in the account book of another does not mean acknowledgment of debt. The signature alone signifies at the most the correctness of the figures entered in the book. M.L.T. 84=57. Ind. Cas. 756.

——S. 19—Signature in account book containing computation of interest.

A debtor signing his name in his creditor's book of account wherein interest up to a certain day has been calculated and admitting that he understood that he was liable for interest on an existing pronote is deemed to have acknowledged liability so as to save the bar of limitation, for action on the pronote though the entry of interest does not expressly refer to the pronote 3 Ind. Cas. 407 (Mad.).

6 (b). Endorsement—Of payment.

——S. 19—Endorsement of payment or of crediting of amount on promissory note—If acknowledgment.

Though a mere endorsement of payment by a debtor does not constitute an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act, yet if the endorsement is so worded that an acknowledgment of the debt can be read into it, either in view of the express words used or by necessary implication, such endorsement may amount to an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. Where an endorsement is made on a document creating liability against the executant thereof, as to a certain amount having been credited to such executant, the necessary implication and inevitable inference would be that the amount has been credited in the account evidenced by the document or towards the liability created by that document. Such an endorsement, when made by the debtor himself, must be held to constitute an acknowledgment by him of the liability evidenced by the document on which such endorsemcnt is made. A.I.R. 1949 E.P. 219.

——S. 19—Endorsement of payment—When amounts to acknowledgment.

A mere endorsement on a bond that a certain amount was paid would not constitute an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act although an endorsement that a certain amount was paid towards the bond would constitute such acknowledgment. 224 Ind.Cas. 65=12 B.R. 457=1946 P.W.N. 349=A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 404=27 P.L.T. 464.

——S. 19—Words "paid . . towards satisfaction" in an endorsement amount to an acknowledgment.

The words "paid. . . . towards the satisfaction" in an endorsement imply that a balance, for the payment of which the executant of the note was liable was due and hence amount to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19. 1945 N.L.J. 313=I.L.R (1945) Nag. 745=A.I.R 1945 Nag. 181.

——S. 19—Mere endorsement of payment.

A mere endorsement of payment without further specification does not operate as an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 26 P.L.T. 173=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 271=24 Pat. 96=11 B.R. 491=220 Ind. Cas. 255.

——S. 19—An endorsement on the bond "paid Rs. 20" does not show that there was any acknowledgment o liability in regard to the balance of the money alleged to be due under the bond and does not amount to acknowledgment within S. 19. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 88=45 P.L.R. 407=I.L.R. (1944) Lah. 528=213 Ind. Cas. 252.

——S. 19—Mere endorsement of payment.

An endorsement on a promissory note that "Rs. 75 was paid" on certain date does not amount to acknowledgment of any liability nor does it involve any promise to pay the unpaid balance. A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 37=45 Bom. L.R. 1014=215 Ind. Cas. 12.

——Ss. 19, 20—Document not coming within S. 20 may be acknowledgment within S. 19.

Section 19 and S. 20 are quite independent of each other. A document may be an acknowledgment within S. 19, although it does not evidence part payment within S. 20. Whether in any particular case the document relied upon amounts to an acknowledgment must depend on the language of that document. A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 218=44 Bom. L. R. 426=I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 512=202 Ind. Cas. 277.

——Ss. 19, 20—Amount paid towards pro-note—Endorsement not valid under S. 20, but sufficient acknowledgment under S. 19.

When a debtor pays a sum as a part payment of an interest bearing debt, without indicating whether the payment is towards interest or principal, in order to obtain a fresh period of limitation under S. 20, Lim. Act, it is incumbent upon the creditor to appropriate the sum paid towards the principal before the expiration of the prescribed period of limitation. An unappropriated payment cannot avail the creditor under S. 20, as a payment towards interest as such or towards principal saving limitation. But when there is a part payment endorsed in such terms as to make it ineffective for the purpose of S. 20, it may, by implication, amount to such an acknowledgment as would save limitation under S. 19.

An endorsement on a pro-note: "Paid on November 15, 1938, towards this promissory note, Rs. 2" held though not under S. 20, saved limitation under S. 19—, A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 146=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 848=54 L.W. 624=1942 M.W.N. 31=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 405=201 Ind. Cas. 182.

——Ss. 19, 20—Payment by debtor without specification, if acknowledgment of liability.

Where a payment is made without any specification and the debtor does not signify whether he is making the payment of interest as such or of part payment of the principal, there is really no admission on his part that any further sum is still due from him, and there is therefore, no acknowledgment of liability on his part. If, for instance, on the back of a promissory note are written by the maker the words "paid Rs. 10" the endorsement cannot be construed as being anything more than a statement of the payment. The sum of Rs. 10 may constitute which remains due in respect of the debt evidenced by the instrument.

But an endorsement on a promissory note in the words, 'paid Rs. 350 towards this promissory note and endorsed the payment hereon' can be read as an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19, Lim. Act. The use of the word "towards" in itself implies that more remains to be paid; in other words, that the payment is made on account of a larger sum due under the instrument. This amounts to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 353=55 L.W. 240 (2)=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 469=1942 M.W.N. 325=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 590=201 Ind. Cas. 586 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Mere endorsement of payment in respect of pro-note on back of note.

An acknowledgment of payment made in respect of the promissory note, on which the acknowledgment is endorsed does not amount to an acknowledgment of any further liability on the promissory note within the meaning of S. 19, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 508=1942 O.W.N. 582=18 Luck. 241=202 Ind. Cas. 750.

——Ss. 19, 20—Payment and endorsement by debtor on pro-note—Whether amount paid as interest or principal not specified—Creditor appropriating it towards principal—Limitation is extended under Ss. 19 and 20. A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 106=42 P.L.R. 103=189 Ind. Cas. 264.

——Ss. 19, 20—Difference between S. 19 and S. 20

There is a fundamental difference between Ss. 19 and 20, Limitation Act. Under S. 20 all that is necessary is that an acknowledgment of payment, (or under the old section as it stood before the amendment: "the fact of payment"), should appear in the handwriting of, or signed by the person making the payment. If the person making the payment is a Judge of the Court, and acknowledgment of the payment, (or the facts of payment if the unamended section applies) appears in his handwriting or is signed by him, then that is enough. But that is not enough under S. 19. A.I.R. 1940 Nag. 354=1940 N.L.J. 445=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 182=193 Ind. Cas. 401.

——Ss. 19, 20—Distinction between.

The effect of an acknowledgment in S. 19, Limitation Act, is more restricted, and in general it only affects not the person giving it. But payment under S. 20 affects not only the person making the payment but also other persons who are liable. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 129=66 C.L.J. 104=42 C.W.N. 18=176 Ind. Cas. 191.

——Ss. 19, 20—Sections 19 and 20, Limitation Act, are independent of each other. One may have an acknowledgment of liability, which comes within S. 19, unaccompanied by any part payment; or one may have an acknowledgment of liability coupled with a part payment, which complies with the terms of S. 20 in which case the debt is saved from limitation both under S. 19 and under S. 20; but, if there is a part payment which does not comply with the terms of S. 20, that cannot prevent the document operating as an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. All that is required under S. 19 is an acknowledgment of liability in respect of the debt.

Consequently, where endorsement on a pro-note states that certain payment has been made as vasul, i.e., towards payment, but it is not paid expressly as interest, the payment being on account of the debt secured by the note on which the endorsement is made, the endorsement amounts to an acknowledgment of liability to pay debt within the meaning of S. 19. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 252=41 Bom. L.R. 455=182 Ind. Cas. 965.

——Ss. 19, 20—A promisor made an endorsement on the back of the promissory note executed by him for Rs. 2,141, 'paid on accoun t Rs. 10' which was followed by his signature:

Held, that the endorsement meant that the promisor had not paid in the full the amount due and was, therefore, an acknowledgment of liability and a fresh period of limitation must be computed from its date. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 401=1938 Rang. L.R. 594=178 Ind. Cas. 869.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Sum payable every two years as profits or interest—Such sum paid and endorsement made on back of mortgage-deed before expiry of limitation.

An endorsement on the back of the mortgage-deed to the effect that a sum of Rs. 82 on account of profit from June, 1923 to June, 1925 had been paid that day to the mortgage signed by both parties amounts to an acknowledgment of a liability in respect of the mortgage and if the period of limitation has not then expired, a fresh period of limitation commences from that date. Section 20 applies as well, as the sum of Rs. 82 payable every two years was in the nature of interest. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 971.

——S. 19—An endorsement on the back of a promissory note that certain amount is paid in respect to the pro-note neither imports nor implies any acknowledgement whatsoever in respect to anything beyond the amount which was then being paid. (1938) A.L.J. 1233=1939 A.W.R. 23=A.I.R. 1939 All. 177=I.L.R. (1939) All. 200=180 Ind. Cas. 535.

——S. 19—There is no warrant for restricting the use of the word 'acknowledgment' in S. 19, to mean 'express' acknowledgment. It may be either express or implied. Each case must be decided on its merits.

Where in a case the promisor has endorsed the pro-note admittedly executed by him, to the effect that he had paid certain amount and had made a signature thereunder :

Held, that the only reasonable inference that could be drawn from this was that the promisor had acknowledged his liability to pay the balance due on the promissory note. The endorsement on the promissory note was an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 84=1937 Rang. L. R. 421=175 Ind. Cas. 550.

——S. 19—Where an endorsement on the promissory note was to the effect that out of the amount due under the pro-note, Rs. 1,000 was paid this day, the endorsement, though it does not indicate that it is a payment towards interest, it contains a clear acknowledgment of liability enough to save limitation. 43 L.W. 665=(1936) M.W.N. 451=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 616=163 Ind. Cas. 803.

——S. 19—Endorsement of payment—If acknowledgment.

An endorsement on the back of a mortgage bond was as follows : "Paid on account of the principal as per separate accounts Rupees one thousand seven hundred fifty-one only:"

Held, that the endorsement constituted an acknowledgment of the mortgagee's rights to receive the balance of the principal amount.

Whether a particular endorsement does or does not constitute an acknowledgment of the right claimed by the plaintiff must depend upon its terms. 64 Ind. Cas. 988=48 Cal. 1046=33 C.L.J. 433=26 O.W.N. 283=A. I. R. 1921 Cal. 331.

what is not contained in the document itself. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 629=17 L. 737=165 In.. Cas. 723.

——S. 19—According to Explanation 1 to S. 19 it is not necessary that the writing itself should specify the exact nature of the property or right in respect of which liability is acknowledged and there is to be no bar to extrinsic evidence being admitted for the purpose. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 635=16 Lah. 258=37 P.L.R. 478=155 Ind. Cas. 1074. Overruled on another point in A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 50.

——S. 19—Where a debtor pays a certain sum of money to his creditor, there may be an implied acknowledgment of the liability to the extent of the amount paid. It cannot, however, be said that the remaining liability shown by evidence aliunde should be deemed to have also been acknowledged. A.I.R. 1933 All. 453=55 All. 632 =1933 A.L.J. 930=144 Ind. Cas. 899.

——S. 19—Receipt for old loan executed on later date—Extrinsic evidence — Permissibility.

Where A borrowed money from B on July 3, 1927, and executed a pro-note and receipt in favour of B and again executed a receipt for the old loan on 19th June, 1930.

Held, that the latter receipt amounted to a sufficient acknowledgment of A's liability to repay the loan of July 3, 1927, and that as nothing was paid to A on July 10, 1930, extrinsic evidence was permissible to show the true meaning of the language used in the receipt, under S. 95, Evidence Act. A.I.R. 1933 Oudh 80=9 O.W. N. 1024=8 Luck. 195=141 Ind. Cas. 298.

——S. 19—Where an acknowledgment states that a debt is due to A, oral evidence is admissible to prove that the name of A was entered by mistake for that of B who was the real creditor, the case being one of latent ambiguity covered by S. 95, Evidence Act. A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 54=7 O.W. N. 1195=130 Ind. Cas. 347.

——S. 19 (2)—Oral evidence of date.

Where the date of a document containing an acknowledgment has been completely scored out by the executant, for the purposes of cl. (2) of S. 19, the document may be treated as undated and oral evidence may be given as to the correct date of the acknowledgment.

When a document filed in Court is undated, an acknowledgment contained in it may, in the absence of any evidence, be taken to be made on the date on which it was so filed. 63 M.L.J. 785=36 L.W. 865=(1932) M.W.N. 1330=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 104=140 Ind. Cas. 774.

——S. 19—Oral evidence, of date — Alteration—Admissibility of.

Oral evidence is inadmissible to prove the date of an acknowledgment where it is not undated, but the date is unauthorisedly altered subsequently. (1901) 3 Bom.L.R. 574=26 Bom. 128. See also 25 M. 220.

——S. 19—Nature of acknowledgment—Oral evidence—Admissibility.

Although an acknowledgment may imply a promise for extending limitation it is, without a promise, insufficient to create a contract and cannot be enforced as such. Being neither contract, grant nor disposition of property nor analogous to any of them, it is not a document contemplated by S. 92 of the Evidence Act. So the prohibition regarding the admissibility of oral evidence is not applicable to an acknowledgment. 26 N.L.R. 320=A.I.R. 1930 Nag. 298.

——S. 19—Admissibility in evidence—No specific mention of debt—Reference to other parts permissible.

Where a document containing an acknowledgment of debt, does not specifically mention the debt due to the plaintiff, a reference to other parts of the deed to elucidate the meaning is permissible. 129 Ind. Cas. 281=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 985.

——S. 19—Identity of liability—Proved by independent evidence—Acknowledgment good.

If the acknowledgment of the liability is capable of being identified with the liability sought to be enforced in the suit by adducing independent evidence, the acknowledgment should be regarded as a good acknowledgment for the purpose of saving limitation. 1930 A.L.J. 1018=126 Ind. Cas. 353=A.I.R. 1930 All. 368.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment must be in writing—Name and date—Oral evidence admissible.

Oral evidence is admissible to prove the identity of the debt, property or right in respect of which the acknowledgment is made, or the name of the creditor or of the person entitled to the right of property or the date of an acknowledgment, and these need not appear on the face of the writing, but the writing itself must import an acknowledgment of an existing liability. Such liability cannot be read into it by proof aliunde or by subsequent admission of the acknowledgor. 26 Mad. 34, Foll. 65 Ind. Cas. 279=17 N.L.R. 209=A.I.R. 1921 Nag. 1.

——S. 19—Debt under consideration—Proof.

Where the acknowledgment is contained in a document which does not prove a definite and certain debt any other debt proved is presumed to be the debt, under consideration. 60 Ind. Cas. 189 =7 O.L.J. 451=23 O.C. 176=2 U.P.L.R. (J. C.) 152.

——S. 19—Proof of debt.

It is settled law that the identity of the debt acknowledged in writing may be proved by parol evidence. 34 Ind. Cas. 417 (Mad.).

——S. 19—Plaintiff basing claim on hand-note altered by him—Hand-note executed in satisfaction of original one—Plaintiff, if can succeed on basis of original consideration—Whether can rely upon altered hand-note as acknowledgment of original one.

A person who has altered a hand-note upon which his suit is based and which is executed in satisfaction of the original hand-note is not entitled to succeed on the basis of the original consideration and cannot rely upon the altered hand-note as embodying an acknowledgment sufficient to save the bar of limitation. In such a case, the description by the defendant in his written statement of the manner in which the original hand-note had been executed, cannot properly be treated as an admission that he was still liable on the original hand-note and the whole claim on the altered hand-note is liable to be dismissed. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 255=5 B.R. 318=179 Ind. Cas. 890.

——S. 19—Suit on insufficiently stamped promissory note—Receipt acknowledging liability under earlier loan in lieu of which the promissory note was executed—Plaintiff's claim based on the original loan, held was saved by the acknowledgment made in the receipt. (1943) O.W.N. 483=1943 A.W.R. 187=214 Ind. Cas. 146.

——S. 19—Insufficiently stamped pro-note, whether operates as acknowledgment.

An insufficiently stamped promissory note cannot operate as an acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1940 Nag. 215=1940 N.L.J. 658=187 Ind. Cas. 367.

——S. 19—Pro-note insufficiently stamped and inadmissible under S. 35, Stamp Act (2 of 1899)—Endorsement of payment appearing on it.

Although a pro-note itself is inadmissible in evidence under S. 35, Stamp Act, being insufficiently stamped, an endorsement of payment appearing on it can be validated as an acknowledgment of the liability upon the original debt. The instrument that is inadmissble under S. 35 of the Stamp Act, is the matter written on the substance by means of letters described as the promissory note. For the purpose of extending the period of limitation, what is relied on is not the writing which constitutes the promissory note and which is inadmissible, but the endorsement on the insufficiently stamped note. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 34=48 L.W. 498=(1938) M.W.N. 875=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 840 =183 Ind. Cas. 882.

——S. 19—Insufficiently stamped promissory note —Whether can extend limitation.

By reason of S. 35 Stamp Act, an improperly stamped promissory note is inadmissible in evidence as acknowledgment of debt unde Art. 1 of the Stamp Act. But S. 35 cannot preclude the admission of that document to prove the mere fact that the debtor made an admission of liability to pay apart from any intention of supplying evidence of such debt. S. 35 would come into play only if the document were used as containing within itself any matter which would extend the creditor's right to recover the money, but if the creditor derives his right, not from the document itself as it would be if it were treated as an acknowledgment under Art. 1 of the Stamp Act, but from the Limitation Act in consequence of the admission of liability simpliciter contained in that document, then S. 35 has no applicability. A document which is relevant for the purpose of the application of S. 19 of the Limitation Act need not be an instrument within the meaning of the definition of the term in S. 2 (14) of the Stamp Act. Consequently the document is admissible to prove the fact of admission made by the debtor of his existing liability. S. 19 of the Limitation Act, therefore, comes to the aid in extending the period of limitation.

Obiter.—An insufficiently stamped promissory note is capable of being treated as an agreement chageable with duty under Art. 5 (c) of Sch. 1 to the Stamp Act. On that view, the document becomes admissible on payment of requisite duty and penalty. 1938 N.L.J. 145=A. I. R. 1938 Nag. 294=177 Ind. Cas. 678.

——S. 19—When a promissory note contains, in addition to promise, a statement that the amount for which it was given was due in settlement of a previous account and the instrument is not sufficiently stamped, it is inadmissible for any purposes and cannot even be used as an acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 75=46 L.W. 692=(1937) M.W.N. 1050=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 805=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 210=175 Ind. Cas. 24.

Overrules—(1) A.I.R. 1930 Mad 485=124 Ind. Cas. 53. (2) A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 251=141 Ind. Cas. 169.

——S. 19—An improperly stamped promissory note cannot be admitted in evidence to prove acknowledgment of liability in order to save limitation in respect of promissory notes previously executed. (1937) M.W.N. 1050=46 L.W. 692= (1937) 2 M.L.J. 805=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 210 =A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 75=175 Ind. Cas. 24.

Overruling—(1) A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 485=124 Ind. Cas. 53. (2) A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 251=141 Ind. Cas. 169.

——S. 19—The admissibility of the invalid pro-note in evidence, as an admission by the promisor of his liability, depends upon proof of the original transaction which is evidenced by the invalid promissory note. A. I. R. 1937 Rang. 408=1937 Rang. L.R. 127=173 Ind. Cas. 604.

——S. 19—Insufficiently stamped pro-note.

Although an insufficiently stamped pro-note is not admissible in evidence, as such it can be used as an acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1934 All. 951= 4 A.W.R. 657=153 Ind. Cas. 551.

——S. 19—A promissory note which is inadmissible in evidence owing to defective stamp duty cannot operate as an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, to save limitation. 16 N.L. J. 241=A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 391=147 Ind. Cas. 981.

——S. 19—Pro-note insufficiently stamped—Cannot be used even as an acknowledgment under S. 19.

A claim was originally based on a pro-note which was afterwards found to be insufficiently stamped. The plaint was amended and the plaintiff claimed that it might be treated as an acknowledgment of debt under S. 19, Limitation Act;

Held; that the pro-note could not be so used. 112 Ind. Cas. 247=5 O.W.N. 750=A.I.R. 1928 Oudh 408.

——S. 19—Pro-note—Insufficiently stamped renewal pro-note.

Where a pro-note is granted as a substitute for a previous pro-note, but is not sufficiently stamped, operate as a pro-note, it remains and is sufficient then, although a substituted pro-note, does not acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 98 Ind. Cas. 75=1926 M.W.N. 757=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 1148.

——S. 19—When the trial Court, holding that a pro-note was inadmissible in evidence not being duly stamped as such, nevertheless admitted it in evidence as a validly stamped acknowledgment:

Held, that the Appellate Court was debarred from interfering in the matter. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 240 (1)=34 P.L.R. 501=141 Ind. Cas. 569.

——S. 19—Receipt inadmissible as bond—Admissible to prove acknowledgment.

A receipt bearing one anna stamp can serve as proof of acknowledgment of a debt, though it may be inadmissible in evidence as a bond containing express promise to pay, for want of proper stamp. 121 Ind. Cas. 108=1929 A.L.J. 1279=A.I.R. 1929 All. 980.

——S. 19—Mortgage executed for past balances—Mortgage invalid owing to Tenancy Law of Oudh—Serves as acknowledgment.

Where a mortgage of tenancy rights was executed in consideration of past debts and was found to be invalid under Oudh Tenancy Law.

Held, that it served as an acknowledgment of old debts on the basis of which a decree can be passed. 89 Ind. Cas. 175=12 O.L.J. 334=2 O.W.N. 318=A.I.R. 1925 Oudh 401.

7. (b) Evidence of acknowledgment—Onus and proof.

——S. 19—Acknowledgments — Onus to prove handwriting of disputed signature.

Decree-holder relying on judgment-debtor's acknowledgment to bring execution within time—Judgment-debtor challenging the signature to be forgery—The burden lies on the decree-holder to prove that the signature is that of judgment-debtor. (1946) 12 B.R. 615=A.I.R. 1947 Pat. 139.

——S. 19—Entries in khewat of 1878 showing mortgagees to be in possession, mentioning mortgage amount and stating that mortgage was redeemable at Dasehra in Jeth—Entries attested by mortgagors and mortgagees.

(Per Collister, Hamilton, Bajpai and Dar, JJ.)—That even if the entries could be treated as acknowledgment of liability, the mortgages being oral and ancient of unknown date, the onus was still on the plaintiff to show that the liability was legally subsisting in 1878 by showing that the acknowledgment was made within 60 years of the mortgage or within 60 years of an earlier acknowledgment. No presumption could be made from the entries in favour of the plaintiff that the liability was subsisting at the time of the acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1943 All. 393=1943 A.W.R. 291=(1943) A.L.J. 548=I.L.R. (1944) All. 76=212 Ind. Cas. 238 (F.B.).

Overruled—1 All. 117 (F.B.)=1 All. 425=5 Ind. Cas. 77 (All.) and A.I.R. 1929 All. 209=115 Ind. Cas. 451.

——S. 19—In a suit for redemption of a mortgage, the onus lies on the plaintiff to show that at the time of the suit their mortgage was still subsisting and if they endeavour to rely on an acnowledgment, the onus still lies on them to prove that the acknowledgment was within time. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 121=154 Ind. Cas. 773.

——S 19—Redemption suit—Onus of proof—Subsisting title.

In a suit for redemption the onus is on plaintiff to show not only that there is a mortgage, but also that he has a subsisting title to redeem. He must prove the date of the mortgage affirmatively. An acknowledgment, to be valid must amount to an acknowledgment of liability to plaintiff. It must appear, on the face of the acknowledgment, that there was an existing liability, and such liability cannot be read into it by proof, aliunde, though the nature of the right or liability referred to in the acknowledgment may be proved by evidence dehors the written acknowledgment. A mere declaration by the mortgagee that the mortgagor is the owner will not be a sufficient acknowledgment of the mortgagor's title, unless the mortgagee further acknowledges that he is in possession or holds under the mortgagor. (1902) 12 M.L.J. 101=26 M. 34. Also (1907) 6 C.L.J. 544.

——S. 19—Onus on a person relying on acknowledgment.

A plaintiff who is prosecuting a suit which is on the face of it barred by limitation and who is trying to bring it within limitation by proving an acknowledgment under S. 19 which gives him fresh period, must give cogent proof of his allegation. 66 Ind. Cas. 171=44 All. 360=20 A.L.J. 140=A.I.R. 1922 All. 37.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment that consideration has been paid.

An acknowledgment in a deed that the consideration has been paid is conclusive against the executant and where the document contains an acknowledgment of the receipt of the consideration, that is strong prima facie evidence that the consideration has been actually received and is evidenc not only against the mortgagors but also against persons claiming under them subsequent to the date of the mortgage. 1935 O.W.N. 1045=A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 501=158 Ind. Cas. 267.

——S. 19—Passage in a judgment in prior suit—Statement that a person admitted possession as mortgagee—Denial by the person—Exact statement not before Court—Statement is no acknowledgment.

A person against whom an acknowledgment that he was mortgagee of a holding was sought to be proved by reference to a judgment of settlement Court, had in fact in that case maintained that he was a full tenant of the holding and had denied that anybody had the right to redeem him. But in the judgment of the settlement Court it was stated "In his examination he admitted that he did not get the mutation of names effected because he held possession as mortgagee." The exact statement of the person in that case, however, was not before the Court, Held, that the statement did not amount to acknowledgment of liability as mortgagee so as to give fresh start of limitation under S. 19. 119 Ind. Cas. 565=A.I.R. 1929 All. 332.

——S. 19—Admission of partnership accounts and of obligation to settle the accounts — Sufficient agreement to pay sum found due not necessary.

Where a plaintiff in a suit for the making of accounts of a dissolved partnership relies on an acknowledgment, all that the plaintiff is required to prove is that the defendant has admitted from time to time the existence of the partnership accounts between the parties and his obligation to settle such accounts. It is not necessary, for the acknowledgment to be operative, that he should go further and state that he was bound to pay any particular sum or such sum as may be found due by him. 104 Ind. Cas. 572=22 S.L.R. 117=A. I.R. 1928 Sind 45.

8. Execution application.

——S. 19—Execution.

Section 19 applies to execution applications. 79 Ind. Cas. 897=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 197.

——S. 19, Art. 183, Proviso — Execution proceedings — S 19 is not controlled by proviso to Art. 183.

It is clear from Expl. 3, S. 19, Limitation Act that the section as a whole does not cease to operate on decree. It applies to execution proceedings. The proviso to col. 3, Art. 183, relates directly to the fixing of the terminus a quo for the period of limitation mentioned in the preceding column. Section 19 is general and is not controlled or limited by the language of the proviso to col. 3, item No. 183. The two matters may be independent but it does not follow that the scope of S. 19 should be narrowed by the proviso. A. I.R. 1940 Cal. 210 (1)=I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 528=44 C.W.N. 322=188 Ind. Cas. 280.

——S. 19—Payment by judgment-debtor in "part satisfaction" of decretal amount.

Certain payments made by the judgment-debtor towards the decretal amount were referred to in the petition filed by the judgment-debtor and the decree-holder under O. 21, R. 2, C. P. Code, which was signed by the judgment-debtor. After referring to the payments, the petition stated "both parties pray that payment be recorded in part satisfaction."

Held, that the words "in part satisfaction" amounted to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 280=11 B.R. 498=220 Ind. Cas. 378 =11 Cut.L.T. 23.

——S. 19—Where a judgment-debtor states "I have this day agreed to pay to you Rs. 100 in full satisfaction of the said decree":

Held, the words, "in full satisfaction of the said decree" connotes that there is a subsisting liability under the said decree and constitute a sufficient acknowledgment of liability under the decree and the liability is not confined to Rs. 100 only. (1936) M.W.N. 1335.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment in application for adjustment gives fresh start.

An acknowledgment by the judgment-debtor of his liability for portion of money by means of an application for adjustment under O. 21, R. 2, gives a fresh start of limitation in respect of the entire amount. A.I.R. 1930 Cal. 304=124 Ind. Cas. 830.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment saves limitation for execution.

A letter by judgment-debtor to decree-holder acknowledging his liability to pay the decretal amount is an acknowledgment within S. 19 and saves limitation for execution. 79 Ind. Cas. 66 =A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 147.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment in satisfaction petition—Sufficient.

An acknowledgment of liability made in an application to enter satisfaction pro tanto of a decree is sufficient acknowledgment under S. 19. 61 Ind. Cas. 979=13 M.L.W. 37=1921 M.W. N. 181=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 126.

——S. 19—Execution proceedings — Acknowledgment—Effect.

Effect of acknowledgment of right in execution proceedings is only to give 3 years from that date and not another 12 years therefrom. The words "fresh period of limitation" in S. 19 do not refer to term of 12 years prescribed by S. 48, C. P. Code. 20 C.W.N. 952=2 Pat.L.W. 370=1 Pat.L.J. 214=34 Ind. Cas. 27.

——S. 19—Execution proceedings — Uncertified payment—Effect.

An uncertified payment is no step-in-aid to save limitation. But in the execution application itself the decree-holder may apply to certify the payment and then it would save limitation. 43 Cal. 207=20 C.W.N. 272=23 C.L.J. 390=34 Ind. Cas. 606.

——S. 19—Execution of decree — Acknowledgment.

Under S. 19 of the Limitation Act of 1877 acknowledgment of decree debts had not the effect of saving limitation. A right barred under the old Act cannot be revived by a new Act without express words. 5 M. 171 (F.B.), Foll. (1914) M.W.N. 875=26 Ind. Cas. 368.

——S. 19—Execution of decree—Application by decree-holder not reciting terms of adjustment—Limitation.

An execution application by a decree-holder without reciting the terms of an alleged adjustment does not embody an acknowledgment of the judgment-debtor's right to have the adjustment recorded as certified and hence the application was barred by limitation under S. 19, Limitation Act. 19 C.L.J. 126=21 Ind. Cas. 926.

——S. 19—Execution of decree—Application for execution of a small amount — Subsequent application for execution for a larger additional amount.

Where an application for execution for a smaller sum was presented and the judgment-debtors acknowledged that sum and then another was put in for a larger sum left out of the first application, it was held that the acknowledgment of the smaller sum cannot save limitation as regards the larger sum. 15 C.L.J. 251=16 C.W. N. 493=13 Ind. Cas. 702.

——S. 19—Execution of decree — Compromise—Extension of time.

A compromise to have the rest of the decree executed at a future time without fixing any period for the same serves to extend the period of limitation under S. 19. S. 19 applies to an application for execution. 15 C.W.N. 82=6 Ind. Cas. 366.

——S. 19 and Art. 182—Execution proceedings.

The provisions of S. 19 apply also to a right to enforce a decree. An application by an arrested judgment-debtor praying for release and for an order to pay the decretal amount in instalments is a sufficient acknowledgment of liability for computing a fresh period of limitation. 8 C.W. N. 470, Foll. 5 N.L.R. 8=1 Ind. Cas. 240.

——S. 19, Art. 179—Execution—Decree obtained by pauper — Attachment by Government for Court-fees — Acknowledgment to Government, whether saves limitation to decree-holder.

A petition in which the judgment-debtor agreed to pay a certain sum to the person who attached the decree and took out execution, constitutes an acknowledgment of liability to the decree-holder's representative. Hence an application for execution by the decree-holder within 3 years from the date of such petition is not barred. A person attaching a decree is a representative of the decree-holder. 15 C. 371 foll. A judgment-debtor in acknowledging his liability even for a part of his liability under the decree makes such an acknowledgment as, under S. 19 gives rise to a new period of limitation. It is sufficient acknowledgment to save limitation under the explanation to S. 19 although it was not addressed to the person entitled. (1906) 6 C.L.J. 141.

——S. 19—Judgment-debt — Acknowledgment of —Saving limitation—Change of law.

An acknowledgment of a judgment debt under S. 19 saves limitation. The law as it stood under S. 20 of the Limitation Act of 1871 has been changed. (1902) 6 C.W.N. 766. See also 8 C. W. 470; 26 A. 36.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment, effect of, in execution proceedings. 3 A. 247; 8 C. 716; 9 C. 730; 23 C. 374 foll. 5 M. 171 (F.B.) (diss. from. (1904) 8 C.W.N. 470, Also 6 C.W.N. 766.

[New made clear by Expl. III of the new section in the new Act.—ED.]

9. Implied acknowledgment.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment.

The acknowledgment of liability might be express but it may equally well be made impliedly as long as the implication is clear that the debtor or the person who was the debtor at the time did intend to acknowledge his liability. 45 P.L.R. 407=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 88=I.L.R. (1944) Lah. 528=213 Ind. Cas. 253.

——S. 19 — Acknowledgment must be implied from facts and circumstances.

Section 19 says nothing about a promise to pay, but requires only a definite admission of liability, as to which there can be no reason for departing from the English principle that an unqualified admission and an admission qualified by a condition which is fulfilled stand upon precisely the same footing.

The admission of liability or acknowledgment must be one which can be implied from the facts and surrounding circumstances and is not one which is implied as a matter of law. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 170=22 P.L.T. 1057=8 B.R. 608=199 Ind. Cas. 657.

——S. 19—An acknowledgment of interest due implies acknowledgment of principal on which the interest is due. 1937 M.W.N. 1312.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment—Two bonds —Payments not satisfying either bond—Thumb impression of debtor is admission of debts under both bonds.

Where in the case of two bonds the payments made have not fully satisfied either bond, and to show the intention of the parties no specific reference thereto is made in the endorsement of payment, the only reasonable implication to be put on endorsements of payments is that the debtor by affixing his thumb impression thereto admitted by implication that the balance due under each bond is still due from him. 91 Ind. Cas. 402=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 252.

——S. 19—Nature of the implication.

If an acknowledgment is not express it may be by implication but the implication must be a necessary implication so that the acknowledgment is clear and unequivocal. 8 Bom. 99; 6 Mad. 182; 30 Cal. 699 and 9 Bom.L.R. 715, Foll. 79 Ind. Cas. 914=17 S.L.R. 324=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 181.

——S. 19—Execution on some prior date admitted—No implication as to subsistence of liability.

In a previous suit the defendant had deposed as a witness "I am the third defendant. I and the second defendant purchased some land from the first defendant. For the balance of price due to her, Ex. A was executed."

Held, that this was not an acknowledgment of a liability subsisting at the date when the witness deposed. As the witness did not speak of the price as being till due to the first defendant at the time, no implied acknowledgment of liability can be spelt out of the mere statement that the witness on some prior date executed a certain bond. A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 104; 45 M. 443; 26 Mad. 34; 16 Mad. 220, Foll. A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 464, Doubted. 73 Ind. Cas. 952=17 M.L.W. 674=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 634.

——S. 19—Admission of prior liability—Nothing said as to discharge—No acknowledgment of subsisting liability.

An admission of past liability unaccompanied by an allegation of discharge cannot in all cases be interpreted as an admission of subsisting liability. Liability can only signify present liability at the time of acknowledgment. From the language used and the circumstances in which the acknowledgment is made, it must be decided whether it amounts to an implied acknowledgment of subsisting liability. 36 Mad. 68, Foll. 70 Ind. Cas. 576=45 Mad. 443=1922 M.W.N. 168=15 M.L.W. 325=32 M.L.T. 576=A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 104 =42 M.L.J. 268.

——S. 19—Rubkai of proceedings—Inference.

No admission, amounting to an acknowledgment under S. 19 of the Act, can be inferred from the Rubkai of proceedings under Regulation 17 of 1806. 63 Ind. Cas. 490=3 U.P.L.R. (All.) 179.

——S. 19—Implied Acknowledgment — Account debiting a particular sum.

Defendant sent a letter and a memorandum of account to the plaintiff stating that they were squaring an account of Rs. 1,654 by debiting against the plaintiff Rs. 1,497 due to the defendant from a third party and remitting the balance to the plaintiff. Held, there was an acknowledgment in respect of the whole sum of Rs. 1,654. 18 A. L.J. 1131=59 Ind. Cas. 941.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment —Promise to pay.

Defendant wrote as follows in reply to the plaintiff:—"In case the account is compared now and any amount is due, my client is prepared to pay it. The amount mentioned in your notice is not due as per your accounts. As my client is not aware of certain amounts contained in the kaichits given to the aforesaid person, it is not possible to set right the accounts of my client. I am therefore instructed by my client that your client should be made to give forthwith the kaichits and accounts and on getting them compared should receive the amount found to be true." Held, that there was a sufficient acknowledgment of the liability to save limitation and it was not conditional on the accounts being gone into. 12 L.W. 352=59 Ind. Cas. 898.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Suit for balance of account.

Where the existence of an account is admitted, the inevitable deduction must be that the person making such an admission acknowledges his liability to pay his debt if any debt is found against him. The admission relied on in the case amounted to an acknowledgment of liability to pay and the bar of limitation was removed. 2 Lah. L.J. 107=1 Lah. 357=58 Ind. Cas. 787.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment—Liability in dispute — Acknowledgment of principal—Interest.

An acknowledgment of liability within S. 19 of the Limitation Act need not be express but there must be a necessary implication so that the acknowledgment is clear and unequivocal. The acknowledgment must also distinctly and definitely relate to the liability in dispute and not to any liability. An acknowledgment of liability in respect of the amount due as principal, does not involve an admission to pay interest. 13 S.L.R. 183=55 Ind. Cas. 822.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Recital in later bond.

An acknowledgment of liability need not be express but may be implied and the mention in a later bond of the earlier bond was by implication a sufficient acknowledgment of liability to bring the claim on the later bond within the time. 131 P.R. 1919=53 Ind. Cas. 425.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Endorsement of payment.

An endorsement of payment on the back of the bond in the handwriting of the debtor amounts to an implied acknowledgment of the debt. 48 Ind. Cas. 724 (Nag.).

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment.

The assignee of a subscriber to a chit fund wrote to the manager of the fund asking for payment of the subscription due to his assignor; the manager replied "you have not shown me the deed of assignment under which you claim. Further I have been issued an injunction order prohibiting me from paying the amount to anybody. A third party Sunder Rao has sent me a notice that the amount was due to him. You are informed that you must send me the amount of subscription and I cannot give you credit for anything". Held, that the letter amounted to an acknowledment of liability. An acknowledgment of liability may be express or implied. 25 C. 844 (P.C.); 35 A. 437, Applied. 34 M.L.J. 551=46 Ind. Cas. 973.

——S. 19, Expl. 2—Implied acknowledgment — What is.

Where a judgment-debtor in an execution proceeding objected to his being arrested as he was a poor man and asked for the stay of the warrant till his objection had been decided, there is no acknowledgment of debt within the meaning of S. 19 as an acknowledgment must be a clear acknowledgment and not a mere inference. 39 All. 357 =15 A.L.J. 305=38 Ind. Cas. 105.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment—Pre-emption.

During a pre-emption suit, by an inferior pre-emptor, the vendee entered an agreement to sell the property, the subject-matter of the suit, to a superior pre-emptor. Held the agreement was an acknowledgment of the right under the section. 20 O.C. 13=38 Ind. Cas. 582.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment—Suit on accounts — Part-payment by insurance towards accounts—Whether acknowledgment.

A sum sent by debtor by insured post with directions to credit in his accounts amounts to acknowledgment. 4 L.W. 148=36 Ind .Cas. 593.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment.

Acknowledgment may be by implication but it must be a necessary implication. 9 S.L.R. 143 =32 Ind. Cas. 548.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Implied acknowledgment — Endorsement of payment—No payment.

An endorsement not good as a payment under S. 20, might still operate as a valid acknowledgment; where can endorsement of payment is made on a promissory note but no payment is in fact made, the endorsement will be sufficient as an acknowledgment to save limitation. 17 M.L.T. 139=28 Ind. Cas. 15.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Letter accompanying part-payment.

Where a lessee was bound to pay his rent under a registered lease in four intalments, the last of which was to be paid in February 1902 and the lessee sent to his lessor Rs. 20 on 15th February 1905 and a letter requesting him to credit the amount to the account on the lease, and the lessor brought a suit for recovery of amounts due under the lease held that the suit was not time-barred as the letter of the 15th February, 1905 contained a clear admission that the rent was then due and an implied promise to pay whatever was actually due. 17 M.L.T. 78=27 Ind. Cas. 744.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Endorsement of receipt of money—No actual payment—If sufficient acknowledgment.

Where an endorsement of payment is relied on as acknowledgment of liability, the fact that no amount was paid on that date does not make the endorsement inoperative if it was the intention of the parties that it should be treated as such. 26 Ind. Cas. 754 (Mad.).

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment—Co-mortgagor's right to redeem.

A co-mortgagor's statement in the plaint of a redemption suit that the other co-mortgagors have been impleaded as defendants as they would not join as plaintiffs is an "acknowledgment" within the meaning of the section, of the latter's right to redeem. 36 All. 408=12 A.L.J. 674=24 Ind. Cas. 104.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Implied acknowledgment — Nature of.

An acknowledgment under S. 19, may be implied, but the implication must be a necessary deduction from the language used, that the party acknowledging was referring to and admitting the particular liability in dispute, and not vaguely any or every liability. 13 C.L.J. 139=8 Ind. Cas. 81.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Running account.

An admission that there was a current account between the parties is valid acknowledgment, though the correctness of the amount charged is not admitted and though it is made by an agent conditionally, and subject to the principal's approval. 55 P.R. 1910=136 P.L.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 948.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment—Liability to account.

An acknowledgment of liability to render an account to plaintiff does not amount to an acknowledgment of any indebtedness or debt within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 87 P.L.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 929.

——S. 19—Implied acknowledgment — Reference to arbitration.

A reference to arbitration entrusting to the arbitrators, the whole business of winding up of the partnership with authority to award from one party to another, whatever may be due; if in writing and signed by the parties, amounts to acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. For the purpose of saving limitation, it is immaterial that the defendants in the acknowledgment contended that nothing would be due to the plaintiff on taking accounts. 3 S.L.R. 53=2 Ind. Cas. 370.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment—English and Indian Law.

In India an acknowledgment to save limitation in respect of a debt must be an express acknowledgment of liability in respect of the debt claimed or some part of it. In English Law, the law is different and an acknowledgment of a partial and conditional character would be sufficient to prevent the operation of the law of limitation. 26 C. 175, Dis. 16 M. 221, Appr. Where an acknowledgment was made in the following terms: "The bill is incorrect.—I will examine the estimates and after deducting what has to be deducted I will see what is due." Held, that it is no acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. (1903) 7 C.W.N. 651=30 C. 699. Confirmed on appeal in 31 C. 195.

10. Mortgagor and mortgagee.

(a) Acknowledgment by mortgagor.
(b) Acknowledgment by mortgagee.
(c) Acknowledgment by sub-mortgagee.

10. (a) Mortgagor and mortgagee—Acknowledgment by mortgagor.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by mortgagor in favour of first mortgagee—If operates against second mortgagee—Title of latter originating before acknowledgment.

The acknowledgment of a mortgagor in favour of first mortgagee would not operate against second mortgagee whose title originated before the acknowledgment had been given. A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 505.

——S. 19—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Acknowledgment by mortgagor in favour of prior mortgagee—If operates against subsequent mortgagee—Title of latter accruing before acknowledgment.

An acknownedgment given by a mortgagor in favour of a prior mortgagee will not operate against a subsequent mortgagee whose title accrued before the acknowledgment was given. This principle applies no less to a case in which the mortgagor giving the acknowledgment has retained some scintilla of interest in the form of an equity of redumption than to a case in which he has parted with his interest altogether. I.L.R. (1947) A. 11=229 Ind. Cas. 583=1947 A.L.J. 129=1947 A.L.W. 376=1947 A. W. R. (H.C.) 101=A.I.R. 1947 All. 74 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by mortgagor in favour of first mortgagee after creating second mortgage—If binds second mortgagee.

S. 19 of the Limitation Act does not allow a mortgagor, after he has created a second mortgage and thus ceased to represent the entirety of the equity of redemption, to compromise the position of his own second mortgagee in point of limitation by an acknowledgment given behind his back in favour of the first mortgagee. I.L.R. (1946) A. 375=A.I.R. 1947 A. 214=1946 A.L.J. 104=222 Ind. Cas. 632=1946 A. W. R. (H.C.) 476.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Genuine acknowledgment by mortgagor of previous mortgage — Subsequent mortgage executed before acknowledgment—Acknowledgment, if binding on subsequent mortgagee — Amount kept in hands of mortgagee to pay off prior mortgage—Under deed, lien of previous mortgagee acquired by subsequent mortgagee—Payment by latter to former, of principal and interest in full before January 1, 1928—Such payment, whether attracts S. 20.

Per Agarwala, J.—Where an acknowledgment made by the mortgagor is genuine, it is sufficient to provide a fresh terminus a qua against the subsequent mortgagee even if his mortgage is executed before such acknowledgment. To confine the word 'acknowledgment' in S. 19 to an acknowledgment made prior to a transfer or mortgage would mean qualifying the phrase 'some person through whom he derives title' by reading it as 'some person through whom he derives title subsequent to the acknowledgment', and it is not permissible to add to or alter the language of a statute in this way.

The mortgagor executed the mortgage in favour of the plaintiff under which a sum of Rs. 3, 515 which was due to the previous mortgagee was kept with the plaintiff so that he himself may pay the debt and take back the mortgage bond and keep the same with him as evidence. The plaintiff accordingly paid the amount to the previous mortgagee which payment was endorsed by him on the back of the mortgage. There was a further recital in the mortgage bond in suit: "The mortgage lien possessed by the former mortgagee in respect of the mortgaged share.....is acquired entirely by the plaintiff mortgagee" The suit was instituted against the mortgagor and the subsequent mortgagees more than 12 years after the due date of payment fixed in the mortgage bond of the previous mortgage which was redeemed by the plaintiff but within 12 years of the date of the payment of those dues to the previous mortgagee:

Held, Per Manohar Lall, J.—That the endorsement showed that the total sum of principal and interest had been paid and, therefore, the interest had been paid in full as such and this payment was made before January 1, 1928; by the plaintiff who was duly authorised to make payment and it kept alive the mortgage lien. In these circumstances the payment of interest as such could be validly treated as a payment on the bond of previous mortgage and, therefore, attracted the provisions of S. 20 of the Limitation Act, to enlarge the period of limitation for a suit to enforce the liability which had been transferred to the plaintiff by the doctrine of subrogation. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 166=8 B.R. 316=198 Ind. Cas. 3.

——S. 19—Transfer of part of hypotheca by mortgagor — Subsequent acknowledgment by him—Whether binds transferee.

An acknowledgment made by a mortgagor after transfer of his interest in a particular property forming part of the hypotheca will not bind the transferee even if the personal remedy against the mortgagor was alive on the date of acknowledgment and the mortgagor had not parted with all the property hypothecated at the time when he made the acknowledgment. 58 M.L.W. 643 =1945 M.W.N. 774=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 556=A.I.R. 1946 Mad 88.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by mortgagor after puisne mortgage.

A subsequent mortgagee is not bound by an acknowledgment in favour of a prior mortgagee made after the date of the subsequent mortgage. 1944 N.L.J. 229=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 163=I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 383=216 Ind. Cas. 296 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by mortgagor after subsequent mortgage.

An acknowledgment made by the mortgagor of a prior mortgage will extend the period of limitation as against a puisne mortgagee even though the acknowledgment was made subsequent to the date of the puisne mortgage. 8 O.W.N. 1160=A.I.R. 1932 Oudh 1=7 Luck. 270=138 Ind. Cas. 800.

——S. 19—Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Acknowledging debt after execution of puisne mortgage.

An acknowledgment by a mortgagor in favour of the first mortgagee is effective against a second mortgagee whose title originated before the acknowledgment was given. 17 A.L.J. 763=51 Ind. Cas. 829.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by mortgagor after sale of his interest.

Section 19 perfectly general; it is not confined to mortgages; it applies to every form of property movable and immovable, and it would appear strange that a man in wrongful possession of property may transfer it to a bona fide purchaser and that the latter is not quieted in his possession by the lapse of time, but may be defeated by acknowledgments made without his knowledge by the person from whom he derived title.

Acknowledgments made by mortgagors after they had parted with all their interest to a purchaser do not bind the purchaser. A.I.R. 1942 P.C. 67=1942 O.W.N. 604=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 559=9 B.R. 57=(1942) A.L.J. 648=I.L.R. (1942) Lah. 686=1942 A.W.R. 41=55 L.W. 854=47 C.W.N. 43=1943 M.W.N. 1=I.L.R. (1942) All. 660=I.L.R. ——Ss. 19 and 20—A mortgagor who has lost all interest in the mortgaged property, cannot, by an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act, or by the payment of interest or principal within the meaning of S. 20, bind the person on whom his interest has devolved. A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 470=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 766=I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 872=(1940) M.W.N. 448=51 L.W. 592=188 Ind. Cas. 603 (F.B.).

Overruling A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 899=8 R.M. 885=161 Ind. Cas. 924.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Payment of interest by mortgagor after transfer.

Payment of interest by a mortgagor after he has transferred a portion of the mortgaged properties to others would keep the mortgage alive even as against the latter and the properties transferred to them. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 325=36 C.W.N. 1138=58 C.L.J. 422=60 C. 87=143 Ind. Cas. 315.

——S. 19—When a mortgagor has sold a portion of, the mortgaged property but remains personally or in respect of the unsold portion liable on the mortgage, an acknowledgment of the mortgage by him subsequent to the sale is effective to save limitation as against the property sold.

Quaere.—Whether after a mortgagor's personal liability had become barred and he had sold all the mortgaged property, any acknowledgment by him of the mortgage debt can save limitation against the purchaser. 36 L.W. 44=(1932) M.W.N. 614=A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 516=63 M.L.J. 111=55 M. 758=138 Ind. Cas. 632.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment after cessation of interest in mortgaged properties—Who is bound by.

A peson who was a party to the mortgage contract can make an acknowledgment even after interest in the properties had ceased but the acknowledgment binds only him or persons claiming through him, i.e.; assignees from him after acknowledgment. 86 Ind. Cas. 434=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 1108.

——Ss. 19, 20 and 21—Mortgage — Acknowledgment — Effect on previous purchaser of portion of mortgaged property.

Acknowledgment of liability or part payment by by a mortgagor has the effect of keeping alive the mortgage debt as against even such of the mortgaged properties as the mortgagor has sold to a third person, whether the purchaser, when he bought, had notice of the mortgage or not. A mortgagee cannot by the act of parties who are entitled only to the equity of redemption be deprived of his right to resort to any estate comprised in his mortgage so long as he has not released or given it up and so long as that mortgage is legally kept alive. 11 B.L.R. 115 fol. (1905) 9 C.W.N. 868=32 C. 1077.

——S. 19—Mortgage—Preliminary instalment decree—Payment of instalment does not amount to acknowledgment.

A payment of an instalment under a preliminary mortgage decree directing payment of mortgage money by instalments cannot, in any case, amount to recognition of the right of the decreeholder to apply for a final decree. It is merely a payment under the preliminary decree and is no more an acknowledgment of anything than a prompt payment would have been. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 581=55 M. L. W. 276=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 532=1942 M.W.N. 367=I. L. R. (1942) Mad. 770=202 Ind. Cas. 629.

——S. 19—Mortgagor and mortgagee.

Where there is an acknowledgment by a mortgagor, that acknowledgment can only bind a mortgagee who derives his title subsequent to the acknowledgment, but it cannot bind a mortgagee who derives title prior to the acknowledgment. A.I.R. 1936 All. 636=1936 A.W.R. 516=(1936) A.L.J. 586=58 A. 912=164 Ind. Cas. 725.

——S. 19—Written statement in another suit, admitting rights of mortgagee, sufficient acknowledgment.

A sued B and C for foreclosure of a mortgage. The suit was ex facie time-barred but A alleged written acknowledgment on the part of B and C. One D had filed a suit against B and C. D impleaded A as a defendant-mortgagee. B and C in the written statement of D's suit signed by them admitted the allegation of A's mortgage Held, that there was sufficient acknowledgment. In D's suit A was clearly impleaded by D in the character of a mortgagee under the particular mortgage-deed and this was admitted in writing by B and C. This being so, the requirements of S. 19 were amply satisfied. D's plaint and written statement by B and C could be read as evidence of acknowledgment. 6 O.W.N. 943=A. I.R. 1930 Oudh 67.

——S. 19—Equitable mortgage—Personal remedy—Limitation — Acceptance of pro notes towards debt—If time extended.

Where plaintiffs who were secured creditors and who had a period of twelve years' limitation for instituting a suit to enforce their rights as mortgagees, but a period of only three years' limitation to enforce their rights for the deficiency, if any, arising put of the sale of the mortgaged property from the other property of the debtor, accepted promissory notes in respect of the loan.

Held, that the only purpose for which the promissory notes were taken was to extend the period of limitation in respect of the personal liability of the defendant and the original debt secured by the deposit of title-deeds continued to exist notwithstanding the execution of fresh promissory notes. 17 W.R. 201, Foll. 105 Ind. Cas. 765 =22 S.L.R. 222=A.I.R. 1928 Sind 17.

——S. 19—Mortgage — Sale of part of mortgage property — Subsequent renewal of mortgage by mortgagor is not acknowledgment but is like part-payment — Limitation commences from latter mortgage, even against intermediate alienee.

Where after sale of part of the mortgaged property, a fresh deed is executed by the mortgagor in renewal of the original mortgage, there is a new promise to pay by the mortgagor, and the question is not whether it operates as an acknowledgment to save the bar of limitation as against the intermediate alienee because it is a new covenant substituted for the old covenant and not a mere acknowledgment. There being a new covenant substituted for the old one the period of limitation even as against the alienee is, to be calculated from the date mentioned in the later mortgage and not from that in the original one. The effect of such a new covenant is more analagous to a part-payment under S. 20, Limitation Act, and not merely to that of an acknowledgment. 1 C.L.J. 337, Foll. 86 Ind. Cas. 434=A. I. R. 1925 Mad. 1108.

——S. 19—Admission as to third party's right in plaint valid acknowledgment of such right.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage a statement in the plaint made by some of the mortgagors that certain other mortgagors who did not join in that suit as plaintiff had a right to redeem the mortgage was an admission in respect of the latter's right with regard to the mortgaged property and is an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act and gives a fresh start to limitation. 84 Ind. Cas. 5=5 L.R. A. Civ. 530=A.I.R. 1924 All. 876.

——S. 19—Suit for possession of mortgaged property—Bonds given in lieu of interest—Time extended.

Plaintiffs sued for possession of certain land which had been mortgaged to them and claimed an extended period by reason of the existence of certain acknowledgments by the mortgagor. This extension was claimed on the basis of acknowledgments contained in bonds, dated 1899 and 1903 executed by the mortgagor in the plaintiff's favour. In these bonds part of the consideration was entered as being the interest due to the plaintiffs on the mortgage in the suit.

Held, that the admission of liability to pay interest under the mortgage in the bonds of 1899 and 1903 amounts to an acknowledgment of liability under the mortgage including liability to give possession to the mortgagee. 25 Cal. 844; 54 Ind. Cas. 985, Foll. 68 Ind. Cas. 185=2 L.L. J. 549.

——S. 19—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Effect on remedies of mortgagee.

An admission by a mortgagor of his liability under the mortgage, within S. 19 of the Limitation Act carries with it an admission of all the remedies to which the mortgagee might be entitled under it. 1 U.P.R. (J.C.) 45=6 O.L.J. 248= 51 Ind. Cas. 985.

——Ss. 19 and 20—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Effect on puisne mortgagee.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment of existence of mortgage but with a wrong date.

Where parties, defendants to a redemption suit, had, in a previous suit, in which it had been sought to eject them as trespassers, set up the existence of a mortgage, in virtue of which they alleged they were in possession, but assigned a wrong date to the mortgage.

Held, the mere fact that a wrong date was assigned will not take away from the admission its efficacy under S. 19. (1903) 1 A.L.J. 1=1904 A.W.N. 38=26 A. 313.

——S. 19—Admission in plaint of the rights of other co mortgagors—Sufficient acknowledgment.

Where in a suit for redemption instituted by a co-mortgagor, he admits in the plaint the rights of the other mortgagors not joined as parties to redeem, the statement is an acknowledgment of the other mortgagor's right to redeem within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 36 All. 408, Foll. 64 Ind. Cas. 979 (All.)

——S. 19—Joint mortgagors—Under Acts of 1871 and 1877 acknowledgment must be by all the mortgagors.

Under the Limitation Acts of 1871 and 1877 an acknowledgment of the right of redemption must be made by all the mortgagees and if not so made, it did not save limitation even against the shares of those who signed it, if the mortgage was indivisible. 67 Ind. Cas. 463=5 L.L.J. 114.

——S. 19—Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Co-mortgagor—Acknowledgment by—Effect of S. 1 (15).

An acknowledgment by the mortgagee's son entitled to only a share in the mortgaged property cannot give a fresh starting point of limitation and the fact that he afterwards acquired the whole of property would make no difference because the acknowledgment to be effectual must be valid on the date when it was made. In a suit for redemption of a mortgage, an acknowledgment of the mortgagor's right of redemption to save limitation must be by a person in whom the entirety of the mortgagee's rights were vested. 5 M.L.T. 261 =1 Ind. Cas. 204.

——S. 19—Execution of fresh mortgage by one of co-mortgagors in consideration of previous mortgage after separation from other.

One of the two co mortgagors in consideration of a previous mortgage executed a fresh mortgage and absolved himself from all the liabilities under the first mortgage after separation between them:

Obiter.—Where such an admission is not against his interest, it would presumably be held that such an admission was no acknowledgment at all.

Where there is a recital in the mortgage-deed that there were no prior mortgages, the wording of the document merely shows that the mortgagee accepted that statement. It does not, however, safeguard the mortgagee against the existence of such a mortgage. A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 826=176 Ind. Cas. 939.

——S. 19—Applicability—Tahsildar's report that mortgagees had asserted before him as to the existence of mortgages—Fresh start for redemption.

Where in respect of mortgages of 1851 and 1853, the mortgagees asserted their existence in 1886 when there was a dispute about the existence of the mortgages and the Tahsildar before whom it was made has made a report of it, the reference to such an assertion in the Tahsildar's report would be admissible in evidence and would satisfy the requirements of S. 19 of the Limitation Act so as to afford a fresh starting point for redemption. ——Ss. 19, 21—Acknowledgment by one of several co mortgagees, is insufficient to provide a fresh period of limitation—Held, that neither admission in deed of assignment nor plaint in partition suit provided fresh period. 19 Pat. 938=A. I. R. 1941 Pat. 147=21 P.L.T. 702=6 B.R. 864=189 Ind. Cas. 855.

——Ss. 19, 21—Co-mortgagees.

An acknowledgment of liability, to be redeemed; made by one of several mortgagees is not sufficient to keep the right to redeem alive either as against the mortgagee who signed the acknowledgment or as against the rest. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 293=151 Ind. Cas. 385 (1).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment to one of several mortgagees—If other mortgagees bound.

A mortgagor whose interest in the property mortgaged to several persons has not wholly ceased to exist can acknowledge in favour of the first mortgagee so as to bind the subsequent mortgagees. 62 Ind. Cas. 833=29 M.L.T. 189 =40 M.L.J. 126.

——S. 19—Acknowledment by one of joint mortgagees.

An acknowledgment by one of two mortgagees of the title of a mortgagor would not save the mortgagor's right to redeem from being barred by limitation where the mortgage was a joint mortgage and incapable of being redeemed piece-meal. 18 A. 458, Foll. 34 All. 371=9 A.L.J. 386= 14 Ind. Cas. 132.

——S. 19 — Authority to acknowledge — Co-mortgagee's acknowledgment.

Acknowledgment by mortgagee not proved to have been duly authorised as agent of his co-mortgagee does not extend the period of limitation. The Settlement Officer is not an agent of the mortgagee within S. 19. 35 P W.R 1910= 39 P.R. 1910=179 P.L.R. 1910=5 Ind. Cas. 992.

——S. 19 — Mortgagor and Mortgagee — Co-mortgagees.

Separate mortgagees signing separate acknowledgments that they were mortgagees in respect of their shares is sufficient acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19. 11 Bom.L.R. 318=2 Ind. Cas. 469.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by agent—Acknowledgment by one of two mortgagees — Act 14 of 1859.

Under Act 14 of 1859 an acknowledgment by an agent could not have the effect of saving the operation of limitation. 13 B.L.R. 177 (P.C.); 1 A. 642, foll. Where a mortgage is joint in favour of two mortgagees, an acknowlegment by one of them cannot enure to the benefit of the mortgagor as against the other. 18 A. 458, foll. (1904) 1 A.L.J. 355.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by one of several co-heirs of mortgagee—Not binding on others.

An acknowledgment made by one of the heirs of the moragagee who have divided the mortgage property among themselves without the consent of the mortgagor is binding on him or his heir so far as regards the property in his possession though it may not be binding on the co-heirs of the mortgagee. 32 Bom.L.R. 1096=A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 466=54 Bom. 625 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Acknowledgment by one of several heirs of a mortgagee.

An acknowledgment to be effectual, must have been a good acknowledgment at the date when it was made. An acknowledgment by one of several heirs of the mortgagee of the mortgagor's right of redemption is not sufficient to give a new starting point for limitation under S. 1, Cl. 15 of Act XIV of 1859 even to the extent of the interest of the person acknowledging. (1909) 19 M.L.J. 288=5 M.L.T. 208=1 Ind. Cas. 203 (2).

——S. 19—Prior mortgagee admitting genuineness of mortgage-deed in favour of subsequent mortgagee.

When a person admits the genuineness of a document, he admits his liability under it. Hence when a prior mortgagee admits the mortgage-deed in favour of a subsequent mortgagee, he admits the latter to be a subsequent mortgagee. That amounts to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 164=1942 O.W.N. 766=1942 A.W.R. 355=18 Luck. 601=204 Ind. Cas. 444.

——S. 19—Mortgage of 1791—Redemption suit in 1933 — Acknowledgments signed by Pleader in 1849 and 1867—Acknowledgment of 1849 invalid under S. 1 (15), Limitation Act (14 of 1859)—Acknowledgment of 1867 also invalid under Art. 148, Limitation Act (15 of 1877)—Suit held barred under S. 1 (15), Limitation Act (14 of 1859), read with S. 1 of Amending Act (11 of 1861)—S. 2, Limitation Act (15 of 1877), held applied.

The general principle, that the Act of Limitation to apply to a suit is the one in force at the date of the suit is subject to the qualification that where a right to bring a suit had been extinguished before, it cannot be revived subsequently.

In October 1791, the plaintiff's predecessors-in-title mortgaged certain property with possession to the defendant's predecessor-in-title for a period of seven years. In 1848, in the suit by one of the mortgagors to redeem the mortgage the pleader of the mortgagee put in a statement of accounts signed by himself on June 21, 1849. In 1863 another redemption suit was filed and in the memo of second appeal by the descendant of the original mortgagee arising from that suit, the existence of the mortgage and relationship of the mortgagor and the mortgagee was admitted as subsisting. This memorandum dated January 28, 1867, was signed by the pleader of the appellant mortgagee. In 1921 and 1922, the descendants of the mortgagee sold a portion of the mortgaged property. In 1933 the representatives of the mortgagors filed suits to redeem the mortgage of 1791. The plaintiffs relied on the above-mentioned acknowledgments of 1849 and 1867:

Held, that the facts of this case attracted the application of S. 2, Limitation Act of 1877 as well as S. 6, General Clauses Act; because the mortgage in suit was in the year 1791, and it was governed by the provisions of S. 1, Cl. (15), Limitation Act of 1859 read with S. 1 of the amending Act (11 of 1861), according to which a suit for redemption of a mortgage, which would have been barred when the Act of 1859 came into force would be barred after January 1, 1862. The alleged acknowledgment by the pleader in 1849 did not save the suit because under S. 1, cl. (15) of the Act of 1859, the acknowledgment must be by a mortgagee or some person claiming under him, and here it was not by such a person but by a legal agent. Therefore, the suit was barred after the beginning of the year 1862. Under Art. 148 of the Act of 1871, also the acknowledgment must be given by the same type of person as mentioned in the Act of 1859. Therefore in any case the suit was barred at the date when the Act of 1877 came into force, and, therefore, S. 2 of that Act applied with the result that the right to sue having been lost, it could not be revived even though the acknowledgments were good under the Act of 1908 when the suits were brought. 43 Bom.L.R. 194=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 178=I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 260=197 Ind. Cas. 88.

——S. 19—Where the sub-mortgage effected by the original mortgagee clearly recites the mortgagee's rights and liabilities under the original mortgage, this is an acknowledgment within the meaning of S. 19 of the Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 427=5 B.R. 489=180 Ind. Cas. 795.

——S. 19—Sub-mortgage — Acknowledgment of mortgage right.

A sub-mortgage can amount to a valid acknowledgment that the property was on that date held under mortgage right. 32 Bom.L.R. 1096=A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 466=54 Bom. 625 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Mortgage merged into a decree—Acknowledgment of existence of decree, whether acknowledgment of subsistence of mortgage debt.

Where the original mortgage debt had ceased to exist by reason of the decree, the acknowledgment of the existence of the decree, cannot be taken to be an acknowledgment of the subsistence of the debt which that decree extinguished so as to save limitation. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 678=49 L.W. 657=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 770=(1939) M.W.N. 590=189 Ind. Cas. 200.

——S. 19—Redemption by second mortgagee—Admission by first mortgagee regarding subsistence of mortgage if can rely on.

In a suit for redemption the second mortgagee can rely upon an admission made by the first mortgagee in a deed, executed within sixty years next before the suit, in which deed he admitted that the common mortgagor was the owner and that the suit properties were demised to his family on kanom. Such an admission necessarily implies that the mortgage was then subsisting and that it was liable to be redeemed. 30 M.L.W. 1045=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 65=57 M.L.J. 789.

——S. 19—Admission of right to redeem—Mortgage held to be executed within period of redemption before acknowledgment.

Where an acknowledgment by mortgagee contains an admission in unequivocal terms that the mortgagor's right of redemption subsisted till the date of the acknowledgment, the mortgagor should be deemed to have established that the mortgage had been made some time within the period of limitation for redemption (60 years) before the date of such admission. 115 Ind .Cas. 451=A. I.R. 1929 All. 209.

——S. 19—Sale of mortgagee rights — Sufficient acknowledgment of the subsistence of mortgage.

In 1908, G the mortgagee, his brother and his son executed a sale-deed in favour of the defendant of mortgagee rights in a grove. In that sale-deed they stated that they were mortgagees of the grove of K and they purported to sell their rights as mortgagees to the defendant.

Held, that the very fact of G selling his mortgagee rights was an express acknowledgment of the existence of a subsisting mortgage and of subsisting rights which he was competent to sell and the very fact of defendant purchasing those rights was an acceptance on his behalf of an existing mortgage, a mortgage which was in force as a subsisting mortgage on the date of the sale to him, and therefore he cannot set up any defence inconsistent with mortgagee rights. 89 Ind. Cas. 118=4 L.R.A. Civ. 470=A.I.R. 1924 All. 458.

——S. 19—Authority to acknowledge—Assignor.

Acknowledgment by transferor of a mortgage right binds the transferee. 7 A.L.J. 847=6 Ind. Cas. 190.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment — Mortgagor narrating the relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee—Mortgagee admitting its correctness by signature—Effect of the writing.

Where a mortgagor describes his mortgagee as such and the latter admits in writing over his signature the correctness of that description, the meaning of the admission is as plain as language can make it. Thereby the mortgagee unmistakably affirms that he is what he is described to be —a mortgagee—and it is a necessary implication from the admission that he acknowledges all the legal consequences of his position as a mortgagee, on which his liability is to be redeemed. It is immaterial in what connection of for what purpose the description was made by the mortgagor and admitted as correct by the mortgagee—whether it was or was not made in a document which had nothing to do either directly or indirectly with the mortgage. The sole question is whether the writing, whatever its immediate purpose or occasion, contains an acknowledgment of the liability in dispute. (1908) 10 Bom.L.R. 385.

10. (c) Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Acknowledgment by sub-mortgagee.

——S. 19—Execution sale—Prior mortgage mentioned in list of properties to be sold—Sufficient acknowledgment.

Where a sub-mortgagee in submitting a list of property to be sold in execution of his decree, described the property as subject to prior mortgage.

Held, that the description amounted to acknowledgment and saved limitation as against him for redeeming the original mortgage. 85 Ind. Cas. 330=22 A.L.J. 1018=5 L.R.A. Civ. 718 =A.I.R. 1925 All. 174.

——S. 19—Rent note signed by sub-mortgagee to mortgage — Property mentioned as mortgaged to mortgagee—If acknowledgment of liability to be redeemed.

Where in a rent note of 1878 given by the sub-mortgagee to the mortgagee the property was described as 'the property mortgaged to you."

Held, that the sub-mortgagee's signature on the rent note cannot mean an acknowledgment of liability to be redeemed by the original mortgagor.

If a suit against original mortgagee was barred, it is difficult to see how it would not also be barred against sub-mortgagee, unless he had directly admitted his liability to be redeemed by the mortgagor, and the signature on the rent note did not point with reasonable certainty to that liability. 70 I.C. 906=24 Bom.L.R. 713=46 Bom 1000 =A.I.R. 1922 Bom. 356.

11. "Period prescribed."

——S. 19—Acknowledgment made within extended period given by S. 6—Validity —"Period prescribed." See LIMITATION ACT, SS. 6 AND 19. 51 Bom.L.R. 830=A.I.R. 1950 Bom. 94.

——S. 19—Minor — Must acknowledge before expiry of limitation prescribed for the suit.

Under S. 6, a minor may institute the suit and make an application within the same period after the disability has ceased as he would otherwise have been allowed from the time prescribed therefor in the third column of the first schedule. The time prescribed therefor in the third column of the first schedule is different from the intended period within which a minor may bring a suit after the disability has ceased. The acknowledgment of liability must, therefore, under S. 19, be given before the expiration of the period prescribed therefor in the third column of the first schedule and not before the expiration of the period within which a minor may bring the suit. 26 Bom 782; 15 Bom.L.R. 348; Foll. 112 Ind. Cas. 24=52 Bom. 521=30 Bom.L.R. 733=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 319.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment after limitation but during period excluded by local enactment (i.e.) S. 9 (5), U. P. Encumbered Estates Act—If effective.

The words in S. 19 of the Limitation Act are 'before the expiration of the period prescribed.' This must mean prescribed by the Act in which S. 19 occurs, that is, the Limitation Act read by itself and without reference to any other enactment. Hence an acknowledgment beyond limitation but within a period which has to be excluded under a local or special Act (i.e.) S. 9 (5) of the United Provinces Encumbered Estates Act, is not an acknowledgment within S. 19 of the Limitation Act and would not save the suit from the bar of limitation. ——S. 19—Punjab Act (3 of 1923), S. 5—Period prescribed in—Applicability.

The period within which a suit could be instituted is the "period prescribed for the suit" within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act. Therefore the period of two years within which a suit could be filed under S. 5, Punjab Act 3 of 1923 is the "period prescribed for the suit" within the meaning of S. 19, Limitation Act.

On 17th May, 1921, A signed a balance in favour of B for an amount due and on 7th June, 1924, he acknowledged his liability under that balance. B instituted a suit for recovery of the amount on 9th March, 1927.

Held, that the suit was within time. Section 5 Punjab Act 3 of 1923, prevented the suit from being barred by time for two years from the date on which the Act came into force and therefore the right to sue being alive on 7th June, 1924, when the liability was acknowledged, the acknowledgment extended the time by virtue of S. 19, Limitation Act, by three years from its date. A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 978=129 Ind. Cas. 125.

——S. 19—Prescribed — Meaning — Limitation prescribed by Punjab Loans Act 3 of 1923.

There is no justification for holding that 'prescribed' in S. 19 of the Limitation Act must be limited to the time mentioned in the schedules to the Act. The period of within which a suit can be instituted is the "period prescribed for the suit" within the meaning of S. 19. Therefore the period of two years within which a suit can be filed under S. 5, Punjab Act of 1923 is the "period prescribed for the suit."

On 17th May, 1921, A signed a balance in favour of B for an amount due and on 7th June, 1924, he acknowledged his liability under that balance. B instituted a suit for recovery of the amount on 9th March, 1927.

Held, that the suit was within time. S.5, Punjab Act III of 1923, prevented the suit from being barred by time for two years from the date on which the Act came into force and therefore the right to sue being alive on 7th June, 1924, when the liability was acknowledged, the acknowledgment extended the time by virtue of S. 19, Limitation Act by three years from its date. A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 978=129 Ind. Cas. 125.

——S. 19—Striking balance — Subsequent acknowledgment before limitation — Time runs from acknowledgment.

On 5th March, 1919, the defendant struck a balance in the plaintiff's bahi for a certain sum of money. On 29th November, 1923, the defendant sent to the plaintiff's a post card, duly signed by him, acknowledging liability for the debt due on this balance. The plaintiff's sued on 2nd October 1925, to recover the sum due on foot of the balance.

Held, that the suit was within time. On 5th March, 1919, when the balance was struck the Punjab Loans Limitation Act of 1904 was in force in which a period of 6 years was provided for suits of this description. The provisions of S. 19, Limitation Act were clearly made applicable to suits governed by it. Consequently the acknowledgment of 29th November, 1923; in writing being made within six years of the date of the balance gave a fresh starting point of limitation to the plaintiffs. 114 Ind. Cas. 702=A.I.R. 1919 Lah. 124.

——S. 19—"Prescribed" — Meaning of.

The word 'prescribed' in S. 19 is not limited to the period prescribed in Sch. I of the Act; in computing the period prescribed, the period which a party is entitled to exclude under any law for the time being in force should be taken into account. ——S. 19—An acknowledgment of liability, to be valid and effective under S. 19 of the Limitation Act, must be made before the expiration of the period prescribed by the First Schedule. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 691=33 P.L.R. 59=13 L. 240=132 Ind. Cas. 590.

——S. 19—I. e. by any law for the time being in force.

The word "prescribed" is not defined in the Act. It means "prescribed by any law for the time being in force" and not only the periods in the Sch. I to the Act. 80 Ind. Cas. 743=5 L. R.A. Civ. 657=A.I.R. 1925 All. 68.

——Ss. 19, 4—Acknowledgment beyond period of limitation prescribed by schedule—Period expiring during Court vacation — Acknowledgment made during vacation.

Section 19 does not say in so many words that the acknowledgment of liability should be before the expiration of the period prescribed for a suit in the Schedule. It merely says the "period prescribed" for the suit and the expression "period prescribed" should not be limited to the period prescribed in the Schedule alone, but the expression means the period prescribed by law, i.e., the period prescribed by the whole body of the Limitation Act.

Consequently, where the acknowledgment is made one day beyond the period of three years from the date of the bond, but the period expired during the month when the Civil Courts were closed for the vacation and the acknowledgment had been made before the date on which the Courts re-opened, it is a valid acknowledgment within S. 19 of the Limitation Act. 38 P.L.R. 934=A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 162=164 Ind. Cas. 650.

——S. 19—Limitation expiring on date when the Courts are closed for vacation—Fresh acknowledgment on date when the Court reopens is not good in order to save limitation. A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 100=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 144=1940 N.L.J. 607=194 Ind. Cas. 806.

Overrules—A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 192=110 Ind. Cas. 76.

——S. 19—An acknowledgment, where the period of limitation expires on a holiday and an acknowledgment is made on the next day is not valid. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 642=174 Ind. Cas. 258.

——S. 19—Court closed on the day when period of limitation expiring — Acknowledgment after expiry of period of limitation but before re-opening of Court:

Held, that the acknowledgment did not give a fresh starting point. 45 L.W. 72=(1937) M.W.N. 108=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 262=A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 367=169 Ind. Cas. 653.

——Ss. 19 and 4—Applicability.

Section 4 of the Limitation Act cannot be made applicable to acknowledgments under S. 19. 58 C. 1148=35 C.W.N. 370=A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 785 =134 Ind. Cas. 1132.

——Ss. 19 and 4—Effect of acknowledgment—If dependant on the day when somebody could have brought a suit.

It is quite unworkable and really impossible to suppose that the effect of a payment or the effect of an acknowledgment should depend upon the day on which somebody who never brought a suit at all could have brought it. If one was to introduce into the wording of Ss. 19 and 20, the consideration that is brought into force by S. 4, the Limitation Law would become extremely unworkable. 114 Ind. Cas. 483=55 Cal. 1210=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 68.

——S. 19—Period expiring in Court vacation—Acknowledgment made after expiry of actual period, but before expiry of vacation saves limitation.

The dealings between the parties ceased on 3rd June, 1921. On 13th June, 1924, that is over three years later the defendant executed a sarkat admitting liability. The Civil Court vacation extended until 16th June, 1927.

Held, that the acknowledgment must be held to have been made within the period prescribed by limitation for the suit, for that period in reality amounted to not merely the actual period but three years plus the unexpired portion of the vacation. 26 Bom. 782, Diss. 110 Ind. Cas. 76 =24 N.L.R. 83=11 N.L.J. 87=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 192.

——S. 19—Includes schedule period read with S. 4.

The "period prescribed" means the period prescribed by the Schedule read with S. 4. Therefore, where an acknowledgment of a debt is made after the expiration of the three years' period prescribed by Sch. I for a suit on a promissory note, but before a suit on the note is actually bared by limitation, it is a good acknowledgment. 26 Bom. 782, Not. foll. 102 Ind. Cas. 111=49 All. 726=25 A.L.J. 589=A.I.R. 1927 All. 577.

——S. 19—I.e. by the Schedule.

The word "prescribed" in S. 19 means prescribed by the schedule and not with reference to S. 4. 65 Ind. Cas. 716=5 N.L.J. 178=19 N.L.R. 135=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 250.

——S. 19—Section 4 has no application.

Per Ramesam, J.—Section 4 cannot be tacked on prior to the period of extension given by S. 19. 26 Bom. 782, Foll. 63 Ind. Cas. 924=44 Mad. 817=13 M.L.W. 631=1921 M.W.N. 442 =A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 654=41 M.L.J. 84.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment after period of limitation, but before right to sue expired—Validity of.

An acknowledgment of a debt, made more than three years after the date of the debt, cannot serve to keep alive the debt simply by the fact that the right to sue on the original debt was surviving to the creditor on the date of the acknowledgment, as the Courts had closed in vacation. (1902) 4 Bom.L.R. 608=26 B. 782.

——Ss. 19 and 20—The word 'prescribed' in Ss. 19 and 20 must not be understood as only meaning prescribed in the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act. It includes the special class of cases dealt with in S. 31 (before the amendment of 1930). 40 L.W. 893=(1934) M.W.N. 1343= A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 64=58 M. 270=68 M.L.J. 12=153 Ind. Cas. 2 (F.B.).

——S. 19—Interpretation—"Prescribed".

The word 'prescribed' does not exclusively refer to the schedule. It means prescribed by any section of the Act or article of the schedule. 1930 M.W.N. 930=32 M.L.W. 502.=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 991=59 M.L.J. 881.

——S. 19—Scope of.

Plaintiff relying on acknowledgment of liability in suit on hypothecation bond made after expiry of period of 12 years but within two years provided by S. 31. S. 31 prescribes period of limitation and so suit is within time. A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 991=1930 M.W.N. 930=32 M.L.W. 502 =59 M.L.J. 881.

——S. 19—Not restricted to that in Sch. 1—Applies to special period under S. 31.

The term 'period' is not limited to the period prescribed in Sch. 1 of the Act but has been extended to apply to the special period of two years mentioned in S. 31 of the Act. A.I.R. 1925 All. 68; A.I.R. 1927 All. 114 and A.I.R. 1927 All. 577; 26 M.L.J. 268, Foll. 30 M.L.W. 419 =A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 791=57 M.L.J. 353.

——S. 19—Suit on hypothecation bond—Acknowledgment within extra time of two years under S. 31 but beyond ordinary limitation—Acknowledgment still valid.

Where a suit was brought on a hypothecation bond after the ordinary prescribed period of 12 years and where there was an acknowledgment of liability made after the prescribed period but within the extra period of two years granted by S. 31 the acknowledgment was held to be valid. 26 M.L.J. 23, Foll. 30 M.L.W. 419=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 791=57 M.L.J. 353.

——S. 19—Includes period provided in S. 31.

A period for a suit can be prescribed by a section of the Act as well as by an article of the schedule.

Acknowledgment under S. 19 though obtained within the special period of limitation under S. 31 gives a fresh period from the time of acknowledgment. 98 Ind. Cas. 1005=49 All. 67=24 A.L.J. 1039=A.I.R. 1927 All. 114.

12. Miscellaneous.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment and account stated—Difference between.

A real account stated is a very different thing from an acknowledgment. In a real account stated there is consideration in the shape of an agreement that items on one side of the account are to be taken as paid by items on the other side. In an account stated it does not matter if some of the items are time-barred, although it would be a different thing if all the items are time-barred. 1934 P.C. 144, 56 A. 376 (P.C.) and I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 369, Foll. I.L.R. (1948) Nag. 639 =A.I.R. 1949 Nag. 229=1949 N.L.J. 138.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment and novation distinguished.

Where, under a mortgage-deed executed in 1911, the mortgage amount was payable in five years, and if not paid within that time, the mortgagee was to take possession as owner, but the mortgagee did not take possession and the mortgagor, in 1927, made an acknowledgment in the mortgagee's bahi account to the effect that interest on the mortgage had been paid up to date and that a specified amount was due under the mortgage deed;

Held, that the acknowledgment did not amount to a novation of contract and, being unregistered, could not create a charge on the property:

Held, also, that even if the mortgagee had a remedy to sue for money, it was barred by time. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 174=34 P. L. R. 1055=145 Ind. Cas. 159.

——S. 19—Decisions on English statutes—Applicability.

Except for the discovery of some general principle, it would be totally misleading and profitless to attempt to apply decisions on the English Statutes of Limitation to cases under the Limitation Act. (1932) M.W.N. 614=55 M. 758=A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 516=36 L.W. 44=63 M.L.J. 111=138 Ind. Cas. 632.

——S. 19—Question of fact or law.

A wrong application of S. 19 to contents of document is only an error of law and is no ground for revision. 33 P.L.R. 330=137 Ind, Cas. 513.

——S. 19—Plaintiff cannot be allowed to take up a new plea of limitation resting on certain acknowledgment at the stage of arguments when he finds his original position untenable. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 753=155 Ind. Cas. 819.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment other than that pleaded in plaint, setting up of. See C. P. CODE, O. 7, RR. 1 TO 6. 8 C.W.N. 171.

——S. 19—The question as to the validity of the admissions as acknowledgments should be tested by the law of limitation in force at the time of the suit, i.e., by the Limitation Act of 1908. A. I.R. 1932 Bom. 531=34 Bom. L. R. 958=139 Ind. Cas. 218.

——S. 19—Acknowledgment ineffectual by law in force at the time.

An acknowledgment which is ineffectual for the purposes of the law in force at the time of the acknowledgment is no acknowledgment at all. 107 Ind. Cas. 60=29 Bom.L.R. 1563=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 28.

——S. 19—Law applicable is that in force at the date of suit.

Where an acknowledgment is relied on to save limitation, the law to be applied is not the law in force at the date of the alleged acknowledgment, but the law which was in force at the time of the institution of the suit. 35 All. 227, Foll. 85 Ind. Cas. 633=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 736=A. I. R. 1925 All. 176.

——S. 19—Adjustment of partnership accounts—Adjustment carried over to another year—Subsequent adjustment made — Adjustments unsigned —Time runs from subsequent adjustments.

Plaintiff and defendant carried on business in partnership and there was an adjustment of account in 1827 and a certain sum was found due from the defendant. This amount was carried over to the account of 1829 when another adjustment was made. Defendant had not signed the adjustments. Plaintiff sued for this amount after three years of first adjustment,

Held, a new cause of action arose at the end of 1829 and the suit being within three years from that date was not barred. 102 Ind. Cas. 617=31 C.W.N. 619=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 495.

——S. 19—Mutually open account—Balance struck —Constitutes payment—Agreed unstamped statement of accounts items all on one.

Where there are debts due on both the sides and the accounts are gone through by the parties and a balance struck, this in effect constitutes a payment of the amount of the smaller debt. But it is the striking of the balance that constitutes the payment, not the mere existence or even statement in writing or cross demands. Hence it has been ruled that an agreed statement of accounts where all the items are on one side only, if the statement is not signed by the party liable and is inoperative as an acknowledgment will not be allowed to support an action on an account stated in respect of items which are statute-barred. 51 Cal. 418; 24 Bom. 394, Foll. 72 Ind. Cas. 692=36 C.L.J. 228=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 71.

——S. 19—Current account — Each increase of overdraft is not separate loan. (Obiter.)

In the case of a current account between a banker and his customer it is not within the correct interpretation of the Act to regard each increase of the overdraft as a separate loan from the date of which the period of limitation must be computed. 56 Cal. 556=33 C.W.N. 412=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 714.

1. Applicability and scope of section.

——S. 20—The plaintiff, in a suit under S. 3 (w) Dekkan Agriculculturists Relief Act, is entitled to the benefit of S. 20. A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 89=45 Bom.L.R. 1064=I.L.R. (1944) Bom. 71=212 Ind. Cas. 531.

——Ss. 20, 29—Suit under S. 3 (w), Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act (17 of 1879)—S. 20 cannot be availed of by plaintiff in view of S. 29. A. I. R. 1942 Bom. 131=44 Bom.L.R. 138=200 Ind. Cas. 12.

——S. 20—Applicability — Extention of time for redemption of mortgage.

S. 20 of the Limitation Act applies only to extend the time for recovery of the mortgage-debt, and not to extend the time for redemption. The section in terms refers to the payment of interest on a debt or legacy and makes receipt of the rent or produce of the land by a mortgagee in possession equivalent to a payment of interest, and a fresh period of limitation has to be computed from the time the payment was made. This must clearly mean a fresh period of limitation for payment of the debt or legacy, and no reference is made in the section to the right of redemption A.I.R. 1950 E.P. 157=52 P.L.R. 75.

——S. 20—Applicability—Redemption suit.

S. 20 of the Limitation Act applies only to extend the time for recovery of the mortgage-debt and not to extend the time for redemption of the mortgage. 74 I.A. 285=I.L.R. (1947) Lah 727=50 P.L.R. 21=29 P.L.T. 157=50 Bom.L.R. 539=1948 A.L.J. 20=1948 M.W.N. 34=61 L.W. 76=A.I.R. 1948 P.C. 36=52 C.W.N. 132 =(1948) 1 M.L.J. 130 (P.C.).

——S. 20—Redemption — Section not applicable

Section 20 applies only to cases where the suit is for the recovery of a debt or legacy, and does not operate to enlarge the period allowed by law to the mortgagor to redeem his property. 78 Ind Cas. 617=6 L.L.J. 194=A.I.R. 1924 Lah 484.

——S. 20—Period not extended in favour of mortgagor.

Held, that S. 20, sub-S. 2 extends the period of limitation in favour of mortgagee but not in favour of mortgagor. 70 Ind. Cas. 906=24 Bom.L.R. 713=46 Bom. 1000=A.I.R. 1922 Bom. 356.

——S. 20—Suit for redemption of a usufructuary mortgage.

S. 20 does not apply to a suit for redemption of a usufructuary mortgage in such a manner as to extend indefinitely the period of limitation within which such a suit must be filed. 18 A. 87 diss. from. 1903 A.W.N. 223=26 A. 167. 295; and P.R. 1883, p. 115 Foll. 1878 A.W.N.

——S. 20 and Art. 75—S. 20 if applies to cases governed by Art. 75.

S. 20 of the Limitation Act would apply to the case of a payment, made towards the amount due under an instalment bond and endorsed on it and would extend limitation. 1943 All. 172, foll. I.L.R. (1950) A. 701=1949 A.L.J. 291=A.I.R 1949 A. 764=1949 A.W.R. 377.

——S. 20, Sch. I, Art. 75—Instalment bond—Provision for payments in lump on default —Acceptance of overdue instalment—Suit for balance.

A mortgage bond provided for the payment of the principal sum in certain instalments with a condition that on default of two successive instalments, the entire sum would become due. The mortgagor paid on a certain date the sums due on the first three instalments which had then become due and the mortgagee, crediting this sum, sued for the balance of the instalments:

Held, that S. 20 had no concern with the suit which was governed by Art. 75, according to which the terminus a quo was the date of the default, in other words, not the date of payment; but the date of non-payment in accordance with the stipulations of the contract, and that the suit was, therefore, within time.

Held, further, that as the mortgagee had accepted overdue instalments and thereby waived the benefit of the provisions which gave him the right of the entire claim as to the default, S. 20, Limitation Act had no applcation at all. 52 C. L.J. 591=A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 157=58 C. 615=130 Ind. Cas. 571.

——S. 20—Scope—Instalment bond.

Time runs from date of default—Oral evidence on payments made admissible. 35 P.R. 1913, Not foll. 89 Ind. Cas. 294=26 P.L.R. 328=6 Lah. 163=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 394.

——S. 20 and Art. 57—Customer of Bank overdrawing account on different occasions — Limitation for recovery — Repayment by customer—If saves limitation in respect of general balance of account. See LIMITATION ACT, ART. 57 AND S. 20. 26 Pat. 231=A.I.R. 1948 Pat. 18.

——S. 20—Section 20, Limitation Act openates to extend the time for the filing of an application for a final decree in a mortgage suit. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 475=I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 739=(1941) M. W.N. 289=199 Ind. Cas. 710=(1941) 1 M.L. J. 388=53 L.W. 348.

——S. 20—"Decree"—Includes a preliminary decree—Payment extends time for applying for final decree.

A decree for the purposes of S. 20 means, not only a final decree capable of execution but also a preliminary decree for sale and such a preliminary decree constitutes a debt payable by the judgment-debtor within S. 20 (2) Explanation. The time may be extended for an application for a final decree under either S. 19 or S. 20 in a fit case. But the payment in order to extend time must satisfy the requirements of S. 20. 98 Ind. Cas. 818=49 All. 147=25 A.L.J. 154=A.I.R. 1927 All. 159.

——S. 20 as amended in 1942—Payment on account does not save limitation.

Where a debtor believes that principal and interest are both payable and makes a payment merely on account, it cannot save limitation. A.I.R. 1946 All. 58=I.L.R. (1945) All. 896=1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 246=223 Ind. Cas. 175.

——S. 20—Payment of Rs. 10 by defendant within three years—Endorsement in plaintiff's bahi thumb marked by defendant—No mention whether towards interest or part payment of principal—Payment, held part payment of principal and S. 20, held applied. 42 P.L.R. 638=A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 442=191 Ind. Cas. 817.

——S. 20—No difference between payment of interest or of principal.

The Legislature did not intend to draw a distinction between the payment of interest and the payment of principal in saving limitation. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 6=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 726=51 L.W. 453=195 Ind. Cas. 329.

——S. 20—S. 20 makes no distinction between simple contract debt and debt charged on land.

Section 20 makes no difference between a simple contract debt and a speciality debt or a debt charged on land like the English statutes. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 6 =51 L.W. 453=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 726=195 Ind. Cas. 329.

——S. 20 (1), proviso—Proviso applies to sub-S. (1) only.

It was not the intention of the Legislature in enacting proviso to sub-s. 1 of S. 20, Lim. Act to abrogate the long established and traditional practice by which a mortgagee in possession of land is deemed to be in receipt of interest and to have a fresh start of limitation from the period when his possession ceases and in this view, the proviso was intended to apply to the first sub-section and not to the second sub-section of S. 20. 6 B.R. 477 =A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 512=21 P.L.T. 770=187 Ind. Cas. 484.

——S. 20—Section 20, by its terms, only applies to a suit for a debt or legacy or to the case of a mortgagee with possession. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 212=41 P.L.R. 529.

——S. 20—Section 20 contemplates debts of all kinds. In India it is not necessary to import the doctrine of implied promise to save by payment a simple debt from limitation. Part payment of principal or interest saves from limitation a debt whether secured or unsecured, under the Indian Law. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 129=66 C.L.J. 104=42 C.W.N. 18=176 Ind. Cas. 191.

——S. 20—In a suit for recovery of amount advanced on a pledge, neither the payment of interest nor the alleged pledge extend the period of limitation as regards the personal claim. A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 213=37 Bom. L.R. 165=156 Ind. Cas. 531.

——S. 20—The amendment to the proviso to S. 20. Lim. Act, has been made in favour of the creditor who is not able to prove the writing of the debtor, not only relating to the fact of the payment but also to the acknowledgment of the fact of the payment. 34 P.L.R. 179=A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 341=34 P.L.R. 514=14 L. 580 =141 Ind. Cas. 611.

——S. 20—An entry of payment of interest will save limitation even though there was no agreement for payment of interest at the time of the contract. 36 L.W. 918=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 251=141 Ind. Cas. 169 (1).

——S. 20—Applicability—Time from date of payment.

Section 20 applies where the cause of action has already arisen and the plaintiff is seeking to have a fresh period of limitation computed from the time when a payment was made by the debtor. 75 Ind. Cas. 98=1924 P.H. C.C. 67=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 439.

——S. 20—Scope of—Suit for recovery of a debt or legacy—Suit for possession of property.

The first part of S. 20 applies only to suits to recover a debt or legacy and not to a suit for possession of property; the second part of the section also does not apply to a suit for possession. 13 O.C. 179=7 Ind. Cas. 597.

——S. 20—Scope of—Suit by mortgagee for possession.

A suit for possession of mortgaged property by the mortgagee, on default by mortgagor in payment of the instalments is not a suit for recovery of a debt and therefore, S. 20 of the Limitation Act is not applicable, and payments made after default do not extend the period of limitation. 30 P.L.R. 1909=91 P.R. 1908 =156 P.W.R. 1908=4 Ind. Cas. 921.

——S. 20—Applicability of, to execution proceedings.

S. 20 is not applicable to applications in execution; 5 M. 151 foll. (1904) 27 M. 608; also 28 M. 40. 6 C.W.N. 766=8 C.W.N. 740.

See also 1903 A.W.N. 17 =26 A. 36.

2. Amendment of section—Retrospective Effect.

——S. 20 (as amended in 1942)—Amendment to law of limitation—Effect.

It is well settled that the law of limitation being procedural law, its provisions operate retrospectively in the sense that they apply to causes of action which arose before their enactment. But it is equally well established that if a right to sue had become barred by the provisions of the Act then in force on the date of coming into force of a later enactment, then such a barred right is not revived by the application of the new enactment.

Hence, ar "open payment" made prior to the amendment of section 20 of the Limitation Act by the Amending Act 16 of 1942 would not save a claim from the bar of limitation if it was already barred prior to the coming into force of the amendment. 1950 M. W.N. 650=63 L.W. 983=(1950) 2 M.L.J. 624=A.I.R. 1951 Mad. 314.

——S. 20—Amendment, if retrospective—Claim already barred if revived by amendment.

In the absence of anything to the contrary, if a claim is within limitation according to the old Act on the date when the new Act comes into force and a proceeding is commenced after the coming into force of the new Act, it is the new Act which would govern all decisions on the point of limitation. If, however, the right to sue or the right to apply had already been barred by the provisions of the Lim. Act then in force, then unless there was something in the latter Act which could be deemed to apply retrospectively to revive claims which had already become barred, the new Act could not be availed of for the purpose of saving limitation. 1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 246 =A.I.R. 1946 All. 58=I.L.R. (1945) All. 896.

——S. 20—Amendment—Whether can revive barred debt.

The amendment of S. 20 made in 1942 cannot have the result of reviving what was barred under unenforceable claim at the time of the amendment. 58 M.L.W. 618=1945 M.W.N. 713=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 405=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 72.

——S. 20—Amendment Act of 1942, retrospective effect.

Where the debt has become unenforceable long before the Amending Act of 1942 came into force as the payment was ineffectual to save time under S. 20 the amendment cannot operate retrospectively so as to revive the barred debt. 1944 M.W.N. 254=57 L.W. 280=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 347=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 398.

——S. 20 (as amended in 1942)—Applicability—Suit on pronote instituted after amendment—Payment relied on to save limitation made before amendment.

S. 20 of the Limitation Act, as amended by Act 16 of 1942, which obliterates all distinctions between payment towards interest as such or payment towards principal, can be availed of by a plaintiff who institutes a suit on a promissory note after the amended section comes into force, although the payment relied on to save Limitation was made before the Amending Act came into force and the claim under the promissory note had become barred by limitation by then. The fundamental principle that the law of limitation applicable to a suit is the law prevailing at the time of its institution is subject to this exception that its applicability will not operate so as to revive a right that has been extinguished on account of the pre-existing law of limitation. Under S. 28 of the Limitation Act right to immoveable property is extinguished if the remedy to recover the same becomes barred by lapse of time, but this does not apply to other rights. In the case of a promissory note, although the remedy to recover the debt becomes barred by limitation the right to the debt is not extinguished thereby, and no question of revival of an extinguished right can therefore, arise. I.L.R. (1949) 1 Cut. 281=A.I.R. 1949 Orissa 64.

——S. 20—Amendment is not retrospective.

The amendment to S. 20 cannot have retrospective operation in the sense that it can apply to a suit which had been instituted prior to this amendment. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 59=11 B.R. 354=219 Ind. Cas. 159.

——S. 20—(As amended by Act 16 of 1942)—S. 20 as amended applies only to suits instituted after it came into force.

The law of limitation applicable to a suit is the law applicable which prevails at the date when the suit is instituted. Section 20 as amended, therefore, applies only to suits instituted after it came into force. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 60=24 Pat. 391.

——S. 20—(As amended by Act 16 of 1942)—Advance of Rs. 200 by a hand-note on August 8, 1934—Suit for recovery of dues on May 4, 1943—Payments on August 4, 1937 and June 16, 1940—Amendments of 1942 held applicable to the case—Right to refuse payment not a vested right—Provisions of S. 28 applicable only to a right to recover property and not a debt or legacy.

A sum of Rs. 200 was advanced by P to D by a hand-note on August 8, 1934. The suit to recover dues was instituted by P on May 4, 1943. Two payments were made by D, one on August 4, 1937, for Rs. 20 and the other on June 16, 1940, for Rs. 7. The Court refused to give effect to these payments as amounting to an acknowledgment within meaning of S. 20 because payments were not made "as such towards interest". P contended that the suit was instituted after the provisions of S. 20 were amended by the Amending Act 16 of 1942 which came into operation on March 30, 1942.

Held, that the law of limitation which governed the action was the law which prevailed on the date when the suit was instituted. As the suit was instituted in 1943 when S. 20 as amended by Act 16 of 1942 was in operation, the provisions of that Act were applicable.

Held, also that the provisions of S. 28, applied only when the right in question was a right to recover property and not a debt or legacy. The right of D to refuse to pay to P was not a right which had become vested in him and it could be defeated by amendment of 1942. 24 Pat. 249=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 368.

——S. 20—The amendment of S. 20 by Act of 1942 is not retrospective. A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 37=45 Bom. L.R. 1014=215 Ind. Cas. 12.

——S. 20—Amendment—Retrospective effect.

An applicant in revision cannot benefit by a change in the law made during the pendency of his application. 1944 O.W.N. 154.

——S. 20—(As amended in 1942)—Amendment during pendency of appeal and of revision—Distinction.

Section 20, Lim. Act as amended in 1942 is not applicable to a case decided before the Amending Act came into force. The right acquired by a party under the decision cannot be defeated by the subsequent legislation. In this respect, an appeal and a revision stand on different footings. An appellant may be entitled to the benefit of a change of law made during the pendency of an appeal but an applicant for revision cannot. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 508=1943 O.W.N. 582=18 Luck. 241=202 Ind. Cas. 750.

3. Acknowledgment of payment.

——S. 20—Law previous and subsequent to amendment by Act 1 of 1927.

Previous to the amendment of S. 20, Lim. Act, the fact of payment of interest needed no acknowledgment in writing by the person making the payment whereas a payment towards principal required such an acknowledgments to extend limitation. After the Amending Act payments towards interest or principal require acknowledgments of the payments in the handwriting of the person paying in order to be effective in extending the time. The words "paid as such" may have been necessary in the section before it was amended; but, after the amendment, no effect can be given to them, and therefore they are redundant. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 389=20 P.L.T. 175=18 Pat. 253=5 B.R. 924=183 Ind. Cas. 330.

——S. 20 (as amended by Act 1 of 1927)—Changes made by Amending Act, nature of.

Per Rachhpal Singh, J.—The only change that has been made in the provisions of S. 20 after the passing of the Amending Act 1 of 1927, is, that after the amendment, payment of interest in order to save limitation must also be in the handwriting of or in the writing signed by the person making the payment. Before the amendment only part payment of the principal in order to give fresh start of limitation has to be in the handwriting of the debtor. Now the same rule is made applicable in cases of payment of interest also. That is the only result of the amendment. In other respects the position is in no way altered. A.I.R. 1935 All. 946=(1935) A.L.J. 1029=1935 A.W.R. 1155=58 A. 261=159 Ind. Cas. 387 (F.B.).

——S. 20—Payment by cheque.

A payment by a cheque made by the debtor in favour of the creditor is a payment which satisfies the conditions of S. 20. 58 M.L.W. 406=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 515=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 202=1945 M.W.N. 488.

——S. 20—Payment by cheque.

A cheque proved to be signed by a debtor and given by him in payment, which has been accepted by the creditor and duly honoured by the bank drawn on, amounts to an acknowledgment of payment within the meaning of the proviso to S. 20, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1941 Rang. 344=198 Ind. Cas. 564.

——S. 20—Cheque accepted by payee.

The mode of payment under S. 20 need not be in cash. Payment and acknowledgment may be simultaneous. The Indian Statute only requires that the acknowledgment must be of the payment; it is not necessary that it must also be stated that the payment is towards a particular debt. Cheque accepted by payee operates as a payment as well as acknowledgment of payment in the handwritting of the person making the payment. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 538=42 C.W.N. 548=I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 320=177 Ind. Cas. 508.

——S. 20—Payment by cheque.

Where there is only one debt and a payment is made by the debtor to the creditor by cheque, the payment by cheque, if accepted by the creditor, must be deemed to be an acknowledgment of the payment of part principal by the debtor within the provisions of S. 20. A.I.R. 1937 Sind 95=31 S.L.R. 68=168 Ind. Cas. 820.

——S. 20—Where a cheque is accepted by the creditor and is subsequently honoured for the purpose of S. 20 the payment must be deemed to have been made by the debtor and it must further be deemed to appear in his handwriting by virtue of his signature and writing on the cheque. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 741=144 Ind. Cas. 641.

——S. 20—The part payment of the principal of a debt before the expiration of the prescribed period, by means of a cheque which has been accepted by the creditor and has subsequently been cashed by him has the effect of extending the period of limitation so as to entitle the creditor to a fresh period of limitation from the time when the payment was made within the meaning of S. 20. 34 P.L.R. 179=A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 341=34 P.L.R. 514=14 L. 580=141 Ind. Cas. 611.

——S. 20—Where a cheque is delivered to a payee by way of payment and is received as such, it operates as a payment subject to a condition subsequent that if upon due presentation, the cheque is not paid, the original debt revives. When such a cheque is signed by the debtor and paid in part payment of the principal of a debt, the cheque being subsequently honoured, the proviso to S. 20 has been complied with. A.I.R. 1931 Sind 28=25 S.L.R. 360=129 Ind. Cas. 909.

——S. 20, proviso—Part-payment of principal—Payment by cheque—How far effectual.

A cheque signed by a debtor and given in part payment of a debt would save limitation, provided the cheque is duly honoured. 42 Cal. 1043=19 C.W.N. 724=31 Ind. Cas. 626.

——S. 20—Payment by money order.

Where the alleged payment is made by money order and there is nothing at all to show on what account the remittance was made which in fact might have been in respect of some new cash transaction, the money order coupon is not sufficient to save limitation though the fact of payment is in the handwriting of the debtor. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 47=8 B.R. 21=196 Ind. Cas. 392.

——S. 20—Payment of instalment.

A payment of an instalment under a preliminary mortgage-decree directing payment of mortgage-money by instalments cannot, in any sense, amount to a recognition of the right of the decree-holder tor apply for a final decree. It is merely a payment unde the preliminary decree and is no more an acknowledgment of anything than a prompt payment would have been. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 581=55 L.W. 276=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 532=1942 M.W.N. 367=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 770=202 Ind. Cas. 629.

——S. 20, Proviso—Acknowledgment referred to in proviso, if must be made before expiry of limitation.

There is nothing in the proviso or in any other portion of S. 20, Lim. Act; to support the view that the acknowledgment referred to in the proviso should also have been made before the expiration of the period of limitation. An acknowledgment such as is referred to in the proviso to S. 20 should be made before the time when an application for execution or a suit is filed and it is not necessary that it should be simultaneous with the payment to which it relates. 1940 O.W.N. 156=A.I.R. 1940 Oudh 177=1940 A.W.R. 78=186 Ind. Cas. 163.

——S. 20—It is true that the payment has to be made within the prescribed period, but the Lim. Act does not provide that the acknowledgment is to be made within that period. It is the payment and not the acknowledgment which extends the period of limitation. The acknowledgment is merely a matter of evidence, and provided it is signed before the suit is commenced, that is sufficient. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 284=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 137=172 Ind. Cas. 362.

——S. 20—Part payment of debt within period of limitation—Acknowledgment in writing, made only after expiry of period of limitation:

Held, that it gives fresh start to period of limitation under S. 20. (1933) A.L.J. 403=A.I.R. 1933 All. 363=55 A. 280=146 Ind. Cas. 510.

——S. 20—Acknowledgment, if to be made within prescribed time.

Under S. 20, although part payment has to be made within the prescribed period, the acknowledgment need not be made within that period. It is the payment and not the acknowledgment which extends the period of limitation. The acknowledgment is merely a matter of evidence and it is sufficient if it is signed before the suit is commenced. 35 Bom.L.R. 471=A.I.R. 1933 Bom. 252=57 B. 453=144 Ind. Cas. 990.

——S. 20—No doubt, if money is sent by a person by the hands of a messenger, the messenger having no responsibility in the matter except to hand over the money, the person making the payment is clearly the person who despatches the messenger with the money. But where the daughters of a promissor have made payments, not merely as messengers of their father but as independent persons, actually making the payment either on their own behalf or on behalf of their father, in order to save limitation, the endorsements must each be written or signed by that one of them who made each payment. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 118=181 Ind. Cas. 765.

——S. 20—"Makes the payment"—Not necessarily mean person physically making payment.

The intention of the Legislature in enacting S. 20 appears to have been that a debtor should not be bound by the payment of part of the debt unless the person who in substance, though perhaps not in form, made the payment has stated in writing that such payment had been made. The words "makes the payment" in S. 20 do not necessarily mean the man who physically hands over the money. 23 C.W.N. 336, foll. 94 Ind. Cas. 657=53 Cal. 163=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 510.

——S. 20—Part payment.

An entry in the interest book kept by the plaintiff which showed payments by the defendant towards part payment of principal made before expiry of limitation and signed by the defendant, held saved limitation under S. 20. I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 21=A.I.R. 1946 Nag. 112.

——S. 20—Where the payment made by the debtor to the creditor is of a sum larger than the amount due at the time of payment as interest, a part of it will necessary be presumed to have been made towards the principal and, therefore, this payment will save limitation. 42 P.L.R. 635=A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 513=191 Ind. Cas. 802.

——S. 20—Payment by debtor of sum towards debt amount—Endorsement of payment made on the bond—Payment not made towards interest as such, nor apportioned by creditor towards interest:

Held, that the payment gave the creditor a fresh period of three years from the date of the payment within which to sue for the debt. The payment was obviously made towards the principal, and under the latter part of S. 20, it was not necessary that the writing should specify that the amount was paid in part payment of the principal as such. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 347=40 P.L.R. 124=181 Ind. Cas. 82.

——S. 20—Where there was no mention of interest in a sarkhat and there was no reference to interest in the two endorsements which appeared upon the back of the sarkhat:

Held, that the payments referred to in the endorsements on the back of the "sarkhat" must be regarded as payments of principal. Such payments towards redemption of the principal sum under S. 20, interrupted the period of limitation and a fresh period commenced from the date of payment. (1935) A.L.J. 657=1935 A.W.R. 774=A.I.R. 1935 All. 605=156 Ind. Cas. 748 (F.B.).

——S. 20—Where a debtor makes a payment and acknowledges it in his own handwriting without specifying whether it is towards principal or interest, the acknowledgment gives a fresh period of limitation under S. 20, if the writing sufficiently identifies the debt. Once it is shown to be towards the debt, it is not necessary to show whether it is towards the principal or interest. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 156=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 235=1939 N.L.J. 205=182 Ind. Cas. 573.

——S. 20—To constitute a payment of interest sufficient to take a debt out of the operation of the statute of limitation, it was not essential that money should actually pass between the debtor and the creditor. Any facts which would prove a plea of payment of interest in an action brought to recover it, would be a payment sufficient to bar the statute. The transaction amounted in law to a payment of interest within S. 20. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 579=47 L.W. 517=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 624 =(1938) M.W.N. 397=182 Ind. Cas. 468.

——S. 20—" Payment "—Actual passing of money unnecessary—Agreement that creditor should credit amount previously due by him to debtor Payment sufficient.

It is unnecessary under S. 20 that money should actually pass, for a settlement of account may be as effectual as a real payment. In fact, a transacton, whereby the parties agree that an amount previously due by the creditor to the debtor shall be treated as amount paid by the latter to the former is in substance identical with a transaction where the debtor receives actual payment and pays the amount back to the creditor. 117 Ind. Cas. 124=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 432.

——S. 20—Where the creditor accepts a surety who agrees to pay him a certain amount instead of debtor and strickes out the claim against the debtor to that extent, the acceptance of the surety by the creditor cannot be regarded as tantamount to payment and will not operate to save limitation. (1937) A.L.J. 166= A.I.R. 1937 All. 260=1937 A.W.R. 138=168 Ind. Cas. 152.

——S. 20—Payment without prejudice.

No words such as "without prejudice" can override the words of the statute, which lay down that a part payment shall extend limitation, if it is in the handwriting of, or signed by the person making the payment. The words merely save the respective rights of the parties with regard to the substantial disputes with respect to the various claims and counter-claims on either side, and do not mean or purport to mean that limitation should not be saved by means of this payment. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 62 =17 L. 737=165 Ind. Cas. 723.

——S. 20—Payment as a matter of grace and not towards admitted debt.

Limitation is not saved by a payment made as a matter of grace and not towards any admitted debt. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 475=35 P.L.R. 529=155 Ind. Cas. 238.

——S. 20—An unappropriated payment, on account towards arreras of interest may in circumstances like the present suffice to keep alive all transactions which were not time barred on the day of payment. 1935 M.W.N. 970.

——S. 20—Appropriation of proceeds of pledged articles.

Where a creditor to whom jewels have been pledged as security for the loan, sells the jewels and appropriates the proceeds against the debt, there is no payment by the debtor within the eaning of S. 20 sufficient to keep the debt alive. 40 M.L.W. 270=67 M.L.J. 258=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 549=(1934) M.W.N. 1076=152 Ind. Cas. 299.

——S. 20—Acknowledgment of payment should be in writing of person making it.

Under the proviso added to S. 20 of the Lim.Act in 1927, it is necessary that except in the case of a payment of interest made before January 1, 1928, an acknowledgment of the payment appears in the handwriting of or in a writing signed by a person making the payment.

Held, that the document in question could not be taken as an acknowledgment either under S. 19 or under S. 20. A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 410=13 Luck. 531=1937 O.W.N. 784=169 Ind. Cas. 785.

——S. 20—So far as the payment of interest is concerned, the acknowledgment in writing must be of the payment of interest as such. The word 'payment' in the proviso to S. 20, refers back to the section which it qualifies and the words 'as such' occur in relation to the payment of interest in the section itself. So far as the payment of principal is concerned, the substitution of the word 'acknowledgment' for 'fact' in the proviso does not require that the acknowledgment must be a n acknowledgment of the payment to part principal as such. The purpose of the proviso is to protect or assist the debtor, even more so after the amendment than before but not to the extent that the acknowledgment of the part payment o principal must be the acknowledgment of the payment of part principal as such. Acknowledgement of the payment in writing in such case is enough. A.I.R. 1937 Sind 95=31 S.L.R. 68=168 Ind. Cas. 820.

——S. 20—Endorsement on back of bond—Held, on facts that endorsement in question would save limitation A.I.R. 1937 Nag. 304=I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 374.=170 Ind. Cas. 213.

——S. 2—In order that a payment may save limitation under S. 20, it is necessary that the acknowledgment of payment must appear in the handwriting of or in a writing signed by the person making it, but it is not necessary that the fact that the payment was made towards principal or interest should also appear in writing. Evidence may be given that the payment was made towards principal of interest and there is no difference in this respect between payment towards interest and payment towards principal.

A promissory note executed in payment of interest due on a prior debt will, therefore, save that debt from limitation even though the promissory note does not on the face of it, show that it was executed towards interest. (1936) M.W.N. 718=44 L.W. 339=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 848= (1937) 2 M.L.J. 54=165 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 20—Part payment—Alleged payment embodied in document—Document not indicating acknowledgment—Effect.

Where there is nothing in the document, which would in any way indicate that the judgment-debtor acknowledged the payment supposed to have been made and all that appears is his signature, it cannot be said that there is an acknowledgment of payment in the handwriting or in a writing signed by the person making the payment and S. 20 does not apply. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 386=2 B.R. 680 =163 Ind. Cas. 915.

——Ss. 20, 19—Writing not fulfilling requirements of S. 20, due to some defect.

Although the writing, owing to some defect, does not fulfil the requirements of S. 20, it may nevertheless, as an acknowledgment of liability, operate to save the claim under S. 19. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 245=68 M.L.J. 63= (1935) M.W.N. 122=41 L.W. 721=157 Ind. Cas. 272.

——S. 20—Where a part payment is evidenced by a writing which is signed by the person making the payment, it makes no difference whether the payment is [illegible] to be for interest or for principal or for both and the fact that the writing does not say whether it is for interest or principal is, therefore immaterial. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 101=68 M.L.J. 470=58 M. 413=68 M.L.J. 47=(1935) M.W.N. 17=154 Ind. Cas. 1053.

——Ss. 20, 19—Stranger writing endorsement over signatures of defendants without their authorisation.

Where the plaintiff alleged that the defendants signed their names and afterwards, without consulting them and without their authorisation, a third party wrote the endorsement over their signatures:

Held, that this cannot be held to be an acknowledgment of the payment in writing signed by the persons making the payment, and that limitation could not be extended under S. 20. A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 287=152 Ind. Cas. 501.

——S. 20—Where payments are not endorsed in the handwriting of the person paying, they cannot be taken into consideration. A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 227=151 Ind. Cas. 426.

——S. 20—The proviso added to S. 20 by the Act of 1927 makes it quite clear that a payment of interest as such does not now save limitation, unless there is an acknowledgment of the payment appearing in the handwriting of or in a writing signed by the person making the payment. (1932) A.L.J. 1035=A.I.R. 1933 All. 49=143 Ind. Cas. 324.

——S. 20—Writing not simultaneous with payment—Effect.

Under S. 20, the writing evidencing the part payment of principal need not come into existence simultaneously with the part payment and further, when the part payment is admitted and the fact of the part payment is made in writing by the debtor, the debt is revived and a suit can be maintained within three years of the part payment.

When a part payment on account is made, any sums of money that were due to the plaintiff within three years before the date of the part payment can be sued for and the period of limitation would run from the date of part payment. A.I.R. 1931 All. 375=131 Ind. Cas. 867

——S. 20—Essentials—Part payment of principal—Interest.

A part payment of the principal of a debt must appear in the handwriting of the person making the part payment and not in that of any other person, however authorized. Held, also that the mere crediting of interest in a banker's books cannot be regarded, for the purpose of saving limitation as equivalent to a payment of intereso 29 A. 773=1907 A.W.N. 263=4 A.L.J. 628, also (1901) 3 Bom.L.R. 834.

——S. 20—Acknowledgment under S. 20 is not of the debt but of the payment and if once limitation is saved, the debtor is liable for any sum which the Court, after investigation, finds to be due. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 538=42 C.W.N. 548=I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 320=177 Ind. Cas. 508.

4. Appropriation by creditor.

——S. 20—Payment without indication whether it is towards interest or principal—Appropriation by creditor towards principal, to save limitation, must be before expiry of limitation.

In order to obtain a fresh period of limitation under S. 20, any appropriation by the creditor towards the principal of any sum paid by the debtor without indicating whether the payment is towards interest or principal, must be before the expiration of the period of limitation. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 59=11 B.R. 354=219 Ind. Cas. 159.

——S. 20—Interest bearing debt—Payment by debtor without appropriation—Appropriation by creditor towards principal—Such appropriation, when saves limitation.

Where a debtor has made a payment on account of an interest bearing debt without appropriating the sum paid either towards principal or interest, the creditormay appropriate and if he appropriates it towards principal, it becomes a part payment of principal within the meaning of S. 20 Lim. Act, and saves limitation nonetheless that it was notpaid as such. It is not necessary that the character of the payment as intended to go towards interest or towards principal must appear by the writing or must be ascertainable or ascertained at the time when the payment is made and the language of S. 20 has not been satisfied, unless,within the prescribed period the creditors has, in the exercise of his right, done something which treats the payment as made on account of principal. If, therefore, until after the expiry of the prescribed period, the creditor has treated the sum as paid on account of interest or has not done anything to treat it as paid on account of principal, then, under the amended S. 20, part payment of principal has not been established. 24 Pat. 96=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 271=11 B.R. 491=26 P.L.T. 173=220 Ind. Cas. 255.

——S. 20—Appropriation of payment by creditor towards interest or principal—Distinction between and effect of.

There is a definite distinction for the purpose of saving limitation between an appropriation by a creditor to principal and an appropriation by a creditor to interest. The former will save limitation if the appropriation is made within the prescribed period, even though the appropriation is not notified until after the prescribed period. But in the latter case, the limitation is not saved if made by the creditor alone. But although it is open to a creditor to treat a payment as payment towards interest or as payment towards principal provided he makes the appropriation within the period of limitation he obviously cannot be allowed to appropriate it towards principal during the course of the suit when he has in fact appropriated, and notified to the defendant that he has appropriated to interest. 17 R.B. 117=A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 37=45 Bom.L.R. 1014=215 Ind. Cas. 12.

——S. 20—Account books maintained on katauti system—Entry of payment by debtor on credit side.

Under S. 20 in the absence of definite instruction by the debtor, the creditor can appropriate payments made by the debtor. In the case of interest, if it is attempted to save limitation the instructions must be by the debtor and the payment must be of interest as such, but in the case of principal, if the debtor has given no instructions, the creditor can appropriate if, it he so chooses, towards principal and can save limitation provided time has not run out at the time of appropriation and provided acknowledgment of payment appears in the handwriting of or on the writing signed by the person making the payment. The execution of a sarkhat by the debtor in the creditor's books of account maintained on katauti system on the credit side, amounts to a part payment of principal within the meaning of S. 20. 1941 O.W.N. 293=(1941) A.L.J. 50=A.I.R. 1941 All. 132=1941 A.W.R. 42=I.L.R. (1941) All. 291=193 Ind. Cas. 854.

——S. 20—It cannot be maintained that a payment on general account is either a payment of interest as such or a payment of principal. The disjunction is incomplete; there are additional possibilities as well.

In the case of "open' payment the creditor's act of appropriation of the payment to the principal debt is a very different matter. It cannot have been intended by the Legislature that at the end of the prescribed period, the right to sue should be barred and yet that the creditor might thereafter remove the bar at his own choice by making an appropriation. Though it need not be shown that the creditor's appropriation has, within the time limited, been communicated to the debtor, the language of the section cannot be regarded as satisfied unless, within the prescribed period the creditor has, in exercise of his right, done something which treats the payment as made on account of principal. To evidence a definite appropriation to the principal debt made by the creditor within the period prescribed, the manner in which the payment has been dealt with by the creditor in his own books of account will ordinarily be sufficient. But if it be true until after the expiry of the prescribed period the creditor has treated the sum as paid on account of interest or has not done anything to treat it as paid on account of principal, then under the amended S. 20, part payment of principal has not been established. The result may be regarded as unfortunate since the fresh period begins or does not begin according as the creditor has or has not taken some step in consequence of the debtor's act, whereas the essential matter is really the debtor's act, but unless either a part payment of principal is required to be made as such in order to stop the running of the statute or a payment on account of an interest bearing debt, though made generally on account, is made sufficient for that purpose, there is no escape from this conclusion :

Held, on evidence that the debtor paid Rs. 100 in his own handwriting and the creditor appropriated it towards principal straightway. This payment must be held to be part payment of principal. ——S. 20—Words "paid as such", if superfluous—Payment made by debtor without specifying—Mere crediting of interest by creditor in his account book, if sufficient.

The words "paid as such" in S. 20, are not superfluous. The section provides that it must be payment as interest by the debtor to the creditor though the form of payment may differ. Mere crediting of interest by the creditor in his own account books is not enough to satisfy the provisions of the statute. It must be interest paid "as interest" and distinctly stated to be so at the time of payment.

So far as the payment of interest is concerned, the acknowledgment in writing must be of the payment of interest "as such." The word "payment" in the proviso refers back to the section it qualifies, and the words "as such" occur in relation to the payment of interest in the section itself.

Where money is paid by a debtor without his specifying whether the payment is towards interest or towards principal leaving it to the option of the creditor to appropriate it as he likes, and the creditor appropriates it towards interest, there is neither a payment of interest "as such" nor a part payment of the principal within the meaning of S. 20 and the payment does not save limitation. 1939 O.W.N. 203=A.I.R. 1939 Oudh 141=14 Luck. 588=180 Ind. Cas. 15.

——S. 20—Where the debtor made payment within limitation and the fact of payment appeared in the handwriting of the person making it but the debtor did not specify whether it was towards principal o. interest or both:

Held, that if the creditor appropriated the payment towards interest, it was a payment of interest as such by the debtor and saved limitation. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 389=20 P.L.T. 175=18 Pat. 253=5 B.R. 924=183 Ind. Cas. 330.

——S. 20—Where money is paid by a debtor without specifying whether the payment is towards interest or towards principal leaving it to the option of the creditor to appropriate it as he likes, and the creditor appropriates it wholly towards interest due, there is neither a payment of interest as such nor a part payment of the principal within the meaning of S. 20. ——S. 20—Where it was agreed between the parties that interest would be paid first of all and anything paid by the defendants would go first of all towards interest and the plaintiffs appropriated such payments towards interest, the payment must be deemed to be towards interest and as such, sufficient to save limitation. In order to bring a case within S. 20 of the Lim. Act, it is not essential that the debtor should, on the occasion of each payment, state explicitly that the payment is made on accounts of interest as such; it is sufficient if circumstances exist which make the conclusion inevitable that the payment must have been made on account of interest. 3 B.R. 286=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 583=167 Ind. Cas. 244.

——S. 20—Creditor crediting re payment towards interest—Whether makes payment towards interest as such.

The mere fact that the creditor chooses to credit a repayment towards interest does not make it a payment by the debtor towards interest as such. So long as the intention of the debtor is unequivocally conveyed in the acknowledgment, it is not necessary for him to use any particular formula of words. A.I.R. 1937 Nag. 165=I.L.R. ——S. 20—Where money is paid by a debtor without his specifying whether his payment is towards interest or towards principal, leaving it to the option of the creditor to appropriate it as he likes and the creditor appropriates it towards interest, there is neither a payment of interest as such nor a part payment of the principal within the meaning of S. 20. 3 B.R. 286=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 583=167 Ind. ——S. 20—Debtor not exercising his option.

A debtor has the first option to state whether the deposit by him is to be appropriated towards payment of interest or principal and where he does not exercise the option and the creditor appropriates the amount towards the interest, the debtor must be presumed to consent to such appropriation and the payment can be held to have been made on account of interest as such within the meaning of S. 20 18 P.L.T. 309=16 Pat. 27=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 410=3 B.R. 669=170 Ind. ——S. 20—The mere fact of payment of an amount which is not specified to be either by way of interest or by way of part payment of principal does not save limitation. Such a payment is merely a general payment unspecified on account and does not comply with the requirements of the statute. If the creditor appropriates such a payment towards principal, then, in the case of a payment on account of this kind, the fact of appropriation would make it equivalent to a part payment of the principal, but such a payment either towards principal or interest must be appropriated before limitation in order to save limitation A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 820=39 P.L.R. 622=172 Ind. Cas. 455.

——S. 20—Share-holder of Bank being director, auditor and mortgagor—Appropriation by Bank by adjustment of sums to mortgagor's credit from other accounts towards interest and subscription due from mortgagor—Audit notes written by mortgagor as auditor subsequently to adjustment.

A shareholder and a director of a Bank took loan from the Bank on mortgage bonds agreeing to pay interest and subscription due on his shares regularly every month. He was also an auditor of the Bank and as such was auditing the accounts every month. He failed to pay certain instalments, whereupon the Bank made adjustments by appropriating sufficient sums from other accounts to the credit of the mortgagor, towards, interest and subscription due from the mortgagor. The mortgagor, subsequent to these adjustments, wrote audit notes for the year in which the instalments failed :

Held, that the fact that he was writing the audit notes for the year in question subsequent to the adjustment showed that he had at least an intimate knowledge of the accounts written upto the end of the year. It would be iniquitous if the mortgagor, knowing in advance that adjustments would, in the ordinary course of business, be made, knowing soon afterwards that adjustments were made, and obviously authorising the Bank to obtain funds from the accounts of others to discharge his debts, should be allowed to escape liability merely because he was not present on the actual day on which the adjustments were made. He must be considered to have ratified these adjustments towards subscription and interest. Consequently in a suit on the mortgage bond, the Bank's personal remedy was not barred by S. 20, Lim. Act. ——S. 20—Both parties agreeing at time of endorsement of payment that it is to save limitation—Intention.

——S. 20—No mention of mode of appropriation—Creditor appropriating amount towards interest—Whether can subsequently convert.

It is possible that interest as such may not be paid by a debtor but payment by him may operate as payment of interest as would be the case where the creditor has got the right to appropriate a payment towards interest and does exercise that right. After the exercise of that right, no question can arise as to whether the payment was made towards principal or interest. It is not open to the creditor to convert it subsequently into payment of interest only, as it is for his benefit that he should reconsider his position as regards such payment. ——S. 20—(As amended by Act 1 of 1927)—Payment by debtor without specification.

Per Full Bench (Thom and Bajpai, JJ., contra)—Where money is paid by a debtor without specifying whether the payment is towards interest or towards principal, leaving it to the option of the creditor to appropriate it as he likes, and the creditor appropriates it towards interest there is neither a payment of interest as such nor a part payment of the principal within the meaning of S. 20.

Per Thom and Bajpai, JJ., contra—Where an endorsement appears on the back of a bond in the handwriting of a debtor or his agent of the payment of a certain sum which is less than the amount of interest due, and less than the capital amount of the bond, a fresh period of limitation would run from the date of payment inasmuch as clearly the payment must be either towards interest or in part payment of principal, or partly towards interest and partly towards capital. 1935 A.L.J. 1029=1935 A.W.R. 1157 A.I.R. 1935 All. 946=58 All. 261=159 Ind. ——S. 20—Payment by debtor, without specifying whether it was towards interest or principal—A creditor appropriating towards interest.

Where a debtor made a payment without specifying whether it was made towards interest or principal and the creditor appropriated it towards interest :

Held, that the payment was not payment of interest as such and cannot save limitation and though it is in writing, it cannot be assumed to be payment of principal so as to save limitation under S. 20, Lim. Act.

Where a debtor pays a certain sum of money to his creditor, there may be an implied acknowledgment of the liability to the extent of the amount paid. It cannot, however, be said that the remaining liability shown by evidence aliunde should be deem d to have also been acknowledged. A.I.R. 1933 All 453=55 All. 632=(1933) A.L.J. 930=144 Ind. Cas. 899.

——S. 20—Appropriation by creditor towards interest, if sufficient—Payment expressly for interest by debtor—If essential to save limitation.

The creditor is entitled if the debtor makes no stipulation atthe time he makes the payment to creditor payment in such a way as would be most profitable to himself. He has a right to appropriate a payment made in a general manner towards interest due to him. But the creditor cannot by his own action and without any act of volition on the part of the debtor start a fresh period of limitation. Under S.20 the debtor must make the payment of interest definitely as interest and it is the act of the debtor which give limitation a fresh starting point. 120 Ind. Cas. 897=7 Rang. 522=A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 339.

——S. 20—General payment—Appropriation towards interest by creditor—Claim not saved.

Section 20 seems to contemplate a person liable to pay the amount and the interest making the payment and paying it for interest as such, and it has been repeatedly held by all the Courts in India that if a general payment should be made by a debtor, and a creditor should appropriate a portion of it towards interest, that would not amount to any payment by the debtor of interest as such and woud not have the effect of saving the claim from the bar of limitation. 111 Ind. Cas. 210=51 Mad. 549=29 M.L.W. 460=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 509.

——S. 20—Intention of debtor to pay towards interest must be proved—Appropriation by creditor not sufficient.

Section 20 contemplates that the debtor has paid the amount with the intention that it should be paid towards interest and these must be something to indicate such an intention. The mere appropriation by the creditor of these payments to interest is not such an indication as would enable Court to hold that the payment were made towards interest as such by the debtor. 31 All. 495, Foll.

When there is nothing to show for what purpose payments were made towards a debt, the Court is entitled to ascertain the truth from the evidence. 44 Cal. 567, Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 281=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 110.

——S. 20—Payment must be made by person liable or his agent—Appropriation by creditor—Not sufficient.

The words of S. 20 are mandatory and interest must be paid as such by the person liable to pay the debtor or by his agent. An appropriation by the creditor to interest is not such an indication as would enable a Court to hold that the payments were made towards interest. 97 Ind. Cas. 384=1926 M.W.N. 558=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 902.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Intention—Mere appropriation by creditor.

Under S. 20 only payment of interest made as such will save limitation, i.e., when the debtor has paid the amounts with the express or implied intention that it should be paid towards interest. The mere appropriation by the creditor of the payments to interest is not such an indication. 19 Ind. Cas. 825 (Oudh).

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Requisites of.

Under S. 20 the interest must be paid as such i.e., the debtor should pay it with the intention that it should be taken as interest; appropriation by a creditor of the payment as interest is not sufficient. 31 All. 495=6 A.L.J. 611=2 Ind. Cas. 379.

——S. 20 (unamended)—Payment of interest "as such"—Open payment by debtor—Creditor's right to appropriate it towards interest—Contract between parties that all payments should in first instance be towards interest—Endorsement not indicating that payment is towards interest—Extrinsic evidence—Admissibility.

When payment is made not specifically towards interest the creditor is not at liberty to appropriate it towards interest in order to save limitation. The choice lies with the debtor and unless he expressly, or by necessary implication, makes the payment towards interest "as such" at the time of making the payment, S. 20 of the Lim. Act is not attracted.

But when there is an express contract between the parties that all payment shall in the first instance be towards interest it is not necessary to repeat the formula each time the payment is made. The parties can, if they so choose, state expressly that they will make further payments in a particular way, and if the payment is made thereafter, it must be taken to have been made in the way they intended at the beginning unless there is anything to indicate to the contrary. This is particularly the case when the endorsement is on the bond itself and must be regarded as a sort of appendix or continuation of the bond. It is not necessary that the endorsement itself should indicate that the payment is towards interest as such. This can be deduced from extrinsic evidence. I.L.R. (1949) Nag. 478=A.I.R. 1949 Nag. 394=1949 N.L.J. 189.

——S. 20—Agreement as to appropriating towards interest first—General payment and appropriation by creditor—Saves limitation.

Where according to the terms of a mortgage, any payment made by the mortgagor was to be appropriated first to the interest due and the balance to principal, a general payment of debt and its appropriation by creditor accordingly saves limitation if interest is due at the date of payment and the payment does not cease to be payment of interest as such merely because overdue interest is treated under the deed as principal for the purpose of calculating interest. 43 Ind. Cas. 812, Foll. 99 Ind. Cas. 694=25 M.L.W. 69=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 284.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—What is.

Where the agreement between a creditor and a debtor was that a credit in the creditor's book of a certain amount in favour of the debtor should be treated as "payment of interest" by the debtor and it is relied on to save limitation, the evidence must show that the debtor was a party to the arrangement and the accounts charging interest from time to time were accepted by him. A creditor cannot by a more unilateral act of his own turn a payment into payment of interest as such. (1916) 2 M.W.N. 264=4 L.W. 553=29 Ind. Cas. 422.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Intention to pay—Appropriation.

An intention to pay interest as such ought not to be inferred merely from the creditor's appropriating payments in accordance with his legal power. But if the method of appropriation is determined at the outset by express contract between the parties, specific appropriation on the occasion of each payment is not necessary. 9 N.L.R. 78=19 Ind. Cas. 849.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Appropriation by creditor towards interest.

Where there is an agreement between the parties that all payment made by the debtor would go first for payment of interest and then for principal, any appropriation made by a creditor towards interest in spite of the absence of directions from the debtor, would be the payment of interest as such within the meaning of S. 20. 31 All. 285=6 A.L.J. 207=1 Ind. Cas. 137.

——S. 20—Two debts—General payment—Appropriation by creditor to one—Limitation not saved.

Under S. 20 the payment is viewed from the standpoint of the debtor and hence the determining factor is the intention of the debtor in making the payment and not that of the creditor in appropriating it. Where, therefore, the debtor makes payment to his creditor, whom he owed two debts, the mere appropriation of the payment by the creditor to one of the debts, cannot, in the absence of evidence to show debtor's intention, save limitation. 116 Ind. Cas. 549=10 Lah. 750=30 P.L.R. 233=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 288.

——S. 20—Appropriation of payment—Suit debt and another—Effect of, on limitation.

The plaintiff had appropriated the payments generally towards the defendant's debts due on the suit pronote, which was earlier and another due on a mortgage. Held, both the debts were saved and the suit was in time. 11 M.L.T. 429 and 13 C.L.J. 39, Foll. 51 Ind. Cas. 240 (Mad.).

——S. 20—Appropriation of payments—Payment—Several pronotes—Payment without specification of debt—Effect of—Limitation.

Where payment was made by a debtor to a creditor in respect of several pronotes without specifying the debt to which they were paid or whether it was paid for principal or interest but such payments were corroborated by an entry in the creditor's account in the handwriting of the debtor. Held, that the entry has the effect of saving limitation in respect of all notes whether the payment was for interest or principal or both. 11 M.L.T. 429=(1912) M.W.N. 754=14 Ind. Cas. 580.

5. Authority to pay.

——Ss. 20 (1) and 21—"Agent duly authorised" to make payments and acknowledgments—Testamentary guardian of Hindu minor daughter—Payments and acknowledgments by, after the minor is married—If will save limitation.

As evidence can be given apart from the endorsement itself on a promissory note to show that a particular payment was towards the interest due on a debt, where interest has been paid towards the debts due on two promissory notes but by mistake the relevant endorsements as to payment of interest are made on the wrong notes, evidence aliunde would be admissible to show that the endorsement made on each note was an acknowledgment of the payment of interest in respect of the other so as to save limitation.

A testamentary guardian can be appointed by a Hindu father both as regards the person as well as the property of his minor daughter. Though on the marriage of the minor the husband would in law become the guardian of her person unless there is an express provision in the will, the guardian appointed by it will not be cease to the guardian so far as the property is concerned. Hence a testamentary guardian who continues to be the lawful guardian of her property in spite of her marriage would be an " agent duly authorised " to make payments and acknowledgments will save limitation. I.L.R. (1948) Mad. 351=A.I.R. 1948 Mad. 155=60 L.W. 425=1947 M.W.N. 409=(1947) 2 M.L.J. 93.

Where in execution of a decree, the moveable property of the judgment-debtor is attached by a Chagla Kanungo under a warrant issued by the Court, and the Chagla Kanungo sells the property and pays the sale proceeds to the decree-holder, such payment does not save limitation under S. 20, Limitation Act. The warrant officer cannot be regarded as an agent of the judgment-debtor duly authorised to make such payment to the decree-holder. 11 Cut. L.T. 54=1946 P.W.N. 116=A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 131.

——Ss. 20, 21—Managing partner making payment towards partnership debt—Endorsement by him, held saved limitation against partners.

A partner X who was in charge of the business made the payment of interest and principal due on a pro-note which was a partnership debt, and entered the payment in the books of the firm. The creditor in his own account book also credited the amount to the joint account of the partners :

Held, that X was acting on behalf of the firm and not on his own behalf and the endorsement of the payment by X saved limitation against all the partners. (1945) 1 M.L.J. 279=58 M.L.W. 236=1945 M.W.N. 314=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 263.

——S. 20—Partners—Implied authority.

Acknowledgment must be either by an authorised person or it can be inferred from the acts of parties. In the absence of direct evidence that a contractor or partner has authorised his co-contractor or co-partner to acknowledge a debt or to make payments saving limitation on his behalf the Court can infer such authority from other circumstances, such as the position of the other co-contractors or partners in the business. 37 M. 146, Foll. 41 Mad. 427=34 M.L.J. 373=23 M.L.T. 261=(1918) M.W.N. 285=7 L.W. 552=45 Ind. Cas. 18. [Also 37 Mad. 146=25 M.L.J. 501=21 Ind. Cas. 634].

——S. 20 (1)—Partner—Limitation—Saving of.

The mere fact that a partner is in charge of a branch of the partnership business does not authorise him to bind the firm by a payment or acknowledgment. He must be specifilly authorised to do so in order to bring the payment within S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 28 Ind. Cas. 845 (Mad.).

——S. 20—Part-payment by a partner.

Part-payment by one partner of a debt due by the firm is not binding on the other partners, unless the partner is shown to have such authority. As an ordinary rule, authority of one partner to pay part of the firm's debt so as to bind other partner is not to be presumed in a going mercantile concern. 32 Mad. 421=5 M.L.T. 102=2 Ind. Cas. 309.

——Ss. 20 and 21—Principal and surety.

Quaere.—Whether a payment by the principal debtor would keep alive the debts against the surety under S. 20, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 251=74 C.L.J. 327=I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 576=201 Ind. Cas. 138.

——S. 20—Principal or surety is authorised by the other by implication to make payments.

The principal or the surety is authorised by the other, by implication, to make payments on account of the common debt, and in the manner provided by S. 20 (1), Limitation Act. The object and intention of the arrangement made by the principal and surety is that the principal shall pay the debt and thus reduce or cancel the surety's liability and the surety must be taken to be aware of the provisions of the section and the effect of payments made in accordance therewith. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 401=I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 362=44 C.W.N. 985=191 Ind. Cas. 608.

——S. 20—In cases of principal and surety, there are two distinct contracts in respect of one debt common to both. There cannot be two distinct debts, otherwise payments on account of principal or interest by the principal would not, ipso facto, reduce the debt due by the surety, and vice versa as they do. It follows that payments of principal or interest by either principal or surety, and acknowledgements in accordance with the provisions of S. 20 (1), Limitation Act, create a fresh priod of Limitation in respect of the common debt as against either the principal or the surety. The expression 'fresh period of limitation' is in general terms, and there is nothing in the section to indicate that the new periods of limitation is only to operate against the person making the payment. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 401=44 C.W.N. 985=I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 362=191 Ind. Cas. 608.

——S. 20—Principal and surety—Payment of interest by debtor.

Payment of interest by the principal debtor within limitation gives a fresh starting point against the surety under S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 105 P.R. 1919=53 Ind. Cas. 586.

——S. 20—The fresh period of limitation created under S. 20, by the payment of interest by the principal debtor can be only in respect of the debt of the principal debtor and the fact that the payment was made with the knowledge or consent of the surety or even at his request would not save limitation as against the surety unless the circumstances are such as to render the payment one on the surety's behalf. (1934) M.W.N. 118=40 M.L.W. 479=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 639=152 Ind. Cas. 464.

——S. 20—Payments by a principal debtor do not extend the period of limitation against a surety. A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 310=8 O.W.N. 544=132 Ind. Cas. 798.

——S. 20—Payment by principal—No fresh starting point against surety.

The liability of the surety is not saved from the bar of limitation by the payment by the principal. 28 Bom. 248 and 21 M.L.J. 455, Foll.; 105 P.R. 1919, Not foll. 120 Ind. Cas. 576=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 112.

——S. 20—Payment by principal—No saving against surety.

The payment of interest by the debtor within limitation under S. 20 does not give a fresh starting point for limitation against the surety. 84 Ind. Cas. 199=20 N.L.R. 140=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 411.

——S. 20—Principal and surety—Interest—Payment of, by principal debtor.

A payment of interest made by the principal debtor with the knowledge and consent and at the request of the surety but not or his behalf does not extend the period of limitation under S. 20 so far as the surety is concerned. A payment by one person cannot keep alive the remedy against another unless payment by the one may be regarded as payment for the other. Payment by the principal will not in general bind the surety. The fresh period of limitation created under S. 20 by payment of interest by the principal debtor is only in respect of the debt upon which the interest was paid, viz., the debt of the principal debtor. Though the liabilities of the debtor and the surety arise out of the same transaction, their liabilities are distinct for the application of S. 20. 44 Cal. 978=21 C.W.N. 482=25 C.L.J. 238=39 Ind. Cas. 705.

——S. 20—Principal and surety.

Payment of interest by principal debtor does not extend limitation as against surety. 28 B. 248, Foll. 9 M.L.T. 263=21 M.L.J. 455=9 Ind. Cas. 8.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Principal—Surety—Limitation.

In the absence of a prohibition against the payment of interest by the debtor on his account, the payment of interest by the debtor within limitation does not give a fresh starting point of limitation against the surety under S. 20. (1903) 5 Bom.L.R. 1020=28 B. 248.

——S. 20—Claim barred by time against principal debtor—Payment by surety.

For the purposes of the application of S. 20, the liabilities of the debtor and his surety are distinct, though their liabilities arise out of the same transaction.

Where a suit was barred by limitation against the principal debtor, but the surety had made certain payments and endorsements on the suit bond thus preventing limitation running against him:

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree against the surety only. A.I.R. 1932 Rang. 88=10 R. 398 =139 Ind. Cas. 138.

——Ss. 20, 21—A payment by an heir saves limitation against other heirs. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 110=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 326=(1940) M.W.N. 891=52 L.W. 364 (2) =195 Ind. Cas. 235.

——S. 20—Payment of interest by one of co-heirs of a deceased Muhammadan—Limitation saved against other co-heirs.

A payment of interest due on a promissory note, executed by a deceased Mohammedan, by one of his co-heirs is effectual under S. 20 to save limitation against other co-heirs also, because what S. 20 requires is only that the payment should be made by a person liable to pay the debt. 118 Ind. Cas. 302=1929 M.W.N. 146=29 M.L.W. 789=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 419=56 M.L.J. 630.

——S. 20 (1)—Payment by one of heirs.

A payment of interest by one of the heirs of a deceased on the debts due by the latter would not save the running of limitation against the other heirs. 14 Ind. Cas. 129 (All.).

The payment of interest, on a debt due by the deceased by one of his heirs does not save limitation as against the other heirs. 14 Ind. Cas. 128 (Cal.).

——S. 20—Payment by manager—Bengal Tenancy Act, S. 95.

Section 20, Limitation Act does not require any formal authorisation. Such an authority may even be implied from the facts and circumstances of the loan.

The common manager appointed under S. 95, Bengal Tenancy Act was authorised by the proprietors to raise a loan in his name without undertaking any personal liability and to repay the loan out of the shares of the proprietors in the profits of the estate. He paid interest within the period of limitation from time to time out of the share of the income of these proprietors and endorsed these payments on the back of the bond in suit and the creditor-plaintiff received interest presumably as paid on behalf of the debtors:

Held, that these payments saved limitation as against the proprietors.

Held, also the common manager was not liable. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 643=73 C.L.J. 356=197 Ind. Cas. 869.

——S. 20—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Payment by mortgagee.

Per Leach, C. J. and King, J.—(Patanjali Sastri, J., Contra)—Where a mortgagee undertakes as a part of the consideration for the mortgage in full a debt due by the mortgagor, he cannot be deemed to have authority to make a payment of interest or a part payment of principal. In such a case, the mortgagee cannot be deemed to have discretion in the matter of payment to the mortgagor's creditor. His duty is to discharge the debt in full and he has no authority to do anything else. Hence a payment made by the mortgagee cannot be regarded as a payment made by him as an agent of the mortgagor duly authorised in that behalf within the meaning of S. 20, Limitation Act. Whether there is authority to make a part payment is a question of fact and the decision in each case must depend upon the particular facts.

Per Patanjali Sastri, J.—Where a mortgagee undertakes a part of the mortgage consideration, to discharge a debt due by the mortgagor, a payment made by the mortgagee should be regarded as having been made with the authority of the mortgagor who gets the benefit of it by virtue of the stipulation. Section 20, Limitation Act does not require authority to keep the debt alive. The authorisation must relate to the payment of interest on the debt or to the part payment of the principal as the case may be, and the debt is kept alive as the legal consequence of such payment, irrespective of the intention of the debtor or his agent. It is, therefore, not strictly relevant, and may, indeed be somewhat misleading to enquire whether the person paying was authorised to keep alive the debt. The true principle is that a man can be an 'agent' within the meaning of the Act, not only when he acts for a principal properly so-called but also when he makes the payment on behalf of the debtor; because he has bound himself by deed for value so to do. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 67=I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 191=52 L.W. 935=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 77=1941 M.W.N. 9=195 Ind. Cas. 733 (F.B.).

——S. 20—"Duly authorised agent"—Mortgagee.

A mortgagee authorised to pay off a debt due by the mortgagor is not his "duly authorised agent" within S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 26 M.L.J. 509=23 Ind. Cas. 810.

——Ss. 20, 19—Direction by mortgagor to his vendee to discharge debt due by mortgagor—Part payment made by vendee.

Under S. 20, the agent whose payment would keep alive the debt must be one who was duly authorised to make the part payment of interest or principal. A power to extinguish the debt would not carry with it a power to keep alive the debt. A direction or power to discharge a debt does not make the donee of the power an agent authorised to make a part payment so as to keep alive the debt. The part payment made by the purchaser would not be payment by an agent duly authorised within the meaning of S. 20. 51 L.W. 453=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 6=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 726=195 Ind. Cas. 329 (D.B.).

——S. 20—Part-payment by vendee—Debt not kept alive.

A vendee has no authority to keep a debt alive by making a part payment when he was asked to pay it by the sale deed. A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 401.

——Ss. 20, 21—Pro-note executed by undivided father and son—Payment by father.

Where a pro-note is executed by the undivided father and son, a payment by the father alone cannot save limitation against the son in the absence of proof that the loan was contracted for the benefit of the entire family, the mere fact that the father was the manager of the family cannot save limitation. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 208=7 B.R. 861=22 P.L.T. 1054=195 Ind. Cas. 52.

——S. 20—Hindu family—Payment by manager.

Part payment of a joint debt by manager of a joint Hindu family does bind another member of the family and the fact that the latter joined the manager in borrowing the loan cannot impair the representative capacity of the manager though it may serve to prove that the borrowing was for a necessary purpose of the family. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 15=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 235=1938 N.L.J. 205=182 Ind. Cas. 573.

——S. 20—Joint Hindu family—Pro-note executed by son—Endorsement of payment made by father.

A member of the joint Hindu family cannot simply because he is a member of that family, without specific authority, pay a debt on behalf of another member of the family or make an endorsement on behalf of the other member so as to enlarge the period of limitation. Hence where a promissory note is executed by a son who was a member of the undivided family with his father, an endorsement of payment made by the father cannot be presumed to have been authorised on behalf of the son unless there is something else to show that authority was, in fact, given to the father by the son to pay the debt on his behalf. (1940) 2 M.L.J. 369=(1940) M.W.N. 893=52 L.W. 399=A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 954=191 Ind. Cas. 853.

——Ss. 20, 21—Joint liability of Hindu undivided family for family debt, whether debt within S. 20.

The joint liabilities of the members of an undivided Hindu family for a family debt, is not a debt within the meaning of S. 20 so that one member, by making a part payment, can keep the debt alive against all the others.

Reading Ss. 20 and 21 together, therefore, it cannot be held that the members of a joint family are, for the purposes of S. 20, "persons liable to pay the debt" when the debt in question cannot be levied from them personally, but is merely recoverable by the sale of the joint family property, on foot of a decree made to that effect. Much less then are the said members "persons liable to pay the debt" when by reason of partition the joint family has disappeared and the debt is recoverable merely by sale of the property got at partition on foot of a decree made against those divided members, the operation of which decree is contingent on their still retaining possession of the said property or some of it. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 774=(1938) M.W.N. 714=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 33=48 M.L.W. 251=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 968=178 Ind. Cas. 243.

——Ss. 20, 21—Partition—Part payment by person to whom debt is allotted.

Where a debt was due by two brothers and on a partition between them, it was allotted to one of them:

Held, that a part payment by the brother to whom it was allotted could not save the debt from limitation as against the other brother.

Held, also that the partition had the effect of revoking a power-of-attorney which the former had executed to the latter. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 826=147 Ind. Cas. 459.

——S. 20—Mortgage — Part-payment — Endorsement by karta of joint family—Fresh period of limitation begins.

The karta of a joint family is the agent of the entire family duly authorised to make part-payments on behalf of the family and when he makes a part-payment towards the satisfaction of a mortgage bond, the suit brought by mortgagee within 12 years of the part-payment, but after 12 years from execution of the mortgage bond against joint family on that bond, is not barred by limitation under S. 20, as fresh period of limitation begins to run from his endorsement. 37 Cal. 461=31 C.L.J. 7 and 19 C.W.N. 860, foll. 109 Ind. Cas. 655=6 Pat. 811=A.I.R. 1928 Pat. 156.

——S. 20—Payment by son—Debt by father for his own purposes—No acknowledgment—No presumption of agency.

Where a pro-note prima facie is for 1st defendant's necessity only and not for family necessity the mere fact that 2nd defendant is his undivided son will not suffice to make a payment by him tantamount to an acknowledgment in law on behalf of his father, for father's private debt, or suffice to raise any presumption that 2nd defendants acted as his father's agent in making such a payment. 32 M.L.T. 317=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 96.

——S. 20—Payment by manager not acting as such—Junior members.

Payment towards principal and interest made by the manager and endorsed on the note in his writing and over his signature had the effect of extending the period of limitation as against the junior members also, though the payment and the endorsement did not purport to have been made and signed by him as manager. 37 M.L.J. 369=53 Ind. Cas. 878.

——S. 20—Joint Hindu family—Payment by karta binds other members.

The words "agent duly authorised" in S. 20 of the Limitation Act includes authority given by law as well as authority given by act of parties. Where the karta of a joint Hindu family purporting to act for himself as well as for his minor brother, made part payment of interest due on debt contracted by himself and his father for joint family purposes it has the effect of saving limitation in respect of the claim as against the minor member as well. 31 C.L.J. 7=52 Ind. Cas. 436.

——S. 20—Payment by manager through messenger—Effect.

A payment through a messenger made by a manager having general authority to make payments and followed by an entry by the manager of such payment with his own hand in his account book saves limitation. 23 C.W.N. 336=50 Ind. Cas. 862.

——S. 20—'Debtor'—Payment by son during lifetime of father.

The word "debtor" as used in S. 20 of the Limitation Act, means the persons who is liable under the contract of debt. Hence where a father and his son form together a joint Hindu family and a debt is contracted by the father, the son is in the lifetime of the father neither a debtor nor, in the absence of any evidence, an agent of the father for the purposes of the said section. 5 O.L.J. 419=47 Ind. Cas. 655.

——Ss. 20 and 21—Authority to acknowledge—Joint Hindu family—One member managing for all after partition—Acknowledgment by him.

Where one member after partition was allowed to manage the properties on behalf of all, an acknowledgment by him after partition is not binding on the others unless it can be proved that he was then authorised agent under S. 21. 3 L.W. 231=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 162=38 Ind. Cas. 986.

——Ss. 20, 21—'Agent'—Managing member of joint family—Not certificated guardian—Mortgage debt contracted by father—Sons, adult and minor—Liability.

The managing member of a joint family, even though he is not the guardian of his minor brothers, is their 'agent' within the meaning of S. 20. A payment of interest by him saves limitation as against his brothers also. Where a mortgage debt is contracted by the father, the debt on his death descends to all his sons, and any payment made by one of them extends the period of limitation as against all. 37 C. 461=11 C.L.J. 484=14 C.W.N. 741=5 Ind. Cas. 484.

——S. 20—Agent—What would constitute one an agent of another—Payments by son from time to time—Implied authority of father to make them.

It is not necessary that mukhtarnama or written authority should be given to a person in order to constitute that the person as a duly authorised agent as contemplated by the Limitation Act. From the conduct of the parties it can and must necessarily be inferred as to whether there was any authority to make payments on his behalf or not. Hence where payments have from time to time been made by the debtor's son and endorsements duly made and signed by him, it would be inconceivable that the son made those payments without the authority of his father, the debtor. 229 Ind. Cas. 265=1947 O.W.N. 194 (1)=1947 A.W.R. (C.C.) 55 (2)=1947 O.A. (C.C.) 55 (2) =A.I.R. 1947 Oudh 173.

——S. 20—Payment by debtor through his son.

Where an amount is sent by the debtor to the creditor through his son, the son must be deemed to be the authorised agent of the debtor for the purpose of making the payment within the meaning of S. 20, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 513=42 P.L.R. 635=191 Ind. Cas. 802.

——S. 20—Payment through friend.

Money was sent by a debtor to his friend for making payment to the creditor as part of the principal. The money, however, was not actually paid by the friends himself but was sent to the creditor through a messenger with a letter that the amount had been sent to him by the debtor for payment and that it may be credited in the debtor's account:

Held, that the friend was debtor's agent within the meaning of S. 20, Limitation Act, and the payment operated as an acknowledgment of the debt. A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 691=51 L.W. 622=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 820=(1940) M.W.N. 927=I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 913=194 Ind. Cas. 707.

——S. 20—Promisor's agreement with 3rd party for payment of interest—Implied authority established.

Where it is agreed between a third person and the promisor that the former would discharge the latter' debt evidenced by promissory note to the promisee in respect of principal and interest, and it is clear from the promisor's evidence that he left it to the third person to do so, an implied authority from the promisor to the third person to pay the interest on his behalf as it became due is established so as to save limitation under S. 20. 121 Ind. Cas. 193=34 C.W.N. 145=31 M.L.W. 1=1930 M.W.N. 1=6 O.W.N. 1136=51 C.L.J. 56 =32 Bom.L.R. 136=57 I.A. 1=A.I.R. 1929 P.C. 297 (P.C.).

——S. 20—Agreement that promisor should execute and 3rd party to make payment—3rd party is agent of promisor.

Where a promissory note is executed in pursuance of an agreement between the executant and a third party that the former would execute the pronote but the latter would pay the interest on it and also the principal, there is sufficient evidence of an implied condition that third party should pay the interest as the duly appointed agent of the executant; but where the payment of interest is made not in consequence of any such agreement, but in consequence of an understanding between the executant and the promisee, there is no payment of interest by an agent to save limitation under S. 20. 92 Ind. Cas. 94=3 O.W.N. 83=A.I.R. 1926 Oudh 248.

——S. 20—Payment by Court—Debtor's assets attached—Court releasing for payment of debts—Act of Court is act of debtor—Payment out of father's money—If payment by debtor.

If a debtor's presumable assets are so placed by operation of law, viz., a legal attachment, that the Court can release them for the purpose of making payment due from him, then the act of the Court must be treated as the act of the debtor himself the volition of the debtor being neither requisite nor relevant but it cannot be said that the volition of the debtor is neither requisite nor relevant when a Court is paying out moneys belonging to his father and not to the debtor himelf. 44 Mad. 971, Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 571=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 80=51 M.L.J. 610.

——S. 20—Court paying money due by judgment-debtor—Court is the agent of the debtor—Judge signing treated as his handwriting.

Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—A Court paying in the course of its duty the money due by the judgment-debtor is legally constituted agent of the judgment-debtor for that purpose and the handwriting of the Judge signing a paper indicating that a sum was paid to the decree-holder in the Judge's presence through the Court is the handwriting of the person making the payment. 24 W.R. 20, Diss. (1899) 2 Ir. Rep. 163; (1864) 11 H.L.C. 115 and 35 M.L.J. 571, Foll.

Per Coutts-Trotter, J.—The principle deducible from Chinnery v. Evans, (1864) 11 H.L.C. 115 is this. That if a debtor's assets are so placed, either by his own act or by operation of law, that, if some one other than he alone can release them for the purpose of making payments due from him, then the act of that other in operating upon the debtor's assets must be treated as the act of the debtor himself, the volition of the debtor in such a case being neither requisite nor relevant. If that be so, it appears to me that the words "his agent duly authorised in that behalf" in S. 20 of the Limitation Act are satisfied by the act of the Judge of Court which authorises the payment, and that his handwriting is rightly described as that of the person making the payment. 68 Ind. Cas. 100=44 Mad. 971=14 M.L.W. 320=1921 M.W.N. 683=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 704=41 M.L.J. 423.

——S. 20—Agent need not be authorised to endorse payment.

Section 20 does not require that the agent "in this behalf" must be more than an agent for the purpose of payment. It does not say that the agent who pays should also be authorized to make the endorsement or get the same done by another. It is enough if he is authorized to make the payment and it is not necessary that he should also be authorized in respect of endorsing the payment.

Per Venkatasubba Rao, J.—The section assumes that authority to make the payment carries with it the authority to make the endorsement. 105 Ind. Cas. 475=26 M.L.W. 447=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 959=53 M.L.J. 555.

——S. 20—Agent authorised to pay towards bond—Payment towards interest—If authorised.

When an agent is authorized to pay an amount towards the total amount of the bond the authority extended to his paying an amount towards the interest due on the bond and it cannot be held that the general authority to pay towards the total amount of the bond is confined to paying only towards the principal. But where the authority is specific, that is to say, where the agent is authorized only to pay towards the principal, the agent will not be justified in paying towards interest within S. 20 98 Ind. Cas. 162=24 M.L.W. 638=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 1176=51 M.L.J. 472.

——S. 20—Payment of interest by agent—Effect.

Where interest is paid by duly authorized agent of the debtor within his authority before the prescribed period, fresh limitation starts. 96 Ind. Cas. 309 (Mad.).

——S. 20—Payment by agent beyond his authority—Creditor does not get the benefit of section.

The agent who can give the creditor the benfit of S. 20 has to act within the terms of his authority. If he exceed his authrority or does something which is not actually covered by his authority he cannot bind the principal so as to give the creditor the benefit of S. 20 of the Limitation Act. The guardian of the minor judgment-debtor executed with the sanction of the Court, a mortgage and directed the mortgagee to pay the amount to the decree-holder and obtain a receipt from him and to retain it as title. The mortgagee nearly a year and a half afterwards paid the money into Court and the decree-holder drew the money from the Court.

Held, that the payment of the money by the Court to the decree-holder could not extend limitation in favour of the decree-holder. 87 Ind. Cas. 989=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 703=48 M.L.J. 506.

——S. 20—Actual handing over money not necessary.

Payment does not cease to be made by an agent because the actual handing over of the money is done by some menial servant under his orders. 61 Ind. Cas. 918=8 O.L.J. 115=A.I R 1921 Oudh 29.

——S. 20—Servant—Agent.

Payment by the agent through a servant is payment by the agent on behalf of the principal falling within S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 10 L.W. 466=(1919) M.W.N. 797=54 Ind. Cas. 318.

——S. 20—Payment by one of the co-reversioners—Effect against others.

Payment of interest made by some only of the reversionary heirs of a Hindu towards the amount due under a mortgage bond executed by his widow was not sufficient to save the bar of limitation as against the other reversioners. (1917) P.H.C.C. 348=4 Pat.L.W. 85=43 Ind. Cas. 351.

——S. 20—Receiver—Partition or administration suits—Acknowledgment of debts.

A receiver in a partition or administration suit authorised to pay interest on debts can, by his payment, keep alive the debts. 16 M.L.T. 489=26 Ind. Cas. 393.

——S. 20—Saving of—Receiver—Guardian and Ward—Acknowledgment of guardian or receiver—Payment of interest or part payment of principal.

Obiter: Per Bhashyam Aiyangar, J.—For the purpose of giving a fresh starting point for computing the period of limitation, payment of interest or part payment of principal by a receiver or guardian may stand on a different footing from an acknowledgment of liability made by him. (1903) 14 M.L.J. 84=27 M. 243 (F.B.).

——S. 20—Payment may be made by debtor or his agent.

Payment of interest must be proved to have been made either by the debtor or by his duly authorised agent. 23 Ind. Cas. 863 (All.).

—S. 20 (1)—Husband and wife.

Under S. 20 o the Limitation Act it is sufficient for an illiterate person paying the money to affix a mark below an endorsement written by another person. A Burmese married couple of the cultivating class, working on land together, work it as partners, to all intents. When one is temporarily incapacitated there is a natural presumption that the wife has ostensible authority to act for both on the quasi-partnership and is an agent within S. 20. 4 Bur.L.T. 217=12 Ind. Cas. 23.

——S. 20—Payment of interest one by defendant—If saves limitation against other.

Where payment of interest is made by one defendant on behalf of another, limitation as against the latter will be saved only on strict proof by plaintiff, that the former had authority to make such payment on his behalf. 4 Bur. L.T. 191=11 Ind. Cas. 858.

——S. 20—Agent of purdanashin lady.

A person holding a power of attorney from his wife and her sister is a duly authorised agent of both, for paying interest under S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 37 Cal. 526=14 C.W.N. 974=11 C.L.J. 563=5 Ind. Cas. 539.

6. Evidence.

See also A.I.R. 1948 Mad. 155 under NOTE 5

——S. 20 (2)—Debtor's acknowledgment of liability must bo proved.

Where, in a suit brought under S. 65, Contract Act, to recover money on the failure of a mortgage which was void ab initio, the creditor, in reply to the plea of limitation, pleads an acknowledgment by the debtor under S. 20 (2), Limitation Act, he must, in order to succeed, show that the debtor acknowledged the liability arising under S. 65 of the Contract Act. 1943 A.W.R. 22=A.I.R. 1943 All. 294=(1943) A.L.J. 250. I.L R. (1943) All 604=209 Ind Cas. 10.

——S. 20—Appropriation towards principal.

To evidence a definite appropriation to the principal debt made by the creditor within the period prescribed, the manner in which the payment has been dealt with by the creditor in his own books of account will ordinarily be sufficient. 1943 A.W.R. 120=A.I.R. 1943 All. 289=(1943) A.L.J. 255=I.L.R. (1943) All. 598=208 Ind. Cas. 367.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—If must be in handwriting of or under signature of party making it—Whether can be inferred from circumstances.

For a payment of interest to come within the purview of S. 20, it is sufficient if circumstances exist which make the conclusion inevitable that the payment must have been made on account of interest. The payment of interest "as such" need not necessarily appear in the handwriting of or under the signature of the party making the payments. No doubt it is necessary that at the time of the payment it must be clearly mentioned that the payment was being made on account of interest but where the payment is proved to be on account of interest not only by the evidence of the witnesses but also from the fact that an account of interest due has been drawn up on the back of each bond and the payment has been shown as being out of that amount the payment falls within the purview of S. 20. A.I.R. 1940 Oudh 179=1940 O.W.N. 289=1940 A.W.R. 151=15 Luck. 524=187 Ind. Cas. 94.

——S. 20—Payment made by a debtor can be proved by the creditor to have been made towards interest as such by extrinsic evidence, oral or documentary, other than the "writing" referred to in S. 20, Limitation Act. "Writing" referred to in Proviso to S. 20, Limitation Act, need not itself recite in so many words that the payment made was on account of interest as such or of part of the principal. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 601=47 L.W. 520=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 620=(1938) M.W.N. 395=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 1090=177 Ind. Cas. 743.

——S. 20—Payment—Evidence to show that it was towards interest.

The endorsement otherwise fulfilling the requirements of S. 20, need not show on the face of it, that the payment was towards interest. Sections 91 and 92, Evidence Act, do not preclude evidence being given to show that at the time when the payment was made the debtor expressly stated that it should be appropriated towards interest. Hence, where it is proved on evidence that the payment was towards interest, such endorsement would save limitation. A.I.R. 1937 All. 640=(1937) A.L.J. 992=I.L.R. (1937) All. 732=1937 A.W.R. 615=171 Ind. Cas. 422.

——S. 20—Part payment of debt, whether extends limitation—Fact of part payment, can be proved aliunde.

All that is required by the plain words of S. 20, Limitation Act, is that there should be a payment of a part of the debt due. The fact that there was such a debt and that that debt exceeded the amount paid, are facts which may be proved aliunde. They need not appear in the writing evidencing the part payment. All that has to be shown is that the payment was made towards this existing debt whose amount exceeded the amount paid, and once this is done, then by the words of the statute, time is extended. There is no reason to infer a conditional promise to pay any remaining liability. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 629=17 L. 737=165 Ind. Cas. 723.

——S. 20—Evidence of intention—Payment of interest or principal.

Under S. 20, no payment of interest can be made to avail, unless it is a payment of interest 'as such'. Either some acknowledgement must be given by the payer at the time of the payment that the money paid is intended by him to be a payment of interest or there must be sufficient evidence from which it can be inferred that the debtor intended that the amount should be appropriated towards interest. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 473=160 Ind. Cas. 314.

——S. 20—Written statement cannot be called in aid for purpose of S. 20.

A written statement filed in the suit itself cannot be called in aid for the purposes of S. 20 of the Limitation Act. When the plaintiff institutes the suit beyond the period of limitation prescribed in the Schedule to the Limitation Act, he has to state in his plaint the reasons why the suit is still within time. If there is no such statement, the Court has to dismiss the suit. A suit must be tried on the cause of action as laid in the plaint and any inherent defect of the said nature in the plaint cannot be supplied by a written statement in the suit. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 255 =39 C.W.N. 139=60 C.L.J. 386=155 Ind. Cas. 721.

——S. 20—Inference—Amount due by way of interest more than sum paid—Costs less than amount paid.

In order to make a payment valid for the purpose of S. 20, it must be shown that the payment was wholly or partly on account of interest. 'Debt' referred to in S. 20 includes money payable under a decree. A question of this kind has to be determined on the facts of each case.

A sum of Rs. 50 was paid by the judgment-debtor towards the decree amount. On that date what was due for costs as such was only Rs. 22-13-0. The decree amount comprised both principal and interest and the amount due for interest alone was much more than Rs. 50.

Held, that in the absence of proof that the amount was earmarked for principal it could be inferred that a portion at least of the sum of Rs. 50 was paid on account of interest due under the decree so as to save limitation under S. 20. (1933) M.W.N. 1023=66 M.L.J. 40=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 45=39 L.W. 237=148 Ind. Cas. 126.

——S. 20—Other evidence to explain.

In order to save limitation under S. 20, it is not necessary that the writing itself must show that the payment was in the nature of part payment. The character of the payment as opposed to the mere fact of payment can be proved by other evidence regarding the state of the account between the parties. 33 P.L.R. 42=A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 212=13 Lah. 448=135 Ind. Cas. 673.

——S. 20 (before amendment in 1942)—Payment on account of interest—Evidence.

The words "as such" in S. 20 mean that the payment must be made on account of interest which fact may be proved from the circumstances of that case from which payment as interest may be distinctly inferred and may be established by evidence. 90 Ind. Cas. 774=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 150.

——S. 20—Court can find on evidence whether payment made was for principal or interest.

Where payments are made for the debt, but there is nothing to show whether they have been made in respect of the principal or interest, the Court is entitled to find out on the evidence for what purpose the payments were made. 44 Cal. 567, Foll. 90 Ind. Cas. 774= A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 150.

——S. 20—Part payment of principal and interest—Essentials—Proof 'aliunde'.

S. 20 requires interest must be paid as interest, i.e., it must be distinctly stated at the time of payment that it is paid on account of interest or else there must be evidence from which the payment as interest may be distinctly inferred, and if so, mere proof of payment is sufficient. Principal must always be paid as principal, but the fact of the payment must appear in the handwriting of the person making the same, i.e., of the debtor or his duly authorized agent; it must appear that the payment is a part payment of the principal, and this fact cannot be proved aliunde by the creditor. The fact, however, of its being a part payment of principal, need not be stated in so many words. It may be inferred from the writing itself. (1907) 9 Bom. L.R. 1329.

——S. 20—Burden of proof.

An admission made by the promisor on the back of the pro-note to the effect that a part-payment was made by him on a particular date, must be presumed to be true for it has been said that what a man admits to be true must reasonably be presumed to be so. This admission shifts the burden on the makers of showing that this admission was untrue in fact or was made under circumstances which did not make the admission binding on them. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 284=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 137=172 Ind. Cas. 362.

——S. 20—Onus.

Where there was no mention of interest in a "sarkhat" and there was no reference to interest in the two endorsements which appeared upon the back of the "sar khat":

Held, (i) that the onus lay heavily on the plaintiff to prove that interest was payable under the "sarkhat" and that he failed to prove it. (1935) A.L.J. 657=1935 A.W.R. 774=A.I.R. 1935 All. 605=156 Ind. Cas. 748 (F.B.).

7. Handwriting.

——S. 20—Money order coupon in handwriting of debtor sufficient.

Where the money order coupon which requests the credit of the sum sent towards the debt is in the handwriting of the debtor, the writing amounts to the fact of payment appearing in the handwriting of the person making the same as required by S. 20, and fresh period of limitation should be computed from the date of the payment. A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 510, Foll. A.I.R. 1930 All. 123=124 Ind. Cas. 22.

——S. 20—Cheque—Body written by somebody—Signature by debtor—Sufficient.

The signature of the person making the payment on the cheque is a sufficient compliance with the proviso to S. 20, although the body of the cheque might be written up by a different person. 126 Ind. Cas. 898=9 Pat. 851=A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 372.

——S. 20 (before amendment)—Payment expressly towards interest—Writing not necessary—If not express, payment is towards principal—When writing in the hand of the maker is necessary.

Section 20 provides for cases in which a payment towards interest or a payment towards principal may be proved to save limitation. If there has been nothing in the handwriting of the debtor, as required by the proviso, the only way in which the creditor can show, that it is open to him to use the payment to save limitation is by proving that at the time it was made it was avowedly made and accepted as a payment towards interest. If it was so made, it does not come within the proviso and no writing is necessary. But if there is no question, of the payment being proved to have been made towards interest at the time it was made, then it must be treated as a payment towards principal, in which case the fact of the payment, and not the fact that the payment is towards the principal, must be recorded in the handwriting of the debtor. This is the meaning of the words "paid as such" in the first paragraph of S. 20 (1): 1930 A.L.J. 590=A.I.R. 1930 All. 392.

Ed. Note.—The distinction between payment of interest and part payment of principal in regard to the requirement as to writing has been abolished by Act I of 1927.

——S. 20 (before amendment)—Handwriting—Payment of principal and interest.

A part-payment of the principal of a debt must be in the handwriting of the person making the payment but this rule does not apply to payment of interest. 1 L.W. 529; 35 C. 813, foll. (1914) M.W.N. 910=16 M.L.T. 505=26 Ind. Cas. 507.

——S. 20—No stipulation for interest—Payment not in handwriting of person making Time cannot run.

Where in the hatchitta no stipulation for interest is made, any payment made must be deemed to be towards part-payment of the principal and if such payment does not appear in the handwriting of the person making it. time cannot run from the date of the payment. 49 C.L.J. 371=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 432.

——S. 20—Endorsement by other than the maker—Insufficient.

In the absence of a mark by the debtor himself under the endorsement, the clear words of S. 20 requiring the payment and the handwriting to the made by one and the same person are not complied with by an endorsement by another person at the instance of the person making the payment. 28 C.L.J. 222, Foll. 108 Ind. Cas. 727=29 P.L.R. 438=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 157.

——S. 20—Payment must appear in the handwriting of the person making the same.

Under the proviso to S. 20 a fresh period of limitation cannot be computed from the time when the payment was made, unless the fact of the payment appears in the handwriting of the person making the same. 88 Ind. Cas. 747=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 806.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—Payment not in writing of the maker—Defendant's admission of claim does not save limitation.

Under proviso to S. 20, in the case of the part payment of the principal of the debt, the fact of the payment must appear in handwriting of the person making the same. The fact that one of the defendants admitted the claim does not affect the legal question 79 Ind. Cas. 848=11 O.L.J. 513=A.I.R. 1925 Oudh 34.

——S. 20—Must be in handwriting of debtor.

Limitation under S. 20 cannot be extended unless the payment towards the principal is in the handwriting of the debtor. A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 446.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—Handwriting of the person making the same.

If a creditor proves that the act of the payment appear in the handwriting of the person making the same and also that the payment is in fact in part satisfaction of the principal, the requirements of S. 20 are satisfied. 44 Bom. 392=22 Bom.L.R. 313=56 Ind. Cas. 429.

——S. 20—Entry in the hand of debtor's officer—Creditor concurring—Sufficient.

Where the payment was made by the debtor through the hand of his officer Naziruddin and the entry was made in the following form "through self and Naziruddin Paramanik".

Held, this entry must have been made with the concurrence of the creditor who had the hatchita in his custody When an entry has been so made with the mutual consent of the creditor and the debtor, the only two person interested neither of them can be permitted to repudiate the entry to the prejudice of the other. 72 Ind. Cas. 692=36 C.L.J. 228=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 71.

——S. 20—Handwriting—Authority to agent.

Under S. 20 of the Limitation Act when an agent makes payment it is he who should endorse the entry of payment and the debtor's handwriting is not required. The law of limitation must be strictly interpreted, and the plaintiff has to prove that the person making payment is a duly authorised agent. 1 Pat.L.T. 17=2 P.L.R. (Pat.) 23=54 Ind. Cas. 802.

——S. 20 and Art. 182—Handwriting—Part-payment of decree—Limitation.

Part payment of a decree amount under S. 20 of the Limitation Act must be in the handwriting of the debtor to save limitation for an application for execution. (1919) P.H.C.C. 46=4 Pat.L.J. 365=48 Ind. Cas. 728.

——S. 20—Handwriting—Signature—Want of.

An endorsement of a part-payment of the principal bearing no signature or any mark of the payer will not extend, the limitation under S. 20. 28 C.L.J. 222=23 C.W.N. 930=44 Ind. Cas. 516.

——S. 20—Hadwriting—Hundi—Part payment of debt.

A part-payment of the principal of a debt must in order to be operative under S. 20 not only be in the handwriting of the debtor or his agent but it is also necessary that the writing should show that the part-payment was a payment towards the debt in question. It is not enough that the amount paid by the debtor is placed to his credit generally. Where the part-payment was by means of a hundi and the creditor wanted to rely on the language of the hundi itself as the writing signed by the debtor within S. 20 (1), Cl. 2, it would be his duty to summon for the production of the hundi itself and unless that was done secondary evidence as to the contents of the hundi would not be allowed. 6 L.W. 790=(1918) M.W.N. 42=43 Ind. Cas. 20.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—Presumption.

Where a claim is for principal and interest but the decree does not bear interest, any payment by judgment debtor should be taken as payment towards principal and therefore it should be in the handwriting of the judgment-debtor or his agent duly authorised in that behalf. 38 Ind. Cas. 293 (Cal.).

——S. 20—Handwriting—Signature of party making payment, if essential.

Under S. 20 the person making payment should be cyl person signing the writing. 1 Pat. L.J. 474=35 Ind. Cas. 375.

——S. 20—Handwriting—Deposition—Part payment—Unsigned deposition.

A valid acknowledgment of a judgment-debt gives a fresh starting point under S. 19 of the Act but an unsigned deposition alleging part payment would not, because part payment must be in the handwriting of the person making it or his duly authorised agent. 80 P.W.R. 1912=155 P.L.R. 1912=14 Ind. Cas. 335.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—Instalment bond—Payment—Proof—Entries.

The proviso to S. 20 of the Limitation Act applies to payment of instalments fixed by and payable under a bond which provides that in default of payment of one instalment the whole sum secured will be recoverable ; and the fact that any instalment were paid cannot be proved except by the production of entries signed by the debtor and reciting the fact of such payments. The payment of each instalment is a part-payment of the principal amount due on the bond. 35 P.R. 1913=4 P.L.R. 1913=277 P.W.R. 1913=16 Ind. Cas. 961.

——S. 20—Handwriting—Decree debt—Payment of.

For the purposes of S. 20 the decree-holder must prove that the part payment was in the handwriting of the judgment-debtor. 31 All. 590=6 A.L.J. 836=2 Ind. Cas. 524.

——S. 20 (before amendment)—"Debts"—Includes money payable under decree—Person knowing how to write—Mere signature not enough.

The word "debt" includes money payable under decree. In the case of a person who knows how to write the payment must appear in that person's own handwriting and he cannot be allowed to adopt by mere signing, any writing made by somebody else as in the case of an illiterate man. 126 Ind. Cas. 540=A.I.R. 1930 Rang. 64.

[Ed. Note.—Under the section as now amended by Act 1 of 1927, it would be sufficient if there should be an acknowledgment of payment either in the handwriting of the person (though unsigned) or in a writing signed by him, even if the writing is made by another].

——S. 20 (before amendment)—Mere signature of payer appended to statement of payment written by another not enough where payer is literate.

In case of part-payment of principal where the prayer is literate the condition in S. 20 that the fact of payment must appear in the handwriting of the person making the payment is not satisfied by a mere signature by him being appended to a statement of the fact of payment written by another person. 62 Ind. Cas. 297=17 N.L.R. 40=A.I.R. 1921 Nag. 46.

——S. 20 (before amendment)—Handwriting—Mere signature insufficient.

A mere signature of debtor to an entry of payment in the handwriting of a third party does not bring the case within the section unless there is something in writing to which it is appended and which will record the fact of payment. 41 Bom. 166=18 Bom. L.R. 973=38 Ind. Cas. 359.

——S. 20 (before amendment)—Handwriting—Signature—Literate debtor.

If the debtor is literate, an endorsement written by another person and signed only by the debtor is not an endorsement in his handwriting under the proviso to S. 20 of the Limitation Act so as to create a new period of limitation. 23 C. 546 (F.B.), applied. 35 Cal. 813=13 C.W.N. 177=4 Ind. Cas. 321.

——S. 20—Illiterate debtor—Affixing mark—Sufficient.

It is sufficient to give a fresh starting point in the case of an illiterate debtor if the endorsement reciting the fact of payment is followed by mark of the illiterate debtor 28 Bom. 262 ; 41 Bom. 166 and 38 Bom. 438, Foll. 109 Ind. Cas. 702=52 Bom. 356=30 Bom. L.R. 500=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 417.

——S. 20—Illiterate debtor—Another can endorse.

It is sufficient compliance with S. 20 of the person making the payment, being illiterate, gets another to make the endorsement on his behalf. 62 Ind. Cas. 644=2 P.L.T. 355=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 476.

——S. 20—Handwriting—Whole entry—Illiterate debtor.

The term "handwriting" in S. 20 of the Limitation Act refers to the whole entry about the fact of payment ; where an illiterate debtor applies his mark to a statement of payment, he adopts the writing as his own, and thereby causes the fact stated therein to appear in his own handwriting. But where the debtor is literate, it is not sufficient to merely affix his signature to an endorsement of payment made by a third person not his agent. 23 C. 545 ; 26 B. 246 ; 13 C.W.N. 177, Foll. 5 L.B.R. 108=4 Ind. Cas. 374.

——S. 20—Writing need show only fact of payment.

The writing itself need not show that the payment is made in part payment of the principal. It is the fact of the payment which should appear in the handwriting of the person making the same. 59 Ind. Cas. 941=43 All. 216=A.I.R. 1921 All. 335.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—Need not be stated as such.

A part-payment of principal, appearing in the handwriting of the person making it is not required to be expressly stated as being such. 18 A.L.J. 1131=59 Ind. Cas. 941.

8. "Interest as such."

[Ed. Note.—The following decisions are under the section as it stood prior to its amendment by Act 16 of 1942, when interest should have been paid "as such" to save limitation.]

——S. 20—Payment by debtor who is agriculturist within Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act on date of payment is payment of interest as such within S. 20. A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 37=45 Bom.L.R. 1014=215 Ind. Cas. 12.

——S. 20—Debtor agriculturist under Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act—Payment by him must be taken towards interest as such and hence is good payment under S. 20. 45 Bom.L.R. 178=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 115=206 Ind. Cas. 390.

——S. 20—"Interest as such"—Endorsement merely recording payment—Absence of evidence to show whether payment was towards interest—Allegation in plaint stating payment towards interest—Absence of denial—Effect.

It is not necessary for purposes of S. 20, Limitation Act, that an endorsement of payment on a promissory note shall itself show that the payment was towards interest as such. This can be established by external evidence, so that even when the endorsement is in blank, it may be shown that the payment was towards interest as such. In the absence of evidence on the point either way, the plaintiff would succeed on the pleadings or not at all. Where it is clearly asserted in the plaint, that a payment endorsed by the debtor was towards interest, and that ascertain is not denied by the debtor in his written statement, S. 20, can be applied and plaintiff would succeed, in view of O. 8, R. 5, C.P. Code. 228 Ind. Cas. 231=12 Cut.L.T. 80=13 B.R. 161=A.I.R. 1947 Pat. 275.

——S. 20—Amount not paid towards interest as such—Creditor not appropriating it towards principal.

In case of an open payment, it can be treated to have been paid towards interest only if from the circumstances it can be found as a fact that it has been paid towards interest "as such". It cannot be treated as paid towards the principal unless within the period of limitation the creditor has done something which treats the payment as made on account of principal. If therefore it is found that the amount was not paid towards interest as such, and the creditor has not appropriated it towards the principal within the period of limitation he cannot take advantage of any part of the provisions of S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 12 B.R. 457=224 Ind. Cas. 65=1946 P.W.N. 349=A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 404=27 P.L.T. 464.

——S. 20—Endorsement on hand-note, held not sufficient to hold that there was any payment of interest as such.

Where there was merely a brief endorsement on the hand-note in these words : "26th December, 1937—Rs. 4" and this endorsement bore the thumb impression of one of the debtors :

Held, that upon such an endorsement, it could not be held that there was any payment of interest "as such" 24 Pat. 96=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 271=11 B.R. 491=26 P.L.T. 173=220 Ind. Cas. 255.

——S. 20—Payment without specification is not payment of interest as such. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 88=45 P.L.R. 407=I.L.R. (1944) Lah. 528=213 Ind. Cas. 253.

——S. 20—A payment made towards principal and interest where both are due and the amount paid does not exceed the one or the other, without the debtor specifying what part of it was to go towards principal and what part towards interest, is no more than an "open payment" and cannot be regarded as a payment towards interest as such within the meaning of S. 20 and cannot operate to save limitation. A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 398=1944 M.W.N. 254=57 M.L.W. 280=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 347.

——S. 20—Where it is not clear whether the creditor even appropriated the payments on account specifically towards either principal or interest and it is clear that they were never paid towards principal and were never paid towards interest as such, the payments do not prevent the running of the time against the creditor. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 395=24 P.L.T. 21=8 C.L.T. 1=8 B.R. 665=200 Ind. Cas. 306.

——S. 20—General or open payment and payment towards principal, interest and costs distinction.

The difference between what is called a general or an open payment and payment towards principal, interest and costs is no doubt rather fine, but lies in the fact that unlike the former, the latter negatives the possibilitiy that there was no intention of appropriation as between interest and principal. A payment by the mortgagor towards the principal, interest and costs of the decree so far as the interest is concerned amounts to a payment of interest as such and would attract the provisions of S. 20, Limitation Act. 23 P.L.T. 328=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 363=21 Pat. 330=8 B.R. 839=202 Ind. Cas. 54.

——S. 20—Amount not paid as interest as such.

Section 20, Limitation Act must be construed carefully according to its terms, and effect must be given to the consideration that in order to give a fresh period of limitation, interest must be paid as such though there is no similar requirement in the case of a part payment of principal. It is not reasonable as a matter of construction of a statute to suggest that the words "as such" can be ignored ; or that their meaning has changed ; or that they can be given their meaning but only as regards payments made before 1st January, 1928.

By the amendment of S. 20 the intention of the debtor is not made the sole test whether a payment was made towards the principal of the debt. Appropriation by the creditor can have effect under the section as it now stands and the character of the payment need not necessarily be determined at the time when the payment is made. A.I.R. 1940 P.C. 63=1940 O.W.N. 315=6 B.R. 535=42 P.L.R. 328=I.L.R. (1940) Kar. (P.C.) 134 Sup.=71 C.L.J. 444=(1940) M.W.N. 620=42 Bom.L.R. 640=(1940) A.L.J. 639=I.L.R. ——S. 20—In order to save limitation, the payment must either be towards principal and appropriated as such or must be towards interest. If the person who pays does not specify whether the payment is towards principal or interest, limitation will not be saved unless possibly the payment is set off against the principal from the very beginning. Where the payment was not towards interest as such, it does not follow that the payment was towards principal. A.I.R. 1940 All. 338=(1940) A.L.J. 332=1940 A.W.R. 257=189 Ind. Cas. 686.

——S. 20 (As amended in 1927)—Payment argued not to be towards interest as such—Whether must be towards principal.

The provisions of S. 20, when they speak of payment of interest or principal, refer to the intention of the debtor in making the payment ; payment of interest means that the debtor intended to pay towards interest ; payment of principal means that the debtor intended to pay towards the principal. When the debtor makes a payment, he must intend to pay either towards interest or towards principal ; he must have one or other of these two intentions. Consequently, if the argument be that the sum was not paid towards interest as such, then it must have been paid towards principal, and therefore the endorsement brings the payment within the scope of the section. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 280=1939 Rang.L.R. 591=176 Ind. Cas. 865.

——S. 20—Record of the payment of interest which was made after the expiry of limitation was made on the suit promissory note. The words used were "paid ten rupees towards the debt in this pro-note". The payee did not even say "my debt" or "what I tow under the pronote".

Held, that the mere expression "debt in this pro-note did not amount to fresh promise. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 683=(1938) M.W.N. 513=47 M.L.W. 726=177 Ind. Cas. 759.

——S. 20—Per Mackney, J., in order of reference.—No doubt when any payment has to be proved, it must be established whether the payment was a payment of interest as such or a payment of part principal, but it is not necessary that it should be shown that when the payment was made, there was an express declaration on the part of the person making the payment that it was a payment of interest before the Court can regard it as such. The payment need not be expressly stated to be a payment of interest, it is sufficient to show that in fact the payment was a payment of interest. Where, therefore, circumstances (such as the amount paid being very much less than the amount of interest due) indicate that the payment was a payment of interest, it must be taken to be such. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 401=1938 Rang. L.R. 594=178 Ind. Cas. 869.

——S. 20 (As amended in 1927)—"As such"—Significance of, in respect of payments made before and after 1st January, 1928.

As to payments made before 1st January, 1928, the words "as such" have some significance because they serve to make it clear that in the case of a payment towards interest which is not required to be evidenced by writing it should be clear that the payment was in fact towards interest and not left as a matter of doubt. As to payments made after 1st January, 1928, they are now placed on an equality. Therefore, the words "as such" are material when the Court has to consider a payment made before 1st January, 1928, but they have no significance after the date mentioned. 16 Pat. 294=18 P.L.T. 563=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 183=3 C.L.T. 33=174 Ind. Cas. 1005.

——S. 20—Under S. 20, if the creditor is to rely upon a payment of interest, it must be a payment of interest as such, but as regards a payment towards principal, no such specification is necessary. 18 P.L.T. 309=16 Pat. 27=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 410=3 B.R. 669=170 Ind. Cas. 130.

——S. 20—Creditor appropriating payment towards interest.

If the payment is not payment of interest within S. 20 it cannot be said that it must of necessity be payment of principal and so fall under the second branch of the section. That is attractive but unsound. For, if the payments have been actually appropriated to interest, then, in fact, there has been no part payment of principal. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 473=160 Ind. Cas. 314.

——S. 20 (As amended by Act 1 of 1927)—'Paid as such,' meaning of.

Per Sulaiman, C.J.—The Legislature must be deemed to have been aware of the importance attached to the words "paid as such" in the first paragraph in S. 20 and its deliberate act in not deleting those words should naturally be interpreted as implying that the interpretation put upon those words has been accepted by the Legislature and adhered to. A.I.R. 1935 All. 946=(1935) A.L.J. 1029=1935 A.W.R. 1155=58 A. 261=159 Ind. Cas. 387 (F.B.).

——S. 20—Circumstantial inference, that payment was towards interest 'as such'—Value of.

The fact that there are arrears of interest owing at the date of payment more than sufficient to absorb the payment itself is one of those circumstances which, together with other circumstances, may legitimately be taken into account in considering whether there is an intention to pay interest "as such." But this reasoning should not be stretched further as it ignores the question of intention, inasmuch as it may be nonetheless possible to have an "indiscriminate" payment where there are arrears of interest as in a case where there are not. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 473=160 Ind. Cas. 314.

——S. 20—Where payments made by the defendan s have not been proved to be made as interest, S. 20 doc. not apply to save the suit from bar of limitation. A.I.R 1934 Pat. 244=146 Ind. Cas. 1033.

——S. 20—Meaning of.

Unless interest is received as such S. 20 cannot extend the period of limitation. Hence, where a father and his daughter are co-mortgagees, the mere fact that the father had maintained the daughter out of the income of the mortgaged property cannot amount to a receipt of rent by the daughter so as to extend the period of limitation for a suit by her for her share of the mortgage money. (1934) M.W.N. 929=40 M.L.W. 595=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 656=153 Ind. Cas. 462.

——S. 20—Money paid on general account—Not paid for interest.

If money is paid on a general account without a definite appropriation on the part of the debtor, no part of the money can be said to have been paid for interest "as such." A.I.R. 1929 Oudh 479, Foll. 7 O.W.N. 420=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 287.

——S. 20—Credit of interest in defendant's account—Payment of interest, what amounts to.

A mere credit of interest entered in the accounts of the defendant is not enough to save limitation under S. 20. But in cases where both parties agree to wipe out the previous balance and add the amount of interest to the principal so as to make it a new debt due, such an act may amount to payment of interest within the meaning of S. 20. But such addition of interest to principal must be the result of an agreement between the parties on the date of such addition. A.I.R. 1934 Nag. 219=17 N.L.J. 68=152 Ind. Cas. 319.

——S. 20—Payment and appropriation towards interest—Wiping out old balance and adding interest to principal—Must be by agreement of parties—Original agreement not sufficient for every future addition.

In cases where both parties agree to wipe out the previous balance and add the amount of interest to the principal so as to make it a new debt, it may be conceded that such an act may amount to payment of interest within the meaning of S. 20. But such addition of interest to principal must be the result of an agreement between the parties on the date of such payment. If either the creditor or the debtor by himself goes on adding interest to principal in his own books, even the same may be in pursuance of an agreement originally made between parties, there woud not be each time this is done a fresh payment to the creditor so as to extend the period of limitation under S. 20. 123 Ind. Cas. 820=1930 A.L.J. 552=A.I.R. 1930 All. 467.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Interest added to principal.

Where in the accounts both of plaintiff and defendant's interest due upto 25th October was calculated and added to the principal, thus wiping out the debt on account of interest, it is a payment of interest which saves limitation under S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 24 B. 493=29 M. 234, Foll. (1915) M.W.N. 755=30 Ind. Cas. 777.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Addition of interest to principal.

The addition of interest due to the principal amount by consent of the debtor, is payment of interest within the meaning of S. 20. 13 Bom.L.R. 482=11 Ind. Cas. 552.

——S. 20—Payment on general account—Not payment for interest—Ordinary law of appropriation does not apply.

The rule enacted in S. 20 is wholly independent from the rule that in absence of defined appropriation money received in respect of a debt should be at first applied in payment of interest and then in payment of the capital. Payment of interest must be made "as such" and money paid on a general account without a defined appropriation on the part of the debtor cannot be held to have been paid for interest "as such". 120 Ind. Cas. 825=6 O.W.N. 776=A.I.R. 1929 Oudh 479.

——S. 20—Intention of payment towards interest—Proof necessary.

The payment made by the debtor must have been made with the intention that it should be paid towards interest and there should be something to indicate that intention. There must be a definite specification by the debtor, since appropriation by the creditor is not such an indication. 31 All. 495 and A.I.R. 1926 Bom. 423, Foll. 117 Ind. Cas. 790=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 811.

——S. 20—"As such."

The words "as such" in S. 20 must mean that there must be at the time of payment some mention that the payment is wholly or partly for interest. 96 Ind. Cas. 311=28 Bom.L.R. 569=A.I.R. 1926 Bom. 423.

——S. 20—Terms of mortgage and conduct of parties—Inference may be drawn.

The terms of the mortgage and the appropriation of payment to interest by the creditor, and the conduct of the parties might be taken into account so as to raise the inference that payment was made as such, that is to say, as interest. 31 All. 285, Foll. 93 Ind. Cas. 295=A.I.R. 1926 All. 329.

——S. 20—Payment must expressly be towards interest—General law does not apply.

Under S. 20 payment towards interest must expressly be towards interest. It has nothing to do with the general right of the creditor to appropriate money either towards interest or towards principal. 87 Ind. Cas. 746=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 1030.

——S. 20—Intention to pay for interest—Proof necessary—Fact that interest was due—Not sufficient indication of intention.

In order to have extension of limitation under S. 10 there must be something to indicate that the debtor made the payment with the intention that it should be taken in reduction or satisfaction of interest due and mere appropriation of the payment by the creditor to interest is not such an indication. The mere fact that the interest was due at the date of payment is not sufficient indication of the intention of the debtor. Such an indication might be found in the fact that the amount paid and the amount due for interest was exactly the same. 59 Ind. Cas. 709=A.I.R. 1921 Nag. 94.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Payment by debtor without directions as to its appropriation—Effect of.

Where a payment made with the knowledge that it would be appropriate to interest was made with the intention that it should be so appropriated, it gave a fresh starting point of limitation within S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 46 Ind. Cas. 53 (Cal.).

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Interest as such.

To bring a case within S. 20 of the Limitation Act it is not essential that the debtor should on the occasion of every payment, state explicitly that the payment is made on account of interest as such. It is enough if circumstances exist which make the conclusion inevitable that the payment must have been made for interest. 9 Bom.L.R. 1329=31 A. 285. Foll. 27 C.L.J. 141=43 Ind. Cas. 812.

——S. 20 and Art. 85—Payment of interest—Proof of.

The defendant borrowed a sum in 1909 and further sums in 1910. He paid certain amount in instalments. The plaintiff settled the accounts and carried the balance forward. Last instalment was paid in 1912. The suit by the plaintiff in 1913 for the balance is barred as it was not a mutual account under Art. 85 and the payments by defendants were neither in his handwriting nor for interest. 39 All. 33=14 A.L.J. 949=35 Ind. Cas. 199.

——S. 20—Payment not expressly described—Whether towards interest or towards principal.

A payment not expressly made as towards interest will be considered as payment towards principal under this section. 44 Cal. 567=22 C.W.N. 190=33 Ind. Cas. 638.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—General balance of accounts—Payments not expressly made towards interest—Effect.

Payments made in reduction of a general balance of account but without intimating that it is to be appropriated towards interest are not payments towards interest and do not save limitation. 9 P.W.R. 1916=68 P.L.R. 1916=31 Ind. Cas. 782.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Intention.

Payment towards interest must be payment of interest as such to save limitation under S. 20 of the Act and there must be something to indicate an intention to that effect. (1915) 11 U.B.R. 80=31 Ind. Cas. 101.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—As such.

Under S. 20 the payment of interest must have been made as such either by express declaration, or under circumstances from which such an intention on the part of the debtor may be inferred. 19 C.W.N. 237=20 Ind. Cas. 857.

——S. 20, Cl. (1)—Payment of interest—Payment in reduction of general balance of account—Limitation, if saved.

A payment by a debtor in reduction of the general balance of account against him without any intimation that it is towards interest due, is not to be treated as payment for interest as such as to save limitation under Cl. (1) of S. 20 of the Act. 3 B. 198, 35 C. 813, Foll. 7 Ind. Cas. 7 (Cal.).

——S. 20—Indefinite payment of principal and interest.

Where it is uncertain as to how much is paid for principal and interest, the payment is payment of interest as contemplated by S. 20. 6 Ind. Cas. 16 (Cal.).

——S. 20—Account books—Balance struck—Interest—Acknowledgment.

An entry in creditor's book of a balance due for principal and interest, or even a verbal assent to such balance cannot be treated as a payment of interest as such for the purposes of S. 20. 1906 A.W.N. 212=3 A.L.J. 506=28 A. 718.

——S. 20—Payment—Appropriation—Proof—Presumption.

Where payments are made towards the satisfaction of a debt and there is nothing to show whether they are made in respect of principal, or interest, or both or indefinitely on general account, they cannot serve to extend the time, under S. 20 unless it is clearly established in some way that payments were made on account of interest as such. (1903) 5 Bom.L.R. 350.

——S. 20—Payment of interest as such—Payment towards principal and interest.

A payment expressed to be for principal and interest due without specifying the amount paid for interest is payment of interest as such within S. 20 and will furnish a fresh starting point. (1902) 4 Bom.L.R. 231.

——S. 20—'Interest,' payment of—Enjoyment of land in lieu of interest.—

Payment of interest in order to save limitation need not be in money, but it must be of a nature that it would be an answer in a suit brought by the creditor to recover the amount. Where the plaintiff was placed in possession of the defendant's property to be enjoyed by plaintiff, in lieu of interest payable by defendant to plaintiffs, enjoyment of the produce by the plaintiff is payment of interest within the meaning of S. 20. (1905) 16 M.L.J. 99=29 M. 234. Also (1900) 13 M.L.J. 83.

[This view has been expressly affirmed by the Legislature, vide sub-S. (2)—Ed.].

——S. 20—Whole amount paid—Interest also paid

Where the amount paid was the whole amount which was due, both principal and interest. It is impossible to draw any other inference than that a part of that sum was paid as interest. 93 Ind. Cas. 295=A.I.R. 1926 All. 329.

——S. 20—The payment of interest saves limitation even though a part of the principal is paid at the same time. 74 Ind. Cas. 777=1923 M.W.N. 564=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 123.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Partial payment—Interest—Payment of.

"Interest" in S. 20 of the Act means interest or any part of the interest due. 35 All. 378=11 A.L.J. 477=20 Ind. Cas. 258.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—More than one debt due.

Where there is more than one debt, and a payment was made without specification such payment can save all the debts from limitation, where the attendant circumstances are such that the amount paid by way of interests was sufficient to pay up in full all the interests, due, except one, and when the balance of the amount paid as interest partially discharged the last interest due. 13 C.L.J. 139=3 Ind. Cas. 81.

9. Mode of payment.

——S. 20—Payment made in kind—Agreement to pay in kind to be proved.

Although payment within S. 20 need not be in cash or currency, yet if it is to be in kind the party alleging that the payment was made must prove that there was an agreement between the parties that the payment should be made in that particular manner. 96 Ind. Cas. 474=45 C.L.J. 119=30 C.W.N. 885=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 1042.

——S. 20 and Art. 97—Mode of payment—Rents and profits—Suit for recovery of debt on dispossession.

A suit by the plaintiff for a debt for the interest of which, he was put in possession of land by the defendants is governed by Art. 97 of the Act and the taking of the profits by the plaintiff amounted to payment of interest under S. 20 of the Act. 7 L.B.R. 138=25 Ind. Cas. 933.

——S. 20—Mode of Payment—Payment by labour—Whether saves limitation.

If within three years before the suit, the servant had paid interest through his labour, a suit to recover balance of wages advanced is not barred under S. 20. 28 M. 234 Foll. 3 L.W. 552=35 Ind. Cas. 480.

——S. 20—Mode of payment—Rendering service—Whether equivalent to payment of interest.

In a suit against a servant for balance of advance of wages, his continuance in service within three years before suit was held equivalent to "payment of interest" and so saved limitation. 33 Ind. Cas. 134 (Mad.).

——S. 20—Mode of payment—Cash.

It is not necessary that payment of debt should be actually made in money. Any arrangement by which a discharge is effected has the same effect. 1 Pat. L.J. 472 (Note)=36 Ind. Cas. 77.

10. Mortgagee in possession—Sub-S. (2).

——S. 20 (2)—Scope and applicability—Conditions to be satisfied—Subsequent usufructuary mortgagee subrogated to rights of first mortgagee—Receipt of produce—If payment saving limitation for suit to enforce first mortgage—Suit by subrogee—Starting point for limitation.

Where a person becomes subrogated to their rights of the mortgagee by redeeming a mortgage, he is in precisely the same position as the mortgagee and must, therefore, bring his suit for recovery of the amount paid by him within twelve years of the original mortgage.

Where a mortgage has been discharged by the execution of a subsequent usufructuary mortgagee and the usufructuary mortgagee has been subrogated to the rights under the first mortgage, the receipt of produce by the usufructuary mortgagee when the rights under the first mortgage were subsisting would directly come under the provisions of clause (2) of S. 20 of the Limitation Act and should be deemed to be a payment for the purpose of sub-S. (1) of S. 20. To get the benefit of clause (2) of S. 20 only two conditions need be satisfied. One is that the person receiving the rents or produce must be a mortgagee, and the other is that he should be in the possession of the land. The intention of the mortgagee is irrelevant for the application of clause (2) of S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 1949 M.W.N. 792=(1949) 2 M.L.J. 829.

——S. 20—Simple mortgage—Subsequent usufructuary mortgage in discharge of—Enjoyment of usufruct—Does not amount to payment of interest towards simple mortgage.

A executed successive mortgages to B and C, and subsequently mortgaged portions of the properties usufructuarily to B in discharge of the prior simple mortgage to B under this mortgage. B was entitled on dispossession to sue for the amount and recover the same from the properties comprised in the first mortgage. On dispossession, B sued to enforce his first mortgage C who had sued on his mortgage and purchased some items resisted B's right.

Held, that the enjoyment of the usufruct under the usufructuary mortgage did not amount to a payment of interest due under the simple mortgage. 100 Ind. Cas. 670=49 All. 430=25 A.L.J. 353=A.I.R. 1927 All. 417.

——S. 20 (2)—Scope and applicability—Sale of equity of redemption to mortgagee himself—Sale subsequently annulled as invalid—Receipt of rents in the interval is tantamount to payment under S. 20 (2) sufficient to save limitation—C. P. Code (5 of 1908), O. 23, R. 1 (3)—Applicability—Second suit by first mortgagee impleading the second mortgagee and the owner of the equity of redemption—Not identical in its nature with the first suit to which the owner of the equity of redemption alone is a party.

On 24th March, 1908, A executed for himself and a guardian of his then minor sons B and C a deed of mortgage for Rs. 9,500 in favour of D mostly for the discharge of antecedent debts which he had incurred. The mortgage was to be repaid in 12 annual instalments and it was provided that if default was committed in respect of the first, second and third instalments consecutively the entire amount of principal and interest should then become payable. In 1918 a receiver appointed in another suit gave three mortgages over the same properties in favour of X. In 1919 the equity of redemption was brought to sale in execution of a money decree against A and his sons B and C and was purchased by Y. A and his sons having defaulted in the payment of the first three instalments due under the mortgage, their mortgagee D filed a suit in 1921 to recover the entire amount of principal and interest due under it impleading A and his sons and Y, but X who had obtained in 1918 the three mortgages from the receiver was not made a party to the suit. On 6th February, 1922, Y executed a sale-deed conveying his equity of redemption in the hypotheca to D and both of them filed a razinama in the Court. The subsequent mortgages of 1918 were referred to and it was provided that the vendee should retain the benefit of the first mortgage as against the subsequent mortgagee. The suit on the first mortgage was dismissed on 8th February, 1922. X filed a suit in 1930 on the foot of his three mortgages of 1918, impleading amongst other Y, A and his sons and E the son of D who had died in 1929. By the time X's suit came on for hearing the sale to Y was held to be one brought about in furtherance of a scheme to defraud the creditors of A, B and C. In the judgment in that suit it was recited that the sale to Y was invalid and E made no attempt to prove the sale to his father. The priority of E's mortgage was conceded and it was provided in the decree that the hypothecated properties should be sold "subject to the prior mortgage of E of 1908". In the sale proclamation it was mentioned that the "mortgage was executed fraudulently and without consideration." X the decree-holder himself purchased the hypotheca in Court auction and in the sale certificate it was again mentioned that the sale was subject to the mortgage of 1908 and he applied for possession under O. 21, R. 95, C.P. Code. Meanwhile E was adjudicated insolvent in 1934, and the Official Receiver in whom the insolvent's estate was vested and who had not been impleaded in the application under O. 21, R. 95, succeeded in obtaining possession in fasli 1344 (1934-35). X's proceedings in the insolvency culminated in an appeal in which it was held that the receiver could only sell the right of the insolvent in the mortgage of 1908, but could not resist the application for delivery made by X. X accordingly obtained possession of the properties in fasli 1345 (1935-36). The Official Receiver sold the insolvent's rights in that mortgage to M on 8th January, 1942 and the shares of the insolvent's sons were also sold by them to M on 21st September, 1942. M filed a suit on 3rd March, 1943, on foot of the mortgage of 1908. X contested the suit on the ground of limitation. In the circumstances, Held, (1) X had nothing whatever to do with the providing of the satisfaction of the mortgage by the sale by Y to D on 6th February, 1942, and no fresh cause o f action accrued on the annulment of that sale. Neither the predecessors in title of M, nor X were parties to the proceedings in which the sale to Y was set aside and even if that sale stood a suit had to be filed for working out the extinguishment of the puisne mortgage.

The decree in X's suit of 1930, cannot be construed as creating a new right in favour of M's predecessors in title or as affording a fresh cause of action.

But as D took possession of the mortgaged properties on 6th February, 1922, and continued to be in possession till his death in 192, when the properties passed into the hands of his son E, who retained possession till December, 1931, when the receiver in a partition suit between him and his sons took possession of all their properties and continued to be in possession till about the middle of 1934, and the Official Receiver in the insolvency of E took possession in 1934-1935, till X went into possession, S. 20 (2) of the Limitation Act applied and the suit was within time.

Though the sale to Y be invalid the receipt of rents by the vendee must be deemed to be possession in thier capacity as mortgagees and the receipt of rents is tantamount to payment within the meaning of S. 20 (2) of the Limitation Act.

(2) The rights of a second mortgagee or a purchaser of the equity of redemption who is left out of a mortgage suit filed by the first mortgagee remain altogether unaffected by such suit and by the sale in execution of the decree therein. A second suit by the first mortgagees impleading the second mortgagee and the owner of the equity of redemption is not so identical in its nature with the first suit to which the owner of the equity of redemption alone was a party as to come within the mischief of O. 23, R. 1, sub-R. (3) of the Code of Civil Procedure. If the rights of parties who were not impleaded remain unimpaired, it is a necessary corollary and consequence that the rights of the persons who failed to implead them should remain unimpaired too. 60 L.W. 382=1947 M.W.N. 434=A.I.R. 1948 Mad. 105=(1947) 1 M.L.J. 373.

——S. 20—Under invalid contract of sale.

Where a mortgagee enters into possession of the mortgaged property under an invalid contract of sale, he must be deemed to be in possession within the meaning of S. 20 (2). The fact that his sale proved to be invalid cannot vitiate his title as mortgagee and the rents and profits which he received must be deemed to have been received by him as the mortgagee. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 475=I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 739=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 388=53 M.L.W. 348=1941 M.W.N. 289=199 Ind. Cas. 710.

——S. 20 (2)—Applicability—Person found to be in possession under a void mortgage but in receipt of rents of the property.

S. 20 (2) of the Limitation Act applies only in the case of profits received by a mortgagee in possession. Hence when a person is in possession under an alleged mortgage which was void the receipt of rent by him in respect of that property cannot have the effect of extending the time in his case by invoking the benefit of S. 20 (2). (1946) O.A. (C.C.) 228=1946 A.W.R. (C.C.) 228=1946 O.W.N. 341=A.I.R. 1947 Oudh 91=227 Ind. Cas. 577.

——S. 20—Mode of payment—Produce—Land held under mortgage, not registered—Receipt of produce, payment of interest.

Receipt of produce of land held under an unregistered mortgage though registration is required in law, cannot be deemed to be a payment of interest under S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 9 N.L.R. 140=21 Ind. Cas. 281.

——S. 20—Continuing in possession even after decree.

A usufructuary mortgagee goes into possession under the contract of mortgage and where he continues in possession even after decree, the decree does not change the character of his possession. His possession is in no way dependent on the decree. He was in possession qua-mortgagee before the decree and he continues in possession qua-mortgagee. Consequently, receipts by him of the profits must be treated under S. 20 (2), Limitation Act as receipts by mortgagee. 54 M.L.W. 124=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 737=I.L.R. The enjoyment of the usufruct of the property by the plaintiff year by year does not give him a fresh start for limitation for a suit to recover the money. A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 494=21 P.L.T. 219=19 Pat. 507=6 B.R. 446=187 Ind. Cas. 266.

——S. 20 (2) and Art. 116—Mode of payment—Trespasser in possession—Mortgage of vatan lands—Mortgage void on mortgagor's death—Bombay Hereditary Offices' Act (3 of 1874), S. 5—Mortgagor's heir recovering possession of mortgaged property—Suit by mortgagee to recover mortgage money—Limitation.

Some vatan lands were mortgaged in 1893 by the Vatandar with possession for a period of twelve years for a sum of Rs. 2,000. The deed of mortgage provided for personal liability to pay in case of any obstruction to the mortgagee. The mortgagor died in 1901. The mortgage having thereafter become void under S. 5 of the Bombay Hereditary Offices' Act, 1874, the mortgagor's son sued to recover possession of the property and obtained possession in 1914. Shortly afterwards on the mortgagees' sons suing to recover the mortgage amount.

Held, (1) that the suit was barred by time; (2) that the covenant in the mortgage deed, provided by the personal obligation by the mortgagor came to an end with his death; that the date of the subsequent dispossession or the hindrance caused to the enjoyment of the property after the death of the mortgagor had nothing to do with the question of limitation, and that the time against the mortgage could not be taken to commence from the date of such hindrance; and (3) that the suit was not saved under S. 20 (2) Limitation Act, for after the death of the mortgagor the mortgagee was only a trespasser not claiming a limited interest in the property as a mortgagee. 44 Bom. 500=22 Bom.L.R. 385=57 Ind. Cas. 76.

——S. 20—Co-mortgagees—Purchase of equity of redemption by one co-mortgagee.

In law the purchase of the equity of redemption by one of several co-mortgagees puts an end to the mortgage and possession of the properties after the date of the purchase and receipt of rent or produce of such land cannot be deemed to be a payment for the purposes of extending the period of limitation for a suit by another co-mortgagor, under S. 20 (1). 40 M.L.W. 595=(1934) M.W.N. 929=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 656=153 Ind. Cas. 462.

——S. 20—Mortgagee not given possession.

Where possession of the mortgaged property was never given to the mortgagee by virtue of the mortgage-deed, realisation of rent by the mortgagee from the mortgagor's tenants would not save limitation under S. 20, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 741=144 Ind. Cas. 644.

——S. 20—Mortgagee in possession.

Receipt of rent relating to portion of mortgaged property saves limitation against entire property. 118 Ind. Cas. 835=5 Luck. 53=6 O.W.N. 393=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 178.

——S. 20—Possession mortgage—Mortgagor in possession under lease—Payment by mortgagor of Government revenue payable by mortgagee—Sufficient payment.

In a case of a mortgage with possession where the possession of the property is with the mortgagor under a lease by the mortgagee, payment of Government revenue by the mortgagor out of rent payable to the mortgagee, according to the terms of the deeds of mortgage and lease, comes within S. 20 (2) and amounts to receipt of rent by the landlord as mortgagee. 97 Ind. Cas. 941=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 1061=51 M.L.J. 378.

——S. 20—Receipt of rent.

The receipt of rent mentioned in sub-S. 2 is not subject to the conditions mentioned in sub-S. 1. 97 Ind. Cas. 941=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 1061=51 M.L.J. 378.

——S. 20—Ijara lease—Ijardar allowed to hold over after expiry of lease and to receive produce in lieu of interest—Limitation is extended.

Where after the expiry of an ijara lease the ijardar was allowed to continue in possession of the land and to receive the produce ofland in lieu of interest payable on the Zuripeshgi and on being dispossessed from the land he sued to recover the Zuripeshgi.

Held, that the receipt of produce in lieu of interest fell within S. 20 (2) and saved limitation. 72 Ind. Cas. 492=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 169.

——S. 20—Receipt of rent by mortgagee, is a payment within Cl. (1).

S. 20, sub-S. (2) of the Indian Limitation Act does not refer expressly to the intention of the party who receive the rent or produce and may well be construed to apply wherever mortgaged land is, in fact, in possession of the mortgagee. In such an event the receipt of the rent and produce of the land may be deemed a payment for the purpose of sub-S. (1). 64 Ind. Cas. 903=35 C.L.J. 58=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 114.

——S. 20—Mortgagee's suit for money—Possession within 3 years of suit—Suit in time.

Where the mortgagee filing a suit under S. 68 of the T.P. Act was in possession of the mortgaged property till within 3 years of the date of its suit, S. 20 of the Limitation Act will apply and the suit is within time. 65 Ind. Cas. 408=8 O.L.J. 660=A.I.R. 1922 Oudh 102.

——S. 20—Enjoyment of produce by mortgagee—Time extended.

11. Payment on account of money payable under decree—Explanation.

S. 20—Compromise decree in 1923—Execution application in 1928—Compromise again arrived at and certified under O. 21, R. 2 (2) C.P. Code—Last payment made according to compromise on 15th February, 1929—Application for execution of decree of 1923, made on 13th February, 1932, is not time-barred. As the last payment in respect of first instalment and interest was made on 15th February, 1929, S. 20, Limitation Act, comes into play and the period of limitation must be computed from 15th February, 1929. (1938) A.L.J. 150=4 B.R. 308=42 C.W.N. 509=1938 O.W.N. 310=1938 A.W.R. 45=47 L.W. 606=40 P.L.R. 606=(1938) M.W.N. 662=32 S.L.R. 415=172 Ind. Cas. 999 (P.C.).

——S. 20 (as amended in 1927).—Part payment by a judgment-debtor saves the entire debt from limitation. Any appropriation made by the decree-holder is immaterial. 16 Pat. 294=18 P.L.T. 563=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 183=4 B.R. 496=3 C.L.T. 33=174 Ind. Cas. 1005.

——S. 20—Payments made—Liability not denied.

Where persons who undertake to pay a decree debt make certain payments and do not deny their liability, the payments made extend the period of limitation. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 226=172 Ind. Cas. 121.

——S. 20—Certification—Payment out of Court.

Payments coming within S. 20, will entitle the decree-holder to a fresh period of limitation. But even in such cases, O. 21, r. 2 (3), C.P. Code will apply, that is to say, the decree-holder will derive no advantage from such payments as regards limitation unless he certifies them to the executing Court. 21 Pat. 481=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 7=9 B.R. 139=204 Ind. Cas. 318.

——S. 20—Decree-holder mentioning payment by judgment-debtor in execution petition and producing receipts signed by judgment-debtor.

Where the decree-holder has mentioned three consecutive payments in his execution petition and produced a receipt purporting to bear the signatures of the judgment-debtor in respect of those payments, all the three payments must be held to be duly certified, and the writing alleged to have been executed by the judgment-debtor is sufficient to save limitation according to S. 20 of the Limitation Act, if it is proved to have been signed by him. Under such circumstances, the decree-holder should be given an opportunity to prove the payments in question. (1940) 189 Ind. Cas. 374.

——S. 20—Application for execution three years after decree—Reliance on alleged payment by judgment-debtor—Written acknowledgment by judgment-debtor alleged to have been lost—No affidavit showing existence of alleged acknowledgment—Held that mere fact of repayment, cannot extend limitation.

An execution application was filed more than three years after the decree on the strength of an alleged payment by the judgment-debtor. The application contained an allegation that a slip containing an acknowledgment of liability had been handed over to the decree-holder but was lost. A notice of the execution was served on the judgment-debtor in which there was an intimation given to the judgment-debtor, that the decree-holder had alleged certain repayments, but there was no information that the allegation that the slip containing the acknowledgment was handed over to the decree-holder but was lost. The judgment-debtor did not appear in Court :

Held, that the mere fact of the payment of a sum of money by the judgment-debtor or its being certified by the decree-holder in Court, did not amount to any step which would extend the period of limitation. The Court had not before it either any written acknowledgment by the judgment-debtor or any affidavit showing that such a written acknowledgment had existed. No intimation of it was given in the notice to the judgment-debtor. The mere fact that he did not appear in response to the notice did not imply that he admitted that the application was in time when, on the face of it, it was barred by limitation. Therefore, in the absence of any petition or any written acknowledgment, the application filed more than three years after the decree was obviously barred by time and the Court should not have issued any notice at all. A.I.R. 1936 All. 21=(1935) A.L.J. 1189=58 A. 313=1935 A.W.R. 1371=160 Ind. Cas. 394 (F.B.).

——S. 20—Uncertified payment.

(Quaere).—Whether an uncertified payment of a sum due under a decree saves limitation for the execution of that decree. A.I.R. 1936 Oudh 297=1936 O.W.N. 533=162 Ind. Cas. 717.

——S. 20, (as amended by Act 1 of 1927)—Certificate more than years after decree.

Where towards a money-decree passed on 19th June, 1927, the judgment-debtor paid on 9th December, 1929, Rs. 85 out of Court to the decree-holder who applied to certify it on 16th March, 1931, and put in an application to execute the decree on 24th June, 1931 :

Held, that S. 20, as amended by Act 1 of 1927, applied to the payment of Rs. 85 and the payment of that amount on 9th December, 1929, did not keep alive the decree and that could not itself be regarded as a step-in-aid and that the certificate which was made three years after the decree could not help the decree-holder. (1932) A.L.J. 1035=A.I.R. 1933 All. 49=143 Ind. Cas. 324.

——S. 20—Certification of part-payment after expiry of time—When revives limitation.

Mere payment by the judgment-debtor of a certain amount towards part satisfaction of the decree, certified after the period of limitation for execution, cannot revive limitation unless it is made towards interest as such or towards principal, and the fact of such payments appears in the handwriting of the judgment-debtor. 101 Ind. Cas. 796=A.I.R. 1927 Sind 268.

——S. 20—It is sufficient for the purposes of certifications for the decree-holder to mention payments in his application for execution ; there is no fixed period of time within which payments have to be certified by the judgment-creditors, it is payment that keeps the decree alive ; and it is a mistake to regard the process of certification as a revival of the decree.

Where a judgment-debtor made a part payment by a cheque on 18th October, 1926, and in the subsequent application for execution filed on 16th October, 1929, the decree-holder mentioned the fact that he had received the part payment on 18th October :

Held, that the payment made on 18th October, gave a fresh starting point of limitation under S. 20, and the application was not barred. A.I.R. 1931 Sind 28=25 S.L.R. 360=129 Ind. Cas. 909.

——S. 20—Part payment and certification must be before execution is barred.

Payments may be certified in the application for execution of the decree. The part payments and the certification must, however, be made before the application for execution is barred.

Although the decree holder may either apply to certify payment before the execution or may do so in his application for execution of the decree, the provisions of S. 20 are in no way affected. 43 C. 207 ; 46 C. 22 ; 22 C.W.N. 325 ; 23 C.W.N. 320 ; 20 C.L.J. 131, Foll. 64 Ind. ——S. 20—Certification not necessary.

If the decree-holder, when applying for execution, wishes to rely upon S. 20, the fact that he has not certified the payment, until making this application, is no obstacle. 82 Ind. Cas. 743=20 M.L.W. 190=1924 M.W.N. 674=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 131.

——S. 20—Part-payment entered in execution petition—Limitation extended.

If the part-payment of a decree amount is entered in an execution petition presented within three years from the date of such alleged payment, it amounts, if the fact of payment is proved, to a certificate of payment under O. 2, R. 2 and will operate to save limitation under S. 20 of the Limitation Act. 43 Cal. 207, Foll. 75 Ind. Cas. 1029=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 676.

——S. 20—Judgment-debtor.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—Payment by or by the authority of a judgment-debtor is covered by S. 20. 61 Ind. Cas. 979=13 M.L.W. 37=1921 M.W.N. 181=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 126.

——S. 20 and Art. 182 (5)—Part-payment of principal portion of decretal amount—Limitation—Fresh starting point.

A decree holder gets a fresh starting point of limitation to execute the decree within Art. 182 (5) of the Limitation Act from the date on which a portion of the decretal amount is paid by the judgment-debor. 46 Cal. 22=45 Ind. Cas. 903.

——S. 20—Acceptance by Decree-holder of overdue instalment—Effect of.

The mere acceptance by a decree-holder of overdue instalments is not of itself sufficient proof of waiver on his part to execute the decree for the whole amount; whether such an acceptance amounts to a waiver so as to extend the period of limitation is a question of fact which will not be distrubed in second appeal. 11 S.L.R. 120=45 Ind. Cas. 324.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—C.P. Code O. 21, R. 2—Payment made within 3 years—Bound to be recognised by Court.

Alleged part payments made within three years but certified to the Court under O. 21, R. 2 more than 3 years after the date of the first application extend the limitation. 20 C.L.J. 131 Foll. 12 A.L.J. 287 and 825 and 666, diss. 29 M.L.J. 669=18 M.L.T. 475=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 127=31 Ind. Cas. 318.

——S. 20—Decree payable by instalments.

The holder of a decree payable by instalments can, after applying for execution, extend the period of limitation by entering the payment of interest towards the overdue instalments. 60 Ind. Cas. 935=14 S.L.R. 198.

——S. 20—Payment of interest—Debt not bearing interest.

A payment by a judgment-debtor for money, bearing no interest will not extend limitation unless it is in his hand-writing though the decree-holder certified it in the execution application as payment of interest. Decree-holder's application certifying payment does not affect S. 20. 22 C.W.N. 325=35 Ind. Cas. 177.

——S. 20 (1)—Uncertified payment—If can save limitation.

A payment under S. 20 must be of such a nature that it could be an answer to a suit brought by the plaintiff to recover the amount 19 M. 340 ; 24 B. 496 ; 25 C. 852, (P.C.), Foll. A payment of the decree amount uncertified under O.21, R.2, C.P. Code before the expiration of the prescribed period as laid down in S. 20 cannot be relied upon by the decree-holder to prevent an application for execution being time-barred. 9 S.L.R. 27=30 Ind. Cas. 51.

——S. 20—Timber sold—Part payment—Proceeds of sale applied in execution—No part payment under S. 20.

In order that the provisions of S. 20, should apply infavour of the decree-holders, it is necessary that the fact of part payment of the principal of a debt should appear in the handwriting of the debtor. Where, therefore, some timber was sold in execution, and the proceeds were applied to satisfy a decree partly,

Held that the payment was not a good payment within the meaning of S. 20. (1909) 6 A.L.J. 836=2 Ind. Cas. 524=31 A. 590.

12. " Period prescribed ".

——Ss. 20, 4—Payment during summer vacation when limitation has lapsed, if could save limitation.

S. 4 of Limitation Act does not extend the limitation period, given in the schedule, but only enables a suit to be filed, if the limitation has expired during holidays, on the re-opening of the Court. So a payment made after the expiry of limitation but during the period the suit could not be filed on account of the fact that courts were closed for summer vacation cannot save limitation. 1946 O.W.N. 224=225 Ind. ——S. 20—The plaintiff sued on 9th January, 1939, to recover the money due on a bond executed on 28th. December, 1932, and repayable on 17th December, 1933 To save limitation, he relied on two payments endorsed on the back of the bond, the first dated 28th December, 1933, and the second dated 1st January, 1937. On 28th December, 1936, when the plaintiff could have sued, the Courts were closed and he could have filed his suit on 2nd January, 1937, when the Courts re-opened :

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation as the payment made on 1st January, 1937 was made after the expiration of the prescribed period. A.I.R. 1940 Nag. 401=1940 N.L.J. 227=188 Ind. Cas. 585.

——S. 20—Pro-note dated 13th September, 1927—Repayment towards pro-note on 4th October, 1930, the day on which the Courts re-opened after vacations—Suit filed on 4th October, 1933 :

Held, that the plaintiff could not employ S. 4, Limitation Act, to extend the period of limitation prescribed by S. 20 and hence the suit was time-barred. A.I.R. 1939 All. 252=1939 A.W.R. 153=181 Ind. Cas. 899.

——S. 20—Endorsement of payment after limitation but during holidays of Court.

An endorsement of payment made at the back of a pro-note more than three years after its execution but during the holidays of the Civil Courts which had begun prior to the completion of three years' period does not give a fresh start of limitation under S. 20 read with S. 4. A.I.R. 1938 All. 606=1938 A.W.R. 572=(1938) A.L.J. 1183=I.L.R. (1938) All. 861=178 Ind. Cas. 668.

——S. 20—In S. 20, Limitation Act, " period " means a definite space of time. " Prescribed for a suit " must mean " prescribed by this" Act and the only place where a " period " in the sense of a definite space of time is provided for in the Act is S. 3. The time prolonged under S. 4 for the Court being closed on the last day of limitation is not a " period." Nor it can be described as " the period prescribed for the suit." Where, therefore, the limitation period expires on Sunday, the payment of interest the next day does not give fresh start for limitation. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 683=47 M.L.W. 726=(1938) M.W.N. 513=177 Ind. Cas. 759.

——S. 20—Payment after expiry of limitation—Suit not filed as Court closed for vacation—If time extended.

Where interest was paid after the expiration of the period limited for payment on the bond but during the period of the Civil Court vacation and where no suit was instituted on the day that the Court re-opened.

Held, that a fresh period of limitation could not be computed, as interest had not been paid before expiration of the prescribed period. 26 Bom. 782, Foll. ; 15 Bom. L.R. 348, Diss. from. 114 Ind. Cas. 483=55 Cal. 1210=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 68.

13. Person liable to pay. See also NOTE 5.

——S. 20—Joint debtors—Payment and endorsement by one—Time, if saved against all.

Where a decree is passed against four Hindu brothers in respect of a debt due by their deceased father, and one of the brothers makes a payment towards the decree and endorses the same, that would save limitation for excution of the decree not only against him but against all the four judgment-debtors. 14 Cut.L.T. 51=A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 214.

——S. 20 and 21—Joint decree against number of persons—Payment by one—Whether saves limitation agains others.

Where a joint decree for under-proprietary rent is obtained by th superior proprietor against a number of persons, a payment towards the decree made by one of them does not save limitation against the other judgment debtors also. S 21 of the Limitation Act is explanatory of S. 19 as well as S. 20 and does not constitute an exception in the case of either of these sections. 23 Luck. 114=A.I.R. 1948 Oudh 193=1947 O.W.N. 623=1947 A.W.R. (C.C.) 402 (F.B.).

——S. 20—In order to be effective, the paymen of part of the principal must be by the debtor or his agent ; payment by the person liable to pay the debt, if he is not the debtor, would not give fresh start to limitation. In the case of payment of interest, however the payment need not be by the debtor ; it would suffice if the person liable to pay the debt makes the payment. " The person liable to pay the debt " is more comprehensive than " the debtor." A surety, for example, will be " a person liable to pay the debt " of the principal debtor, though he will not be " the debtor."

If there are several persons liable to pay payment of interest by any one of them will have the effect of giving a fresh start to limitation. ' Person liable to pays does not necessarily mean the entire body of such person, If a person liable to pay makes payment, such payment will, according to S. 20 Limitation Act, be available against another person who was also liable to pay. As soon as payment is made towards a debt within the specified time and by the specified persons, a fresh period of limitation for the debt will commence. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 643=73 C.L.J. 356=197 Ind. Cas. 869.

——S. 20—The wording of S. 20 is quite general and no limited interpretation should be put upon the words " the person " as used in the section. The words " the person liable to pay " as used in the section do not mean that the payment must be made by the sole debtor, or the entire body of debtors, if there are more than one. Even where a payment is made by a debtor or by one of the joint debtors, it comes under the provisions of S. 20 and such payment gives a fresh start of limitation, not only against the person making it but also against all his co-debtors. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 129=66 C.L.J. 104=42 C.W.N. 182=176 Ind. Cas. 191.

——S. 20—Payment of interest by one of several debtors—When extends period of limitation—Divisible debt consisting of distinct debts each payable by respective obligor—Payment of interest by one—Limitation as against others.

Section 20 does not limit the extended period to the person who really makes the payment. If the debt is one and indivisible, payment by one would interrupt limitation against all the debtors unless they can come within the exception laid down in S. 21 (2). But if the debt is susceptible of division and though seemingly one consists really of several distinct debts, each one of which is payable by one of the obligors separately and not by the rest, S. 20 would keep alive that debt or rather the portion of the debt which has got to be discharged by the person who has made payment of interest. It cannot affect the separate shares of the other debtors unless, on the principle of agency, express or implied, the payment can be said to be a payment, on their behalf also.

Where a Muhammadan executed a pronote in the plaintiff's favour and on the death of the executant his property devolved on his widow and minor children and the widow paid a certain amount as interest within three years of the execution :

Held, that the widow inherited the $\frac{1}{8}$th share of the husband's estate and her liablity for the debt of her husband was also to that extent. The payment which she made was referable, therefore, to her own debt which was $\frac{1}{8}$th share of the total debt and in respect of this debt only, time could be extended under S. 20. Consequently, the payment of interest did extend the limitation only so far as the widow was concerned, but it did not affect the debt that was payable by the sons. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 191=171 Ind. Cas. 712.

——S. 20—Joint provisions—Payment by one.

A payment by one joint promisor liable to pay the debt is, for the purpose of S. 20, sufficient to operate against all the joint debtors, for a fresh period of limitation begins, not merely in respect of the liability of the one who pays but in respect of the liability upon the whole debt. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 473=160 Ind. Cas. 314.

——S. 20 (1)—Co-debtor—Payment by one under instructions from the other.

A and his son B executed a promissory note to C. When C pressed for payment, B told his father to get some money from D and to pay the same to C, C and A went to D's house. D executed a promissory note to C and A, made an endorsement of payment on the promissory note which had been executed by them to C :

Held, that under the circumstances, A was an agent of B in making the part payment and endorsing the same on the promissory note and the part payment saved limitation not only as against A but against B also. The question whether the money paid belonged to A or to the joint family or to B was irrelevant. (1934) M.W.N. 120=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 623=40 M.L.W. 590=67 M.L.J. 908=151 Ind. Cas. 1087.

——S. 20—Hand-note by joint executions—Payment of interest by one.

The expression " the person liable to pay the debt " is not the same thing as " a person liable to pay the debt " that is to say, where there is joint liability. Consequently, payment of interest by one of the joint executants of a hand-note does not save limitation against the other. 15 P.L.T. 113=A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 224=151 Ind. Cas. 753 (2).

——S. 20—Payment by one of Judgment-debtors.

A payment by one of several judgment-debtors on his own behalf and not on behalf of the others also cannot save a subsequent application for execution from limitation as against the other defendants under S. 20, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 674=147 Ind. Cas. 586.

——S. 20—Joint debtors—Payment by one.

A payment made by one of several joint debtors will not extend the period of limitation as against the other debtors under S. 20. A.I.R. 1932 Cal. 620=36 C.W.N. 487=55 C.L.J. 347=59 Cal. 1128=138 Ind. Cas. 740.

——S. 20—Joint debtors—Payment by one by authority and in presence of the other—Signature of the other affixed—New period of limitation begins.

Where two persons are liable on a debt embodied in a Khata and they make payments towards the satisfaction of the debt, then it should be absurd to suppose that the law required that it would be necessary that both persons should make entries in the creditor's book. Where defendant No. 1 authorised the 2nd defendant to make payments towards the reduction of the joint debt and signified that authorisation not only by being present when the payment was made but by signing underneath.

Held, that clearly amounted to an acknowledgment, that the liability was continuing and a new period began against both. 74 Ind. Cas. 302=25 Bom.L.R. 354=A.I.R. 1923 Bom. 369.

——Ss. 20, 21—Part-payment by one of several judgment-debtors, effect of.

A payment made by one of several persons jointly liable under a decree otherwise than as agent of his judgment-debtors, cannot operate to save limitation as against any of the judgment-debtors other than the person making the payment. (1904) 1905 A.W.N. 108=2 A.L.J. 287=27-A. 575.

See also 1 A.L.J. 335.

——S. 20—" Debtor," meaning of.

The word " debtor " was intended to connote, not only the person who contracted the debt but his legal representative and in the case of a debt charged on land, the person who derived title from him ; in short the person who can be rendered liable for the debt by the creditor, that is, the person against whom the debt can be enforced. That is, the liability need not be personal in the sense of being liable to be arrested ; it may be proprietary, that is liability arising from the possession of property. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 6=51 M.L.W. 453=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 726=195 Ind. Cas. 329.

——S. 20—Payment by mortgagor towards mortgage debt—Effect—When starts fresh period of limitation as against an item of the mortgaged properties which had been alienated before the date of such payment.

Where a mortgagor after alienating one of the four items but while still in possession of the remaining three items of mortgaged properties makes a payment to the mortgagee, a fresh period of limitation would start in favour of the mortgagee as against all items of mortgaged properties including the one which the mortgagor had alienated before his making the part payment.

So long as the mortgagor has not parted with his interest in the mortgaged properties and continues to be liable under the mortgage he can make a payment which will serve under S. 20 of the Limitation Act to start a fresh period of limitation. 60 L.W. 146=1947 M.W.N. 173 (1)=A.I.R. 1947 Mad. 329=(1947) 1 M.L.J. 153.

——Ss. 20, 19—Payment by mortgagor after he has parted with mortgaged property.

A payment stands on a different footing from an acknowledgment as regards its effect in saving rights of action. Section 20 does not require, unlike S. 19, that interest or part of the principal should be paid by the party against whom the debt or legacy is claimed or by some person through whom he derives title or liability but enacts simply that a fresh period of limitation shall be computed where interest or part of the principal has been paid by the person liable to pay or by the debtor and saves the right of suit by the creditor in its integrity against all the persons who might have been sued within the prescribed period. Hence a part payment by a mortgagor after he has parted with the mortgaged property but who is personally liable to pay on his covenant saves the right of suit against the purchaser of the equity of redemption. 54 M.L.W. 579=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 200=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 308=1941 M.W.N. 1000=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 913=201 Ind. Cas. 218.

——S. 20—A payment of interest as such by the mortgagor after he has parted with all his interest in the mortgaged property cannot be said to be a payment by a "person liable to pay the debt"; within the meaning of S. 20, Limitation Act, and cannot, therefore, save limitation. 23 P.L.T. 328=21 Pat. 330=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 363=8 B.R. 839=202 Ind. Cas. 54.

——S. 20—Mortgagor selling equity of redemption but remaining liable for the debt—Payment by him saves limitation.

Payment of interest by the mortgagor, who remained liable ex contractu to pay the debt though he had alienated the equity of redemption is sufficient to save limitation, and as against the purchaser of the equity of redemption the fact that before payment a decree had been passed on the mortgage, does not make his payment ineffective. 98 Ind. Cas. 381=44 C.L.J. 475=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 193.

——S. 20—Mortgagor after parting with equity of redemption—Effect on purchaser.

Payment of interest by the mortgagor after transfer of the equity of redemption, extends the period of limitation against the purchaser of the equity. 22 Ind. Cas. 510 (Cal.).

——S. 20—"Debtor"—Payment by mortgagor—Effect of on purchaser of part of the mortgaged property before part payment.

There is nothing in S. 20 to indicate that the extension of time effected by a part payment is only to operate against the person making the payment. Payment of a part of the mortgage debt by the mortgagor, and appearing in his handwriting, will give a fresh start of limitation to the mortgagee even as against a person who had purchased a portion of the mortgaged property prior to such payments. 32 C. 1077 Foll. (1906) 11 C.W.N. 107=33 C. 1278.

——S. 20—Per Full Bench, Varma and Sinha, JJ. contra.—A mortgagor can, by paying part of the principal or interest 'as such' due on a mortgage, give a fresh start to the period of limitation with respect to that mortgage. This he can do even without the consent and behind the back of a subsequent mortgagee. 1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 199=(1945) A.L.J. 292=A.I.R. 1945 All. 239=I.L.R. (1945) All. 733 (F.B.).

——S. 20—Mortgagor—Subsequent mortgagee or purchaser, if bound.

A payment of interest as such by sale of certain other properties by the mortgagors saves time not only against themselves but also against the subsequent purchasers of the equity of redemption or subsequent mortgages. 41 All. 111=16 A.L.J. 790=47 Ind. Cas. 845.

——S. 20 (1)—Sub-mortgage—Payment by mortgagor or sub-mortgagor—Limitation—Suit as against original mortgagee.

If a mortgagor makes a payment to the sub-mortgagee it saves limitation also as against the sub-mortgagor There is no distinction between his position and that of an acknowledged surety. 3 P.R. 1918=44 Ind. Cas. 213.

——S. 20—Payment by purchaser of portion of hypotheca.

A payment made by a person entitled to do so under S. 20, Limitation Act, creates a fresh period of limitation against all persons who might have been served within the prescribed period. A payment falling within S. 20 by a purchaser of a portion of the hypotheca will save the mortgagee's claim against the unsold properties and he, the mortgagee, can proceed against them also. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 395=56 L.W. 75=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 135=1943 M.W.N. 64=209 Ind. Cas. 300.

——S. 20—Payment by purchaser of portion of mortgaged property.

One of the properties comprised in the mortgage was agreed to be sold by the mortgagors to one P for Rs. 7,600, and it was stipulated that out of this sum, he should pay Rs. 1,500 to the mortgagee who, in his turn, should release the item purchased, from his mortgage security. There was sufficient evidence to show that the mortgagee gave his consent to this arrangement entered into between the mortgagors and P, and the mortgagee was made to attest the sale deed in token of his consent. Simultaneous with the execution of the sale-deed, a release-deed was executed by the mortgagee in favour of P. It recited that out of the amount due to the mortgagee, Rs. 1,500 was received for interest. The money was in fact paid on subsequent date on which date the payment was endorsed on the back of the mortgage-deed. The mortgagee instituted a suit on his mortgage and relied on payment by P to save his claim from bar of limitation :

Held, that P as the purchaser was a "person liable to pay the debt" and payment by him took the case out of the statute, he being the purchaser of an item comprised in the mortgage. Apart from that, the facts showed that he was the mortgagor's agent "duly authorised" to pay Rs. 1,500. On this ground also, the payment made by him saved the claim from the bar of limitation. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 579=47 L.W. 517=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 624=(1938) M.W.N. 397=182 Ind. Cas. 468.

——S. 20—Payment of interest by one joint mortgagor, whether saves limitation against other.

Sub-section (2) of S. 21, Limitation Act, must be read in conjunction with Ss. 19 and 20. Therefore, a payment of interest as such by one of the joint mortgagors, who is not an agent of the others, does not of itself serve to keep alive the debt as against the others who have not authorised the payment. The claim against the other is barred personally as well as against the shares of the property pledged by him, for, each of the contractors is a principal, (although it may appear that one is as it were a surety for the other) ; the one does not give authority to the other to pledge the share of the one for the other's debt. The relationship of principal and surety does not exist between joint contractors ; each does the pledging in respect of his own liability ; that liability extends to the whole debt while the liability exists, and so the pledge refers to the whole debt ; but it is not a pledge which can be disclosed from the liability incurred. It could only be so if there were an express agreement to that effect. Consequently when the liability of one of the joint contractors ceases, his share of the property pledged as security is also discharged from liability. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 287=184 Ind. Cas. 622.

——Ss. 20, 21—Co-mortgagors—Personal covenant—Payment by one.

The mortgage itself may be kept alive by payment by one of the mortgagors, but when the question which arises is a matter, not of the liability on the mortgage but the liability on the personal covenant, the matter which has to be determined is whether the payment by one joint contractor can be deemed to be the payment of the other joint contractors, and that, as S. 20 quite clearly implies quite apart from S. 21, can only arise where the payment is made by the one as agent of the other. Two joint contractors are not agents one for the other, and in this particular case, S. 21 of the Act makes the matter abundantly clear. 19 P.L.T. 240=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 383=174 Ind. Cas. 156.

——Ss. 20, 21 (2)—Body of persons interested in equity of redemption—Payment made by one :

Held, that payment by one joint mortgagor saves limitation against all. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 361=2 B.R. 642=163 Ind. Cas. 808.

——S. 20—One co-mortgagor, making payment keeps mortgage alive.

Payment of interest by one of two mortgagors keeps alive the mortgage and not only the personal liability of the person who actually pays interest. 119 Ind. Cas. 437=1929 A.L.J. 846=A.I.R. 1929 All. 380.

——S. 20—One mortgagor not signing endorsement—Payment and endorsement by others—No authorisation to sign.

Where an endorsement on a mortgage deed is not signed by one of the mortgagors and there is nothing on record to show that those who signed the endorsement were specifically authorised for that purpose the mere fact that the payment of the money enures for the benefit of all the mortgagees cannot constitute a specific authorization to sign the endorsement on his behalf within the meaning of S. 20. 121 Ind. Cas. 858=30 M.L.W. 677=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 881=57 M.L.J. 588.

——S. 20—Payment by one of the mortgagors extends period against all.

Every mortgagor is liable for the entire debt secured by the mortgage; so payment by one of the mortgagors comes within S. 20 and extends period against all and not only the payer. 99 Ind. Cas. 424=A.I.R. 1927 All. 209.

——S. 20—Payment by one of the co-mortgagors—Extends time against others.

The expression " person liable to pay " does not mean the entire body of persons liable to pay the debt but every person liable to pay the debt.

Under the law every mortgagor is liable for the entire debt secured by the mortgage, so payment by one of the mortgagors comes within S. 20. 90 Ind. Cas. 774=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 150.

——Ss. 20 and 21—Payment of by co-mortgagor, if binding on the other mortgagors.

Where payment of interest as such is made by one of several co-mortgagors such payment cannot in view of S. 21 of the Limitation Act save limitation under S. 20 of that Act except as against that co-mortgagor unless it is shown that the other co-mortgagors, authorised the payment. 5 O.L.J. 73=45 Ind. Cas. 613.

——Ss. 20, 21—Payment of interest by one of several successors-in-interest of mortgagor in possession of part of property saves limitation against others. A.I.R. 1933 Pat. 1=14 P.L.T. 6=12 Pat. 93=140 Ind. Cas. 145.

——S. 20—Some descendants of deceased mortgagor making payment—Others divided before payment—If bound.

Payment of interest made by some of the descendant of a deceased mortgagors binds also the other descendants even though these latter were divided from the family before the payment was made. Section 21 (2) cannot save them because the categories mentioned in that section are not merely illustrative, and it does not cover cases relating to co-heirs and other persons who derive their liability not from direct contract with the promise. 14 Ind. Cas. 128, Not foll. A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 738=127 Indl Cas. 641.

——S. 20—One of three co-mortgagees joint with his son—Son taking lease of the mortgaged property and promising to pay rent to mortgagees but appropriating rent himself—Appropriation by lessee amounts to payment to all the co-mortgagees.

A mortgagor mortgaged his property with three mortgagees for a certain sum. Later on the mortgagor leased out the mortgaged property to a lessee who was put in its possession. The mortgagor authorised the lessee to pay out of the not profits interests and principal towards the mortgage-debt to the mortgagees. The lessee was the son of H, one of the mortgagees forming a joint Hindu family made with him. The lessee made payments to some of the mortgagees and acknowledged liability under the mortgage deed. One of the mortgagees did not get his share.

Held, that the lease must be deemed to be in favour of the joint family of H and his sons and the receipt of rents and profits by the son would be tantamount to a payment of interest and principal to H and hence to all the co-mortgagees within S. 20, it being immaterial whether he did or did not subsequently distribute it amongst all the mortgagees. 110 Ind. Cas. 561=26 A.L.J. 722=A.I.R. 1928 All. 387.

——S. 20—Person liable to pay—Includes subsequent mortgagees and purchaser of equity of redemption liable to pay the 1st mortgagee.

The expression " person liable to pay the debt " is not confined to the person who under every circumstances must be personally liable to pay, but it includes not only the mortgagor and his personal representative upon whom the contract would be personally binding, but also the second and the third mortgagees and the purchasers of equity of redemption, to whom the principal and interest due to the first mortgagee might with propriety be said to be payable. A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 102, Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 202=54 Cal. 179=44 C.L.J. 188=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 1218.

——S. 20—Auction-purchaser of judgment-debtor's interest.

The auction-purchaser of the interest of a mortgagor judgment-debtor is a person liable to pay within the meaning of S. 20. (1863) 1 De. G.J. and S. 122 and (1864) 11 H.L.C. 115, Foll. 62 Ind. Cas. 393=44 Mad. 544=13 M.L.W. 193=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 102=40 M.L.J. 218.

——S. 20—Person liable to pay—Hindu widow.

A Hindu widow can keep a debt of her hsuband alive by making payments under S. 20. 112 Ind. Cas. 491=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 972.

——S. 20—Parties and privies.

S. 20 requires that the payer should be one liable to pay the debts and the result of the payment would be to give a fresh period of limitation from the date of payment ; the debt being kep alive, the result must be to make it enforceable against any one liable for it. The 'party liable' means any person or persons against whom an action on the debt could be brought whether liable originally or as representing or taking the estate, real or personal, of the donor. 12 M.L.T. 610=24 M.L.J. 66=17 Ind. Cas. 619.

14. "Signed"—Proviso.

——S. 20 (As amended in 1927)—Under the present law all that is necessary is that the endorsement should have been signed by the person making the payment, and it is quite unnecessary that the whole endorsement should have been written by the person making the payment. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 112=181 Ind. Cas. 393.

——S. 20—Endorsement by another at instance of illiterate debtor making payment—No mark by debtor under endorsement.

Where a debtor is illiterate, it is necessary for him to sign the writing under which the payment is made. The word "sign" includes, in view of the defintion given in S. 3 (52), General Clauses Act, "making a mark". An endorsement by another at the instance of the debtor making the payment is not sufficient for purposes of S. 20, Lim. Act, in the absence of a mark by the debtor himself under the endorsement. A.I.R. 1943 Pesh. 36=207 Ind. Cas. 51.

——S. 20—It is doubtful whether a single signature in regard to endorsements referring to a series of payments made at different times would suffice to comply with the provisions of the Proviso to S. 20 (1), Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 118=181 Ind. Cas. 765.

——S. 20—'Signature'—Person touching a pen and handing it over to another.

Where A touched a pen and passed it on to B who wrote A's name on a bond and made an endorsement "paid Rupee one" and subsequently added his own signature as scribe :

Held, that there was no sufficient signature of A for the purposes of saving limitation under S. 20. 42 M.L.W. 644=(1934) M.W.N. 1082=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1047=159 Ind. Cas. 158.

——S. 20—Touching pen and authorising another to write executant's name.

If it is established that it is the ordinary practice among illiterate persons to sign documents by touching the pen and authorising another person to sign by writing their name for them in their presence, this is a sufficient signature for the purposes of S. 20.

In Bengal this is the ordinary way in which illiterate persons sign documents. A.I.R. 1932 Cal. 440=36 C.W.N. 188=137 Ind. Cas. 788.

15. Starting Time.

——S. 20—Starting time.

Time runs from date of payment and not from date on which it is endorsed. 8 C.L.T. 1=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 395=24 P.L.T. 21=8 B.R. 665=200 Ind. Cas. 306.

——S. 20—Not the date on which endorsement is written but on which payment is made, is to be looked at. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 118=181 Ind. Cas. 765.

——S. 20—Starting point.

The date of endorsement does not avail under S. 20 but the date of actual payment. 117 Ind. Cas. 124=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 432.

——S. 20—Payment before, but endorsement after expiry—Fresh period begins.

Where payment is made before the limitation has expired a fresh period begins from the date of payment though the endorsement of payment is made by the debtor after the limitation has expired. 17 Mad. 92, Foll. 71 Ind. Cas. 17=19 N.L.R. 6=6 N.L.J. 121=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 117.

——S. 20 (1)—Reckoning of time—Whether from date of endorsement or payment.

Under S. 20 time runs from date of payment and not from the date of endorsement of such payment. A mere endorsement of payment does not amount to an acknowledgment within S. 20. 9 M.L.T. 216=8 Ind. Cas. 349.

——S. 20—Cheque given—Fresh period from giving of cheque and not its being cashed.

If a cheque is given in part-payment of a debt, the fresh period of limitation under S. 20 should be computed from the actual giving of the cheque and not from the time when the Bank pays cash for it. 87 Ind. Cas. 508=29 C.W.N. 496=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 937.

16. Miscellaneous.

——S. 20—A minor can validly pay any amount toward his debt and such a payment towards any instalment due under an instalment bond would be a good payment to prove that the said instalment was discharged. (1940) 187 Ind. Cas. 809 (Bhopal).

——S. 20—Where the pledge and the loan are not contetemporaneous, the payments of interest as such on the loan after limitation do not save the bar of limitation and the payment of interest on the loan so far as the pledge is concerned cannot save it either. A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 213=37 Bom. L.R. 165=156 Ind. Cas. 531.

——S. 20—Mere statement of account—Not adjustment.

A mere statement of account made over to the debtor without any actual settlement of the accounts between the parties does not amount to an adjustment so as to give a fresh start of limitation. 9 Pat. 851=126 Ind. Cas. 898=A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 372.

——S. 20—Payment of interest must be proved—Creditor's admission of receipt not of much weight.

When a creditor comes into Court with a claim which is capable of being regarded as a stale or time-barred claim, it is to his interest to make allegations which would save the claim from the bar of limitation. Having this view, the mere fact that the statement of receipt of interest is against the pecunariy interest of the person making. the admission cannot be regarded as of great weight. Before the Court can hold that there were these payments of interest it must be satisfied that those payments were actually made. 111 Ind. Cas. 210=51 Mad. 549=29 M.L.W. 460=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 509.

——S. 20—Payments towards debt—Denied by debtor—No evidence let in—Court may presume payments.

Where a debtor makes a payment, and the decree-holder relies on it as saving limitation as having been made towards principal and interest but the debtor denies the payment altogther and offers no evidence to support his allegations, the Court is entitled to presume that the payment was made towards principal and interest. 92 Ind. Cas. 687=22 M.L.W. 827=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 183.

——S. 20—Stranger—Suit for sale on a mortgage—Subsequent transaction between mortgagee and third person for paying off mortgage-debt—Whether time extended thereby.

Limitation in respect of a suit for sale on a mortgage cannot be extended by subsequent transaction between the mortgagee and a third person for paying off the mortgage debt. 17 O.C. 38=23 Ind. Cas. 448.

——S. 20—Part-payment of principal—Burden of proof.

The burden of proving that a payment made by a defendant saves limitation under S. 20, rests on the plaintiff (1913) 1 U.B.R. 178=22 Ind. Cas. 959.

——S. 20—Partner.

Payment to one partner of a debt due to the firm is a valid discharge of the debt only when the payment is a money payment. 13 C.L.J. 234=9 Ind. Cas. 116

1. Acknowledgment or payment by Co-contractor or co-debtor.

See also (1) NOTE 4 UNDER S. 19 AND (2) NOTE 5 UNDER S. 20.

——S. 21—Co-contractor, payment by

The payment by a co-contractor would not entitle the creditor to get an extension of time as against other co-contractors. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 251=74 C.L.J. 327=I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 576=201 Ind. Cas. 138.

——S. 21—Joint contractors.

A payment made by one of the joint contractors, after the death of the other, within limitation, does not save limitation against the heirs of the deceased joint contractor. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 110=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 326=(1940) M.W.N. 891=52 M.L.W. 364 (2)=195 Ind. Cas. 235.

——S. 21—Joint contractor—Acknowledgment by one.

In order that an acknowledgment or a payment by one of two joint contractors shall bind a co-contractor, it must be shown that in making the acknowledgment or or in making the payment, he was, in effect, acting as the agent of his joint contractor. A.I.R. 1937 Rang. 195=169 Ind. Cas. 477.

——S. 21—Joint contractors—Acknowledgment by one—Saves limitation as against him alone and not others.

Other joint contractors cannot be chargeable on account of an acknowledgment made by one of them. But an acknowledgment signed by one of them would surely save the limitation as against himself though not against others. A.I.R. 1922 All. 37, Foll. 110 Ind. Cas. 561=26 A.L.J. 722=A.I.R. 1928 All. 387.

——S. 21—Cessation of joint business—Acknowledgment by one of two joint contractors after cessation of their business does not bind the other.

G and K were sub-contractors under M. They failed to carry out their sub-contract and were sued by M who obtained a decree against them for the performance of which G and K gave separate sureties. No business was carried on by them after that,

Held, in a suit against both G and K by one B for price of goods sold that an acknowledgment signed by K after close of the business was not enough to extend limitation as against G. 99 Ind. Cas. 563=7 Lah. 403=27 P.L.R. 598=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 616.

——Ss. 21 (2), 20—Scope of S. 21 (2)—Joint contractors liable as such before passing of decree—Whether become joint judgment-debtors after passing of decree.

Sub-section (2) of S. 21 is merely explanatory; it does not lay down exceptions to any general principle embodied in S. 20. Joint contractors who are liable as such before decree is passed against them, remain contractors after decree against them and they become joint judgment-debtors.

Payment made by one joint judgment-debtor independently of other judgment-debtors, does not interrupt the running of the period of limitation as against the other judgment-debtors and cannot operate to save limitation as against them. A.I.R. 1939 All. 230=1939 A.W.R. 98=(1939) A.L.J. 66=I.L.R. (1939) All. 258=181 Ind. Cas. 490.

——S. 21—Acknowledgment or payment by one of several judgment-debtors.

The payment by the Receiver in insolvency on behalf of the insolvent judgment-debtor cannot save the limitation against the other. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 395=4 B.R. 783=19 P.L.T. 831=176 Ind. Cas. 876.

——S. 21 (2)—Principal and surety.

Principals and sureties are not to be regarded as joint contractors within the meaning of S. 21 (2), Lim. Act A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 401=I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 362=44 C.W.N. 985=191 Ind. Cas. 608.

——S. 21 (2)—Joint contractor—Surety.

Where the debt is kept alive by part-payment and the liability of other is several, then it should be proved that the person represented the other persons. 28 B. 248; 27 M.L.J. 455, Foll. S. 21 (2) of the Act is not exhaustive and the test is whether the person keeping the debt alive had express or implied authority on behalf of others. 32 Ind. Cas. 608 (Mad.).

——S. 21 (2)—Payment or endorsement by one debtor.

In the case of a simple promissory note jointly executed by two persons, payment or endorsement made by one debtor does not operate to save limitation against the other in the absence of evidence that the payments or endorsements were made on behalf of the co-debtor or by his authority. A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 504=165 Ind. Cas. 828.

——S. 21—Co-obligors—Authority of one to pay for others essential—Authority may be implied.

When nothing more appears than that one of several co-obligors has made a payment or an acknowledgment of liability, such payment or acknowledgment will not save limitation against the other obligors of the debt. It has to be shown that he made such payment or acknowledgment not only on behalf of himself but also as the duly authorized agent of his-co-obligors. Such authority, however, need not be express: it may be inferred rom the conduct of several co-obligors. 107 Ind. Cas. 646=27 M.L.W. 820=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 173=54 M.L.J. 150.

——S. 21 (2)—Joint promisors—Acknowledgment by one—Effect.

The conduct of the parties might show that one joint promisor has implied authority to make an acknowledgment on behalf of the other. (1914) M.W.N. 792=25 Ind. Cas. 927.

2. Acknowledgment or payment by co-heir.

See also (1) NOTE 4 UNDER S. 19 AND (2) NOTE 5 UNDER S. 20.

——S. 21—Co-heirs—Divided descendants of deceased mortgagor—Bound by payments made by some of them—Not saved by section.

Payment of interest made by some of the descendants of a deceased mortgagor binds also the other descendants even though these latter were divided from the family before the payment was made. Section 21 (2) cannot save them because the categories mentioned in that section are not merely illustrative, and it does not cover cases relating to co-heirs and other persons who derive their liability not from direct contract with the promisee. 14 Ind. Cas. 128, Not Foll. A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 738=127 Ind. Cas. 641.

——S. 21—The extension of the sub-S. (2) by analogy to co-heirs is not warranted. 14 Ind. Cas. 128, Not Foll. 118 Ind. Cas. 302=1929 M.W.N. 146=29 M.L.W. 789=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 419=56 M.L.J. 630.

——S. 21 (2)—Co-heirs—Payment by one—Effect

Payment of interest by one of the heirs on a debt due by the deceased person does not save limitation as against the other heirs. 14 Ind. Cas. 128, Foll. 9 L.B.R. 78=11 Bur. L.T. 132=40 Ind. Cas. 858.

3. Acknowledgment or payment by co-mortgagor.

See also (1) NOTE 10 UNDER S. 19 AND
(2) NOTE 13 UNDER S. 20.

——Ss. 21, 19—"Joint contractors" whether include co-mortgagors.

The words "joint contractors" in S. 21 (2), Lim. Act must be taken to include co-mortgagors. Hence, an acknowledgment under S. 19 or a payment under S. 20 by a co-mortgagor cannot save limitation against the other co-mortgagor. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 381=45 Bom. L.R. 740=I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 486=210 Ind. Cas. 532.

——S. 21—Mortgage by Muhammadan brother and sister.

A payment by one of co-mortgagors (a Muhammadan brother and sister) cannot save limitation against the other. Nor can the brother be deemed to be his sister's agent for making payments to creditor in absence of proof of authority. A.I.R. 1941 Rang. 37=1940 Rang. L.R. 603=194 Ind. Cas. 177.

——S. 21 (2)—Joint mortgagors.

The term "joint contractors" in S. 21 (2), include joint mortgagors. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 287=184 Ind. Cas. 622.

——S. 21—Joint contractors—One not bound by payment of others.

Whatever may be the law as to executors, it is impossible to say that of two joint contractors—which term has been held to include two mortgagors by the Madras High Court—one contractor is bound by the payments of the other. 121 Ind. Cas. 858=30 M.L.W. 677=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 881=57 M.L.J. 588.

——S. 21—Co-mortgagors—Payment by one—Mortgage kept alive.

Payment of interest by one of two mortgagors keeps alive the mortgage and not only the personal liability of the person who actually pays interest. 119 Ind. Cas. 437=1929 A.L.J. 846=A.I.R. 1929 All. 380.

——S. 21 (2)—Joint mortgagors—Payment of interest by one—Effect.

The distinction between simple debts and real debts maintained in the English Statutes of limitation is abrogated by S. 21 of the Limitation Act. There is no distinction made by the section between the case of co-mortgagors and that of co-mortgagees. The word "joint contractors" in the section includes joint mortgagors also. S. 21 of the Limitation Act, is an explanation to Ss. 19 and 20 of the Act, the object being to provide that one only of the contracting parties shall not ordinarily impose a liability on the matter by anything done by him. Limitation whether created as a right or as a disability is prima facie personal and unless the legislature so provides a co-operative right or liability should not be imposed. 55 Ind. Cas. 763 (Mad.).

——S. 21 (2)—A and B purchasing one-half of hypotheca from mortgagors—A making payment and mortgagee accepting it in full satisfaction of amount due by him—Suit by mortgagee, subsequently against B.

Held, that S. 21 (2) applied and payment by A did not save limitation against B. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 111=(1937) M.W.N. 194=56 M.L.W. 688=175 Ind. Cas. 426.

——S. 21 (2)—Joint mortgagors—Joint mortgagors dying—Surving co-mortgagors, if remains joint mortgagors with heirs of deceased.

The joint mortgagors come under the general description of joint contractors within the meaning of S. 21 (2). In case of joint contractors, the relationship does not cease with the death of one of the contractors and the surviving contractor still remains a joint contractor with the heirs of the deceased. The payment of interest on a mortgage loan made by a surviving mortgagor will not, therefore, give a fresh start of limitation against the heirs of the deceased co-mortgagor. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 129=66 C.L.J. 104=42 C.W.N. 18=176 Ind. Cas. 191.

4. Acknowledgment by some of devisees.

——S. 21—Devisees—Acknowledgment by some—Others not bound.

Among devisees an acknowledgment by some does not keep alive the creditors' right against others who have not authorised the former to acknowledge liability on their behalf. 10 Hare, 217, Foll. 122 Ind. Cas. 504=31 M.L.W. 65=1930 M.W.N. 16=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 218=58 M.L.J. 210.

5. Acknowledgment or payment by guardian.

——S. 21—Acknowledgment by de facto guardian of Hindu minor does not prevent debt being barred.

A de facto guardian of an adopted Hindu minor cannot extend the period of limitation in respect of the debts contracted by the adoptive father, by signing the promissory notes.

The promissory note signed by the de facto guardian does not operate to create fresh obligation. A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 1=(1945) 2 Mad.L.J. 375=58 Mad.L.W. 545=1945 Mad. W.N. 656 (F.B.).

——Ss. 21, 20—Acknowledgment by de facto guardian.

Per Krishnaswami Ayyangar, J.—The law does make a real distinction between a de jure guardian and a de facto guardian A de facto guardian may be a relation or even a mere intermeddling stranger who, in fact, assumes the management of a minor's property though in law he or she has no authority to do so. It is consequently impossible to regard him as a lawful guardian, notwithstanding the fact that by reason of the decisions of Courts, the acts of a de facto guardian bind the estate of the minor, if done under the pressure of necessity or for the clear benefit of his estate.

An acknowledgment of a debt made by a de facto guardian of a minor does not prevent the debt from being time-barred A I R. 1940 Mad. 33=50 M.L.W. 896=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 884=(1940) M.W.N. 9=I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 358=186 Ind. Cas. 749 (F.B.).

——S. 21—Guardian de facto.

A de facto guardian cannot be considered to be a lawful guardian within the meaning of S. 21, for the purpose of acknowledging a debt to keep it alive against the minor. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 853=48 M.L.W. 268=(1938) M.W.N. 878=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 501=I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 65=179 Ind. Cas. 201.

Overrules (1913) 24 M.L.J. 428=19 Ind. Cas. 362.

——S. 21—Pro-note by mother as guardian of her minor sons—One son attaining majority—Payment by mother subsequently.

Where a minor belonging to joint Hindu family has separate guardians for his person and for his property, an acknowledgment by the guardian of his person does not fall within S. 21, as there can be no such guardian in respect of a minor's interest in his joint family property; the only person who can bind him by a valid acknowledgment being the manager.

Where therefore a pro-note is executed by the mother as guardian for her minor sons, any payment by her after the elder son has attained majority cannot bind even the remaining son, who is a minor. 55 M.L.W. 529=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 663=1942 M.W.N. 539=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 281=203 Ind. Cas. 212.

——S. 21—Hindu mother's right to acknowledge debt on minor's behalf—Question of benefit.

A Hindu mother is the lawful guardian of her minor child and can act under S. 21 as an agent duly authorised to acknowledge a debt on the minor's behalf. The question of benefit is only relevant to the original debt If the original debt was binding upon the minor, the action of the guardian in acknowledging it merely extends limitation but does not alter the character of the debt. In the same way, if the original debt was tainted with immorality, and not therefore, binding upon the minor, the guardian's acknowledgment of it does not change its character. 35 P.L.R. 661=A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 685=153 Ind. Cas. 23.

——S. 21—Mother, if lawful guardian.

Where the mother is not only the natural guardian of her minor son but also his legal guardian under Hindu Law, she is his lawful guardian within the meaning of S. 21, and is competent to acknowledge previous debts so as the enable the creditor to reckon a fresh period of limitation from date of acknowledgment. 10 O. W.N. 188=A.I.R. 1933 Oudh 132=145 Ind. Cas. 180.

——S. 21 (1)—"Lawful guardian"—Hindu brother.

The brother under the Hindu Law is not a lawful guardian within S. 21 during the lifetime of the mother 45 Cal. 630=42 Ind. Cas. 472.

——S. 21 (1)—"Lawful guardian," meaning of

A person lawfully acting as guardian though not appointed for the purpose, is lawful guardian within the meaning of the section, when acting for the benefit of the minor. 24 M.L.J. 428=(1913) M.W.N. 364=19 Ind. Cas. 362.

——S. 21—Amount not stated—Acknowledgment not proper.

An acknowledgment which does not state the amount of liability in respect of which the guardian of minor acknowledged his liability is not a proper acknowledgment. 115 Ind. Cas. 263=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 850.

6. Acknowledgment by agent of guardian, Committee or Manager.

——S. 21—Agent of guardian, Committee or Manager—Proof.

Provisions of S. 21 (1) expressly require proof that an agent for management appointed by the lawful guardian or committee or manager is duly authorised to sign acknowledgments. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 237=41 Bom.L.R. 391=183 Ind. Cas. 225.

——S. 21 (3)—Acknowledgment by Hindu widow binds reversioners.

Under sub-s. (3) of S. 21 an acknowledgment by a Hindu widow or her agent, of liability is binding against the reversioners. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 120=12 B.R. 696=226 Ind. Cas. 186.

8. Acknowledgment or payment by Manager of joint Hindu family.

See also (1) NOTE 4 UNDER S. 19 AND
(2) NOTE 5 UNDER S. 20.

——S. 21 (3)—Acknowledgment or part payment by manager of joint Hindu family.

There is no doubt, incorporated in S. 21, by amending Act I of 1927, sub-S. (3) which provides that where a liability has been incurred by or on behalf of a Hindu family as such, an acknowledgment or payment made by or by the duly authorized agent of the manager of the family for the time being shall be deemed to have been made on behalf of the whole family. The said sub-section however, protects on the face of it only those acknowledgments or payments which have been made by or by the duly authorised agent of the manager of the joint family for the time being and would not cover a case where the status of the joint family had been changed prior to the date of such acknowledgment or payment. Sub-section (3) would apply in terms where the liability had been incurred by or on behalf of the joint family and the manager of the family for the time being made an acknowledgment of payment within the meaning of Ss. 19 and 20. In such cases, the acknowledgment or payment would be deemed to have been made by the manager of the family for the time being as one on behalf of the whole family and would be sufficient in law to start a fresh period of limitation against the whole family from the date of such acknowledgement or payment. It pre-supposes that the person who makes the acknowledgment or payment occupies the position of the manager of the family for the time being. If, however, there has been a severance of joint status between members of the family sub-s. (3) would not, in terms apply and even though the debt or liability had been incurred by or on behalf of the joint family by its manager for the time being the person who was the manager of the family on the date when the said debt or liability had been incurred by him on behalf of the joint family would not have the power to acknowledge the debt or make the part payment so as to extend the period of limitation as he would have ceased to be the manager of the family by the time he came to make the acknowledgment or payment. There is nothing, therefore, in S. 21 (3), which would save the creditor's suit from the bar of limitation, if a partition had been effected and there was a severance of joint status between the members of the defendant's joint family. 47 Bom. L.R. 470=A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 511.

——S. 21 (3) (As amended in 1927),—Applicability and scope—Manager of joint Hindu family—Acknowledgment or payment after severance of status in family—If saves limitation. I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 976 =47 Bom.L.R. 470=A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 511.

——Ss. 21 (3) (b), 19—Manager of joint Hindu family.

An acknowledgment made by a manager of a joint Hindu family in respect of a family debt after he was adjudged an insolvent can save limitation as against the other co-parceners. If an insolvent, after his adjudication, can acknowledge his own debt, surely he can equally acknowledge a debt binding on the family of which he still remains the manager notwithstanding his insolvency. 1942 M.W.N. 480=55 M.L.W. 508 =(1942) 2 M.L.J. 233=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 721=I.L.R. (1943) Mad. 53=204 Ind. Cas. 245.

——S. 21 (3) (b)—Document silent on point of purpose of loan—Oral evidence to show purpose.

In order to get benefit of S. 21 (3) (b), Lim. Act, it is not necessary that the document should, on the face of it, show that the loan was incurred on behalf of the joint family. If the fact that the loan has been incurred on behalf of the family can be established on the evidence, S. 21 (3) (b) would be attracted if the acknowledgment or part payments of the principal or interest had been made and endorsed by the karta. When a loan has been taken and is evidenced by a document, oral evidence is not excluded to show what the purpose of the loan was and specially when the document is silent on the point. By such oral evidence, the terms of the document are not varied. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 137=70 C.L.J. 201=44 C.W.N. 299=186 Ind. Cas. 891.

——S. 21 (3) (b)—Mortgage decree against father and sons as members of joint Hindu family —Payment by father towards interest —Receipt showing payment as on behalf of and for benefit of family.

Held, that payment saves limitation against both father and sons. A.I.R. 1938 All. 638=(1938) A.L.J. 973=1938 A.W.R. 666=179 Ind. Cas. 90.

——S. 21 (2) (3) (b)—Mortgage of joint family property by major son and guardian of minor son appointed by will—Acknowledgment by both by payment of interest.

Where a major son and the guardian of the minor son appointed under the will of the father mortgaged the joint family property and both of them acknowledged the debt by paying interest ;

Held, that according to Mitakshara, it was incompetent to the only adult co-parcener of the joint family consisting of himself and his minor co-parceners to appoint a testamentary guardian to the co-parcenary properties of the minor co-parceners. The appointment of the guardian, therefore, being invalid, the minor sons could not be regarded as parties to the mortgage in their indivicapacity. Section 21 (2), therefore, had no application and the acknowledgment by the major son must be regarded as an acknowledgment made by the manager on behalf of the joint family and was, therefore, binding on the minor sons. 44 M.L.W. 467=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 871=(1936) M.W.N. 1274=170 Ind. Cas. 749.

——S. 21—Execution of mortgage-deed by two brothers—Part payment by older brother as managing member—Theory of implied agency.

A part payment will avail to save limitation not only against the person making it or those deriving title under him subsequent to such payment but even against other persons liable in respect of the same debt.

Where a mortgage-deed was executed by two brothers, one of whom was the managing member of the family, and a part payment was made by the managing member and the circumstances showed that he was acting on behalf of both :

Held, that the part payment was sufficient to save limitation against the younger brother also on the theory of implied agency notwithstanding the fact that the latter had also joined in the mortgage-deed. 41 M.L.W. 94=(1935) M.W.N. 17=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 101= 68 M.L.J. 470=58 M. 418=154 Ind. Cas. 1053.

——S. 21 (3) (b) (as amended in 1927)—Managing member, not being father, making part payment after partition.

Only part payment or acknowledgment of debt by the managing member of a joint Hindu family can save limitation, under Cl. (b) of Sub-s. 3 of S. 21 as against other members . But if such payment is made by the managing member, who is not a father of a joint family of brothers, after a bona fide partition between them, it will not save the bar of limitation as against the other divided brothers because, after a partition, there is no undivided family and, therefore, no managing member of it ; and unless there is authority to acknowledge the debt or make a part payment, the other members of the family will not be bound by the acknowledgment or part payment of one member alone. A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 586=45 M.L.W. 767=173 Ind. Cas. 319.

9. Acknowledgment or payment by member of joint Hindu family.

See also (1) NOTE 4 UNDER S. 19 AND
(2) NOTE 5 UNDER S. 20.

——S. 21 (3) (b)—Debt incurred by managing member of joint Hindu family—Payment after partition by one member.

Under Hindu Law, the son's liability under the pious obligation rule in no sense arises out of contract. His liability is personal to himself. This does not mean that he is personally responsible in the ordinary acceptance of the expression of personal liability but that the obligation devolves upon him by reason of his relationship. The position is not different when he has brothers. Each is similarly but separately liable. The position of a member of a joint family with regard to a debt binding on the family is very much the same. His liability arises from the fact that he is a member of the family and the fact that it is limited to his individual share in the family properties emphasises the personal nature of the liability.

Hence a payment made after partition by a member of a Hindu family of interest due on a promissory note which was executed by the managing member when the family was joint cannot start a fresh period limitation against the other members of the family. The law of joint liability as understood in England is of no help in such a case. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 925=54 M.L.W. 595=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 883=1941 M.W.N. 1012=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 251=198 Ind. Cas. 177 (F.B.).

10. Acknowledgement or payment by partner.

See also (1) NOTE 4 UNDER S. 19 AND
(2) NOTE 5 UNDER S. 20.

——S. 21 (2)—'Only', meaning of—Authority of partners.

The meaning to be given to the word 'only' in S. 21 (2), is that it must also be shown that the partner signing the acknowledgment had authority, express or implied, to do so and in a going mercantile concern, such agency is to be presumed as an ordinary rule. 34 Bom. L.R. 623=A.I.R. 1932 Bom. 316=138 Ind. Cas. 805.

——S. 21—Partnership.

In the case of a going partnership concern, there is a presumption that each partner is entitled to sign an acknowledgment on behalf of the firm in the ordinary course of business. A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 456=33 P.L.R. 584=137 Ind. Cas. 771.

——S. 21—Partners—Letter by one forwarding bills against over-draft—Binding on the other.

Where a firm of partners opens an over-draft account and the bank agrees to collect bills and credit balance after deducting commission to the firm account, any acknowledgment by means of a letter forwarding bills as arranged sent by one of the partners, other having severed his connexion with the partnership, is sufficient acknowledgment in the absence of a notice of dissolution to the bank, and is binding on the other partner. 56 Cal. 556=33 C.W.N. 412=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 714.

——S. 21—Acknowledging partner must have authority.

Section 21 (2) simply means that mere acknowledgment or payment by one or more partners is not of itself sufficient to make the other or others chargeable apart from the question of authority. 56 Cal. 556=33 C.W.N. 412=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 714.

——S. 21—Acknowledgment by one in the course of partnership business—Binds the others.

The mere fact that persons are partners does not make one partner liable under an acknowledgment by another; but if the acknowledgment is done in the course of partnership business, it is binding on the others. 111 Ind. Cas. 143=50 All. 982=26 A.L.J. 1036=A.I.R. 1928 All. 491.

——S. 21—Joint Hindu family—Acknowledgment in the course of family business by one member—Binding on other members.

Where a Hindu joint family carries on a business the members of the family are in the position of partners in regard to persons dealing with that business and an acknowledgement of liability made by a member in the usual course of the partnership business and such as is necessary for the business, is binding on the other members of the family as partners and extends the period of limitation. 10 All. 418, Foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 143=50 All. 982=26 A.L.J. 1036=A.I.R. 1928 All. 491.

——S. 21—General authority to partner to contract debt—Authority to keep alive a debt presumed.

An acknowledgment or a payment by a partner without special authority is binding upon the other partner. Under S. 21, a partner ipso facto has no authority to acknowledge or to make a part payment; but if he has general authority to contract debts or make payment he has implied authority to keep the debt alive and it is unnecessary to make out special authority. 41 Mad. 427 (F.B.), Foll. 112 Ind. Cas. 491=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 972.

——S. 21 (2)—Scope explained.

Section 21 (2) does not say that a person shall not be liable on an acknowledgment signed by the partner but by reason only of a written acknowledgment signed by his partner: and it amounts to saying that if there is no more than a written acknowledgment signed by one defendant, the fact that the other defendant is his partner cannot affect the latter's liability. 92 Ind. Cas. 653=23 M.L.W. 199=1925 M.W.N. 707=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 114=50 M.L.J. 67.

——S. 21 (2)—Joint partners—Acknowledgment—Implied authority.

An acknowledgment must be authorised or must be capable of being inferred from the acts of parties. In the absence of direct evidence that a co-contractor or partner has authorised his co-contractor of co-partner to acknowledge a debt or to make payments saving limitation on his behalf. The Court can infer such authority from other circumstances, such as the position of the othe co-contractors or partners in the business, 37 M. 146, Foll. 32 M. 421; 35 M. 142, Disapproved. 41 Mad. 427=34 M.L.J. 373=23 M.L.T. 261=(1918) M.W.N. 285=7 L.W. 552=45 Ind. Cas. 18 (F.B.).

——S. 21—Part payment by one partner, how far will save limitation as against others—Proof.

If a partner makes a part payment of a debt, there should be some evidence that in the course of business, the partner who had made the payment had authority to do so on behalf of the firm, in order that the par payment may save limitation against the other members of the firm. (1908) 32 M. 421=5 M.L.T. 102=2 Ind. Cas. 309.

11. Burden of proof—Sub.-S. (2).

——S. 21—Burden of proof.

The party who pleads S. 21 (2) has no show that he can claim exemption under its terms. A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 738=127 Ind. Cas. 641.

12. "Chargeable"—Meaning of—Sub-S. (2).

——S. 21—Interpretation "chargeable"—Not limited to personal liability.

The word "chargeable" in S. 21 prima facie means every kind of chargeability under a contract and it cannot be limited to personal liability only. 121 Ind. Cas. 858=30 M.L.W. 677=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 881=57 M.L.J. 588.

13. "Only"—Meaning of—Sub-S. (2).

——S. 21—Interpretation "only"—Restricts the application of Ss. 19 and 20.

The word "only" in S. 21 (2) is not a mere surplusage and if effect be given to the word the sub-section would not in any way interfere with the operation of Ss. 19 and 20, but would restrict the application of those sections to cases which strictly satisfy their requirements. 98 Ind. Cas. 381=44 C.L.J. 475=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 193.

1. Addition of parties.

——S. 22 (1)—Applicability—Addition of party owing to devolution of interest during pendency of suit.

S. 22 (2) of the Limitation Act expressly lays down that nothing in sub-S. (1) of that section shall apply to a case where a party is added owing to a devolution of interest during the pendency of the suit. The addition of heirs is governed by O. 22, C. P. Code and if an application is made by one of the heirs in time, it would not matter if all the others are added later on. A.I.R. 1950 Kut. 83.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Addition of legal representatives.

Mortgage suit against heirs of deceased mortgagor—Some heirs joined after limitation:

Held, S. 22 of the Lim. Act does not apply since no new defendants were added. A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 218=1943 O.W.N. 105=19 Luck. 183=207 Ind. Cas. 72.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Person's name struck off from array of defendants—No objection—Application to implead him beyond limitation.

Where, in a suit under O. 21, R. 103, C. P. Code, the name of the auction-purchaser is struck off from the array of the defendants, the effect is that the suit as far as he is concerned, comes to an end. When his name is added at a later date, a new suit must be regarded as having been brought against him, and if such is not brought within time (one year from the dismissal of application under O. 21, R. 100), then it is barred by limitation. The fact that the order expunging the person's name from the array of defendants was made under a mistake does not affect the question. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 270=8 B.R. 526=199 Ind. Cas. 196.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Plaintiff impleading leal representative after limitation—Suit decreed against all defendants—Dismissal of suit on appeal.

A mortgagee instituted a suit against the father of the legal representative of the deceased mortgagor. It was found that he could not be legal representative of the deceased, the property having been gifted to his sons by the mortgagor:

Held, that the mortgagee could not implead the legal representative of the deceased mortgagor after the expiry of the period of limitation. It was immaterial whether, in impleading the new party, the Court acted suo motu or on the application of a party.

Held, also that the dismissal of the suit on appeal by such legal representative involved the dismissal of the suit against the nonappealing defendants also specially where the mortgaged property was not in their possession or ownership and the decree appealed from pertained to the mortgaged property alone. A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 262=192 Ind. Cas. 105.

——S. 22—Addition of party—Suit against benamidar—Real owner made party beyond time.

A benamidar can represent the real owner. He is in a position of a trustee and the true owner will be bound by any adjudication in a suit in which the benamidar is a party.

Where a real owner is made a party to a suit against benamidar, beyond the period of limitation, it will not, by itself, let in the operation of S. 22, because the real owner will not be a new party and the suit as against the real owner will not be timebarred if it was within time against the benamidar. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 687 =47 L.W. 665=(1938) M.W.N. 500=177 Ind. Cas. 381.

——S. 22—Addition of party against whom limitation has expired as pro forma defendan:—Effect.

The rules of limitation apply only to claims. The fact that a claim is barred against a particular defendant does not prevent defendant being impleaded as pro forma.

Where, in a suit for accounts, one of the partners who is a necessary party is made a pro forma defendan- only when the claim against him is barred, once he becomes a party, the suit cannot fail for non-joinder and the limitation period against the contesting parties cannot be affected by the fact that he is impleaded after the expiry of limitation. A.I.R. 1937 All. 502=(1937) A.L.J. 571=1937 A.W.R. 527=170 Ind. Cas. 743.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Addition of Official Receiver appointed pendente lite.

Suit to enforce mortgage—Pending suit mortgagor adjudicated insolvent—Suit dismissed—Appeal —Application to implead Official Receiver as respondent but beyond period of limitation for filing appeal:

Held, that S. 22 (1) had no application and that he can be impleaded under O. 22, R. 10, C. P. Code. 36 P.L.R. 483=A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 316.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Legal representatives.

Suit against wrong person as legal representative of deceased debtor—Addition of real representative after limitation—Section 22 applies and the suit is time barred—Even if the mistake was bona fide, it would not avail plaintiff for purpose of limitation. 33 P.L.R. 253=A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 314=137 Ind. Cas. 89.

——S. 22—Addition of parties.

Puisne mortgagee impleaded after 12 years in a suit for sale by mortgagee. Question of limitation can be raised and plaintiff cannot get relief against the puisne mortgagee. 1932 M.W.N. 330.

——S. 22—Addition of new defendants.

Suit against defendants as members of joint family —Addition of alternative claim as partners—Other members of the family also added as parties.

Held, that as regards the newly added defendants, under S. 22 (1), Lim. Act, the suit must be deemed to have been instituted when they were brought on record and suit was time-barred. A.I.R. 1931 Bom. 590= 33 Bom.L.R. 1385 =135 Ind. Cas. 423.

——S. 22—Addition after limitation.

An application, under O. 21, R. 100, C. P. Code, presented within 30 days of dispossession—The non-applicant auction-purchaser giving notice to the applicant that certain portions had been sold by him to third parties—Applicant impleading the sub-purchasers after the period of more than 30 days from the date of receiving such notice:

Held, that the application was not barred by limitation and the order was not open to any criticism on that ground. 58 Cal. 55=A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 385= 132 Ind. Cas. 631.

——S. 22 (1)—Addition of parties—Limitation—Bar of.

Plaintiff sued as the head of an impartible raj for possession of certain villages granted for the maintenance of a junior member of the family alleging that they had reverted to him under the family custom. This plea however failed. The plff. set up an alternative title to the villages by assignment from the grantee to the plff. father. The High Court held that the villages had ceased to be impartible under the assignment and that the plff.'s brother was a joint heir with plff. The High Court held, that the plff.'s brother was a proper party and directed him to be added as a party respondent after the expiry of the period of limitation, especially as no objection on the ground of non-joinder was pressed by the defts. at the trial. The Privy Council affirmed the judgment of the High Court. 32 All 241=37 I.A. 60=14 C.W.N. 842=12 Bom.L.R. 419=7 M.L.T. 414=(1910) M.W.N. 118=6 Ind. Cas. 981 (P.C.).

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Institution of suit, date of.

Against a party subsequently added, the suit is deemed to have been instituted on the date when he has been brought on the record. 13 Bom.L.R. 1014=12 Ind. Cas. 586.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Application under S. 25 of the B. T. Act—Addition of junior members of Joint Hindu family—Limitation.

An application under S. 105 of the B. T. Act is not maintainable at the instance of the manager of the joint family and if the junior members are added after the period of two months from the final publication of the record of rights the application will be barred. 61 Ind. Cas. 549=25 C.W.N. 38=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 591.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Benamidar, suit against—Additional of real owner.

A principal cannot be added out of time in the shoe of his benamidar who is sued within time. 18 Ind. Cas 392 (Cal.).

——S. 22 (1)—Addition of parties—After time—Bar.

A claim for rent is not barred because one of the plaintiffs was added after the period of limitation to meet possible future objections. 14 C. 400 and 22 B. 672, Foll. 8 Ind. Cas. 890 (Cal.).

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Additional representatives.

In a suit to enforce rights of trust, by persons interested in the trust, additions of more representatives out of time does not bar the suit. 9 L.W. 377=(1919) M.W.N. 435=50 Ind. Cas. 353.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Institution of suit, date of.

The date of institution of a suit as against a newly added party must be the date on which he was added as a party. 5 L.W. 222=38 Ind. Cas. 169.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Assignee added—Limitation.

Per Seshagiri Aiyar, J.—S. 22 of the Limitation Act applies only to cases where the added or substituted plaintiff wants to litigate a right for himself independently of the right of the original plaintiff. Where therefore a plaintiff is added in consequence of the assignment of the rights of the original plff. his right to a decree is not affected by S. 22. 23 A. 331, 14 C. 400, 20 C.L.J. 107, Foll. 40 Mad. 722=32 M.L.J. 407=29 Ind. Cas. 634.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Assignee's application for execution.

Upon the death of the appellant during the pendency of an appeal from an order in an execution proceeding, it is open to the legal representative to apply for leave to prosecute the appeal. An assignee of a decree may apply to the execution Court for leave to carry on the execution proceeding which has been commenced by the original decree-holder. The Court is bound to allow execution at the instance of the recorded decree-holder unless intimation has been given in the regular way prescribed by law for the admission of another person who obtains leave to carry on execution as an assignee. 10 C.L.J. 396=3 Ind. Cas. 324=14 C.W.N. 752.

——S. 22 (1) and Art. 11—Addition of parties—Suit under O. 21, R. 103—Limitation.

Though a suit brought within one year of an order passed under S. 385 of the C. P. Code (1882) is not barred, a party added after the expiry of one year can raise the plea of limitation. 7 M.L.T. 306=6 Ind. Cas. 680.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Party already represented—Joinder of after expiry of limitation—Effect.

The joinder of a person already represented in the suit as a party to it is not joinder within the meaning of S. 22 of the Limitation Act. 56 Ind. Cas. 386 (Nag.).

——S. 22—Addition of parties—After time—When acts as a bar.

The joinder of parties after time involves a bar only if the joinder was necessary to the suit. 10 S.L.R. 38 =35 Ind. Cas. 551.

——S. 22—Heirs added as parties.

In a suit brought against the minor son of the mortgagor a Mahomedan on contention that the suit was barred as against the other heirs who were afterwards added as parties on plff.'s application, it was held that the addition of the parties after expiry of required time fixed, did not involve a dismissal of the suit under S. 22 of Limitation Act; moreover the suit was not barred against them as money was specifically charged on the whole property by the deceased. 39 Bom. 729=17 Bom.L.R. 685=31 Ind. Cas. 180.

——S. 22—Addition of parties—Suit by agent on behalf of firm—Addition of partners as Co-plaintiffs.

The section will not apply when a suit is brought by an agent on behalf of a firm of partners, merely because it is so barred when the other members of the partnership are impleaded as co-plaintiffs. 2 L.W. 239=28 Ind. Cas. 210.

——S. 22—Dower, suit for—One of the heirs joined 3 years after death of wife as party defendant—Husband's suit not barred. See MAHOMEDAN LAW—DOWER. 6 C.L.J. 558=12 C.W.N. 84.

——S. 22—Addition of party-defendant by Court of its own motion or at the instance of party—Mortgage suit.

When in a suit a person is added as a party-defendant at the instance of the Court after the period of limitation applicable to the suit has expired, S. 22 applies and bars the plaintiff's remedy as against the added defendant. 24 C. 640; 4 C.W.N. 459 Foll; 27 C. 540, overruled; 12 C. 642, Expl.

Quaere: Whether the portion of the mortgage property in the hands of the added defendant was thereby exempted from liability under the mortgage. 11 C.W.N. 350=35 C. 519=9 C.L.J. 242 (F.B.).

Also 10 C.W.N. 551=33 C. 613=3 C.L.J. 576.

——S. 22—Adding of party—"New defendant".

Where relief was originally claimed against a party (here a debutter estate) who had to be represented by some person, the proper representation of that party subsequently made has not the effect of adding a "new defendant" to the suit. 2 A. 296; 4 A. 37; 7 C.W.N. 75 Foll. (1905) 9 C.W.N. 421=32 C. 582.

——S. 22—Addition of new defendant.

Where on its being found that the deceased party to the suit had left a will, the record was altered by describing one of the two sons already brought on the records as the legal representatives as executor and striking out the name of the other.

Held, that there was no addition of a new defendant within the meaning of S. 22. (1903) 7 C.W.N. 575.

——S. 22—Addition of new parties by Court of Appeal—C. P. Code, S. 559.

If fresh parties are merely joined for the purpose of safeguarding the right subsisting as between them and others claiming generally in the same interest, the determination by application of the provisions of S. 22 of the date of the institution of the suit as regards such freshly joined parties does not ordinarily affect the right of the original plaintiff to continue the suit, and would not therefore, attract the application of the general provisions of the Limitation Act. 28 B. 11, Foll. (1900) 1 A.L.J. 543.

Also (1903) 5 Bom.L.R. 618=28 B. 11.

2. Amendment.

——S. 22—Amendment.

Redemption suit against member of unincorporated association in his personal capacity as mortgagee—Amendment seeking to sue member as representing association:

Held, that could not be allowed as large number of parties were being added—Fact that amendment was not opposed did not deprive association of its right to plead limitation. A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 639=(1940) M.W.N. 446.

——S. 22—Amendment—Change in description only.

Plaintiff wrongly described as major—Mistake bona fide—Court can, under O. 1, R. 10, C. P. Code, correct the error—It cannot be said in such case that a new plaintiff is added after limitation—Section 22 therefore, has no application. 1940 O.W.N. 1007=1940 A.W.R. (C.C.) 431=A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 43=16 Luck. 256=191 Ind. Cas. 150.

——S. 22—Amendment—" Misdescription "—Omision to record all partners as defendants in amended plaint.

Where the original plaint shows that the plaintiff has recorded four dissolved firms as defendants, but the amended plaint shows that only two of the partners of the four defendant firms are recorded as defendants despite O. 30, R. 3, C. P. Code, the omission of the remaining defendants amounts to " not naming defendants " and not misdescription under S. 22, and the plaintiff cannot take the protection of S. 22. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 485=38 P.L.R. 827=163 Ind. Cas. 734.

——S. 22—Amendment—Misdecription.

The plaintiff filed a suit against one G alleging that G had, while plaintiff was a minor, obtained a fraudulent decree against him and realised money belonging to him. Plaintiff was not aware of the identity of G. One G was served but it turned out that he was not the person whom plaintiff wanted to sue. Plaintiff then amended the plaint and got service on the right person :

Held, that the plaintiff intended to sue the person who realised the money from Court and admittedly his name was G and the fact that he impleaded originally a wrong G amounted to a misdescription and not the substitution of a new defendant within the meaning of S. 22, and hence the suit was not barred. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 147=162 Ind. Cas. 280.

——S. 22—Amendment.

Where a plaint is filed against a firm consisting of certain persons, it should be deemed filed as against them as existing persons although their names are not disclosed and if their names are subsequently disclosed, the amendment is merely for correcting a misdescription of the existing persons and the suit must be deemed to have been instituted when the plaint was presented and not when it was amended. A.I.R. 1935 Sind 225=159 Ind. Cas. 933.

——S. 22—Amendment.

Suit by agent against principal,first as against individual—Amendment of plaint as against firm :

Held, date of filing suit was the date of the amendment. (1932) 34 Bom.L.R. 1410.

——S. 22—Amendment in description.

Section 22 has been held to apply to cases where new plaintiff has been introduced and is not applicable to cases where there is only an amendment with regard to the description of the plaintiff. 113 Ind. Cas. 24=32 C.W.N. 396=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 485.

——S. 22—Major represented by mistake as minor and suing by next friend.

Where a suit was wrongly instituted by a person as the next friend of the plaintiff but was subsequently allowed to be amended as plaintiff had already attained majority.

Held that when the proper amendment was made the plaintiff was not introduced as a new party to the suit but was already on the record when the plaint was filed ; and consequntly the amendment describing him properly at a later stage did not amount to the addition of a new party within the meaning of S. 22. 100 Ind. Cas. 469=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 477.

——S. 22—Suit in personal capacity—Amended title as administrator.

Plaintiff brought a suit in his personal capacity against the defendant for a certain sum of money which he alleged that the defendant had realised from plaintiff's tenants but had retained in his own possession. The suit was brought within the period of limitation but after the expiration of that period the plaintiff prayed to be permitted to sue not only in his personal capacity but also as administrator to the estate of the deceased proprietor and the plaint was amended accordingly. The money belonged to the estate which was inherited by plaintiff and his two sisters and of which the plaintiff was the administrator.

Held that there was no change in 'person' and the suit was not barred by limitation. 43 I.A. 113 ; 7 C.W.N. 575 Foll. 79 Ind. Cas.403=51 Cal. 845=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 419.

——S. 22—Amendment—Power of Court—Scope of Change in the name of parties.

The Court has jurisdiction to add or substitute parties suo motu untrammelled by the provisions of the Limitation Act under, O. 1, R. 9 or O. 1, R. 10 sub-R. 2, but it is rightly and finally settled that the Court acting on its own initiative is no more entitled when making amendments to effect the substitution or addition of parties under these two orders to disregard the provisions of the Limitation Act than it would be entitled to do so if the amendment was made upon an application by one of the parties.

Where in the pleadings the defendants are sufficiently described and those gentlemen are before the Court and are parties to the suit an application to amend the plaint e.g. to substitute for defendants Joharmal Manmull the words " Joharmull Khemka and Manmull Khemka " would not be for an amendment by which a new party was added but it would be an amendment merely for the purpose of more clearly describing parties who are already before the Court. Such an application would not be within S. 22 of the Limitation Act. 75 Ind. Cas. 81=50 Cal. 549=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 74.

——S. 22—Amendment—Manager suing on behalf of temple—Temple's name added.

No substitution or addition of a new plaintiff is made by an amendment where only the description of the plaintiff is corrected. The plaint stated that Hiralal and Tulsiram were managers of the temple. The deed of gift of which the title in suit rested was filed. This deed mentioned the temple as the donee and Hiralal and Tulsiram as the managers.

Held that the suit was not filed by Hiralal and Tulsiram on their own behalf but on behalf of the temple and the omission to mention the temple in the heading was merely a mistake in the description of the plaintiff. No question of limitation arose when that description was corrected. 71 Ind. Cas. 39=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 96.

——S. 22—Amendment—Correction under O. 1, R. 10, C. P. Code—When to be nade.

Under S. 22 a mistake to be corrected under O. 1, R. 10, C. P. Code (1908), must be corrected before the limitation period of the suit expires. 33 Mad. 115 =7 M.L.T. 185=5 Ind. Cas. 931.

——S. 22—Amendment—Clerical mistake—Misdescription of deft.—Amendment.

Where in a suit for the correction of a certain entry in the Record of rights the deft. was described as Mr. P.J. Forbes instead of Miss P.J. Forbes.

Held that the suit was not barred by limitation inasmuch as the mistake in the name of the deft. was but a clerical one and the case was merely of misdescription since the party that was meant to be deft. in the suit was the person whose name had been recorded in the Record of rights. 32 Ind. Cas. 872 (Cal.).

——S. 22—Amendment—New plaintiff — Suit amended as on behalf of company.

Where a person sued in his own name but amended it after time as suing on behalf of the company.

Held that it was not one of adding a new plff. within S. 22 and the suit was therefore not barred. 30 M.L.J. 57=33 Ind. Cas. 357.

——S. 22—New plff.—Suit in private capacity—Amendment of suit as managing director—Effect.

When a plff. sued in his private capacity and later applied for amendment of the suit as managing director.

Held that the amendment did not amount to adding a new plff. under S. 22 but had merely the effect of altering the ground on which the plff. could recover the amount. (15 M. 417 : 32 C. 582 : 25 M.L.J. 452 Foll.) 16 M.L.T. 251=25 Ind. Cas. 945.

——S. 22—Amendment—Suit against a wrong deft. joining a right one after time.

Where the mistake in the name of the deft. is a clerical mistake the suit is within time and such amendment. is also within time. 32 Ind. Cas. 872 (Cal.).

——S. 22—Amendment of plaint—After time—Non-essential particular—Bar.

Amendment of a plaint with reference to a non-essential particular made after time without adding a new plff. or deft. is not affected by S. 22. 19 O.C. 221=4 O.L.J. 49=36 Ind. Cas. 941.

——S. 22—Amendment—Pleadings—Limitation.

Plffs. sued for recovery of moneys from a trust impleading as defts. all persons who could possibly have a claim to be the trustee. The Court directed an amendment of the plaint so as to raise an issue as to which of the defts. was the proper trustee. At the time of the amendment the period of limitation for instituting the suit had expired.

Held, that the amendment did not alter character of the suit and that the suit was not barred. 37 Cal. 229=39 I.A. 27=14 C.W.N. 261=7 A.L.J. 125=7 M.L.T. 63=11 C.L.J. 220=12 Bom.L.R. 257=20 M.L.J. 171=5 Ind. Cas. 404 (P.C.).

——S. 22—Amendment—Misjoinder of parties—Names of parties struck off.

Several plaintiffs joined to institute a suit within the prescribed period of limitation; on an objection being raised as to misjoinder of parties and of cause of action the plaint was amended by striking out the names of all the plaintiffs but one who elected to continue to carry on the suit so instituted within the time.

Held the suit was not barred. (1907) 12 C.W.N. 490=35 C. 495 (F.B.).

3. Applicability.

——S. 22—Applicability—Person suing on his own behalf—Plaint amended by which suit converted into representative action under O. 1, R. 8, C. P. Code.

An amendment which does not seek to bring in a new party but only varies the ground on which the relief was orginally sought or asks for a different or additional relief without changing the cause of action, does not bring the case within S. 22, Lim. Act. Similarly where a party is already on the record either as a plaintiff or as a defendant an amendment which merely alters the capacity in which he has been impleaded to one of a different character doest nct involve an addition of parties so as to attract the provisions of S. 22. Hence an amendment of the plaint by which the suit is converted into a representative action under O. 1, R. 8, C. P. Code does not involve addition of fresh parties so as to attract the provisions of S. 22, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 531=1943 M.W.N. 304=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 1=56 M.L.W. 583=I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 133=212 Ind. Cas. 533.

——S. 22—Applicability.

——S. 22—Applicability—Suit for recovery against legal representative out of estate of deceased in his hands is one against estate and not against representative as individual.

Where in such a suit, one legal representative is impleaded first and then another one, the estate which is the object of the suit is represented throughout and there is no change of defendants in the real sense of the word and S. 22, Lim. Act, does not apply. A.I.R. 1914 Mad. 609=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 580=53 M.L.W. 501=1941 M.W.N. 383=200 Ind. Cas. 725.

——S. 22—Applicability.

Neither Art. 11 nor section 22 is applicable to a transferee from a successful objector who was not a party to the objection proceedings under O. 21, R. 58, C. P. Code. A.I.R. 1940 Lab. 497=42 P.L.R. 601=192 Ind. Cas. 663.

——S. 22—Applicability.

One of co-plaintiffs dying pendente lite. Plaintiff alone bringing suit on mortgage in spite of the fact that the right devolved on her jointly with sister—Death of sister during pendency of suit—Plaintiff is entitled to decree—Section 22 has no application—No new plaintiff or defendant is being substituted—Plaintiff's title to the whole of the mortgage amount even if incomplete at the time of suit is completed by the rule of survivorship. A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 412=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 240=(1940) M.W.N. 429=190 Ind. Cas. 657.

——S. 22—Applicability.

Section 22, by operation of S. 29 (2), applies to applications under S. 26-F, Beng. Ten. Act. 42 C.W.N. 316=A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 324=177 Ind. Cas. 798.

——S. 22—Applicability.

——S. 22—Applicability The proceedings under S. 68f Pro. Insol. Act, are more akin to an appeal than to a suit and the provisions of S. 22 have no bearing on the question. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 611=168 Ind. Cas. 389

——S. 22—Applicability and scope.

Section 22 has no application to a case under S. 26-F (4) (a), Beng. Ten. Act. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 388=40 C.W.N. 506=166 Ind. Cas. 492.

——S. 22 (2)—Applicability and scope—Benefi. under, when can be availed of.

Section 22 (2) can be availed of only in cases where the plaintiff and the defendant have a joint cause of action. 41 M.L.W. 177=(1935) M.W.N. 210=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 240=69 M.L.J. 30=156 Ind. Cas. 455.

——S. 22—Applicability.

A right plaintiff under O. 1, R. 10, C. P. Code can be substituted in place of the wrong one only if his right to sue was not barred by S. 22. 36 Bom.L.R. 814=A.I.R. 1934 Bom. 385=58 532=153Ind. Cas. 800.

——S. 22—Applicability—Application to file award

Where an award was made in favour of several persons and one of them made an application to file it impleading the others as respondents and one of the respondents filed an application after the expiry of the period of limitation that his name may be transferred to the army of applicants :

Held, that the principle of S. 22 was applicable and there was no bar to the transposition of the respondent as an applicant. (1931) A.L.J. 863=A.I.R. 1931 All. 725=133 Ind. Cas. 410.

——S. 22—Applicability—Defendant added on his own application after time.

Where in a suit under S. 9, Specific Relief Act, a person is added one year after the date of the suit as defendant on his own application and a decree is passed against him, he cannot avoid the decree by taking advantage of S. 22, Limitation Act. 28 Bom. 11, Rel. on. 112 Ind. Cas. 786=30 Bom.L.R. 1405=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 526.

——S. 22—Applicability—Application under O. 9, R. 13, C. P. Code.

A "suit" under S. 2 (10) does not include "application" and S. 22 of the Limitation Act does not apply to an application made under O. 9, R. 13 of the Code.

62 Ind. Cas. 536=1922 P.H.C.C. 75=6 P.L.J. 463=2 P.L.T. 771=A.I.R. 1923 Pat. 88.

——S. 22—Applicability—Order 1, R. 10, C. P. Code—Appeals.

Section 22 of the Limitation Act does not prescribe any period of limitation for the joinder of a party to a suit under S. 32, C. P. Code (1882), O. 1, R. 10 or to an appeal under S. 559 of the old Code, (O. 41, R. 20) and there is nothing to prevent such a joinder in either a suit or appeal even after it is barred by time. Section 22 of the Limitation Act applies to appeals as much as to suits in principle. But a suit in which a defendant is joined, after the period of the limitation has expired, must necessarily be dismissed as against him. In an appeal, however, there may be possibly reasons justifying its admission after time under S. 5 of the Limitation Act. 66 Ind. Cas. 217=5 N.L.J. 192=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 213.

——S. 22—Applicability.

Section 22 of the Limitation Act, does not apply to proceedings in execution. 62 Ind. Cas. 30=2 P.L.T. 619=6 P.L.J. 358=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 180.

——S. 22—Applicability—Execution proceedings.

S. 22 applies only to suits and not to execution proceedings. 10 C.L.J. 396=14 C.W.N. 752=3 Ind. Cas. 324.

——S. 22—Applicability—Pro forma defts. made plff.s

S. 22 of the Limitation Act does not apply to cases where pro forma defts. are made plffs. 137 P.W.R. 1912 =84 P.R. 1912=14 Ind. Cas. 566.

——S. 22—Applicability—Application to substitute legal representative.

S. 22 of the Limitation Act refers to suits and not to applications for the substitution of a legal representative. 15 N.L.R. 21=49 Ind. Cas. 34.

——S. 22—Applicability to execution proceedings—No.

S. 22 applies only to suits and does not govern execution proceedings. (1909) 10 C.L.J. 396=14 C.W.N. 752=3 Ind. Cas. 324.

——S. 22—Applicability—Defendant, addition of.

Per Curiam:—S. 22 applies equally to the addition or substitution of the defendant after the expiry of the period of limitation. (1909) 9 C.L.J. 523=36 C. 675=1 Ind. Cas. 626.

4. Effect of subsequent addition.

——S. 22—Effect of subsequent addition—O. 1, R. 10, C. P. Code.

A Court acting under O. 1, R. 10 is bound by the provisions of S. 22, Limitation Act, and it is immaterial whether the Court acts suo motu or upon the application of a party. 35 Cal. 519, Foll. 11 Lah. 688=126 Ind. Cas. 78=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 747.

——S. 22—Effect of subsequent addition.

Where an application is made to join certain persons as parties, they become parties to the suit from the time when the application is presented and not when the Court passed its order joining them as parties. 17 Bom. 29; A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 468, Foll. A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 487, Not foll. 128 Ind. Cas. 675=A.I.R. 1930 Sind 259.

——S. 22—Effect of subsequent addition.

When parties are added by the Court after the institution of the suit under R. 10 (2), C. P. Code. S. 22 Limitation Act, provides that the date when they are added is to be deemed to be the date of the institution of suit so far as they are concerned for purposes of limitation and the rights which they may have acquired under the Limitation Act are therefore sufficiently safeguarded 107 Ind. Cas. 237=27 M.L.W. 1=1928 M.W.N. 20=4 O.W.N. 1231=47 C.L.J. 136=32 C.W.N. 281=30 Bom.L.R. 220=6 Rang. 29=26 A.L.J. 371=A.I.R. 1927 P.C. 252=54 M.L.J. 88 (P.C.).

——S. 22—Effect of subsequent addition.

When a party is added on application, the addition must be deemed to have effect from the date of the application. 17 Bom. 29, Foll. A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 487, Diss. from. 100 Ind. Cas. 680=50 Mad. 372=25 M.L.W. 477=38 M.L.T. 126=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 468=52 M.L.J. 199.

——S. 22—Effect of subsequent addition.

If a party is added to a pending suit after the lapse of the period of limitation fixed for the suit the bar of limitation would not be saved. 40 M.L.J. 532, Foll. 86 Ind. Cas. 961=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 917.

——S. 22—Effect of subsequent addition.

In the case of a person already on record, on the day on which the suit is filed, limitation ceases to run; but in the case of a person newely added as a party to a pending suit the suit shall as regards him be deemed to have been instituted, only when he is so added and not when an application to bring him on record is made. 86 Ind. Cas. 187=21 M.L.W. 125=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 487.

5. Interpretation.

——S. 22—Interpretation—" When he was so made a party ", meaning of.

A person is made a party within the meaning of S. 22, on the day the application is made to bring him on the record and not on the day when the Court makes the order to bring him on the record. 1944 N.L.J. 510=I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 768=A.I.R. 1945 Nag. 57.

6. Joint Hindu family.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family.

Plaintiffs, members of Hindu joint family doing business describing themselves in plaint by their names with addition of word ' firm '—Deletion of word ' firm ' by amendment after limitation does not bar suit. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 40=5 B.R. 284=179 Ind. Cas. 761.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family.

Pro-note in favour of family—Suit by some members—Impleading of other members as defendants after limitation :

Held, that such joinder does not render his suit liable to dismissal by reason of S. 22 Lim. Act, as against the original or real defendants, as that section does not apply where there is no community of interest between the two sets of defendants and the fresh parties are merely joined for the purpose of safeguarding the orginal defendant. This principle fully applies even if the plaintiff is not the karta of the joint family. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 193 =39 P.L.R. 408=172 Ind. Cas. 596.

——S.22—Hindu joint family—Suit against manager—Addition of other members.

If parties are effectively represented through those whose action binds them so that a decree passed against them is binding on such parties, a specific mention of the names of such parties subsequently made in the title of the suit cannot be regarded as addition of a new defendant for the purposes of limitation. Where the members of joint Hindu family are subsequently impleaded as parties to a suit in which they were effectively represented by the manager, they cannot be deemed to be new defendants for the purposes of S. 22. (1931) A.L.J. 421=A.I.R. 1931 All. 585=135 Ind. Cas. 248.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Substitution of the names of co-parceners.

Section 22 refers to cases where a new defendant is substituted or added. The substitution of the names of the co-parceners for what is admittedly a joint family business is no more than the correction of a mis-description and not an addition of parties and so the section is not applicable . 90 Ind. Cas. 685=27 Bom.L.R. 1122=A.I.R. 1925 Bom. 527.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Sons impleaded too late—Effect.

Where a mortgage was executed by the father of a Hindu joint family and a suit by the mortgagee for possession was orginally brought against the father alone and his sons were subsequently brought on the record as defendants at their own instance on the allegation of their being joint with the father, and where at the time that the sons were brought on the record, the suit was barred as against them.

Held, that the entire suit could not be dismissed and that even if the suit be considered to be barred against the sons, relief could be granted to the plaintiff against the joint family property with only the father, the manager of the family, as sole defendant to the suit. 33 All. 272=35 Mad. 685 and 34 All. 459, Foll. 87 Ind Cas. 180=12 O.L.J. 235=2 O.W.N. 225=28 O.C. 393=A.I.R. 1925 Oudh 440.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Adult members deemed to represent family.

Where all the adult members of a joint Hindu family appear on the record as defendants it is a legitimate presumption that they are acting as managers on behalf of themselvrs and of the minor members though it is not formally stated in the plaint that the defendants were being sued as managers and therefore the addition of minor members defendants, after limitation does not justify dismissal of suit. 34 All. 549 (F.B.), Foll. 79 Ind. Cas. 1001=46 All. 709=22 A.L.J. 602=5 L.R.A. Civ. 480=A.I.R. 1924 All. 908.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Co-parcener added as co-plff.

The addition of a co-parcener as a co-plaintiff after the period of limitation against him in a suit for recovery of a debt due to ja joint family by other members will not make the suit barred by S. 22 as against the others also. 24 P.W.R. 1909=20 P.R. 1909=1 Ind. Cas. 455.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Suit by manager of joint family—Other members added after time—Effect—Formal parties.

Where in a suit by the manager of a joint Hndu family junior members are added as parties after expiry of the period of limitation they are merely formal parties and the suit is not barred. 33 All. 272=38 I.A. 45=15 C.W.N. 321=8 A.L.J. 256=9 M.L.T. 343=13 C.L.J. 345=21 M.L.J. 378=13 Bom.L.R. 359=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 395=9 Ind. Cas. 739 (P.C.).

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Suit by manager of a Joint Hindu family—One member joined after limitation period—Effect.

Where a suit for rent was filed by the manager of a joint Hindu family within time, but after the period of limitation was over, one of the members was allowed to be joined as co-plaintiff. The addition of the new plaintiff would not affect the right of the original plaintiff to continue the suit and the claim is not barred by reason merely of the said addition. 19 C.L.J. 5=22 Ind. Cas. 798.

——S. 22—Hindu father defendant duying—Sons brought on record—Whether the suit should be considered to have been instituted against the sons. See LIMITATION ACT, ART. 61. 29 A. 627=1907 A.W.N. 214=4 A.L.J. 501.

——S. 22—Joint Hindu family—Joinder of minor plaintiff, member of Hindu joint family.

The joinder after the period of limitation of a minor member of the joint Hindu family of the plaintiff in a suit on a mortgage is not fatal to the suit. (1906) 33 C. 1079.

7. Necessary parties.

——S. 22—Necessary and proper party.

A distinction must be drawn between a case where a necessary party has been added after the period of limitation and the case where a proper party has been added after the said period of limitation. The suit would not be barred in the latter case but it would be barred in the former :

Held, on facts that it was held in the previous suit brought by the appellant against the present plaintiff (subsequent mortgage) and the mortgagor that the mortgage deed set up by the appellant in that suit was not genuine. The suit was decreed against the present plaintiff. The appellant could not claim to be a mortgagee, subsequent or prior against the present plaintiff. His suit was decreed against the purchaser of the property only and he could claim his mortgagee rights against him only. The present plaintiff could very well ignore him in a suit and the plaintiff was quite justified in one making the appellant a party to the suit. Even if the appellant were considered to be in the position of a puisne mortgagee as against the present plaintiff, he was only a proper party and the suit could not, in view of the provisions of O. 34, r. 9, C.P. Code, be dismissed by reason of his non-joinder and that the appellant having thrust himself into the case, his plea of limitation could not be allowed. 1942 O.W.N. 766=1942 A.W.R. (C.C.) 355=A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 164=18 Luck. 601=204 Ind. Cas. 444.

——S. 22—Necessary party.

Where the necessary parties have been brought on the record within one year of the suiit under O.21, R. 63, C.P. Code the alienee pendente lite cannot advance the plea of limitation as S. 22 (2) expressly excludes the operation of Cl. (1) in such cases. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 138=17 Pat. 588=20 P.L.T. 76=5 B.R. 514=180 Ind. Cas. 983.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Addition after limitation.

Where amendment of the plaint has been ordered, the amendment will not relate back to the date of the original plaint in cases where to do so would be to deprive any defendants of a right under the Limitation Act, which had accrued to them owing to the default of the plaintiff.

In a suit under O. 21, R. 63, C.P. Code, the decree-holder failed to implead to the judgment-debtors as parties and in appeal to the High Court the suit was remanded for disposal in accordance with law, that is to say, by adding the judgment-debtors as defendants in the suit by obtaining the permission of the Court to bring the suit and by following the provisions, of O. 1, R. 8, C.P. Code. At the time they were joined as parties, limitation for suit against them had expired and they objected to their being impleaded :

Held, that the order of the High Court only meant that the suit could not be effective unless the judgment-debtors were made parties, and if the suit could no be effective without them, as they were not made parties within limitation, the suit failed. A.I.R. 1937 Rang 124=170 Ind. Cas. 105.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Co-sharer's suit for rent—Joining others after time.

One of the co-sharers cannot sue to recover the arrears of the whole rent even though the right to recover it is conceded to him by the other cosharers. But if one co-sharer alone sues to recover the whole rent and joins the other co-sharers after period of limitation prescribed for a suit to recover the arrears of rent, though the suit is bad at its inception, it becomes absolutely flawless on other co-sharers being joined as parties so far as the plaintiff's right to recover his own share of rent is concerned and he is entitled to recover his share of rent. 123 Ind. Cas. 828=A.I.R. 1930 All. 209.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Suit against trustee personally—Idol made party after time—Section applies.

A brought a suit for possession of certain property on allegation that all rights in the property had been transferred to him by reversioner B who got the property after the death of a widow, and that C who was in possession of the property had no title. C contended that he was in possession of the property only on behalf of an idol S. in whose favour the widow has executed a deed of gift and that S was a necessary party to the suit. A made an application asking C to be described as the representative of S and for adding S as a defendant.

Held, that originally the claim being against C personally the proposed change was obviously intended to change the character of the suit by introducing a new case and it could not be said that the amendment was intended to correct a misdescription and that it did not amount to introduction of new party within the meaning of S. 22. S was a necessary party and he being impleaded after 12 years the suit was barred and A could not also get any relief against C personally as C was in possession only on behalf of S. 123 Ind. Cas. 894=6 O.W.N. 1036=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 43.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Where title of an idol is challenged.

A shebait has a right of suit in matters arising out of the possession and management of the dedicated property. But a case, where the intrinsic title of the idol is challenged, stands on a different footing. In cases where the crucial question is about the ownership, the idol is a necessary party. 123 Ind. Cas. 894=6 O.W.N. 1036=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 43.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Addition of, after time.

If a necessary party is joined as plaintiff or defendant after time for the suit has run out, the entire suit must be dismissed. 100 Ind. Cas. 859=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 33.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Impleading sub-mortgagee after time.

Where a sub-mortgage, which was sinple, was effected within 60 years on the property sought to be redeemed but the simple mortgagee got a decree and bought the property in auction after 60 years had elapsed, when he was impleaded as defendant in the suit, to redeem the original mortgagee.

Held, that the suit was barred as against him as acquisition of interest by him dated back to the date of simple mortgage. 85 Ind. Cas. 330=22 A.L.J. 1018=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 718=A.I.R. 1925 All. 174.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Pre-emption suit.

The suit was for pre-emption. The vendee were several persons, T.B., D.J., etc. The plaintiff in his plaint joined as vendee defendants, "T. son of B" D,J., etc, B was not joined. The omission was due to an error in the copy of sale deed supplied to the plaintiff.

Held, that there was not a mere misdescription of parties, and B could not be joined after the expiry of limitation and that consequently, the whole suit should fail. 88 Ind. Cas. 555=7 L.L.J. 76=26 P.L.R. 447=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 343.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Effect of addition.

Where a Court orders a necessary party to be added the whole suit shall be deemed to have been instituted when the party is added. 14 All. 524, Foll. 79 Ind. Cas. 914=17 S.L.R. 324=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 181.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Pre-emption suit.

Where in a pre-emption suit one of the vendees was not included as defendant till after the expiration of the limitation, due to the mistake of the minor plaintiff's next friend.

Held, that though the plaintiff was a minor the suit should be dismissed. 7 Ind. Cs. 364=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 23.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Benami purchase.

Where in a proceeding under R. 90 of O. 21, C.P. Code, the ostensible purchaser was made a party within limitation but the real purchaser was joined as a party to the application after thirty days but the applicant had no means of knowing that the ostensible purchaser was not the real purchaser.

Held, that the addition of party after the prescribed period, does not entail the dismissal of the application as against the newly added real purchaser. 76 Ind. Cas. 507=A.I.R. 1923 All. 462.

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Suit by executor—Effect of adding co-executor after time.

Co-executor of a will is a necessary party to a suit by another executor for the recovery of devised properties and where such a co-executor is added as a defendant he being unwilling to be plaintiff after the limitation period the whole suit should be held to be barred, though it was originally instituted within the prescribed period. 43 I.A. 603 (P,C.), Foll.; 25 M.L. J. 452 and 9 L.W. 377, Diss. from. 63 Ind. Cas. 104=13 M.L.W. 392=1921 M.W.N. 248=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 528=40 M.L.J. 532.

——S. 22 (1)—Necessary party—Addition after time—Effect.

If a necessary party without whose presence on then record the suit cannot be adjudicated upon has been omitted and is added after the period of limitation the suit is barred against all the defendants. 57 Ind. Cas. 52 (Lah.).

——S. 22—Necessary party—Alienee pendente lite.

An alienee pendente lite is not a necessary party to the suit and cannot, if made party after the period of limitation, advance the plea under S. 22 of the Limitation Act. 33 Mad. 535=26 M.L.J. 449=25 Ind. Cas. 11.

——S. 22—Necessary party—Added after limitation—Effect.

Where a necessary party is added after limitation the suit is barred. 33 Mad. 246=20 M.L.J. 79=7 M.L.T. 67=4 Ind. Cas. 392.

——S. 22—Necessary party—Bar of limitation—C. P. Code, O. 1, R. 9.

If a plaintiff sues to recover the joint property of two or more persons, and at the time of trial omits to join all proper and necessary parties, and if the rights of those who ought to be added as parties, to the suit are barred by limitation, the suit must be dismissed for want of proper or defective joinder of parties. The principle applies to cases where several person jointly seek to recover the assets of a deceased person. 18 C.W.N. 464; Appr. O. 1, R. 9 only applies to case where relief can be given if the necessary parties are joined and the application is within time, but not to cases where the parties to be joined, are barred in the assertion of their rights. In that case though they may be joined the suit must be dismissed. 36 Ind. Cas. 77 (Pat.).

——S. 22—Necessary parties—Joinder of plaintiffs after limitation period.

When the co-owner landlords were not unwilling to join as co-plaintiffs but did so with the utmost readiness as soon as objection was taken by the tenants-defendants they should have been joined as plaintiffs in the first instance, and if they are brought on the record after the expiry of the date of the limitation, their claim is barred by limitation and the entire claim is barred as the claim was joint and indivisible. (1907) 7 C.L.J. 251.

8 Partnership.

——S. 22—Partnership—Names of proper representatives.

When a suit as originally laid is against the firm the description of the proper representative of that firm can always be corrected and such correction does not amount to either substitution or addition of a new party to the suit. No question of limitation under S. 22 arises in such a case. 109 Ind. Cas. 785=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 319.

——S. 22—Partnership—Partner served after time.

When a suit is instituted against a firm in its name, whether the firm consists of members of a joint family or otherwise and one of the partners is afterwards served with the summons of the suit under O. 50, R. 3, C.P. Code, the original date of institution is to be taken even against the partner who is subsequently served though the firm has been dissolved to the plaintiff's knowledge before the institution of the suit. 105 Ind. Cas. 854=23 S.L.R. 54=A.I.R. 1928 Sind 57.

——S. 22—Partnership—Partner substituted after time.

Suit against firm of "Manmal Chandmal'—But defendant described as "Hindumal as owner and Manager of shop Manmal Chandmal"—Chandumal having died before suit, his heirs were brought on record but after the period of limitation.

Held, that though not in form, but in substance, the plaintiff sued the firm of 'Manmal Chandmall'. If he had simply described the defendant as "the firm of Manmal Chandmal" without mentioning the names of the owners or partners of the firm, the description would have been sufficient, having regard to the provisions of O. 30 of the C.P. Code. In that view the further description of the defendant Chandmal Hindumal as "the Manager and owner of the firm" may be treated as a mere surplusage. Therefore the suit was not barred. 77 Ind. Cas. 1035=25 Bom.L.R. 1081=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 155.

——S. 22—Partnership—New partnership superseding old.

Where one partnership was the real contracting party but a new partnership with some of the partners of the old firm filed a suit,

Held, that amendment to bring on record the real plaintiffs cannot be taken to date back to the time when the suit was originally instituted. The amendment can only relate to the date on which the application for substitution was made and not to the date when the plaint was filed. 90 C.W.N. 833, Foll. 76 Ind. Cas. 119=17 S.L.R. 263=A.I.R. 1924 Sind 47.

——S. 22—Partnership—New partnership superseding old.

If a firm, newly constituted by the retirement of one partner and joining in of another, brings a suit on a contract entered into by the old firm, it cannot, after the expiration of the period of limitation for a suit on the contract, substitute the names of the partners of the old firm under S. 22 (2). 65 Ind. Cas. 26=15 S.L.R. 152=A.I.R. 1922 Sind. 13.

9 Proper but not necessary party.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary parties—New plaintiff or defendant.

As limitation merely bars the remedy by a suit, the only parties in a suit between whom a question of limitation can possibly arise are those who seek relief and those against whom it is necessary to seek relief. Therefore, when a party is brought on the record out of time, the question of limitation does not arise when there is no relief claimed against that party. 1939 Pat. 138=5 B.R. 514=17 Pat. 588=20 P.L.T. 76=180 Ind. Cas. 983.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party.

Promissory note by deceased—Suit against widow as legal representative—Widow pleading that daughter and grandson were also interested in estate according to will of deceased—Daughter and grandson made parties after suit had become barred:

Held, estate was sufficiently represented at title of suit and the added parties were bound by decree. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 737=159 Ind. Cas. 129.

——S. 22—Proper party.

Proper but not necessary party impleaded to ensure against further litigation—Section 22 does not apply. A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 187=38 C.W.N. 409=59 C.L.J. 295=151 Ind. Cas. 1076.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary.

Where a party is added to the suit not in order to validate the suit but to settle the dispute finally, the original defendants cannot claim limitation from the date the new party is added to the suit. A.I.R. 1930 All. 436=128 Ind. Cas. 7.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party.

Section 22 does apply to a case even where a person is not a necessary party but only a proper party to a suit and such a person cannot be added as a party after the expiry of the period of limitation provided for by that section. 36 Cal. 675, Foll.; 116 Ind. Cas. 726=49 C.L.J. 16=33 C.W.N. 248=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 188.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party—Failure to add in time—No bar.

A and B executed a bond in favour of two brothers X and Y members of a joint Hindu family. X sued A and B for the recovery of the amount due on the bond alleging that in a family partition the bond fell to his share. Y was not originally made a party to the suit but on defendant's objection Y was impleaded after expiry of the period of limitation. The lower Court dismissed the suit on the ground that it was barred by limitation as Y was impleaded as a party more than three years after the execution of the bond.

Held, that when Y admitted that the bond fell to X's share and that he had nothing to do with it, the mere fact that he was impleaded after the expiry of three years did not in any way affect the maintainability of the suit and that the claim was not barred. 115 Ind. Cas. 74=30 P.L.R. 124=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 505.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party.

When a party is brought on the record out of time, the question of limitation does not arise when there is no relief claimed against that party. 6 C.L.J. 558, Foll. 104 Ind. Cas. 576=46 C.L.J. 118=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 794.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party.

Joinder after limitation of proper but not necessary parties is not fatal. 22 Bom. 672 and 28 Bom. 11, Appr. 94 Ind. Cas. 575=27 Bom.L.R. 1168=A.I.R. 1925 Bom. 547.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party—Addition of—Section does not apply.

Where the holder of a bond was not impleaded by the plaintiff assignee until the expiry of the period of the limitation but the assignee admitted that he had authorised her agent to assignate bond for consideration.

Held, S. 22 of the Indian Limitation Act does not lay down that a joinder after the period of limitation shall in all cases necessarily involve a dismissal of the suit. If the presence of a party added after the prescribed period is not necessary to enable the Court to award such relief as may be given in the suit framed by the plaintiff and he is joined ex majore cautela the suit is not barred merely because the limitation period had expired at the time when he was impleaded. 75 Ind. Cas. 781=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 439.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party.

There may be circumstances in which addition of parties subsequently brought on record may not be essential and may be merely for the protection of the defendant; where it is not essential the suit is not barred. 65 Ind. Cas. 367=26 C.W.N. 488=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 149.

——S. 22—Proper but not necessary party—Redemption suit—Persons interested in the equity of redemption.

In a redemption suit filed within time if some persons interested in the equity of redemption, and so necessary parties, are sought to be impleaded after the expiry of limitation, S. 22 does not warrant the dismissal of the suit as time-barred.

The persons so sought to be impleaded are merely necessary for the record in order to satisfy the provisions of O. 34, R. 1. It is within the discretion of the Court under O. 1, R. 10, sub-R. (2) to make these parties co-defendants, and then to consider after they have been made co-defendants what would be the legal result of such addition.

Per Fawett, J.—There is no provision in either the C.P. Code or the Indian Limitation Act which says that a party cannot be added after his right of suit or liability to be sued (as the case may be) is barred by the provisions of the Limitation Act. 28 Bom. 11, Appl. 61 Ind. Cas. 590=45 Bom. 1009=23 Bom.L.R. 405=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 152.

10 Scope and effect.

See also C. P. CODE, O. 1, R. 10.

S. 22 (1)—Scope and effect of—Suit to enforce mortgage by one of several mortgages—Other mortgagees impleaded as parties after expiry of period of Limitation for suit—Effect—Right to decree. See MORTGAGE—MORTGAGE SUIT. 50 Bom.L.R. 30=A.I.R. 1948 Bom. 211 (F.B.).

——S. 22—Scope.

Section 22 has not effected any change in the law. It only states what was always the law, viz., that the act of a partner, in order to bind the firm, should be done on behalf of the firm. But it is not necessary that it should also purport to be so done. (1945) 1 M.L.J. 279=58 M.L.W. 236=1945 M.W.N. 314=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 263.

——S. 22—Scope.

——S. 22 (2)—Scope and object of.

Section 22 (2), provides for cases of this nature and by the enactment of this section, the Legislature has recognised that if a person is a party to a suit, his change of position will not affect limitation and it was to meet cases like these that it has been provided that if a party already on the record is transferred from the category of the defendant to that of the plaintiff or vice versa, provisions of Cl. (1) will not apply. A.I.R. 1932 Pat. 346=11 Pat. 616=140 Ind. Cas. 572.

——S. 22—Scope of—Devolution of interest—C. P. Code, O. 22, R. 10.

Section 22 (1) of the Limitation Act (corresponding to the Straits Ordinance) contemplates cases in which a suit is defective by reason of the right persons not having been made parties, but not cases in which the suit was originally properly instituted but has become defective owing to a devolution of interest. In the latter case an order to carry on proceedings should be made. 20 C.W.N. 833=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 455=18 Bom.L.R. 642=43 I.A. 113=(1916) 1 A.C. 603=35 Ind. Cas. 323 (P.C.).

——S. 22—Scope—Whether controls S. 559, C. P Code (O.C.).

There is nothing in the Limitation Act which controls the power of an appellate court in adding as party respondents persons who were parties in the original court, but who were not made parties when the appeal was filed, whether the appellate court adds them suo motu or on application of parties. (1905) 33 C. 329.

——S. 22—Scope of—Addition of party after limitation period—C. P. Code, O. 1, R. 10 (1).

No amendment can be made of the plaint by the addition of a rightful party as plaintiff when the suit, if brought even on the date on which the application for amendment was made, will be barred. (1909) 33 M. 115=7 M.L.T. 185=5 Ind. Cas. 931.

11 Substitution of parties.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties.

Suit against Chairman of Commissioners intended against corporation—Amendment impleading Commissioners themselves—It relates back to the date of the suit and S. 22 does not apply, as it does not amount to addition of new parties. 70 C.L.J. 583=A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 153=44 C.W.N. 277=187 Ind. Cas. 605.

——S. 22 (1)—Substitution.

Suit by A on pro-note executed by C in favour of B—Subsequently A disclaiming interest in suit and B claiming substitution in his place—Substitution allowed when claim was barred by time—Held, S. 22 (1) applied and suit was time-barred. A.I.R. 1940 Nag. 274=1940 N.L.J. 333=190 Ind. Cas. 430.

——S. 22—Substitution of party—Misdescription and substitution—Amendment seeking to substitute one legal entity for another.

The essential difference between an alteration that comes under the head of mere misdescription and an alteration that comes under the head of substitution is that in the case of a misdescription, there is the same person or legal entity throughout; merely the name of the person is to be altered; but when one person, be it a legal or other person, is to be substituted for another, then the alteration cannot fairly come under the head of misdescription. It is a case of substitution, and S. 22, applies. Hence an amendment of plaint seeking to substitute one legal entity for another after the period of limitation has passed cannot be allowed. A.I.R. 1939 Sind 172=I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 275=182 Ind. Cas. 881.

——S. 22—Substitution.

Suit on bond in favour of deceased by his father as heir—Subsequent application for substitution of minor son of deceased after limitation:

Held, that the suit is barred. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 369=39 P.L.R. 585=173 Ind. Cas. 357.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Insolvency pendente lite.

Where, after the institution of the suit the defendant is adjudicated insolvent and the Receiver is brought on record he is brought in, not because he is an essential party to the suit in the sense that his absence is fatal to the suit and if he is impleaded at a later date the suit will be regarded as filed on that date, but because of the provisions of S. 29 of the Insolvency Act.

There is a devolution of interest on the Receiver who is merely a continuation of the original defendants. Consequently there is no rule of limitation governing the application to bring in the Official Receiver as a party. 102 Ind. Cas. 444=1927 M.W.N. 245=26 M.L.W. 171=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 693=51 M.L.J. 142.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Party discharged and reinstated.

Where the defendants were first made defendants as sons and legal representatives of the deceased tort-feasor but were discharged and the estate of the deceased was made defendant and the first defendants were again reinstated as defendants.

Held, the suit must be deemed to be filed as on the date of reinstatement. 96 Ind. Cas. 887=1926 M.W.N. 592=31 C.W.N. 174=A.I.R. 1926 P.C. 88 (P.C.).

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Suit after Insolvency—Substitution of Official Assignee.

When a person is adjudicated as insolvent the whole of his property passes to the Official Assignee by virtue of the vesting order passed under the Presidency Towns Insolvency Act. Consequently nothing is left vesting in the insolvent which would give him a cause of action. So a suit by an insolvent in his own name, after his adjudication cannot be maintained and the substituting the name of the Official Assignee later on is adding a new plaintiff within Limitation Act, S. 22. 95 Ind. Cas. 538=28 Bom.L.R. 554=A.I.R. 1926 Bom. 366.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Misdescription.

Where the suit was brought against the defendant described as "Agent, E.I. Railway", the Railway Company contested the suit considering itself to be the party sued; no specific ground was taken that the proper party had not been sued, Held, that it was a case of misdescription which could be rectified by a formal amendment. 94 Ind. Cas. 762=30 C.W.N. 209=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 612.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Suit against Company—Defendant described as agent.

When there are two known persons in existence and the plaintiff brings the suit against one of them and afterwards applies to have the other brought on the record as a defendant on the ground that he all along intended to sue the other and that in substance he sued the other and no question of representation arises in the case, the case is not one of misdescription.

Where in a suit against a Railway Company the plaint described the defendant as the "Agent" of the Railway Company and where subsequently the plaintiff sought to amend the plaint by bringing the company on record.

Held, that it was not a case of misdescription. But if the amendment was allowed it would have the effect of adding a new party to the suit, and S. 22 of the Limitation Act would apply. 90 Ind. Cas. 426=52 Cal. 783=29 C.W.N. 614=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 716.

——S. 22 (2)—Substitution of parties—Pro forma defendant made plaintiff—Limitation.

A person originally impleaded as a pro forma defendant but subsequently made a plaintiff is not a new party to whom the provisions of S. 22 of the Limitation Act apply. 19 C.W.N. 1269=21 C.L.J. 611=30 Ind. Cas. 34.

——S. 22 (1)—Substitution of parties—Amendments—Effect of.

Amendments made in the plaint by the leave of the Judge cannot amount to an addition or substitution of party within S. 22 of the Limitation Act. 19 C.W.N. 1193=28 Ind. Cas. 818.

——S. 22 (2)—Substitution of parties—Pro forma defendant made plaintiff—Obiter.

The transfer of the name of a pro forma defendant to the category of the plaintiff cannot rightly be treated as the addition of a new plaintiffs within S. 22. 38 Cal. 342=13 C.L.J. 3=8 Ind. Cas. 837.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—After time—Effect.

A substitution of partics after period of limitation cannot save the suit from the bar of limitation. 5 Ind. Cas. 115 (Cal.).

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Pro forma defendant made plaintiff.

A pro forma defendant subsequently made a co-plaintiff is not a "new plaintiff" within S. 22 of the Act, and the suit will not be barred even if he be transferred to the category of plaintiff after the period of limitation. 35 Cal. 1065=8 C.L.J. 286=13 C.W.N. 186=4 Ind. Cas. 369.

——S. 22 (2)—Substitution of parties—defendant made plaintiff.

S. 22 of the Limitation Act does not apply when a defendant is made a plaintiff. 28 M.L.J. 147=(1915) M.W.N. 143=28 Ind. Cas. 45.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Rectification of original improper representation.

When the cestuique trust is substantialy on the record from the beginning, the rectification of the original improper representation by inserting the name of a proper representative cannot be treated as the addition of new parties to come under S. 22 of the Limitation Act. 25 M.L.J. 452=14 M.L.T. 437=21 Ind. Cas. 421.

——S. 22—Substitution as plaintiff of assignee in place of assignor C. P. Code (O.C.), S. 372. (1907) 11 C.W.N. 521=5 C.L.J. 486=34 Cal. 612 (F.B.).

——S. 22—Substitution after claim barred—'New plaintiff'—C. P. Code, S. 372.

A instituted a suit on the last day of limitation. On subsequent date B's name was substituted in place of A's upon an application of B to which A consented, stating that A had sold his interest to B. Later on, A and B both representing that the alleged sale was a fictitious transaction, A's name was restored and B's struck out. Both the lower courts found that B was not benamidar of A.

Held, that the second substitution order could not have been made under S. 372 of the Civil Procedure Code (1882) and at its date B was a 'new plaintiff' within the meaning of S. 22 of the Limitation Act. The suit was therefore, barred. (1905) 9 C.W.N. 883.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties—Suit by a contractor against Executive Engineer—Addition of Secretary of State as party after period of limitation—Substitution or addition of parties.

In a suit to recover the price of work done to the Government where a servant of the Government was originally made the defendant and the Secretary of State was subsequently added as a defendant:

Held, that the addition was not a rectification or substitution of the original defendant, and for the purposes of limitation against the Secretary of State, the suit should be considered to have been instituted on the date when he was made a party. (1901) 6 C.W.N. 218.

——S. 22—Substitution of parties C.P. Code, (O.C.) S. 437—Suit brought by executor Beneficiaries' names subsequently added.

Where a suit for recovery of possession was brought by an executor on the 14th September, 1898, and the names of the beneficiaries who took possession of the estate during the pendency of the suit were substituted as plaintiffs on the 23rd November, 1900;

Held, that no new plaintiffs were substituted within the meaning of S. 22 and that the substitution of the names of the plaintiffs did not make the suit a new suit. (1903) 7 C.W.N. 817.

12. Transposition of parties.

——S. 22 (2)—Applicability—Transposition of defendant as plaintiff—Claim by transposed plaintiff to subject-matter not included in original plaint.

The word "suit" in S. 22 (1), Limitation Act, refers to the suit as originally filed. As transposition involves the addition of a plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, to the suit as originally filed, it would follow that S. 22 (2) of the Act would be applicable only to those cases where the claim of the person transposed as plaintiff could have been sustained on the plaint as originally, filed, or where the person remaining as plaintiff after the transposition could have sustained his claim against the transposed defendant on the basis of the plaint as originally filed. S. 22 (2) would not be applicable where the person transposed as plaintiff has either to sustain his claim to the subject-matter of the suit as defined in the plaint as originally filed on a different cause of action, a cause of action not pleaded in the original plaint, or where his claim, though it may be supported on the cause of action as pleaded in the original plaint, is in respect of a subject-matter which was not included in the original plaint, but is in respect of a different subject-matter, which has to be brought in by way of addition after he is transposed. I.L.R. (1949) 1 Cal. 85.

——S. 22 (2)—Transposition of parties—Applicability—Removal of defendant to category of plaintiff—Plaint subsequently returned and re-presented in proper Court—Defendant again transposed to category of plaintiff.

A instituted a suit on a promissory note within time against B and C. C was removed from the category of defendants and added as plaintiff after the expiry of the period of limitation. Thereafter the Court returned the plaint to the plaintiff to be refiled in the proper Court. A refiled the plaint again making C a defendant but subsequently C was again taken from the category of defendants and added as plaintiff in the suit.

Held, that S. 22 (2) of the Limitation Act was applicable to the first suit and that when C was transposed to the category of plaintiffs in that suit, the suit was within the period of limitation so far as he was concerned. Assuming that that section applied even to the second suit, its effect would merely be the same as though C had instituted the second suit on the date on which the plaint was refiled, and as on that date the suit was apparently barred by limitation, limitation could only be saved if the provisions of S. 14 of the Limitation Act could be invoked by C. 51 C.W.N. 907.

——S. 22—Transposition of parties'

Suit for rent—Co-sharer made defendant—Such co-sharer made to co-plaintiff on application under S. 148-A, Bengal Tenancy Act—Claim to rent due to him by such co-plaintiff.

Held, it is not necessary for such co-plaintiff to call into his aid the provisions of S. 22, Limitation Act, for saving any bar of limitation A I.R. 1937 Cal. 333=173 Ind. Cas. 896.

——S. 22 (2)—Transposition of parties.

Transposition of defendant as plaintiff after limitation on mere consent of defendant, is ineffectual. 41 M.L.W. 177=(1935) M.W.N. 210=69 M.L.J. 30=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 240=156 Ind. Cas. 455.

——S. 22—Transposition of defendant as plaintiff when a suit by him would have been time-barred.

The plaintiff instituted a suit, ostensibly for rent, against the first defendant claiming to be an assignee of the lessor who was impleaded as the 2nd defendant. The District Munsif held that the suit should have been a suit for damages for use and occupation and as the plaintiff obtained no right to sue by the assignment, dismissed the suit. The Subordinate Judge remanded the suit for an enquiry as to whether the suit was one for rent or for damages for use and occupation. The High Court set aside the remand order upholding the finding of the District Munsif and returned the case to the Subordinate Judge for disposal of the other issue. The plaintiff thereupon applied for transposition of the 2nd defendant as a plaintiff and for amending the plaint. The Court allowed amendment and transposed the 2nd defendant to the position of a plaintiff, even though the claim for damages was barred on the date of the amendment :

Held, that the order of transposition was not irregular or in excess of jurisdiction, though a suit by the 2nd defendant would have been barred on the date of transposition and the order of the lower Court was not, therefore, liable to be set aside in revision (1934) M W.N. 1396=40 M.L.W. 900=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 95=154 Ind. Cas. 747.

——S. 22—Transposition of parties.

A transposition of parties should not be disallowed on the ground that it would affect limitation. 14 P.L.T. 252=A.I.R. 1933 Pat. 239=149 Ind. Cas. 760.

——S. 22 (2)—Transposition of parties—Co-shraer landlords transposed as co-plaintiffs—Payment of Court-fee—Claim for rent due.

Where, in a rent suit, the co-sharer landlords who had been brought on record as pro forma defendants on being transposed as co-plaintiffs paid court-fee on their own claim for arrears of rent, but the tenants contended that their claim for shares of rent had become time-barred on date of their transposition as co-plaintiffs :

Held, that S. 22 (2) applied to the case and no question of limitation arose under the circumstances. A.I.R. 1932 Pat. 304=13 P.L.T. 392=139 Ind. Cas. 535.

——S. 22—Transposition of parties.

Defendant 1 executed a promissory note in favour of defendant 2, a benamidar for plaintiff. As the plaintiff the beneficial owner of the promissory note, was not able to maintain a suit under the Negotiable Instrumen ts Act against defendant 1, defendant 2 desired to be joined as co-plaintiff as his independent suit would be time-barred.

Held, that the prayer should not be allowed as defendant 1 would then lose a valuable statutory right acquired by lapse of limitation. 104 Ind. Cas. 528=9 P.L.T. 235=A.I.R. 1928 Pat. 24.

——S. 22—Transposition of parties.

Where a person was a defendant to a suit as it was originally instituted, but in the subsequent proceedings his position from that of a defendant was changed into that of a plaintiff.

Held, that the case was entirely covered by sub-S. (2), S. 22. 105 Ind. Cas. 473=1 L.C. 546=A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 484.

——S. 22—Transposition of parties.

It is clear from the provisions of sub-S. (2) of S. 22 that the provisions of sub-S. (1) of the section will not apply where a defendant, who was made such by the plaintiff at the time of the institution of the suit, is transferred in that suit as a co-plaintiff. 90 Ind. Cas. 82=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 28.

——S. 22—Transposition of parties.

The transfer of a party from pro forma defendant or otherwise to plaintiff is not an addition of a new party within the meaning of S. 22. 38 Cal. 242 Foll. 66 Ind. Cas. 873=16 S.L.R. 71=A.I.R. 1921 Sind 50.

13 Suit against a dead person.

——S. 22—Suit against dead person—Effect of.

A plaintiff cannot claim the benefit of the instituting of a suit against dead person for the purpose of extending the period of limitation against his heirs. 5 O.L.J. 546=47 Ind. Cas. 894.

14 Miscellaneous.

——S. 22—Miscellaneous.

Execution of promissory note by guardian of minor—Personal liability of guardians—Suit against minor and guardian—Addition of claim for personal relief against guardian after limitation:

Held, on construction of the pro-note that the second defendant had clearly undertaken personal liability by the promissory-note and the suit was not time-barred as to the claim for personal relief against second defendant. (1934) M.W.N. 854=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 160=154 Ind. Cas. 582.

——S. 22—Miscellaneous—Minor defendant—Appointing guardian ad litem after time.

Subsequent to the discovery that the minor has not been properly represented by a duly appointed guardian it is open to the Court in the exercise of its inherent power under S. 151 to restore the case to its original number on the file and proceed with it after duly appointing a guardian. The restoration of the case and the appointment of a new guardian cannot be held to be tantamount to the addition of a new party to the suit. The appointment of a guardian ad litem must always be some time after the institution of the suit and the suit must be deemed to have been instituted against the minor on the date when it was filed, even though on that date the guardian ad litem was not or could not have been appointed. 1930 A.L.J. 938=A.I.R. 1930 All. 644.

——S. 22—Miscellaneous — Transferee pendente lite.

A transferee pendente lite who acquires an interest which may come in conflict with the rights of the decree-holder under the decree cannot be plead limitation on the ground that the suit or proceedings should be deemed to have been instituted or taken against him only on the date he was impleaded as a party. A.I.R. 1930 All. 597 =1930 A.L.J. 1302.

——S. 22—Miscellaneous — Specific Relief Act, S. 9—Suit under — Person joined as defendant after one year on his own application — He cannot avoid the decree—Evidence Act, S. 115.

Where in a suit under S. 9, Specific Relief Act, a person is added one year after the date of the suit as defendant on his own application and a decree is passed against him, he cannot avoid the decree by taking advantage of S. 22, Limitation Act. 28 Bom. 11, Rel. on. 112 Ind. Cas. 786 =30 Bom.L.R. 1405=A.I.R. 1928 Bom. 526.

——S. 22—Miscellaneous — Minor defendant — Appointing guardian ad litem after time.

Where in a pre-emption suit, guardian for one of the vendees who is a minor is appointed after the expiry of limitation for the suit, the defect is not fatal to the suit as a plea of limitation. 31 All. 55, Foll. 102 Ind. Cas. 624=49 All. 869=25 A.L.J. 655=A.I.R. 1927 All 787.

——S. 22 (1)—"Miscellaneous — Party not signing or verifying pleading—Wrong description of party.

Where one of the plaintiffs is wrongly described in the plaint as a minor and has not himself signed and verified the plaint, he is not, on that account; to be considered not a party. The plaintiff who has not signed or verified cannot be considered to be a new party, when he signs or verifies the plaint under S. 22. 25 M.L.J. 174=(1912) M.W.N. 1207=17 Ind. Cas. 580.

1. Attachment under S. 146, Cr. P. Code.

——S. 23—Suit to recover property after attachment under S. 146, Cr. P. Code.

Suits brought for recovery of property after attachment under S. 146, Cr. P. Code are cases of a continuing wrong within meaning of S. 23, Limitation Act and such suits brought more than six years after attachment are not barred. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 212=4 B.R. 558=175 Ind. Cas. 256.

——S. 23—Attachment under S. 146, Cr. P. C.—Right to sue, when arises.

In a case of continuing wrong under S. 23, the right to sue accrues from moment to moment so long as the attachment lasts, and the suit cannot be held to be barred by lapse of six years from the date of the order by a Magistrate under S. 145, Cr. P. Code. 14 P.L.T. 113=12 Pat. 261 =A.I.R. 1933 Pat. 224=149 Ind. Cas. 561.

Where there was a dispute between the parties regarding the land in suit and in proceedings under Ch. XII of the Cr. P. Code the Magistrate attached the land under S. 146, and appointed a Receiver thereof referring the parties to the Civil Court for the determination of their rights, and where a suit was brought by the plaintiff for a declaration that he was the owner of the land, Held, further that where it is not known whether it was the plaintiff or the defendant who was guilty of interference with possession or dispossession, all that one can say as to what led the Magistrate to take possession is that it was either his inability to decide who was in actual possession or his decision that neither party was in possession and that neither of these can be said to be a wrong by the defendant and hence no fresh period of limitation began to run under S. 23 of the Limitation Act, after the date of the attachment by the Magistrate. 85 Ind. Cas. 631 =20 N.L.R. 195=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 236.

——S. 23—Attachment and adverse possession—S 146, Cr. P. Code—Effect of order.

A trespasser's possession is determined upon the Magistrate taking possession under the attachment, for the possession of the Magistrate being in law, the possession of the true owner, the true owner must be taken to have been restored to possession constructively on the date of the attachment and must be taken to get a fresh starting point, the case being one of continuing wrong. 65 Ind. Cas. 200=49 Cal. 544=26 C.W.N. 432 =A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 419.

——S. 23, Sch. I, Arts. 120; 142—Continuing wrong—Order under S. 146, Cr. P. Code.

Where a Magistrate attached a disputed property under S. 146, Cr. P. Code when plaintiff was in lawful possession and plaintiff sued for declaration of title for recovery of possession it was held that the suits though framed as suits for possession could not be treated as such and were not governed by Art. 142, Limitation Act. The case should be treated as one of continuing wrong within S. 23 of the Limitation Act and the suit is not barred under Art. 120 of Limitation Act as a fresh period of limitation begins to run at every moment of the time the wrong continues, as the title continues unaffected in the true owner for under S. 28 his right is extinguished only at the determination of the period limited for the institution of a suit for possession. 22 C.L.J. 283=20 C.W.N. 481=31 Ind. Cas. 242.

2 Breach of Contract or Covenant.

——S. 23—Marriage.

Marriage under Muhammadan Law is a civil contract and the husband's impotency is a continuing breach of contract within the meaning of S. 23. 41 P.L.R. 867=A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 454 =185 Ind. Cas. 744

——S. 23—Breach of Contract of Covenant—Continuing wrong.

Where a tenant builds a house on the land contrary to the terms of the tenancy or contrary to the purposes for which the land was let out, the building of the house is a continuing wrong and, even when it is finally erected, limitation does commence definitely against the landlord. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 149=5 B.R. 237=179 Ind. Cas. 482.

——S. 23—Breach off contract—Surety undertaking to produce judgment-debtor on each date of hearing—Failure to produce him on a certain date—Execution proceedings terminating at a later date—Application for execution against surety:

Held, that the breach occurred on the date when the surety failed to produce the judgment-debtor and not on the date when the proceedings came to an end and that S. 23, Limitation Act did not apply as it was not a case of continuous breach. 37 P.L.R. 72=A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 174=153 Ind. Cas. 459.

——S. 23—Continuing breach.

Held, that the breach of a covenant to give possession was not a continuing breach, but occurred once and for all at the inception of the term and as soon as failure to comply with the terms of the lease in this respect took place. 35 M.L.W. 68=(1932) M.W.N. 51=A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 225 =138 Ind. Cas. 119.

——S. 23—Breach of contract or covenant—Failure to pay debts.

Where the vendee agreed to pay off a usufructuary mortgage on the property but no time was fixed for the payment of the money,

Held, that the vendee's failure to pay off the mortgage on the date on which the sale-deed in his favour was executed, constituted breach of covenant on his part, that the breach took place once and for all and that there was no continuing breach which would give successive causes of action to the plaintiff the vendor to sue. 34 All. 429, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 804=6 L.R.A. (Civ.) 222=A.I.R. 1925 All. 488.

——S. 23—Usufructuary mortgage—Covenant to repair—Breach—Continuing breach.

Breach of a covenant in a usufructuary mortgage by which the mortgagor undertook to keep the premises in repair is a continuing one and a suit on such covenant is not barred by limitation. (1901) 3 Bom.L.R. 156.

3 Cause of action.

——S. 23—Recurring cause of action.

Where a community has a right to worship the dhar but another community disputes that right and washes off puja ingredients, there is a recurring cause of action for the community entitled to worship as long as the dispute continues. A suit for declaration cannot become time-barred if it is within six years from the date of last dispute. 1945 N.L.J. 80=A.I.R. 1945 Nag. 106=I.L.R. (1945) Nag. 273.

——S. 23—Wrong—Meaning of—Suit for declaration of right to share in monthly allowance—Cause of action.

The cause of action for a suit for declaration of title arises when effective denial of that title first takes place. Where the trustees continued to pay a certain monthly amount to the male heirs of the deceased settlor month after month over a long period of years to the exclusion of the female heirs, for cause of action for a suit by the female heirs for declaration of their right to share in the monthly amount does not arise upon the making of each payment under S. 23. It would arise when effective denial of their title or right first took place. S. 23 has no application to such a case because the word "wrong" in S. 23 is used in a restricted sense and implies something in the nature of a tort. 1944 A.W.R. 11=1944 O.W.N. 37=A.I.R. 1944 Oudh 139=19 Luck. 515= 216 Ind. Cas. 276.

——S. 23—Cause of action arising in time of predecessor, from settlement proceeding.

If the plaintiff institutes a suit on the cause of action arising from the settlement proceeding, he cannot have a different terminus a quo for the starting of limitation from what his predecessor had. Whether the predecessor chose to sue or not, the limitation which once began to run in respect of a cause of action cannot be stopped by the property being afterwards sold, and the plaintiff could not acquire any independent right in respect of the same cause of action by reason of his subsequent purchase. A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 291=1937 O.W.N. 207=1937 R.D. 105=13 Luck. 143= 166 Ind. Cas. 774.

——S. 23—Cause of action—Continuing wrong.

If a defendant, by several acts; attempts to oust the plaintiff from his property, then every such act gives the plaintiff a fresh cause of action but where the plaintiff himself has done some act which has merely been resisted by the defendant, he has no further cause of action. If it were so, the plaintiff would be able by his own act to create a fresh cause of action any time he wished. A. I.R. 1937 Pesh. 94=171 Ind. Cas. 267.

——S. 23—Cause of action—Illegal partnership—Claim for refund of capital.

An unregistered business association of more than 20 persons was formed in contravention of S. 4 of the Companies Act of 1882. About 20 years later, the heirs of one of the members brought a suit for a declaration that the partnership was illegal and for the recovery of the share of the capital contributed by their ancestor. They alleged that they had been pressing the other partners to get the partnership registered but that they had refused to do so.

Held, that the cause of action for return of the money accrued as soon as the money was paid and there was no continuing cause of action in plaintiff's favour. 64 Ind. Cas. 447=19 A.L.J. 836=A.I.R. 1921 All. 73.

——S. 23—Cause of action—Appropriation of income by co-sharer—Suit for declaration.

Every fresh appropriation of the income of property by one co-sharer to the exclusion of others is a fresh invasion of their rights and gives rise to a fresh cause of action to the other co-sharers for a suit for a declaration of their rights. 21 P.L.R. 1918=43 P.W.R. 1918=44 Ind. Cas. 31.

——S. 23—Cause of action—Alienation of offerings of a temple—Suit for declaration.

Alienations of future income of the offerings give a fresh cause of action on each successive act of appropriation by the alienee and a suit is therefore not barred by limitation. 40 Mad. 212 =31 M.L.J. 777=20 M.L.T. 490=5 L.W. 625 =(1917) M.W.N. 400=38 Ind. Cas. 73.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong — Trade mark—Infringement — Cause of action.

The infringement of a trade mark is a continuing wrong and so long as the infringement continues, a fresh cause of action arises de die in diem. 97 P.R. 1913=5 P.L.R. 1912 (Supp.)= 166 P.W.R. 1913=15 Ind. Cas. 116.

——S. 23 and Art. 120—Cause of action—Trespass.

Every act of trespass gives a fresh starting point for limitation. 12 A.L.J. 1150=25 Ind. Cas. 185.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong — Wrongful distraint—Cause of action.

Where the cause of action consists in a wrongful distraint, there is no continuing wrong and so no continuing cause of action under S. 23. 38 Mad. 655=1 L.W. 89=24 Ind. Cas. 754.

4 "Continuing wrong"—Test and essence of.

——S. 23—Applicability — "Continuing wrong" —Test of—Injury and effects of injury—Distinction between to be kept in view.

Where the injury complained of is complete on a certain date, there is no "continuing wrong" though the damage caused by that injury might continue. In such a case, the cause of action to the person injured arises, once and for all, at the time when the injury is inflicted, and the fact that the effects of the injury are felt by the injured person on subsequent occasions, intermittently or even continuously, does not make the injury a "continuing wrong". If however, the act is such that the injury itself is continuous, then there is a continuing wrong so as to give him a fresh cause of action on each such occasion. The distinction between an "injury" as such and the effects of that injury has to be kept in mind in considering whether a particular act constitutes a continuing wrong. A.I.R. 1950 E. P. 21.

——S. 23 — "Continuing wrong" — Test and essence of.

Per Mudholkar, J —The criterion for the applicability of S. 23, Limitation Act, is not whether the right is a continuing one but whether the wrong is a continuing one. 26 M. 410 and 54 B. 4, rel. on. I.L.R. (1950) Nag. 633.

——S. 23—Applicability — Test of — Essence of continuing wrong — Continuing wrong or continuing effects of injury—Distinction.

To give rise to a continuing wrong there must be not a single wrongful act from which injurious consequences follow, but there must be a state of affairs every moment's continuance of which is a new tort. The continuance of a legal injury is distinct from the continuance of the injurious effects of a legal injury. The former is a continuing wrong but the latter is not. Though the effect of a wrongful act may continue time will not be extended under S. 23, Limitation Act. Where the wrong consists in the omission of a legal duty if the duty is to continue to do something, the omission to continue to do it is a continuing wrong. The test is not whether the corresponding right is a continuing right, but whether the wrong is a continuing wrong. Where the act or wrong is complete, S. 23 will not apply. 14 Cut.L.T. 73=A.I.R. 1949 Orissa 1.

——S. 23—"Continuing wrong"—Test and absence of.

S. 23, Limitation Act can only apply where the wrong is really a continuing one, and this cannot be the case where the encroachment is by an act such as the building of a wall, which is over and done with once completed. A distinction must be made between the continuance of a legal injury and the continuance of its injurious effects. There is nothing in S. 23 upon which to base a distinction between public and private rights. Whether the wrong is continuing or not must depend upon the nature of the wrong itself and not upon the nature of the right infringed. A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 449=19 Pat. 208=6 B.R. 894=22 P.L.T. 46=190 Ind. Cas. 46.

——S. 23—"Continuing wrong"—Tests.

In the case of a continuing wrong, there must be not a single wrongful act from which injurious consequences follow, but a state of affairs every moment's continuance of which is a new tort. Further the person who intentionally produces the state of affairs must be intentionally causing it to continue, though in a position to terminate it at his pleasure. (1935) M.W.N. 634=42 M.L.W. 599=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 867=69 M.L.J. 739 =59 M. 75=161 Ind. Cas. 658

——S. 23 and Art. 120 — 'Continuing wrong,'—Test and essence of—Encroachment by joint owner by building chabutra on land reserved for common purpose claiming it as his own — Suit for injunction, if governed by S. 23 of Art. 120.

Where the injury complained of is complete on a certain date, there is no "continuing wrong" even though the damage caused by that injury might continue. In such a case, the cause of action to the person injured arises, once and for all, at the time when the injury is inflicted, and the fact that the effects of the injury are felt by the aggrieved on subsequent occasions, intermittently or even continuously, does not make the injury a "continuing wrong" so as to give him a fresh cause of action on each such occasion. If, however, the act is such that the injury itself is continuous, then there is a "continuing wrong" and the case is governed by S. 23.

In the case of a 'trespass', there is a fresh injury and a fresh cause of action at every moment during the period during which the trespass continues. But where the act complained of amounts to complete ouster of the plaintiff, the injury is complete at the date of the ouster. To such cases S. 23 does not apply. An encroachment made by a joint owner by building a chabutra on land reserved for common purposes, claiming it as his own, does not constitute a "continuing wrong" within the meaning of S. 23; the injury in such a case is complete at the time the construction is put up and the cause of action, whether for the removal of the chabutra or for possession of the land underneath, arises once for all when the chabutra is built, and a suit for injunction is governed by Art. 120 and not by S. 23. A I R. 1940 Lah. 359=I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 22=43 P.L.R. 400=191 Ind. Cas. 42 (F.B.).

——S. 23—Continuing wrong—Test.

The criterion is not whether the right is a 'continuing one', but whether the wrong is a continuing one'. (1902) 26 M. 410.

5. Effect of trespass and dispossession.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession—'Continuing wrong', what is—Continuance of possession after trespass—Starting of limitation.

Continuance of possession after trespass is not a 'continuing wrong.' Hence when there has been a dispossession and ouster, the wrong is complete and the starting point of limitation is the date of ouster or dispossession. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 753=1944 N.L.J. 467=A.I.R. 1945 Nag. 78.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession—Distinction between encroachment upon private land and upon public land.

There is nothing in S. 23, Limitation Act, upon which a distinction can be made between the case of encroachment upon private land and upon public land and if in the one case, limitation may run, there is no reason why it should not also run in the case of a precisely similar act, committed upon public land. Whether the wrong is continuing or not must depend upon the nature of the wrong and not upon the nature of the land over which it is committed. A distinction must further be made between the continuance of a legal injury and the continuance of its injurious effects, and there is no perpetual right of suit under S. 23, where a wrong be continued or not, when the trespass itself gives rise to rights extinguishing any right of suit. When the wrong amounts to dispossession of the plaintiff, then, even although it may be a continuing wrong, the plaintiff cannot recover possession after 12 years because under S. 28 of the Limitation Act, he himself has got, no right left which he can enforce. 22 P.L.T. 1001=8 B.R. 302=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 188=197 Ind. Cas. 818.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession—Owner of gairmazrua-am and ahar land completely dispossessed by other person by building chabutra on land—Suit for possession beyond 12 years, is barred—S. 23 does not apply. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 181=19 Pat. 852=7 B.R. 739=22 P.L.T. 986=194 Ind. Cas. 243.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession—Continuing wrong—Where it amounts to dispossession, possession cannot be recovered after twelve years — Wrong, not amounting to dispossession, ripening into easemet—There is no cause of action.

Where the wrong amounts to dispossession of the plaintiff, then, although it may be a continuing wrong; the plaintiff cannot recover possession after twelve years, because under S. 28; Limitation Act; he himself has got no right left which he can enforce. Where the plaintiff is Government or is representing Government, this period will be 60 years under Art. 149, Limitation Act. Where the plaintiff is a local authority suing in regard to a public road, the period will be 30 years under Art. 146, Limitation Act. Where the obstruction does not amount to dispossession of the plaintiff, either because it is not the plaintiff's land, or because the plaintiff himself has only a right of easement, as in the case of rights of way of villagers originating in custom, then in such cases, even though the wrong be a continuing one, there would be no right of action after twenty years (or sixty years in the case of Government) where the defendant's wrong has itself ripened into an easement, and this right of the defendant is one subsisting with two years next before the date of the suit. 19 Pat. 208=A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 449=6 B.R. 894=22 P.L.T. 46=190 Ind. Cas. 46.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession—Trespass—Continuing wrong—Ejectment suit dismissed—Subsequent suit.

Dispossession is a trespass and in one sense a continuance of possession thereafter is a continuance of the original wrong but that is not the meaning of S. 23, Limitation Act. The Act must be read as a whole and must be construed in such a manner that there is no conflict between S. 23 and Arts. 142 and 144. Complete usurpation of possession and occupation and consequent dispossession of the owner, is a wrong which is complete from the moment of dispossession. It is not a continuing trespass of a character contemplated by S. 23. Hence where a suit alleging that the defendant had taken possession of certain land and tank, forcibly and illegally, that the defendant's possession constituted a trespass and praying that the defendant be ejected, is dismissed, a subsequent suit alleging forcible and wrongful possession and praying for possesssion of the same land is barred, the cause of action being the same and not a continuing one. A. I. R. 1939 Nag. 145=1939 N.L.J. 153=182 Ind. Cas. 613.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession—Taking exclusive possession of land, if continuing trespass or dispossession.

Whether the land belongs to a community or not, if one person takes sole and exclusive possession of it, or some portion of it, and excludes all others who have a right to occupation from possession then the trespass is not a continuing trespass of the kind contemplated by S. 23, but is dispossession of the character dealt with in Arts. 142 and 144, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 145 =1939 N.L.J. 153=182 Ind. Cas. 613.

——S. 23—Effect of trespass and dispossession.

S. 23 would not apply to a case where the defendant has erected a chhappar on plaintiff's land and taken possession of the land adversely to the plaintiffs, as the cause of action is complete as soon as the chhappar is erected. 124 P.R. 1912 and 28 C.L.J. 494, Rel. on. 60 Ind. Cas. 20= 3 L.L.J. 128=A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 242.

——S. 23 and Art. 146—Effect of trespass and dispossession—Continuing wrong — Adverse possession—Encroachment in Municipal street.

Where the defendant had erected a rowak or platform as an integral part of his building over a street or a drain vested in the plaintiff. Municipality and the buiding had stood for half a centuary there is no continuing wrong and limitation for a suit by the plaintiff is not saved by S. 23 of the Limitation Act. The injury is complete on the erection of the rowak. 28 C.L.J. 494=49 Ind. Cas. 93.

6. Obstruction to light and air.

——S. 23—Obstruction to light and air.

The plaintiff obtained in 1914 an injunction forbidding the defendants from building their house in such a way as to interfere with the passage of light and air through certain ventilators constructed in the plaintiff's house. In 1933, the decreeholder filed an application in execution complaining that the defendants had disobeyed the injunction in that they had built their house in such a way that one of the ventilators had been closed and another interfered with and also that the injunction with regard to the other ventilator disobeyed:

Held, that the case was one of continuing breach and no limitation period applied. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 334=162 Ind. Cas. 303.

——S. 23—Obstruction to light and air—Injunction restraining defendant from obtructing light by building—Defendant building and obstructing—Execution application beyond three years from such obstruction is barred. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 702=37 P.L.R. 576=160 Ind. Cas. 777.

7. Obstruction to right of way.

——S. 23—Public way—Obstruction to, if continuing wrong—Starting point for limitation.

An obstruction to a public way which prevents someone from exercising a right of way does fall within the scope of the term, "continuing wrong" in S. 23; Limitation Act, and a fresh period of limitation begins to run under S. 23 at every moment of the time during which the wrong continues. (Principles enunciated). A.I.R. 1942 All. 77=(1941) A.L.J. 706=1942 R.D. 20=1941 A.W.R. (H.C.) 376=198 Ind. Cas. 532.

——S. 23—Obstruction to right of way—Erection of building on public street—Plaintiff suffering special damage, access to highway from his house being prevented—Suit for injunction more than six years after erection of building is not time-barred. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 94=171 Ind. Cas. 509.

——S. 23—Obstruction to right of way—Defendant constructing sheds on land which plaintiff has right to use—Obstruction.

Where the plaintiff has a right to use the land on which certain sheds have been erected as a passage and these sheds are obstructing his passage way, there is a continuing wrong. Consequently, S. 23 applies to a suit by the plaintiff for declaration of his right to use the land and for removal of the sheds. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 405 =156 Ind. Cas. 390.

——S. 23—Right of way.

Suit for declaration that certain pathways were lands to which the public had a right is governed by S. 23. A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 34=146 Ind. Cas. 408.

——S. 23—Obstruction to right of way—Co-owner, obstruction by.

A suit by one co-owner against another for the removal of the actual existing obstructions constructed by the other, on land; which by long usage and by agreement between the parties is reserved for use as a common passage is governed by Art. 144. Further the wrong is a continuing wrong within S. 23 of the Limitation Act. 76 Ind. Cas. 328=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 356.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong—Encroachment on public way.

A suit for ejectment of a person from a specific field is not within S. 23 of the Limitation Act by the fact that the field has been recorded as a part of a thoroughfare and shamilat deh. Where in spite of encroachment on a road, the road left is sufficiently broad for the use of the public, the encroachment cannot be treated as an interruption of easement giving a recurring cause of action de die in diem under S. 23 of the Limitation Act. 124 P.R. 1912=2 P.L.R. 1913=132 P. W. R. 1912 =15 Ind. Cas. 285.

——S. 23—Right of way.

Where the plaintiff has got a right, every invasion of that right gives a fresh cause of action. 20 A. 35; A.W.N. (1898) 215, Rel. on. 12 O. C. 320=4 Ind. Cas. 159.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong — Obstruction to right of way—De die in diem.

Obstruction to the right of pathway acquired by long user is a continuing nuisance and gives a fresh starting point for limitation de die in diem. 2 Ind. Cas. 410 (Cal.).

8. Obstruction to water course.

——S. 23—Water-course—Obstruction to.

Obstruction to a water-course and to the flow of water is a continuing wrong as to which the cause of action is renewed de die diem so long as the obstruction causing such interference is allowed to continue. A.I.R. 1942 All. 77=1941 A.W.

R. (H.C.) 376=(1941) A.L.J. 706=1942 R.D. 20=198 Ind. Cas. 532.

——S. 23—Obstruction to water-course — Construction of dam by upper riparian owner—Obstruction to water by accumulation of silt—Injury to lower riparian owner is continuous. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 180=46 M.L.W. 862=(1936) M.W.N. 948 (2)=174 Ind. Cas. 229.

——S. 23—Interference with flow of water.

In respect of interference with a water-course, the party injured has a continuing cause of action within the meaning of S. 23. (1935) M.W.N. 538=69 M.L.J. 42=42 M.L.W. 183=A. I. R. 1935 Mad. 668=158 Ind. Cas. 987.

——S. 23—Obstruction to water course—Disconnection of water pipe—U. P. Municipalities Act, S. 228 (b).

S. 228 (b), U. P. Municipalities Act, 1916 refers to the duty of the Board to allow the owner to connect his house for the purpose of obtaining water from the main. If therefore the connexion is cut off and the owner is prevented from obtaining water from the main pipe by means of his communication pipe, there is a continuing breach giving rise to continuing cause of action inasmuch as the owner is continually prevented from connecting his house with main pipe. The duty of the Board is continuing duty and the continuing breach of it gives cause of action to owner from day to day. A.I.R. 1929 All. 870=1930 A.L.J. 94=118 Ind. Cas. 713.

——S. 23—Obstruction to use well—'Continuing cause of action' explained.

A cause of action, in respect of which a plaintiff is entitled to have the prospective damages assessed is distinct from a continuing cause of action, that is to say, a cause of action which arises from the repetition or continuance of acts or omissions of the same kind as that from which the action has been brought. Similarly, where the damage consequent on an act or omission rather than the act or omission itself is actionable, then as the action is only maintainable in respect of the damage, or is not maintainable until the damage is sustained, an action will lie every time damage accrues from the act.

The obstruction from taking water from a well is a continuing injury. 98 Ind. Cas. 879=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 85.

——S. 23—Obstruction to water-course—Closing drains.

Action of a person in closing up certain drains which emitted water from another's building on to the former's premises is a continuing wrong within S. 23. 92 Ind. Cas. 994=A.I.R. 1926 Lah. 242.

——S. 23—Continuing obstruction to water course.

If it is alleged by the plaintiff that the obstruction caused by closing the main sluice of a tank continued and he was prevented from removing the same by threat of violence it is continuing wrong under Art. 37 read with S. 23 of the Limitation Act. The suit would be within time if it is brought within three years of the last day to which the wrong continued. 82 Ind. Cas. 482=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 189.

——S. 23 and Art. 120—Continuing wrong—Discharging rain water on plaintiff's roof.

Plaintiffs sued for perpetual injunction restraining defendant from discharging rain water on to the roof of the plaintiff's shop through a parnala.

Held, that each occasion when the defendant discharged water through the parnala on the plaintiff's roof the plaintiff's got a fresh cause of action and that the last occasion when this was done may be held as the starting point of limitation for the present suit, unless an indefeasible right of easement by twenty years' enjoyment has been acquired by the defendant. 25 Ind. Cas. 185; 24 W.R. 97, Foll. 2 U.P.L.R. (Lah.) 116 =2 Lah. L.J. 463=56 Ind. Cas. 1003.

——Ss. 23 and 26—Continuing wrong — Riparian right—Obstruction.

The obstruction of a stream, whether having a continuous flow or not, is a continuing wrong under S. 23 of the Limitation Act and a suit for its removal is not governed by S. 26. 3 Pat.L.W. 5=3 Pat.L.J. 51=43 Ind. Cas. 235.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong — Obstruction to discharge of water.

An obstruction to the discharge of surface water constitutes a recurring cause of action so that no question of limitation can arise in regard to a suit for the removal of the obstruction. 22 C.W.N. 666=41 Ind. Cas. 863.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong — Obstruction to waterflow—Right of way.

The obstructions which interfere with the flow of water are in the nature of continuing nuisances as to which the cause of action is renewed de die in diem so long as the obstructions causing such interference are allowed to continue. There is no distinction between an obstruction to a watercourse and one to a way and wrongful interference with a right of way constitutes a nuisance. Obstructions to easements other than watercourses may be treated as continuing nuisances. 21 C.L.J. 640=29 Ind. Cas. 385.

——S. 23, Sch. II, Art. 120—Continuing wrong—Obstruction by dam.

Suit for injunction to remove an obstructing dam is not barred, though the defendant had constructed the dam 17 years before suit, as the wrong was a continuing wrong. 3 S.L.R. 228=6 Ind. Cas. 881.

——S. 23—Flow of water—Continuing injury.

The flow of water over another's land is a continuing injury and S. 23 applies to such a case. (1904) 15 M.L.J. 32=28 M. 72.

9. Restitution of conjugal rights.

——S. 23—Restitution of conjugal rights.

The continuing wrong referred to in S. 23 includes failure of a wife to return to her husband.

Consequently where the husband brings a suit for restitution of conjugal rights within six years of the first refusal of the wife to return, it is within time under Art. 120. A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 289 =38 Bom.L.R. 502=164 Ind. Cas. 628.

——S. 23—Restitution of conjugal rights.

The cause of action for a suit for restitution of conjugal rights is founded on a breach of the contract of marriage and the breach continues so long as the person of the wife is withheld from the husband and he is denied the undoubted legal right of her conjugal society. This view of the cause of action in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights places it within the purview of S. 23. 65 Ind. Cas. 452=8 O.L.J. 650=A.I.R. 1922 Oudh 109.

——S. 23, Art. 35—Restitution of conjugal rights —Demand and refusal.

A suit for restitution of conjugal rights is barred by limitation if such restitution had been demanded by one party and refused by the other who is of full age and sound mind, more than two years prior to the date of suit. 13 A. 126, diss. from. and 16 B. 714 overruled. (1901) 3 Bom. L.R. 371=25 Bom. 644 (F.B.).

——S. 23—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights —Not applicable. See ART. 35. 11 C.W.N. 437=34 C. 79.

10. Scope and applicability.

——Ss. 23, 24 and Art. 30—Scope and applicability — Suit for compensation against railway company for injuring goods—Deterioration of goods due to continued negligence of railway servants—Continuing cause of action—Measure of damages.

The plaintiff sued the defendant railway company for damages for injury caused to a consignment of goods which he made over to them. The defendant did not deliver the goods at the destination for which the consignment was intended owing to the shortage of wagons due to the war. Nor did the defendant permit the plaintiff to have his goods duly protected from rain by placing them under cover at the railway station or to remove them altogether. After some months, however, the plaintiff was permitted to remove the goods. He claimed damages in respect of the deterioration up to that date.

Held, (1) that S. 24 of the Limitation Act applied to the case and no suit would have lain unless and until specific injury occurred to the plaintiff;

(2) that S. 23 of the Limitation Act also applied because there was a continuing cause of action right up to the date on which the plaintiff was permitted to remove the goods. The deterioration of goods being due to the continuous negligence of the defendant's servants, was a continuing wrong;

(3) that the defendant was responsible for the total damage down to the date on which the plaintiff was for the first time allowed to take away his goods, because of the continuing negligence. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 726=1947 N.L.J. 540=A.I.R. 1947 Nag. 224.

——S. 23, Arts. 144, 146-A—Scope and applicability.

Suit for possession by Union Board constituted under Bengal Village Self-Govt. Act 1919 in respect of strip of land which it claimed as part of public road—Defendant found in possession from before date of establishment of Board—Art. 144, held applied and not Art. 146-A—Suit held barred S. 23 held did not apply. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 151 =73 C.L.J. 608=45 C.W.N. 802=200 Ind. Cas. 386.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Continuing wrong—Right to conduct festival.

A person who possesses a right to conduct a festival does not lose it because he does not institute a suit in respect of the first infringement of the right. If it is a recurring infringement, he can take action whenever he desires so long as he remains the holder of the right. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 498=I.L.R. ——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Private and public suits.

Section 23 Limitation Act makes no distinction between private suits and public or representative suits. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 181=19 Pat. 852 =7 B.R. 739=22 P.L.T. 986=194 Ind. Cas. 243.

——S. 23—Scope—Commencement of limitation.

In the case of continuing breach of contract or continuing wrong independent of contract, fresh period of limitation begins to run from the moment the breach or the wrong continues. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 149=5 B.R. 237=179 Ind. Cas. 482.

——S. 23—Scope.

Per Skemp, J.—Every invasion of right although it might be a repetition of the old one gives a new cause of action with a new starting point of limitation. The distinction between a fresh invasion and a repetition of a previous invasion is a distinction without a difference. A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 227=40 P.L.R. 600=181 Ind. Cas. 199.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Attachment, whether continuing wrong.

A mere continuation of a prior cause of action does not give rise to a fresh right, e.g., where property is attached, the procuring of the attachment is the wrongful denial and the cause of action arises where the attachment is effected. In such a case, it is wrong to say that there has been a continuing wrong so as to give a fresh starting point during the whole period the attachment subsists. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 193=(1938) M.W.N. 244=47 M.L.W. 438=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 434=181 Ind. Cas. 688.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Order of Settlement Court about defendants being recorded as under-proprietors.

Where the order of the Settlement Court about the defendants being recorded as under-proprietors is a wrong to the plaintiff, the wrong is complete when the order is passed and the entry made and it cannot be regarded as a case of a continuing wrong. 1937 O.W.N. 207=1937 R.D. 105=A. I. R. 1937 Oudh 291=13 Luck. 143=166 Ind. Cas. 774.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability.

Order under S. 147, Cr. P. Code (Act 5 of 1898) passed in 1900 prohibiting plaintiffs who were Nadars by caste, from taking out procession until their right was declared by Civil Court—Suit brought more than six years of forder—Fresh obstructions:

Held, that S. 23; Limitation Act; was inapplicable as the order of 1900 did not constitute a continuing wrong within S. 23 and even if there was a continuing wrong, the defendants were not responsible for it,

Held, further, that the occurrence in 1918 when the plaintiffs made attempts to take processions over the route could not give a valid cause of action to the plaintiffs. The general rule, viz., that where there are successive invasions or denials of a right, time will in general run from the first of the series, must be applied in the present case because in 1900 not only were the Nadars prevented from going in procession but an order was obtained disallowing all further processions until the right had been established. (1935) M.W.N. 634=42 M.L.W. 599=69 M.L.J. 739=59 M. 75=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 967=161 Ind. Cas. 653.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Alterations made in the 'charans' (footprints) in the shrines worshipped by Jains, by swetambaris—'Digambaris' held had right to sue—Alterations held, was a continuing wrong under Limitation Act, S. 23. A.I.R. 1938 P.C. 193=(1933) M.W.N. 882=38 M.L.W. 306=65 M.L.J. 163=(1933) A. L. J. 1325=35 Bom.L.R. 990=37 C.W.N. 1021=12 Pat. 681=14 P.L.T. 559=58 C.L.J. 56=60 I. A. 313=144 Ind. Cas. 346 (P.C.).

——Ss. 23, 29—Scope and applicability.

S. 211 of the Madras Tstates Land Act, 1908, must be taken to override the general provisions of S. 29, Limitation Act. It may be possible in a suitable case to apply the principles of S. 23, Limitation Act but in a case where the date of occupation mentioned in Art. 7 of Sch. B of Mad. Estates Land Act has to be understood only as the date on which the occupation was begun, S. 23 could be of no avail. 38 M.L.W. 214=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 521=(1933) M. W. N. 1230=144 Ind. Cas. 963.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Wrong — Change in religious views.

Change in religious views in not "wrong"; nor continuation of those views is a 'continuing wrong'. 53 P.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 107.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Continuing injury.

Per Shah, J.—Where sulphuric acid was thrown at a person and injury was caused to his eye therefrom the continuance of its effect at a later date was not held to be continuing wrong within the meaning of S. 23 of the Limitation Act. 84 Ind. Cas. 796=25 Bom.L.R. 1333=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 290.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Declaratory suit.

The principle of S. 23 which deals with continuing wrong can have no application to declaratory suit and there is no recurring cause of action for declaratory relief. 74 Ind. Cas. 403=2 Pat. 391=4 P.L.T. 675=A.I.R. 1923 Pat. 475.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability—Denial of title.

A declaratory suit under S. 42, Specific Relief Act, can be brought when the plaintiff's title is denied by some person, and the denial itself gives a cause of action for a declaratory relief. To such a suit S. 23, Limitation Act, cannot apply as it refers to a continuing wrong and not to a continuing right. 124 Ind. Cas. 773=31 Bom.L.R. 1240=54 Bom. 4=A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 61.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Continuing wrong—Non-transferable tenancy — Mortgage by tenants—Oudh Rent Act (12 of 1886), S. 52 (2).

Where tenants holding land under a settlement decree with heritable and non-transferable rights mortgaged their holding and a suit in ejectment was brought by the landlord 16 years after the mortgage, held, S. 23 of the Limitation Act applied as there was a continuing wrong. 1 O.L.J. 273=24 Ind. Cas. 780.

——S. 23—Scope and applicability—Nuisance.

The causing of a nuisance is a continuous wrong and a fresh period of limitation begins to run at every moment during which the wrong continues. 60 Ind. Cas. 529 (Lah.).

——S. 23—Scope and applicability — Seizure of movables.

Wrongful seizure of movable property is not a continuing wrong within the meaning of S. 23, although the party is deprived of the possession and use of the property during the period it is taken out of his possession. 31 M.L.W. 675=53 Mad. 621=59 M.L.J. 859=1930 M. W. N. 305=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 635.

——S. 23—Continuing wrong—Using mosque as private residence.

Where the defendant, the mutwalies, built in 1903 a balakhana over the mosque and used it as a private residence and the plaintiff sought to eject them in 1912. Held, that the defendant's act was a "continuing wrong" within S. 23 of the Act so that a fresh period of limitation began to run at every moment of the time during which the wrong continued. 31 P.R. 1917=31 P.W.R. 1917=39 Ind. Cas. 116.

——S. 23—Wrongful distraint — U. P. Tenancy Act, S. 146.

The wrong inflicted by an unlawful distraint continues and is renewed every day that the distraint lasts the lawful owner of the property being thereby restrained from making use of it or exercising any right of ownership over it. The cause of action therefore for a suit for damages in respect of a wrongful distraint takes its origin from the day on which the distraint comes to an end and the suit may be lawfully instituted within the prescribed limitation period of three months calculated from the said date. 73 Ind. Cas. 299 =45 All. 208=4 L.R.A. (Civ.) 48=A. I. R. 1923 All. 146.

——S. 23, Art. 36—Scope and applicability—Suit for damages for wrongful attachment before judgment—Wrongful seizure.

In a suit for compensation under Art. 36, S. 23 would be applicable if the damages caused by the tort complained of would be nil or a negligible quantity but for the continuance of the injury voluntarily caused or permitted by the tort-feasor. A wrong prohibitory order stands on a different footing from a wrongful seizure on complaint made. In the former case, the party who procures it may at any time obtain its removal and consequently S. 23 will apply in that case. In the latter case, the initial act of complaint is the only damage which the tort-feasor could have prevented and consequently S. 23 has no application to that case as the cause of action is complete on complaint made. (1903) 6 Bom.L.R. 704.

11. Miscellaneous.

——S. 12 and Arts. 120 and 131—Miscellaneous—Suit by succeeding manager to set aside a commutation—Arrangement made by his predecessor.

Where the defendant held lands belonging to a temple at half the Government rates and was also liable to render certain personal services and the manager commuted the latter into a money rent of one rupee, in a suit by the subsequent manager to set aside this commutation ten years after its date. Held, remanding the case (1) that if the arrangement was a temporary one the suit would not be barred if brought within 12 years of denial of the plaintiff's right inasmuch as the plaintiff's claim was either to assess rent which was a recurring right or to enhance the rent, and (2) that if the arrangement was a permanent one and the rent was fixed in perpetuity then it would amount to the creation of a permanent tenure, at a fixed rent by shebait and it must be set aside within 6 years of the plaintiff's succession to office. Otherwise the suit would be barred under Art. 120. 39 Ind. Cas. 522 (Cal.).

——S. 23 and Arts. 115 and 116—Miscellaneous—Usufructuary mortgage — Mortgaged property sold for arrears of revenue—Subsequent suit for redemption by mortgagor—Decree of redemption—Limitation for suit by mortgagor for damages for wrongful deprivation of property and wrongful cutting of trees by mortgagee.

A deed of usufructuary mortgage provided that the mortgagee should pay Government revenue. The mortgagee made default in the payment and the property was sold in public auction, subsequently the mortgagor sued for redemption and obtained a decree. Before six years from the date of redemption decree, but after six years from the date of the revenue auction sale, the mortgagor sued the mortgagee for damages for deprivation of property and for damages for the wrongful cutting of trees while in the mortgagor's possession: Held, (1) that the claim for damages for loss of property was governed by Arts. 115 and 116 read with S. 23 and was not barred as the time commenced to run from the date of the redemption decree and not from the date of the auction sale. The fortgagor need not have asked for a set off of this amount in the redemption suit under S. 76, T. P. Act, as that section only provides a cumulative remedy and does not bar any other remedy which may be open to the mortgagor. (2) That the claim in regard to the cutting of the trees was barred under Art. 36 as time commenced to run from the date of the alleged wrongful act. 33 Mad. 71=6 M.L.T. 239=19 M.L.J. 498=3 Ind. Cas. 433.

——S. 24—Applicability—Suit for breach of contract — Execution by decree-holder ignoring payment by judgment-debtor but not certified under O. 21, R. 2, C. P. Code—Suit by judgment-debtor — Limitation. See LIMITATION ACT, ARTS. 97 AND 115. A.I.R. 1951 Pat. 348.

——S. 24—Applicability.

Suit against Advocate for neglect and misconduct in not joining certain person as a party to appeal—Plaintiff aware of neglect but not knowing of legal consequences:

Held, S. 24 does not apply. S. 24 applies only to suits based on tort and not to suits based on contract. 11 Rang. 61=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 258=1938 Rang. L. R. 457=176 Ind. Cas. 608 (F.B.).

——S. 24—Scope of.

Section 24 cannot have any control over Art. 115 or Art. 116. Section 24 applies not to suits based on contract but to suits based on tort. A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 510=166 Ind. Cas. 48.

——S. 24—Scope.

Per Shah, J.—Soction 24 of the Limitation Act relates to an act which does not give rise to a cause of action unless some specific injury actually results therefrom. 84 Ind. Cas. 796=25 Bom. L.R. 1333=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 290.

——S. 24—Time, when runs.

Section 24 does not give, as the date from which time begins to run, the date on which the plaintiff became aware of the loss, but mentions the date on which the loss actually resulted. A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 310=164 Ind. Cas. 410.

——S. 24—Bodily injury — First suit for damages—Second suit for further injury consequential on the first injury.

Plaintiff is entitled to compensation not only for damages actually visible at the time when the suit is instituted or at the time of trial, but even such consequential damage as may reasonably be expected to arise in the future from the wrongful act complained of; where a plaintiff has sued for and recovered damages for injury to his person, a future suit for subsequent loss of the injured limb is not maintainable as it did not give rise to a fresh cause of action without any further wrong on the defendant's part. S. 24 of the Limitation Act was not at all applicable to the case. 1 Pat. L.T. 269=(1920) P.H.C.C. 193=58 Ind. Cas. 749.

——S. 24—'Injury'.

"Injury" in S. 24 of the Limitation Act includes a legal injury. 54 Bom. 226=32 Bom.L.R. 232=A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 572.

——S. 24—Malfeasance—Suits governed by Art. 36.

If a suit is for compensation for any malfeasance or misfeasance independent of contract and not otherwise provided for, the limitation will be two years not from the date of the malfeasance or misfeasance, but from the time when the injury results. 120 Ind. Cas. 626=10 P.L.T. 191=8 Pat. 776=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 245.

——S. 24, Arts. 2 and 38—Municipality — Suit against, for compensation for injury to plaintiff's estate resulting from acts of Municipality—Starting point of limitation—Punjab Municipal Act (20 of 1891), S. 120 (A)—Omissions to give notice.

There is no justification for the proposition that Art. 2 of the Limitation Act can apply only in those cases in which the defendant at the time of doing the act, which has subsequently resulted in injury to the plaintiff in so many words, says that he is acting under such a provision of law. When there is a provision of law limiting the time or regulating the procedure of bringing actions for things done in pursuance of an enactment, the defendant is entitled to the benefit of protection of such provision if he honestly believed in the existence of a state of facts which, if it had existed would have justified him under the enactment to do the thing complained of. The reasonableness of the belief may be honest, though it is an important element in determining the question of honesty. Art. 2 is evidently intended to afford protection to persons doing acts in pursuance of some enactment in force. The limitation which it prescribes applies to all cases when the parties are intending to act upon powers given by the enactment and not merely using it as a cloak for private purposes.

Held, that no doubt the Punjab Municipal Act provides that due notice shall be given before operations are commenced under S. 120-A, but whatever rights a person may have against a committee, if operations are commenced on his property in the absence of said notice, it was not open to the plaintiffs to contend that the committee cannot be said to have been acting under the provisions of the Municipal Act simply because the notice in question was not given for no objection was taken by the plaintiff on this score to the proceedings of the committee during the time that the operations were being carried out.

Held also, that though the act of the Municipality did not per se result in such immediate injury to the plaintiffs that they could have been entitled to sue at once for compensation was filed within the period of 90 days from the date when the injury consequential upon the said act actually occurred. 72 P.R. 1909=108 P.L.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 819.

——S. 25—Date of document.

Section 25 creates no presumption as to date of document—Document bearing English and non-English dates—Which of them is correct should be decided according to S. 96, Evidence Act. A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 587=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 502=1941 M.W.N. 335 (1)=53 M.L.W. 449 (1).

——S. 25—Exclusion of first day—Judgment-debtor asked to deposit certain sum within fifteen days from certain date—That date, if should be excluded.

It is desirable for the sake of uniformity that the same interpretation should be given to an expression occurring in a judicial order as would be given to it in a statute under S. 9, General Clauses Act, 1897. Hence, where in an execution of a decree, judgment-debtor is asked to deposit a sum within 15 days from a certain date that date has to be excluded. 40 Bom.L.R. 892=A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 447=I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 734=178 Ind. Cas. 78.

——S. 25—Bond—Six months provided for payment—Date fixed as per Kuar Sudhi Puran Mashi—Limitation.

Held, that the date of payment should be calculated as six months from April 16, 1924, the date of the bond and the suit was in time.
movable date with reference to the Gregorian Calendar and, therefore; cannot be taken as the Kuar Sudhi Puran Mashi of the Fasli year is a date of payment with reference to which limitation should be calculated in view of the provisions of S. 25 of the Limitation Act. 8 O.W.N. 834 =A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 357=134 Ind. Cas. 601.

——S. 25—Instalment bond — Date in Hindi.

A mortgage bond executed on 24th July, 1892, provided for the payment in 8 yearly instalments, each instalment had to be paid on Magha Sutha Powarnamasi of each year. The last payment was to be made on that day in 1956, corresponding to 14th of February, 1900. In a suit on the bond brought on 19th July, 1912, held it was barred by limitation. S. 25 did not apply to this case. The true test is on what date plaintiff was entitled to claim his money if payment was not made of any instalment fixed in the bond. 13 A.L.J. 486=29 Ind. Cas. 980.

——S. 25—Intention of parties.

If a question of limitation arises, an instrument must be deemed to have been made with reference to the Gregorian calendar, the intention of the parties being quite immaterial. 4 Bom. 103: 6 Bom. 83; 24 Cal. 382 Foll.; 13 A.L.J. 486 and A.I.R. 1925 All 138, Not foll. 105 Ind. Cas. 241=26 M.L.W. 344=39 M.L.T. 284=A.I.R. 1927 Mad 917=53 M.L.J. 447.

——S. 25—Other calendar mentioned—Presumption as to computation of time.

If, in the deed or bond concerned, there is a clear statement that repayments will be made on a particular Marathi month or after so many months calculated according to the Marathi calendar then S. 25 will not affect the date fixed for payment. But the circumstances that a bond bears an Indian date cannot be used in order to draw an inference regarding the meaning of the word "month" used in subsequent clauses in the bond. Therefore the mere fact that the rate of interest was to be at 1 per cent per mensem for each Marathi month, is an insufficient basis on which to build the theory that for purposes of repayments also the period was to be calculated on the basis of Marathi months. 102 Ind. Cas. 588 =10 N.L.J. 117=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 259.

——S. 25—Starting point—Intention of parties.

If the starting point is to be calculated, as so many months or so many years from a particular date that potni must be calculated according to the Gregorian calendar. On the other hand, if the starting point is otherwise fixed by the stipulation itself the Court cannot apply S. 25 of the Limitation Act. It is really a matter of interpretation in every case.

Where the intention was that the interest should be payable at the expiry of "six months" according to the Hindi calendar, that is to say, on a particular date and at the expiry of six months, and that the cause of action should arise on default. 82 Ind. Cas. 330=47 All. 66=22 A.L.J. 902=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 636=A.I.R. 1925 All. 138.

——S. 25—Exclusion of the first day of the cause of action—"Month" — Meaning of.

In computing the period of limitation, the day on which the occurrence giving rise to the cause of action happened, should be excluded. S. 25 has no bearing on the question of the meaning of the word "month" in a contract drawn in the English language. (1908) 13 C.W.N. 425=36 C. 516.

1. Applicability.

——S. 26—Applicability to Berar.

Though Easements Act is not in force in Berar, Limitation Act, S. 26 is. 96 Ind. Cas. 546=9 N.L.J. 136=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 474.

——S. 26—Applicability.

Where the plaintiff in a suit to restrain the defendant from obstructing an artificial watercourse fails to prove that he has used the water of the water course as of right, S. 26 of the Act will not avail him. 73 Ind. Cas. 489=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 257.

——S. 26—Applicability — Customary right.

A customary right of way for all the villagers is not a case of acquisition by prescription and is not governed by S. 26 of the Limitation Act. 65 Ind. Cas. 509 (Cal.).

——Ss. 26 and 27—Applicability—Easements.

Ss. 26 and 27 do not apply to cases where the easements are acquired under the Easements Act. The question even as regards an easement right claimed under the statutory prescription is not one of limitation, but whether the enjoyment necessary to acquire the prescriptive right, has been peaceable and as an easement without interruption for 20 years within 2 years before suit. 29 M.L.J. 685=18 M.L.T. 476=2 L.W. 1107=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 113=31 Ind. Cas. 528.

——S. 26—Applicability—Easement—Long user.

The section need not be applied where the plaintiff has an absolute and indefeasible right acquired many more than 20 years ago and enjoyed without interruption for a long time. 2 Ind. Cas. 410 (Cal.)

——S. 26—Applicability—Lost grant.

The provisions of S. 26 are not applicable where plaintiff sues for a declaration of a right of easement on the basis of lost grant, e.g., right to take water from a tank. 67 Ind. Cas. 244=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 291.

2. Discharge of rain water.

——S. 26—Discharge of surplus water — Burden of proof.

Where a right to discharge water on another's immovable property is claimed the onus is on the dominant owner to prove all the points which are necessary to establish an easement under S. 26 of the Limition Act. 91 Ind. Cas. 485=84 Ind. Cas. 676=26 P.L.R. 42=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 297.

——S. 26—Easement—Discharge of surplus water —Right to.

A plaintiff seeking to enforce a right to discharge surplus water through a watercourse may base his right either on the acquisition of an easement to be proved under S. 26 or as an alternative case on a natural right existing in him apart from any easement, provided the matter was brought before the trial Court in some form or other in which latter case on proof of the right the defendant has to establish the acquisition of a right to dam the flow under S. 26. 10 Bur.L.T. 38=35 Ind. Cas. 394.

——S. 26—Easement—Discharge of surplus water —Right to compel.

When the plaintiff has not proved the use of a watercourse carrying surplus water of adjoining lands over defendant's lands into his own peaceably and openly as an easement and as of right for statutory period within S. 26 of the plaintiff cannot compel the defendants, who claim to use the water entirely, to continue to discharge the water or prevent them from blocking up the channel in their own land, though the defendants and the adjoining owners may have acquired a right of easement to discharge such water on the plaintiff's land. 19 C.L.J. 45=22 Ind. Cas. 514.

——S. 26—Easement—Discharge of surplus water —Right to compel.

Where A has the right to discharge surplus rainfall from his land to B's land, no period of time will give B the right to compel A to send water on to him, provided A does not interfere with the flowing water in a natural and defined channel. Every owner of land has the natural right to collect or dispose of all water on the surface not passing in a defined channel. 4 Bur.L.T. 223=12 Ind. Cas. 27.

3. Essentials of acquisition.

——S. 26—Water diverted from its natural couse by erection of bund—Title by prescription.

The plaintiff's wet lands were irrigated by the water of his private tank which received water from a pond on plaintiff's land by means of a channel. The water from this pond tended naturally to flow south. In order to divert this water along the channel eastwards into the tank the plaintiff's father had built a bund on the southern side of the channel in or about 1888 and in this way the plaintiff's father and the plaintiff after him had uninterruptedly enjoyed the water flowing from the pond for the cultivation of their land from 1888 or thereabouts until 1936.

Held, that the plaintiff had made out a good title by prescription. A.I.R. 1948 P.C. 23.

——S. 26—Essentials of acquisition — Easement for use of water for irrigation—Proof of absolute continuous user—If necessary.

In the case of a claim of easement for use of water for irrigation or rights of an analogous nature, proof of absolute continuous user is not necessary. The right can be established by proof of periodical user, so long as the full period is covered, and the user has existed openly and uninterruptedly. 223 Ind. Cas. 470=50 C.W.N. 682=A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 444.

——S. 26—Essentials of acquisition.

Well used by people of mohalla constructed within living memory and property changing hands by sale—Right by prescription to use well cannot be said to have been acquired. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 191=41 P.L.R. 536=184 Ind. Cas. 76.

Proof of a customary easement is immensely more difficult than proof of an easement within the provisions of S. 26. The persons who rely on custom must prove that it was ancient, continuous, peaceable, reasonable, certain and compulsory. In other words, they must not only prove the elements required under S. 26, but something more. If the evidence shows that the right has been enjoyed for a considerable period, say 30 or 40 years; then the burden of negativing the right claimed is on those who deny its existence. It is unquestionable that the enjoyment must have been as of right, and neither by violence nor by stealth, nor by leave asked from time to time. Courts in India cannot apply the principle of English common law that a custom is not proved if it is not shown to have been enjoyed from time immemorial. If the pathway is claimed as a village pathway, and not as a public pathway; it is necessary to show that the user was of the pathway as a village pathway. In other words, the evidence must be that it was used by the inhabitants of the village or villages concerned as such, and not as members of the general public.

Where persons claim a right to a village pathway but none of the witnesses give evidence that the user of the pathway was as of right or that it was not by leave taken from anybody and all that the witnesses depose is that the pathway was used openly and without obstruction, such evidence would be quite consistent with the case of a permissive enjoyment and is not sufficient to prove a customary easement. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 202=66 C.L.J. 270=175 Ind. Cas. 252.

——S. 26—Easement—Acquisition by prescription—Essentials—'As of right', 'peaceably' and 'without interruption', meanings of — Presumption of lost grant—Indian and English law.

The term 'as of right' is not synonymous with 'rightfully' but signifies enjoyment by a person in the assertion of a right. It is enjoyment had, not secretly or by stealth or tacit sufferance or by leave or favour or by permission asked from time to time on each occasion or even on many occasions of using it, but an enjoyment had openly, notoriously, without particular leave, at any time by a person claiming to use it without danger of being treated as a trespasser and as a matter of right.

All that the word 'peaceable' in S. 26 means is that the plaintiff who claims to be the dominant owner has neither been obliged to resort to physical force himself at any time to exercise his right within 20 years expiring within two years of the suit, nor had he been prevented by the use of physical force by the defendant in his enjoyment of such right. A mere denial by the defendant of the plaintiff's alleged right and his unsuccessful attempt to have this right negatived in Courts of Law, does not affect the plaintiff's acquisition of easement.

In India, the acquisition of easement by prescription depends upon positive enactments and it is not necessary that any presumption of a supposed grant and its subsequent loss need be made.

In India, an 'interruption,' to be effective; must result in actual discontinuance of the enjoyment of the right of the claimant. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 395=33 P.L.R. 139=12 Lah. 741=135 Ind. Cas. 51.

——S. 26—Essentials of acquisition.

In order to establish a right of easement it is enough for the plaintiff to prove that he has been exercising the right without interruption, without express or implied permission of the owner of the dominant tenement and without secrecy or stealth. 87 Ind. Cas. 19=41 C.L.J. 379=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 788.

——S. 26—Easement—Acquisition—Essentials.

To become an easement the enjoyment of a right must be open, peaceable and as of right; and so the ability of the servient owner to stop the enjoyment, irrespectively of the dominant owner's will, is inconsistent with the idea of a real easement existing. 4 P.R. 1917=37 Ind. Cas. 788.

——S. 26—Easement—Supply of water from natural stream—Acquisition.

An easement of the supply of water from a natural stream may be acquired by twenty years' user under the provisions of S. 26 of the Limitation Act. 35 P.R. 1895, Foll. 49 P.R. 1888, not Foll. 57 P.R. 1918=130 P.W.R. 1918=104 P.L.R. 1918=46 Ind. Cas. 441.

——S. 26—Easement—Essentials of acquisition—Peaceable enjoyment for 20 years.

Where an easement is enjoyed peaceably and uninterruptedly for 20 years, the requirements of S. 26 of the Limitation Act are fulfilled and the right becomes absolute. 26 Ind. Cas. 781 (Cal.).

4. Extinction of easement.

——S. 26—Extinction of easement—Mere failure to exercise right within 2 years before suit.

Where an easement to carry water in a channel across the defendant's land for purposes of irrigation was established, the mere failure to exercise the right for a period of two years prior to suit does not extinguish the right of easement, nor does the mere fact that one year the plaintiffs irrigated one of their fields from another well affect their right of easement. 118 Ind. Cas. 521=A.I.R. 1929 All. 497.

——S. 26—Extinction of easement—Where a suit for asserting a prescriptive right is not brought within two years of the termination of the user, the right of user is lost. 120 Ind. Cas. 658=7 Rang. 487=A.I.R. 1929 Rang. 300.

——S. 26—Easement—Extinction — Question of fact.

An easement once acquired is not necessarily lost by mere non-user; the question of abandonment is one of intention which should be on the facts of the case decided. 7 Ind. Cas. 813 (Cal.)

5. Fishery.

——S. 26 (2)—Prescriptive right to fishery in public navigable river.

To acquire an exclusive prescriptive right of fishery in a public navigable river as an easement the user must be in assertion of a right higher than the general right of the public to fish in such rivers. 49 C.W.N. 539=A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 12=224 Ind. Cas. 175.

——S. 26, Sch. I, Art. 144—Jalkar rights; whether easement or rights in immovable property——Applicability of Art. 144—Grant — Construction—Jalkar right, whether passes without express words.

A case of exclusive right to fishing falls within the definition of interest in immovable property under Art. 144 and adverse possession of such a right for more than 12 years would, by the operation of Art. 28 of the Limitation Act, extinguish the right of the lawful owner to that extent, although such a right where it is claimed without any exclusion of the owner or in common with others may fall under definition of easement and may require twenty years' enjoyment.

Where there is evidence to show that the owner of a village has been treating the jalkar as forming part of the village settlement of the village would convey jalkar even though this right is not expressly conveyed. A. I.R. 1932 Cal. 300=35 C.W.N. 1256=59 Cal. 344=137 Ind. Cas. 279 (2).

If the right claimed is a mere right to fish not excluding the lawful owner, it would appear to be an easement within the description of the word in the Limitation Act and can be acquired by 20 years' uninterrupted enjoyment. If it is an exclusive right of fishery it is an interest in immovable property and can be acquired by 12 years' adverse possession involving an ouster of the rightful owner. Such a right contains all the essential elements of property and even if it may properly be described as a profit a prendre, it has also the distinctive features of an interest in immovable property. Even if S. 26 of the Act should be applicable, this would not bar the operation of Art. 144 and S. 28 if the right came under both descriptions. 2 P.L.J. 283, Foll. 67 Ind. Cas. 954=1 Pat. 674=3 P.L.T. 477=1 Pat.L.R. Civ. 34=A.I.R. 1923 Pat. 58.

——S- 26—Fishery — Private rights — How acqnired—Prescription.

Private rights of fishing in public waters may be acquired either by a grant from the crown or by prescription from which a grant may be presumed.

Quaere.—Whether exclusive rights can be acquired in a tidal or navigable river by proof of mere enjoyment in the manner provided by S. 26 of the Limitation Act. A person to acquire the right of fishery, by prescription must show that he had an uninterrupted enjoyment of it openly, publicly and peacefully for over the statutory period; but where such an enjoyment was in exercise of a common right which he shared with others, he should show that his user was in assertion of a higher right than the general right, in himself and for exclusive benefit. 39 Cal. 53=15 C.W.N. 972=11 Ind. Cas. 180.

——S. 26—Fishery — Right of — Easement.

A right of fishing is an easement under S. 26, Limitation Act. A plaintiff claiming a statutory easement of fishery must prove that the right was exercised within two years before the commencement of the suit; but not so where plaintiff traces the right to the end of the 18th century. 14 C.L.J. 572=12 Ind. Cas. 305.

6. Interpretation.

——S. 26 (2)—Interpretation — "Belongs", meaning of—Servient tenement being transferee from Crown—60 years' rule, if applies.

In S. 26 (2), Limitation Act; the word "belongs" should be given its plain meaning and should not be interpreted by a forced construction as equivalent to "has belonged" Where, therefore, an easement is claimed over some property in the hands of a transferee from the Crown, the right would be acquired against the transferee to whom the property belongs by the expiry of a period of 20 years within two years' next before the suit brought. The 60 years' rule has no application. 44 P.L.R. 116=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 124=I.L.R. (1943) Lah. 129=200 Ind. Cas. 438.

——S. 26—Interpretations.

"Easement", does not include customary right to use certain well on ground that it has been used by public. 41 P.L.R. 330=A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 12=182 Ind. Cas. 525.

——S. 26—Interpretations.

The expression "as of right" means more than "rightfully" or ' without trespass and under a strict legal right' and imports a claim or assertion of right to act against the will of the servient owner. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 423=19 P.L.T. 511=4 B.R. 806=177 Ind. Cas. 315.

——S. 26—Interpretation — 'As of right,' meaning of — Acquisition of right under — Light and air.

Under S. 26, the words 'as of right' mean 'nec vi, nec clam, nec precario.' Where premises in joint ownership were partitioned and the partition deed directed that the owners of each allotment were to make their allotments self-supporting and independent of all support from other allotments, and it was further directed that all allotments immediately adjoining any other allotment and overtaking it should be closed permanently.

In such circumstances, if one of them allowed air and light to the other's premises through his own premises for twenty years, unless it were shown that the latter's enjoyment was permissive the enjoyment would be as of right.

A right under S. 26 can be acquired even where one of the walls of the dominant tenement through the aperture of which light comes belongs to the owner of the adjoining servient tenements. A. I.R. 1932 Cal. 249=35 C.W.N. 963=59 Cal. 260=138 Ind. Cas. 193.

——S. 26—"As of right"—Interpretation.

An open user continued without interruption for a period of over 20 years and not shown to be attributable to permission or sufferance on the owner's part is prima facie evidence of enjoyment as of right, within the meaning of S. 26 of the Limitation Act. Failure on the part of Court to draw such a presumption will be an error of law making a second appeal competent. 85 Ind. Cas. 81=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 270.

——S. 26 — Interpretation — "As of right"—Meaning of.

User as of right implies a user against the will of the owner of the property over which the user is sought: and so an annual payment for the use of a mill negatives the idea of the user being as of right, and consequently there can be no easement in such a case. 4 P.R. 1917=37 Ind. Cas. 788.

——S. 26—Interpretation—Person.

The term "person" in the first clause of S. 26 cannot be limited to the narrow meaning of individual, but when the claim to a right of way is made in virtue of the occupation of a piece of land, the terms means and includes the person in occupation of that land, whether that person is the same individual throughout the period of twenty years or not. 70 Ind. Cas. 915=4 U.B.R. 90= 1 Bur.L.J. 99=A.I.R. 1922 U.B. 23

7. Right of way.

——S. 26—Right of way.

The right of way claimed by the public or a section of public over certain lands described as village pathway is not a right of easement and is not governed by S. 26, Limitation Act. 25 P.L. T. 192=10 C.L.T. 78=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 118= 220 Ind. Cas. 511.

——S. 26—Right of way.

Tenant of one land, cannot acquire for himself or on behalf of landlord right of way, as of right upon another land of his own. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 421=1940 Rang.L.R. 93=185 Ind. Cas. 605.

——S. 26—Right of way.

Municipal sweepers passing over land of person to clean latrine over another person's land— Such user by sweepers, cannot entitle owner of latrine to claim right of way. A.I.R. 1939 Rang. 34=180 Ind. Cas. 477.

——S. 26—Presumption — Right of way.

Where a right of way has been used peaceably and openly without interruption for 20 years not attributable to any permission or sufferance on the part of any person whatsoever its user as of right may be legally inferred. 1 Lah. 206, Foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 186=29 P.L.R. 567.

——S. 26—User as of right—Open user for 20 years—Right of way.

An open user of a right of way for twenty years without interruption and without sufference on the owner's part is an enjoyment as of right within S. 26 of Limitation Act. Plaintiffs and defendants were co-sharers in a well. Plaintiffs had used a road across defendant's fields without let or hindrance for a period of 20 years and this road they could use to gain access to the well.

Held, that having regard to the habits of the people of this country, the enjoyment of the road "as of right" within S. 26 of the Limitation Act should have been presumed. 113 P.L.R. 1920=1 Lah. 206=56 Ind. Cas. 728.

——S. 26—User as of right—Private right of way —Origin — Special damage — Adquiescence— Enjoyment as of right must be "Nec vi, nec clam, nec precario."

In S. 26, the conditions 'Nec vi nec clam" are separately provided in the words "peaceably and openly." It is therefore probable, that the special force of "of right" lies in the words 'Nec Precario' which exclude enjoyment by caprice or the mere will or favour of the owner of the servient tenement. 'Special damage' need not be proved in the case of a private right of way. Mere acquiescence is enough; it need not be shown how the right originated. 3 Bur.L.T. 100=8 Ind. Cas. 1196.

——S. 26—Right of way—Enjoyment as of right.

Where the parties, brothers, had a common deorhi and both of them partitioned the house and defendant agreed to build another door-way but did not do so and continued to use the old deorhi, his user for the prescriptive period confers a right of way on him. 3 Ind. Cas. 271 (Lah.).

——S. 26—Right of way — Cessation of user— Effect of.

A person may be said to be in 'enjoyment' of a right of way during a period of time, though he does not actually "use" the way every moment. Cessation of user for a time is not an invariable indication of abeyance of enjoyment of a right. 29 C.L.J. 421=51 Ind. Cas. 372.

——S. 26—Right of way—Non user for two years prior to suit.

A plaintiff bringing an action for obstuction of a right of way for boats is not barred by S. 26 of the Limitation Act by non-user within two years prior to the institution of the suit. 8 C. 132, Foll. 26 Ind. Cas. 485 (Cal.).

——S. 26—Right of way—User by public — Presumption.

The user of a road by the public openly and as of right is sufficient, apart from the law laid down in the Limitation Act, 1877, S. 26; to raise a presumption of its dedication to their use, though such presumption might be rebutted by evidence of the owner's intention that the public should only have a permissive use or that the dedication was implied to a particular class of persons only. 62 P.R. 1898; 4 I.C. 870, Foll.; 8 I.C. 175, Foll. 108 P.R. 1916=146 P. W. R. 1916=35 Ind. Cas. 458.

——S. 26—Right of way — User as of right—Onus.

Under S. 26 of the Limitation Act which is the law in force in India, a right of way claimed must be proved to have been used as of right and the onus is on the plaintiff to prove it. 18 Ind. Cas. 211 (Cal.).

——S. 26—Way—User as of right — Limitation Act, S. 26.

In a suit to establish a right of way, the propriety of the English rule that the presumption from user should be that the user as of right must depend upon the circumstances, not only of each particular case, but also of each particular country, regard being had to the habits of the people of the country. It would be right to draw here the same inference from user that would be proper and legitimate in a case arising in England. Under S. 26 of the Limitation Act, the onus is upon the plaintiff to prove that the user was as of right. (1903) 8 C.W.N. 359.

8. Scope.

——S. 26—Scope—If exhaustive — Other "easement"—Right to store manure on land of another —Acquisition by prescription.

In view of the words "other easement" in S. 26 of the Easements Act, it must be held that the section is not exhaustive, and other easements not specifically mentioned in the section can be acquired: e.g., the right of storing manure on land belonging to another, being a right which is beneficial to the enjoyment of the property of the persons enjoying that right over the land of another, can be acquired in the same way as other similar right by prescription, if the user has continued for the prescribed period. Where the right claimed and enjoyed is only over a small portion of a larger area, it cannot be said that there would be total prescription off the subject-matter of the easement. 224 Ind. Cas. 286=A.I.R. 1947 Lah. 79.

——S. 26—Scope — Prescriptive right based on immemorial user — If may be claimed—Minimum period of enjoyment necessary—Value of evidence in aggregate — If to be seen.

Apart from S. 26 of the Limitation Act, a right of prescription may also be claimed and established on the basis of immemorial user justifying a presumption of grant or agreement. In order to establish immemorial user so as to justify any presumption of easement by lost grant, no particular period has been prescribed and can, therefore, be said to be essential; but where such right is based on a claim of continuous or uninterrupted user alone, proof of enjoyment for any period not exceeding 20 years—because that period is mentioned in S. 26 of the Limitation Act—will ordinarily be considered insufficient. It is the value of the evidence in the aggregate which is to be seen in order to determine finally whether the plaintiffs have established generally their claim of a right of irrigation by proof of enjoyment for such a minimum period as would establish a case of acquisition of easement by lost grant. 223 Ind. Cas. 470=50 C.W.N. 682=A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 444.

——Ss. 26 to 28—Scope.

Sections 26 to 28 provide for acquisition of ownership by possession. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 181 =19 Pat. 852=7 B.R. 739=22 P.L.T. 986=194 Ind. Cas. 243.

——S. 26—Scope — Limitation Act, whether excludes other modes of acquiring easements.

The Limitation Act is remedial, and is neither prohibitory nor exhaustive. A man may acquire a title under it who has no other right at all but it does not exclude or interfere with other titles and modes of acquiring easements. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 193=1939 N.L.J. 246=I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 460=183 Ind. Cas. 341.

——S. 26—Scope—Capacity or incapacity of servient owner to make grant, if relevant—Obstruction not submitted to or acquiesced in for one year

Section 26, Limitation Act allows an easement irrespective of the capacity or incapacity of the servient owner to make a grant.

Though an obstruction which is not submitted to or acquiesced in for one year is not an interruption within the meaning of S. 26, the easement becomes "absolute and indefeasible" on enjoyment of 20 years "ending within two years next before the institution of the suit wherein the claim to which such period relates is contested."

The fact that a person has built a wall projecting on a public road does not deprive him of his right of having access from his land to the road at any place he chooses. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 423 =19 P.L.T. 511=4 B.R. 806=177 Ind. Cas. 315.

——S. 26—Scope.

Section 26 is neither prohibitory nor exhaustive and does not exclude or interfere with other modes of acquiring easements. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 56=154 Ind. Cas. 468.

——S. 26—Scope.

A title to easement is not complete merely upon the effluxion of the period mentioned in the statute, viz., 20 years and however long the period of actual enjoyment may be, no absolute or indefeasible right can be acquired until it is so brought in question in some suit, and until it is so brought in question, the right is inchoate only and in order to establish it when brought in question, the enjoyment relied on, must be an enjoyment for 20 years up to within two years of the institution of the suit. 119 Ind. Cas. 293=33 C. W.N. 517=56 Cal. 927=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 542.

——S. 26 — Scope — Statute not exhaustive—Profits a prende.

The word 'easement' is wider than the meaning of the word in English Law and would include at least a profit a prendre. The object of the Statute was to make more easy the establishment of rights of this description, but it is remedial, and neither prohibitory nor exhaustive and it does not exclude or interfere with other modes of acquiring easements and, therefore it is open to the plaintiff to show, if he can that he is entitled to a right which may be of that nature although not actually within the strict meaning of the term.

Per Chakravarti, J.—In Bengal, where the mode of dedication of tanks is so widely known, when one finds that a tank exists from a long time past and the public have enjoyed the use of the water of such a tank, it is open to the Court to presume that the water of such a tank was dedicated by the owner for public use. It is not necessary in such cases to seek the aid of S. 26. 91 Ind. Cas. 712=100 Ind. Cas. 321=53 Cal. 1016=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 507.

——S. 26—Scope—Section not exhaustive.

Section 26 provides for the acquisition by peaceable enjoyment without interruption for a period of 20 years of a right of easement either in a water course or in any other matter, but if one is claiming a right given under that section then he has to prove that the right has been exercised for 20 years and that there has been no interruption of the right at any period further back than two years before the commencement of the suit.

The acquisition of the right of easement referred to in S. 26 of the Act is not the only method of acquiring a right of easement. The section is not exhaustive, and if a right of easement is acquired by any other method such as by a grant either proved or implied then S. 26 can have no operation to a suit brought to enforce such a grant. The bject of the statute is to make more easy the establishment of rights of easement by allowing an enjoyment of 20 years, if exercised under the conditions prescribed by the Act to give without, more, a title to easement. But the statute is remedial and is neither prohibitory nor exhaustive. A man may acquire a title under it who has no other right at all; but it does not exclude or interfere with other titles and modes of acquiring easements. 90 Ind. Cas. 356=7 P.L.T. 260=1925 P.H.C.C. 250=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 748.

——S. 26—Scope—Section not exhaustive.

To establish a right of easement it is not necessary for a party to rely on the provisions of S. 26 of the Act if the existence of the right could be otherwise stablished. 70 Ind. Cas. 268=36 C.L. J. 280=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 200.

——S. 26—Scope of.

S. 26 is concerned only with the acquisition of the easement and not with the extent of the right or with the remedy by which a disturbance of the right may be vindicated, for which English Law would have to be resorted to. 39 Cal. 59=12 Ind. Cas. 60.

——S. 26—Scope—Prescriptive rights.

Per White, C. J.—The policy of the law is to give rights by prescription. (1900) 24 M. 471 (F.B.).

9. What is an easement.

——S. 26—What is an easement.

Taking a water-course through another person's property is an easement within the meaning of S. 26. 100 Ind. Cas. 498=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 216.

——S. 26—What is an easement — Immemorial user.

The plea that the defendants had been using a particular Kul from time immemorial, does not amount to setting up a plea of easement. 80 Ind. Cas. 197=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 605.

——S. 26—Ferry—If easement.

A ferry is not an easement within S. 26. 9 Ind. Cas. 846 (Cal.)

——S. 26—Ferry—Right to maintain — Easement —Right of easement.

The right to establish and maintain a ferry over the property of another is a right of easement and to make it absolute it should be exercised as an easement and as of right for twenty years. Acts referable to an exercise of easement are distinct from those of user, the latter alone constitute dispossession, the former do not. 1 Pat.L.T. 395 =5 Pat.L.J. 500=(1920) P. H. C. C. 297=57 Ind. Cas. 516.

10. Miscellaneous.

——S. 26—Ancient lights—Interference with convenience should be proved.

Per Rankin, C. J.—Where there has been an interference with ancient lights, the law refuses an action unless there has been a real interference with convenience or comfort of the dominant premises as regards their nature and situation. 102 Ind. Cas. 370=31 C.W.N. 419=45 C.L.J. 474 =A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 345.

——S. 26—Defence.

There is no bar of limitation to a defence unless the suit for the relief involved in the defence falls within S. 26 or 28. 30 Mad. 444, Foll. 59 Ind. Cas. 118=45 Bom. 45=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 257.

——S. 26—Grant of easement by co-sharer.

None of the proprietors can do anything which alters the condition of the joint property without the consent of all the co-sharers, e.g., one co-sharer cannot grant an easement to the detriment of the other co-sharers. 100 Ind. Cas. 498=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 216.

——S. 26—Intermittent user—Tanks.

User of an intermittent nature unaccompanied by assertion of right is very common in this country and arouses no opposition. A pond is not susceptible of actual physical possession by the legal owner and possession follows title, unless the usurper can prove long and continuous exclusion of rightful owner. 74 Ind. Cas. 282=4 L.L.J. 461=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 59.

——S. 26—Obstruction to light and air—Injunction—Prima facie remedy.

Where the building proposed to be built by defendant will block the plaintiff's windows for the free passage of light and air to which plaintiff has acquired an easement, defendant can be restrained by injunction, from constructing building.

Any act by the defendant which controls or obstructs the light and air to which the plaintiff is entitled is prima facie an injury of a serious character. 8 Bom. 95, Foll.

Prima facie the plaintiff is entitled to an injunction. An injunction is the rule and damages the exception in cases of this nature. It cannot be held that if it was possible for the plaintiff to neutralise the effect of the defendant's buildings, by altering or re-arranging his own buildings, then compensation in money would afford adequate relief. It having been proved that the plaintiff has acquired an easement whereby he is entitled to have free access of light and air through this window, he is prima facie entitled to be maintained in his enjoyment of the said easement. 21 M.L.J. 313, Foll.

The grant of an injunction is purely a matter of discretion, a discretion which is to be exercised in a judicial manner. 67 Ind. Cas. 288=72 P.L.R. 1922=A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 372.

——S. 26—Obstruction — Filling up channel — When amounts to.

The mere filling up of a water channel will not necessarily constitute an obstruction of the plaintiff's enjoyment of his right within S. 26, if no water for irrigation was required at that time and there was no refusal by defendants to reopen it. 25 Ind. Cas. 386 (Cal.).

——S. 26—Easement — User for 19 years, 6 months.

In recokoning the period of 20 years obstruction acquiesced in for less than one year before suit must be ignored and a plaintiff who has proved enjoyment of a right for 19 years and a fraction within one year before suit, must be taken to have established his right of easement. An easement can therefore be acquired after an enjoyment of 19 years and a fraction and the 20 years period in S. 26 is accordingly curtailed by the explanation. 48 P.R. 1918=46 Ind. Cas. 17.

——S. 26—Period of user after institution of suit —Whether can be added.

A person is not entitled to add the period of user after the institution of the suit, for the purpose of acquiring by prescription a right of easement. Such user is not peaceable but disputed after the institution of the suit. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 310=39 C.W.N. 1202=163 Ind. Cas. 56.

——S. 26—Threat to create easement.—Explanation to the section.

A mere denial of right affords a cause of action. Any person whose property is threatened with a servitude may bring a suit for a declaration that an easement is enjoyed on sufferance and not as of right. The effect of the Explanation to S. 26 of the Limitation Act is to confer an indefeasible right of easement on any person after an enjoyment of anything over nineteen years, provided he waits less than one year before challenging an interruption and the beginning of his enjoyment arose twenty years before suit, but the Explanation does not come into operation if at the time of suit there is no interruption at all. 75 Ind. Cas. 608=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 628.

——S. 26—User as of right—Onus.

Under S. 26 of the Limitation Act, the onus is on the plaintiff to prove the user was as of right. The presumption to be drawn from user is a question of fact depending on the circumstances of the case. 8 C.W.N. 359, Foll. 19 Ind. Cas. 66 (Cal.).

——S. 27. See also EASEMENT ACT, SS. 15, 16.

——S. 27—Applicability—Transferee from Hindu Widow as representing estate—Obiter.

S. 27 of the Limitation Act does not apply to a donee or transferee from a Hindu widow in virtue of her powers as representing the estate, as in such a case the transferee succeeds the widow in her capacity as full owner and not as upon the determination of her life interest. 41 Ind. Cas. 47 (Cal.).

——S. 28 and Arts. 142 and 144—Adverse possession—Essentials—Claim to title by—Purchase of wakf property at sale in insolvency—Suit for declaration of title on ground of continuous, exclusive and undisturbed possession of predecessors in interest—Test to apply—Mere trespasser and purchaser for value—Distinction.

Where a person claims a declaration of title to property which is alleged to be wakf, purchased by him at a sale by the Official Assignee in insolvency, on the ground of continuous, open exclusive and undisturbed possession within twelve years of suit by his predecessors in interest and by himself, the proper test to be applied is whether the predecessors of the plaintiff for a period of 12 years or more exercised such dominion over the property in suit as to justify the inference of fact that they were in possession of the whole property. It is not necessary that he should prove affirmatively that his predecessors had actually been in physical possession of every square inch of the land; but it should be considered whether the acts of possession which have been proved would legitimately show that the predecessors of the plaintiff had enjoyed such dominion over this property in the manner in which such dominion is normally exercised, so as to acquire title under S. 28, Limitation Act. The principle that the claim of a mere trespasser to title by adverse possession will be confined to the property of which he has been in actual possession has no application to the case of a person who is not a mere trespasser, but who has purchased the property for value from a person claiming under one who was put into possession by an order of Court, whether or not such order was rightly made. 29 P.L.T. 23=50 Bom.L.R. 632=1948 A.L.J. 221 =A.I.R. 1948 P.C. 76=52 C.W.N. 382=61 L. ——S. 28—Delivery of possession under decree—Entry, if effective against third party—Proof of adverse possession—Necessity of.

Delivery of possession under a decree is sufficient to operate as an entry on the property as against the parties against whom a decree is held but not against third parties though the delivery purports to be of the whole interest in the property. To establish an entry, the owner must show something further. He must show that he has exercised acts of possession over the property. On the other hand, if the plaintiffs should wish the Court to hold that they acquired a title by adverse possession, they must show that such possession was adequate in continuity, in publicity and in extent and continued so right down to the expiry of the period required to extinguish the right of the owner to the property within the terms of S. 28. 15 P.L.T. 342=A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 485= 154 Ind. ——S. 28—Adverse possession—Onus and proof.

If a tenant pays no rent, it does not follow therefrom that he is in adverse possession. 100 Ind. Cas. 73=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 759.

——S. 28—Adverse possession—Onus.

Where a person pleads title by prescription he must prove possession for the full statutory period. Possession for a shorter period does not shift the onus on to the original owner to show that possession became adverse within the statutory period. 39 Mad. 617=31 M.L.J. 324=20 C.W.N. 1311=(1916) 2 M.W.N. 224=14 A. ——S. 28—Adverse possession — Where owner's right to sue subsists.

Acquisition of a good prescriptive title in the property is the corresponding effect of the right to the property being extinguished by determination of the period of limitation to any person instituting a suit. When that right is not determined a good title in the trespassers cannot follow. 115 Ind. Cas. 613=9 L.R.A. Rev. 263=A.I.R. 1928 All. 625.

——S. 28—Mere possession, if amounts to adverse possession.

A right of property which is vested in one person is not transferred by the mere lapse of time to the person actually in possession. 74 Ind. Cas. 476=50 I.A. 202=26 O.C. 231=21 A.L. 2. Applicability.

——S. 28—Applicability.

Section 28 of the Limitation Act will not apply unless the person in possession is in adverse possession to the knowledge of the owner. 1944 O. W.N. 217=1944 A.W.R. 150=A.I.R. 1944 Oudh 250=19 Luck. 531=219 Ind. Cas. 115.

——S. 28—Applicability — Right to assessment —Suit for—Whether one for possession of property within S. 28.

Although a right to assessment may, for certain purposes, be regarded as immovable property, it is quite impossible to say that a suit to recover assessment is a suit for possession of any property. A right to recover assessment is a mere right in action. A suit for rent is a suit for rent in the form in which it is payable, which is generally in money, but may be in kind. It is certainly not a suit for possession of specific property. Consequently, a suit to levy assessment on rent free land is not a suit for possession of property within the meaning of S. 28, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 174=44 Bom.L.R. 288=I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 326=201 Ind. Cas. 120.

——S. 28—Applicability.

Grant to khorposhdar of rent income, only of abadi lands in village—Rights in respect of jungle and waste land forming separate block not given —Rights in respect of usufruct of jungle and of selling and cutting trees enjoyed by grantee and his successors for more than 12 years as of right to the knowlege of grantor and his successors— Held, S. 28 applied and rights in jungle were lost by adverse possession to successors of grantor. 5 B.R. 676=A.I.R: 1939 Pat. 587=181 Ind. Cas. 777.

——S. 28—Applicability.

Section 28 or Art. 113 does not apply to a right of defence under S. 53-A of T. P. Act. A. I.R. 1939 Cal. 163=I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 328= 42 C.W.N. 630=182 Ind. Cas. 389.

——S. 28—Applicability.

It is true that by reason of the provisions of S. 28, Limitation Act, there is in special cases no difference between the extinguishment of right and the inability to enforce them through the Courts, but S. 28 applies to special cases. Ordinarily, limitation does not extinguish rights. It prohibits their enforcement through the Courts. A.I.R. 1937 Sind 273=31 S.L.R. 180=172 Ind. Cas. 520.

——S. 28—Applicability — Principle of S. 28 if can be applied to cases governed by local laws.

Section 28 does not, in terms; apply to cases under special and local laws but the principle underlying it is of general application and can be applied to cases governed by local laws. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 787=39 P.L.R. 982=I.L.R. (1937) Lah. 517=160 Ind. Cas. 1000=36 Cr.L.J. 1161.

——S. 28—Applicability — Failure to bring suit for declaration on rejection of claim in execution.

Section 28 has no application to a suit to establish the plaintiff's right to properties covered by an adverse order passed in claim proceedings as such a suit is not one for possession. Hence the plaintiff's right to the property is not extinguished on his failure to bring a suit within one year under this article. (1935) M.W.N. 763=42 L. W. 710=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1015=158 Ind. Cas. 863.

——S. 28—Applicability.

Neither S. 28 nor the principle thereof can be applied to cases where, during the period of the alleged adverse possession, no suit for possession could have been instituted in a Civil Court. The language of S. 28 applies only to cases of suit for possession in respect of which the period of limitation is thereby provided, that is, by Sch. II, Lim. Act. But the Lim. Act does not apply to suits to be brought in Revenue Courts. A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 914=(1935) M.W.N. 1071=42 L.W. 558=69 M.L.J. 890=59 M. 51=161 Ind. Cas. 447.

——S. 28—Applicability and scope.

Section 28 applies to cases under the C. P. Ten. Act, under the provisions of R. 104 of the Act. Consequently, a land-lord can eject one party to an exchange, because he must be considered a trespasser as against the land-lord and not a licensee of the original tenant, whose rights have been determined by the provisions of S. 28 of the Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1934 Nag. 61=30 N.L.R. 208=148 Ind. Cas. 733.

——S. 28—Applicability.

The property in dispute was owned by the predecessors-in-interest of the plaintiffs and defendants Nos. 18 to 22 and the other half by A, a collateral of the aforesaid persons and defendants Nos. 1 to 17. In 1903, A sold his half share with other properties to the fathers of plaintiffs Nos. 1, 2 and 3. The predecessors-in-interest of defendants Nos. 1 to 17, who were collateral heirs of A obtained a decree in 1907 declaring that the sale was not binding on them. The possession, however, continued with plaintiffs Nos. 1 to 3. A died in 1919 and the estate of A devolved on the plaintiffs and defendants as collateral heirs. Defendants Nos. 1 to 17 applied for partition. The plaintiffs instituted a suit for a declaration in 1923:

Held, that as the sale by A was only to plaintiffs Nos. 1 to 3, the provisions of Art. 2 (b) read with S. 28, Lim. Act could not be availed of by the other plaintiffs who had to prove adverse possession for over 12 years. A..I.R. 1931 Lah. 439=131 Ind. Cas. 105.

——S 28—Applicability—Beneficiary under will—Cause of action accruing during administration.

Where a cause of action has accrued after the death of the testator but before administration is completed the beneficiary will be barred if the executor fails to sue within the period prescribed by law; for the estate is still the estate of the testator and not the estate of the beneficiary who may be a life-tenant under the will of the testator and consequently a title that may be acquired by a stranger by lapse of time will be a title acquired against the testator and not against the life-tenant. 83 Ind. Cas. 812=3 Pat. 880=5 P.L.T. 513=A.I.R. 1924 Pat. 721.

——S. 28—Applicability—Declaratory suits.

The section is limited to suits for possession and cannot be extended to suits for a declaration. 69 P.R. 1909 =103 P.W.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 981.

——S. 28 and Sch. 1—Applicability—Defence.

Sch. 1 provides periods of limitation within which a "suit" must be brought. Neither Sch. 1 nor S. 28 applies to defences. 1 P.R. 1916=206 P.W.R. 1915=32 Ind. Cas. 485.

——S. 28 and Art. 144 — Applicability—Discontinuous user—Right to cut wood from trees—Adverse possession.

Plff.'s ancestor obtained leave in 1867 to plant trees on land belonging to the Government. He was to do so at his own expense and to tend them; the only right he was entitled to, was to get the fallen dry wood from the trees. Certain transfers of the village took place, and on two occasions, viz., once in 1900, and another time in 1910, the deft. who purchased the village got the proceeds of sales of such wood. The plffs. on both the occasions asserted their claim to wood or the price thereof but were unsuccessful. Within six years from the date of the last sale they brought the suit for declaration of their right to get the dry wood under the agreement of 1867. Held, that the plff.'s right to take and appropriate wood from trees when fallen and cut being one which could only be exercised on occasions that is, when the wood might fall or be cut from the trees and not occurring every year or at stated times, and their having been disputes as to the right between the parties on two previous occasions there could be no adverse possession. Quaere.—Whether S. 28 of the Limitation Act applies at all to the case like this. 40 All. 461=16 A.L.J. 345=44 Ind. Cas. 980.

——S. 28—Applicability—Land-lord and tenant—C.P. Tenancy Act, S. 104 (4).

Section 28, Limitation Act does apply in view of the provision contained in S. 104, sub-S. (4), C. P. Tenancy Act, to a case where the remedy by way of suit by the tenants is lost, having regard to Art. 1, Sch. II, Tenancy Act, and the tenancy right is extinguished with the loss of the remedial right to recover possession. 109 Ind. Cas. 403=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 281.

——S. 28—Applicability.

Section 28, Limitation Act applies to the right in a tenancy in the Central Provinces. A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 352.

——S. 28—Applicability.

Not only the express provisions, but even the under lying principle of S. 28 of the Limitation Act does not apply to the law of tenancy in the Central Provinces. 89 Ind. Cas. 752=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 99.

——S. 28—Scope and effect.

A right to levy assessment on rent-free land is governed by Art. 130 and under S. 28 is extinguished if no suit to enforce the right is brought within the time. 5 Cal. 949, Foll. 61 Ind. Cas. 40=45 Bom. 694=23 Bom. L.R. 314=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 303.

——S. 28—Applicability—Minor—Sale of minor's property by unauthorised person.

A minor is entitled to bring a suit for possession within three years on attaining his majority to undo what an unauthorised person has done on his behalf and so long as the minor's right to sue for possession subsists and has not been extinguished under S. 28, Lim. Act, no adverse possession can mature against him. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 924=160 Ind. Cas. 557.

——S. 28—Applicability — Minor — Alienation by natural guardian of minor's property—Minor attaining majority—Sale by minor—Suit by minor and vendee to set aside sale by guardian—Minor withdrawing from suit.

Certain property belonging to a minor G was sold in 1912 by his father, his natural guardian. On coming of age in 1923, G sold the property to P in 1925, and G and P in April, 1926, instituted a suit for declaration that the sale of 1912 was not one for necessity, and for recovery of possession of the property. In August 1926, before the suit was decided, G withdrew from the suit with Court's permission and without any objection on the part of P:

Held, that as G had withdrawn from the suit, he had virtually elected to acquiesce in the sale by his guardian and his interest having been extinguished under Art. 44 read with S. 28, Lim. Act, P had no right to continue the suit. 34 Bom. L.R. 1512=A.I.R. 1933 Bom. 42=141 Ind. Cas. 806.

——S. 28 and Arts. 44 and 144 — Applicability—Minor suing to set aside sale by guardian.

Per Abdur Rahim, J.—A suit by a minor to set aside a sale by his guardian and to recover property is governed by Arts. 44 and 144 and also S. 28. (Per Sundara Aiyar, J.)—Whenever one of two brothers sues for possession after 3 years of his attaining majority, his title and ownership all become extinguished. 10 M.L.T. 418=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 450=21 M.L.J. 1041=12 Ind. Cas. 695.

——S. 28—Applicability—Old Act (1877).

The Limitation Act, 1877, did not apply to suits under Regulation VI of 1831. So possession prior to Madras Act III of 1895 which repealed Regulation III of 1831 cannot be relied on to establish title by prescription. (1911) 1 M.W.N. 208=9 M.L.T. 430=9 Ind. Cas. 796.

——S. 28—Applicability—Personal action—In such action law of limitation merely bars remedy and not right.

A suit for possession of the office of mutawalli is an action of a personal character and is not "a suit for possession of any property". In personal actions, the law of limitation bars the remedy but not the right. Where the action for possession of the office is statute barred right to a particular wakf property is not necessarily extinguished under S. 28, which is limited to suits for "possession of property". But a person in adverse possession of property claiming to hold it as mutawalli does not prescribe for more than a mutawalli's right in such property and may acquire to that extent the status of a mutawalli. The right to office and the right to possession of property are distinct jural concepts, though in the generality of cases the claim to the office of mutawalli and to the property appurtenant thereto are inseparable. This would principally depend upon the terms of the foundation or settlement. 26 Mad. 410, Rel. on. A.I.R. 1930 All. 866=129 Ind. Cas. 375.

——S. 28 — Applicability — Personal action for debt.

In the case of a personal action for a debt limitation merely bars the plaintiff from having the particular remedy by way of suit and does not extinguish the debt. Thus if the creditor has any form of lien upon property, he can exercise that lien notwithstanding that by the terms of the Limitation Act, he could not bring a suit. 66 Ind. Cas. 209=48 Cal. 817=25 C.W.N. 800=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 67.

——S. 28—Applicability—Personal actions.

Whenever personal actions are barred, the rights themselves are not extinguished. A right to receive payment of a debt does subsist even after the remedy by action has been barred. 33 Mad. 308=20 M.L.J. 633=8 M.L.T. 321=7 Ind. Cas. 898.

——S. 28—Applicability—Personal actions—Dispossession of mortgagor.

S. 28 is limited to suits for possession and does not apply in respect of suits for debts. In respect of debts the act simply bars the remedy but does not extinguish the debts. Therefore the dispossession of the mortgagor in a simple mortgage extinguishes only the equity of redemption and not the title of the mortgagee to his debt. 44 Cal. 425=21 C.W.N. 177=27 C.L.J. 212=37 Ind. Cas. 277.

——S. 28—Applicability—Receiver in possession—Rightful owner need not sue.

Where a Magistrate appoints a Receiver in possession of immovable property, what happens in the eye of the law is that the property is placed in custodia legis, i. e., in the custody of the Court for the benefit of the person who may eventually and finally succeed in establishing his title to the property. It is not necessary for the person affected by the order to institute a suit for the recovery of possession of the property. He may institute a suit merely to have his right to the property declared. If so, Art. 47 would not apply and a fortiori the consequences of the operation of S. 28, Limitation Act cannot follow. 10 L.W. 637, Not foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 152=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 38.

——S. 28—Applicability—Suit for recovery of ornaments.

Limitation to a suit by sons for recovery of ornaments left by mother is 3 years after the mother's death, after which the right is barred. 12 Bom. L.R. 621=7 Ind. Cas. 134.

——Ss. 28 and 29 — Applicability—Restitution of conjugal rights—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Ss. 2, 28 and Sch. II, Art 35.

The result of the expiry of the period of limitation in respect of rights to restitution of conjugal rights is that the remedy only is barred, but not extinguished under S. 28. The portion of S. 2 of the old Act of 1877 enacting "that nothing herein or in that Act contained shall be deemed to affect any title acquired or to revive any right to sue barred under that Act or any enactment thereby repealed" has not been reproduced in S. 29 of the new Act of 1908 and therefore, a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, while the Act of 1908 is in force, is maintainable though it is filed after the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed under Art. 35 of the old Act. 34 All. 412=9 A.L.J. 784=16 Ind. Cas. 124.

——S. 28 and Art. 144—Applicability—Suit by vendee or auction purchaser for possession.

A suit by a purchaser after 12 years from the date of the purchase would be time barred. The same is the case of a vendee who has obtained a decree or of an auction purchaser where merely symbolical possession has been obtained. 5 C. 584; 24 C. 715; 18 B. 37; 25 B. 275; 25 B. 358; 19 A. 499, Foll. 70 P.L.R. 1910=58 P.W.R. 1910=8 Ind. Cas. 236.

——S. 28—Applicability—S. 28 applies only to suits and not to execution of decrees. (1907) 25 M. 300=12 M.L.J. 128 (F.B.)

3. Essentials for extinction of rights.

——S. 28—Essentials for extinction of rights—Possessory title should be perfected in some body.

Section 28 does not apply unless there is some one in adverse possession of the property. Until some one in an adverse possession, the owner of the property does not lose his right to the property merely because he happens not to be in possession of the property for 12 years. His right is only extinguished at the determination of the period limited by the act to him for instituting a suit for possession of the property. The period cannot be determined unless it has commenced to run and the period will not commence to run until the owner is aware that some one else in possession is also holding adverse to him. A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 368; A.I.R. 1926 Oudh 313, Rel. on. 119 Ind. Cas. 866=6 O.W.N. 652=A.I.R. 1929 Oudh 402.

——S. 28—Essentials for extinction of rights.

Until some one is in adverse possession plaintiff's title is not extinguished though he be out of possession for over 12 years. 92 Ind. Cas. 825=29 O.C. 131=13 O.L. J. 400=A.I.R. 1926 Oudh 313.

——S. 28—Essentials for extinction of rights—Adverse title should have been perfected.

An owner of property does not lose his right to property merely because he happens not to be in possession of it for twelve years. His right under S. 28 is only extinguished at the determination of the period limited by the Act to him for instituting a suit for possession of the property. 62 Ind. Cas. 101=45 Bom. 1020=23 Bom. L.R. 416=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 368.

4. Interpretation.

——S. 28—Interpretation—'Right to such property'—Joint right.

The expression "the right to such property" in S. 28 includes the right to joint possession also. A person whose right to recover joint possession is extinguished under Art. 47 cannot therefore elude the operation of Art. 47, by framing his suit, as one for damages of his share of the produce as the right to claim damages is not separate from the right to claim possession or joint possession. A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 24, Rel. on. 122 Ind. Cas. 270=26 N.L.R. 160=13 N.L. J. 85=A. I. R. 1930 Nag. 142.

5. Mortgagee.

——S. 28—Usufructuary mortgage — Mortgagor not entitled to possession—Whether can sue trespasser—Mortgagee alone can sue.

If the mortgagor is not entitled to any kind of possession or enjoyment of the mortgaged property during the continuance of the usufructuary mortgage, the morgagor is not entitled to sue a trespasser for possession. It is the mortgagee alone who can do so, and if the mortgagee does not care to bring such suit for more than 12 years, S. 28 operates to extinguish the mortgagee's title to the property in possession of a trespasser. The mortgagor's right to sue for possession accrues for the first time when, after redemption, he is unable to take possession of part of the mortgaged property which he finds to be in possession of a trespasser, who denies his title to it. He becomes entitled to sue the trespasser when he redeems the property and is opposed by the trespasser. The period of limitation for his suit 12 years to be reckoned from the date of redemption, and the trespasser's possession would not become adverse to him till after redemption. A.I.R. 1935 All. 542=(1935) A.L. J. 496=1935 A.W.R. 605 =159 Ind. Cas. 151.

——S. 28—Mortgages.

In 1889, there was a mortgage of the melwaram interest in certain land and a lease back to the mortgagors for a term of four years. The plaintiff representing the mortgagee sued in 1921 for recovery of the mortgage money and for profits for the years 1918 to 1921. Of the defendants Nos. 1 to 5, who were representatives of the mortgagors, only the 3rd defendant had been paying any rent. As against defendant Nos. 1, 25, and 5, the suit for recovery of the money was held to be barred but the claim for profits was decreed on the ground that it was governed by Art. 131 of the Lim. Act:

Held, that in view of the provisions of S. 28, and Art. 139, the suit was barred even in respect of the claim for profits. (1935) M.W.N. 207=41 L. W. 398=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 377=157 Ind. Cas. 569.

——S. 28—Applicability—Whether applies to suit by mortgagee to recover money due by sale or foreclosure of mortgaged property.

The application of S. 28 is confined to suits for possession. It cannot be applied to a suit by a mortgagee for the recovery of the money due to him either by sale or foreclosure of the mortgaged property. Even if the mortgagee's remedy for recovery of the mortgage money has become barred by reason of his omission to bring a suit for sale or foreclosure within the statutory period, his right as a mortgagee cannot be extinguished under S. 28. 1935 O.W.N. 40=10 Luck. 531=A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 139=153 Ind. Cas. 808.

——S. 28 — Mortgages — Subsequent mortgage barred—Conditional decree for redemption.

If a suit, is brought on the second deed of mortgage, is barred by limitation, the right of the mortgagee setting up such a deed in suit for redemption of the prior usufructuary mortgage, redemption of which is made conditional on payment of mortgage due thereunder and under subsequent deed is not extinguished and the Court can direct payment of what is due under the second or subsequent deed. 122 Ind. Cas. 411=1930 A.L.J. 750=A.I.R. 1930 All. 416.

——S. 28—Mortgage followed by sale—Suit to set aside both.

In 1905 A's father mortgaged his property to B. In 1916 there was an award made on the mortgage. In 1918 the father sold the property to B to liquidate the mortgage and placed B in possession of the property. A, who attained majority on 2nd February, 1921, brought a suit on 2nd November, 1924, to recover possession of the property sold by his father. Further he asked that the mortgage-deed and the award of 1916 should be set aside:

Held, that if the suit had been brought only for setting aside the mortgage, it would have been time-barred, but the suit was brought upon the alienation of 1918 in which year the possession was given to the alienee and was, therefore, within time and his prayer that mortgage-deed and award should be set aside must be treated as surplusage. 27 Mad. 243 (F.B.), Foll. 112 Ind. Cas. 378=30 Bom. L. R. 1095=A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 383.

——S. 28 and Art. 135—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Constructive possession of prior mortgagee—Puisne mortgagee's right to possession on redemption—Limitation.

The prior mortgagee was in constructive possession through the mortgagee as a tenant. The mortgagor agreed that the puisne mortgagee should take possession on redeeming the prior mortgagee which he did more than 12 years from the date of the prior mortgage and sought to eject the mortgagor, held, that the possession of the mortgagor, in no way affected the right of the puisne mortgagee who had full twelve years from the date of redemption of the prior mortgage. 48 Ind. Cas. 916, Foll. 2 Lah. L.J. 419.

6. Possession under Order under S. 145, Cr.P.C.

——S. 28—Order under S. 145, Cr. P. C.

Exclusive possession by one co-sharer maintained under S. 145, Criminal P. C.—Failure to bring suit within three years by other co-sharer extinguishes his right to joint possession. A.I R. 1943 Cal. 67=I. L. R. (1942) 2 Cal. 332=46 C.W.N. 817=76 C. L. J. 342=205 Ind. Cas. 441.

——S. 28, Sch. I, Art. 47—Order S. 145, Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898)—Failure to bring suit within time prescribed under Art. 47 by person against whom order is passed.

The phraseology of S. 28 and Art. 47, is clear and unambiguous. A fixed period of three years is given to a person against whom an order concerning the possession of immovable property is passed by a Criminal Court under S. 145, Criminal P. C., to bring a suit for the recovery of that property. If he fails to bring such a suit, his right to the property is, by virtue of S. 28 of the Act, extinguished. The right that is extinguished is such right as the person against whom the order was passed by the Criminal Court had in that property. It may be that he was the sole owner of the property or it may be that he had a joint share with the person in whose favour the order was passed. In either case, his omission to institute a suit within the period of three years entails the extinguishment of his right, whatever the nature of that right may have been. If he was the sole owner of the property, he loses right of ownership and, similarly, if he had a right only as a co-sharer in the property, his right as a co-sharer is extinguished. The words, "to recover the property" in Art. 47 in the context in which they occur can only mean that the suit contemplated by that article is a suit for the enforcement of such right as the person bringing the suit had in the property comprised in the order passed against him. Similarly, S. 28 is general in its terms and there is no warrant for restricting its scope to cases in which a person is the sole owner of the property and to exclude its applicability to cases in which a person is entitled, not to exclusive but only to joint possession of the property. The contrary view would lead to anomalous results. (1937) A.L. J. 225=A.I.R. 1937 All. 300=1937 A.W.R. 235=169 Ind. Cas. 125.

——S. 28—Order under S. 145, Cr.P.C.

A proceeding under S. 145, Criminal P.C., in respect of certain land between the plaintiff and defendant No. 2 was decided in favour of the latter and more than three years after this, the defendant No. 1 brought a suit against defendant No. 2 and got possession in spite of plaintiff's application under O. 21, R. 100, Civil P. C. Thereupon, the plaintiff brought a suit for declaration of title and recovery of possession. The plaintiff's main contention was that Art. 47, applies only as between original parties to a proceeding under S. 145, Criminal P. C., or those claiming under them and that it could not, therefore, be availed of by defendant No. 1 who was neither a party to the proceeding nor was a person claiming under one of the parties:

Held, (1) that S. 28, Lim. Act, was a complete answer to the plaintiff's contention;

(2) that since it was not disputed that defendant No. 2 in whose favour the proceeding under S. 145, Criminal P. C., was decided was in possession of the disputed land for more than three years and as no step was taken by the plaintiff to question the order under S. 145 and to evict defendant No. 2 in due course of law within a period of three years which was the period of limitation as provided by Art. 47, whatever title (if any) the plaintiff had to the property, was completely extinguished. 16 P.L.T. 183=A.I.R. 1935 Pat. 164=1 B. R. 550=14 Pat. 424=155 Ind. Cas. 1094.

7. Person in possession.

——S. 28—Person in possession.

Section 28 presupposes that a person, by force of limitation, has lost his remedy by a suit for possession, and it is only in regard to such person that the section declares that his right to the property is extinguished, and it cannot apply to persons who are in possession.

Where the title of a person in possession is challenged, he may set forth any defence in favour of his right to the property and the statute of limitation will not run so as to prevent him from setting forth any such relief. A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 326=37 Bom.L.R. 471=59 B. 502=159 Ind. Cas. 213.

——S. 28—Person in possession as mortgagee—Whether can claim adverse possession under invalid sale.

A mortgagee in possession, as such, cannot by merely asserting possession as owner under an invalid sale, convert his possession into adverse possession so as to prescribe for a title under the Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 924=160 Ind. Cas. 557.

——S. 28—Party in possession, whether affected by limitation.

Section 28 cannot be held to apply to such persons who have never been disturbed in their possession and have had no occasion to sue for recovery of it. 32 P.L.R. 479=A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 668=132 Ind. Cas. 661.

——S. 28—Persons in possession.

S. 28 does not apply to persons who, being in actual possession which has never been disturbed have had no occasion to sue for recovery of it, as a party in possession cannot be prejudicially affected by the law of limitation. 1930 A. L. J. 1416=A.I.R. 1930 All. 858.

——S. 28—Person throughout in possession.

Section 28 operates to extinguish the right to any property of a person who does not sue for its possession within the time allowed by law. If a person is throughout in possession of the property S. 28 does not apply. 70 Ind. Cas. 966=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 247.

8. Revival.

——S. 28—Revival.

S dying on January 1, 1917, leaving widow—Will by S on which plaintiff having title alleged that widow fraudulently kept away the knowledge of the will from him, the existence of which he did not know till 1928—Plaintiff minor at time of S's death and living with widow in possession and managing estate setting up title in herself and obtaining mutation in her favour on January 1918—Plaintiff turned out from house in 1921—Plaintiff not regaining possession as owner till 1932—Plaintiff becoming major in 1922—Thus widow from January 4, 1918, continuing in hostile adverse possession till 1932:

Held, that plaintiff lost title under S. 28, Lim. Act, after the expiry of 12 years from January 4, 1918 and had, therefore, no title in 1932 when he regained possession unless he could avail himself of S. 18. A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 357=1941 N.L.J. 534=I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 564=197 Ind. Cas. 612.

——S. 28—Revival.

Section 28, provides that after the expiry of the period prescribed for instituting a suit for possession of any property, the person who should have instituted such suit but has failed to do so, shall cease to have any right to the property. There cannot be a revival of title of which there has been a statutory extinguishment. 16 P.L.T. 183=A.I.R. 1935 Pat. 164=1 B.R. 550=14 Pat. 424=155 Ind. Cas. 1094.

——S. 28—Revival, if can take place.

Once a right to property has been extinguished under S. 28, there can be no question of that right being revived or perfected by any action on the part of the person who lost that right. 11 O.W.N. 317=9 Luck. 475=A.I.R. 1934 Oudh 303=149 Ind. Cas. 258.

——S. 28—Revival — Perfection of — Owner regaining possession.

If a party who has been 12 years out of possession and whose suit is, therefore, barred, should again get into possession, he is not remitted to his old title. An owner cannot regain possession extrajudicially after lapse of the period of limitation prescribed for a suit to recover possession. 11 Bom. L.R. 237; 1 Boul. 70; 21 All. 204 and 6 C.L.J. 621, Foll. 105 Ind. Cas. 835=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 401.

——S. 28—Revival.

After the right has been extinguished by the operation of the law of Limitation it cannot come into life again. There is no doubt that the provisions of the Limitation Act apply to suits for possession of Buddhist monasteries. 79 Ind. Cas. 273=1 Bur. L.J. 108=A.I.R. 1923 Rang. 40.

——S. 28—Revival—Agra Tenancy Act, Ss. 13 (a) (b) and 14 (1) (a) — Wrongful dispossession—Regaining of possession.

Quaere.—Whether for the application of S. 13 (a) of the tenancy act it is not necessary that the tenant should have regained possession within a year from wrongful dispossession? 31 Ind. Cas. 815=(U.P.B.R.).

——S. 28—Revival—Adverse possession — Extinguishment of title of true owner—Subsequent possession—No effect.

If the title of the true original owner has been completely extinguished by adverse possession, even if he should re-acquire possession, he is not thereby remitted to his original title. 1907 6 C.L.J. 621.

9. Scope and effect.

——S. 28—Scope and effect—Extinction of title—Failure to bring suit under O. 21, R. 103, C. P. Code, within limitation.

The title to the property of the rightful owner would be extinguished only if S. 28 of the Limitation Act can be invoked. This section speaks of a suit for possession which means a suit for recovery of possession. A suit contemplated under O. 21, R. 103, C. P. Code, is not a suit for recovery of possession within the meaning of this section. Consequently, the title of the person affected by an order passed under O. 21, R. 98 or O. 21, R. 99, C.P. Code, is not extinguished if he does not bring a suit under O. 21, R. 103 within one year as provided for in Art 11-A, Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1949) 1 Cal. 378=83 C.L.J. 373.

——S. 28—Scope and effect—Cases not provided for in schedule but falling under local or special Act—Failure to sue within time fixed by Art. 6 Punjab Limitation Act—Effect—Extinguishment of title.

S. 28, Limitation Act, does not in terms apply to suits for which a period of limitation is not provided by the schedule in that Act, but which are provided for by local or special Act. But the principles of that section are applicable also to all suits for possession, for which a period of limitation is provided by a local or special Act, such as the Punjab Limitation (Custom) Act (I of 1920). Failure to sue for possession within the time prescribed by Art. 6 of the Punjab Limitation Act has the effect of extinguishing the right and title of the person entitled to sue, and the person in possession becomes the absolute owner of the property. A.I.R. 1949 E.P. 414.

——S. 28—Scope.

The effect of S. 28 is not to vest the tenancy in the trespasser. A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 250=I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 473 (F.B.).

——S. 28—Scope.

Suit for possession referred to in S. 28, Lim. Act, is a suit for which the period of limitation is prescribed by the schedule to Lim. Act and not by the Oudh Rent Act, 1886. 1943 O.W.N. 99=1943 A.W.R. (C.C.) 25=A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 296=206 Ind. Cas. 274.

——S. 28—Scope and effect.

If a person holds land adversely for a period of more than 12 years, the title of the real owner would be extinguished under S. 28. A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 138=44 Bom. L.R. 146=200 Ind. Cas. 889.

——S. 28—Scope and effect.

Encroachment amounting to complete ouster of plaintiff—Plaintiff cannot sue for recovery of possession after more than 12 years from date of ouster in view of S. 28. A. I. R. 1942 Pat. 188=22 P. L. T. 1001=8 B.R. 302=197 Ind. Cas. 818.

——S. 28—Effect.

Municipality not filing suit for possession of encroached land for 30 years loses its right to demand removal of encroachment and possession of land. A.I.R. 1941 Pesh. 76=196 Ind. Cas. 648.

——S. 28—Scope and effect—Barred debts.

All that happens after the lapse of three years after the creation of a debt on a pro-note is that the debt cannot be enforced in a Court of law. The debt does not cease to exist nor does the relationship of creditor and debtor. A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 908=52 L.W. 221=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 251=(1940) M.W.N. 777=194 Ind. Cas. 401.

——S. 28—Scope.

The land-lord's suit for possession beyond 12 years from expiry of lease must be deemed to be barred by time, irrespective of any denial by the tenant of the land-lord's title and under S. 28, Lim. Act, his right to the property extinguished. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 455=41 P.L.R. 457=185 Ind. Cas. 858.

——S. 28—Scope and effect—S. 28, if affects right to movable property.

Section 28, Lim. Act, extinguishes only the right to immovable property if the claim to it is not enforced within the period of limitation, but it does not affect the right to movable property. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 404=41 Bom. L.R. 1002=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 685=185 Ind. Cas. 366.

——S. 28—Scope and effect.

Right of owner extinguished by S. 28 vests in wrong-doer the moment it is extinguished. 67 C.L.J. 380=42 C.W.N. 913=A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 50=180 Ind. Cas. 721.

——S. 28—Effect.

If the transfer which comes under Art. 134-B is a transfer of full ownership, the right of plaintiff to property is extinguished after the lapse of statutory period by operation of S. 28. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 305=41 C.W.N. 693=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 242=172 Ind. Cas. 315.

——S. 28—Scope and effect.

The effect of S. 28 is that if plaintiff can establish that he and those through whom he derives right have for 60 years been in possession adverse to the Crown of the property in question any right of the Crown thereto is extinguished and plaintiff entitled to succeed in his claim. 11 O.W.N. 96=39 L.W. 257=A.I.R. 1934 P.C. 23=66 M.L.J. 134=(1934) M.W.N. 165=36 Bom. ——S. 28—Scope.

Section 28 "merely extinguishes the right to property when the period is determined for suits for recovery of such property," and though the remedy is barred, the debt is not extinguished. 30 N.L.R. 142=A.I.R. 1933 Nag. 241=144 Ind. Cas. 736.

——S. 28—Scope and effect—Joint tenants—Effect of adverse possession.

The so-called right of survivorship of each of the daughters of a deceased male Hindu in respect of the property inherited by them from him is incidental to the right of joint possession and enjoyment of the estate with the others who are jointly entitled and cannot exist separately when the right of joint possession and enjoyment has been lost, e.g., by adverse possession by one of the daughters. 9 M.I.A. 530, Foll.

The effect of the interests of the excluded sisters being barred and their rights being thus extinguished under the limitation act is to enlarge the estate of the adverse possessor and to give her an estate of her own life and the lives of her sisters determinable on the death of the last survivor, and on the death of the adverse possessor such estate will descend to her heirs. 60 Ind. Cas. 586=44 Mad. 131=13 M.L.W. 407=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 24=40 M.L.J. 83.

——S. 28—Scope.

The rule is now well settled that lapse of limitation, apart from S. 28, bars only the remedy and does not extinguish the title of the claimant. 1930 A.L.J. 1416 =A.I.R. 1930 All. 858.

——S. 28—Scope of.

Quaere.—Whether S.28 of the Limitation Act operates only to extinguish the interest of the dispossessed owner and not to assign that interest to the adverse possessor. 25 C.L.J. 537=36 Ind. Cas. 11.

——S. 28—Scope of.

S. 28 provides only the extinction of the rights upon the termination of the period of limitation for a suit and not that at the termination of the period of limitation for an application, any right shall be extinguished. 46 Ind. Cas. 569 (Pat.).

——S. 28—Scope of—Limitation not extinction.

The provisions of the Limitation Act should be construed strictly. Limitation is not extinction and the bar created by it does not operate to discharge a debt except in the particular circumstances of S. 28. 5 L.W. 593=40 Ind. Cas. 358.

——S. 28—Execution of decree barred for possession—Effect of—"Property," meaning of.

Held:—That though the decree against A had become incapable of execution by lapse of time, still the right established by it remained; and though that right could not be enforced against A by execution through the court, the decree-holders could enter by ousting any trespasser, A included. 15 B. 238, foll. (1910) 12 Bom. L.R. 956=35 Bom. 79=8 Ind. Cas. 639.

——S. 28—Scope and effect—Decree—Right to property declared—Execution barred—Effect.

Where the right to property has been established by a decree for possession, the mere barring of the right of execution does not under S. 28 of the Limitation Act or any other provision of law, extinguish the right. The remedy may be gone but the right remains. 11 Bom. L.R. 1093=4 Ind. Cas. 246.

——S. 28, Art. 111—Scope—Vendor's lien, extinguishment of—Vendor retaining possession.

The vendor's lien is not extinguished by S. 28 even though the right to sue to enforce the lien is barred by Art. 111. Where he retains possession of the lands and the purchase-money remains unpaid, the vendor has a right to retain possession until his lien is extinguished by payment. 2 B. 517, appr. (1902) 27 M. 28.

10. Starting point of limitation.

——S. 28—Starting point of limitation—Adverse possession—Commencement of adverse possession against minor—Limitation for minor's suit.

Where a person entering into possession of the property of a minor is under no obligation to him and enters into possession for his own benefit and in assertion of his title to that of the minor, limitation would begin to run from the date when he takes possession and his adverse possession commences from the date on which he takes possession though the minor is entitled to file a suit within 3 years from the date of his attaining majority. 46 Bom. L. R. 683=A. I. R. 1945 Bom. 63=219 Ind. Cas. 166.

——S. 28—Starting point of limitation—Transfer by mutwalli of waqf property.

In the case of the transfer of the waqf property by the mutwali, limitation under S. 28 cannot run until the alienor ceases to be a mutwalli by death or otherwise.

The property dedicated by the waqif should be substantially dedicated to charitable purposes, and if it is regarded as a private waqf, the ultimate benefit must be reserved for the poor or for some religious, pious or charitable purpose of a permanent character as laid down by the Mussalman Waqf Validating Act.

Held, on facts that the waqf created by J in 1876, was a public one and perfectly valid and that the second waqf of 1880 created by him after the death of his wife, was nothing but a re-affirmation of the previous waqf of 1876. Similarly, the waqf created by his son U in 1908 was also valid. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 1=I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 434=73 C.L.J. 475=200 Ind. Cas. 822.

——S. 28—Starting point of limitation—Vatan property—Alienation by the holder enures for his life-time—Suit by alienor's heirs to set aside alienation—Limitation Act, (IX of 1908) S. 28.

V and D joint vatandars of certain vatan lands, alienated them to defendants 1-3 in 1872. D died shortly after and V died on the 20th April 1893. Within 12 years of this date, V's sons sued to recover possession of the lands from the defendants; D's sons were joined as party defendants as defendants 4, 5. The plaintiffs alleged that at a partition between V and D the whole of the vatan lands has fallen to the share of V. The first court found the partition not proved and awarded plaintiff's claim to the extent of half the lands. On appeal, the defendants 4 and 5 claimed that on the findings of the first Court they should be awarded possession of the other half of the vatan lands. This was allowed on appeal. Held, (1) that time for the purposes of this suit ran from the death of V, the survivor of the two vatandars, (2) that the defendants 4 and 5 were entitled to a moiety in the vatan lands in right of their father D; (3) that in putting forward their claim they were not barred by any provisions of the Limitation Act, 1908. The fact that vatan land is attached to the office deprives it of some of the incidents which would attach to it if it were ordinary land in the possession of a Hindu family. A vatandar is entitled to alienate the vatan land for the term of his natural life, and his children although not separate in interest from him have no right to object to such alienation until after his death. (1909) 11 Bom. L.R. 1102=34 Bom. 91=4 Ind. Cas. 249.

11. Title by prescription.

——S. 28—Title by prescription.

Section 28 only extinguishes the right, and does not provide in terms in whom that right is to vest. But the title to immovable property cannot be left in the air, and on extinguishment of the true owner's title, title must follow possession and vest in the trespasser who has got a title by possession. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 265=45 Bom. L.R. 491=209 Ind. Cas 251.

——S. 28—Title by prescription.

If the owner whose property is encroached upon suffers his right to be barred by the law of limitation, the practical effect under S. 28, Lim. Act, is the extinction of his title in favour of the party in possession. A.I.R. 1942 P.C. 64=9 B. Cas. 1 (P.C.).

——S. 28—Title by prescription—Quality and extent of right acquired by adverse possessor.

Under S. 28, Lim. Act, 12 years' adverse possession of land by a wrong-doer, not only bars the remedy of the real owner and extinguishes his title, but confers a title on the person in possession. The title of the real owner who had been dispossessed cannot even revive if, at a latter date, he re-acquires possession. The quality and extent of the right acquired by the person who has established his adverse possession depends upon the intention with which the person setting up the statute has been in possession—whether with the intention of wholly ousting the real owner or with the intention of ousting him to some limited extent only. A.I.R. 1942 All. 42=1941 A.W.R. 1072=(1941) A.L.J. 676=198 Ind. Cas. 496.

——Ss. 28, 26—Title by prescription—Encroachment—Extinction of owner's title—Whether gives good title to wrong-doer.

Under S. 28, Lim. Act, the owner's title to the portion encroached upon and built over is extinguished at the end of 12 years, the period limited for instituting a suit for possession of the land; and the extinction of the owner's title operates to give a good title to the wrong-doer. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 181=19 Pat. 852=7 B.R. 739=22 P.L.T. 986=13 R.P. 689=194 Ind. Cas. 243.

——S. 28, Sch. 1, Art. 44—Title by prescription —Guardian of minor—Alienee from guardian, right of.

Art. 44 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit by a ward for setting aside the alienations made by his guardian and the same article applies even when a prayer for possession is added in cases where the possession is with the alienee. The title to the property vests in the alienee till the alienation is set aside and becomes exclusively his on failure of the ward to sue to set aside the alienation within three years of his attaining majority by virtue of S. 28 of the Act. 41 Mad. 102=33 M.L.J. 309=40 Ind. ——S. 28 — Title by prescription—Hereditary office—Saranjam—Adverse possession.

A title by prescription might be acquired against the successive holders of a saranjam. ——S. 28—Title by prescription—Municipal street.

A Municipality is not entitled to remove varandah standing on a public street for over thirty years and no notice can be issued for its removal. 24 C.W.N. 1011=31 C.L.J. 463=58 Ind. Cas. 327.

——S. 28 and Art. 146-A. — Title by prescription — Municipal Street — Bombay Dt. Municipal Act, (1901), S. 122.

When a varandah is standing on part of a public street for more than thirty years, the Municipality cannot issue notice under S. 122 for its removal as the owner of varandah gets title to the site under it by virtue of S. 28 and Art. 146-A, Limitation Act. 22 Bom. L.R. 951 =58 Ind. Cas. 326.

——S. 28, Art. 144—Title by prescription—Grant to Municipality—Government land—Adverse possession.

Where the exclusive right of possession forever over the suit-land was transferred by Govt. to a Municipality subject only to the right reserved by the Govt. to resume the land when required for a public purpose the possession of the Municipality is not that of an agent or servant of the Govt. but one in its own right; such possession can therefore be destroyed by adverse possession by a stranger for 12 years. 9 S.L.R. 1=30 Ind. Cas. 13.

——S. 28—Title by prescription — Suit for possession.

A person acquiring indefeasible title to any property by adverse possession, is entitled to institute a suit to recover the possession of the same, if lost afterwards. 58 Ind. Cas. 380 (Pat.).

——S. 28—Title by prescription—Service Inam —Adverse possession.

——S. 28—Trust property—Transferee of—Title by prescription.

Where a transferee of trust property has not acted in good faith but has paid valuable considerations he acquires good title after the lapse of the period necessary for extinguishing under S. 28 the right of the beneficiary to follow the property in his hands. 38 Mad. 1064=33 Ind.Cas. 45.

——S. 28, Art. 134—Trust property—Transferee of—Title by prescription—Trusts Act, S. 64— Transferee for consideration but not in good faith—The right to follow trust property— Extinguishment of the right.

A transferee of trust property for consideration but not in good faith acquires good title only after the period necessary under S. 28 of Limitation Act for extinguishing the right of the beneficiary to follow trust property. 26 M.L.J. 537=(1914) M.W.N. 581=24 Ind. Cas. 369.

Possession held for over the statutory period under a title found to be invalid or unfounded will give the possessor a prescriptive title. 12 M.L.J. 387.

12. Miscellaneous.

——S. 28—Appellate Court—Power of.

The failure of the trial Court to appreciate the true effect of S. 28, Lim. Act, does not absolve the Appellate Court from considering the question of limitation. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 194=70 C.L. J. 539= 189 Ind. Cas. 540.

——S. 28—Miscellaneous—Assessment of rent.

Suit for assessment of rent on mal lands has not the effect of a decree in a suit for resumption of lakheraj grant and does not create any relationship of land-lord and tenant—Nor does it convert adverse possession into permissive possession. I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 234=41 C.W.N. 688.

——S. 28—Miscellaneous—Reversioner's suit—One reversioner suing in time impleading the other as a defendant—Right of the latter.

Though a suit by one reversioner to recover possession of his share from the alienee from a Hindu widow would be barred under S. 28 read with Art. 141 as being beyond 12 years from the death of the widow, yet when a suit is brought within the proper period of limitation by another reversioner and the other reversioner is made defendant in it and he in his written statement claimed possession of his share, such a claim would not be barred by limitation in spite of the fact that the written statement itself was presented after the lapse of 12 years. 34 Bom. 91, Foll. 119 Ind. 1. Scope and applicability.

See also: Ss. 5, 18, Limitation Act.

——S. 29 (2) (b)—Scope and applicability.

The contention that S. 29 (2) (b) excludes the operation of S. 5 of that Act is not accepted. Section 29 (2) (b) is only applicable for the purpose of determining the period of limitation prescribed for a suit, appeal or application. Once that period has been determined, S. 5 comes in and gives the Court discretion to extend it for sufficient cause. (1946) 12 B.R. 62 (Rev.).

——S. 29—Exception 3—Applicability.

Exception 3 to S. 29, Lim. Act, regarding matrimonial matters refers only to suits under Indian Divorce Act. Where the suit is not one under Divorce Act in the matrimonial jurisdiction of the Court but in its Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction for a declaration of the nullity of the marriage performed in France under French Law between a Hindu and a Jewess, the exception does not apply and the Lim. Act is applicable. 49 C.W.N. 570=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 484.

——S. 29—Scope and applicability.

Suit for possession of land and as raiyat is not governed by S. 29, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 113 =I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 358=43 C.W.N. 1096=187 Ind. Cas. 301.

——S. 29—Scope and applicability.

Section 29 (2) (b), Lim. Act, is a negative provision and cannot be interpreted as having been intended to affect any positive provision of the local law. It is not the intention of S. 29 to restrict the power of the local Legislature to apply or exclude the application of the provisions of the Lim. Act. Clause (a) of S. 29 (2) of the Lim. Act presupposes the power of the local Legislature to exclude the operation of certain sections of the Lim. Act. If so, it is unreasonable to assume that Cl. (b) deprives the local Legislature of its power to apply certain provisions if it so desires or in any way restricts the scope of the local law which prescribes the application of certain sections of the Lim. Act. 18 N.L.J. 285=163 Ind. Cas. 623.

——S. 29—Scope and applicability—Obiter.

Court passing decree governed by special law of limitation—Decree sent for execution where that law is not applicable—Execution is governed by special law. 17 P.L.T. 57=A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 104 =2 B.R. 286=15 Pat. 356=160 Ind. Cas. 1096.

——S. 29—Scope and construction.

The amendment made in S. 29 of the Lim. Act in 1922 merely means that such sections as Ss. 19 and 20 are not to apply by virtue of the Lim. Act, and that if they are to apply, the grounds for applying them are to be found in the special or local Act itself; but that section is not to be construed as intending to cut down whatever is provided by any special or local law either by express words or by clear intention. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 90=36 C.W.N. 838=141 Ind. Cas. 716.

——S. 29, (S. 60)—Scope and applicability—Limitation under special or local laws.

Under S. 6 of the Limitation Act, any period of limitation prescribed by special or local laws is not affected by anything contained in that Act. 12 M. 168, foll. (1903) 26 M. 638.

2. Interpretation.

——S. 29 (2) (a)—Interpretation—Words "expressly excluded" meaning explained—Words "and not afterwards" in S. 535 (2), Bengal Municipal Act (XV of 1932), if express exclusion—Applicability of S. 15 (2), Limitation Act (IX of 1908), in computing limitation under S. 535 (2), Bengal Municipal Act (XV of 1932).

The words 'expressly excluded' in S. 29 (2) (a), Lim. Act mean what they say. In order that the exclusion may be express, the particular sections of the Lim. Act which are intended to be excluded must be specifically indicated by the special or local law in question. So far as the words 'and not afterwards' in S. 535 (2), Ben. Municipal Act are concerned, the utmost that can be said is that the exclusion of those sections of Lim. Act may be easily spelt out therefrom, but they will not amount to an express exclusion. Hence S. 15 (2), Lim. Act applies in computing the special limitation under S. 535 (2), Ben. Municipal Act. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 544= 46 C.W.N. 943=202 Ind. Cas. 762.

——S. 29 (as amended in 1922) and S. 5—Interpretation—Expression "the remaining provisions . . . apply", meaning of—S. 5, applicability of, to appeal under S. 29, Cantonments (House Accommodation) Act (VI of 1923).

The expression "the remaining provisions of this Act shall not apply" in the amended S. 29, Lim. Act simply means that they are not to apply proprio vigore, that is, merely by virtue of the Lim. Act itself, and that if they are to apply, the grounds for applying them must be found in the special or local Act itself. The Cantonments (House Accommodation) Act is a special Act and S. 5, Lim. Act does not apply to an appeal under S. 29, Cantonments (House Accommodation) Act. A.I.R. 1941 All. 207=(1941) A.L.J. 267=1941 O.W.N. 453=I.L.R. (1941) All. 356=1941 A.W.R. 122=194 Ind. Cas. 404.

——S. 29—Interpretation—'Special or local law'—English Acts.

The Lim. Act does not purport to revive claims which are declared as extinguished by lapse of time. It also does not purport to affect the period of limitation provided by an English statute. An English Statute does not come within the meaning of a local or special law referred to in S. 29 of the Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1931 Sind 124=25 S.L.R. 222=133 Ind. Cas. 77.

——S. 29—Interpretation.

An express exclusion means an exclusion by express words, that is, by express reference to the section and not exclusion as a result of a logical process of reasoning. 122 Ind. Cas. 398=A.I.R. 1930 Sind 93.

——S. 29—Interpretation.

The phrase, "the remaining provisions of this Act shall not apply" can only mean that the remaining provisions of the Act shall not apply unless they are expressly made applicable by the special or local Act. To hold otherwise is to hold that it is a prohibition of the future as well as the past application of those provisions by a special or local Act, which is obviously impossible. The amendment of S. 29 of the Limitation Act in 1922 did not restrict its scope but extended it. Under the old S. 29 none of the provisions of the Limitation Act were applicable unless they were expressly included by the special or local Act. Under the new S. 29 some of them are applicable without being expressly included unless they are expressly excluded; the rest remain, as before, applicable only when they are expressly included. 91 Ind. Cas. 563=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 236.

3. Local or Special Law.

(a) Bengal Tenancy Act.

——Ss. 29 (1) (b) and 15 (2)—Local law—B. T. Act—Suit under S. 104-H—Notice to Secretary of State under S. 80, C. P. Code—Period of notice—Deduction of.

The effect of S. 29 (1) (b) of the Limitation Act is to make parts II and III of the Act inapplicable to a special period of limitation prescribed by a special or local law. In a suit against the Secretary of State under S. 104-H of the B. T. Act in a computing for a period of six months prescribed by clause (2) plff. is not entitled to deduct two months in respect of the notice which he is bound to give to the Secretary of State under S. 80 of the C. P. Code. 46 Cal. 199=22 C.W.N. 802=47 Ind. Cas. 502.

——Ss. 29 (b) and 15 (2)—Local law—B. T. Act, S. 104-H—Suit under—Notice to Secretary of State under S. 80 of the C. P. Code—Deduction of time.

S. 15, sub-S. (2) of the Limitation Act does not apply to a suit instituted under the terms of S. 104-H of the B. T. Act. A suit under S. 104-H must be brought in any event, within six months as specified in that section and the plff. is not entitled to exclude the time during the currency of a notice to the Secretary of State whom he has joined as a deft. 27 C.L.J. 374; 22 C.W.N. 802, Foll. 22 C.W.N. 817=28 C.L.J. 536=47 Ind. Cas. 524.

——S. 29 (b) and 18—Local law—Bengal Tenancy Act, S. 174.

S. 18 of the Limitation Act does not apply to a proceeding under S. 174 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. 18 C.L.J. 533=18 C.W.N. 31=20 Ind. Cas. 760.

——S. 29(2)—B.T. Act—S. 185—Cases falling under.

In all cases not mentioned in S. 185, Ben. Ten. Act, the Act has to be read with reference to the provisions of S. 29 (2), Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 782=57 C.L.J. 377=37 C.W.N. 927=60 C. 970=148 Ind. Cas. 15 (D.B.).

——S. 29—Bengal Tenancy Act—Applicability of.

There is no conflict between S. 29 (2) (b), Limitation Act, and S. 185 (2), Ben. Ten. Act. There is an express reference in S. 29 (2) to S. 3 which itself refers to Ss. 4 to 25 and consequently Ss. 4, 9 to 18 and 22 are specifically made applicable so far as not expressly excluded, and the only reasonable way in which Cl. (b) can be read is that the remaining provisions of the Act if they are to apply are to be specially applied. They will not be applied by force of the Limitation Act itself. 9 Pat. 747=126 Ind. Cas. 299=A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 301.

(b) Civil P. Code.

——S. 29.

Special law—Civ. P. Code—Application to Civil P.C., prescribing period of limitation is special law. 1944 N.L.J. 187=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 155=I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 250=217 Ind. Cas. 298.

——S. 29—Civ. P. Code—Application to—(As amended in 1922)—Amendment of S. 29, reasons explained.

The enactment of S. 29 of the present Lim. Act in its present form was rendered necessary not because the word "prescribed" in Part III of the Act did not mean prescribed by any law for the time being in force but because certain Courts had held that the application of the general provisions of the Lim. Act laid down in Part III to special and local Acts did "affect or alter" the periods of limitation prescribed by those Acts and the Legislature disapproved of those decisions.

The Civil P. C. is not a special and local Act, the provisions of the Code are subject to the provisions of the Lim. Act. The Civil P. C. and the Lim. Act must be read together and must be treated as complimentary to each other. Both are General Acts and are in pari materia. A.I.R. 1939 All. 403=(1939) A.L.J. 522=1939 A.W.R. 498=I.L.R. (1939) All. 647=183 Ind. Cas. 242 (F.B.)

——Ss. 29, 19 and 20—Civil P. C., if included in scope of S. 29, Lim. Act—Applicability of Ss. 19, 20 of Limitation Act to S. 48, Civil P. C.

Section 29 of the Lim. Act does not include the Civil P. C. in its scope. The question of the applicability of Ss. 19 and 20 of the Lim. Act to S. 48 of the Civil P.C. has to be decided without reference to what is contained in S. 29. Sections 19 and 20 do not apply to S. 48 of the Civil P. C., and to apply them would be to render the provisions of S. 48 of the Civil P. C. largely nugatory. 11 O.W.N. 1103=A.I.R. 1934 Oudh 465=10 Luck. 208=151 Ind. Cas. 541.

——S. 29—Special law—Civ. P. Code.

The Civil P. C. should not be taken to be a special law for purposes of S. 29. A.I.R. 1931 Oudh 351=7 Luck. 49=8 O.W.N. 842=132 Ind. Cas. 257.

(c) Income Tax Act.

——S. 29—Income Tax Act—Time required for copies.

On general principles and in view of S. 29, Lim. Act, the period required for obtaining the copies of the order under S. 31 or 32 of the Income-tax Act shall be excluded in computing the period of limitation for an application for reference by an assessee under S. 66 (2) (3). 122 Ind. Cas. 810=9 Pat. 172 =10 P.L.T. 769=A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 14.

——S. 29—Income-tax proceedings.

Provisions under S. 29, Limitation Act, apply to the proceedings under Income-tax Act. 117 Ind. Cas. 881=A. I. R. 1929 Lah. 170.

(d) Letters Patent.

——S. 29 (2) (a)—Special or local law—Letters Patent.

Per Manohar Lall, J.—The Letters Patent of the Patna High Court is neither a special nor a local law within the meaning of S. 29 (2) (a) of the Limitation Act. 26 Pat. 157=A.I.R. 1947 Pat. 329 (S.B.).

——Ss. 29, 12, (as amended by Act X of 1922)—Letters Patent—Application for leave to appeal under Letters Patent filed beyond 30 days—Time for taking copy of judgment, whether can be excluded.

The amended S. 29 makes S. 12 applicable to all special and local laws. By "special or local laws" is meant, special or local legislative enactments for special or local circumstances. The rules made by a High Court under its Letters Patent and by virtue of the Civil P. C., do not come under the expression "special or local law". Hence the time taken for taking out the copy of the judgment for leave to appeal under the Letters Patent cannot be excluded from the 30 days, which is the absolute period of limitation as provided by Patna High Court Rules, Chap. VII, R. 2. 15 P.L.T. 301=A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 353=151 Ind. Cas. 107.

——S. 29—Letters Patent proceedings.

Per Cunliffe, J.—The rules made by High Court under its Letters Patent or by virtue of the C. P. Code will not amount to a special or local law. High Court rules approximate closely to bye-laws which can be altered at will. They are subordinate and domestic enactments; they must be intra vires of the power from which they are derived and any other power pari materia. 8 Rang. 380=127 Ind. Cas. 161= A.I.R. 1930 Rang. 228 (F.B.).

——S. 29—Letters Patent—Applicability of the Act.

When the special or local law is not in itself a complete Code, the general provisions of the Limitation Act, e. g., Ss. 4, 5, 12 and so on, are ordinarily applicable to proceedings under it, inasmuch as such general provisions do not affect or alter the period prescribed by the special or local law, but only the manner in which that period is to be computed. Letters Patent being a complete Code the provisions of the Lim. Act do not apply to proceedings thereunder. 61 Ind. Cas. 327=2 Lah. 127=3 L.L. J. 415 =74 P.L.R. 1921=A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 26.

(e) Municipal Acts.

——S. 29—Bombay Municipal Borough Act, Ss. 104, 105—Proceedings under.

The periods of limitation prescribed for filing a suit under the Lim. Act govern the procedure in a Court of law and the powers of the Municipality acting under the provisions of Ss. 104 and 105 of Bom. Municipal Boroughs Act are not governed by the Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 494=41 Bom. L.R. 1002=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 685=185 Ind. Cas. 366.

——S. 29—Madras Dt. Municipalities Act—Suit to recover property tax.

A suit to recover property tax under Mad. District Municipal Act by enforcing the charge is governed by the period prescribed by S. 345 of the said Act and not by Art. 132 of the Lim. Act. 41 L.W. 457=(1935) M.W.N. 379=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 378=160 Ind. Cas. 254.

——S. 29—Municipal Acts.

Under S. 167, District Municipal Act, read with Ss. 29 and 15 (2), Lim. Act, a plaintiff is entitled to add the period allowed him for notice to the six months within which he has to sue. A.I.R. 1925 Sind 322, Overruled. 122 Ind. Cas. 398=A.I.R. 1930 Sind 93.

(f) Ordinance.

——S. 29—Emergency Powers Ordinance—Extension of time for appeal.

In view of the terms of S. 29, Lim. Act, the time for filing an appeal prescribed by Ben. Emergency Powers Ordinance, 1931 cannot be extended under S. 5 of the Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 132=37 C.W.N. 201=34 Cr. L. J. 299=60 C. 618=142 Ind. Cas. 280.

——S. 29—Special law.

For the purposes of S. 29, Ordinance II of 1932 is a special law.

The provision as to limitation contained in sub-s. 2 of S. 39 of the Ordinance is a specific provision the consequences of which are provided for as a matter of limitation by S. 29. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 124=37 C.W.N. 195=60 C. 571=34 Cr. L. J. 633=143 Ind. Cas 802.

——S. 29—Emergency Powers Ordinance S. 34—Appeal from the order of spl. Judge.

In dealing with the question of an appeal from a Special Judge, S. 34 of the Emergency Powers Ordinance makes a provision to the effect that the provisions of Lim. Act are to apply as if it were an appeal under the Code from a sentence passed by Court of Sessions. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 124=37 C.W.N. 195=34 Cr.L. J. 633=60 C. 571=143 Ind. Cas. 802.

(g) Pro. Insol. Act.

——S. 29 (2)—Pro. Insol. Act.

By reason of the express terms of S. 29 (2) (a), S. 4 applies to applications under S. 68, Prov. Insol. Act. A.I.R. 1931 Rang. 209=9 R. 150=134 Ind. Cas. 223.

——S. 29 (b)—"Special" Law — Pro. Insol. Act, 1907.

Prov. Insol. Act, 1907 is a special law under S. 29, but it is not a complete code. 34 All. 496=10 A.L J. 3=16 Ind. Cas. 149.

——Ss. 29 (b) and 12—Special law—Prov. Insol. Act, S. 22—Receiver's order—Time for getting copy of—If excluded.

In reckoning the period of 26 days under S. 22, Prov. Insol. Act, the time for getting a copy of the Receiver's order cannot be excluded. (34 M. 505; 35 A. 410; 17 Ind. Cas. 593, Foll.) 16 M.L.T. 246=(1914) M.W.N. 831=25 Ind. Cas. 610.

——S. 29—Special law—Prov. Insol. Act, S. 46—Appeals under—Applicability.

The Prov. Insol. Act though a special law within the meaning of S. 29 of the limitation Act is not a complete code in itself, and there is nothing to prevent the application thereto of the general provisions of the Limitation Act. 88 P.W.R. 1918=89 P.R. 1918=87 P.L.R. 1918=46 Ind. Cas. 588.

——S. 29 (b)—Special law—Prov. Insol. Act, Ss. 46 and 47—Appeals under—Applicability.

Recourse cannot be had to the provisions of the Limitation Act (IX of 1908) in dealing with the admissions of petitions and appeals presented after the time prescribed under the Prov. Insol. Act. 34 M. 505 Foll. Per Iyer, J.—Wherever an attempt is made to construe a special period fixed by an enactment with reference to the general provisions of the Limitation Act, the effect of such a process would be "to affect the period of limitation" fixed by that enactment as provided by S. 29 of the Limitation Act. 41 Mad. 169=33 M.L.J. 566=7 L.W. 443=44 Ind. Cas. 805.

——Ss. 29 (b) and 35 and 12—Special law—Prov. Ins. Act, S. 46 (3)—Appeal under—Exclusion of time for obtaining copies of decrees and judgment appealed against.

S. 12 (3) of the Limitation Act which provides for the exclusion of time occupied in obtaining the copies of the judgment and decree appealed against from the period allowed for filing the appeal does not apply to appeals under S. 46 of the Prov. Insol. Act. In the exceptional circumstances of the case the High Court treated the appeal as a revision petition and dealt with it as such under S. 15 of the Charter Act. 34 M. 505, Foll. 91 A; 496, not Foll. Per Sadasiva Iyer, J.—The Court has power to excuse the delay in filing this appeal under S. 5 of the Limitation Act. 39 Mad. 593=18 M.L.T. 200=30 Ind. Cas. 703.

——S. 29 (b)—Special law—Prov. Insol. Act, S. 46—Appeals under—Limitation.

The provisions of Ss. 5 and 12 (2) of the Limitation Act apply to applications and appeals under the Prov. Insol. Act as they cannot be deemed to affect or alter the periods of limitation fixed by the Prov. Insol. Act. 34 A. 496; (F.B), Foll. 9 N.L.R. 91=20 Ind. Cas. 258.

(h) Registration Act.

——S. 29—Suit under Registration Act—Limitation Act does not apply.

Under S. 29 (1) of the Lim. Act nothing in that enactment affects or alters any period of limitation specially prescribed for any suit appeal or application by any special or local law and inasmuch as Ss. 71 to 77 of the Registration Act lay down a complete procedure where registration is refused and as S. 77 limits the period within which suit is to be brought to 30 days the period cannot be extended under S. 14 of the Lim. Act on the ground of prosecution of proceedings in good faith in a Court not having jurisdiction in the matter. A.I.R. 1926 N. 126=89 Ind. Cas. 884.

——Ss. 29 (b) and 14—Special law—Registration Act, S. 77—Suit instituted in wrong court—Extension of time.

S. 14 of the Limitation Act cannot be applied to compute the period of limitation prescribed by S. 77 of the Registration Act for a suit to enforce the registration of a document. 24 C.W.N. 4=30 C.L.J. 455=54 Ind. Cas. 705 (F.B.)

——Ss 29 and 5—Special law—Registration Act, S. 77—Suit under—General principles of Limitation Act if applicable to—Suit to compel registration time expired when Court closed—Suit filed on opening of Court—Limitation—Applicability of section.

Though S. 5 of the Limitation Act does not apply to a suit under S. 77 of the Registration Act, yet on general principles, a suit, time for filing which had expired when the Court closed and which was therefore filed on the Court reopening, is not barred. 26 M.L.J. 397=15 M.L.T. 233=23 Ind. Cas. 23.

——S. 29 (b) and 14—Special law—Registration Act, S. 77—Suit under—Period if can be extended—Proceedings instituted in wrong Court.

As Ss. 71 to 77 of the Registration Act lay down a complete procedure where registration is refused and as S. 77 limits the period within which a suit is to be brought to 30 days, the said period cannot be extended under S. 14 of the Limitation Act on the ground of prosecution of proceedings in good faith in a Court not having jurisdiction in the matter. 24 C.W.N. 29=54 Ind. Cas. 228.

——S. 29 (Ss. 6, 14)—Registration Act (III of 1877) S. 77.

A Sub-Registrar refused to register a document as the executent refused to admit execution. An appeal to the Registrar was dismissed. Within 30 days of the dismissal of the appeal, an application for review was filed to the Registrar, and it was dismissed. Then a suit was brought to enforce registration. Held, that S. 14 of the Limitation Act did not apply to the case at all; and that as the suit was not brought within 30 days from the date of the dismissal of the appeal by the Registrar, it was out of time. 18 C. 368, followed. (1903) 7 C.W.N. 550=30 C. 532.

(i) Revenue Acts.

——S. 29—Revenue cases—C.P. Land Revenue Act (1917), S. 169 (1) (b).

Section 29 (b) excludes the operation of S. 14 of the Limitation Act in respect of a suit filed in accordance with an order passed under Cl. (b) of S. 169 (1) of the Central Provinces Revenue Act. 73 Ind. Cas. 1021 =6 N.L.J. 205=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 306.

——Ss. 29 (b) and 6 — Local law — C. P. Land Revenue Act, S. 6—Minority.

S. 6 of the Limitation Act prima facie applies only to suits in the schedule to the Act and a suit under S. 6 of the C.P Land Rev. Act is not subject to the rule of limitation in the Limitation Act. 46 Ind. Cas. 879 (Nag.)

——Ss. 29 (b) and 15 (2)—Local law—Mad. Rev. Rec. Act (II of 64), S. 59—Suit under—General principles of Limitation Act—Applicability.

S. 15 (2) of the Limitation Act governs suit to set aside a sale under S. 59 of the Madras Act II of 1864. The question whether the general provisions of the Limitation Act should be applied to cases where a special period of limitation is prescribed by a special or local Act, would depend on whether the provisions of such Act are complete code regarding limitation for suits thereunder. 34 M. 505, Dist. 38 Mad. 92=24 M.L.J. 41=18 Ind. Cas. 617.

——S. 29—Local law—U. P. Land Revenue Act, S. 111—Applicability.

The Limitation Act has no applications to suits contemplated by S. 111 of the U P. Land Revenue Act. 4 O.L.J. 553=43 Ind. Cas. 473.

(j) Other Acts.

——S. 29—Land Acquisition Act, S. 18—Reference under.

Section 29 does not apply to an application for reference under S. 18 of the Land Acquisition Act. A.I.R. 1932 All. 598 (599)=54 A. 282=143 Ind. Cas. 111.

——S. 29—Local law—Bombay Regulation V of 1827.

S. 1 of the Bombay Regulation V of 1827 being an enactment of positive presumption was not affected by Act XIV of 1859 which was a statute of limitation. 37 Bom. 231=15 Bom. L.R. 178=19 Ind. Cas. 387.

——S. 29—Dakkan Agr. Relief Act—Suit under S. 3 (w).

On the plain wording of S. 29, Lim. Act, the benefit of S. 20 of that Act cannot be availed of by a plaintiff in a suit falling under S. 3 (w), Dekkhan Agri. Relief Act. A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 131=44 Bom. L.R. 138=200 Ind. Cas. 12.

——Ss. 29 (b) and 4—Local law—Karachi Port Trust Act—Exclusion of holidays.

The general provisions of the Limitation Act for excluding holidays in computing the period of limitation are not applicable to suits under the Karachi Port Trust Act which prescribes a special period of limitation. 11 S.L.R. 106=45 Ind. Cas. 168.

——S. 29 (b)—Local law — Santhal Parganas Regulation—Minority.

The section saves all provisions of local laws as to limitation and the Act though applicable to Santhal Parganas does not affect the three years rule under S. 25-A of Regulation III of 1872 (Santhal Parganas Regulation) the regulation does not make any exception in favour of minors and the minority provisions of the Limitation Act have reference to the periods of limitation prescribed in that Act only. 19 C.W.N. 499=28 Ind. Cas. 241.

——S. 29—U. P. Encumbered Estates Act.

Section 29 does not apply to cases under U.P. Encum. Estates Act. A.I.R. 1943 All. 291=(1943) A.L.J. 268 =I.L.R. (1943) All. 569=1943 A.W.R. (H.C.) 140 (2) =209 Ind. Cas. 541.

——S. 29—U. P. Village Panchayat Act.

Section 29 is applicable when the special or local law prescribes a period of limitation for any suit—No period of limitation is prescribed by U. P. Village Panchayat Act—Section 29, therefore, has no application in suit under that Act. 1941 O.W.N. 111=16 Luck. 512= A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 276=1941 A.W.R. (C.C.) 92=192 Ind. Cas. 840.

——S. 29—Proceedings under Workmen's Compensation Act.

The Limitation Act does not apply to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act. A.I.R 1938 Cal. 348=42 C.W.N. 341=I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 52= 178 Ind. Cas. 810.

——Ss. 30 and 31 and 115—Applicability—Suit by consignor for price of goods mislaid by Ry. Co.

A suit by a consignor for price of goods mislaid by the Railway Co., is not governed by Art. 30 or Art 31 but by Art. 115, as it is a case of a breach of a written contract. 26 C.W.N. 790. 44 Cal. 16=23 C.L.J. 547= 34 Ind. Cas. 130.

——S. 30—Applicability.

S. 30 of Act IX of 1908 applies not only to cases in which the period of limitation has been altered expressly but also to a case where it has been altered owing to an alteration in the description of the suit. 18 C.W.N. 770=26 Ind Cas. 943.

——S. 30—Applicability to pending proceedings.

S. 30 of the Limitation Act applies only to suits and not to applications and hence it does not apply to applications for bringing on record the legal representatives of the deceased respondents. Limitation not being a substantive law applies to pending proceedings. 34 Mad. 232=7 M.L.T. 115=20 M.L.J. 347=(1910) M.W.N. 516=5 Ind. Cas. 420.

——Ss. 30 and 31 and Art. 135—Effect of—Mortgage by conditional sale of 1830—Right of foreclosure arising in 1850—Limitation—Effect of Act of 1859 and 1877.

A mortgage by conditional sale of 1830 contained a provision that the mortgagee would be entitled to enter into possession if the mortgage-debt was not paid on a certain date in 1850. The debt was not paid on that date. No application under Reg. VII of 1836 was made for foreclosure and on 11th of July 1910, the mortgagee brought a suit for foreclosure.

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation. The cause of action arose on the mortgagor's failure to pay the mortgage money on the due date in 1850 and the mortgagee's right to possession of the property mortgaged was extinguished under S. 1, Cl. 12 of Act XIV of 1859 as soon as 12 years had elapsed from the due date and the subsequent creation of foreclosure suits could not revive the extinct right. S. 31 of the Limitation Act IX of 1908, had, therefore, no application and the suit was barred by Art. 135 of the Limitation Act. 16 C. 693, 700, Foll. 10 A.L.J. 538=15 Ind. Cas. 240.

——S. 30—Scope of.

S. 30 only applies where there is a period of limitation "prescribed" both by Act of 1877 and by Act of 1908. Where the plaintiff cannot bring his case under S. 30, the suit is barred by limitation under Art. 134 of the Act of 1908. When property is not purchased but transferred by lease. 43 Cal. 34=19 C.W.N. 1082=29 Ind. Cas. 337.

——S. 31.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability
2. Period of grace
3. Revival of barred rights
4. Scope and operation
5. Withdrawal of suit
6. Miscellaneous.

1. Applicability.

——S. 31 (1)—Applicability—Appeal pending.

The first para. of S. 31 applies to a suit which is pending in the stage of appeal in an Appellate Court 2 Ind. Cas. 632 (All.)

——S. 31—Applicability—Berar—Period of grace.

In S. 31 of the Act, the words "from the date of passing of this Act" cannot be construed in Berar to mean from the date of application of this Act to Berar and the act as applied to Berar gives the same chronological period of grace as was given in British India, a period which began on 7th August 1908 and ended on 8th August 1910. 9 N.L.R. 49=19 Ind. Cas. 518.

——S. 31—Applicability—Foreclosure suit—Limitation bar against subsequent mortgagee.

Per Kotval, A.J.C.—Where the prior mortgagee fails to implead the puisne mortgagee in his suit for foreclosure against mortgagor and the period of limitation runs out as against the puisne mortgagee, who in his suit for foreclosure against the mortgagor obtains possession by a decree, the prior mortgagee cannot on the strength of his title under the foreclosure decree obtained against the mortgagor maintained a suit against the second mortgagee for possession subject to the latter's right to redeem. The suit in effect is one to foreclose the second mortgagee on his failure to redeem the prior mortgagee and an evasion of the law of limitation under which a regular suit for foreclosure is barred and the defendant has acquired an immunity from being compelled to redeem. Raghunath v. Sheolal, 13 N.L.R. 69, Foll.

Per Dhobley, A. J. C.—Limitation does not affect the subsequent suit, since it is not a suit on mortgage but a suit for possession based on a cause of act on long subsequent. 44 A.L.J. 1146, Foll. 66 Ind Cas. 631=5 N.L.J. 157=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 89 (F.B.).

——S. 31 (2)—Applicability—Fresh suit—C. P. C., O. 23, Rr. 1, 2.

S. 31 of the Limitation Act applies to an application for restoration of a case dismissed or withdrawn on the ground of the 12 years rule of limitation and has no application to a fresh suit. Such a suit is governed by the law of limitation in the same manner as if the first suit had not been instituted. 9 A.L.J. 378=14 Ind. Cas. 175.

——S. 31, Art. 132—Mortgage—Bond providing for payment at time of redemption of previous mortgage—Applicability of S. 31 to suits governed by Art. 132.

A executed a usufructuary mortgage and a bond after some years with the provisions that he would pay off the sum of the bond within a period; and if he failed to do so, he would pay it with interest at the time of paying the mortgage money. This sum would be paid first and the mortgage will be redeemed afterwards by paying in a lump sum. Held, that the bond was not a simple mortgage though it might have effected a charge, (ii) that suits governed by Art. 132 cannot get the benefit of S. 31 of the Limitation Act, (iii) that when the construction of a deed is in question rulings thereon in different language help very little. 15 O.C. 295=15 Ind. Cas. 857.

——S. 31 (2)—Applicability — Mortgages executed before and after 1882—Distinction.

For the purposes of S. 31 (2) of the Lim. Act, there is no distinction between mortgages executed before and after 1882 (T.P.A.) 16. Ind. Cas. 236, Foll; 26 Ind. Cas. 938 (Mad.)

——S. 31—Applicability—Realisation of rents and profits in lieu of interest—If receipt of interest as such.

When under the terms of a mortgage of 1850 the mortgagee was to take possession of the mortgaged property and to appropriate its rents and profits in lieu of interest and the mortgagee was dispossessed in 1889, Held, that the realisation of rents and profits in lieu of interest was equivalent to the receipt of interest, as such, that the limitation began to run from the year 1889 when Act XV of 1877 had come into operation and that S. 31 of Act IX of 1908 did apply and the plff.'s suit for sale of the property brought on the 10th January 1910, was not barred. 35 All. 270=11 A.L.J. 289=19 Ind. Cas. 238.

——S. 31—Applicability — Remand on appeal—Limitation Act (1887), Arts. 132 and 147.

Where in an appeal a suit for the recovery of mortgage money, the High Court held that 60 years rule of limitation was applicable under Art. 147 of the old Limitation Act and gave judgment for plff. and on appeal the Privy Council held that Art. 132 applied, that plff.'s suit was barred, and remitted the case to High Court for disposal, Held, that S. 31 applied to the case as the Lim. Act (1908) was passed after the P. C. had remitted the case. 32 Mad. 312=5 M.L.T. 287=4 Ind. Cas. 501.

——S. 31 (1) — Applicability — "Suit pending"— Remand on appeal for enquiry—Enquiry not commenced at date of Act.

Where a mortgage suit for foreclosure or sale was remitted by the Privy Council to be disposed of on the merits after enquiry by the Court in India and that enquiry had not been entered upon at the date of passing of the Limitation Act IX of 1908. Held, that the suit was pending within the meaning of S. 31 (1) of the Act IX of 1908 35 Mad. 191=39 I. A. 96=16 C.W.N. 489=(1912) M.W.N. 433=11 M.L.T. 313=9 A.L.J. 504=15 C.L.J. 466=14 Bom. L. R. 455=23 M.L.J. 16=15 Ind. Cas. 222 (P. C.)

——S. 31, Sub-Ss. (1) and (2)—Applicability —Re-opening of Appeal.

Once an appeal is restored to file under S. 31, Sub-S. 1 will apply. A plea that the limitation of 12 years applies to a particular mortgage, should be raised by a way of objection to the re-opening of second appeal under S. 31 (2) and not after the appeal is re-opened unopposed. 6 N.L.R. 20=5 Ind. Cas. 701.

2. Period of grace.

——Ss. 31 and 4 — Period of grace—Expiry on sunday—Institution on Monday if in time.

Where mortgage suit was instituted on Monday the period of grace of 2 years having expired on Sunday, the suit was in time. S. 4 of the Lim. Act can be invoked in a suit covered by S. 31 for limitation purposes. 26 M.L.T 23=21 Ind. Cas. 770.

——S. 31—Period of grace—Expiry on Sunday—Exclusion of Sundays.

Where the special period of two years prescribed by S. 31 to file a suit for foreclosure or sale expired on a Sunday and the suit was filed the next Monday. Held, that the suit is not barred. 34 All. 375=9 A.L.J. 439 =14 Ind. Cas. 154.

——S. 31 (1)—Period of grace—General Clauses Act, S. 10—Expiry or Sunday.

The special period of two years allowed by S. 31 (1) for instituting certain suits for foreclosure or sale is not a part of the "period of limitation prescribed" for such suits. It is only a period of grace and is not governed by S. 4 or S. 12. S. 10 of the General Clauses Act, should be applied in dealing with a plaint for sale on foot of a mortgage instituted with reference to the special period of limitation allowed by S. 31 (1) of the Limitation Act. So a suit filed on Monday when its last day fell on Sunday is not time-barred. 7 N.L.R. 176=12 Ind. Cas. 810.

——S. 31—Period of grace—Extension of.

The 'period of 2 years' grace allowed by S. 31 is not to be extended by including any time within it. 13 Bom.L.R. 284=10 Ind. Cas. 910.

——S. 31 (1)—Period of grace—Foreclosure—Suit within 2 years of the passing of the Act—Suit for foreclosure.

If a suit for foreclosure on a mortgage executed more than 12 years before suit, is filed within the period of 2 years allowed under S. 31 (i) it is within time. 16 Ind. Cas. 20 (Oudh).

——S. 31—Period of grace—Foreclosure of mortgage of 1869—Suit in May 1910.

Where a mortgage by conditional sale was executed in 1869, the period fixed being six years and the condition being that if the mortgage was not redeemed the mortgage would be deemed a sale and the mortgagee brought a foreclosure suit in May 1910. Held, that S. 31 of the Act applies and the suit was within time. 13 Ind. Cas. 504 (Oudh).

——S. 31—Period of grace—Mortgage of 1873, suit on Lim Act (XV of 1877), Ss. 2 (1) and 4 and Arts. 132 and 147—Mortgage before the T. P. Act—Power of sale.

A mortgage, executed when the Lim. Act of 1871 was in force and not barred when the Lim. Act of 1877 was passed, gets the benefit of the extension of the period of limitation under the latter Act. A mortgagee can also claim the benefit of S. 31 of the Lim. Act of 1908 provided he institutes his suit for sale within two years of the passing of the Act. The word 'Mortgage' includes documents executed after the passing of the T P Act, and mortgages executed prior to the passing of the Act have the power of sale incidental to them. 16 Ind. Cas. 236 (Mad.).

3. Revival of barred rights.

——S 31 and Art. 135—Revival of barred rights—Reg (XVII of 1806)—T. P. Act.

A mortgage by conditional sale was made on February 25, 1866 for a period of six years providing that if after six years, anything remained due to the mortgagees, they might take possession of the mortgaged property and realise the principal and interest that the property should not be transferred so long as any principal and interest remained due and that if it was transferred while the money due to the mortgagee was not paid, the latter might bring a suit for recovery of the principal and interest within 6 years and might also get possession "by completion of sale." Nothing was paid on foot of principal or interest on the mortgage. Proceedings under S. 8 of the Reg. XVII of 1806 were not taken by the mortgagee. Part of the mortgaged property was transferred by the mortgagor in 1867. In the year 1910 the mortgagee brought a suit for foreclosure. Held, that the suit was barred by limitation the cause of action having accrued in 1867. 38 All. 97=14 A.L.J. 1=32 Ind. Cas. 95.

——S. 31—Revival of barred rights—Limitation Act, 1871—Limitation Act, 1859—Limitation Act, 1877.

Nothing in the Limitation Act, 1877, could revive rights barred under the Limitation Acts of 1871 or 1859. Nor is there anything in S. 31 of the Limitation Act, 1908, to revive rights barred before the Act of 1877 came into force. 16 O.C. 157=20 Ind. Cas. 465.

——S. 31—Revival of barred rights—Right to sue on mortgage barred under Limitation Act, 1871. Limitation Act (XV of 1877), S. 2 and Art. 147.

A right to sue for the mortgage money under mortgage dated 1863 and payable in 1864 which had already been barred under Act of 1871 cannot be revived by the introduction of S 31 of the new Act of 1908. 35 All. 167=11 A.L.J. 167=18 Ind. Cas. 517.

——S. 31—Revival of barred rights—Accrual of cause of action in 1868—Reg. XVII of 1806.

S. 31 does not confer on the plaintiff a right of suit under the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act when no such suit would have been entertainable on the day the Act came into force. So a foreclosure suit in respect of a mortgage deed of 1861, providing for payment in 1868 is not protected by S. 31 when no proceedings had been taken under Reg. XVII of 1806 before 1880 and the mortgagee's rights have been lost before the T. P. Act came into force. 9 Ind. Cas. 1038 (Oudh).

4. Scope and operation.

——S. 31—Scope and operation.

Obiter.—Section 31, Lim. Act, prescribes a special period of limitation in certain cases. 47 L.W. 726= A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 683=(1938) M.W.N. 513=177 Ind. Cas. 759.

——Ss. 31, 19, 20—Mortgage of 1892—Subsequent mortgage in 1902—Renewal of earlier mortgage in 1905—Priority—Effect of renewal—Scope of S. 31—'Prescribed,' meaning of.

With reference to the special class of cases dealt with in S. 31 of the Lim. Act, 1908, that section must be interpreted as prescribing a period of limitation even for the purposes of the application of Ss. 19 and 20 of the Lim. Act. The word "prescribe" in these sections must not be understood as only meaning prescribed in the Second Schedule to the Lim. Act (before amending in 1930).

A mortgage was executed on May 24, 1892, in favour of the plaintiff. In 1902 another mortgage was executed in favour of the defendant. The mortgage in favour of the plaintiff was renewed in 1905 by a fresh bond which allowed time for payment by instalments up to 1916:

Held, that the claim under the mortgage of 1892 was enforceable or at least must be deemed to have been enforceable in 1905 when it was renewed, and the plaintiff was accordingly entitled to claim priority as against the defendant on that footing.

A renewed mortgage may operate to keep alive the rights under the old mortgage as against intermediate transferees on the analogy of part-payment. But the starting point for an action for recovery of the debt will be fixed, not merely as against the mortgagor but also as against intermediate mortgagees in accordance with the terms of the new contract. 40 M.L.W. 893=(1934) M.W.N. 1343=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 64=68 M.L.J. 12=58 Mad. 270=153 Ind. Cas. 2 (F.B.).

——S. 31—Scope and operation—Period of suit—Hypothecation bond—Acknowledgment after 12 years but within 2 years provided in S. 31—Saves limitation.

A suit on hypothecation bond was brought long after the period of 12 years prescribed by Art. 132 had expired. Plaintiff, however, relied upon an acknowledgment of the liability made after the expiry of the said period of 12 years but within the period of 2 years provided by S. 31.

Held, that S. 31 prescribed a period of limitation and that the suit was within time. 1930 M.W.N. 930= 32 M.L.W. 502=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 991=59 M.L.J. 881.

——S. 31 (1)—Scope and operation—Suit for foreclosure of a mortgage due on 4-7-10 if within time.

The application of the first clause of Sub-S. (1) of S. 31 of the Lim. Act is not restricted to suits already barred by limitation when the Act came into force. The words in the clause operate not only for the benefit of those persons whose claims are barred before the passing of the Act but also of those whose claims are barred within two years after the passing of the Act. Consequently a suit for foreclosure of a mortgage due on 4th July 1910 is within time. 7 N.L.R. 165=12 Ind. Cas. 799.

——S. 31—Scope and operation—Mortgage suit—Limitation.

A mortgagee can sue for a sale within two years of the passing of the Act, unless 60 years, from the date the mortgage become due, would elapse, before the expiry of two years. 2 Ind. Cas. 144 (All.).

5. Withdrawal of suit.

——S. 31 (1) and (2)—Withdrawal of suit—Fresh suit, if should be brought under S. 31 (2).

A suit in 1907 for recovery of money on a mortgage was withdrawn with liberty to bring fresh suit. After the passing of the Limitation Act of 1908 the plff. brought the said suit on the same mortgage. It was contended by the deft. that the plff. should proceed under Sub-S. (2), S. 31 of the Lim. Act. Held, that the plff. was entitled to bring a fresh suit under Sub-S. (1), S. 31 of the Lim. Act and was not bound to proceed under Sub-S. (2). A person who has withdrawn a suit with permission to bring a fresh one should not be compelled to resort to the procedure allowed by Sub-S. (2). 12 Ind. Cas. 323 (Oudh).

——S. 31 (1) and (2)—Withdrawal of suit—Restoration of—C. P. Code (1882), Ss. 373 and 374—Law as to withdrawal of suits before Act IX of 1908.

S. 31 does not affect Ss. 373 and 374 of the C. P. Code, 1882 but only deals with withdrawals other than those under S. 373 and enacts that a claim withdrawn on the ground of 12 years rule of limitation may be restored. 6 Ind. Cas. 700 (All.).

6. Miscellaneous.

——S. 31 (1)—Miscellaneous—Mortgage — Meaning not dependent upon the date of execution.

The question whether an instrument is a mortgage or not under S. 51 (1), Lim. Act, does not depend upon the date of its execution. (1914) M.W.N. 501= 27 M.L.J. 58=24 Ind. Cas. 24.

——Sch. I — Period prescribed under — When lapses.

The period prescribed by Sch. I of the Limitation Act lapses not on the expiry of the definite number of years prescribed therein but on the expiry of that number of years together with the period of time which is excluded from the calculation. 1949 A.L.J 291= A.I.R. 1949 A. 764=1949 A.W.R. 377=I.L.R. (1950) A. 701.

——Sch. I—Scope.

The first schedule provides periods of limitation for the institution of suits and not for putting in defences. 1 P.R. 1916=206 P.W.R. 1915=32 Ind. Cas. 485.

——Sch. I—Articles—Construction.

The language of the third column of the schedule should, in general, if not indeed always, be so interpreted as to carry out the true intention of the legislature, that is to say, to date the cause of action from the date on which the remedy is available to the party. 117 Ind. Cas. 543=56 Cal. 61=32 C.W.N. 971=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 646.

——Sch. I—Articles — Determination of article applicable—Plaint is the basis.

The question of the applicability of any particular article of the Limitation Act to a particular suit for a particular relief must be decided on the assumption that the version as given in the plaint is correct and that the relief sought in the plaint flows from such a version. 98 Ind. Cas. 22=22 N.L.R. 147=9 N.L.J. 198=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 10.

——Sch. I—Articles—Determination of articles applicable.

There is always one article applicable to a case and the Court has to find it though more than one may seem to be applicable and such a construction of the various articles has to be adopted as to confine each article to one exclusive category of suits. One principle in the working out of this process is the maxim Generalia Specialibus non-derogant, specialia derogant generalibus. 68 Ind. Cas. 734=44 Mad. 951=14 M.L.W. 116=1921 M.W.N. 465=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 272=41 M.L.J. 163.

——Sch. I—Articles—Two articles applicable.

The more general article must be governed by that which is more specific. 96 Ind. Cas. 529=5 Pat. 759= 8 P. L. T. 124=1926 P. H. C. C. 225=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 401.

——Sch. I—Articles—Two articles applicable.

Where the relief claimed is covered by two articles of the schedule, one being of general import and the other of special import, applying to the particular facts of any case, the latter shall govern. 93 Ind. Cas. 129=7 P.L.T. 431=4 Pat. 448=1925 P.H.C.C. 345= A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 765.

——Sch. I—Articles—Two articles applicable.

In giving effect to a statute of limitation if two articles limiting the period for bringing the suit are wide enough to include the same cause of action, and neither of them can be said to apply more specifically than the other that which keeps alive rather than that which bars the right to sue should generally, and apart from other equitable consideration, be preferred. 93 Ind. ——Sch. I—Articles—Two articles applicable.

If there are two Articles in the Schedule to the Limitation Act, which may possibly govern a case, the one more general and the other more special, the more particular specific article should be regarded as the one governing the case. 16 C. 25; 26 C. 564; 21 M. 141; 23 B. 725 and 26 Bom. 430, Foll. 73 Ind. 15. Suit for damages for wrongful restraint
16. Unauthorised sale in execution.

1. Act done under statute.

——Arts. 2 and 36—Act done under statute in improper manner out of malice and carelessness.

The intention of Art. 2 of the Lim. Act is to meet those cases where a public official or a public authority or a private person does an act, injurious or possibly injurious to another under powers conferred or honestly believed to be conferred by some Act of the legislature. Art. 2 does not apply to a case where the damages arise not from the doing of the Act or from the failure to do it, but from doing it in an improper manner out of malice and carelessness. Such a case would be governed by Art. 36. 16 O.C. 211=21 Ind. Cas. 486.

——Art. 2—Act done under statute—Compensation for.

Art. 2 provides protection to persons doing acts in pursuance of some enactment in force and the limitation which it prescribes applies to all cases when the defendant intended to act under powers given by the enactment. It is not necessary that defendant must at the time of doing the act openly assert or inform the other parties that he is acting in pursuance of a particular enactment It is enough if he shows that in doing the act he was at the time under the honest belief that his act was authorised by a statute. Art. 2 applies where compensation is claimed for damage resulting from the consequences of the act of a public body done in pursuance of statutory powers. The fact that damage resulted to plaintiff's estate from the doing of such an act after the lapse of some months, does not affect the applicability of the article. 72 P.R. 1909=112 P.W.R. 1909=108 P.L.R. 1909=2 Ind. Cas. 819.

2. Applicability.

——Art. 2—Applicability—Act done in pursuance of agreement.

Art. 2 of the Limitation Act does not contemplate an act done in pursuance of an agreement; it relates to an act done in pursuance of any enactment. 230 Ind. Cas. 301=A.I.R. 1947 Sind 69.

——Arts. 2 and 36—Applicability—Suit for compensation.

A suit for compensation for damages said to have been caused by the failure of a local body to maintain its water system in proper order is governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 2.

(Applicability of Arts. 2 and 36 discussed). 47 P.L.R. 302=A.I.R. 1945 Lah. 324=I.L.R. (1945) Lah. 523 (F.B.).

——Art. 2—Applicability.

Where the act was performed under the powers conferred by the statute and the cause of action alleged against the Secretary of State is a failure to allot the statutory compensation, Art. 2 has no application. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 583.

——Arts. 2 and 3—Applicability—Act done in pursuance of powers under Cattle Trespass Act.

A suit was brought against the Secretary of District Board and the District Magistrate of the place as ex officio Chairman by a pound-keeper for compensation. The grounds alleged were that the defendants released certain cattle, without making any payment to him on account of the feeding charges which he was entitled to receive under the rules made by the District Board, their act being illegal:

Held, that any proceedings that were taken by the Secretary, District Board, were taken under the Cattle Trespass Act and even if he had forwarded any papers for disposal to the Deputy Commissioner, he had done it under the provisions of the Cattle Trespass Act. In whatever position the Deputy Commissioner may have exercised his functions, he had done it by virtue of the powers vested in him under the Cattle Trespass Act. If any functions of the District Magistrate have been transferred to the District Board by any notification of the Local Govt., he, as Chairman of the District Board, could exercise those powers on behalf of the District Board and if those functions have not been so transferred, he could, by virtue of being District Magistrate take such action as was permissible under the Act.

Held, also that the Article applicable was Art. 2 and not 36.

Held, further that under S. 21, Cattle Trespass Act, the District Magistrate is enjoined to summon the person complained against and make an inquiry into the case; but the non-compliance with the provisions of this section did not affect the merits of this case. If the non-compliance with the provisions of S. 21 had the effect of making the order of the District Magistrate illegal, any suit for compensation on that account would clearly be governed by Art. 2. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 748=39 P.L.R. 915=169 Ind. Cas. 922.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

It is not necessary that at the time of the doing of the act complained of, the doer of the act should expressly or publicly allege that he was doing the act under a certain statute and where a person honestly believes that he is acting under some enactment, he is protected and his case is covered by Art 2. A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 748=39 P.L.R. 915=169 Ind. Cas. 922.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

Art. 2 is the proper Article to apply when a public officer is acting bona fide in pursuance of his authority and a suit is instituted for damages. But Art. 2 will not protect a public officer who has acted mala fide under colour of his office.

Where Police Officers exceeded their lawful authority and caused hurt when they were acting bona fide in exercise of what they understood to be their duty under S. 144, Criminal P.C.:

Held, that if the act complained of was believed to be actually authorised by law, then no question of limitation would arise, as in that case the action itself would not be maintainable. It is when a public officer acted bona fide in the exercise of his lawful authority but heedlessly exceeded his authority, that a suit would lie and the limitation prescribed by Art. 2 would apply. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 653=166 Ind. Cas. 529.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

If the act complained of is within the terms of the statute, no protection is needed, for the plaintiff has suffered no legal wrong; the protection is needed when an actionable wrong has been committed and to secure the protection there must be, in the first place a bona fide, belief by the official that the act complained of was justified by the statute, secondly, the act must have been performed under colour of a statutory duty, and thirdly the act must be in itself a tort in order to give rise to the cause of action. It is against such actions for tort that the statute gives protection. The article has no application to suits to recover statutory compensation independently of any question of tort. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 513=17 P.L.T. 279 =15 Pat. 510=2 B.R. 776=164 Ind. Cas. 860.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

Where a suit is instituted more than ninety days from the date on which the plaintiff paid the money under protest but it is conceded that S. 81, Punjab Municipal Act, under which the Notified Area Committee purported to act in realising the amount from the plaintiff, did not authorise it to do so, Art. 2, cannot apply and the suit must be held not barred. A.I.R. 1935=Lah. 47=152 Ind. Cas. 680.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

Art. 2 has no application to a suit for damages for conversion by a Railway Company. A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 507=16 P.L.T. 61=1 B.R. 5=13 Pat. 752=151 Ind. Cas. 995.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

Where a defendant has done an act or omitted to do an act, knowing that he had no ground whatsoever for so acting or omitting to do an act, he does not come within the purview of Art. 2. It is only defendants who have acted honestly, although they might have exceeded the actual power conferred upon them by an enactment who would be protected. Of course, where it is established that the act done was in strict accordance with an enactment, there would be an obvious protection. But even where the power was exceeded there would be protection in cases of good faith and bona fide belief.

Thus where a suit is filed for damages on the ground that the defendant, a Police Constable, who cherished a grudge against the plaintiff, made a false report at the Police Station stating that the plaintiff was leading a riotous mob, if the defendant were to satisfy the Court that at the time when he made the report, he acted honestly on some information received, he would be protected, even though the report might turn out to be absolutely false but not so to the knowledge of the defendant. (1935) A.L.J. 459=1935 A.W.R. 547=A.I.R. 1935 All. 538=57 All. 935=155 Ind. Cas. 131 (F.B.).

——Art. 2—Applicability—Good faith, necessity of.

Art. 2 requires that before its protection can be invoked, there should be good faith. Where the defendant in a suit for compensation pleads bar of limitation under Art. 2, there must be an inquiry as regards good faith before a decision can be come to as to whether Art. 2 does apply. If in the inquiry the defendant fails to prove good faith, he is not entitled to the protection of Art. 2. The case is even stronger if it appears that the defendant knowingly acted contrary to the provisions of the enactment of which he seeks to take advantage. A.I.R. 1937 Sind 281=32 Sind L.R. 106=172 Ind. Cas. 622.

——Art. 2—Applicability.

Art. 2 will govern a case only when the defendant did an act in the honest belief that he was empowered to do the act by some enactment, but if he acts knowing that he has no power under any enactment so to act, a suit for compensation for the wrongful act will fall under Art. 23. 89 Ind. Cas. 861=4 Bur. L.J. 139=3 Rang. 268=A.I.R. 1925 Rang. 311.

3. Compensation for order of demolition by Magistrate.

——Art. 2—Compensation for an order of demolition by a Magistrate at the instance of a Municipality.

A suit for damages caused by an order for demolition of certain huts passed by a Magistrate under S. 144, Cr. P.C. at the instance of a Municipality is governed by Art. 2. 18 Ind. Cas. 84 (Cal.).

4. Damage by bursting of fittings.

——Arts. 2 and 36—Damage by burstings of fittings.

A case of damage to houses by bursting of municipal fittings by its negligence is governed by Art. 36 and not Art. 2, Lim. Act. 121 Ind. Cas. 500=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 730.

5. Damage by canal.

——Art. 2—Damage by canal.

Where the canal authorities cut the bank of a canal to avoid accident to the adjoining railway and not to the canal and plaintiff's adjacent mills were damaged:

Held, that Art. 2 was not applicable as the act alleged was not done in pursuance of any enactment. 103 Ind.Cas. 1=10 Lah. 161=1927 M.W.N. 334=4 O.W.N. 471=31 C.W.N. 835=26 M.L.W. 134=28 P.L.R. 453=39 M.L.T. 343=A.I.R. 1927 P.C. 72 (P.C.)

——Art. 2—Damage by canal.

In the Raya branch canal, a large amount of water collected at more than one point and the Canal Officer cut the channel in various places to allow this surplus water to escape into the lower lands on the west of the distributory. In spite of this action the flood water was held up and diverted from its natural course and eventually reached the property of the plaintiff and injured it:

Held, that the action taken in dealing with the flood is covered by S. 15 of North India Canal and Drainage Act; that Art. 2 of the Limitation Act applied and that the terminus a quo in calculating limitation is the date of the damage and not the date of the construction of the work which caused the damage. 79 Ind. Cas. 208 =4 Lah. 428=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 169.

——Art. 2—Damage by canal.

Where the construction of the Raya Branch Tail distributory of the upper Chenab canal caused the flood water to go to the plaintiff's property in the high floods of 1917, and thereby caused them serious damage:

Held, that action of the Canal Officers in constructing this channel came under S 6 of Act VIII of 1873 and whether that action was wise or unwise, any suit for damages consequent thereon must be brought within 90 days of the date of damage. 79 Ind. Cas. 185 =4 Lah. 432=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 192.

6. Damage by closing of road.

——Art. 2—Damage by closing of road.

A suit for damages against a municipality for an alleged omission to complete repairs quickly and the closing of the road at both ends by its servant out of malice would fall within Art. 2 as amended by S. 326, U. P. Municipalities Act. 95 Ind. Cas. 1030=48 All. 560=24 A.L.J. 682=A.I.R. 1926 All. 538.

7. Damage by drain.

——Art. 2—Damage by drain.

Where the plaintiff sued to recover damages from a Municipal Committee on the ground that it had been negligent in the repairing of a drain outside his house and had thereby caused the fall of a wall and of the roof:

Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 2 and Art. 31 of the Limitation Act had no application. 122 Ind. Cas. 111=31 Punj. L.R. 159=12 L.L.J. 31.

8. Interpretation.

——Art. 2—Interpretation—"Alleged to be".

The word "alleged" in Art. 2, Lim. Act cannot be taken to mean that a mere allegation by a party invoking its assistance or pleading that he had acted or omitted to act in pursuance of an enactment would attract its provisions. But when the act is found to have been done or purported to have been done in pursuance of an enactment, Art. 2 must be held to apply. It is not correct to say that the allegation by the defendants that they were acting in pursuance of an enactment must be taken to have been made by them when they were acting so as to attract Art. 2. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 539=44 Cr.L.J. 45=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 14=1942 M.W.N. 602=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 696=203 Ind. Cas. 45.

——Art. 2—Interpretation—'In pursuance of an enactment'—Meaning of.

The words 'in pursuance of an enactment' in Art. 2, must be interpreted as meaning acting in conformity with an enactment and not merely pretending to act or acting under colour of such an enactment. Where a person honestly believes that he is acting under some enactment, he is protected. But where a person merely pretends that he was so acting and knows that he should not act under that enactment, he cannot be said to be acting in pursuance of any such enactment. No doubt under S. 44, Cr.P.C., it is the duty of every person to make a report to the Police of the Commission of certain specified offences, but there is no such duty cast upon a citizen, much less on a Police Officer, to make such a report when no facts exist. He would certainly not be acting in pursuance of S. 144, Cr. P. C., if he concocts a purely false story and then makes a report of such a false story knowing it to be false. (1935) A.L.J. 459=A.I.R. 1935 All. 538=57 All. 935=1935 A.W.R. 547=155 Ind. Cas. 131 (F.B.).

9. Municipal Council—Breach of Contract.

——Art. 2—Municipal Council—Damages—Breach of contract.

Quaere.—If Art. 2 of the Lim. Act is applicable to a suit for damages against a Municipal Council for breach of contract to remove rubbish. 28 M.L.J. 147=(1915) M.W.N. 143=28 Ind.Cas. 45.

10. Object.

——Art. 2—Object.

The object of Art. 2 is the protection of public officials who, while bona fide purporting to act in the exercise of a statutory power, have exceeded that power and have committed a tortious act; it resembles in this respect the English Public Authorities Protection Act. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 513=17 P.L.T. 279=15 Pat. 510=2 B.R. 776=164 Ind. Cas. 860.

11. Receiver in insolvency taking possession.

——Art. 2—Receiver in insolvency taking possession.

The action of the Receiver in insolvency in taking possession of property knowing fully well that it is not in possession of the insolvent and that it is not included in the schedule, is contrary to law and not in good faith and he will not be entitled to protection under Art. 2. He cannot even take protection under S. 1, Judicial Officers' Protection Act. A.I.R. 1937 Sind 281=32 Sind L.R. 106=172 Ind. Cas. 622.

12. Refund of octroi duty.

——Arts. 2 and 120—Refund of octroi duty.

A suit for the refund of money legally collected by a Municipality but wrongfully refused to be refunded is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 2. 36 All. 555=12 A.L.J. 952=25 Ind. Cas. 943.

——Arts. 2 and 62—Refund of octroi duty.

A claim for the refund of a specific sum which was illegally realised by a Municipality is in the nature of the suit for money had and received and is governed by Art. 62 and not by Art. 2. 32 All. 491=7 A.L.J. 496=6 Ind. Cas. 401.

13. Starting point.

——Art. 2—Starting point of limitation.

The limitation for suit for compensation for wrongful restraint starts under Art. 2 from the date when wrongful restraint takes place and not when injury (illness to plaintiff) results there from. If the act complained of had not given rise to a cause of action until some special damage had resulted there from, S. 24, Lim. Act, might have been of help to the plaintiffs but since the wrongful restraint complained of and found to have been committed was a tort and actionable per se, it could have given rise to a cause of action immediately. S. 24 of the Act, therefore, could not help the plaintiffs. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 539=(1942) 2 M. L. J. 14=44 Cr. L. J. 45=1942 M.W.N. 602=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 696=203 Ind. Cas. 45.

14. Suit for compensation for illegal arrest.

——Art. 2—Suit for compensation for illegal arrest.

Per Akram, J.—The claim for compensation for illegal arrest fell within the scope of Art. 2 which applies to cases of compensation for doing or for omitting to do an act pursuant to an enactment, i. e., where the defendant acts under colour of statute. 77 C.L. J. 93=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 4=212 Ind. Cas. 421.

——Art. 2—Suit for damages for malicious arrest.

A suit for damages for malicious arrest, where the defendant acted within his statutory authority maliciously falls under Art. 2. (1931) A.L.J. 858=A.I.R. 1932 All. 16=135 Ind. Cas. 558.

15. Suit for damages for wrongful restraint.

——Art. 2—Suit for damages for wrongful restraint.

The plaintiff instituted an action for damages against certain Police Officers for wrongful confinement and wrongful restraint. It was found that the plaintiff was wrongfully restrained but there was no wrongful confinement and that the defendants had acted under S. 54, Criminal P. C. and S. 21, Mad. District Police Act:

Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 2 and not by Arts. 36, 19 or 120, Lim. Act. 44 Cr.L. J. 45=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 539=(1942) 2 M.L. J. 14=1942 M.W.N. 602=I.L.R. (1942) Mad. 696=203 Ind. Cas. 45.

16. Unauthorised sale in execution.

——Art. 2—Unauthorised sale in execution.

Plaintiff's property was advertised for sale. He tendered the decretal amount to the officer of the Court empowered to receive the money in order to stop the sale. The Officer however in spite of the deposit, got the property sold. Plaintiff brought a suit against the officer for damages. Held, that the basis of the suit being that the deft. had refused to accept the money which he was bound to accept under C. P. Code, the suit was governed by Art. 2. 41 All. 219=16 A.L. J. 1017=48 Ind. Cas. 815.

——Art. 3—Sp. Rel. Act, S. 9.

For a suit under S. 9, Sp. Rel. Act all that has to be determined is whether the plaintiff was dispossessed and whether his suit was brought within six months from the date of dispossession, i. e, regard should be had to the terms of the S. 9, Sp. Rel. Act and Lim. Act, Art. 3. 13 Ind. Cas. 541, (Cal.)

——Art. 3—Suit by non-occupancy ryot, for recovery of possession.

By F. B. (Prinsep, J. dissentiente).— That the remedy in S. 9 of the Specific Relief Act is not the only remedy which the legislature has provided for a non-occupancy raiyat who has been dispossessed otherwise than in due course of law. 7 C.W.N. 218 overruled. The period of limitation applicable to the case of a non-occupancy ryot who has been dispossessed from his holding otherwise than in execution of a decree is either 6 or 12 year as provided in Art. 120 or Art. 142 of the Limitation Act. 8 C.W.N. 446; 31 C. 647, (F.B.)

——Art. 3—Suit by non-occupancy ryot for possession.

The limitation applicable to a suit to recover possession by non-occupancy ryot who has been dispossessed from his holding by his land-lord otherwise than in due course of law is 6 months from the date of dispossession. 7 C.W.N. 218.

[Overruled in 8 C.W.N. 446=31 Cal. 647 (F.B.)]

——Art. 3—Suit by Government.

A suit by the Secretary of State for India, whether it be under S. 9 of the Specific Relief Act or otherwise is governed by Art. 149 and not Art. 3 of the Limitation Act. 87 Ind. Cas. 1002=A.I.R. 1925 Sind 275.

——Art. 5—(As amended in 1938)—Applicability.

Where before January 15, 1938, a summary suit instituted more than one year after the accrual of the cause of action is barred under Art. 5, as it originally stood. The suit is not revived by the amendment of January 15, 1938, which prescribes a period of three years. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 342=41 Bom. L.R. 518=185 Ind. Cas. 149.

——Art. 5—Applicability.

A suit on a negotiable instrument provided for under O. 37, falls under the category of suits of the nature referred to in S. 128 (2) (f), and Art. 5 of the Limitation Act of 1908 applies to such suits. 98 Ind. Cas. 78=21 S.L R. 257=A.I.R. 1927 Sind 90.

——Art. 5—Applicability.

Suit under O. 37 are not governed by Art. 5 of the present Limitation Act. 88 Ind. Cas. 400=41 C.L. J. 368=29 C.W.N. 589=52 Cal. 954=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 781.

——Arts. 6, 7 and 8—Applicability and scope—Minor—Alienation by de facto guardian of minor's property as own property—Suit by minor for possession after majority—Limitation—Limitation Act, Arts. 142 and 144.

The plaintiff in a suit for ejectment must prove a subsisting title in him, i. e., title within 12 years of the suit, before he can succeed in the suit; limitation does not cease to run because the rightful owner of the property happens to be a minor when limitation starts. In the case of an alienation by a de facto guardian of a minor, purporting to transfer the property in his or her own right and not as guardian of the minor, the later can sue for recovery of the property within 12 years of the alienation or within three years after the attainment of majority whichever is later. Art. 142 and not Art. 144 applies to the suit, and in the absence of proof of subsisting title, within 12 years before suit the suit must fail on the ground of limitation. 6 P.L. J. 478, foll. A.I.R. 1950 Pat. 191.

15. Village carpenter.

1. Applicability.

——Arts. 7, 102—Applicability.

Arts. 7 and Art. 102 deal with different classes of wage-earners. The former deals with a lower class of wage-earner than that dealt with by Art. 102. 41M L.W. 40=(1935) M.W.N. 120=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 128=68 M.L.J. 132=155 Ind. Cas. 591.

——Arts. 7 and 102 — Applicability—Suit for remuneration by person engaged to supervise work—"Labourer"—Meaning of.

A person who is engaged to supervise a work is not a household servant, artisan or labourer within the meaning of Art. 7 of the Limitation Act. A labourer is one who does work with his own hand. A person who is a contractor or sub-contractor and who engages to get work done but does not engage in any work himself is not a workman or labourer. Art. 7 of the Limitation Act is not, therefore, applicable to a suit by such a person for his remuneration. The only other article which can apply is Art 102 which provides 3 years limitation for a suit for wages not expressly provided for by the schedule and time begins to run from the date when the wages accrue due. 7 M. 100 and 10 B. 96, rel. on. 2. Bisardar.

——Art. 7—Bisardar.

Bisardar means a watchman who is paid by a share of crop which he watches. He is an outdoor servant and is certainly not an artisan, nor a labourer. A suit by him for his wages therefore will not fall within Art. 7 but will fall under Art. 102. 79 Ind. Cas. 576=29 O. C. 327=10 O.L.J. 345=A.I.R. 1924 Oudh 189.

3. Cook.

——Art. 7—Cook.

A cook though he is an expert in his art is none the less a domestic servant, and a suit by him for wages due is governed by Art. 7 of the Lim. Act. 28 Ind. Cas. 956 (Mad.)

4. Domestic servant.

——Art. 7—Domestic servant.

The suit for wages as a domestic servant must be brought within one year after the same became due but where the master instead of paying the salary to the servant then and there, gives credit in his account book and treats the servant as his creditor. Art. 7 does not apply. 106 Ind. Cas. 229=39 M.L.T. 415=27 M.L.W. 30=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 27.

5. Goldsmith.

——Art. 7—Goldsmith.

Art 7 applies to a case when a household servant, artisan or labourer is hired on wages per day, per week or per month and it does not apply to the remeneration of a skilled workman like a goldsmith. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 286=I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 592=177 Ind. Cas. 345.

6. Household servant.

——Art. 7—"Household servant"—Meaning of.

The term 'household servant' as used in Art. 7, must be read ejusdem generis with the words 'artisan or labourer' which follow it, and it cannot apply to a person employed to collect rents of houses and as male companion for a journey abroad. A.I.R. 1938 Oudh 393=10 O.W.N. 1311=8 Luck. 119=147 Ind. Cas. 227 (2).

——Art. 7—Household servant—Hotel cook.

A hotel cannot be said to be a 'household' within the meaning of Art. 7, although it may be a household in the sense that it may board and lodge people but the essential feature of a household, i.e., a family is wanting. The emphasis has to be placed on the term household in the article and not on the nature of the service rendered by the servant. Consequently, a suit for arrears of salary by a person employed as a cook in a hotel is governed by Art. 102 and not Art. 7. 45 M.L.W. 205=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 339=(1937) M.W.N. 337 (1)=A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 340=171 Ind. Cas. 72.

——Art. 7—Household servant—Motor driver provided with board and lodging by employer.

A motor driver and especially one who is provided with board and lodging by the employer, would come within the definition of a domestic servant and the expression "household servant" in India is not used in a different sense to the expression "domestic servant" in England, as he could be called upon at any time during the day or the night to drive the Motor car for the employer, the members of his family or his guests according to their reasonable requirments, and as such, he would come within the definition of a household servant. Consequently, a suit by such a person for wages is governed by Art. 7, and not by Art. 102 which is a residuary article and applies only when Art. 7 does not apply. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 661 (662)=38 P.L.R. 296=160 Ind. Cas. 1042.

7. Mechanical engineer.

——Art. 7—Mechanical Engineer—'Artisan.'

A suit by a Mechanical Engineer, who was in charge of an engine which worked the deft.'s mill, to recover the amount of his wages would be governed by Art. 102 and not by Art. 7 of the Lim. Act. The word 'artisan' in Art. 7 means a mechanic or a workman who has acquired some manual skill and does not mean persons undertaking higher class of work involving responsibility and intellectual training. 12 S.L.R. 140=50 Ind. Cas. 37.

8. Motor-car driver.

——Art. 7—Motor-car driver.

A bus or motor-car driver is an artisan within the meaning of Art. 7 and a suit for wages by him is governed by Art. 7. A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 808=167 Ind. Cas. 294.

——Art. 7—Motor-car driver.

The word 'artisan' does not merely mean a handicraftsman, that is to say, one who makes certain things as part of his trade or calling. That is certainly one of the implication of the word "artisan" but not all its implications. A motor driver is an artisan and when he takes up service as a motor driver, he must be deemed to have been employed as an artisan. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 661=38 P.L.R. 296=160 Ind. Cas. 1042.

——Art. 7—Motor-car driver.

As a motor-car driver must possess some skill in manipulating the different parts of the mechanism of the car, he should be included in the category of an artisan. There is also no reason why he should be treated differently from a household servant or labourer and given the benefit of a longer period under Art. 102. 104 Ind. Cas. 520=5 Rang. 477=A.I.R. 1927 Rang. 279.

9. Principal and surety.

——Art. 7—Principal debtor and surety.

Plaintiff sued the defendants for wages due to him for work done in 1918 as field labourer to defendant No. 1. In 1919 plaintiff, made a demand for wages and defendant No. 2 stood surety promising to pay, the amount due in 1919. The trial Court held that the suit was time-barred against both. On appeal it was held that the suit was not time-barred and the claim was decreed:

Held, in revision that the claim as against the principal debtor was time-barred under Art. 7 of the Lim. Act. 64 Ind. Cas. 361=10 L.B.R. 332.

10. Salesman.

——Art. 7—Salesman.

A suit for wages by a person employed as a salesman to assist the employer in the sale of commodities, does not come within the ambit of Art. 7. Such a suit is governed by Art. 102. A.I.R. 1935 Rang. 235=157 Ind. Cas. 732.

11. Shahna.

——Art. 7—Shahna.

A shahna who is merely employed to watch crops and to see that they are not taken away, cannot be described as a labourer. Consequently, a shahna in suing for his wages comes under Art. 102. A.I.R. 1935 All. 102=(1935) A.L.J. 78=4 A.W.R. 1253=152 Ind. Cas. 932.

12. Wet nurse.

——Art. 7—Wet nurse.

A suit by a wet nurse to recover her wages is not governed by Art. 7 but is governed by Art. 102. 10 A.L.J. 395=17 Ind. Cas. 658.

13. Weighman.

——Art. 7—Weighman in shop.

A weighman employed to work at a shop is not a household servant nor is he an artisan. He cannot be treated as a mere labourer employed to do task work, that is, to hold the scales and weigh goods in a shop for a monthly salary. He can be asked to do other work of the shop when free. He has to count and add up, and may have also perhaps to calculate the price on the total quantity weighed and his work, therefore, cannot be treated as purely manual labour so as to make Art. 7 of the Act applicable. He may be regarded in fact a shop-keeper's assistant, and Art. 102 applies to a suit by him to recover his dues from his master. 90 Ind. Cas. 120=48 All. 164=23 A.L.J. 1059=6 L.R.A. Civ. 596=A.I.R. 1926 All. 172.

14. Village barber.

——Art. 7—Village barbers.

Art. 7 is confined to suits for the wages of a household servant, artisan or labourer. Village barbers are not household servants. They are not labourers in the sense in which the term 'labourer' is used in that article. It is used there with reference to a man who does work chiefly requiring bodily strength. They are not also artisans, though the modern hair-dresser who works on the heads of fashionable ladies, may be considered an artist. A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 132=1941 N.L.J. 102=194 Ind. Cas. 590.

15. Village carpenter.

——Art. 7—Village carpenters.

The word 'artisan' comprises in its category a a village carpenter. Consequently, a suit for wages by him will be governed by Art. 7 and not by Art. 102 or 56. A.I.R. 1934 Nag. 260=152 Ind.Cas. 885.

——Art. 8—Food or drink—Test.

Consumable commodities sold in a restaurant come under Art. 8, but it cannot be held that because the proprietor of a store has a restaurant department, therefore, all articles of food which he may have sold in a different department lose their character of "goods" and with it the benefit of Art. 52, merely because the man who sells them as a shop-keeper happens to be the proprietor of a restaurant. The governing factor is not the question whether the articles were consumed on the premises, or whether they were carried away for consumption elsewhere. Food and drink, the price of which would come under Art. 8, must be meals or articles of food which or either consumed on the premises or are sent out or taken away by the customer which are intended for, or capable of, immediate consumption in the state in which they are sent out, that is to say, without cooking. If from the restaurant is sent out, for instance, a case of beer, that would scarcely be drink in that sense of the word. It would be goods and the same applies to articles in tins which do not require immediate consumption. A.I.R. 1940 Rang. 17=1939 Rang. L.R. 626=186 Ind. Cas. 582.

1. Agreement to transfer.

——Art. 10—Agreement to transfer—Mutation of names in persuance of agreement.

A Mahomedan lady entered into an agreement with certain persons to transfer a share of her immovable property, to which she might become entitled, in consideration for an advance of money required for litigation. The agreement was registered on 29th January, 1918. She succeeded in establishing her claim and on 5th December, 1921, a mutation was sanctioned by which the particular share was recorded in the name of those persons. On 5th December, 1922, M brought a suit of pre-emption:

Held, that the suit was within time, limitation running from the date of the mutation. 124 Ind. Cas. 338=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 33.

2. Applicability.

——Arts. 10 and 120—Applicability—Pre-emption on foreclosure.

Art. 10 of the Limitation Act applies to cases of pre-emption on sales and not of foreclosure. The Article applicable to pre-emption on foreclosure would be Art. 120. A.I.R. 1950 All. 647.

——Art. 10 — Applicability.

Art. 10 of the limitation Act governs suits for pre-emption of all kinds without any exception, in other words, exhausts the law of limitation in respect of pre-emption suits and one would not be justified in referring to any other Article for determining the period of limitation for any suit of pre-emption. 1950 A.L.J. 467=A.I.R. 1950 A.632.

——Arts. 10 and 95 and S. 18—Applicability—Suit for pre-emption—C.P. Tenancy Act, S. 12-A (15).

A suit brought under S. 12-A (15), C. P. Tenancy Act, is a suit for pre-emption, although the civil court can enforce the right of purchase under that provision only if the consideration for the transaction is fraudulently stated. Prima facie a suit to enforce the right of pre-emption is governed by Art. 10 of the Limitation Act except where the property is not capable of being taken possession of or there is no registered instrument evidencing the transaction which gives rise to the right of pre-emption. If the property is capable of being taken physical possession of limitation runs from the date when the purchaser takes possession of the property under the sale sought to be impeached. Art. 95 of the Limitation Act does not apply to each and every case in which fraud is but an element in the conduct of the defendant. The Article is limited in its application to cases where relief is claimed on the sole ground of fraud. If a pre-emptor is aware of his right he cannot claim the benefit of S. 18 of the Limitation Act. Under that section the person defrauded must have been kept from the knowledge of his right to institute a suit. Such cases might arise where the transaction giving rise to the right of pre-emption is given a false appearance so that the pre-emptor is kept from the knowledge that he has a right to pre-empt. I.L.R. (1950) Nag. 950=1950 N.L.J. 396.

3. Burden of proof.

——Art. 10—Burden of proof.

It is the duty of the plaintiffs-pre-emptors to satisfy the Court that their suit is in time. A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 90=1942 N.L.J. 567=I.L.R.(1943) Nag. 209=204 Ind. Cas. 20.

4. Date of physical delivery not proved.

——Art. 10—Date of physical possession not proved—Time runs from the date of registration.

The delivery of possession to vendee on the day of his purchase would be of no avail against the pre-emptor, unless the possession delivered was physical possession. The mere delivery of symbolical proprietary possession would not be sufficient.

When there is no proof that physical possession of the property was taken by the vendee on the date on which the sale-deed in his favour was executed, the period of one year within which the pre-emptor was entitled to exercise his right of pre-emption must be taken to have commenced on the date on which the deed in favour of vendee was registered. 69 Ind. Cas. 409=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 31.

5. Date of registration.

——Art. 10—Date of registration, what is.

A deed reciting the sale of occupancy-rights was executed and registered on March 16, 1938. At the material time, the vendor, who had been originally an occupancy-tenant, had already acquired proprietary rights in the land; and it was realised that the recital of the sale of occupancy-rights was wrong. Accordingly, on April 12, 1938, another deed reciting the sale of undivided proprietary rights in the same land, was executed and duly registered. This deed further recited that the mention of occupancy-rights in the deed of March 16, 1938, was made under a mis-conception, that the parties had intended to sell proprietary rights, and that the object of the deed of April 12, 1938, was to correct the mis-description and to substitute therefor the sale of proprietary rights:

Held, that the registration of the deed of March 16, 1938, which conveyed the sale of occupancy-rights could not be presumed to inform any one interested, that a sale of proprietary rights had taken place. The necessary publicity could only be given by the registration of the actual deed of sale of proprietary rights dated April 12, 1938, and from the point of view of publicity and notoriety it would be wholly immaterial that this deed was not the actual deed of conveyance but merely a deed correcting a mis-description of the nature of transaction mentioned in the earlier deed; therefore, the terminus a quo was the second deed dated April 12, 1938. A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 118=44 P.L.R. 99=200 Ind. Cas. 81.

6. Determining factor.

——Art. 10—Determining factor—Actual possession.

A suit for pre-emption is governed by Art. 10 where the sale is of a specified plot whether in actual possession of the vendor or in joint possession of the vendor and others, and actual possession of the property sold is given to the vendee, and the starting point for limitation is the date of possession. The determining factor in such cases is the factum of actual physical possession and not the nature of the whole property of which the plot sold is a part. 109 Ind. Cas. 382=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 705.

7. Divided mahal.

——Art. 10—Divided mahal—Suit—Starting point.

A suit for pre-emption in respect of property in a divided mahal must be instituted within one year from the date of registration and not from the date of mutation. 9 Ind. Cas. 309 (All.).

8. Full title not passing.

——Art. 10—Full title not passing.

Limitation for pre-emption, runs from the date of physical possession and where no physical possession is given limitation runs from the date of mutation or under Art. 10 of the Limitation Act from the date of registration of the sale-deed. The underlying principle governing the limitation in pre-emption suits is that it runs from the date of notice. Where full title did not pass although possession was given limitation will begin to run from the date of passing of the full title. 167 P.R. 1883, Dist. 69 Ind. Cas. 715=3 Lah. 261=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 210.

9. Lease.

——Art. 10—Lease.

A suit for pre-emption in respect of a lease must be brought within six years from the date of lease deed and not from the date of its registration. Art. 10 does not apply in the case of a lease as this transfer is not a sale. 95 Ind. Cas. 138=A.I.R. 1926 All. 549.

——Art. 10—Lease.

A suit to pre-empt perpetual lease is governed by Art. 120 and not Art. 10. 62 Ind. Cas. 884=19 A.L.J. 442=A.I.R. 1921 All. 154.

10. Mortgage by conditional sale.

——Art. 10 — Mortgage by conditional sale—Decree absolute.

A mortgage by conditional sale was executed on 3rd June 1909. A decree absolute was made on 13th June 1914 and possession given in 1915. A suit for pre-emption with respect to the property instituted within one year of the date of delivery of possession but more than one year after the date the decree was made absolute is barred, as the plff.'s right accrued at the time of the original transfer, i. e., in 1909 and not in 1915. 39 All. 544=15 A.L.J. 514=40 Ind. Cas. 461.

11. Notice.

——Art. 10—Notice.

Where the Legislature expressly states that limitation begins from registration without any reference to whether the transaction was with or without notice Courts cannot go into any question of notice in dealing with the question. 76 Ind. Cas. 467=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 57=45 M.L.J. 389.

12. Object.

——Art. 10—Object.

The object of the Legislature in enacting Art. 10 of the Limitation Act was to provide a period of one year from the date on which the person entitled to pre-empt was expected to know of the transaction sought to be pre-empted, and this knowledge is conveyed either by the delivery of possession, if the property admits of physical possession, or by the registration of the deed of sale, if it is registered; and so far as the reason of the rule is concerned, it is immaterial whether the registration is effected with or without the consent of vendor. In either case registration is equally effective as presumptive evidence of notice of the transaction to the parties concerned. 62 Ind. Cas. 797 (Lah.)

13. Oral sale.

——Art. 10—Oral sale—Mutation of names in pursuance thereof.

Where an oral sale is completed and mutation is effected in pursuance of such sale, limitation for a suit for pre-emption begins to run from that date. The fact that subsequently a registered sale-deed is executed does not give a fresh start for limitation under Art. 10 of the Limitation Act, time having once begun to run continues to run. 102 Ind. Cas. 423=9 L.L.J. 285=28 P.L.R. 192=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 388.

——Art. 10—Oral sale—Subsequent mutation.

Art. 10 does not govern a suit based upon an oral sale followed by mutation of an undivided share of a joint holding. Art. 120 applies to the case. 124 P.W.R. 1909=92 P.L.R 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 973.

14. Permanent alienation.

——Art. 10—Permanent alienation of "protected land"—Permission of Assistant Collector obtained after alienation—Limitation—Starting point—U. P. Regulation of Agricultural Credit Act, S. 24.

Although Art. 10 of the Limitation Act was allowed by the Legislature to remain in its original form, even after the promulgation of the U. P. Regulation of Agricultural Credit Act, XIV of 1940, it must be held as a natural consequence of the provisions of this Act that the period of limitation for a suit for pre-emption must be calculated in every case of a permanent alienation of protected land only from the date on which the alienation has been sanctioned by the Assistant Collector. Of course, where the permission precedes the alienation, Art. 10 of the Limitation Act would apply in terms, but where it follows the alienation, so that what was till then only a usufructuary mortgage for the first time became a permanent alienation as a result of the permission, the period must be taken to run from the date of such permission. A.I.R. 1949 All. 471.

15. Physical possession.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

"Physical possession" means personal and immediate possession. Undivided share in respect of which the vendor has only an actionable claim cannot be considered to be property admitting of physical possession. 24 All. 17 (P.C.), Rel. on. 111 Ind. Cas. 715=5 O.W.N. 674=A.I.R. 1928 Oudh 375.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

The expression 'physical possession' means possession that is personal and immediate, that is, a possession perceptible to the sense and evident to everybody so far as possession can be perceived and evidenced. Formal or constructive possession or even possession by attornment of tenants is not physical possession. Entry in the Revenue Register is certainly not indicative of physical possession. 3 Bur. L.T. 24=8 Ind. Cas. 603.

——Arts. 10, 120, 144—Physical possession.

'Physical possession' in Art. 10 means 'personal and immediate possession'. The definition of 'actual possession' given by Stuart, C.J. in I. A. 311 is correct and applies with still more certainty to 'physical possession'. The vendee of a share of a zemindari tenure gets only formal possession and cannot get physical possession of the share purchased by him except by enforcing partition. A suit for pre-emption by a co-sharer, where the vendee has only obtained formal possession does not fall under Art. 10 but under Art. 120. Art. 144 does not apply to suits for pre-emption. Where a mortgagee by conditional sale of a zemindari has foreclosed, the period of limitation to a suit for pre-emption by a co-sharer begins to run from the expiry of the year of grace, after which the mortgagee's right of possession becomes mature. 14 A. 405 approved. 3 Bom.L.R. 707=5 C.W.N.888 =28 I.A. 248=24 A. 17 (P.C.)

——Arts. 10 and 120—Physical possession of whole of property by purchaser not possible.

Where a purchaser cannot take physical possession of the whole of the property sold, the third column of Art. 10 of the Limitation Act cannot be attracted and therefore that article becomes inapplicable and Art. 120 comes into play. I.L.R. (1949) Nag. 465=1949 N.L.J. 290.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Land in the possession of a trespasser at the date of the registration of the sale-deed is not land which does not admit of physical possession. Limitation for the purpose of pre-emption begins therefore to run from the time when the purchaser takes possession. (1888) A.W.N. 227; A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 554; A.I.R. 1926 All. 70 and 10 N.L.R. 37, Foll. 107 Ind. Cas. 194=23 N.L.R. 178=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 89.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

The words 'the subject of the sale does not admit of physical possession' in Art. 10 are not applicable to a case where trespasser is in possession of the land sold and the vendor is in consequence unable to put the vendee in actual possession. They refer to the nature of the property sold, i. e., whether it is such as would admit of physical possession being given of it or not. (1888) A.W.N. 227, Foll. 62 Ind. Cas. 27=13 M. L. W. 268=1921 M.W.N. 207=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 554=40 M.L.J. 443.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Where the property sold is not in the possession of the vendee but in possession of a trespasser and a pre-emptor files a suit for pre-emption:

Held, Per Krishnan, J.—Limitation commences only when possession is taken, where the second part of third column of Art. 10 does not apply to the case. 20 All. 315 (F.B.) Ref.

Per Napier, J.—In such a case where possession is not taken due to the property being in the possession of a trespasser and the vendor consequently being unable to give possession to the vendee, Art. 10 does not apply but Art. 120 applies. 62 Ind. Cas. 27=13 M.L.W. 268=1921 M.W.N. 207=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 554=40 M.L.J. 443.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Where land sold is in the possession of a usufructuary mortgagee it is not capable of physical possession within the meaning of Art. 10 of the Limitation Act and the limitation for a suit for pre-emption would commence under that article from the date of registration of the sale deed. 51 P.L.R. 389.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

A zemindari property in the possession of mortgagees and incapable of physical possession at the time of sale was transferred subject to the mortgage by a registered sale deed:

Held, that the period of limitation runs from the date when the sale deed is registered and not from the date when the vendee takes possession of the property from the mortgagees. 2 O.L.J. 109=28 Ind. Cas. 208.

——Art. 10—Physical possession—Property subject to usufructuary mortgage.

When part of property sold is already mortgaged with possession to the vendee limitation for pre-emption should be reckoned from the date of registration of the sale deed. 5 Ind. Cas. 667 (All.)

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Property subject to usufructuary mortgage does not admit of physical possession and limitation for pre-emption based on the sale of a right of redemption of such property begins from the date of registration. 4 Ind. Cas. 754 (U.B.R.).

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Where land in the cultivating possession of mortgagees is sold, it is not capable of physical possession within the meaning of Art. 10 and limitation for a suit for pre-emption would commence from date of registration of the sale deed. A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 98=Lah. 112=32 P.L.R. 743=135 Ind. Cas. 512.

——Art. 10—Physical possession—Equity of redemption.

Where the sale was of the equity of redemption:

Held, the property cannot be said to be capable of physical possession within the meaning of Art. 10 and limitation began to run from the date of the registration of the deed of sale. 9 All. 334, Foll. 76 Ind. Cas. 407=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 57=45 M.L.J. 389.

——Art. 10—Physical possession not possible—Effect of.

The first part of the third column of Art. 10 does not apply where the subject-matter of the sale consists of land or other tangible immovable property, physical possession of which at the date of the sale is with the holder of an intermediate estate, e. g., mortgagee or lessee owing to which circumstance the vendor is unable to give immediate physical possession to the purchaser. 16 N.L.R. 37=52 Ind. Cas. 940 (F.B.).

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Land in possession of a tenant is property which does not admit of physical possession by the new owner within the meaning of Art. 10, Limitation Act, and for the suit of pre-emption of such land, limitation runs from the date of registration. 49 P.R. 1908 (F.B.), Foll.

The question whether the subject of a sale does or does not admit of physical possession must be determined with reference to the date of the sale, and it is immaterial whether the property afterwards becomes susceptible of physical possession. A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 302, Foll. 105 Ind. Cas. 501=26 P.L.R. 780=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 784.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Property which is in the possession of a tenant does not admit or physical possession within Art. 10. Where on the date of sale the property was in the possession of tenants:

Held, that the subject-matter of the sale did not admit of physical possession and that the second part of the article prescribes the rule of limitation applicable to this case. 73 Ind. Cas. 903=5 L.L.J. 539=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 302.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Where land sold was in the possession of tenants at the date of sale:

Held, that constructive possession was taken by the vendee at the time of the sale and physical possession he took some time later when he ousted the tenants. And therefore limitation began to run from the date when physical possession was taken. 69 Ind. Cas. 418=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 196.

——Art. 10 (2)—Physical possession.

Where a sale deed was registered on 16th September 1919 and a pre-emption suit was filed on 8th July, 1911 and it was found that a portion of the land sold was in the possession of tenants at the time of sale. Held, that the suit was barred by Art. 10 (2). 230 P.L.R. 1913=148 P.W.R. 1913=20 Ind. Cas. 475.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

When the subject-matter of sale is in the possession of lessee, the vendee cannot take physical possession of it and limitation for a suit for pre-emption runs from the date of registration of sale deed. 8 N.L.R. 68=15 Ind. Cas. 890.

——Art. 10—Physical possession.

Where a part of the property was in the possession of the tenants on the date of the sale limitation begins from the date of the registration of the deed under Cl. 2 of S. 10. 49 P.R. 1908, Foll. 28 All. 424, not Foll. 15 C. W. N. 577=10 Ind. Cas. 475.

——Arts. 10, 120—'Physical possession'—Right of pre-emption not a purely personal right.

The term 'physical possession' as used in Art. 10 cannot apply to property which is in the possession of tenants. To a suit for pre-emption of such property, Art. 120 applies. 24 A. 17, foll. The right of pre-emption being a right incident to or arising out of the ownership of land, the successor in title of a person in whose favour such right has arisen is not debarred from suing to enforce it by the fact only that his predecessor has done so. 10 A. 148, foll. 1906 A.W.N. 73=3 A.L.J. 191=28 A. 424.

——Art. 10—Physical possession—Proof.

The arrangement between the vendor and the purchaser in a case of this kind is a matter within their own knowledge and when the vendor is to retain the crops, it is for the vendee to show that in spite of this fact he did obtain physical possession capable of being seen by other people. A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 90=I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 209=1942 N.L.J. 567=204 Ind. Cas. 20.

——Art. 10 — Physical possession — Requirements.

When the vendor of a field is in personal and immediate possession of the property sold and when the right of such possession is in the vendor, the property is one admitting of physical possession. It makes no difference that the sale is made at a time when it is inconvenient to give physical possession. Similarly, it makes no difference that crops which are not sold are growing on the field. In judging whether the property admits of physical possession, the Courts must look to the nature of the property sold, namely, a field in possession of the vendor, and not to the existence of circumstances which make it highly probable that the delivery of possession would be delayed.

The physical possession contemplated by Art. 10, does not consist of formal statements by third parties but of physical control visible to other people, which gives notice of a change. 1942 N.L.J. 567=I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 209=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 90=204 Ind. Cas. 20.

16. Pre-emption.

——Art. 10—Pre-emption—In respect of sale—Mistake in sale deed — See Pre-emption. 1 A.L. J. 247.

——Art. 10—Pre-emption—Suit for.

A simple lease was executed by a co-sharer to a stranger on 27-6-1910. Deft. brought a suit for pre-emption on 31-3-1911 and obtained a decree on 18-9-1911. On 31-5-1912 plff. brought a suit for pre-emption on the ground of preferential right. Held, that the suit was barred. 13 A.L.J. 383=28 Ind. Cas. 691.

——Arts. 10 and 120—Pre-emption—Suit between rival purchasers.

Where the first purchaser has sold the property within the period prescribed for filing a pre-emption suit and parted with the possession, a suit against the purchaser is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 10. If, however, the second purchaser has been impleaded as a defendant after the period of limitation in the suit against the first purchaser, the suit as against the second purchaser is in effect a suit for a declaration that the pre-emption is not effected by the re-sale and the second purchaser will be bound by the decree ultimately passed between the original parties. 1 O.L.J. 196=24 Ind. Cas. 116.

17. Pre-emptor if can treat sale as nullity.

——Art. 10—Pre-emptor, if can treat sale as a nullity.

A pre-emptor cannot treat a sale as a nullity on the ground that the Land Alienation Act requires certain formalities to be gone through, simply because the sale is unenforceable until sanctioned by the Deputy Commissioner. The sale, if sanctioned, is operative from the date of sale. A suit brought beyond twelve months of the sale but within twelve months of sanction is therefore barred. 16 Ind. Cas. 775, not Foll. 59 P.W.R. 1913=110 P.L.R. 1913=79 P.R. 1913=19 Ind. Cas. 239.

18. Preferential right by agreement.

——Art. 10—Preferential right by agreement.

The vendee of a house agreed to live in the house himself and that when he wanted to sell the house to offer it first to the vendor and his heirs at a certain price and to sell the house as a whole and not piecemeal. In a suit by the vendor to enforce the covenant against the vendee himself:

Held, further that the suit was not one to enforce a mere right of pre-emption but was a suit for specific performance and was governed by Art. 113 of the Limitation Act. 80 Ind. Cas. 962=17 S.L.R. 1=A.I.R. 1921 Sind 118.

19. Punjab pre-emption Act.

——Arts. 10 and 120—Punjab pre-emption Act.

The sales took place in December 1900 and mutation was effected in the same year. The plaintiffs could sue before the commencement of the Punjab Pre-emption Act within the meaning of S. 28. If the sales were effected before 11th May 1899, i,e., more than six years before the Pre-emption Act came into force the suits for pre-emption are barred under Art. 120 and plaintiffs could not avail themselves of the provisions of S. 28 of the Pre-emption Act. 91 P.W.R. 1909=98 P.L.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 935.

——Arts. 10, 120—Punjab Pre-emption Act (II of 1905), S. 28, Limitation—Oral sale of undivided share of land—Further appeal—Question raised for the first time on further appeal—Sale of land on Sidhonai Canal leased by Government—Condition overriding provisions of pre-emption law.

On further appeal it was contended that (1) the suit was barred by limitation as it was brought more than one year after the sale; (2) that the land was situated in an estate as defined in Act XVII of 1887; (3) that according to clause 15 of the original lease of the land by Government to the vendor no right of pre-emption arose in respect of a sale of suit. Held, (1) That as an undivided share of joint property, viz., half a square of land, was sold, and as there was no registered sale deed but merely an oral transfer, Art. 10 did not govern the case, and since the plaintiff's cause of action arose before the passing of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, and he brought his suit within a year of the passing of it, the suit was within time under S. 28 of the Act. (2) That it could not be urged for the first time on further appeal in Act XXVII of 1887; and (3) that under the Punjab Pre-emption Act the right of pre-emption vests in respect of all sales of agricultural land and the plaintiff was not bound by the condition of the lease for such condition cannot override the provisions of an act of the legislature. 92 P.L.R. 1909=124 P.W.R. 1909=4 Ind.Cas. 973.

20. Rectification of description.

——Art. 10—Rectification of description in a deed of sale describing property wrongly—Starting point.

Where a sale-deed wrongly described certain property which was sold, but where mutation was made according to the admitted numbers, Limitation for pre-emption begins from the date of the sale deed and not from the date of the mutation. 64 P.L.R. 1916=60 P.W.R. 1916=35 Ind.Cas. 278.

21. Rival pre-emptors.

——Art. 10—Rival pre-emptors.

Pre-emption suits brought by rival pre-emptors in respect of the same sale, in which each pre-emptor is impleaded as defendant in a suit brought by the other, are governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 10 nor by Punjab Pre-emption Act, S. 29. 186 P.W.R. 1912=80 P.R. 1912=14 Ind. Cas. 328.

22. Sale.

——Art. 10—Sale.

The term 'sale' must be construed in a wider sense as used in connection with the general law of pre-emption in India and not in a narrow sense as used in T.P. Act. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 35=1938 N.L.J. 379=180 Ind.Cas. 963.

——Art. 10—Sale deed—Limitation when begins.

A sale deed executed on 29th of March, 1943, was presented for registration on the same day but for some reason it was registered only on the 10th of May, 1943. But the vendee had already been put in possession on 30th March, 1943, the next day after the execution of the sale-deed. On a question whether a suit for pre-emption filed on 26th April, 1944, was in time:

Held, that the suit was barred as it was not necessary nor was it required by Art. 10 of the Limitation Act that the sale should have been registered before the vendee was put in possession to enable him to claim that he was put in possession of the property under the document. 1950 A.L.J. 1=A.I.R. 1950 A. 290=1950 A.W.R. 44.

——Art. 10—Sale deed—Limitation, when begins.

Time for filing a suit for pre-emption starts to run from the date of the execution of sale deed and delivery of possession and not from the date of registration of the sale deed on a later date. (1946) A.W.R. (H.C.) 593=A.I.R. 1947 A. 252.

23. Sale deed—Limitation when begins.

——Art. 10—Sale deed—Limitation, when begins.

For the purpose of Art. 10, the limitation in every case whether the Sale deed is compulsorily registrable or not, shall begin from the date when the document is registered under S. 60, Regis. Act. A.I.R. 1945 Peah. 9=218 Ind. Cas. 367.

——Art. 10—Sale deed — Limitation, when begins.

Where a field has been sold and also the possession has been delivered, excluding the standing crop, the actual possession to be delivered after the crop is reaped, the limitation under Art. 10, for pre-emption would run from the date of delivery of possession. 1942 N.L.J. 567=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 90=I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 209=204 Ind. Cas. 20.

24. Several registration offices.

——Art. 10—Several Registration offices—Registration not made in the place where property is situate.

At the place where the sale-deed was registered, only a very small portion of the property comprised in the deed was situated. The rest of the property was situated at a different place. After registration the registration officer at the latter place was informed of the registration and an entry was made by him in his register:

Held, that time for a pre-emption suit ran from the date of actual registration and not from the date on which the entry referred to was made. 86 Ind. Cas. 130=23 A.L.J. 104=6 L.R.A. Civ. 264=A.I.R. 1925 All. 324.

25. Suit under Oudh Laws Act.

——Art. 10—Suits for pre-emption under Oudh Laws Act.

Per Pigott, Ag. J. C.—Suits for pre-emption under Oudh Laws Act are subject to the general Law of limitation and therefore to the provisions of Art. 10. 13 O.C. 219=7 Ind. Cas. 295.

26. Suit for pre-emption.

——Art. 10—Suit for pre-emption — Starting point of limitation.

Where the document was executed as a deed of gift but it appeared that the parties really effected a sale and the person who sued for pre-emption was shown to have been aware of the passing of consideration:

Held, that he should sue within the time prescribed by Art. 10 and that S. 18 did not save limitation. 128 Ind. Cas. 257=5 Luck. 492=7 O.W.N. 1219=A.I.R. 1931 P.C. 12=53 C.L.J. 24=57 I.A. 251 (P. C.).

——Art. 10—Suit by pre-emptor — Starting point of limitation.

Under Art. 10 time runs against the pre-emptor from the date on which the purchaser takes physical possession of the whole property sold. Where under arrangement with the vendor the vendee takes possession of the property which he intends to purchase before the actual sale, the possession cannot be held to be under the sale and must be referred to the subsequent date on which the sale actually takes place and from the subsequent date the limitation prescribed by the article begins to run. 80 P.R. 1918=181 P.W.R. 1918=48 Ind. Cas. 102.

27. Suit for share in village shamilat.

——Art. 10—Suit for share in village shamilat.

A suit for pre-emption in respect of property consisting of certain specific plots and a share in the Shamilat comes under Art. 10 as the share in the Shamilat does not admit of physical possession. 68 P.R. 1918=158 P.W.R. 1918=108 P.L.R. 1918=47 Ind. Cas. 359.

28. Symbolical and physical possession.

——Art. 10—Symbolical and physical possession.

Limitation against the pre-emptor begins from the date of the physical possession of the purchaser and not symbolical possession. 69 Ind. Cas. 666=1 Pat. 578=4 P.L.T. 277=A.I.R. 1922 Pat. 601.

29. Transferee from vendee.

——Art. 10—Transferee from vendee.

If a purchaser under a sale-deed in respect of which the cause of action for the suit for pre-emption has arisen has subsequently transferred the property to another, the original cause of action for pre-emption is not thereby affected. The subsequent transferee from the original vendee must take the transfer subject to the plaintiff's right to pre-empt. If a suit is, therefore, brought against the original purchaser within limitation under Art. 10, Lim. Act, but the subsequent transferee is impleaded as a defendant subsequently after the period of limitation, the suit against the transferee is in effect merely for a declaration, and so governed by Art. 120, or as one for possession against a person who is in possession without title, and so governed by the 12 years' rule of limitation under Art. 144. 1938 A.W.R. 869=(1939) A.L.J. 35=A.I.R. 1939 All. 153=I.L.R. (1939) All. 220=180 Ind. Cas. 33.

——Art. 10—Transferee from vendee.

The period of limitation in regard to a subsequent vendee is six years and he can be impleaded in the suit even after the expiry of the period of one year. 17 P.R. 1915=186 P.L.R. 1915=28 Ind. Cas. 695.

——Art. 10—Transferee from the vendee—Joinder after one year—Starting point.

Where a vendee's transferee was joined as a party after limitation had expired as against the original vendee, though the original vendee had got by assignment the property in suit prior to the date of suit, Held, the suit was governed by Art. 120 as against the transferee, since Art. 10 applied only as against the original vendee. 25 P.R. 1903 and 106 P.R. 1907, overruled. 28 P.W.R. 1913=61 P.L.R. 1913=31 P.R. 1913=18 Ind. Cas. 70 (F.B.)

——Art. 10—Transferee from vendee—Suit against first vendee.

M sold certain property to N on 16th November 1909. N sold the property to O on 14th November 1910 but got the deeds registered on 21st November 1910. P sued N for pre-emption on 15-11-1910. O was made a party in February 1911. Held, the suit was not barred. 13 Ind. Cas. 644 (All.)

30. Undivided share.

——Art. 10—Undivided share.

An undivided share which is incapable of physical possession cannot become capable of physical possession merely because a lease of it for a fixed period has been granted. 1930 A.L.J. 375=A.I.R. 1930 All. 255.

——Art. 10—Undivided share.

The transfer of an undivided share in a field cannot be deemed to be capable of physical possession within the meaning of Art. 10. 99 Ind. Cas. 659=9 N.L.J. 205=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 64.

——Art. 10—Undivided share—Houses and shops.

A house or a shop is capable of physical possession and therefore the rule applicable to property such as an undivided share which is not by its nature capable of physical possession cannot be applied to houses and shops over which physical possession is always possible and practicable.

Where the vendee of a shop attempted to take physical possession but found that the house was occupied by a trespasser whom he had to eject by suit:

Held, that limitation for a pre-emption suit against vendee began to run from the date of actual possession obtained by vendee under the decree. 89 Ind. Cas. 444=48 All. 12=23 A.L.J. 885=6 L.R.A. Civ. 521=A.I.R. 1926 All. 70.

——Art. 10—Undivided share—Sale of fractional share of Zemindari.

A fractional share of Zemindari situated in several Kathas is not capable of being physically taken possession of. A suit beyond one year of the date of the sale-deed is therefore barred. 17 A.L.J. 269=50 Ind. Cas. 80.

——Art. 10—Undivided share in property.

Since the sale of an undivided share of joint holding does not admit of physical possession, the claim to pre-empt the sale must be governed by the second part of Art. 10, the terminus a quo being the date of the registration of the instrument of sale. Hence the question of the transfer of possession does not arise in such a case and must be ignored. The reason why the second part of Art. 10, Lim. Act lays down that the terminus a quo is the date of the registration of the instrument of sale is no doubt that the date of registration is the date on which the public must be presumed to know that the transfer had taken place. Hence the test for determining the terminus a quo for purposes of second part of Art. 10 is not act of conveyance but the registration. A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 118=44 P.L.R. 99=200 Ind. Cas. 81.

31. Vendee already in possession.

——Art. 10—Vendee already in possession.

The plot of land sought to be pre-empted was originally held by the defendant vendee in the character of a tenant of the vendor. The vendor made a mortgage by way of conditional sale in respect of the plot in vendee's favour. On the basis of this mortgage a final decree for foreclosure was obtained against the vendors:

Held, that the vendee did not take physical possession on the plot under the foreclosure decree at all. The plot in suit was held by him in physical possession long before the foreclosure decree and in a right other than the right which arose to him under the decree. Art. 10 does not therefore apply but Art. 120 applies. 102 Ind. Cas. 22=1 L.C. 38=A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 212.

——Art. 10—Vendee already in possession—Time runs from when mutation takes place.

Where prior to the sale the vendee was already in physical possession of the property sold, as a tenant, and no physical possession could be given to him:

Held, that the subject of the sale did not admit of physical possession and that whether Art. 10 of the Limitation Act or S. 30 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act is to be applied, the date from which limitation runs is the date when the mutation was effected. 71 Ind. Cas. 823=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 394.

32. When instrument of sale is registered.

——Art. 10—'When the instrument of sale is registered'—refers to an instrument which is not only in reality, but in terms, an instrument of sale. So Art. 10 does not apply to a case where a document is in terms an instrument of gift, though in reality it is a sale. 2 A.L.J. 350=1905 A.W.N. 88=27 A. 540. See also 1 C.L.J. 296.

33. Miscellaneous.

——Art. 10—Miscellaneous — Instrument of sale—Hiba-bil—Ewaz.

A document which is in reality though not in form a deed of sale is an instrument, of sale though it may have been styled a hiba-bil-ewaz. 27 A. 540, Dist. 12 O.C. 185=3 Ind. Cas. 590.

1. Applicability.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Art. 11 does not apply to a transferee from a successful objector, who was not a party to the objection proceedings under O.21, R. 56, Civil P.C. nor does S. 22 apply to him. Hence he can be impleaded as a party in a suit under O. 21, R. 63, even after the expiry of the period prescribed by Art. 11. A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 497=42 P.L.R. 601=192 Ind. Cas. 663.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Objection to sale and not to attachment, preferred by a person who had no interest in the property attached at the time of attachment is not within the ambit of O. 21, R. 58, Civil P.C. and hence an order on such objection is not covered by Art. 11. A.I.R. 1935 Nag. 171=31 N.L.R. 301=158 Ind. Cas. 199.

——Art. 11—Applicability—See C. P. C., O. 21, R. 59. 13 M.L.J. 467=27 M. 67 (F.B.).

——Art. 11—Applicability. See C.P. Code (V of 1908), O. 21, R. 63. (1948) 2 M. L.J. 85=A.I.R. 1949 Mad. 114.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

The conclusiveness of an order in a claim case contemplated by O. 21, R. 63, Civil P.C. is conditional on the continuance of the execution proceedings and the attachment issuing therefrom and that consequently, where an order is made on an application under O. 21, R. 58 of the Code dismissing a claim but the sale held in execution proceedings is set aside and the attachment ipso facto comes to an end, a subsequent suit brought beyond one year by the claimant for a declaration of his title is not barred under Art. 11, Sch. 1, Lim. Act. It does not matter whether the execution proceedings come to an end within or beyond one year of the order in the claim case. 24 Pat. 462=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 369=26 P.L.T. 245.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Any order under O. 21, R. 63, Civil P.C., attracts the limited period of termination mentioned in Art. 11, whether it is passed under any of the preceding rules or not but that pre-supposes an order under that rule. 19 N.L.I. 308=I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 276=A.I.R. 1937 Nag. 170=168 Ind. Cas. 601, ——Art. 11—Applicability—Order passed without investigation under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code.

The test to see whether an order is covered by O. 21, R. 63, C.P. Code, is whether the order is against the claimant or the decree-holder, but that does not mean that the order must involve an adjudication on the merits after investigation. If in substance and in effect it negatives the claimant's claim and refuses to recognise it, the order is one which falls under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code, and Art. 11 of the Limitation Act. 1931 Oudh 1 (F.B.), 1929 Pat. 116, 1929 Lah. 865 and 1912 Mad. 41 (F.B.), foll. 51 P.L.R. 90=A.I.R. 1949 E.P. 318 =50 Cr.L.J. 834.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

The mere fact that a person, by mistake, makes an application in a matter to which O. 21, R 58, clearly does not apply, in no way brings the matter within the mischief of Art. 11; in other words, if he has a right of action, the mere fact that by mistake he makes the application in no way alters the period of limitation which is rightly applicable to the particular cause of action which is the subject-matter of his action. A.I.R. 1935 Pat. 31 =150 Ind. Cas. 40.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Settlement of sale proclamation—Mortgagee of property denying allegation that the mortgage was collusive and praying for sale subject to his mortgage — Settlement of sale proclamation notifying the mortgage with a remark that it was alleged to be collusive—Suit on the mortgage more than one year after the order is barred under Art. 11. 57 M.L.W. 352=(1944) 1 M. L. J. 438= A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 417=1944 M.W.N. 384.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Mortgagor's property attached in execution proceedings against him—Mortgagee applying under O. 21, S. 58, Civil P.C., that his mortgage was not to be affected by subsequent sale—Court ordering mortgage to be brought to notice of bidders at auction—Order does not fall within purview of O. 21, R. 63, Civil P.C.—Article 11 does not apply. A. I. R. 1941 Mad. 77=52 M. L. W. 351=(1940) M.W.N. 889=(1940) 2 M L.J. 402.

Overruled in A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 41=198 Ind. Cas. 197 (F.B.).

——Art. 11—Applicability.

M mortgaged his property to three sets of persons and all three sets obtained decrees against him for realisation of their dues by the sale of the property. The property was sold and out of it, the previous and the second mortgagees were satisfied and the execution was filed as fully satisfied. The third mortgagee, whose mortgage was subsequent to the other two, put in an execution application in his decree and attached the sum which remained. He then applied for payment of that sum towards the satisfaction of the decree. In the meantime, one of the decree-holders in the second mortgage-decree applied for amendment of the second mortgage-decree. This was after the attachment of the balance by the third mortgagee. The second mortgage-decree was amended by raising the decretal amount. The second set of mortgagee-decree-holders, however, did not apply to have the order consigning their execution application to the record room as fully satisfied, reviewed and further they did not take out execution proceedings to satisfy the amended mortgage-decree in their favour. What they did was to put in an application in the execution proceedings of the third mortgagee asking that the money be paid to them. This application was dismissed by the executing Court on the ground that their execution was filed as fully satisfied. More than two years subsequently, one of them filed a suit for payment of the amount:

Held, that the suit was barred by time as he should have filed declaratory suit within one year of the order under Art. 11 and that the suit was not governed by Art. 62.

Held, also that the proper procedure for him was to put his own amended decree into execution. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 642=159 Ind. Cas. 608.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Objection by D in certificate proceedings of A, that B had no interest left in property. Objection rejected—Suit by D more than one year after such rejection, for declaration of title and confirmation of possession is barred under Art. 11, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 109=17 Pat. 446=5 B.R. 391=180 Ind. Cas. 372.

——Art. 11—Applicability—Order by Collector in execution proceedings.

Per Broomfield, J.— Art. 11, applies to any orders made under the Civil P.C. It is not limited necessarily to the orders of Courts. In view of S. 68 and the following sections of the Code and also Sch. III, the Collector may be said to act under the Code when exercising the powers conferred on him by the Code. But the Collector has no power to consider objections to an attachment. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 12=I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 104=44 Bom.L.R. 819=204 Ind. Cas. 402.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

Where in execution of a mortgage decree the auction-purchaser obtained a decree and an order for symbolical delivery against the 1st defendant and he subsequently brought a suit against the 2nd defendant for actual possession, the previous order in execution not having been a final order cannot be considered to be passed under rule 103 of Order 21, C. P. Code. There is therefore no obligation upon him to bring a suit for possession within one year from the date of that order and a suit brought later cannot therefore be deemed to be barred by rule 103. 1930 M.W.N. 1051.

——Art. 11—Applicability—Suit under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code.

In every suit of the nature contemplated by R. 63 brought by the decree-holder the title of the objector has to be negatived before his right to attach and sell the property alleged to belong to the judgment-debtor is affirmed. Where the plaintiff sues for a declaration that the defendants have no title in the property the suit falls under R. 63 and is governed by Art. 11 of the Limitation Act. 1930 A.L.J. 1322.

——Art. 11—Applicability.

By invoking Art. 11 the bar of limitation cannot be got over if the title to the property is otherwise extinguised. In other words a suit though not barred by Art. 11 may be barred by some other provisions of the Lim. Act. 50 Ind. Cas. 6 (Lah.)

——Art. 11—Applicability — Application by mortgagee to sell subject to mortgage.

The mortgagee need not sue to set aside an order rejecting his application to sell the attached property subject to his mortgage. 41 Bom. 64=18 Bom. L.R. 782=36 Ind. Cas. 627.

——Arts. 11 and 15—Applicability—Attachment under O. 38, R. 8, C. P. Code—Property released.

A suit to recover property released from attachment under O. 38 R. 8 is not governed by Art. 11 or 13, such a suit not being one to set as de an order of Civil Court within Art. 13 and therefore the existence of the order releasing the attachment before judgment does not bar the suit. 41 Mad. 23=5 L.W. 704=39 Ind. Cas. 863.

——Art. 11—Applicability — Claim petition—Dismissal for default suit—Limitation.

Where a claim petition filed when the C. P. Code of 1882 was in force was dismissed for absence of the parties the order is not one under S. 281 of the C.P. Code but under the powers of the Court to dimiss miscellaneous matters and a regular suit to establish title is not governed by Art. 11 of the Lim. Act. 18 C.W.N. 770=26 Ind. Cas. 943.

——Art. 11 — Applicability — Order under—C.P.C., Ss. 278, 281, 283—Rejection of claim for failure to adduce evidence.

An order rejecting a claim for failure to produce evidence is none the less an order under S. 281 and is conclusive between the parties unless set aside within one year. 32 C. 537.

——Art. 11—Applicability—C.P.C (1882), S. 332.

A suit instituted under the last para. of S. 332 of the old code of 1882 is not governed by Arts. 11, 12, 13 or 14 of the Limitation Act of 1877. 19 C.L.J. 187=19 Ind. Cas. 968.

——Art. 11—Applicability—Claim case—Direction to sell after notifying claim.

An order on a claim petition expressing no final judgment on the right put forward but simply directing a sale after notifying the claim is one against the claimant and his suit to establish his title is governed by Art. 11. 41 Mad. 985=24 M.L.T. 197=(1918) M.W.N. 509=8 M.L.W. 292=35 M.L.J. 335=48 Ind. Cas. 270 (F.B.)

——Art. 11—Applicability—Claim investigation—Omission to pass order regarding portion of the property—Suit by objector—Limitation.

Where an executing Court by mistake or otherwise omits to give judgment on the merits in respect of some of the properties comprised in the claim preferred by an objector under O. 21, R. 58 the order cannot be treated as one coming under rule 63 regarding the properties so omitted. Therefore Art. 11 of the Lim. Act does not apply to a suit by the objector to establish his title to such properties. 42 P.R. 1900=52 P.W.R. 1909=58 P.L.R. 1909=1 Ind. Cas. 742.

——Arts. 11, 13, 120 and 142—Applicability—Suit for possession of immovable property—C.P. Code (1882), S. 332.

The Art. 11 does not govern a suit for possession of immovable property for establishment of plaintiff's title, when an adverse order is made against him under S. 332, C.P. Code (1882). The suit is governed by Art. 142. 16 C.W.N. 971=14 Ind. Cas. 92.

——Art. 11—Applicability—Resistance to possession—C.P.C., O. 21, R. 97.

Where a court dismisses an application under R. 97, O. 21, C.P.C., it cannot pass an order directing the person in whole favour the order is passed, to bring a regular suit, the person is not bound to sue within one year as Art. 11 does not apply to the suit. 1.P.R. 1919=49 Ind. Cas. 138.

——Art. 11—Applicability—Order under old Code.

An order, passed in 1905 under S. 283, C.P. Code, 1882, need not be set aside by a suit within one year of the date of the order as Art. 11 refers to orders passed under the new code only. 31 Ind. Cas. 250 (Mad.)

——Art. 11—Applicability—Objector, a benamider—Suit by benamidar.

Plaintiff against whom an order was passed under S. 335 of the C.P. Code of 1882 brought a suit to set aside the order. On deft.'s contention that he as benamidar was not entitled to sue and that the real owner was not made a co-plaintiff within one year, it was held that the plaintiff though benamidar was entitled to sue. 8 M.L.T. 377=(1910) M.W.N. 633=8 Ind. Cas. 264.

——Art. 11—Applicability—Test.

Art. 11 will apply only when the order was made upon enquiry. There may be an enquiry or investigation on the materials before the court, even though plaintiff failed to be present or to adduce evidence. 6 C.L.J. 362.

2. Attachment before judgment.

——Arts. 11, 13—Attachment before judgment—Suit by unsuccessful claimant—Limitation.

The limitation for a suit by an unsuccessful claimant in respect of property attached before judgment is not governed by either Art. 11 or Art. 13 but by Art. 120. A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 449=49 C.W.N. 111.

——Art. 11—Attachment before judgment.

Although the provisions of O. 21, R. 58, 63, Civil P.C., may be applied to claims or objections made in attachments before judgment. C. 21, R. 63, prescribes no period of limitation and the rule in Art. 11 of the Lim. Act is expressly limited to claims or objections made to the attachment of property attached in execution of a decree. There are no special provisions for suits of this nature arising out of objections to attachment before judgment, so that Art. 120 must be held to apply to such suits. A.I.R. 1931 Pat. 580=16 P.L.T. 304=1 B.R. 42=152 Ind. Cas. 297.

——Art. 11—Attachment before judgment.

Art. 11 applies also to claims in execution in respect of property attached before judgment. A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 163, Foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 79=A.I.R. 1929 Nag. 128.

——Art. 11—Attachment before judgment.

A suit to contest an order on a claim against attachment before judgment followed by execution after decree is governed by Art. 11 and not Art. 120. 70 Ind. Cas. 917=34 M.L.T. 193=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 49.

——Art. 11—Attachment before judgment—Claim proceedings.

Property attached before judgment is not always property attached "in execution of a decree" within the meaning of the Art. 11. O. 38, R. 11 does not mean that property attached before judgment becomes property attached in execution of a decree upon the mere passing of a decree for the plaintiff, either within the meaning of Art. 11 of the Limitation Act or of O. 21, R. 57, as execution may never be applied for, but merely enables the decree-holder to apply for execution by sale of the attached property without a fresh attachment. Where, however there is an order in execution for the sale of the attached property, that order proceeds upon the footing that the property is to be considered as attached in execution by virtue of R. 11, and a claim put in after that order may properly be regarded as a claim to property attached in execution of a decree within the meaning of Art. 11. Cases not governed by Art. 11 must be governed by Art. 120. 70 Ind. Cas. 430=44 Mad. 902=14 M.L.W. 645=1021 M.W.N. 569=A. I. R. 1921 Mad. 163=41 M.L.J. 252 (F.B.)

3. C.P. Code (Old), S. 335.

——Art. 11—C. P. C., S. 335—Resistance to possession by manager of joint family—Subsequent withdrawal from prosecution of proceedings—Minor co-parceners, suit by, after one year not barred.

V, as manager of a joint Hindu family, offered obstruction to defendants taking possession of certain lands in execution of a decree. Some time after this, the minors, step-brothers of V, having separated from V and the lands to which the obstruction was offered having been allotted to the minors' share, V took no further part in the miscellaneous proceedings that followed the obstruction, and on the 6th August 1898, the court passed an order under S. 335, C.P.C., in favour of defendants. The minors brought a suit on 11-11-'03 to establish their title to the lands. Both the lower courts dismissed the suit on the ground that it was barred under Art. 11, inasmuch as it was instituted more than a year after the order under S. 335, C.P.C. Held, that the order was no bar to plaintiff's suit since V did not represent the minors when the order under S. 335, C.P.C., was made. 10 Bom. L.R. 550=32 B. 404.

——Art. 11—C.P.C., S 335—Suit by party against whom the order made—Joinder of strangers as parties after one year, to a suit filed within the year.

The limitation provided for by Art. 11 applies to suits under S. 335, C.P.C., only in so far as it is against the person in whose favour the order was made. Consequently, the fact that other persons were joined after the limitation period as parties on the representation of the person in whose favour the order was made, that he was only a benamidar for the parties so added, will not bar the suit. 18 M.L.J. 464.

——Art. 11—C. P. Code, S. 335—Claim allowed—Suit by some for partition—Same right in substance—Bar.

A suit by one against whom an order has been passed under S. 335, C.P.C., to get rid of the effect of the order must be brought within one year; and the limitation of one year cannot be escaped by merely designating the suit as one for partition. The purchaser of the right, title and interest of a member of a family having failed to get possession by reason of the court allowing a claim under S. 335, C.P.C., brought a suit which was nominally one for partition but really for the possession of that very property and containing a prayer to set aside the order under S. 335. Held, that Art. 11 barred the suit. 3 Bom.L.R. 594=26 Bom. 146.

——Art. 11—C.P.Code, (1882), Ss. 278, 281, 283—'Investigation'—Payment after one year of the decree amount by third party mortgagee—Effect of, on the claimant.

An order purporting to deal with the claim on the merits is an order passed 'on investigation.' An order under S. 281, C.P.C. (O.C.) to the effect: 'The sale seems to be collusive; claim rejected' is an order made after investigation within the meaning of S. 278 and consequently, a suit by the party against whom the order was made is governed by Art. 11. An order under S. 281, C.P.C., was made against the claimants-plaintiffs in the case. More than a year from the date of the order, the attachment was raised by payment by one of the defendants in the present suit who were mortgagees in possession. Held, that the order under S. 281, C.P.C., was conclusive againt the claimant even as between him and the defendants. Obiter: A payment of the decree amount by any of the parties to the proceeding within one year from the date of the order under Ss. 280, 281, 235, C. P. C., cannot preclude the party against whom the order was made from bringing a suit after the year. Quaere:—Whether it will make any difference if the payment is made by a stranger not a party to the proceedings. 16 M. L. J. 136=29 Mad. 225.

——Art. 11—C. P. Code, S. 335, order under—Right to present possession—Right to enforce mortgage.

The limitation of one year prescribed by Art. 11 is applicable only to a suit to establish the right to present possession which the unsuccessful claimant under S. 335, C. P. C. may have in the properties claimed by him; a suit by such claimant to enforce his remedies as a mortgagee is not governed by that article. A mortgagee's claim to possession having been dismissed, he brought a suit for sale more than a year after the date of such dismissal. Held, that the suit was not barred. 29 C. 25.

——Art. 11—C. P. C., S. 335, order under.

Art. 11 has application only to cases where the judge passes an order under S. 335, C.P.C., and not to a case where the judge refuses to pass an order under the section, but merely refers the party to a civil suit. 27 M. 25.

4. Claim to attached property.

——Art. 11—Claim to attached property—Claim dismissed but attachment removed on satisfaction of decree—C P.C., Ss. 210, 282.

Art. 11 of the Limitation Act does not apply to a case where, though the claim to attached property is disallowed, the attachment is removed on satisfaction of decree, there being no necessity to set aside the order. 13 B. 72; 18 B. 241, followed. 31 C. 228.

——Art. 11—Claim by mortgagee.

If a mortgagee without possession chooses to prefer an objection under O. 21, R. 58, on the strength of his alleged mortgage, against attachment and sale of property in execution of a money-decree obtained by a third party against his mortgagor, and an adverse order is passed against him in the objection proceedings, such decision is conclusive against him under R. 63 unless he brings a declaratory suit within the period prescribed by Art. 11 of the Indian Limitation Act. 11 Lah. 369=31 P.L.R. 752=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 865.

——Art. 11—Claim by mortgagee — Suit by decree-holder under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code.

A house was attached by plaintiff in execution of a decree but an order by the Court was passed on the objector's application proclaiming a mortgage to be a burden on the house, plaintiff made an objection to that order, and an order was passed in his favour allowing a note of his objection to the objector's application to be added to the proclamation; in a suit for a declaration that the mortgage was null and void and ineffectual against the plaintiff:

Held, that the suit comes under Art. 11. 100 Ind. Cas. 763=A.I.R. 1927 All. 420.

——Art. 11—Claim by mortgagee.

An order refusing to recognise a mortgage and continuing the attachment free from it is an adverse order of the kind contemplated in O. 21, R. 63 and must be displaced by a suit contemplated by Art. 11. 70 Ind. Cas. 432=45 Mad. 90=15 M.L.W. 190=1921 M.W.N. 764=A. I. R. 1922 Mad. 447=41 M.L.J. 594.

——Art. 11 — Claim suit — Starting point of limitation.

Application for execution — Objection — Case closed by mistake—Fresh application for attachment and fresh claim — Dismissal—Suit under O. 21, R. 63, Civil P. C.—Limitation runs from the date when the first case was closed by mistake. A.I.R. 1931 Rang. 183=131 Ind. Cas. 727.

5. Effect of order.

——Art. 11—Effect of order— Order dismissing claim by mortgagee—Suit to enforce mortgage.

Where the order of the executing Court does not say that the objector is not entitled to the right which he claims in respect to the property but merely says that his request to have the sale made subject to his mortgage cannot be granted, and the reason for the refusal is not any decision that the objector had no concern with the mortgage, in such a case there is no bar to the suit under Art. 11, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 12=44 Bom. L. R. 819=I. L. R. (1943) Bom. 104=204 Ind. Cas. 402.

——Art. 11—Effect of order— Order rejecting claim as claimant had no locus standi.

Where the Court entertains the claim and enquires into it but eventually dismisses it because the claimant has no locus standi to make the claim, the order is one passed against the claimant as contemplated by Art. 11. 5 R. R. 391=A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 109=17 Pat. 446=180 Ind. Cas. 372.

——Art. 11—Effect of order—Order dismissing objection on ground of delay.

An order dismissing an objection filed under O. 21, R. 58, Civil P. C. on the ground of unnecessary delay under the proviso to that rule is an order passed against the claimant and attracts the application of Art. 11. 35 Bom.L.R. 147=57 B. 213=A.I.R. 1933 Bom. 190=144 Ind. Cas. 993.

——Art. 11—Effect of order.

The intention of R. 63 is to include even orders of summary rejections under the proviso to R. 58. A person against whom an order of a summary rejection under the proviso to R. 58 has been passed would have his natural remedy by filing a suit for declaration in the civil Court. But if the objector fails to bring a suit, then that order is an order under R. 63 and is conlusive, and the period of limitation which would apply to such a suit is one year under Art. 11, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1923 All. 435; 41 Mad. 985; 45 Cal. 785 and A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 680, foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 81=26 A L.J. 794=A.I.R. 1928 All. 327.

——Art. 11 — Effect of order — Dismissal of claim.

At the auction sale of certain properties in execution of a money-decree, a mortgagee of the properties applied that the sale proceeds should be kept in Court deposit being subject to his hypothecation. His application was dismissed with the order "Sale is concluded already and decree-holder set off the decree amount. Dismissed."

Held, that order did not amount to any order on the claim within the words of O. 21, R. 63. Consequently, a subsequent suit is not barred under Art. 11 of the Limitation Act. 39 M.L.J. 350, Foll. 70 Ind. Cas. 618=45 Mad. 827=16 M.L.W. 485=31 M.L.T. 441=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 76=43 M.L.J. 467.

——Art. 11—Effect of order—Limitation.

An order dismissing an application for declaration that the property be sold subject to an encumbrance in favour of the applicant is final if not set aside within a year, both against the applicant and a judgment-debtor. The effect of the order if not set aside is to free the property from the incumbrance. 38 M.L.J. 397=11 M.L.W. 343=27 M.L.T. 312=56 Ind. Cas. 481.

——Art. 11—Effect of order.

An order under O. 21, R. 63, C.P.C., is conclusive against the party unless set aside within the time allowed by law. In a suit by the decree-holder against the objector whose objection was dismissed for ejectment of the objector on the basis of a subsequent trespass by the objector. The objector cannot take advantage of the fact that the plaint and the written statement were within one year of the order because the objector himself did not sue to set aside the order. 22 M.L.T. 232=(1917) M.W.N. 721=6 L.W. 281=41 Ind. Cas. 684.

——Art. 11—Effect of order—Execution sale—Fraud—Suit on mortgage—Defence.

Where by an order of Court, properties were sold subject to a mortgage in favour of the plaintiffs and the defendants purchased the property in ignorance of the order:

Held, that the order under O. 21, R. 63, would be conclusive against defendant only if it was shown that he was aware of the fraud of the plaintiff within a year of the date of the order and being so aware did not take steps to establish his rights within the period prescribed by Art. 11. If the defendant became aware of the fraud after the period, he could assert under S. 44 of the Evidence Act the fraudulent nature of the plaintiff's claim and the consequent invalidity of the Court's order in any proceeding instituted by plaintiff on the strength of such order. 16 Bom. L.R. 648=27 Ind. Cas. 238.

——Art. 11—Effect of order.

Any order on an objection made by a third party to attachment of property in execution of a decree is conclusive, whether that order was passed summarily or after investigation. 130 P.L.R. 1916=117 P.W.R. 1916 =66 P.R. 1916=35 Ind. Cas. 321.

——Art. 11—Effect of order—Garnishee—Defence.

It is not open to a garnishee to plead a defence which had already, in an execution enquiry been successful, except in a suit instituted within one year from the date of the adverse order. 38 Bom. 631=16 Bom. L.R. 520 =25 Ind. Cas. 375.

6. Essentials.

——Art. 11—Essentials—Property must have been attached.

The provisions of Art. 11 do not apply unless there has been an attachment in the manner prescribed by the Civil P. C., even if an order for attachment has been made and the claim or objection proceeded upon the belief that there had been an actual attachment. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 449=34 P.L.R 443=144 Ind. Cas. 378.

——Art. 11—Essentials—Property must have been attached.

In cases where the property has been or is sought to be sold under a mortgage-decree, there can be no attachment within the meaning of O. 21, R. 58, Civil P. C. and a suit to contest an order passed on an objection to such a sale need not to be filed within one year. 33 P.L.R. 1033=A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 75=141 Ind. Cas. 252.

——Art. 11—Essentials—To establish right form of relief.

There is no limitation as regards the nature of the suit referred to in the article; no particular prayer is excluded from its scope. Thus a suit for declaration that an alienation by the judgment-debtor is fraudulent and that the property is liable for the judgment-debt is within the article. A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 516=33 P.L.R. 759=138 Ind. Cas. 412.

——Art. 11—Essentials—Mere order for attachment without actual attachment.

For purposes of Art. 11, the property to which a claim is made, or to the attachment of which there is no objection, must be property which had been de facto attached. Merely passing an order of attachment is not enough.

No property can be declared to be attached unless firstly order for attachment has been issued; and secondly, in execution of that order the other things prescribed by the rules in the Code have been done.

After an order of attachment had been passed, a claim was put in and rejected. There was no attachment effected at any time:

Held, that the order of rejection need not be set aside within one year, the order being a nullity. A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 447, Reversed. 109 Ind. Cas. 626 =51 Mad. 349=26 A.L.J. 616=55 I.A. 256=48 C.L.J. 11=32 C.W.N. 821=5 O.W.N. 579=28 M.L.W. 1=30 Bom. L.R. 1353=A.I.R. 1928 P.C. 139=55 M.L.J. 122 (P.C.).

7. Extension of time.

——Art. 11—Extension of time.

Where the judgment-debtor was not made a party to the objection proceedings but was a necessary party to a regular suit, the time taken in prosecuting claims against the judgment-debtor in obtaining the conciliator's certificate under the Deccan Agriculturists Relief Act should be deducted from computing the period of limitation. 36 Bom. 624=14 Bom. L.R. 750 =17 Ind. Cas. 87.

——Art. 11—Extension of time—Claim proceedings—Suit.

An order under O. 21, R. 63 of the C. P. Code is conclusive subject to a regular suit within one year of the order, and a party cannot claim to deduct the time taken in an unsuccessful revision petition to the High Court from the period of one year prescribed. 8 Bur. L.T. 93=8 L.B.R. 146=27 Ind. Cas. 829.

8. Official Receiver—Claim by.

——Art. 11—Official Receiver—Claim by under S. 34, Provincial Insolvency Act.

An application by an Official Receiver, to a Court which had attached the property of the insolvent at the instance of a creditor, praying that the property may be treated as prop.. y vested in the Official Receiver and as therefore not available to the attaching creditor to satisfy exclusively his claim under the decree, is not claim petition which falls within the class of claims and objections dealt with by O. XXI, Rr. 58 to 63 and under O. 38, R. 8 nor an application for rateable distribution under S. 73 of the C. P. Code. His claim (when the vesting in him was after attachment) is a statutory claim which he is entitled to make under S. 34 of the Provincial Insolvency Act. When the claim is disallowed and the Official Receiver brings a suit to enforce the claim neither Art. 11 nor Art. 13 of the Limitation Act apply to such a suit. The suit is clearly within time under Art. 62. 69 Ind. Cas. 326=45 Mad. 70=30 M.L.T. 77=14 M.L.W. 334=1921 M.W.N. 775=A.I.R. 1922 Mad. 189=41 M. L. J. 334.

9. Order rejecting claim for want of jurisdiction.

——Art. 11—Order rejecting claim for want of jurisdiction.

Where an objection purporting to be one under O. 21, R. 58, Civil P. C., was certainly made by the respondents whose case was one relating to possession by some sort of family arrangement to which their grandfather was a party and that they were in possession and it appeared that the objection was one to the attahment of the property, the subject-matter of the litigation and the Munsif declined jurisdiction on the ground that the petitioners had no locus standi.

Held, that the order was one in which the petitioner's objections were determined and that it was an order under the Civil P. C., within the meaning of Art. 11, and consequently, an action which was based on the rejection of the petition under O. 21, R. 58, was barred after one year. A.I.R. 1935 Pat. 31=150 Ind. Cas. 40.

——Art. 11—Order rejecting claim for want of jurisdiction.

Where the Court refuses to go into the claim petition and rejects it on the ground that the execution has been transferred to the Collector, there is no order against the claimant which can attract the application of Art. 11. 19 N.L.J. 308=A.I.R. 1937 Nag. 170=I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 276=168 Ind. Cas. 601.

10. Order rejecting claim without jurisdiction.

——Art. 11—Order rejecting claim without jurisdiction.

Where an objection is filed on the date of the sale but is dismissed for default subsequent to the sale, the order passed is one without jurisdiction and a suit by the objector to establish title is not governed by Art. 11. A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 390=41 C.W.N. 845=65 C.L.J. 353=172 Ind. Cas. 503.

11. Order without investigation.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation—Dismissal on preliminary point.

An order dismissing an objection under O. 21, R. 58, whether it is an order disposing of the case on the merits or whether it is an order which held that the objection was not entertainable on the preliminary ground that a certain legal provision was a bar to the maintainability of the application is a disposal of the application under O. 21, R. 58 after hearing the parties and therefore is an order contemplated in O, 21, R. 63 and Art. 11, Lim. Act. 115 Ind. Cas. 703=11 P.L.T. 28=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 116.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

According to the wording of O. 21, R. 63, it is immaterial whether a claim or objection is decided after or without any investigation.

L, a decree-holder, got a buffalo belonging to G, the judgment debtor, attached. D objected to the attachment on the ground that the animal belonged to him. L stated that he did not wish to contest the objection and the animal was released. The animal was attached a second time, but the same objection was raised by D and allowed by the Court after enquiry. The plaintiff instituted a suit under R. 63 for a declaration that the animal belonged to G:

Held, that L having stated that he did not wish to contest the objection and the animal having been released from attachment, the objection must be taken to be decided and the period of limitation began to run from date of release from attachment. 104 Ind. Cas. 289=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 680.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The order contemplated by O. 21, R. 63, refers to any order passed in a removal of attachment case, which is against a party whether his claim has been investigated or not. 41 Mad. 985 (F.B.); 45 C. 785; 41 All. 623, Foll.; 34 C. 491, Dist. 76 Ind. Cas. 841=1 Rang. 481=2 Bur. L. J. 173=A.I.R. 1924 Rang. 42.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The scope of R. 63 is not so confined as to exclude orders passed under R. 58 from its operation. Consequently a suit by an objector more than one year after the objection is disallowed without investigation, is barred under Art. 11 of the Limitation Schedule. 41 Mad. 985 (F.B.) Foll. 74 Ind. Cas. 1024=45 All. 438 =21 A.L.J. 342=4 L.R.A. Civ. 185=A.I.R. 1922 All. 435.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

An order refusing to investigate a claim to attached property on the ground of delay in filing it, is an order passed against the claimant within O. 21, R. 63 and Art. 11 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit to set aside such an order. 71 Ind. Cas. 404=19 N.L.R. 34 =6 N.L.J. 66=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 187.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The period of limitation for a suit to set aside an order under R. 63 of O. 21 is one year, even if that order was passed without investigation and not on the merits. 41 Mad. 985; 45 Cal. 785, Foll. 69 Ind. Cas. 522=A.I.R. 1923 Nag. 69.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The dismissal of an objection even for default will bar a suit which is brought beyond a year of such dismissal A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 164 (F.B.).

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

Art. 11 applies to orders under R. 103 of O. 21, C. P. C. and even orders without investigation under that rule are covered by the article. 1 Pat. L.T. 559=5 Pat. L.J. 652=58 Ind. Cas. 37.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

If an objection under O. 21, R. 58 C. P. Code, is dismissed without investigation Art. 11 does not apply to a suit by an objector for establishing his right to the property. 40 All. 325=16 A.L.J. 256=44 Ind. Cas. 1005.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

Plaintiff filed an objection to the attachment of a share in a village, in respect of which he held two registered mortgages. On the date fixed for evidence the scribe of one of the mortgage deeds was the only witness present. An adjournment was refused and the objection was thus disallowed. The plaintiff then sued for declaration more than a year after the dismissal of the objection:

Held, that as there was not really an investigation under the objection the case did not fall within the one year's limitation provided by Art. 11 and the suit was therefore within time. 16 P. R. 1918=37 P. W. R. 1918=16 P.L.R. 1918=44 Ind. Cas. 528.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The article applies to a case where the person sues to establish his right to the property in respect of which a claim is preferred by him but which is dismissed for default and without investigation. The article is more comprehensive than that of the preceding Acts and the application of the article cannot be restricted to those cases only in which the claim preferred under O. 21, R. 58, has been disallowed after investigation. 45 Cal. 785=23 C.W.N. 375=44 Ind. Cas. 265.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The Art. does not apply to a case where an objection against attachment of property has not been disposed of on merits. 2 Pat. L.W. 108=41 Ind. Cas. 468.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

The auction purchaser applied for delivery of possession of the property purchased and made the defendant a party to the application as the latter had put in a claim to the property and had applied for setting the sale aside. The application was dismissed for default on 11th August, 1913. Subsequently, the plaintiff again applied and got possession on which the defendant preferred an objection which was allowed on 12th December, 1914. Two days afterwards the plaintiff sued for declaration of title as auction purchaser:

Held, that the suit was not barred as the order on 11th August, 1913 was one merely dismissing the application for default and the plaintiff had no opportunity to establish the right and no adjudication of title could have been made in their absence. Therefore limitation began to run against him, from 12th December 1914 when the defendants' objection was allowed. 15 A.L.J. 420=39 Ind. Cas. 797.

——Art. 11—Orders without investigation—Orders on default.

The article covers orders refusing to recognise mortgages. The language of this article in the new Act is wider than that of the previous Act and covers orders made after full investigation as well as those passed on default. 31 M.L.J. 247=38 Ind. Cas. 937.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

Where an execution proceeding is resisted an order passed without enquiry is not one under S. 335, C.P.C., 1882, and a suit for possession of the property may be brought one year after the date of the order. 31 Ind Cas. 444 (Cal.).

——Arts. 11 and 144—Order without investigation.

Where the objections to an execution sale were summarily rejected without investigation, a suit for recovery of the property can be brought within twelve years under Art. 144, Art. 11 not being applicable to the case. 160 P.L.R. 1915=72 P.W.R. 1915=29 Ind. Cas. 731.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

Dismissal of an application for want of prosecution on the ground that objector did not produce evidence is an order on merits and is not an order dismissing the application for default of appearance. Therefore a suit to set aside the order beyond one year from the date of the order is barred. 20 Ind. Cas. 369 (All.).

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

Where a person not a party to the suit complained of dispossession of a room in a house delivered in execution to the purchaser and the application of the third party was dismissed without an enquiry into the merits a suit under O. 21, R. 103 of the C. P. Code will be barred if not brought within one year under Art. 11. 8 A.L.J. 626=10 Ind. Cas. 401.

——Art. 11—Order without Investigation.

Art. 11 applies only where there has been an investigation of a claim. It does not apply to a consent order without investigation of a claim. 50 Ind. Cas. 649 (Cal.).

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

Where the objector produced the evidence but the decree-holder failed to appear and produce the evidence and the objection was allowed ex parte the order is passed after an investigation and Art. 11 applies. 61 P.L.R. 1910=28 P.R. 1910 =19 P.W.R. 1910=5 Ind. Cas. 890.

——Art. 11—Order without investigation.

An order dismissing an application under S, 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure for default is an order passed without investigation, and Art. 11 is not applicable to the case. 17 M.L.J. 554=31 M. 5 =3 M.L.T. 106.

12. Parties to suit.

——Art. 11—Parties to suit—Where the judgment-debtor is not made party to suit.

If a claim preferred by a party under O. 21, R. 58 against the decree-holder attaching a property is allowed and the judgment - debtor is not a party to such claim suit order is not binding on the judgment-debtor so as to compel him to bring a suit for declaration under O. 21, R. 63. If subsequently the claimant brings a suit for possession against the judgment-debtor, the judgment debtor is not precluded from setting up his title, for an order in the claim suit does not become final under O. 21, R. 63, against the judgment-debtor and is not governed by Art. 11, as against the judgment-debtor. 15 Cal. 674, Rel. on. 30 Mad. 335 (F. B.), Cons. 120 Ind. Cas. 762=10 P.L.T. 581=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 604.

13. Pre-emption suit.

——Art. 11—Pre-emption suit—Where defendant is a benami vendee.

Where a pre-emption suit is brought against two sets of defendants on the allegation that the first set of defendants are only benami vendees and that the real vendees are the 2nd set of defendants and that the transaction was entered into with a view to defeat plaintiff's right of pre-emption, it cannot he held that the suit as against the first set of defendants is only a suit for declaration and that the suit is a pre-emption suit only as against the second set of defendant. Art. 11 of the Limitation Act applies to such suits. 63 Ind. Cas. 558 =8 O.L.J. 320=A.I.R. 1921 Oudh 252.

14. Release of attachment.

——Art. 11—Release of attachment.

Where the attachment was released within one year after the order dismissing the claim case and execution proceedings were again taken after the lapse of several years:

Held, that a title suit brought to resist the attachment was not barred by limitation. 83 Ind. Cas. 233=51 Cal. 548=39 C.L.J. 418=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 744.

15. Scope.

——Art. 11—Scope.

Art. 11 is an exception to general rules and curtails the plaintiff's rights very considerably. 19 N.L.J. 308=A.I.R. 1937 Nag. 170=I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 270=168 Ind. Cas. 601.

——Art. 11—Scope.

A suit under Art. 11 does not fall within the language of S. 28 and the omission to bring a suit of the kind contemplated by Art. 11 will not extinguish the rights of the claimant of the judgment-debtor. (1935) M.W.N. 763=42 M.L.W. 710 =A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1015=158 Ind. Cas. 863.

16. Starting point.

——Art. 11—Starting point.

Under Art. 11, the starting point should be taken to be the date of the final order, whether that order was passed on an appeal or in revision against the order of the lower Court. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 633=1943 M.W.N. 455=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 41=213 Ind. Cas. 236.

——Art. 11—Starting point.

Application by decree-holder to transferring Court to recall decree from transferee Court for being executed by the transferring Court itself is a step-in-aid of execution and saves limitation under Art. 11. A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 144=17 Pat. 617=5 B.R. 465=20 P.L.T. 353=180 Ind. Cas. 311.

——Art. 11—Starting point.

If an order in execution proceedings is no adjudication upon the merits of the objection at all, the limitation for a suit does not begin to run till the date on which fresh objections were allowed after a second application for execution by the decree-holders. 67 Ind. Cas. 543=3 Lah. 7 =A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 108.

——Art. 11—Starting point.

The objector whose objection is dismissed must establish his right to the property within one year of the date of the order. 2 U.P.L.R. (All.) 198= 57 Ind. Cas. 5.

——Art. 11—Starting point—Declaratory suit—Sale to defraud a creditor.

A suit for a declaration that the property is liable to attachment and for setting aside an order allowing the objection is governed by Art. 11 and not by Art. 91 even though the result of the suit would be to set aside a sale by the judgment-debtor and even though the suit is brought after three years of the sale-deed. The cause of action for the plaintiff arises only on the date when the objection is allowed. 179 P.L.R. 1913=118 P.W.R. 1913=18 Ind. Cas. 519.

——Art. 11—Starting point.

A suit by a holder of a decree to declare an alienation as fraudulent based on an order passed under O. 21, R. 63, C. P. Code is governed by Art. 11 and should be brought within one year from the date of the order. 7 M.L.W. 280= (1918) M.W.N. 244=44 Ind. Cas. 551.

——Art. 11—Starting point.

A suit brought within one year of the date of the order though more than a year after attachment and sale of property is not barred. Art. 11 includes not only a prayer for declaration but also the consequential relief dependent on the declaration. The words "to establish the right" in O. 21, R. 63, C.P.C., are not confined to the obtaining of a mere declaration to the exclusion of all consequences of relief, which include the recovery of the value of the property sold prior to the date of the order. 40 Mad. 733=31 M.L.J. 394=(1916) 2 M.W.N. 207=4 L.W. 300=20 M.L.T. 353=36 Ind. Cas. 445.

——Arts. 11 and 13—Starting point.

Where an order of a single Judge of the High Court in claim proceedings is contested on appeal under the Letters Patent, time under Art. 11 runs only from the date of the appellate order as the proceedings in an appeal are only a continuation of the proceedings commenced by the petition and the decree in appeal is the only subsisting decree in the suit. 39 Mad. 1196=17 M.L.T. 208=(1915) M.W.N. 211=28 Ind. Cas. 367.

17. Stranger to proceeding.

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceeding.

Where a person obtained a decree against a member of a joint Hindu family and attached the member's shares in the family and a claim preferred by the judgment-debtor's brothers on the strength of a deed of relinquishment executed by him in 1916, was allowed on April 1, 1922 and the decree-holder along with the other creditors of the judgment-debtor, instituted a suit on March 13, 1923, for a declaration that the deed of relinquishment was a collusive transaction intended to defeat the creditors:

Held, that so far as the decree-holder was concerned, the suit was governed by Art. 11 of the Lim. Act and was within time but as regards the other plaintiffs, it was governed by Art. 120 and time-barred. 33 P.L.R. 759=A.I.R. 1932 Lah. 516=138 Ind. Cas. 412.

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceeding—Applicability of article to.

Art. 11 does not apply to a person who was not a party to the proceedings in which the order sought to be set aside was made. 57 Ind. Cas. 52 (Lah.).

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceeding — Claim case.

A person divides his properties to his four grandsons in equal shares. Plaintiffs obtained a settlement of half the property from his sons. Subsequently in execution of a money decree against the sons the whole tenure was sold. After the claims preferred by the defendant's grandsons were rejected, no suit was brought to set aside the order in the claim case. In a suit by plaintiffs who were not parties to the claim case for a declaration of their occupancy right in half the property. Held, that Art. 11 was a bar to a suit by defendants and the plaintiffs were entitled to prove that at the time of the settlement the grandsons had a good title to the interest claimed by them. Further that Art. 11 does not apply as the plaintiffs were no parties to the claim proceedings. 53 Ind. Cas. 260 (Cal.).

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceeding—Judgment-debtor, if bound.

A judgment-debtor will not be bound by an order unless he is a party to it and unless the order in express terms adjudicates on his title. Where only a question of possession is decided, the title of the judgment-debtor is not affected though he be a party. 26 M. L. T. 513=(1920) M.W.N. 77=37 M.L.J. 547=54 Ind. Cas. 530.

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceeding—Suit to set aside a sale in execution of a decree obtained against third party.

Plaintiff sued for a declaration that a certain well site was not the property of her mother and guardian who had been in possession on her behalf but was a gift to her by her uncle and was not liable to be attached and sold in execution of the decree against the latter and that the sale in execution consequent on the attachment was void.

Held, that the suit was not governed by Art. 11 of the Limitation Act inasmuch as it applied only to parties to the suit or to the execution proceedings, in question and not to strangers. (1916) 2 U.B.R. 116=10 Bur. L.T. 225=36 Ind. Cas. 3.

——Art. 11-A—Stranger to proceedings—Order for symbolical possession—If must be set aside within one year.

An order for symbolical delivery need not be set aside within one year by strangers in actual possession of the land. 15 M.L.T. 163=1 L.W. 31 =24 Ind. Cas. 771. (See on appeal 30 M.L.J. 404 =2 L.W. 1184=31 Ind. Cas. 615.).

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceedings.

A judgment-debtor is not a party to the claim proceedings. The party aggrieved by the order can institute a suit against the judgment-debtor even after a year from the order. 34 Mad. 533= 8 M.L.T. 417=(1910) M.W.N. 741=8 Ind. Cas. 157.

——Art. 11—Stranger to proceedings.

Art. 11 does not apply as against a person who was not a party to the proceedings in which the order sought to be set aside was passed. 32 All. 88=7 A.L.J. 11=4 Ind. Cas. 144.

18. Miscellaneous.

——Arts. 11 and 120—Miscellaneous—Suit for declaration — Certain property is liable to attachment.

Plaintiff attached a certain house in execution of his decree against the judgment-debtor. The latter's brother filed objections on the ground that he was the sole owner of the property, the judgment-debtor having relinquished his interest by a deed of release. The objection being allowed the plaintiff brought a suit for declaration that the house was liable to attachment and sale. Held, Art. 11 governs the suit. A person by simply invoking Art. 11 cannot affect the law of limitation if his title to the property has been extinguished. 50 Ind. Cas. 6 (Lah.).

——Art. 11—Miscellaneous—Nature of claim suit—Suit by unsuccessful claimant—Continuation of claim.

A suit under O. 21, R. 63, of the C. P. Code is a mere continuation of the execution proceedings in a claim petition. A suit of this class though called original suit are in their essence mere forms of appeal allowed by the C. P. Code. 38 Mad. 535 26 M.L.J. 449=25 Ind. Cas. 11.

——Art. 11—Miscellaneous — Distinction between Arts. 11 and 29.

Art. 11 deals with a suit by a person to establish his right to or to the present possession of the property comprised in the order while Art. 29 deals with a suit for compensation for wrongful seizure of movable property under legal process. Where a plaintiff sued for the value of the property recovered in execution the suit is not barred if brought after a year of the date of the order since Art. 29 governs the suit and not Art. 11. 4 Bur. L.T. 45=9 Ind. Cas. 773.

——Art. 11—Miscellaneous—Suit for possession—Order under O. 21, R. 95, C. P. Code—Addition of parties.

A suit brought within one year on an order under S. 336 of the C.P. Code of 1882 is not barred but a party added after the expiry of one year can raise the plea of Limitation. 7 M.L.T. 306=6 Ind. Cas. 680.

——Art. 11—Miscellaneous—Two decrees.

Where there were two decrees in favour of one decree-holder against the same judgment debtor and the objection of the mortgagee was allowed as regards the second decree but it really related to the first while no regular suit was brought by the decree-holder the order operates against both the decrees until it is set aside. 122 P.W.R. 1909=89 P. L. R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 970.

——Art. 11 — Miscellaneous — Attachment — Objection against—Declaratory suit—Limitation when objection is not wholly adjudicated upon.

An objection under S. 283, C.P.C. (O.C.) made to the attachment of several properties effected in execution of a decree was allowed in respect of some of them and no order was passed in regard to the rest, but all the property was released from attachment. The decree-holders again attached the properties which were not dealt with by the order passed on the objection. A fresh objection was made but it was disallowed. The objector filed a suit under S. 283 of C.P.C. for a declaration of right as to those properties. The Court of First Instance dismissed the suit as barred by limitation, being of opinion that Art. 11 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act governed the case and limitation began to run from the date of the first order. On appeal it was held that the order not having been passed in regard to those properties the suit was not barred. Held, that the view of the appellate court was correct. 58 P.L.R. 1909=42 P.R. 1909=52 P.W.R. 1909=1 Ind. Cas. 742.

1. Applicability.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability of.

Where in execution of a decree of A against B, C purchased a house and three days before it, D sold another house to A and when C attempted to get possession he was resisted by one D but D's objection was disallowed and he brought a suit to set aside the auction sale. Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 11 of the Act. 17 Ind. Cas. 991 (All.)

——Art. 11-A.

Applicability—Application held not maintainable under O. 21, R. 100, C.P. Code. See C.P.Code, O. 21, R. 100. 85 C.L.J. 155=A.I.R. 1950 Cal. 555.

——Art. 11-A — Applicability — Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, Ch. VII—Proceedings under—If "suit"—Order of ejectment, if "decree".

Art. 11-A, Limitation Act, applies only in the case of proceedings taken under a decree; it has no application in respect of an order for ejectment passed by Presidency Small Cause Courts in proceedings under Ch. VII of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act. Such proceedings are not a "suit," nor the order of ejectment in such proceedings "a decree" as defined in S. 2 (2), C. P. Code. 1929 Mad. 69, 51 Bom. 259; 45 Bom. 972; 51 Bom. 885, Foll. 50 Bom. L.R. 747=A.I.R. 1949 Bom. 104.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability—Suit on a mortgage—Purchaser not impleaded—Application by purchaser for re-delivery dismissed in execution proceedings—Suit by the purchaser for redemption and for delivery—Basis of suit different from title put forward in execution proceedings—Art. 11-A not a bar.

One of several mortgagors who held the mortgaged property jointly, sold an undivided one-fourth share of the property, the consideration to be paid to the mortgagee. The mortgagee filed a suit on his mortgage without impleading the purchaser, obtained a decree and bought the property in execution. The purchaser filed an execution application asking for redelivery of the property purchased by him, but it was dismissed. More than a year later, he filed a suit for redemption of the mortgage and for delivery of properties purchased by him or in the alternative for delivery of one-fourth share of the mortgaged property. That the one-fourth share of the entire mortgaged properties should be given to him after partition was sought to be made clear by an application for amendment which was dismissed. On a contention that the suit was barred by Art. 11-A of the Limitation Act:

Held, that if the title which is put forward as the basis of suit is the same as the title which is put forward in the execution proceedings as the basis for an order in his favour, then O. 21, R. 103 would be a bar, but not otherwise. Further, if the relief that is asked in the later suit is not one which the plaintiff could have got in the execution department, then the fact that he did pursue the remedies given under the execution chapter will not bar the later suit. The basis of the suit in this cas was different from the title put forward in the execution proceedings and as the relief of partition and delivery of his one-fourth share could not be obtained in the execution department. Art. 11-A would not operate as a bar to the suit. 1946 M.W.N. 128=59 M.L.W. 351=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 624=(1946) 1 M.L.J. 104.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

Before Art. 11-A applies there must have been an act of dispossession by the decree-holder or auction-purchaser. 70 C.L.J. 111=A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 16=44 C.W.N. 251=186 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

Art. 11-A applies only to suits by a person who has been dispossessed of property in the delivery of possession in execution of a decree. Where a person had not been dispossessed of any property when the order under O. 21, R. 99, Civil P. C., was passed against him and an application which was presented by him under O. 21, R. 99, was held to be incompetent, the suit is not covered by the terms of Art. 11-A. A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 349=191 Ind. Cas. 160.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

A suit under O. 21, R. 103, Civil P. C., is governed by Art. 11-A. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 577=68 C.L.J. 261=42 C.W.N. 1051=179 Ind. Cas. 40.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

Where the executing Court does not give delivery of property, a suit filed thereafter for possession of such property is not a suit under O. 21, R. 103 so as to make Art. 11-A, applicable. A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 246=36 C.W.N. 965=60 C. 8=143 Ind. Cas. 381.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

In proceedings under O. 21, R. 97, Civil P. C. the auction-purchaser was present but did not adduce evidence; the opposite party examined only one witness; there was no opposition regarding another lot and the Court passed an order:

Held, that there was an investigation or an inquiry by the Court, so as to bring it under Art. 11-A. A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 267=39 C.W.N. 164=155 Ind. Cas. 702.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

Where the Court dismissed the petition as regards one of the items for not having been pressed by the decree-holder, it was held that the petition was not disposed of after enquiry and the plaintiff was not limited to the period prescribed by Art. 11-A of the Lim. Act. 1933 M.W.N. 924.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

The Court cannot, of its own motion, make any investigation into any matter relating to resistance or obstruction to possession under O. 21, R. 97, Civil P. C., or dispossession under R. 100. An order under Rr. 98, 99 or 101 becomes conclusive only after such an investigation as follows on an application under R. 97 or R. 100. If there is no application, there can be no investigation and therefore, there can be no final order.

Where the order is made on a reply to objections, it could not be regarded as one made in pursuance of proceedings taken either under R. 97 or R. 100 of O. 21 and a suit brought more than a year after the said order would not be barred by time. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 686=132 Ind. Cas. 844.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

Art. 11-A applies only to cases where a person who has been actually dispossessed of the property under O. 21, R. 100, and a suit is subsequently brought for the establishment of his title and his present right to possession. In such a case the suit has to be brought within a year from the date of the order. Where such dispossession is not proved, Art. 11-A does not apply. 117 Ind. Cas. 634=10 P.L.T. 872=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 553.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

Where the basis of the claim in the suit is the same as that put forward in the miscellaneous objection proceedings to the present possession, Art. 11-A would apply, but where the basis of the claim in the suit is distinct and different and the possession claimed is not present possession but only by way of consequential relief to the decree being set aside, the Article cannot apply. 101 Ind. Cas. 40=51 Bom. 158=29 Bom. L.R. 230=A.I.R. 1927 Bom. 184.

——Art. 11-A—Applicability.

A suit not under the provisions of R. 103 of O.21 of the C.P. Code, but based on an entirely different cause of action is not governed by Art. 11-A. 90 Ind.Cas. 575=42 C.L.J. 578=30 C.W.N.163=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 377.

2. Application for possession dismissed.

——Art. 11-A—Application for possession dismissed.

In execution of a decree the decree-holder plaintiff obtained symbolical possession against the judgment-debtors and wanted to remove certain huts which were on the land and to take khas possession; these huts were claimed by the defendants on the ground that they were on the land as tenants in their own right. The executing Court rejected the plaintiffs' application for khas possession on the finding that the defendants were on the land in their own right:

Held, that the suit fell within Art. 11-A and should be brought within one year from the date of the order. 106 Ind. Cas. 371=45 C.L.J. 588=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 916.

——Art. 11-A—Application for possession dismissed—Where suit is brought for a lesser relief.

Where under a mortgage decree the share of the mortgagor alone was made liable, but by some mistake or other, the sale proclamation proclaimed the whole property for sale and the sale certificate certified that the whole property had been sold and in accordance with the sale certificate the purchaser applied for delivery of possession but as there was some obstruction his petition was dismissed and the purchaser brought a suit not to recover the whole property but to recover the half-share of his mortgagor after effecting a partition:

Held, that the suit was not for the same relief and that it was not barred by Art. 11-A. 91 Ind. Cas. 961=22 M.L.W. 663=1926 M.W.N. 165=A.I.R 1926 Mad. 232.

3. Claim on original title.

——Art. 11-A—Claim on original title.

Art. 11-A can only apply if the suit as brought is one by a decree-holder or auction purchaser as such and cannot apply if the plaintiff falls back upon his original title as owner of the property in suit, treating the defendant as holding permissively. A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 377, Foll. 114 Ind.Cas. 725 =A.I.R. 1929 All. 610.

——Art. 11-A—Claim on original title.

A suit contemplated by R. 103 is not confined to a suit for possession. It may be brought either on account of his right to possession or on account of his title. A suit under R. 103 therefore though brought on strength of title is governed by Art. 11-A and must be brought within one year. (1889) P.J. 101, Foll. 120 Ind. Cas. 362=31 Bom. L.R. 765=53 Bom. 668=A.I.R. 1929 Bom. 379.

4. Computation of time.

——Art. 11-A—Computation of time.

Where an order was passed under O. 21, R. 100, on 23-12-1919 a suit under O. 21, R. 103, challenging it must be filed on 23-12-1920, which is the last day of limitation and not 24-12-1920. 90 Ind. Cas. 827 (Cal.)

5. Essentials.

——Art. 11-A—Essentials for application.

Before Art. 11-A could be invoked, it should be shown that there was a decree for possession of immovable property or that immovable property was sold in execution of a decree. The article cannot be held to bar suits for recovery of possession of immovable property after proceedings under Chap. 7, Presidency small Cause Courts Act have failed. 115 Ind. Cas. 504=1929 M.W.N. 174=29 M.L.W. 537=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 69=56 M.L.J. 199.

——Art. 11-A—Essentials—To establish right to present possession.

Where an application made by a person under O. 21, R. 97, Civil P.C., claiming possession of the whole of the homestead—the opposite party claiming a share—is dismissed under O. 21, R. 99, a suit brought by the applicant for partition of the homestead and possession of his share after partition, is not governed by Art. 11-A, and hence such a suit brought more than one year after the order of dismissal of application under O. 21, R. 99, is not time-barred. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 384=66 C.L.J. 537=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 685=182 Ind. Cas. 418.

6. No resistance to purchaser.

——Art. 11-A—No resistance to purchaser.

The "resistance or obstruction" contemplated by R. 97, O.21, C.P.Code, is same over act of "resistance or obstruction" to the giving of possession by some person who is present at the time. To such case alone Art. 11-A applies.

But where there was no allegation of any such "resistance" or "obstruction" and possession was given to the auction-purchaser behind the back of the person in possession, his suit for recovery of possession from auction-purchaser will not be governed by Art. 11-A. 82 Ind.Cas. 865=3 Bur. L.J. 71=A.I.R. 1924 Rang. 261.

7. Order under C.P. Code (Old), S. 335.

——Arts. 11-A, 136—Order under S. 335, C.P.C. —Suit by party claiming under a person against whom the order is passed.

Where an order is passed against a person under S. 335, C.P.Code, the purchaser from him is barred under Art. 11 if he does not sue to set aside the order within one year from its date. Art. 136 does not apply to the case. 4 Bom. L.R.513=26 B. 730.

8. Order without investigation.

——Art. 11-A—Order without investigation.

Art. 11-A of the Limitation Act has no application where, in the summary proceedings arising out of the claim in the execution case, there has been no investigation. A suit brought by the plaintiff whose application under O. 21, R.97, C.P. Code, was dismissed in his absence on his failure to appear when the case was called out, is therefore not governed by that article. 26 C.W.N. 853; 39 Ind. Cas. 797; 44 B. 515 and 41 Ind. Cas. 640, foll. 28 Pat. 828=A.I.R. 1950 Pat. 25.

——Art. 11-A—Order without investigation.

Article 11-A, refers to a suit by a person against whom an order has been made under C.P. Code (amongst others) upon an application by a person dispossessed of immovable property in the delivery of possession thereof to the decree-holder or purchaser. But the order must be one which has been passed after some investigation. Article 11-A does not apply to an order under O. 21, R. 101, C. P. Code which has been passed without any investigation. 68 Ind. Cas. 524=26 C.W.N. 853=35 C.L.J. 537=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 229.

——Art. 11-A—Order without investigation.

If an application under O. 21, R. 100, is dismissed without investigation, the person dispossessed is not bound to bring a suit to establish his right to possession within one year under Art. 11-A. 41 Ind. Cas. 640 (Mad.)

9. Parties to suit.

——Art. 11-A—Parties to suit.

Where parties arrayed on opposite sides are parties to a suit within S. 47, C.P. Code, neither R. 103 nor Art. 11-A applies. 105 Ind. Cas. 414=39 M.L.T. 281=A.I.R 1937 Mad. 952.

10. Purchaser of co-parcener's share.

——Art. 11-A—Purchaser of co-parcener's share—Suit for partition.

Certain properties were purchased in Court sale as it belonging to the judgment-debtor who was a member of a co-parcenary and the purchaser got delivery. At the instance of other members it was held that the judgment-debtor had only a share and the properties were delivered back to the members. In a suit for partition and possession of the judgment-debtor's share instituted more than one year from the date of the order as to re-delivery:

Held, that the suit was not barred under Art. 11-A. 95 Ind. Cas. 209=49 Mad. 596=23 M.L.W. 551=A.I.R. 1926 Mad. 683=50 M.L.J. 681.

11. Resistance to auction-purchaser.

——Art. 11-A—Resistance to auction-purchaser—Suit for a lessor share.

Where the auction-purchaser claims entire possession of a house and his entire claim is resisted and the Court decides against him, a suit for possession of only a portion of the house is governed by Art. 11-A. 60 Ind. Cas. 905=19 A.L.J. 53=A.I.R. 1921 All. 92.

12. Starting point of limitation.

——Art. 11-A—Starting point of limitation,

When the High Court has refused to interfere with an order passed in a claim case, the period of limitation provided for by Art. 11-A, for a suit under O. 21, R. 103, Civil P.C., would run from the date of order in the claim case and not from the date of the High Court's order discharging the rule. A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 225=23 Pat. 14=11 B.R. 243=218 Ind. Cas. 75.

——Art. 11-A—Starting point of limitation.

The word "order" in Art. 11-A should be construed as meaning the final or subsisting order in the case. The period of one year runs under Art. 11-A from the time when the Appellate Court passed its order. But a somewhat different consideration would apply if a revision-petition presented by an unsuccessful party in a claim proceeding is rejected by the superior Court. If the High Court, in the exercise of its powers under S. 115, Civil P. C., refuses to interfere in a claim case, it merely amounts to an abstention from exercising jurisdiction and the only final order that remains subsisting is the order passed by the trial Court. It may be otherwise where the High Court interferes in revision with the original decision. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 577=68 C.L.J. 261=42 C. W. N. 1051=179 Ind. Cas. 40.

——Art. 11-A—Starting point of limitation.

An application under O. 21, R. 100, Civil P.C. was dismissed. The applicant preferred a petition to the Judicial Commissioner's Court under S. 115, Civil P. C., which was dismissed after notice to the other side. The applicant then filed a suit under O. 21, R. 103. The trial Court held that the suit was not barred and allowed it to proceed:

Held, (1) that the period of limitation for the suit began to run under Art. 11-A, from the date of dismissal of application under O. 21, R. 100 and not from the order passed in revision, and the suit was, therefore, barred. 27 N.L.R. 251=A.I.R. 1931 Nag. 17=130 Ind. Cas. 145.

——Art. 11-A—Starting point — Application for possession by execution purchaser—Rejection—Suit.

Where an execution purchaser who is not entitled to actual physical possession applies to be placed in possession and where his application is rejected, he must sue within one year of the order rejecting his application. 16 N.L.R. 103=24 C.W.N. 1001=(1920) M.W.N. 545=12 L.W. 408=2 P.L.T. 33=58 Ind. Cas. 21 (P.C.).

——Art. 11-A—Starting point — Dismissal of objection under O. 21, R. 103, C.P.C.

A person whose objection is dismissed under O. 21, R. 103, must sue for possession within one year of the order of dismissal under Art. 11-A of the Lim. Act. 103 P.L.R. 1916=96 P.W.R. 1916=36 Ind. Cas. 211.

——Art. 11-A—Starting point.

The nephew of the decree-holder purchased the house on 22nd September 1908. The judgment-debtor had sold another house to A to the decree-holder by which the decree was set aside. On the nephew's attempting to take possession the judgment-debtor's grandson resisted the nephew. The grandson's objection was disallowed on 26th February 1910. He then filed a suit on 26th, April 1910 to set aside the execution of sale. Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 11-A. 17 Ind. Cas. 591 (All.).

13. Subsequent dispossession.

——Art. 11-A—Subsequent dispossession.

Defendant No. 1 purchased the land in suit in execution of a mortgage decree and took delivery of the same through the Court. Thereupon the plaintiff, who claimed half of each of plots Nos. 1 to 3 and the entirety of plot No. 4 made an application under O. 21, R. 100. That application was dismissed on the 8th July, 1916. As plaintiff was found to be still in possession of the disputed plots of land, the plaintiff did not bring any suit for recovery of possession within a period of one year from 8th July, 1916. His suit was instituted on the 7th March, 1918 and his cause of action was that after the date of the order passed on the application under O. 21, R. 100, defendants Nos. 1 to 5 entered into a conspiracy and forcibly cut and took away the paddy reaped by the Bhag tenants of the plaintiff and thereby dispossessed the plaintiff.

Held, that Art. 11-A did not apply. 76 Ind. Cas. 407=38 C.L.J. 150=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 97.

——Art. 11-A—Subsequent dispossession.

Although it is undoubtedly true that a person claiming to get rid of the effect of an order under O. 21, R. 100, C.P.Code is bound to bring his suit for such a purpose within the period mentioned in Art. 11-A, he is not bound to do so when his dispossession has taken place, subsequent to the date of the order made on the application under O. 21, R. 100. Where his application under O. 21, R. 100 was dismissed on the ground that his possession had not been disturbed, as only symbolical possession was taken by his opponent. Time for a suit for recovery of possession, will in such a case run from the date of actual dispossession. 84 Ind. Cas. 876=50 Cal. 311=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 601.

——Art. 11-A—Subsequent dispossession.

P purchased N's share of family property. D purchased the entire property of the family of which N was a member and dispossessed P who thereupon applied under O 21, R. 100, C. P. Code for possession. The application was disallowed on 26th August, 1914 and P brought the present suit for possession on 30th November, 1915:

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation not having been brought within one year as required by Art. 11-A of the Limitation Act from the date of the order disallowing the application under O. 21, R. 100, C.P.Code. 59 Ind. Cas. 772 (Cal.).

14. Suit for possession.

——Art. 11-A—Suit for possession.

A suit for possession after the execution purchaser's application for actual possession has been disallowed is barred if brought more than one year after the date the application is disallowed. 58 Ind. Cas. 21=24 C.W.N. 1001=16 N.L.R. 103=12 M.L.W. 408=1920 M.W.N. 545=2 P.L.T. 33 (P.C.).

15. Third party—Suit against.

——Art. 11-A—Third party—Suit for declaration against.

Art. 11-A applies to a decree-holder and his suit for declaration of his right against third person must be brought within a year after the order of the execution Court. 68 Ind. Cas. 241=44 All. 607=20 A.L.J. 578=A.I.R. 1922 All. 403.

1. Applicability.

——Art. 12—Applicability—Suit for declaration.

Art. 12 has no application to a case where the plaintiff merely asks for a declaration that, notwithstanding the sale, his interest in the property is not affected by the sale and the confirmation thereof. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 386=23 P.L.T. 364=202 Ind. Cas. 57.

——Art. 12—Applicability—Suit for declaration.

A suit for a mere declaration that the plaintiff's interests are not affected by it, is not governed by Art. 12. 7 B.R. 770=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 490=194 Ind. Cas. 435.

——Art. 12—Applicability—Suit for declaration.

Art. 12 provides the period of limitation for a suit to set aside a sale. It does not apply to a suit for a declaration that the plaintiff's interest in the holding has not been affected by the sale. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 333=45 C.W.N. 277=I.L.R. (1941) Cal. 339=199 Ind. Cas. 403.

——Art. 12—Applicability—Suit for declaration —Limitation when consequential relief is also prayed for.

The Limitation Act protects bona fide purchasers at judicial sales by providing a short limit of time within which such suits may be brought to set them aside. If the protection is to be confined to suits which seek no other relief than a declaration that the sale ought to be set aside, and is to vanish directly some other relief consequent on the annulment of the sale is sought, the protection is exceedingly small. There is no justification for refusing to construe Art. 12 (a) according to its obvious meaning whenever a suitor goes on to pray for that relief which is the object, perhaps the only object of setting aside the sale. 13 C. 309 ref. to. (1900) 5 C.W.N. 10=2 Bom. L.R. 927=10 M.L.J. 368=25 B. 337=27 I.A. 216 (P.C.)

——Art. 12—Applicability—Suit to set aside sale in execution of a decree against third party.

Where plaintiff sued for a declaration that a certain property sold in execution of a decree against the guardian was not liable to sale and that the attachment was void, the suit is not governed by Art. 12. (1916) 2 U.B.R. 116=10 Bur. L.T. 225=36 Ind. Cas. 3.

——Art. 12—Applicability of.

Where in execution of a decree of A against B C purchased a house and three days before it B sold another house to A and when C attempted to get possession, he was resisted by one D but D's objection was disallowed and he brought a suit to set aside the auction sale. Held, that the suit was governed by the Art. 11-A and not by Art. 12. 17 Ind. Cas. 591 (All.)

——Art. 12—Applicability—Suit to establish right to property sold in execution.

Where an intervenor claims a share of attached property, the court should define the respective shares of the debtor and the intervenor, and sell the debtor's definite share only. If the court omits to do so, and sells the attached property subject to the intervenor's claim, this is no valid order under Ss. 280, 281 or 282 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and the limitation of one year for a suit under S. 283 of the Code does not apply. 4 W.R 35, Foll. 1905 A.W.N. 49=2 A.L.J. 178=27 A. 464.

2. Redemption suit.

——Art. 12—Redemption suit—Property sold in Court auction.

A mortgagee got the mortgaged property sold under his decree without impleading the sons of the mortgagor who brought a suit for redemption of the mortgage more than one year after the confirmation of the sale:

Held, that a suit for redemption does not lie unless the plaintiffs ask for a decree for setting aside the auction sale which remedy is barred to them under Art. 12. 116 Ind. Cas. 548=10 P.L.T. 214=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 323.

——Art. 12—Redemption suit.

A suit for possession of property sold in execution of a decree on the ground that the sale was a nullity need not be brought within one year of the sale. 11 C.W.N. 1078, Diss: 14 C.L.J. 530. Foll. Art. 12 does not apply to a suit for redemption where it is not necessary to set aside the decree or the sale thereunder. 35 Ind. Cas. 404 (Pat).

——Art. 12—Redemption suit.

In execution of a money decree against the mortgagor, a mortgagee in possession of the mortgaged property sold and himself became the purchaser at the court sale. More than a year after this an assignee of the mortgagor sued the mortgagee for redemption. The lower courts threw out the claim on the ground that it was barred under Art 12 of the Limitation Act, and S. 244, C.P.C. Held, (1) that the suit was not barred under Art. 12 of the Limitation Act, since under Ss. 67 and 99, T.P.A. the sale itself was invalid and could confer no right on the mortgagee purchaser, and it was therefore not incumbent on the mortgagor to bring a suit to set aside the sale; (2) that S. 244, C.P.C. (O.C.). had no application to the plaintiff who was not a party to the previous suit. 5 Bom. L.R. 952.

——Art. 12—Redemption suit.

A sale of mortgaged property in contravention of S. 99 of the T.P. Act is a voidable one and if not avoided within the time prescribed, the right to redeem is extinguished. 32 M.L.J. 525=19 M.L.T. 121=5 M.L.W. 242=32 Ind. Cas. 611.

——Art. 12—Redemption suit.

Where a mortgagee obtains a money decree against the mortgagor on account of arrears of interest due, on the mortgage amount and purchases the mortgaged property in execution of his decree, held, that the sale was only a voidable one and that the failure of the mortgagor to set it aside within the time fixed by Art. 12 of the Lim. Act extinguished his right of redemption. 14 Bom. L.R. 254=14 Ind. Cas. 780.

3. Sale requiring confirmation.

——Art. 12—Sale requiring confirmation.

For the purposes of Art. 12, in the case of a sale that requires confirmation, time begins to run from the date of the confirmation and in other cases from the date on which the sale becomes otherwise final. 13 C.L.J. 339=10 Ind. Cas. 87.

4. Starting point of limitation.

——Art. 12—Starting point of limitation.

A decree was obtained against a lady governed by Alivasanthana Law. The lady died leaving the plaintiffs, her minor children. An officer of the Court was appointed to act as their guardian and property belonging to them was sold in execution. The plaintiffs instituted a suit to set aside the sale almost at the expiry of twelve years from the date of sale:

Held, that even assuming that the circumstances connected with the appointment of a Court guardian might have entitled the minors to question the sale, they must have taken the necessary proceedings within the one year allowed by Art. 12 subject to such extension of time as they may get under S. 6, as the sale was only voidable and not a nullity. (1935) M.W.N. 964=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1085=158 Ind. Cas. 874.

——Art. 12—Starting point of limitation—Application converted into suit.

The permission given to convert the original application into a suit relates back to the date when the original application was filed. Merely because the court fee was paid later does not mean that the suit must be deemed to be instituted on that date.

Where, therefore, an application under O. 21, R. 100 of Civil P. C was filed on January 13, 1931 and it was later converted into an application under S. 47 on July 22, 1933, and later still converted into a plaint in a regular suit on September 29, 1933, it was held that the suit was filed on the date of the application under O. 21, R. 100, i e., on January 13, 1931 and not on September 29, 1933, the date of the permission given to convert the application into a suit. 47 Bom. L.R. 330=A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 409.

——Art. 12—Starting point.

Time under Art. 12 runs from the date of the final confirmation of the sale. So long as the sale is under consideration of the revenue authorities, it cannot be said to have been confirmed and become final and conclusive. 100 Ind. Cas. 997=45 C.L. J. 73=31 C.W.N. 299=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 315.

5. Void sale.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Sale in excess of area directed by mortgage-decree —Suit to recover possession—Limitation. See C. P. Code, S. 47. 52 Bom. L.R. 358=A.I.R. 1950 Bom. 346.

——Art. 12—Void or illegal sale.

Where the order for sale is illegal, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to bring a suit to set aside the sale and he is entitled to wait until the sale is either attempted to be enforced or enforced against him. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 501 = (1943) 1 M. L. J. 386=56 M.L.W. 383=(1943) M.W.N. 445=213 Ind. Cas. 255.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Art. 12 has no application when the transaction in question is a nullity. In that case it is unnecessary to set it aside. The plaintiff is entitled to bring a suit to set aside the decree and if he succeeds in that suit, the decree being a nullity it must follow that the sale in consequence of it was a nullity also. If the sale was a nullity, it cannot avail the auction-purchaser that he was a bona fide purchaser without notice of the defects in the proceedings. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 288= 45 Bom. L.R. 553=I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 400=212 Ind. Cas. 205.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Art. 12 does not apply to void sales. It applies only to cases where the plaintiff was a party to the proceedings in which the sale was held. The Court has no jurisdiction to sell the property of persons who are not parties to the proceedings or properly represented on the record and as against such persons, the sale will be a nullity. A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 120=1941 O.W.N. 1328 =17 Luck. 456=198 Ind. Cas. 107.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Where a sale held in execution of a rent decree was valid, Art. 12 applies but if the sale is a nullity, there is no occasion to set it aside. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 490=194 Ind. Cas. 435.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Art. 12 would apply only if the sale is held to be binding on the plaintiffs. If the plaintiff's interest is, on the other hand, found not to have been sold or the sale is held to be void against them, this article cannot be permitted to stand in their way and they will be entitled to the relief claimed by them. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 867=I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 123=(1939) M.W.N. 918=50 M.L.W. 472=187 Ind. Cas. 816.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Where certain property sold was shown in the bid sheet to be the property exclusively belonging to the judgment-debtor, but at the time of the sale the title to the property sold was not in the judgment-debtor but in another;

Held, that the sale was a nullity and it was not necessary to set it aside and therefore, Art. 12 had no application. (1935) O.W.N. 800=A.I.R. 1935 P.C. 139 =42 M.L.W. 270=16 P.L.T. 589=I B R. 832=14 Pat. 611=(1935) M.W.N. 841=39 C.W.N. 1124=37 Bom. ——Art. 12—Void sales.

Where the sale is in fact a nullity, no question of limitation under Art. 12 does arise. 113 Ind. Cas.. 725 =50 All. 686=26 A.L. J. 716=A.I.R. 1928 All. 963.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

Where the sale is a nullity, no question of limitation arises. A.I.R. 1924 Cal 638. Foll. 105 Ind. Cas. 193 =54 Cal. 624=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 781.

——Art. 12—Void sale.

When the sale under the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act, is a nullity, there is no need to set it aside, and S. 33 of the Sales Act and Art. 12 of the Limitation Act are not applicable to such a sale. 90 Ind. Cas. 40=42 C.L. J. 69=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 1148.

——Art. 12 and Ss. 26 and 28—Void sale—Suit to set aside revenue sale- Limitation for defence that revenue sale is void—Revenue sale and Civil Court sale.

While a suit for a declaration that land was free from payment of assessment was pending, the land was sold under a decree for arrears of assessment by the Revenue Court. Plaintiff the owner of the land, however, remained in possession and obtained a decree in the same Court declaring the land free from assessment about the time of the sale by the Revenue Court. In a suit by the vendee of the auction-purchaser at the Revenue sale plaintiff pleaded as a defendant that the revenue sale was void and gave no right to the auction-purchaser:

Held, that the defence was not prohibited by the law of limitation though the owner of the land could not file a suit after a year from the sale by the Revenue Court.

Held, further, that the revenue sale was not valid under the circumstances. 22 Bom. L.R. 1082=59 Ind. Cas. 118.

——Art. 12—Void sale—Setting aside.

A suit for a declaration that the sale in execution proceedings was fraudulent and cannot affect the rights of the plaintiff in respect of the properties sold is not barred though brought more than a year after the sale. 24 Ind. Cas. 695 (All.).

——Art. 12—Void sale.

A sale in execution which is null and void for want of jurisdiction or for any other cause or where it does not affect a stranger's interest need not be set aside and a suit is not governed by Art. 12 even though it has indirectly the effect of setting it aside. 13 O.C. 297=8 Ind.Cas. 374.

6. Art. 12 (a)—Applicability.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability — Suit by unsuccessful claimant.

Art. 12 is not applicable to a suit by an unsuccessful claimant against a purchaser in Court sale as the plaintiff does not sue in such a case to set aside the sale nor is it necessary for him to do so. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 10=34 P.L.R. 468=140 Ind. Cas. 534 (2).

——Art. 12 (a) —Applicability.

The period of limitation applicable to a suit for possession of property sold in execution of a decree is prescribed by Art. 12. 1 Lah. 27=55 Ind. Cas. 833.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability — Decree-holder purchasing without permission.

Where the decree-holder buys without permission or where he has applied and been refused the permission the sale is voidable only and not void. Art. 12 applies, and the suit must be brought within one year. 67 Ind. Cas. 914=16 M.L.W. 190=3 Pat. L.T. 529=31 M.L.T. 209=49 I.A. 312=1 Pat. 733=21 A.L.J. 23=27 C.W.N. 294=37 C.L.J. 430=25 Bom.L.R. 630=A.I.R. 1922 P.C. 336=44 M.L.J. 718 (P.C.)

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability.

Where the debt by the father is found not to have been due or to have been incurred for purposes which were immoral or illegal, a decree obtained in respect of such a transaction would not bind the sons and the sale held in execution could not be held to be binding on them so as to necessitate a prayer for setting it aside particularly when the property was purchased by either the decree-holder himself or even by a stranger having knowledge of the circumstances in which the debt was contracted. Art. 12 has application to such a case. A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 867=I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 123=(1939) M.W.N. 918=50 M.L.W. 472=187 Ind. Cas. 816.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability—Execution sale.

A suit to set aside the sale must be brought within one year from confirmation of the sale under Art. 12 (a), Sch. I, Limitation Act. A. I. R. 1922 P.C. 336, Foll. 101 Ind. Cas. 89=A. I. R. 1927 Mad. 1135.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability.

Art. 12 applies to suits brought by parties to the decree which resulted in the sale or by parties to the proceedings in which the sale took place or by persons claiming through them and does not apply to suits brought by persons who are not bound by the sale. Nor does the article affect a defence set up by a party in possession. 67 Ind. Cas. 894 (Lah.)

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability—Execution sale—Suit to set aside.

Art. 12 of the Limitation Act governs suits to set aside sales in execution cases after an attachment of the property in the judgment-debtor's life-time but without being properly represented by his heirs after his death, as such sales are voidable and not void, at the heir's instance. 23 O. C. 218=58 Ind. Cas. 549.

——Art. 12 (a) and S. 6—Applicability—Sale in execution of mortgage decree against minor—Suit for possession by latter alleging gross negligence of guardian ad litem—Limitation.

Where the property of a minor was sold in execution of a mortgage decree passed against him during his minority, and a suit was brought by him after attaining majority for its possession, on the ground of the guardian ad litem's negligence:

Held, that sale under a mortgage decree was a sale in execution of a decree under Art. 12 (a) of the Limitation Act that before the plaintiff could obtain the relief regarding the possession of the suit property he was bound to sue for cancellation of the sale for which limitation provided under Art. 12 (a) was one year and that, therefore, a suit instituted more than one year after the plaintiff attained majority was clearly barred by time. A.I.R. 1949 E. P. 20.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability—Minors.

A suit brought by the son after attaining majority for setting aside the sale of his share in Court auction in execution of a decree against the father is governed by Art. 12. 98 Ind. Cas. 31=24 M.L.W. 475=1926 M.W.N. 767=A. I. R. 1926 Mad. 1190=51 M.L.J. 845.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability—Minor.

Where minor is represented by a duly appointed guardian, the decree is not ab initio void and Art. 10, Limitation Act, will apply to set it aside. 92 Ind. Cas. 241=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 267.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability—Minor — Where no proper appointment of guardian made.

In execution proceedings against a minor son of the judgment-debtor the application for the appointment of a guardian of the minor was not accompanied with an affidavit and the guardian did not appear and act for the minor and certain property of the minor was sold. After attaining majority the minor brought a suit to set aside the execution sale:

Held, as the application for the appointment of guardian was not made in accordance with O. 32, R. 3 (3), the minor was no party to the execution proceedings and hence the suit to set aside the sale is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 12. 67 Ind. Cas. 547=5 L. L. J. 44=A. I. R. 1922 Lah. 447.

——Arts. 12 (a)—Applicability and 144—Deft. a minor—Decree against—Sale of property in execution—Suit to recover property.

Where a minor deft. is not properly represented a decree passed against him is a nullity and the Court has no power to sell the minor's property in execution of that decree. If such a sale takes place the minor can recover the property from the auction-purchaser and the Article applicable is 144 and not Art. 12. 113 P.R. 1918=48 Ind. Cas. 399.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability— Suit by minor.

According to Art. 12 a suit by minor to set aside his sale must be brought within one year from the date of the plff.'s majority. 30 P.W.R. 1918=40 P.L.R. 1918=43 Ind. Cas. 712.

——Art. 12 (a) — Applicability—Execution sale —Deft. minor—Notice on guardian ad litem.

A suit to set aside an execution sale, brought after one year, after the date of sale, is barred though it appeared that at the date of passing the decree the deft. was minor but became sui juris at the time of execution proceedings, notice of which was served not on him but on the guardian ad litem. 39 Mad. 1031=19 M.L.T. 93=32 Ind. Cas. 391.

——Arts. 12 (a) and 166—Applicability—Execution sale—Death of judgment-debtor—Minor representative not properly represented - Suit to set aside sale.

A judgment-debtor died after decree and during the execution proceedings his widows, one of whom a major and the other a minor, were brought on record as legal representatives. The major widow had no subsisting interest at the time of the proceedings and the minor was not represented by a proper guardian. The properties were sold for a grossly low price and purchased by a decree-holder. In a suit by the minor widow after attaining majority for the recovery of the possession of property, held, that the suit having been instituted within three years of the plff.'s majority was in time. Neither Art. 12 nor Art. 166 had any application to the case. 38 Mad. 1076=28 M.L.J. 525=29 Ind. Cas. 314.

——Arts. 12 (a) and 144—Applicability—Suit by objector.

An objector who is not a party to the decree in execution of which the sale took place and whose title to the immovable properties is not denied, can sue for possession against the auction-purchaser, under Art. 144. His suit is not governed by Art. 12. 203 P.L.R. 1911=15 P.R. 1912 =252 P.W.R. 1911=11 Ind. Cas. 76.

——Art. 12 (a)—Applicability—Suit by third party.

Where the plaintiff in a suit for possession of property sold in execution of a decree was the original owner of the property and was not a party to the decree under which the sale took place nor a representative of any of the parties and was consequently in a position to ignore the sale altogether:

Held, Art.12 has no application and the suit falls under Art. 144. Art. 91 also is not applicable, as it provides for the cancellation or setting aside of an instrument not otherwise provided for and it binds only the parties to the instrument and not strangers. (15 P. R. 1912). 71 Ind. Cas. 822= A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 396.

7. Fraudulent confirmation.

——Arts. 12 (a) and 95—Fraudulent confirmation—Suit to set aside execution sale.

A suit to set aside an execution sale based on allegations of fraud regarding the confirmation of sale, is governed not by Art. 95 but by Art. 12 of the Limitation Act. Whether a suit instituted is for setting aside a sale or not is to be decided not from the form of the relief but from a consideration of substance of the relief sought for by the plaintiff. When the sale is only voidable at the instance of the plaintiff, he cannot avoid the application of Art. 12 by seeking reliefs which though different are inconsistent with the validity of the sale. A. I. R. 1950 H.P. 1.

8. Fraudulent decree and sale.

——Art. 12 (a)—Fraudulent decree and sale.

Even a sale in execution of a fraudulent decree is operative unless it is set aside within one year, since the decree is not set aside, is valid. 20 C. W. N. 659=33 Ind Cas. 767.

9. Fraud.

——Art. 12 (a)—Fraud—Execution sale—Suit to set aside.

Where in pursuance of a compromise decree passed against one of several administrators of an estate property belonging to the estate is sold, a suit to set aside the sale must be brought within one year from the date of the sale and if fraud is alleged, within one year from the date of fraud. The sale is binding on all persons interested in the estate including the co-administrators in the absence of fraud. It is of the greatest importance that sales made under the authority of the Court should not be lightly set aside. 1 M. L. W. 1033=(1914) M.W.N. 921=17 M.L.T. 18=26 Ind. Cas. 369.

10. Hindu law.

——Art. 12(a)—Hindu law—Mitakshara—Mortgage decree against father.

Where in an execution of a decree against the father of a joint Hindu family, property has been sold the sons cannot claim to redeem without setting aside the sale within the time prescribed by Art. 12. 1 Pat. L. J. 180=2 Pat.L.W. 413=34 Ind. Cas. 288.

——Art. 12 (a)—Hindu law—Sale of property of joint family.

Obiter.—A suit for redemption of property which was sold in execution of a decree against a joint family which was effectively represented in the suit, is barred if no suit to set aside the execution sale is brought within one year of the sale. 1 Pat. L.W. 197=(1917) P.H.C.C. 113=37 Ind. Cas. 833.

11. Sale proclamation falsely drawn up.

——Arts. 12 (a), 95 and 120—Sale proclamation falsely drawn up — Remedy of auction-purchaser.

A sale proclamation falsely drawn up described the judgment-debtor to have absolute proprietary right in the property. The auction-purchaser not knowing the facts, purchased the property. On learning the true facts, he sued for cancelling the sale and refund of the purchase money. The decree-holder pleaded among other points that the suit is barred by Art. 12. Held, the suit was within time being governed by Art. 95. 34 Mad. 143=8 M.L.T. 154=(1910) M.W.N. 286=7 Ind. Cas. 60.

12. Sale under mortgage-decree.

——Art. 12 (a)—Sale under mortgage-decree.

A sale ordered by a mortgage-decree is a sale in execution of a decree within the meaning of that expression in Art. 12 (a). A. I. R. 1942 Oudh 33=1941 O.W.N. 1079=17 Luck. 1=196 Ind. Cas. 457.

13. Sale of property wrongly.

——Art. 12 (a)—Sale of property wrongly.

Where plaintiff's property is wrongly sold in Court sale owing to his own mistake, a suit for recovery of the property from its auction-purchaser is governed by Art. 12 of the Act. 67 Ind. Cas. 857=24 Bom. L.R. 423=46 Bom. 914=A.I.R. 1923 Bom. 62.

14. Sale of wrong property.

——Art. 12 (a)—Sale of wrong property.

Where in execution of a decree for sale of the mortgaged property certain property of the judgment-debtor (other than the mortgaged property) was wrongly included in the auction-sale, and the judgment-debtor knew nothing of the sale, his suit to recover possession of the property sold in excess of the decree would not be barred by O. 21, R. 92, nor would it be barred by limitation since the sale being a nullity, as it was not justified by the decree, no question of limitation under Art. 12 would arise. 119 Ind. Cas. 852=A. I. R. 1929 All. 673.

15. Miscellaneous.

——Art. 12 (a)—Miscellaneous—One of two mortgagors not made party for want of notice—Suit by the non-impleaded for recovery of property after sale—Limitation.

See Transfer of property Act, S. 85. 11 C.W.N. 1078=6 C.L. J. 719.

16. Art. 12 (b)—Applicability.

——Art. 12 (b)—Applicability.

See Madras Estates Land Act, Ss. 8 and 149. (1946) 1 M.L.J. 291=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 461.

——Art. 12 (b)—Applicability.

Art. 12 (b), does not apply to sales under the Madras Estates Land Act. 34 M.L.W. 94=61 M.L.J. 203=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 724=134 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 12 (b)—Applicability—Madras Estates Land Act, S. 118.

A sale under S. 118 of the Madras Estates Land Act is not a sale in pursuance of a decree or order of the Collector or other officer of revenue and consequently, a suit to set aside the sale is not governed by Art. 12 of the Limitation Act. 100 Ind. Cas. 1007=38 M.L.T. 333=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 488=52 M.L.J. 390.

——Art. 12 (b)—Applicability—Madras Estates Land Act, S. 131.

As a sale becomes final, in the absence of any application under S. 131, Estates Land Act, within 30 days after the date of sale, a suit to set aside the sale brought more than one year after such date is barred by limitation. 76 Ind. Cas. 840=19 M.L.W. 81=33 M.L.T. 201=1924 M.W.N. 37=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 278=45 M.L.J. 840.

17. Fraudulent confirmation of sale.

——Art. 12 (b)—Fraudulent confirmation of sale.

A suit for possession of land and the right to ask for a declaration that a sale under the Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act has been fraudulently confirmed is clearly not a suit under the Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act. It is governed by Limitation Act, Art. 95. 96 Ind. Cas. 529=5 Pat. 759=1926 P.H.C.C. 225=8 P.L.T. 124=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 401.

18. Mad. Act VII of 1865.

——Art. 12 (b)—Mad. Act VII of 1865—Suit to set aside rent sale—Necessary party.

In a suit to set aside a rent sale under S. 39 of Act VII of 1865 (Mad.) the person at whose instance the sale was brought about is not a necessary party and the joinder of such person as party more than one year from the date of the sale, will not enable the Court to dismiss the suit as barred under Art. 12 (b) of the Lim. Act. 38 Mad. 837=26 M.L.J. 239 = 1 M.L.W. 212=(1914) M.W.N. 236=22 Ind. Cas. 826.

19. Art. 12 (c)—Abkari sale.

——Art. 12 (c)—Abkari sale—Suit to enforce mortgage on property.

A suit to enforce a mortgage on property sold under S. 28 of the Madras Abkari Act is not governed by Art. 12. 28 M. 420.

20. Applicability.

——Art. 12 (c)—Applicability—Award under Bombay Co-operative Societies Act—Sale by Collector under S. 59 (1) (b) of latter Act—Limitation for suit to set aside.

Art. 12 (c) of the limitation Act applies both to sales for arrears of Government Revenue and also to sales for any demand recoverable as such arrears, e. g., a sale by the Collector in execution of an award under S. 59 (1) (b) of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act. The limitation for a suit to set aside such sale is one year from the date of confirmation of the sale. 48 Bom. L.R. 610=231 Ind. Cas. 131=A.I.R. 1947 Bom. 144.

——Art. 12 (c)— Applicability — Sale for Government revenue—Suit to set aside—Compromise—Subsequent suit for possession.

Where lands of the plaintiffs were sold for arrears of Government revenue and plaintiff in a suit to have the sale set aside on the ground of fraud compromised the claim with the purchaser and more than three years after date of the compromise sued for possession of the lands on a declaration of their title, held, that the suit was barred by Art. 12 (c) of the Lim. Act. 23 Ind. Cas. 240 (Cal.)

——Art. 12 (c)—Applicability—Execution sale —Collateral attack.

A sale (in this case under the Revenue Recovery Act) by the court cannot be attacked either directly or collaterally after the period of limitation. Thus irregularities in the sale cannot be availed of to ignore the sale after the period of limitation. 38 Mad. 356=13 M.L.T. 498=(1913) M.W.N. 581=25 M.L.J. 303 =19 Ind. Cas. 694.

——Arts. 12 (c), 95, 120—Applicability—Joint owner—Certificate of sale, setting aside—Fraud—Recovery of property.

Where the notice required by S. 10 of the Public Demands Recovery Act has not been served, the certificate has not the effect of a decree and a suit to set aside a sale on such a certificate is not governed by Art. 12 but by Art. 120. Where the sale is sought to be set aside on the ground of fraud, and fraud is established, the article applicable to the suit is Art. 95 and not Art 12. This is none the less so because the plaintiff may, from an entirely different stand point, be entitled to the benefit of S. 18. Where a plaintiff, one of several co-sharers, has lost his property by reason of the fraud of his co-sharers, who have purchased the property, the sale need not be formally set aside, but the plaintiff may obtain relief by getting the property reconveyed to him. Art. 95 would apply to a suit of this description. 5 C.L.J. 385=34 Cal. 241.

——Art. 12 (c) — Applicability — Sale under revenue sale law.

A suit by a minor to set aside a sale under the Revenue Sale Law is governed by Art. 12 even though the plaintiff be a minor and S. 77 of the Lim. Act, 1877 does not help the plaintiff. 13 C.W.N. 518=4 Ind. Cas. 70.

21. Art. 12 (d)—Patni sale.

——Art. 12 (d)—Patni sale—Adults—Suit by minor to set aside.

It is open to a sharer of a patni taluk to sue alone to set aside the whole auction sale of it on the ground that it is illegal, fraudulent and without jurisdiction. Where such a suit was filed more than a year after the sale by two minor co-parceners and some other adult co-sharers, held, that the suit at the instance of the two minor plaintiffs would not be barred and S. 8 of the Lim. Act, 1877 had no application to the case. 14 C.W.N. 128=11 C.L.J. 34=2 Ind. Cas. 77.

——Art. 13—Applicability—Certificate sale—Objection to—Order rejecting — Subsequent suit for declaration—Limitation.

Art. 13 of the Limitation Act applies to decisions or orders of a certificate officer under the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act. A suit under S. 37 of the Act for a declaration is governed by Art. 13 and not Art. 12. I.L.R. (1950) Cut. 120=A.I.R. 1950 Orissa 140=16 C.L.T. 45.

——Art. 13—Applicability.

When the Insolvency Court makes an order for sale under S. 4 (3), Provincial Insolvency Act without deciding the question of title, a suit for declaration of title to the property brought in a Civil Court is not governed by Art. 13. 36 C.W.N. 621=A.I.R. 1933 Cal. 263=143 Ind. Cas. 475.

——Arts. 13 and 11—Attachment under O. 38, R. 8, C. P. Code—Property released.

A suit to recover property released from attachment under O. 38, R. 8 is not governed by Art. 11 or 13, such a suit not being one to set aside an order of Civil Court within Art. 13 and therefore the existence of the order releasing the attachment before judgment, does not bar the suit. 41 Mad. 23=5 L.W. 704=39 Ind. Cas. 863.

——Art. 13—Decision or order, what is—Proceedings under Presy. Small Cause Courts Act, Ch. 7.

Orders passed under Chap. 7 of the Presy. Small Cause Courts Act cannot be regarded as a "decision or order" on the question of title. In a subsequent suit against an order under that chapter, there is no necessity to alter or set aside any such "decision or order." Consequently, Art. 13 has no application. The article applicable may be Art. 120 or Art. 144. 115 Ind. Cas. 504=29 M.L.W. 537=1929 M.W.N. 174=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 69=56 M.L.J. 199.

——Art. 13—Execution of decree—Attachment of house sold—Suit by vendee—Attachment withdrawn—Suit by vendee against vendor.

The deft. sold a house to plaintiff in 1910 and himself remained in possession as plaintiff's lessee. A creditor of the deft. attached the house and then plaintiff applied to raise the attachment under O. 21. The application was rejected on the ground that the sale by deft. to plaintiff was fraudulent. Against this order plaintiff filed a suit on 15-8-16 but it was withdrawn owing to a compromise between deft. and his creditor. The attachment was also withdrawn. On 25-5-17 plaintiff filed the present suit for possession and arrears of rent. Held, the suit is not barred by time as the attachment being withdrawn there was no longer any attachment to operate against him and the deft. not being a party to the attachment proceedings, the parties were in the same position as before the attachment. 22 Bom. L.R. 1446= 59 Ind. Cas. 774.

——Art. 13—Order under S. 310-A, C.P.Code (1882).

A suit to set aside an order passed by a munsif under S. 310-A, C.P. Code, (1882), setting aside a sale in execution of a decree is governed by Art. 13 and not by Art. 120. 33 All. 182=7 A.L.J. 937=7 Ind. Cas. 503.

——Art. 13—Possession of immovable property,

Art. 13 does not govern a suit for possession of immovable property after establishment of title when an adverse order is made against plaintiff under S. 332, C.P. Code (1882), as the suit is one to establish plaintiff's right to the property. The suit is governed by Art. 142. 16 C.W.N. 971=14 Ind. Cas. 92.

——Art. 13—Starting point of limitation—Order appointing guardian.

The order appointing a guardian becomes final on the date on which it is passed and not on the date on which the security furnished is accepted and the period of limitation begins to run from the date of the order. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 170=41 P.L.R. 592.

——Art. 13—Suit for declaration of title—Where it is unnecessary to set aside an order.

Art. 13 has no application to a suit for a declaration of title based upon a purchase which has been incidentally held invalid in execution proceedings where there is no prayer for the altering or setting aside of the order. 60 Ind. Cas. 849=2 P.L.T. 345=6 P.L.J. 85=1921 P.H.C.C. 66=A.I.R. 1921 Pat. 1 (F.B.).

——Art. 13—Suit for possession of trust property.

Where the District Judge appointed a certain person not as "mutwalli" but only as person to perform the duties of "mutwalli" and a third person brought a suit for possession of the trust property:

Held, that the suit was not governed by Art. 13 as the suit was not one to alter or set aside the decision of the District Judge. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 529 =1941 O.W.N. 906=1941 A.W.R. 274=196 Ind. Cas. 787.

——Art. 13—Suit for refund of money distributed under S. 295, C. P. C., (Old).

An order for distribution under S. 295, C.P.C. (Old) is an order in a suit, and as such excluded from the operation of Art. 13. A suit for refund of money paid to the defendant under an order of court made under S.295, C.P.C., on the ground that the plaintiff was entitled to it in preference to the defendant, is not a suit to set aside the order of distribution, and is not governed by Art. 13. 15 B. 438, App. 3 Bom. L.R. 713=28 I.A. 203=5 C.W.N. 649=23 A. 313 (P.C.).

——Arts. 13, 14—Suit under S. 332, C.P. Code (Old) brought more than a year after the order passed under the section not barred.

On 21st November, 1900 an order was passed under S. 332 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882 awarding possession of certain property to defendants. The plaintiffs filed this suit on the 25th August 1905, under S.332 of the Code, to recover possession of the property from defendants. The suit was dismissed as having been barred under Art. 14. Held.—(1) that the suit was not barred under Art. 14. An order passed by a judge under S. 332 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, is not such an act or order as is referred to in Art. 14. A judge exercising his judicial functions is a civil court within the meaning of the Limitation Act and is no an officer of Government acting in his official capacity within the meaning of Art. 14. Held, (2) that Art. 13 also did not apply to the case, because an order passed under S. 332 restoring possession which has been given in execution of a decree is an order made by the court in execution proceedings, and is not an order of a civil court in a proceeding other than a suit. 10 Bom. L.R. 749.

1. "Act or order".

——Art. 14—"Act or order"—Preparation and submission of liquidation scheme—Sind Encumbered Estates Act, S. 17 (1).

The preparation and submission of a liquidation scheme in pursuance of S. 17 (1) of the Sind Encumbered Estates Act is a statutory duty and is neither an act nor an order within the meaning of Art. 14 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1947) Kar. 168=A.I.R. 1948 Sind 14.

2. Amendment or cancellation of settlement entries.

——Art. 14—Amendment or cancellation of settlement entries.

In the matter of limitation, a suit under S. 83 of the C.P. Land Revenue Act of 1881 for the amendment of Settlement entries is governed by Art. 14 Sch. I of the Limitation Act. A suit of this nature is to be filed within one year of the date on which the assessment is offered to the proprietors after the Record of Rights is "duly made and attested". 65 Ind. Cas. 970=5 N.L.J. 199=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 76.

——Art. 14—Amendment or cancellation of settlement entries—Settlement entry.

A suit for cancellation of a Settlement entry is governed by Art. 14, the period of limitation being one year from the date of the entry. 57 Ind. Cas. 319 (Nag.).

3. Applicability.

——Art. 14—Applicability—Suit for declaration of title to properties partitioned filed more than one year after date of order of partition.

The words 'set aside' as used in Art. 14 clearly imply that the order complained of is binding on the plaintiff unless and until it is set aside and the Article cannot have any application when it is not necessary for the plaintiff to set aside the act or order in order to obtain the relief which he claims.

Where the plaintiffs were not parties to the partition proceedings under S. 88, Estates Partition Act, and no notice of those proceedings was served upon them, nor was there any adjudication upon their claims on those proceedings, as strangers they cannot be affected in any manner by the decision of the revenue authorities for the partition of properties and there is, therefore, no order binding on them which is necessary to be set aside. Hence a suit by them for declaration of title to the properties partitioned filed more than one year after date of order of partition under S. 88 is competent and not barred under Art. 14. A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 480=49 C.W.N. 117=80 C.L.J. 252=I.L.R. (1945) 1 Cal. 466.

——Arts. 14 and 120—Applicability—Suit for possession of land resumed by Government under agreement.

Where a municipal corporation sues for possession of land resumed by Government under an agreement on the ground that it was not resumed for a public purpose, it must have the impediment of the order resuming the land removed within one year under Art. 14 of the Limitation Act. It cannot get round the act of the Government resuming the land by contending that the suit is not one for setting aside the official act but for recovery of possession. Assuming that Art. 14 does not apply, it is only the residuary Art. 120 which can apply to the suit and not Art. 142. 230 Ind. Cas. 311=A.I.R. 1947 Sind 69.

——Art. 14—Applicability—Sardeshmukhi right—Suit for recovery or dues.

Article 14 does not apply to a case where the plaintiff does not seek to set aside the order of any Govt. Officer but simply seeks recovery of his due percentage out of the villages by virtue of sardeshmukhi right. A.I.R. 1932 Bom. 319=34 Bom. L.R. 129=139 Ind. Cas. 796 (D.B.).

——Art. 14—Applicability—Suit to establish right to mortgage.

The limitation for a suit by a party against whom an order of dismissal has been made under S. 12, Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act under any of the sections enumerated, with a view to establish his rights in respect of the mortgage is one year under Art. 14. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 638=40 P.L.R. 886=181 Ind. Cas. 522.

——Art. 14—Applicability—Suit to establish right to mortgage.

Art. 14 has no application to a suit brought by a party in respect of the mortgage where his application under Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act has been dismissed by the Collector without considering the merits of the dispute. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 512=40 P.L.R. 245=181 Ind. Cas. 63.

——Art. 14—Applicability—Orders which must needs be set aside.

Art. 14 applies to acts or orders done in the exercise of powers legally exercised by the Executive and before it can be applied the order must be one which needs to be set aside. If in fact there is no provision of law for setting it aside Art. 14 cannot apply. An order in a mutation case directing mutation in the name of a particular person is not such an order and cannot be directly impugned in a civil suit though another person can show by a civil suit that he is the real owner of the property mutated and having established his claim in that suit can then go to Revenue authorities and ask that mutation be made in his name. 78 Ind. Cas. 987=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 142.

——Art. 14—Applicability.

Where the object of the suit is to recover possession of certain villages which were resumed by Government, the order of resumption should be treated as a nullity and Art. 14 therefore does not apply. 42 Mad. 673=37 M.L.J. 71=(1919) M.W.N. 730=9 M.L.W. 587=51 Ind. Cas. 366.

——Art. 14—Applicability.

One A was in possession of a graveyard for a number of years. On the Collector's passing an order directing A to hand over the property to B, A appealed to the Commissioner without success. A brought a suit that the property belonged to him and that the Government had no right or interest and for a perpetual injunction against the Secretary of State. Held, that the suit was virtually one to set aside the Collector's order and should have been brought within one year from that order. If the order was a nullity Art. 14 would not apply. 6 S.L.R. 210=19 Ind. Cas. 565.

——Art. 14—Applicability—Order under Revenue Jurisdiction Act.

Where the order of a Collector directing the ejectment of a person is appealable under the Rev. Jurisdiction Act a suit to set aside the order will not lie where the cause of action is only on that order. But where plaintiff is ejected a suit will lie as there is no appeal against the physical act of ejectment. Obiter.—Art. 14 does not apply to suits based upon title. 10 Ind. Cas. 223 (All.)

——Art. 14—Applicability—Order passed without jurisdiction.

An order passed without jurisdiction is a nullity and does not require to be set aside so as to make Art. 14 applicable. 10 C.L.J. 189=36 C. 726=1 Ind. Cas. 549.

——Arts. 14, 17, 18—Applicability.

Art. 14 does not apply to a suit for compensation for land acquired instituted on the refusal of the Collector to award compensation. Art. 17 obviously refers to a case in which the Collector fails to pay or deposit in court the amount awarded. Art. 18 applies only to suits for compensation for non-completion of and refusal to complete the acquisition. 11 C.W.N. 356=5 C.L.J. 669=34 C. 470.

——Art. 14—Applicability.

Art. 14 is applicable to acts done or orders passed in the exercise of powers legally exercisable by the executive, subject to conditions the fulfilment of which is denied by the party impugning the act or order or invested with no finality by the empowering enactment. An order entirely ultra vires of the Executive Government is a mere nullity and no suit is necessary to set it aside. 7 Bom. L.R. 497=29 B. 480.

——Art. 14.

Where the plaint as a whole is really with regard to the title to the land and does not seek to set aside any order of the Revenue Court. Art. 14 of Lim. Act has no application. One has to look to the real object of the suit. A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 50=7 B.R. 47=13 R.P. 260=190 Ind. Cas. 817.

4. Application for possession.

——Art. 14—Application for partition—Rejection of—Suit for declaration.

Plaintiffs applied for partition of the Shamilat property in 1908. The Revenue Officer rejected the application in 1909. In 1912 plaintiffs sued for a declaration of their title to a share in the shamilat. Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 120, and not by Art. 14. 150 P.L.R. 1916=136 P.W.R. 1916=47 P.R. 1916=34 Ind. Cas. 546.

5. Bengal Tenancy Act.

——Art. 14—Bengal Tenancy Act, S. 103—"Order of an officer of Government in his official capacity" — Order rejecting objection under S. 103, Bengal Tenancy Act, no order.

See Bengal Tenancy Act, S. 103. 11 C.W.N. 48.

——Arts. 14, 120—Bengal Tenancy Act, S. III—Settlement of rent by Settlement Officer—Suit for alteration of rent—Bengal Act I of 1895—Public Demands Recovery Act, S. 7—Certificate under—Suit to amend certificate—Nature of suit.

Where the rent payable by a tenant is fixed by Settlement Officer after inquiry and the land-lord is a ward of the Court of Wards, and a certificate is issued under S. 7 of Bengal Act I of 1895, the suit by a tenant to correct the amount of rent mentioned in the certificate and to receive the excess paid is really a suit for alteration of rent under S. 111 of Bengal Tenancy Act and is governed either by Art. 14 or Art. 120 of the Limitation Act. 28 C. 676.

6. Bombay Land Revenue Code.

——Art. 14 — Bombay Land Revenue Code—Order under Ss. 65 and 66—Possession for fifty years—No payment of revenue.

Where the plaintiffs had been in possession of the land in dispute for over fifty years without paying any assessment and the Deputy Collector acting under Ss. 65 and 66 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code ejected the plaintiffs. Held, in a suit by plaintiffs for possession that the order of the Deputy Collector was ultra vires and Art. 14 did not apply. 39 Bom. 494=17 Bom. L.R. 513 =29 Ind. Cas. 490.

——Art. 14—Bombay Land Revenue Code, S. 3.

If a Collector makes an order or commits an act of dispossession relating to private land acting under S. 3 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code, the order is a nullity and there will be no necessity to set aside such an order before proceeding to sue for recovery of possession as against the Government. 7 S.L.R. 169=24 Ind. Cas. 813.

7. C.P. Land Revenue Act.

——Arts. 14 and 120—C.P. Land Revenue Act, S. 83—Suit under.

A suit under S. 83 of the C.P. Land Revenue Act is governed not by Art. 14 but by Art. 120 of the Lim. Act. Though the section speaks of a suit as one to have an entry cancelled or amended it is a declaratory suit and the Civil Court can only declare that the entry is erroneous but cannot itself amend the record of rights. 19 C.W.N. 1303=21 C.L.J. 646=30 Ind. Cas. 61.

8. Chaukidari Chakran Lands.

——Art. 14 — Chaukidari Chakran Lands — Resumption and transfer—Presumption.

Per Mitra and Woodroffe, JJ. — When the plaintiff sues for the recovery of possession of land on the allegation that the land is Chaukidari Chakran land and lies within his zemindari and the Collector has transferred the same to him, he is bound in the first instance to prove so much of his case as has been denied or has not been admitted by the defendant. It being found that the land was not Chaukidari Chakran land and did not lie within the zemindari of the plaintiff, any transfer made by the Collector in his favour under S. 50 of the Act, is not authorised by the statute and does not confer any title on him. An order passed without jurisdiction need not be set aside and Art. 14 does not apply to such a case. An order of the Collector under S. 50 is of the nature of a vesting order and is not an order contemplated by Art. 14, and does not require to be set aside specially at the instance of one who was not a party to it. Such a party has no cause of action until his possession has been interfered with. Art. 14 cannot be invoked against a defendant defending his possession unless the law makes the order final by reason of its not being contested within the specified time. The mere fact that the Collector has made the transfer does not raise any presumption that the land was Chaukidari Chakran land and that the Collector acted within the statute. S. 114 of the Evidence Act has no application to such a case. 21 C. 626, 24 Bom. 435, foll.

Per Pargiter, J., contra.—Under S. 114 of the Evidence Act there is a presumption that the resumption was made legally and by S. 61 of the Chaukidari Act the resumption is final. The objection that the order of the Collector was illegal as the Collector had come to a wrong decision regarding the estate in which the land lay, is not valid as it is a question merely of an error in the decision of the Collector and not a question of jurisdiction. The defendant had his remedy by a suit to set aside the order of the Collector. Under Art. 14 and S. 22 of the Limitation Act the defendant's title has ceased to exist and he cannot set it up in defence. The Civil Court had no jurisdiction to go into the question of resumption and the transfer. The burden of proof lay on the defendant to show that the transfer which was admittedly made by the Collector under the Act and which must be presumed to have been made rightly was illegal. 32 C. 1107=2 C.L.J. 107.

——Art. 14—Chaukidari Chakran Lands—Decision of Collector as to.

Where the Collector holding that the Chaukidari Act was applicable to the plff.'s estate took proceedings in 1899 with a view to transfer the chaukidari chakran lands:

Held, Per Woodroffe, J.—That it may be a question whether the article applies at all having regard to 11 Bom. 429. Per Caspersz, J.—The Collector's order being a nullity and the lands transferred not being within his jurisdiction, the suit cannot be defeated because it was instituted more than one year after the date of the order. 15 C.W.N. 300, Foll. 14 C.L.J. 151=11 Ind. Cas. 899.

9. Declaration of Government grant.

——Art. 14—Declaration of Government grant—Fact of grant should be decided before applying the article.

Where in a suit for declaration that a land was inam land and the mittadar raised a plea that it was a ryoti land:

Held, that the question whether the land was under a grant, or ryoti land should be decided first, without deciding it, it cannot be said that since the order of the Inam Commissioner was not set aside within one year under Art. 14, the defendant is barred from raising the plea. 123 Ind. Cas. 341= A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 710.

10. Dispossession.

——Art. 14—Dispossession.

Where a person is dispossessed of immovable property by a public servant, it is not the order of the public servant that has to be set aside, but the right of the party to possession that has to be determined. And the party dispossessed is entitled to bring a suit within 12 years from the date of dispossession; in other words, Art. 14 has no application as no order need be set aside in order to obtain relief. 114 Ind. Cas. 626=1928 M.W.N. 763 =A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 1246.

11. Entries in Record of rights.

——Art. 14—Entries in Record of rights—Possession on basis of.

A suit for possession on the strength of entries in Record-of-Rights which were challenged by defendant, is not one brought for the purpose of setting aside any order of the Revenue Court but it is simply an action in ejectment, its main purpose being to recover possession of certain lands allotted to the plaintiff and Art. 14 does not therefore apply to such a case. 97 Ind. Cas. 217=5 Pat. 735=53 I.A. 176=7 P. L. T. 483=31 C.W.N. 341= A.I.R. 1926 P. C. 60 (P. C.).

——Arts. 14 and 120—Entries in Record-of-Rights—Entry whether an act or order of Govt. Officer.

A suit for amendment or cancellation of certain entries in the Record-of-Rights is not a suit to set aside any act or order of a Govt. Officer and therefore does not fall under Art. 14 but under Art. 120. 14 Ind. Cas. 50. (Cal.)

12. Essentials for application.

——Art. 14—Essentials for application.

The conditions necessary for the applicability of Art. 14 are (1) that the suit is one to set aside an order (2) which had been passed by an Officer of Govt. (3) in the exercise of powers conferred on him by the law (4) which would be effective and conclusive unless set aside by a suit, and (5) there is no other provision in the Lim. Act or any other statute, expressly governing it. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 384=15 L. 389=36 P.L.R. 337=149 Ind. Cas. 661 (F.B.).

——Art. 14—Essentials for application.

It does not suffice for an Officer of Government to purport to act in his official capacity to bring his act or order within the purview of Art. 14, or for the subject to allege that the act was wrong or to refrain from expressly asking the Court to set aside the order to take it out of the purview of the article. If that act or order is illegal or ultra vires, Art. 14 has no application. 24 Bom. 435; 36 Bom. 325 and A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 381, Foll. 109 Ind. Cas. 545=30 Bom.L. R. 481=A. I. R. 1928 Bom. 180.

——Art. 14—Essentials for application.

An order to come under Art. 14 must be an order of at least a quasi-judicial character and not a mere executive order. 32 Cal. 1107, Ref. 104 Ind. Cas. 781=39 M.L.T. 633=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 1167.

——Art. 14—Essentials for application.

Suit for declaration that defendants are not permanent tenants of a field and that the order of Revenue Officer to that effect be held as incorrect is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 14.

Before Art. 14 can apply, the order must needs be one which must under law be set aside. 19 C.W.N. 1303 and A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 518, Rel. on. 100 Ind. Cas. 4=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 159.

——Art. 14—Essentials for application.

The order under Art. 14 must be such an order as the officer is empowered under the law to pass and which would be effective unless set aside, and which further is an order which, under the ordinary law, is liable to be set aside by a suit in the Civil Court.

An order by a Collector refusing to put a party to a partition under the Bengal Estates Partition Act, (V of 1897) in possession of the land allotted to him is an order for which there is no provision of the law. 8 C.L.J. 470 and 29 Bom. 480, Ref. 89 Ind. Cas. 193=29 C. W. N. 839=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 953.

13. Estates Partition Act.

——Art. 14—Estates Partition Act.

During partition proceedings under Bengal Estates Partition Act, the Deputy Collector proceeded to take action under Chap. VI of the Act. When he was making an order under S. 46 (1) (iii) one A raised an objection and claimed that tenancy created by B was tenure which affected interest of B only and was not admitted to be permenant tenure by A. The dispute was due to the definition of "assets" in S. 3 of the Act. The Deputy Collector disposed of the question without coming to decision on any real point at issue. He said that the tenancy was either a raiyati jote or a tenure admitted by all the recorded proprietors to be a permenant tenure. A thereupon brought a suit for declaration that tenancy granted by B in favour of certain persons was a tenure which affected the interests of B only and was not admitted by A to be a permenant tenure:

Held, that a mere declaratory decree could not be granted because such a decree would not serve any useful purpose whatever. Secondly, the prayer was not bona fide. The real object of the suit was to get rid of the decision of the revenue officer. As it was not open to the Civil Courts to give a direction to the revenue officers, there was no longer any case for giving a mere declaration as to the nature of the tenancy. A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 749.

——Art. 14—Estates Partition Act.

Where the suit for declaration of title was brought in the Civil Court more than one year after the order of the Deputy Collector, which was one passed apparently under S. 57 of the Estates Partition Act:

Held, that the suit not being to set aside the order of the Collector was not barred by Art. 14 of the Limitation Act. 52 C.L.J. 247=A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 29.

——Art. 14—Estates Partition Act—Partition under—Land not belonging to estate allotted—Suit to set aside—Article does not apply.

If property which did not fall in any way within the estate which was being partitioned was allocated to one of the persons, who was a party to the partition proceedings it seems incredible to suggest that the person to whom that property so allocated rightly belonged could not within 12 years from the date when his right of action accrued, bring a suit for a declaration of his title and if necessary for recovery of possession of that land in question. Further it matters not whether such claimant was an outsider; that is to say, a person who was not a party to the partition proceedings, or a person who was a party to the partition proceedings. In such a case there is no act or order of an officer of Government in the official capacity which could be regarded as bringing the period of limitation within the purview of Art. 14. 96 Ind. Cas. 632=6 Pat. 73=7 P.L.T. 779=1926 P.H.C.C. 236=A.I.R. 1926 Pat. 421.

——Art. 14—Estates Partition Act.

A suit for declaration that an allotment made by the Collector under the Bengal Estates Partition Act is not legally valid is governed not by Art. 14 but by Art. 120. 49 Ind. Cas. 965 (Cal.)

——Art. 14—Estates Partition Act—Order excluding lands from partition.

Under S. 116 of Art. VIII of 1876, the Collector can only adopt one of two courses if any objection is raised before him. He can either strike off the partition case or proceed with the partition, treating the disputed land as part of the estate under partition. He has no jurisdiction to pass an order directing the partition, the disputed land not being treated as part of the estate under partition. Such an order, if proved, is a nullity and Art. 14 of the Limitation Act does not apply to such a case. 33 C. 693.

——Art. 14 — Estates Partition Act, S. 116—Suit to set aside—Plaintiff not a co-owner.

Where a person, not a co-owner, intervenes in a proceeding under S. 116, Bengal Estates Partition Act, claiming certain lands as his own, and his claim is decided against him, a suit by him for a declaration that the lands are his own is governed by Art. 14. 6 C.W.N. 92=29 Cal. 367.

——Art. 14—Estates Partition Act, S. 176—Suit for possession.

An order passed by a Collector staying or striking off partition proceedings until the parties to the dispute have the matter in dispute between them decided by a competent court is not an order to the prejudice of any party requiring it to be set aside before suit for possession is brought. Consequently, Art. 14 has no application. 32 C. 716.

14. Execution of decree.

——Art. 14—Execution of decree—Civil Procedure Code, S. 320 et seq—Sale held by Collector, but afterwards set aside—Suit by auction-purchaser to have sale confirmed.

In execution of a decree which had been transferred to the Collector for execution under the provisions of S. 327 of the Code of civil procedure (1882) certain immovable property was sold by auction on the 22nd of September 1891. But the judgment-debtors applied to the Collector to have the sale set aside, and on the 30th of October, 1891 the Collector set aside the sale and ordered a fresh proclamation of sale to be issued. The order of the Collector setting aside the sale was on appeal confirmed the Commissioner on the 4th of May, 1892. After the setting aside of the sale the judgment-debtors on the 14th of December 1891, with the permission of the Collector, mortgaged the bulk of the property. The mortgage money was paid into court in discharge of the decree, and the satisfaction of the decree was entered up, and on the 21st December, 1891, the execution case was struck off. On the 12th of September 1894, the auction purchaser, who after the sale had been set aside, had withdrawn the purchase-money paid in by her, brought a suit to have the sale in her favour confirmed. Held, that inasmuch as the plaintiff's claim involved the setting aside of the collector's order of the 30th October 1891, by which the sale to the plaintiff had been set aside, the suit was barred by limitation, having regard to Art. 14. 25 B. 337 and 22 A. 168, ref. to; 8 M. 82 held not to be of effect since the ruling of the Privy Council in 25 B. 337 and 22 A. 168, ref. to. 25 B. 336 and 25 C. 179 distinguished. (1902) A.W.N. 116=24 A. 467.

15. Illegal or void orders.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void orders.

Where the Act of the Govt. in respect of which a declaration and injunction is sought is an act which is illegal or ultra vires and the declaration is sought on that ground, then in such a case neither S. 59, Revenue Recovery Act, nor Art. 14 applies but proper article applicable is Art. 120. It may be that if the ground of such a suit is not that the act of Govt. was ultra vires or illegal but a mere irregularity, which does not vitiate the main proceedings, but relates only to some question of detail such as the exact amount to be collected or something of that kind which does not make the proceedings ultra vires, in such a case Art. 14, may apply or in a case falling under the Revenue Recovery Act even S. 59, Revenue Recovery Act may apply. A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 147=39 M.L.W. 216=(1934) M.W.N. 221=57 M. 501=66 M.L.J. 715=154 Ind. Cas. 990.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void orders.

If the order is illegal, the plaintiff is not bound to file a suit to set it aside but is entitled to wait until it is enforced against him and the attempt to enforce it against him gives him a good cause of action. 105 Ind. Cas. 694=51 Bom. 830=54 I.A. 380 =29 Bom.L.R. 1484=46 C.L.J. 393=39 M.L.T. 527 =A.I.R. 1927 P.C. 217=53 M.L.J. 475 (P.C.).

——Art. 14—Illegal or void orders.

Per Mukerji, J.—Art. 14 applies to acts or orders which require to be set aside. It does not apply where jurisdiction has been usurped, and the orders is ultra vires. An order made without jurisdiction is a nullity and need not be set aside. 83 Ind. Cas. 446=39 C.L.J. 454=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 913.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void order—Limitation.

An order under S. 524, Cr. P.C., which directed the forfeiture of property seized on suspicion of its being stolen, and which ordered the sale-proceeds thereof to be credited to Government is ultra vires. Since, the section authorises the Government to hold the property as trustee for the real owner, a suit for possession of the property is not barred though brought after a year of the order of confiscation. 5 Pat. L.J. 321=56 Ind. Cas. 507.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void order—Suit to set aside.

A suit to set aside an order which is ultra vires of the officer passing it, is not governed by Art. 14. 36 Bom. 325=14 Bom. L.R. 332=15 Ind. Cas. 517.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void order.

Where the Collector was authorised under the Putni Regulation to make a summary investigation if the Talukdar contested the Zemindar's demand for any arrear but he determined the rent payable for the tenure in future the order is ultra vires and is not required to be set aside. Art. 14 therefore does not apply. 17 C.W.N. 374=17 Ind. Cas. 504.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void order.

An order of the Collector which declared that the lands in the possession of the plaintiff should be given to the defendant and for which there was no warrant of law is an ultra vires order, and the owner need not set it aside. Art. 14 therefore does not apply. 17 C.W.N. 55=17 Ind. Cas. 881.

——Art. 14—Illegal or void order.

Where resumption and transfer of certain lands could not take place under Chaukidari Act the order being without jurisdiction, is null and void and Art. 14 would not apply. 15 C.W.N. 300=9 Ind. Cas. 688.

16. Inam.

——Art. 14—Inam—Enfranchisement.

A claim for relief inconsistent with an order of enfranchisement of inam is governed by Art. 14 of the Limitation Act. If the order of enfranchisement is intra vires, i.e., if the inam was granted or continued by Government, and in any case in which it is shown that the inam was not granted or continued by Government, Art. 142 or 144 would apply. 123 Ind. Cas. 341=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 710.

——Art. 14—Inam—Gadaba—Resumption—Suit for possession by Zemindar.

Art. 14 has no application to a suit by a Zemindar for possession of certain land of his on the ground that the Collector who, during his minority was in possession of his estate treated the suit property, which had been granted to another gada service, as the property of the Government, resumed the lands and re-granted them to the then occupants thereof on jeraiti pattahs. The resumption of lands granted by zemindar for the performance of gadaba service is in the zemindar and not in the Government. 1 M.L.W. 662=25 Ind. Cas. 878.

---Arts. 14 and 131—Inam resumed—Suit for cancellation of the resumption order.

Where the Collector resumed a dasabandham inam owing to the inamdars failure to fulfil the conditions of the inam the inamdars sued after 12 years for a declaration that he was entitled to hold the land rent-free. Held, that the suit for cancellation of the order should have been brought within one year of the date of the order. (1915) M.W.N. 915=31 Ind. Cas. 267.

17. Land Registration Act (Bengal).

---Art. 14—Land Registration Act (Bengal)—Suit under.

A suit for declaration of title on refusal of an application for registration under the Land Registration Act is not governed by Art. 14 of the Lim. Act although the object of the suit is to apply on success to the Collector for registration of the plaintiff's name, The plaintiff need not sue to set aside the order of the Collector. 9 C.L.J. 91=3 Ind. Cas. 693.

18. Lease by Collector.

---Art. 14—Lease by Collector—Collector refusing to entertain plaint.

A suit to recover possession of lands forming a river bed leased by the Collector is barred if brought after a year of the date of the order of the Collector under S. 37 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code by which the Collector refused to entertain the plaint. Prior to the Bombay Act XII of 1912 the starting point of limitation is the date of the order. 22 Bom. L.R. 146=55 Ind. Cas. 591.

19. Main object different.

---Art. 14—Main object different.

Where the relief sought is primarily a declaration that the plaintiffs are entitled to succeed a deceased Hindu female owner as her next reversioners, and where for such a declaration the setting aside of the order of a Sub-Divisional Officer would not be necessary, Art. 14 has no application though the plaint may contain a prayer for the setting aside of the order of a Sub-Divisional Officer. 90 Ind. Cas. 691=7 P.L.T. 67=1925 P.H.C.C. 288=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 784.

20. Money held in trust by Government.

---Art. 14—Money held in trust by Government—Order of payment to several heirs of the depositor—Suity by one.

From 1846 to 1859 the accounts of the Satara treasury showed the sum claimed by the plaintiff as payable to C, the plaintiff's ancestor. In 1857 the Collector of Satara issued a notice to C's eldest son, S and called upon him to withdraw the amount, S accordingly applied for the money, but S's younger brother asked that it should be distributed among all C's sons. In 1860 the Asst. Collector ordered that C's sons and heirs should produce the certificate of heirship. Held, the plaintiff's claim did not fall within Art. 14 and the case was one to which the bar of limitation could not be pleaded. 39 Bom. 572=17 Bom. L. R. 641=31 Ind. Cas. 277.

21. Noabad taluk.

---Arts. 14, 121—Noabad taluk—Incident of.

Art. 14 refers to orders and proceedings of a functionary to which by law is given a particular effect in favour of one person or against another subject in the regular course, to a further judicial proceeding having for its object to quash them or set them aside. 11 B. 429, foll. The article has no application where an order is null and void and does not affect the plaintiff's interest, so that there is no occasion to set it aside. 21 C. 626; 25 C. 179 (P. C.) and. 24 A. 467 ref. to. Where subsequent to the purchase of an entire Noabad mehal at a sale for arrears of revenue by the plaintiff, the term of the taluk expired and Government resettled the taluk in favour of the defaulting proprietors and the plaintiff instituted a suit for recovery of possession of a parcel of land included in the taluk purchased:—Held, that the rule of limitation applicable was that embodied in Art. 121 and not in Art. 14. A Noabad taluk is not necessarily temporarily settled; it may be a permanently settled one. The re-settlement of a Noabad taluk does not necessarily mean a settlement with new talukdars; it may be an adjustment of the revenue and nothing more. 8 C.L.J. 470.

22. Order of Collector.

---Art. 14—Order of Collector—Remedy.

On a forfeiture of land by the Collector for failure to pay arrears of Govt. Revenue the aggrieved party may either appeal to the Rev. authorities or bring a suit in a Civil Court. But he must sue within one year of the order of the Collector under Art. 14. 44 Bom. 451=22 Bom. L.R. 212=57 Ind. Cas. 587.

---Art. 14—Order in Revenue Case.

S. 3 (5) of the Madras Estates Land Act suggests that the order of the Collector is a temporary one. No finality is given to the order in case a Civil Court does not settle the question. The Collector's decision will be ipso facto vacated whenever a Civil Court pronounces on the respective rights of the contending parties. Hence Art. 14 does not apply to a suit to set aside the order. 62 Ind. Cas. 276=13 M.L.W. 104=1921 M.W.N. 193=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 47.

23. Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act.

---Art. 14—Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act—Suit to set aside any act or order.

An application was made by the mortgagor to the Collector under the provisions of S. 4, Redemption of Mortgages Act, 1913, praying that the land may be redeemed on payment of Rs. 40. Another application was made on behalf of the plaintiffs who were the representatives of the mortgagor asking the Court to stay its hands until the disposal of certain applications which the applicants stated were pending in the Revenue Court under the provisions of the Alienation of Land Act. The revenue Officer did not accede to his request and the records were consigned to the record room.

The mortgagors withdrew from the proceedings. Another suit was brought by the plaintiffs for the redemption of the mortgage. The suit was, on the face of it, filed after the expiration of one year from the date of the Collector's order:

Held, that there was no order passed by the Collector on the merits and that the Art. 14 did not apply and consequently the suit was not time-barred. A. I. R. 1936 Lah. 692=38 P. L. R. 917=165 Ind. Cas. 739.

——Art. 14—Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act.

A mortgagor's right to redeem, which would otherwise be within limitation, is barred if the action is brought later than a year of the date of an order passed to the plaintiff's detriment by the Collector on an application under Punjab Act No. 11 of 1923. When an order passed under a special Act is declared by that Act to be conclusive, it cannot be ignored and no relief is open to the aggrieved party unless that order be set aside. An individual who takes advantage of a summary procedure must suffer its disadvantages as well as enjoy its benefits. The suit referred to in S. 12 of the Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act is a suit to set aside an order of an officer of Government within Art. 14. 88 Ind. Cas. 945=6 Lah. 206=26 P.L.R. 383 =A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 385.

——Art. 14—Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act.

S. 12 of Redemption of Mortgages Act II of 1913 merely points out the results which would ensue if the procedure laid down in that section is not followed. In order to ascertain the period of limitation for such a suit it is necessary that reference should be made to the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, and the only Article in that Act under which the suit could fall is Art. 14, which provides a period of one year's limitation from the date the order complained against is passed. 75 Ind. Cas. 885=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 690.

24. Recovery of penal assessment levied.

——Art. 14—Recovery of penal assessment levied and collected.

Where penal assessment was levied by the Government against persons in occupation of village poramboke, without the consent of Government a suit for the recovery of the sums so paid will be barred after one year from the date when the assessment is levied either under Art. 14 or Art. 26 of the Limitation Act. Such payments in order that they may be legally recoverable by suit must have been made under coercion. 13 M.L. J. 269.

25. Resumption of grant.

——Art. 14—Resumption of grant.

Where Government purports to act under powers reserved to them under the terms of a grant, though they may act erroneously in the interpretation of its terms or in finding on facts which justify the resumption, the act is intra vires and not ultra vires and the act of resumption cannot be regarded as a nullity and Art. 14 applies. 106 Ind. Cas 891=27 M.L.W. 101 =A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 282.

26. Scope.

——Art. 14—Scope.

Art. 14 applies only to those orders which require to be set aside in a regular suit before any relief inconsistent with the order could be obtained. A judicial order does not fall under Art. 14. A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 188=42 Bom. L.R. 223=188 Ind. Cas. 531.

——Art. 14—Scope of—Order without jurisdiction.

An order without jurisdiction is a nullity and need not be set aside. When private partition is established the Collector's order is without jurisdiction under S. 12 of the Act VIII of 1876 and a suit to have such order set aside is not barred under Art. 14 of the Lim. Act. 36 C. 726=10 C.L. J. 189=1 Ind. Cas. 549.

27. Sind Encumbered Estates Act.

——Art. 14—Sind Encumbered Estates Act.

Manager under the Sind Encumbered Estates Act, S. 7 (2) (c) is an officer of Government within the meaning of Art. 14. A suit to set aside any act or order of the manager in his official capacity should be brought within one year from the date of his order as provided for by Art. 14. 124 Ind. Cas. 369=A.I.R. 1930 Sind 150.

——Art. 14—Sind Encumbered Estates Act (1896), S. 38—Suit against manager.

A suit by the lessee of lands under the management by the manager of Encumbered Estates, Sind, for an injunction restraining the manager from selling the land for arrears of rent, is governed by Art. 14. 9 S.L R. 167=32 Ind. Cas. 616.

28. Suit to set aside any act or order.

——Art. 14—Suit—To set aside any act or order.

A suit to deny a right of way which has been affirmed by an order of a mamlatdar under the Mamlatdars' Court Act is governed by Art. 47 and not Art. 14. A.I R. 1931 Bom. 256=33 Bom. L. R. 517=135 Ind. Cas. 427.

——Art. 14—Suit—To set aside any act or order.

Where it is necessary for a person to get rid of an order made by a Govt. Officer which stands in his way before he can get a certain relief and he only asks for a declaratory decree and not expressly for the setting aside of the order, the suit should be deemed to be one to set aside an order falling within Art. 14. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 384=15 L. 389=36 P.L.R. 337=149 Ind. Cas. 661 (F.B.).

——Art. 14—Suit—To set aside any act or order—Suit for declaration of plaintiffs' and defendants' shares in touzi.

Where the plaintiffs bring a suit for a declaration substantially to the effect that plaintiffs' share in a certain touzi should correspond to three annas six pies of the original estate (and not less) and that the defendants' share should correspond to one anna (and not more), the plaintiffs are not asking for setting aside any act or order of an officer of Govt. in his official capacity within the meaning of Art. 14, nor is it necessary for them to do so. The plaintiffs will not be able to recover rents according to their share now established until they get that share entered in the register kept in the Collector's Land Registration Department but they cannot get that done by an order or precept from the Civil Court, and they may quite easily be able to get it done in the Collectorate, armed with the necessary declaration from the Civil Court. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 524=5 B.R. 125=20 P.L.T. 136=178 Ind. Cas. 633.

——Art. 14—Suit—To set aside any act or order—Suit for possession of immovable property.

Where a suit to set aside order of mutation and for possession of immovable property is brought less than eight years after the order of mutation and within 12 years of the death of the last owner, the suit, in the absence of any provision barring the same after one year, is within time. Art. 14 has no application. A.I.R. 1939 Lab. 135=183 Ind. Cas. 853.

——Art. 14—Suit—To set aside any act or order—Suit for specific performance.

In a suit for specific performance of a contract of sale, the plaintiff alleged that the Barrage Mukhtiarkar had, on October 1, 1936, sold him a survey number measuring six acres at Rs. 70 per acre, and had accepted the payment of 1/10th of the price in part satisfaction of the contract, and therefore, the Barrage mukhtiarkar accepted a further payment of Rs. 362; thereafter, however, the Revenue Officer, Lloyd Barrage, on June 11, 1936, cancelled the sale on the ground that this land was a public grazing ground, and his appeal to the Revenue Tribunal failed. The suit was brought more than 12 months after such an order:

Held, that it was not open to the plaintiff to bring a suit for possession of the land in the form of a suit for the specific performance of a contract without asking for a relief which was a condition precedent to the grant of the relief for which he prayed. The order of the Revenue Officer cancelling the sale stood as as a barrier to his possession of the land; until that barrier was removed, he could not enter into possession and if he did not sue to set aside that order, his suit must be dismissed. The suit was governed by Art. 14, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1944 Sind 44=I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 404 =210 Ind. Cas. 513.

——Art. 14—Suit—To set aside any act or order—Order of Assistant Collector under Sea Customs Act.

Art. 14 applies if the suit involves the setting aside of an order which must be a least of a quasi-judicial character and not a mere executive order. The "act" or "order" referred to in Art. 14 does not mean an act or order which is a nullity. An order of an Assistant Collector under S. 167 (17), Sea Customs Act imposing a penalty is an order made by an Officer of Govt. in his official capacity, purporting to act under the law, and it is of a quasi-judicial character, and within his power. A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 294=42 Bom. L.R. 532 =191 Ind. Cas. 867.

29. Summary ejectment.

——Art. 14—Summary ejectment—Real dispute about title.

Where a private owner of property claims a declaration of title to the property in his peaceful possession, alleging that it is his own property as against the Government and the Government through its officers asserts a claim to that property as the property of the Government, there is a bona fide dispute as to title to the property and the real point of controversy between the two is also one of title to the said property. The mere circumstance that an officer of Government upheld the claim of the Government and gave an order upholding the title of the Government and directing summary ejectment of the private individual from the disputed strip of land, does not alter the nature of the claimants' cause of action nor does it necessitate the asking of any relief other than the one of declaration of title on the part of the private owner. It is sufficient if he establishes his title as against the Government in order to entitle him to hold the property as against the Government. It is wholly superfluous for him to ask the additional relief of cancellation of the order, and therefore such a case is not governed by Art. 14. 24 Bom 435; 36 Bom. 325 and 39 Bom. 494, Appr. 98 Ind. Cas. 22= 22 N.L.R. 147= 9 N.L.J. 198=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 10.

——Art. 14—Summary ejectment.

Where the conditions necessary for the exercise of the power of summary eviction conferred by S. 79-A, Bombay Land Revenue Code, do not in fact exist, the District Deputy Collector cannot be held to act in his official capacity if he evicts a person under that section. So, Limitation Act, Art. 14 does not apply to a suit for possession by the evicted person. 24 Bom. 435; 36 Bom. 325 and 30 Mad. 280, Foll. 61 Ind. Cas. 347=45 Bom. 920=23 Bom. L.R. 279= A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 381.

——Art. 16—Illegal assessment.

Period of limitation applicable to a suit to recover excess in assessment illegally levied by Government is one year and not six months, from the date on which the cause of action arose. A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 652, Foll. 86 Ind. Cas. 267=21 M.L.W. 155=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 474.

——Art. 16—Illegal collection of water cess.

The period of limitation applicable to a suit to recover amounts alleged to have been illegally collected by the Government from the plaintiffs as water cess on their lands, is one year from the date of payment under Art. 16 and not six months from the date of the distraint of the plaintiff's paddy crop under S. 59 of the Madras Revenue Recovery Act (II of 1864) where the relief claimed is the refund of the amount illegally collected and paid under protest together with interest. 74 Ind. Cas. 281=17 M.L.W. 618=32 M.L.T. 230= 1923 M.W.N. 327=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 665=44 M.L.J. 645.

——Art. 16—Illegal collection of water cess.

A suit for the recovery of water cess levied under S. 1 of the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1855, for the unauthorised use by the plaintiff of water belonging to Government and paid by him under protest is governed by Art. 16, Limitation Act. S. 59 of the Madras Revenue Recovery Act, 1864 does not apply. And even if it applies, S. 15 (2) of the Limitation Act will apply and the two months' period of notice will be deducted in computing the period of six months.

Per Krishnan, J.—The suit is one under S. 59 of the Revenue Recovery Act, 1864, and to such a suit the provisions of the Limitation Act, do not apply. 15

——Art. 16—Illegal collection of water cess.

A suit for the recovery of water cess paid under protest on demand but without any proceedings by way of attachment, sale, etc., is governed by Art. 16 of the Limitation Act and not by S. 47 of the Madras Act II of 1864. 79 Ind. Cas. 884 (Mad.).

——Art. 16—Illegal collection of water cess.

Where the Government levy statutory water cess from the ryots of a Zemindar and not from the Zemindar from whom it ought to have been levied, if leviable at all, in a case where the statute does not authorise the levy, and the Zemindar remits the amount to the ryots out of the rents payable by them, the Zemindar is entitled to sue to recover from the Government the amount so illegally collected, but such suit must be brought within the period of limitation prescribed by Art. 16. 12 L.W. 334=59 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Art. 16—Illegal collection of water cess.

A suit for recovery of water cess illegally collected without any proceeding under the Revenue Recovery Act is governed by Art. 16, and not by the Revenue Recovery Act: (1913) M.W.N. 75=18 Ind. Cas. 699.

——Art. 16—Madras Irrigation Cess Act, (1865)—Madras Revenue Recovery Act, S. 59—Law governing.

A suit for refund of tirvajasti levied under the Irrigation Cess Act comes under Art. 16 and not under S. 59 of the Madras Revenue Recovery Act. 17 C.W.N. 494=15 Ind. Cas. 328.

——Art. 16—Money recoverable as arrears of revenue.

In respect of certain lands wrongly treated as "added lands", the Govt. took the estate into khas management and under S. 104, Bengal Ten. Act, settled and imposed rents on tenure-holders who brought a suit for recovery of rents paid:

Held, that such rents were not arrears of revenue though they may be recoverable as public demand and unless it could be shown that by some enactment they had been made to come under that description or had been made recoverable as arrears of revenue, Art. 16, could not be applied to them. A.I.R. 1937 P. C. 244=18 P.L.T. 689=41 C.W.N. 1061=66 C.L.J. 145=46 L.W. 943=I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 769=(1937) M.W.N. 1299=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 834=3 B.R. 722=64 I.A. 281=169 Ind. Cas. 881 (P.C.).

——Art. 16—Suit for damages against Government—Attachment and recovery of money under Madras Act I of 1858.

The Collector under Madras Act 1 of 1858 attached plaintiff's crops for value of the labour which he was asked to contribute and which he refused. The Collector recovered the amount in accordance with the procedure prescribed by Madras Act II of 1864. In a suit for damages by the plaintiff against the Government:

Held, that the limitation applicable to it was six months under S. 59 of Madras Act II of 1864 and not one year under Art. 16, 23 Mad. 57, Foll. (1915) M.W.N. 154=26 Ind. Cas. 863.

——Arts. 17, 62—Suit for compensation for land acquired.

Where the Govt. acquires land and pays the money to one who is apparently entitled to it, a suit by a person who has also got interest in the land and claims the money paid by the Govt. is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 17 or Art. 62 A.I.R. 1935 Pat. 42.

——Arts. 18, 120—Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S. 17—Direction to vest and take possession—Collector's refusal to make award—Suit for damages—Limitation—One year from refusal.

Art. 18 of the Limitation Act of 1877 (corresponding to Art. 20 of Act IX of 1871) refers only to suits for compensation for non-completion and refusal to complete the acquisition referred to in S. 54 of Act of 1870 (S. 48 of Act I 1894). A suit by a person for damages against the Collector for refusing to make an award with respect to land which had been vested in Government by virtue of a direction under S. 17 of Act I of 1894 is not governnd by Art. 18 but by Art. 120 of the Limitation Act, and will, therefore, be within time if filed within six years from the date of the Collector informing plaintiff of the refusal to make the award. Where there is a direction under S. 17 of Act I of 1894 and the Collector refuses to make the award, the owner of the land is not entitled to the land, but only to damages against the Collector for the breach of statutory duty. 14 M.L.J. 173=27 M. 535.

——Arts. 19 and 23—Malicious prosecution—Joint tort feasors—Damages against.

A suit for damages for false imprisonment or malicious prosecution against tort feasors is governed by the one year rule under Arts. 19 and 23 of the Lim. Act. Where there is a joint tort the proper action is on the tort against the joint tort-feasors and not on a cause of action to recover special damage by reason of a conspiracy to cause damage. 40 Cal. 898=18 C.W.N. 185= 23 Ind. Cas. 25.

——Art. 19—Suit for compensation for false imprisonment.

Time begins to run for a suit for compensation for false imprisonment from the date on which the plaintiff is released from it, though on bail, and not from the date on which the warrant is set aside. Nothing short of actual detention and complete loss of freedom will support an action for false imprisonment. 5 Bom. L. R. 490=7 C.W.N. 729=30 I. A. 154=30 C. 872 (P.C.)

——Art. 20—Applicability.

A suit for declartion by a third party that money brought into Court in execution of a decree belongs to him and not to the judgment-debtor is governed by Art. 120. 38 M.L.W. 194=A.I.R. 1933 Mad. 503= (1933) M.W.N. 1106=144 Ind. Cas. 602.

——Art. 22—Applicability.

Art. 22 which applies to a suit for damages for personal injury does not apply to proceedings under the Workmen's Compensation Act. 35 Bom. L.R. 1142= A.I.R. 1934 Bom. 28=58 B. 128=149 Ind. Cas. 247.

——Arts. 22 and 36—Damages for assault.

A suit for damages or compensation for injuiry caused to a person's reputation and for mental pain caused by an assault is governed by Art. 22 and not by Art. 36. Insult arising from an assault does not constitute a separate cause of action. Assault itself is the cause of action though damages can be awarded for the resulting insult. 5 Ind. Cas. 124 (All.).

——Art. 22—Injury—Meaning of.

The term 'injury' in Art. 22, has a wider connotation than physical hurt, and trespass to the person includes voluntary obstruction. 35 M.L.W. 392=A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 432=138 Ind. Cas. 84 (1).

——Art. 22—Injury by seduction of plaintiff's wife.

Suit for damages for an injury caused by seduction of plaintiff's wife is not governed by Art. 22. It is governed by Art. 120. A.I.R. 1936 All. 454=(1936) A.L.J. 574=1936 A.W.R. 515=58 A. 903=163 Ind. Cas. 974.

Reversing—A.I.R. 1935 All. 855=1935 A.L.J. 1003=1935 A.W.R. 956.

——Art. 22—Injury through third person.

A suit for damages resulting from injury caused to plaintiff by the defendant through the instrumentality of a third person is governed by Art. 22 and not by Art. 36 and the suit must be brought within one year from the date when the injury is committed. 84 Ind. Cas. 796=25 Bom. L.R. 1333=A. I. R. 1924 Bom. 290.

——Art. 22—Scope.

Per Pal, J.—The claim for compensation for false imprisonment was governed by Art. 22. A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 4=77 C.L.J. 93=212 Ind. Cas. 421.

——Art. 22—Scope.

A suit for damages for obstruction of a person in a temple when she had never been ex-communicated in due form is governed by Art. 22. 35 M.L.W. 392=A.I.R. 1932 Mad. 432=138 Ind. Cas. 84 (1).

——Art. 23—Applicability—Acquittal.

Where the Dt. Magistrate directed further inquiry after cancelling an order of discharge but the High Court set aside the order of the Dt. Magistrate holding that the order of the trying Magistrate amounted to an acquittal, limitation for a suit for damages for malicious prosecution begins from date of the order of the High Court. The second part of the article applies even in cases of acquittal. 57 Ind. Cas. 635 (Mad.)

——Art. 23—Damages resulting from a conspiracy.

A suit to recover damages resulting from a conspiracy falls within Art. 120 or 36 and not within Art. 23. 16 C.W.N. 145=13 Cr.L.J. 65=13 Ind. Cas. 721.

——Art. 23—Distinguished from Art. 2.

Art. 2 will govern a case only when the defendant did an act in the honest belief that he was empowered to do the act by some enactment but if he acts knowing that he has no power under any enactment so to act, a suit for compensation for the wrongful act will fall under Art. 23. 26 All. 482; 13 Mad. 445; 1883 P.R. 160, Ref. 89 Ind. Cas. 861=3 Rang. 268=4 Bur. L.J. 139=A.I.R. 1925 Rang. 311.

——Art. 23—Malicious prosecution—Joint tort—Damages.

A suit for damages for malicious arrest, imprisonment and prosecution against several joint tort-feasors is governed by the one year's rule of limitation under Arts. 19 and 23 of the Lim. Act. Where a suit for damages in respect of such torts would be barred by limitation as against one, it would be barred against all. 40 Cal. 898=18 C.W.N. 185=23 Ind. Cas. 25.

——Arts. 23 and 24—Malicious prosecution—Libel—Proceedings under the Bengal Disorderly Houses Act.

Proceedings under the Bengal Disorderly Houses Act do not constitute a prosecution but only a libel and a suit for damages is governed by Art. 24 and not by Art. 23. 18 C.L.J. 352=20 Ind. Cas. 768.

——Art. 23—Prosecution—Meaning of—Date of its termination—Date of order of discharge by Magistrate or date of upholding that order revision.

The word "prosecution" in Art. 23 of the Limitation Act is used in the general and not in the technical sense. It is used in a wider sense than a trial and will include criminal proceedings by way of appeal or revision before a District Magistrate, a Sessions Court or a High Court. A prosecution is terminated when it is brought to an end or is concluded.. The language implies a final termination or end. Where after an order of discharge is passed by a Magistrate the defendant files an application in revision, so long as the revision application is pending in the Court of the District Magistrate and subsequently in the Court of the Judicial Commissioner, no action for malicious prosecution would be maintainable. The prosecution terminates only on the date when a final order is passed in favour of the plaintiff by the Court of the judicial Commissioner upholding the order of discharge and dismissing the revision application. That is the date from which limitation should be calculated. If the suit is filed within one year from that date, although more than one year after the order of discharge by the Magistrate, the plaintiff's claim is within limitation. I.L.R. (1946) Nag. 358=221 Ind. Cas. 666=1946 N.L. J. 113=A.I.R. 1946 Nag. 46.

——Art. 23—Prosecution case closed on October 30, 1941—Court writing in diary "accused No. 2 is discharged under S. 253 (1), Criminal P. C., charge is framed against accused No. 1" and signing it—Accused No. 1 committed to Sessions on January 24, 1942—Suit by accused No. 2 against complainant filed on January 25, 1943, held barred by limitation.

S. 253 (1), Criminal P. C. does not require any reasons to be stated by the Magistrate for the discharge; so a mere order discharging the accused is a final order even though no reasons are given. Where the prosecution case is closed and an accused is discharged, he does not appear before the Court again and in the subsequent proceedings against the other accused, he is no longer an accused. Incidental reference to discharge of some accused and the reasons for discharge are likely to be found in the introductory paragraphs of the final order dealing with other accused but such reference does not indicate that the discharge takes effect from the date of the final order.

The prosecution case was closed on October 30, 1941, and on that date, the Magistrate wrote in his diary, "Accused No. 2 is discharged under S. 253 (1), Criminal P. C. A charge under S. 379, I. P. C., is framed against accused No. 1 . . . .". This was signed by the Magistrate. He proceeded with the enquiry against accused No. 1 and eventually, on January 24, 1942, committed accused to Sessions. Accused No. 2 filed a suit against the complainant on January 25, 1943: Held, that the suit was barred by limitation as accused No. 2 was discharged on 30-10-1941 and not on 24-1-1942. A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 288=(1945) 1 M.L. J. 287=1945 M.W.N. 280=58 M.L.W. 238.

——Art. 23—"Prosecution otherwise terminates" —Suit for damages for malicious prosecution— Termination of trial.

In order to maintain a suit for damages for malicious prosecution, it is not necessary that a formal order of discharge or acquittal should have been made. It is enough if the plaintiff's innocence has been pronounced by the Magistrate. For purposes of limitation time began to run in the case only from the date of the final judgment of the Magistrate pronouncing that plaintiff was innocent and not from the date on which he says in his judgment he came to that opinion. 17 M.L J. 60.

——Art. 23—Scope.

The plaintiff objected to the Rural Reconstruction Society demarcating his land and used abusive language tgwards one of the persons working on behalf of the Society. On a complaint being made, the Chairman of the Society who was also a Magistrate took cognizance of the offence as a Magistrate and prosecuted the plaintiff under S. 504, I. P. C. and ordered his arrest. The prosecution subsequently having been withdrawn, the plaintiff brought a suit for compensation for malicious prosecution and illegal arrest against the Magistrate:

Held, that in view of the frame of the suit, the claim in respect of compensation for malicious prosecution, fell under Art. 23, which was the more specific article and not under Art. 2. A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 4=77 C.L. J. 93=212 Ind. Cas. 421.

——Arts. 23, 36 and 120—Starting point—Suit for damages for maliciously presenting a petition in insolvency against the plaintiff resulting in his adjudication.

On a petition filed by the defendant on 22nd September, 1937, when already there was pending another petition by another creditor, the plaintiff was adjudicated insolvent on 5th October, 1937, and the two petitioning creditors were given their costs, both petitions being heard together. At that time the plaintiff believed that he was indebted to the defendant in respect of share transactions. When the Official Assignee investigated the affairs the claim of the defendant was found to be the result of a fraud played on the plaintiff by the defendant, and the claim was therefore denied. Ultimately the claim was tried as a suit which was unsuccessful. That decision was affirmed on appeal and leave to appeal to the Privy Council having been refused the defendant ultimately applied in London for special leave which was also refused. It was not until somewhere about the 19th November, 1943, when the result of the defendant's application to the Board was received in Madras that the plaintiff knew finally that he was not indebted to the defendant in respect of the transactions. On 24th January, 1944, the plaintiff filed an application for annulment of his insolvency and on 22nd February 1944, the order of annulment was made after notice to the defendant. Then the plaintiff filed his suit on 21st February, 1945, against the defendant for damages for maliciously and without reasonable and probable cause presenting the petition in insolvency against him, as the result of which he was adjudicated insolvent. On a question of limitation:

Held, Art. 23 of the Limitation Act is inappropriate as the word "prosecution" there relates to a case where the criminal law is set in motion. Art. 36 would be more appropriate and prescribes two years as the period of limitation. It cannot be said that that period commences from the date of the filing of the petition. Before a cause of action can arise in respect of an order of a competent Court the order must have been set aside. In the present case until the Privy Council rejected the defendant's application for special leave to appeal, the plaintiff could not have applied for annulment of the insolvency. Even if Art. 36 could be deemed inappropriate there is always available Art. 120 which provides for a period of six years which would amply cover the plaintiff's case. The suit was accordingly in time. I.L.R. (1949) Mad. 29=1948 M.W.N. 142=A.I.R. 1948 Mad. 446=61 M.L.W. 188=(1948) 1 M.L. J. 173.

——Art. 23—Starting point—When plaintiff is acquitted—Meaning of.

Limitation for suit for damages for malicious prosecution begins to run under Art. 23, from the date when the prosecution is terminated by acquittal or otherwise. If acquittal is followed by other proceedings, for example, revision or reference to High Court, the prosecution would terminate not by the acquittal but by the order passed in the subsequent proceedings. The proceedings cannot be said to have terminated when they are pending in any Appellate or Revisional Court. 1942 O. W. N. 446=A. I. R. 1942 Oudh 489=1942 A.W.R. 300 (1)=204 Ind. Cas. 429.

Overruling—A.I.R. 1935 Oudh 392=1935 O.W.N. 619=11 Luck. 237=155 Ind. Cas. 706.

——Art. 23—Starting point—When the plaintiff is acquitted—Meaning of.

If the acquittal is followed by other proceedings, the prosecution is terminated, not by the acquittal but by the order passed in the subsequent proceedings. Where, therefore, a revision petition is filed by the complainant against a discharge or acquittal of the person prosecuted and it is dismissed, the prosecution terminates only on such dismissal and not on the discharge or acquittal. Limitation for a suit for malicious prosecution, therefore, runs from the dismissal of the revision and not from the date of the discharge or acquittal. 47 M.L.W. 314=A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 349 =(1938) M.W.N. 209=(1938) 1 M.L. J. 344=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 675=174 Ind. Cas. 428 (F.B.).

Overrules—23 M. 24.

——Art. 23—Starting point of limitation.

Under Art. 23, the period of limitation for suits for compensation for malicious prosecution is one year from the date when the plaintiff is acquitted or prosecution is otherwise terminated. Whether case has gone upto High Court in revision it terminates when the revision is dismissed. A.I.R. 1938 All. 49=(1937) A.L. J. 1281=I.L.R. (1938) All. 89=1937 A.W.R. 1113 =173 Ind. Cas. 669.

——Art. 23—Starting point.

Prosecution terminates by order of discharge by Magistrate—But if matter is taken up in revision by higher authority, prosecution terminates when proceedings in revision come to an end. 1930 A.L. J. 885= A.I.R. 1930 All. 326.

——Art. 23—Starting point.

The suit for malicious prosecution must be brought within one year of the date of discharge of the plaintiff. The cause of action will not be suspended merely on the ground that proceedings may be taken either by Government or by the complainant in order to get the order of discharge set aside. 67 Ind. Cas. 754=24 Bom. L.R. 507=47 Bom. 28=A.I.R. 1922 Bom. 209.

——Art. 23—Suit for damages for malicious prosecution—Limitation.

A suit for damages for malicious prosecution must be brought within a year of the termination of the proceedings in the Criminal Courts, original or appellate. 12 C.L.J. 410=6 Ind. Cas. 675.

——Arts. 23, 24, 25, 36—Suit for damages for malicious prosecution and for injury caused by false report—Distinction between:—See Malicious Prosecution. (1902) A.W.N. 96=24 A. 368.

——Art. 24—Applicability.

Where a suit is brought for defamation against a Police Officer in respect of statements in a report submitted in compliance of an order of a Magistrate acting under Chap. XVI, Criminal P. C. the period of limitation is governed by Art. 24 and not Art. 2, Lim. Act. A. I. R. 1937 All. 90=(1937) A.L. J. 20=1936 A. W. R. 1205=I. L. R. (1937) All. 390=167 Ind. Cas. 433.

——Arts. 24, 25, 36—Scope.

Limitation applicable for a suit for damages for malicious prosecution where, though a false accusation was made to the Police against the plaintiff and an investigation was held yet no prosecution was launched is under Art. 24 or 25 and not Art. 36. 39 P.L.R. 686 =A.I.R. 1937 Lah. 709=169 Ind. Cas. 640.

——Art. 27—Applicability.

Where the act complained of was that defendant had improperly got away from the plaintiff, a large number of camels controlled by the plaintiff, for the purposes of his contract but the real complaint was that the defendant had improperly enticed the jamadars of the plaintiff into breaking their contracts by putting the animals which they had contracted to supply to him at the disposition of the plaintiff himself:

Held, that the suit for compensation was governed by Art. 27. 96 Ind. Cas. 887=1926 M. W. N. 592=31 C.W.N. 174=A.I.R. 1926 P.C. 88 (P.C.).

——Art. 28—Applicability—Wrongful distraint of tenant's crops by land-lord—Suit for compensation by tenant—Limitation—Arts. 29 and 36.

Art. 28, Limitation Act, applies specifically to a suit for compensation for illegal, irregular or excessive distress. "Distress" in the Article has the same meaning as distraint. Where a land-lord illegally distraints the crops of his tenant, a suit for compensation for such distraint by the tenant falls under Art. 28 and must be brought within one year. Art. 36 cannot apply as it is a general article and can apply only when there is no other article specifically applicable. Nor can Art. 29 apply, as standing crops are not "movable property" within the meaning of Art. 29. A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 20; 7 C.W.N. 728, foll. 27 Pat. 680.

——Art. 28—Applicability.

Art. 28 is a specific article dealing precisely with a claim to compensation for illegal distress or distraint, for distress has the same meaning as distraint. Therefore, that article applies to claim for compensation for illegal distraint and not Art. 36, which is a general article. Seizure due to want of jurisdiction is contemplated by the provisions of Art. 28. A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 20=41 Bom. L.R. 1223=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 721=186 Ind. Cas. 509.

——Art. 28—Principal and agent—Liability in tort of principal for acts of agent.

Held, that a suit to recover damages on account of illegal issue of warrant and the subsequent distraint was goverued as to limitation by Art. 28 and not by Art. 2. 1904 A.W.N. 95=26 A. 482=1 A.L.J. 195.

——Art. 28—Standing crops—Attachment of land and crop—Damages.

A suit for damages for the wrongful attachment of land and crops and the consequent loss or destruction of the crops is governed by Art. 39. Standing crops at the time of attachment was immovable property and the attachment of the land with the crop thereon, if illegally made, constitutes a trespass on immovable property. 31 Mad. 431; 23 M.L.J. 511; 32 Cal. 459 and 36 Cal. 141, Ref. 25 M.L.J. 447=(1913) M.W.N. 869=14 M.L.T. 225=21 Ind. ——Arts. 28 and 39—Starting point.

The starting point for a suit for damages to crops belonging to the plaintiff caused by the cutting by the defendant begins on the date of the appropriation by the defendant. 14 C.W.N. 96=10 C.L.J. 226=3 Ind. Cas. 12.

1. Applicability.

——Arts. 29 and 49—Applicability—Suit for recovery of property wrongfully seized from plaintiff coupled with prayer for their price—Claim for damages based onthe wrongful seizure—Damages, if to be deemed to be compensation for the wrongful seizure.

Where the property wrongfully seized from the plaintiff is alleged to be in the possession of the defendants, and the suit is for recovery of the said properties coupled with a prayer for the price of those articles, as should be asked for under O. 20, R. 10, C. P. Code, the plaintiff can take advantage of Art. 49 of the Limitation Act and could not be confronted with Art. 29. Where the goods wrongfully seized from the plaintiff had been sold and thereby passed into the hands of third parties, a suit against the defendant for the loss caused to the plaintiff by such wrongful seizure and sale, being the price of the goods so sold, would be governed by Art. 29 and it should be brought within one year from the date of seizure. Where damages are also claimed and the justification for the claim is the wrongful seizure of the articles, such damages should be deemed to be compensation for such wrongful seizure and Art. 29 would apply to such cases. 1950 M. W. N. 345=A. I. R. 1950 Mad. 734=(1950) 1 M.L. J. 799.

——Arts. 29, 48 and 49—Applicability—Attachment of tailor's sewing machine and entrustment to sureties—Vital parts of machine removed during period of custody of sureties—Subsequent raising of attachment—Suit by tailor for return of machine in original condition or for damages —Limitation.

Art. 29 of the Limitation Act only governs cases where there has been an attachment which is found to have been wrongful, because the Court had no jurisdiction or because the attachment was obtained on insufficient grounds, and in which there are no additional factors such as mis-appropriation or theft or conversion of the attached property. Where a sewing machine, which is the sole means by which a tailor earns his livelihood, is attached before judgment and entrusted to sureties, and the attachment is afterwards raised on the application of the tailor who objects to the attachment on the ground of the machine being not liable to attachment under S. 60, C.P. Code, being the tool of an artisan, a suit by the tailor for return of the machine in the condition in which it was attached and removed from his possession, or for damages, it being found that certain vital parts of the machine have been removed from the machine while in possession of the sureties, falls for purposes of limitation, not under Art. 29, but under Art. 48 or Art. 49 of the Limitation Act. 226 Ind. Cas. 464= 1946 M. W. N. 256=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 453=(1946) 1 M.L. J. 241.

——Art. 29—Applicability.

Art. 29 applies to a suit for compensation for wrongful seizure of movable property under legal process. It has no application to a suit for compensation for wrongful removal of attached property. 58 M.L.W. 108 (2)=I.L.R. (1945) Mad. 784=(1945) 1 M.L. J. 265 =1945 M.W.N. 160=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 33.

——Arts. 29 and 36—Applicability—Illegal distraint of tenant's crops by land-lord—Suit by tenant for compensation—Limitation. See: Limitation Act, Art. 28. 27 Pat. 680.

——Arts. 29, 49—Applicability.

A car was bought by the appellant from one M. After it had been delivered to him by M, it was attached by one A in execution of a decree obtained against M. The appellant objected to the attachment and applied for its removal. During these proceedings, M was adjudicated an insolvent and on this event happening the bailiff of the Court, who was in possession of the motor car, delivered it over to the Receiver in insolvency. The appellant having been successful in his efforts to recover possession of the car, filed a suit for the recovery of a sum as damages which he said he suffered as a result of the wrongful seizure. He contended that the damages which he claimed were suffered after the bailiff had handed over the possession of the motor car to the Receiver in insolvency and it was not a case of damages for wrongful seizure of the motor car, but damages for wrongful detention of the car by the Receiver:

Held, that the cause of action was the seizure of the motor car by the bailiff and Art. 29 covered the case. Limitation having started, it continued and the cause of action, therefore, expired 12 months from the date of seizure. The cause of action was not a continuing one. The fact that the custody of the motor car was transferred from the bailiff to the Receiver made no difference to the case. They were both officers of the Court, and each was in possession of the property pending the final directions of the Court with regard to its ownership. Art. 29 directly covered the case and, therefore, Art. 49 could not be applied. A.I.R. 1937 Rang. 523=174 Ind. Cas. 240.

——Art. 29—Applicability.

Where certain property is sold in execution of a decree on the decree-holder giving undertaking to the objector that the price would be refunded on the success of the objector, a suit by the latter on his success in the claim suit for refund of that price is governed by Art. 83 and not by Art. 29. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 196=39 P.L.R. 948=175 Ind. Cas. 630.

——Art. 26—Applicability—Starting point.

The defendants obtained a decree against another person and attached certain movables. The plaintiff's father objected and a half share in the movables attached was released from attachment. The plaintiff's father then instituted a suit for establishing his title to the remaining half. He failed in the first Court but obtained a decree in his favour on appeal. The properties were meanwhile sold. The plaintiff applied for recovery of their value and the proceedings terminated against him. The plaintiff thereupon instituted a suit for declaration that the sale was void and for recovery of the value of the properties:

Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 29 and the cause of action arose on the date on which the goods were seized and the suit was, therefore, time-barred. 13 N.L. J. 209=A.I.R. 1931 Nag. 47=130 Ind. Cas. 157.

——Art. 29—Applicability.

Art. 29 is applicable only to the seizure and does not govern any suits arising out of what happens later at the time of sale. 85 Ind. Cas. 24=5 L.L. J. 289=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 136.

——Art. 29—Applicability.

A suit for compensation for wrongful seizure of movables is governed by Art. 29; but a suit for compensation for wrongful attachment of movables by the issue of a prohibitory order is governed by Art. 36 and not by Arts. 42, 46, 62 or 120. Art. 36 is a general article covering all possible acts and omissions commonly known as torts, that is, wrongs independent of contract and which are not provided for by other articles. 6 O.L.J. 394=22 O.C. 201=53 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Art. 29—Applicability.

A suit to recover money received by the deft. in the form of rent under a decree of a Court in respect of property of which the plaintiff was entitled to possession and also to rent is not covered by Art. 29, but is governed by Art. 62. 38 All. 676=14 A.L.J. 728=35 Ind. Cas. 86.

2. Arrest of ship.

——Arts. 29, 39 and 49—Arrest of ship—Trespass—Action in rem—Damages—Limitation.

In the absence of proof of malice or its equivalent a suit for simple trespass will not lie for the arrest of a ship. The arrest of the ship is a judicial act of the Court and an ordinary step in an action in rem assuming that an action would lie in the absence of proof of malice or its equivalent the action would be for wrongful seizure under legal process and would be barred by Art. 29 of the Lim. Act. 42 Cal. 85=28 Ind. Cas. 463.

3. Attachment before judgment.

——Art. 29—Attachment before judgment.

Art. 29 applies to all cases of attachment before judgment where specific property is seized, and the seizure is wrongful not only when the Court had no jurisdiction, but also when the attachment was obtained on insufficient grounds. Further it makes no difference whether the property attached belongs to the defendant or to a third party. 38 M.L.J. 324 and A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 774, Not foll. 53 Mad. 621=59 M.L.J. 859=31 M.L.W. 675=1930 M.W.N. 305=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 635.

——Art. 29—Attachment before judgment.

In a suit against the plaintiff by the defendant for recovery of money, plaintiff's property was attached before judgment. The suit was decreed by the first Court but dismissed by the appellate Court. Plaintiff sued to recover compensation for loss of profits, etc:

Held, Art. 29 does not apply to the suit, for Art. 29 is applicable only to those cases in which the seizure is intrinsically wrongful or perhaps to cases where the seizure is made without jurisdiction. The proper article to be applied is Art. 49 and time for suit runs from the date of appellate decree and not from the date of attachment. 81 Ind. Cas. 1038=22 A.L.J. 977=5 L.R.A. Civ. 732=A.I.R. 1925 All. 131.

——Art. 29—Attachment before judgment.

A suit for damages on account of injury to stock caused by making an attachment before judgment is covered by Art. 36. But a suit for damages on account of the sale of the goods attached before judgment, at a low price and for injury to trade and reputation due to the attachment itself is governed by Art. 29. 38 M.L.J. 324=(1920) M.W.N. 192=27 M.L.T. 259=11 L.W. 479=55 Ind. Cas. 786.

——Art. 29—Attachment before judgment—Suit for compensation—Limitation—Terminus a quo.

The limitation applicable to a suit for damages on account of the alleged unlawful attachment before judgment of a shop belonging to the plaintiff was that prescribed by Art. 29 and that limitation began to run from the date of the attachment. 23 M. 621; 27 M. 246; 24 W.R. 298, foll. 6 B.L.R. 704, dist. Semble:—That such an attachment, if wrongful, is not a continuing wrong within the meaning of S. 23. 1907 A.W.N. 194=4 A.L.J. 548=29 A. 615.

4. Attachment of debt.

——Art. 29—Attachment of debt—Assignee of debt—Suit for recovery.

Attachment by decree-holder of debt due to judgment-debtor does not amount to 'wrongful seizure of immovable property' within Art. 29 as the attachment is not effected by actual or constructive seizure but only by a written order. A debt due to a judgment-debtor was attached by his decree-holder and when the debtor paid the money into Court, it was paid over to the attaching creditor. A third person claiming to be assignee of the debt before attachment sued for recovery of the money. Held neither Art. 29 nor Art. 36 applied. The article applicable was either 62 or 120 and time runs from the date the attaching creditor received the money from the Court. 38 Mad. 972=26 M.L.J. 166=1 L.W. 162=(1914) M.W.N. 348=22 Ind. Cas. 870 (F.B.)

——Art. 29—Attachment of debt—Payment by debtor.

Per Sundara Aiyar, J.—A suit to recover the amount of debt paid by the debtor on attachment by a Court is governed by Art. 62 or 120, and not by Art. 29, because debt is not movable property. (2) There is no seizure under legal process, the debtor having voluntarily paid the amount. (3) The suit is not for compensation for wrongful seizure of movable property. (4) The article applies only where the Court is able to reduce the property to possession and does so at the instance of the judgment-creditor. 31 M. 431 and 8 Bom. 17, Diss. Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—The suit is governed by Art. 29 because (1) attachment amounted to wrongful seizure, (2) the suit was for compensation for wrongful seizure of movable property. 12 M.L.T. 458=23 M.L.J. 519=(1912) M.W.N. 1179=16 Ind. Cas. 914. (On appeal 22 Ind. Cas. 870)

5. Attachment of property.

——Arts. 29 and 36—Attachment of property—Claim allowed—Suit for declaration—To ignore the claim.

A property was attached by P over which plaintiff's predecessor claimed a lien. The claim was allowed by the executing Court and P brought the present suit for a declaration that the plaintiff's predecessor had no claim. The suit was decreed and proceeds of the attached property were rateably distributed among P and certain other creditors but the decree obtained by P was reversed in appeal and the plaintiff sued him and the other creditors to recover sums paid, in satisfaction of their claim. Held that the suit was not governed either by Art. 29 or by Art. 36 as there was not a seizure of money and the defts. were not guilty of any non-feasance, mis-feasance, or mal-feasance in respect of the money. 39 All. 322=15 A.L.J. 295=39 Ind. Cas. 532.

——Art. 29—Attachment of property—Suit for compensation for wrongful attachment.

See: Art. 36. 6 Bom. L.R. 704.

——Arts. 29, 42—Attachment of property—Suit for compensation for wrongful attachment or seizure.

Where the defendant caused a warrant of attachment to issue and the warrant was executed by affixing the Court seal to the outer door of the warehouse without breaking open the door and taking physical possession of the jaggery inside:

Held, that the attachment amounted to actual seizure within the meaning of S. 269, C. P. C., and that a suit for damages is governed by Art. 29 and not by Art 42. 27 M. 346.

6. Computation of limitation.

——Art. 29—Computation of limitation.

In a suit for damages for wrongful attachment, the time taken in getting the seizure declared illegal either on appeal or by other means cannot be deducted. A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 329=13 R. 43=154 Ind. Cas. 153.

7. Distinction between Art. 29 and Art. 11.

——Art. 29, 11—Distinction between.

Art. 11 deals with a suit by a person to establish his right to or to the present possession of the property comprised in the order while Art. 29 deals with a suit for compensation for wrongful seizure of movable property under legal process. Where a plaintiff sued for the value of the property recovered in execution the suit is not barred if brought after a year of the date of the order since Art. 29 governs the suit and not Art. 11. 4 Bur. L.T. 45=9 Ind. Cas. 773.

8. Essentials for application.

——Art. 29—Essentials for application.

Art. 29 must be interpreted to apply only to the seizure and not to govern any suits arising out of what happens later at the time of sale. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 196=39 P.L.R. 948=175 Ind. Cas. 630.

——Art. 29—Essentials for application.

There can be wrongful seizure only where the property is in possession of the person. No doubt constructive possession also will do, but when there is no right to possession, there can be no wrongful seizure and Art. 29 has no application. 38 All. 676, Rel. on. 4 M.L.T. 271, Dist. 123 Ind. Cas. 362=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 349.

——Art. 29—Essentials for application.

In order to bring the case under Art. 29, it must be shown that the seizure was wrongful under legal process. Where the writ is issued by Court prima facie the seizure is not wrongful.

Where the writ is not without jurisdiction and the Court has jurisdiction over the subject-matter, Art. 29, is inapplicable unless the writ is executed against a person who was no party to the decree or with respcet to goods outside the scope of the writ, Art. 29 is inapplicable. 19 Mad. 80 and 55 Ind. Cas. 786, Foll.

So long as the writ is not set aside, the seizure cannot be said to be wrongful except in instances such as mentioned above. 64 Ind. Cas. 513=35 C.L.J. 480=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 774.

9. "Legal process."

——Art. 29—"Legal process," meaning of.

The words "legal process" in Art. 29, denote procedure by some sort of Court, and the Collector acting under S. 154, Bom. Land Revenue Code, is not acting as a Court. He is really acting as a creditor. He, as the officer entitled to recover arrears of land revenue, is given power to seize the defaulter's goods. He is in a position analogous to that of a creditor who is given power under the contract to seize his debtor's goods, if his money is not paid. Legal process does not merely mean process according to law, otherwise seizure under a valid contract would be just as much seizure according to law as seizure under a statute. A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 300=44 Bom. L.R. 668=203 Ind. Cas. 611.

——Art. 29—"Legal process".

A distraint effected under Agra Tenancy Act (II of 1901) is a seizure of movable property under legal process because it is done under the special provisions of the Local Act and subject to the due observance of the procedure therein laid down. 75 Ind. Cas. 922=A.I.R. 1924 All. 828.

——Art. 29—"Legal process".

The process meant by Art. 29 refers to the process under which seizure takes place. 84 Ind. Cas. 6=20 N.L.R. 189=7 N L.J. 140=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 248.

10. Money paid by mistake.

——Arts. 29 and 62—Money paid by mistake into Court—Suit to recover.

A suit to recover money voluntarily paid into Court by a deft. under a mistaken belief and wrongly paid out to the decree-holder is governed not by Art. 29 but by Art. 96 or 120. 49 P.W.R. 1910=6 Ind. Cas. 654.

11. Prohibitory orders.

——Arts. 29, 36—Prohibitory order—Compensation for.

A suit for compensation for wrongful attachment of movables by the issue of prohibitory order is governed by Art. 29 or 36 and not by Arts. 42, 46, 62 or 120. An attachment by a prohibitory order is not injunction within the meaning of Art. 42. 31 M. L. J. 257=35 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Arts. 29, 62 and 120—Prohibitory order—Damages.

Neither attachment of a debt nor voluntary payment of it into Court constitutes seizure of movable property under legal process. A prohibitory order under O. 21, R. 46 does not amount to seizure within Art. 29 of the Lim. Act. 38 Mad. 972=26 M.L.J. 166=1 M.L.W. 162=(1914) M.W.N. 348=22 Ind. Cas. 870.

12. Seizure.

——Art. 29, S. 23—Seizure—Wrongful seizure.

Where property of a stranger is wrongfully attached by a decree-holder in execution of a decree against his judgment-debtor, a suit by stranger for compensation for wrongful seizure is governed by Art. 29. Such a wrongful seizure is not a continuing wrong within S. 23 of the Act. Limitation runs from the date of seizure and a fresh cause of action does not arise during the course of attachment as once the property is attached, the judgment-creditor does nothing more. The judgment-creditor has no duty analogous to that of a bailee towards a stranger in respect of property attached. A.I.R. 1940 Rang. 276=1941 Rang. L.R. 1 =192 Ind. Cas. 625 (F.B.).

——Art. 29—Seizure.

Where amount deposited by Receiver appointed under O. 40, R. 1, Civil P. C., is attached and paid to a person and a suit to recover back such amount is filed, it is not governed by Art. 29, since the attachment is neither seizure within the meaning of the article nor wrongful. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 493=40 P.L.R. 685=176 Ind. Cas. 731.

——Art. 29 and 49—Seizure—Movables illegally seized in execution of decree.

A suit to recover price of movables illegally seized in execution of decree is one for illegal seizure of property in execution and comes under Art. 29 or 49 of the Act. 14 Ind. Cas. 182 (Mad.).

——Arts. 29 and 120—Seizure—Recovery of value of movable property wrongfully seized.

A suit for recovery of the value of movable property wrongfully attached and sold is governed by Art. 29 and not by Art. 120. 4 Bur. L. T. 46=9 Ind. Cas. 774.

13. Standing crops.

——Art. 29—Standing crops—Damages for crops attached.

In the case of a suit for damages representing the value of crops which has been wrongfully attached, cut and removed, the pertinent articles are 48 and 49 and not 29 or 36, Limitation Act. 105 Ind. Cas. 763= A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 106.

——Art. 29—Standing crops—Seizure of.

Where the wrong is solely the seizure of standing crops, Art. 29 does not apply. Art. 37 may apply but a suit for damages for unlawfully distraining, cutting, and carrying away the crops is not governed by Art. 36 but is governed either by Art. 48 or 49. 17 C.W.N. 308= 17 C.L.J. 206=18 Ind. Cas. 253.

——Art. 29—Standing crops—Suit to recover compensation.

A suit to recover the value of standing crops wrongfully cut and carried away is not one to recover compensation within Art. 29 as immovable property defined in the General Clauses Act, S. 3 (25) includes standing crops and the definition of movable property given in S. 2 (13) does not govern the Lim. Act. 18 M.L.T. 532=31 Ind. Cas. 796.

——Art. 29—Standing crops—Wrongful attachment—Damages—Limitation.

Standing crops are not 'movable property' within Art. 29 and a suit for damages for the wrongful attachment of such crop is not governed by Art. 29 or any other article requiring the institution of a suit within one year. 11 N.L.R. 18=27 Ind. Cas. 935.

——Art. 29—Standing crops—Wrongful attachment—Damages.

A suit for damages for the wrongful attachment of land and crops and the consequent loss or destruction of the crops is governed by Art. 39. Standing crops at the time of attachment was immovable property and the attachment of the land with the crop thereon, if illegally made, constitutes a trespass on immovable property. 25 M.L.J. 447=(1913) M.W.N. 869=14 M.L.T. 225= 21 Ind. Cas. 213.

——Art. 29—Standing crops—Illegal attachment—Suit for damages.

Per Sundara Aiyar, J.—Where a suit for damages for the value of the standing crops cut during attachment is brought after a suit for declaration that the attachment is illegal has terminated, it is governed by Art. 62 or 120 and the cause of action arises on the termination of the suit, declaring the attachment illegal. Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—The suit is governed by Art. 29 or 36 and the cause of action arises from the date of attachment. 23 M.L.J. 620=(1912) M.W.N. 1222=17 Ind. Cas. 185.

——Arts. 29, 36—Standing crops—Suit for damages for illegal distraint of.

A suit for damages for illegal distraint of standing crops is governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 29. 9 C.W.N. 376=32 C. 459.

14. Starting point of limitation.

——Art. 29—Starting point of limitation.

In a suit for damages for the unlawful attachment and seizure of certain properties, the date from which time begins to run is the date of the seizure and not the date of the attachment and consequently, it is immaterial whether the attachment is or is not a continuing wrong. 13 R. 43=A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 329=154 Ind. Cas. 153.

——Art. 29—Starting point.

Under Art. 29 time begins to run from the date of the actual seizure and not from the date the seizure is declared wrongful by a competent Court. For the seizure is wrongful ab initio. It does not become wrongful when declared to be so by the Court. 53 Mad. 621=59 M.L.J. 859=31 M.L.W. 675=1930 M.W.N. 305=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 635.

15. Miscellaneous.

——Art. 29—Suit for damages for non-cultivation.

A suit for damages for non-cultivation of land is governed by Art. 29 or 36. 14 C.W.N. 96=10 C.L.J. 226=3 Ind. Cas. 12.

——Art. 29—Suit for damages for fraud:—See Art. 95. 27 Mad. 343.

——Arts. 29, 62, 120—Suit for money due on decree assigned to plaintiff—Plaintiff barred at time of receipt by deft.

Where plaintiff, an assignee decree-holder, was legally barred from collecting the money due on the decree assigned to him, and the assignors received the amount and entered satisfaction and the plaintiff brought a suit against the assignors for recovery of the amount collected by them, held that the proper article applicable to the case was not Art. 29 or 62 but Art. 120. (1911) 1 M.W.N. 220=9 M.L.T. 465=21 M.L.J. 705=10 Ind. Cas. 658.

——Art. 29—Suit for rateable distribution.

On the dismissal of an application for rateable distribution of the proceeds of the movable property of the judgment-debtor, a suit brought more than one year after attachment is governed by Art. 29. 10 M.L.T. 381 =12 Ind. Cas. 406.

——Art. 29—Suit for surplus sale proceeds wrongly taken out in execution.

A suit to recover the surplus proceeds of a sale held under Regulation VIII of 1819, wrongly taken out by the defendant in execution of a decree against a third party, does not come under Art. 29. 8 B. 17, diss. from. (1902) 30 C. 440=7 C.W.N. 520.

——Arts. 29, 49, 62, 120—Suit for value of property attached and sold wrongfully—Cause of action—C.P.C., S. 283.

Per Full Bench (Sankaran Nair, J. (dissentiente). —A suit for the value of paddy wrongfully attached by defendants in execution of a decree and sold is governed by Art. 29 and limitation begins to run from the date of the wrongful seizure. Per Sankaran Nair, J. —The article applicable is either Art. 62 or Art. 120, and the cause of action arises from the date of distribution of the sale proceeds among the defendants. Per White, C. J.—Art. 29 is not restricted in its application to claims for consequential damages. Per Pinhey, J.—S. 283, C.P.C., and Art. 11 of the Limitation Act do not affect the scope of the other articles of the Limitation Act. 18 M.L.J. 590=4 M.L.T. 271=31 Mad. 431 (F.B.).

——Art. 30.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability.

4. Injury to goods
5. Interpretation
6. Loss in transit
7. Loss of goods deposited in cloak room
8. Loss of goods
9. Mis-delivery, not non-delivery
10. Non-delivery
11. Starting point for limitation.

1. Applicability.

——Art. 30—Applicability—Plaintiff not knowing if his goods were lost or destroyed.

Art. 30 of the Limitation Act relates to a suit brought by a consignor in the form of a plaint for loss in circumstances pleaded of some specific loss having occurred on some specific date in some specific manner which the plaintiff is making the basis of his claim. It cannot apply to a case where the plaintiff does not know whether his goods were lost or destroyed. 2 D.R. 35.

2. Burden of proof.

——Art. 30—Burden of proof.

The plaintiff sued a railway company for damages for loss of part of the goods consigned to them for carriage and which where in their custody for some months. The plaintiff discovered the loss on the date on which he was permitted by the company to remove the remaining part of the consigned goods:

Held, that in the absence of other evidence, the Court was entitled to assume that the loss occurred on the date on which the plaintiff was permitted to remove the goods and not earlier. As the facts were specially within the knowledge of the railway company, S. 106 of the Evidence Act applied, and the burden was upon them to prove the date of the loss once the plaintiff adduced prima facie evidence in that behalf. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 726=1947 N.L.J. 540=A.I.R. 1947 Nag. 224.

——Art 30—Burden of proof.

It is now well settled that all suits against carriers in respect of goods delivered to them for carriage fall under Art. 30 or Art. 31, according as the claim is regarded as one based upon loss of or injury to the goods or non-delivery thereof. The onus of proving that the loss took place more than a year before suit and that, therefore, the suit was barred under Art. 30, would lie on the defendants. View of Chatterjee, J. in 44 Cal. 16, held not sound. 116 Ind. Cas. 148=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 371.

3. "Carrier."

——Arts. 30, 31—'Carrier', meaning of.

Upon the plain, unambiguous and unequivocal words of Arts. 30 and 31, the word 'carrier' is of a wider meaning than the expression 'common carrier' and it is wide enough to cover the case of a railway owned or controlled by Govt. Even though for the purposes of the Carriers Act, they are not common carriers, it would be a misuse of language to say that railways which carry goods for reward are not carriers. It would not be right to interpolate into Art. 30 the qualifying restriction implied by the word 'common' as applied to carriers. I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 614=A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 298=175 Ind. Cas. 196.

——Art. 30—Carrier—Damage to goods.

A carrier is one who conveys goods for hire or for reward. A Port Trust Board which merely stores and delivers goods to the ships calling at the port is not a carrier and a suit for compensation for damage to goods against the Port Trust is not governed by Art. 30. 4 S.L.R. 236=10 Ind. Cas. 972.

4. Injury to goods.

——Art. 30—Injury to goods.

Suit for compensation against railway company—Deterioration of goods due to continued negligence of railway servants—Continuing cause of action—Measure of damages. See Limitation Act, Ss. 23, 24 and Art. 30. 1947 N.L.J. 540=A.I.R. 1947 Nag. 224.

——Art. 30—Injury to goods—Suit for compensation against carrier.

A suit for compensation for injury to goods while in the possession of a carrier, e.g., a Railway Company falls under Art. 30. 11 S.L.R. 103=45 Ind. Cas. 173.

5. Interpretation.

——Art. 30—Interpretation.

The words "against a carrier for losing or injuring goods" obviously suggest not a mere loss of the goods to the owner which might be caused by mis-delivery, but an actual losing of goods by the carrier himself. 68 Ind. Cas. 981=20 A.L.J. 792=45 All. 43=A.I.R. 1923 All. 22.

6. Loss in transit.

——Art. 30—Loss in transit by Railway—Starting point—When shortage is ascertained.

Where a parcel consigned to railway arrived on 10th August, 1918, but the consignee ascertained shortage and loss only on 26th August, 1918, when the parcel was opened and delivery was given:

Held, that the cause of action to claim price and damages arose on 26th August, 1918, and not on the 10th August, 1918. 75 Ind. Cas. 669=A.I.R. 1923 All. 342.

7. Loss of goods deposited in cloak room.

——Arts. 30 and 31—Loss of goods deposited by passenger in cloak-room.

Arts. 30 and 31 of the Limitation Act have no application to a suit against the Railway Administration in respect of loss of goods deposited by a passenger in a cloak-room. A.I.R. 1949 Cal. 591=53 C.W.N. 406.

8. Loss of goods.

——Art. 30—Loss of goods—Suit against Railway Company—Negligence or theft by Company's servants.

A suit by consignor against a Railway Company for compensation for loss of goods owing to the loss caused by negligence of or theft by the Company's servants is governed by Art. 30. 30 C.W.N. 696=38 Ind. Cas. 502.

9. Mis-delivery, not non-delivery.

——Art. 30—Mis-delivery, not non-delivery.

A carrier does not lose goods under the article where he really mis-delivers though an actual loss does not occur to the owner. The loss referred to must be by the carrier himself. 170 P.L.R. 1913=122 P.W.R. 1913=19 Ind. Cas. 477.

10. Non-delivery.

——Arts. 30 and 31—Non-delivery due to loss of goods—Suit for compensation—Limitation.

A suit for compensation against the Railway Administration for non-delivery of goods due to their loss, is governed by Art. 30 of the Limitation Act, and the date of the loss which is the starting point of limitation should be taken to be the date on which the loss was first discovered in the absence of any evidence on the point. Art. 31 of the Act applies to all cases of non-delivery other than those due to the loss of the goods. A.I.R. 1950 Cal. 394.

——Arts. 30 and 31—Non-delivery of goods—Suit for damages.

Where in a suit against the Railway Administration for damages for non-delivery of consignment of goods, no objection is taken that the form or cause of action is incorrect or that the claim should have been for loss or injury and further upon the evidence the defendants have not established that the goods were lost by fire as alleged by them, Art. 31 and not Art. 30 of the Limitation Act applies to the suit. A.I.R. 1947 Cal. 98.

——Art. 30—Non-delivery of goods.

Where a suit fris amed as a suit to recover compensation for non-delivery of goods Art. 31 applies, and not 30; and the cause of action is the failure of the defts. to perform their contract. It is not a case of mis-feasance. 13 S.L.R. 1=51 Ind. Cas. 570.

11. Starting point for limitation.

——Art. 30—Starting point of limitation.

To a suit against carrier for compensation for injuring goods, article applicable is Art. 30, and the time begins to run from the date when the injury was actually caused and not from the date of the plaintiff's knowledge. The burden of proving when the injury was caused is upon the carrier. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 304=199 Ind. Cas. 437.

——Art. 30—Starting point of limitation.

Under Art. 30, time begins to run when the loss or injury occurs. Consequently, where it is proved by the admission of the consignee's letter of August 5, 1931 that the loss had occurred prior to that date, a suit brought on October 15, 1932 is clearly barred. The plaintiff cannot claim that the time runs only from the date of open delivery to him by the company. A.I.R. 1935 All. 407=(1935) A.L.J. 398=1935 A.W.R. 141=157 Ind. Cas. 46.

——Art. 30—Starting point.

Where on the date on which the consignees apply for delivery, the goods are missing and where there is nothing to show that the goods were lost prior to that date, time will run only from that date. 87 Ind. Cas. 579=47 All. 549=23 A.L.J. 398 =A.I.R. 1925 All. 656.

——Art. 30—Starting point.

A case of loss of portion of consignment undelivered is equivalent to a case of short delivery and time begins to run when the loss occurs, i.e., when the short delivery which constituted the loss is made. 71 Ind. Cas. 565=4 P.L.T. 331=A.I.R. 1923 Pat. 298.

——Art. 30—Starting point.

Where a Railway Company has not proved that the goods were lost more than one year before the institution of the suit, a suit brought within one year from the date of refusal to deliver is not barred either by Art. 30 or 31. 23 M.L.J. 511=17 Ind. Cas. 419.

——Art. 31.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability
2. Carrier
3. Starting point.

1. Applicability.

(a) Non-delivery of goods
(b) Non-delivery due to conversion or mis-delivery
(c) Suit by consignor and consignee.

1 (a). Applicability—Non-delivery of goods.

——Art. 31—Applicability — Non-delivery by Railway.

A suit for non-delivery is governed by Art. 31 and not by Art. 30. A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 727, Foll. 103 Ind.Cas. 383=8 P.L.T. 767=A.I.R. 1927 Pat. 335.

——Arts. 31 and 115.

Article 31 and not Art. 115 applies to a suit for damages for non-delivery of goods against a Railway Company. 89 Ind. Cas. 672=6 P.L.T. 559= 4 Pat. 482=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 611.

——Art. 31—Applicability—Non-delivery.

When in a suit for compensation for non-delivery of goods brought against a Railway company there is nothing to show that the plaintiff was being put off from seeking his remedy on account of any conduct of the defendant, Art. 31 applies to the case. 33 All. 543, Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 763=6 L.R.A. Civ. 414=A.I.R. 1925 All. 780.

——Arts. 31 and 115.

A suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods consigned to him is governed by Art. 31 and liable to be dismissed if brought after the lapse of one year from the time the goods ought to have been delivered. Article 115 of the Act applies only to suits for compensation for breach of any contract not specially provided for in the Act. 70 Ind. Cas. 857=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 330.

——Art. 31—Suit for damages for non-delivery.

The limitation applicable to a suit by consignor of goods against a Railway Administration for damages for non-delivery is the one prescribed by Art. 31. 42 All. 390=18 A.L.J. 377=2 U.P.L.R. (All.) 84=58 Ind. Cas. 547.

——S. 31—Suit for damages for non-delivery by carrier.

A suit for damages for non-delivery of goods by a carrier is governed by Art. 31, Sch. of the Lim. Act. 42 Ind. Cas. 536 (Mad.).

——Arts. 31 and 49—Non-delivery of goods—Suits against carrier.

A suit against a carrier for non-delivery of goods is governed by Art. 31 and not by Art. 49 which will apply only when there is proof that the goods are still in the possession and custody of the carrier. 24 Ind. Cas. 676 (Mad.).

——Art. 31—Applicability—Suit against Railway Company.

A suit against a Railway Company for compensation for non-delivery of goods is governed by Art. 31. 33 All. 544=8 A.L.J. 543=10 Ind. Cas. 122.

——Arts. 31 and 115—Carrier—Non-delivery of goods—Suit for compensation—Limitation.

A suit for damages against a carrier for failure to deliver goods falls under Art. 31 and not under 115. 13 C.W.N. 851= 3 Ind. Cas. 469.

——Arts. 31, 115—Compensation—Suit against carrier—Acknowledgment—Carriers—Non-delivery—Damages.

The plaintiff delivered to defendants 200 cases of oil for carriage from Bombay to Jeddah. The steamer reached Jeddah on the 11th July, 1900, where the defendants' agents delivered only 165 cases and granted to the consignee a certificate that 35 cases were short delivered. On the 15th November, 1900, plaintiff, on receiving this certificate, made a claim in writing to the defendants in Bombay. On the 18th July, 1901, the defendants, at plaintiff's request, wrote to their Jeddah agent for the 35 cases, and handed up the letter to plaintiff for being forwarded to Jeddah. On 20th December, 1901, they again wrote to their Jeddah agent for the cases and entrusted the letter to plaintiff to be despatched to Jeddah. On the 20th January, 1902, plaintiff sued defendants for damages for non-delivery of 35 cases. Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 31 and not by Art. 115. (1902) 4 Bom. L.R. 447=26 B. 562.

——Arts. 31 and 62—Sale by Railway—Suit for surplus sales proceeds.

Where the Railway Company has sold the goods in exercise of the powers conferred by S. 56 of the Railways Act, a suit by the consignor to recover the surplus sale proceeds from the Railway Company is governed by Art. 62 and not Art. 31. Such a suit is entirely different from a suit for compensation for non-delivery of the goods. 62 Ind.Cas. 742=44 Mad. 823=13 M.L.W. 693=1921 M.W.N. 422=30 M.L.T. 21=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 362=41 M.L.J. 205.

1 (b). Applicability—Non-delivery due to conversion or mis-delivery.

——Arts. 31 and 30—Applicability—Suit for non-delivery of goods.

Art. 31 of the Limitation Act applies to any suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery or delay in delivering goods, irrespective of the cause of the non-delivery. This article should not be interpreted as excluding all cases in which goods had been lost, destroyed or mis-delivered. A carrier is not entitled to set up a loss, whether or not such loss amounts to a tort to the goods, to bring a suit within the shorter period contemplated by Art. 30 when it clearly falls within Art. 31. I.L.R. (1947) Kar. 144=A.I.R. 1948 Sind 26.

——Art. 31—Scope—Conversion by carrier.

A suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods is governed by Art. 31 whether the non-delivery is due to conversion or any other reason and not by Art. 49. 31 N.L.R. 79 Sup.=A.I.R. 1936 Nag. 21=161 Ind. Cas. 867.

——Art. 31—Scope—Conversion by carrier.

A suit for wrongful conversion of goods cannot be called one for compensation for non-delivery but is one for damages for tort and Art. 31, does not apply to it. A.I.R. 1935 All. 156=(1935) A.L.J. 61=1935 A.W.R. 37=159 Ind. Cas. 40 (2).

——Art. 31—Cause of action.

A suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods is governed by Art. 31 whether the non-delivery is due to conversion or to any other reason. Non-delivery may be due to many causes of which conversion is one, but the cause of action is the non-delivery of the goods, whether due to loss, theft, destruction, conversion or mis-delivery to somebody else. 90 Ind. Cas. 135=A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 57.

——Art. 31—Applicability.

Whether the suit for non-delivery of goods is laid in tort or contract, if compensation is claimed for non-delivery of goods entrusted to a carrier the period of limitation is one year as prescribed by Art. 31. 44 Cal. 16, Not foll. 90 Ind. Cas. 374=5 Pat. 106=6 P.L.T. 565=1926 P.H.C.C. 114=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 727.

——Art. 31—Wrongful conversion by Railway.

A suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods is governed by Art. 31, whether the suit is laid in contract on ground of non-delivery or in tort, on the ground of wrongful conversion by the defendant. 88 Ind. Cas. 979=6 Lah. 301=26 P.L.R. 490=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 478.

——Arts. 31, 49 and 115—Suit for specific movable property against a carrier—Non-delivery of goods—Compensation.

In a suit against a carrier plff. asked for recovery of a plank of wood not delivered to the consignee and also for a sum of money being the loss of interest. The plaint contained no allegation that the deft. was in possession of the plank in question. Held, if the suit was regarded as one for compensation for failure to deliver the plank in breach of the contract in the bill of lading, it was governed by Art. 31 and not by Art. 49 or 115 of the Lim. Act. By the amendmet of Art. 31 of the Lim. Act the Legislature clearly indicated its intention that the article should apply to a claim against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods irrespective of the question whether the suit was laid in contract or in tort. Art. 49 is inapplicable to such a case, on the principle of generelia speciabilis non derogant. 39 Mad. 1=29 M.L.J. 342=(1915) M.W.N. 644=2 L.W. 805=18 M. L. T. 236=30 Ind. Cas. 840. [On appeal from 24 Ind. Cas. 676].

——Art. 31—Applicability.

Where a suit is framed as a suit to recover compensation for non-delivery of goods Art. 31 applies, and not Art. 30; and the cause of action is the failure of the defts. to perform their contract. It is not a case of mis-feasance. 13 S.L.R. 1=51 Ind. Cas. 570.

——Arts. 31 and 49—Claim by consignor—Non-delivery of goods—Effect of amendment of Art. 31 of Lim. Act of 1877.

The article applies to a claim by a consignor against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods consigned. The effect of amendment of Art. 31 in the old Act is to make it applicable to a claim against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods irrespective of the question whether the suit was one in contract or tort. 39 Mad. 1=(1915) M.W.N. 644=29 M.L.J. 342=2 L.W. 805=18 M.L.T. 236=30 Ind. Cas. 840 (F.B.).

——Art. 31—Mis-delivery.

Mis-delivery or delivery to a wrong person is not non-delivery within Art. 31. The case of mis-delivery is covered by Art. 115. 170 P.L.R. 1913=122 P.W.R. 1913=19 Ind. Cas. 477.

1 (c). Applicability—Suit by consignor and consignee.

——Art. 31 — Applicability — Consignor and consignee.

Article 31 applies whether the claims in suits mentioned therein arise ex-contractu or ex-delictu.

The legislature in enacting Art. 31 was not minded to discriminate between a suit brought by a consignor and a similar suit brought by a consignee. 19 Bom. 165, Appr. 39 Mad. 1, Not foll. 86 Ind. Cas. 127=29 C.W.N. 277=52 Cal. 372=A.I.R. 1925 Cal. 559.

——Art. 31—Suit by consignor and consignee.

The words of Art. 31 are wide enough to include suits brought by the consignor as well as by the consignee, and it may very well happen that the same person is both consignor and consignee. No distinction should be drawn between a case of action for compensation for non-delivery by a consignor and one by consignee. 42 All. 390; 13 C.W.N. 851, Foll. 80 Ind. Cas. 612=27 C.W.N. 806=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 173.

——Arts. 31, 30, 115—Applicability—Suit by consignor.

Per D. Chatterjee, J.—A suit by a consignor against Railway for value of goods consigned which were neither delivered to the consignee nor returned to the consignor and which the Railway denies having received and for compensation is governed by Art. 115 and not by Art. 30 or 31. Art. 31 seems to contemplate a suit by the consignee. (Per Beachcroft, J.).—If Art. 31 applies, the suit is not barred in the absence of evidence as to when the goods should have been delivered. 44 Cal. 16=23 C.L.J. 547=34 Ind. Cas. 130.

——Art. 31 — Action by consignor against carrier.

An action by a consignor to recover the value of the goods by the carrier is governed not by Art. 31 but by Art. 115. 9 M.L.T. 169=8 Ind. Cas. 882.

2. Carrier.

——Art. 31—Carrier.

A Railway does not cease to be carriers for the purpose of the Lim. Act because they detained the consignor's goods in respect of a claim for their charges before making delivery. Where the company's claims for wharfage arise out of their rights as carriers, the plaintiff cannot plead that the company's position as carriers was at an end and that the refusal to deliver the goods was unconnected with their position as carriers when their very claims to detain the goods arose out of that position. 31 N.L.R. 79 Sup.=A.I.R. 1936 Nag. 21=161 Ind cas. 867.

——Arts. 31, 48, 49—Applicability—Liability of carrier ceasing to be that of carrier.

Though, by delaying taking delivery of goods, the liability of the carrier as a carrier cannot be continued for an indefinite period, and for the period following the arrival of the goods, and if there be no delivery, the carrier's liability is that of a bailee and not that of a carrier; it cannot be held that after the goods have arrived, the carrier becomes a bailee for the purpose of limitation and that Art. 48 or Art. 49, Sch. I, could apply to a suit against the carrier. Art. 31 applies to such cases. A.I.R. 1933 All. 466= 1933 A.L.J. 796=144 Ind. Cas. 703.

——Art. 31—Carrier.

The fact that the Govt. is a "common carrier" within the meaning of the Carriers Act (III of 1865) does not make the Secretary of State for India in Council incapable of taking advantage of Art. 31, Sch. I, as Art. 31 refers to 'carriers' and not 'common carriers,' A.I.R. 1933 All. 466 =(1933) A.L.J. 796=144 Ind cas. 703.

——Art. 31—'Carrier,' meaning of.

Although Govt. is expressly excluded from the definition of "common carrier" for the purpose of the Carriers Act, 1865, as Art. 31, does not contain the expression "common carrier" but only "carrier," the article applies to suits against a State Railway. A.I.R. 1933 All. 348=144 Ind. Cas. 1029.

——Art. 31—Applicability.

Art. 31 is not restricted in its application to common carriers. It applies to carriers who come within the above definition. 35 M.L.J. 553=8 L.W. 46=24 M.L.T. 175=45 Ind. Cas. 485.

——Arts. 31 and 115—Carrier—Railway—Non-delivery of goods.

A suit against a railway company for compensation for non-delivery of goods is governed by Art. 31 and not by Art. 115 of the Lim. Act. The application of Art. 31 is not ousted by the mere fact that the responsibility of the Railway Company is limited by an agreement of the kind contemplated by S. 72, Cl. (2) of the Railways Act. 11 N.L.R. 174=31 Ind cas. 474.

3. Starting point.

——Art. 31—"When the goods ought to be delivered"—Meaning of.

In deciding what point of time should be held to be the time "when the goods ought to be delivered" within the meaning of Art. 31, Limitation Act, it is reasonable to take into account the date when the goods are despatched, the date when the goods reach the destination, the nature of the goods and the manner in which the goods are sent. Thus, if a wagon load of goods is sent, more time should be given after the despatch and the proper time for delivery than in a case where just a few bags are sent. Again, if the goods are of a perishable nature, very little time should be given for delivery after the goods have reached their destination. It is usual for the Railway Administration to send notices after the arrival of goods at the destination with a warning that if the goods are not taken delivery of within a certain period demurrage will be charged. If and when such notice is issued the point of time after which demurrage will be chargeable may very well be taken to be the time when the goods ought to be delivered. A.I.R. 1950 Cal. 394.

——Art. 31—Applicability—Suit to recover value of machinery consigned to railway company for carriage but not delivered to consignee—Limitation—Starting point.

A merchant consigned on 21st August, 1944, to the railway company some machinery for carriage from Bezwada to Lahore. He received from the consignee a letter dated 7th November, 1944, to the effect that the goods had not reached him. The consignor sent a notice on 8th February, 1945, to the railway company complaining of the non-delivery of the goods and asking for payment of their value. To this letter he was not vouchsafed any reply. He filed his suit on 31st October, 1945, for recovery of the value of the machinery. On a question whether the suit was in time;

Held, in view of the fact that in 1944 railways were afflicted by war conditions and congestion in transit, two months and sixteen days could not be considered to be an unreasonable period within which a railway company ought to have delivered the goods. In any event the suit was filed with one year of the receipt of information of non-delivery and hence there was no substance in the technical plea taken by the railway that the suit was barred. 1949 M.W.N. 599 = A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 30 = (1949) 2 M.L.J. 298.

——Art. 31—Non-delivery of goods by Railway—Suit for damages—Terminus a quo.

Art. 31 of the limitation Act applies to a case of non-delivery of goods by a railway, and a suit for damages must be filed within one year from the date when the goods ought to have been delivered. Where on failure of the consigned goods to reach the destination some correspondence passed between the parties and in the later letter the Chief Commercial Manager asked the plaintiff to furnish him a full description of of the package to facilitate tracing it, a suit for damages for non-delivery of goods brought more than a year after the date of that letter is barred by time. A.I.R. 1950 E. P. 160.

——Arts. 31 and 30 — Applicability — Suit by consignee for value of goods entrusted to Railway Company and lost in transit—Starting point.

A suit by a consignee for the value of goods entrusted to a Railway Company for carriage and lost in transit is governed by Art. 31 of the Limitation Act and not by Art. 30. The starting point of limitation would be the date when the Railway Company finally informs the consignee that the goods cannot be delivered. (1945) 2 M.L.J. 448 and (1949) 2 M.L.J. 298, followed. 63 L.W. 190 = A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 438 = (1950) 1 M.L.J. 210.

——Art. 31—Starting point — "When the goods ought to have been delivered"—Reasonable time for delivery—What is.

The question as to the date "when the goods ought to have been delivered" for purposes of Art. 31, Limitation Act, is essentially a question of fact. There can be no hard and fast rule that time must begin to run from the expiry of the ordinary or normal period of transit. If there is no particular date specified for delivery, it must be determined as a matter of fact, as to what is reasonable having regard to the circumstances of the contract and the conduct of the parties. Where in reply to inquiries made by the plaintiff, the Railway authorities state that the matter is being investigated and finally write that the consignment was lost or destroyed without any negligence or default on their part, the date of the final reply has to be taken as the date of refusal to deliver the goods, and limitation will run only from that date. It cannot be said in that case that the plaintiff has waited for more than a reasonable time within which the goods should have been delivered. 29 P.L.T. 477 = A.I.R. 1949 Pat. 268.

——Art. 31—Applicability—Suit against Railway—Railway writing to plaintiff suggesting that goods would be delivered—Starting point of limitation.

Art. 31 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit for compensation for non-delivery or delay in delivering goods and the time is one year from the time the goods ought to have been delivered. In a case where the Railway Company against whom the suit is filed was writing to the plaintiff in terms which would suggest that the goods were still to be delivered at some date in future, the starting point of the period when the goods ought to have been delivered must be treated as postponed at least to such a date when the Railway Administration shows that they themselves know that the goods cannot be delivered and have ceased to expect to deliver the goods. A.I.R. 1947 Cal. 98, foll. 2 D. R. 35.

——Art. 31—Loss in transit by Railway—Starting point.

Article 31 applies to a suit by a consignee for damages for the loss of goods in transit, the starting point being the date when the Railway Company finally says that the goods cannot be delivered. 77 Ind. Cas. 511 = 34 M.L.T. 303 = A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 567 = 46 M.L.J. 302.

——Art. 31—Starting point.

Where no time was fixed for the delivery of goods and the correspondence between the parties showed that the matter was being inquired into and there was no refusal to deliver up to well within a year of the suit, the suit is not time-barred. 68 Ind. Cas. 981 = 20 A.L.J. 792 = 45 All. 43 = A.I.R. 1923 All. 22.

——Art. 31—Starting point.

Where a Railway Company has not proved that the goods were lost more than one year before the institution of the suit, a suit brought within one year from the date of refusal to deliver is not barred either by Art. 30 or 31. 23 M.L.J. 511 = 17 Ind. Cas. 419.

——Art. 31—Starting point of limitation.

Plaintiff sent some goods by Railway from F to Z. The delivery of the goods was not taken by the consignee. After some correspondence between the parties, the defendant railway wrote to the plaintiff to take deilvery of the goods within 15 days from the receipt of the letter. Within this period the plaintiff sent his man to Z to take delivery. On reaching there, the plaintiff's man found that the goods had been sent by the railway authorites to the Lost Property Office at H. The plaintiff wrote to the Chief Commercial Manager who asked him to pay the railway freight from Z to H and back from H to Z and take delivery. The plaintiff refused to do so. He, therefore, filed a suit for damages for wrongful detention of the goods. The summons was served on Agent, E. I. Railway. The goods had arrived at Z on December 30, 1935 and the suit was filed on February 24, 1937:

Held, that the suit was within time even if Art. 31 was held applicable. The period of two months should be deducted from the period of limitation for the suit under S. 15, Cl. (2), Lim. Act. (1939) A.L. J. 154 = 1939 A.W.R. 216 = A. I. R. 1939 All. 277 = I.L.R. (1939) All. 392 = 181 Ind. Cas. 948.

——Art. 31—Starting point.

In a suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods, time begins to run when the goods ought to be delivered, i. e., when consignee is entitled to open delivery. 106 Ind. Cas. 311 = 4 O. W. N. 909 = A.I.R. 1927 Oudh 478.

——Art. 31—Non-delivery—Starting point.

Under Art. 31 time runs from the date on which the goods ought to be delivered, and the question as to when the recovery of the plaintiff's goods became hopeless is immaterial. 88 Ind. Cas. 979=6 Lah. 301=26 P.L.R. 490=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 478.

——Art. 31—Suit for damages for non-delivery of part of consignment against Railway — Time, when begins to run.

Art. 31 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit against a Railway Administration for damages in respect of non-delivery of a part of a consignment. Where no time for delivery is specified time under that article begins to run from after a definite refusal or declaration of inability to deliver and the cause of action arises when the consignor is made aware that there will be no further delivery of the undelivered part of the consignment. Limitation does not commence to run on the date when the short delivery was made. Transit of goods on railways, more particularly during the war period, is subject to delay and goods handed to a railway in one bulk are frequently delivered by instalments spread over a considerable period. In such delivery it cannot be said that the railway is in default of its obligations by failing to deliver the whole at one and the same time. When one consignment is loaded in several wagons, they do not always reach the destination at the same time but often one wagon travels quicker and its contents are delivered before the others arrive. When that occurs, if a suit were immediately instituted, after arrival of one of several wagons, for the balance, it would be met with a plea that a reasonable time for delivery had not expired and the action was premature. A.I.R. 1947 Cal. 98.

——Art. 31—Starting point of limitation—Suit for damages for loss of part of goods in railway transit—Time begins to run from date when railway company finally informs that lost goods cannot be delivered.

Where part of the consignment had been delivered on an earlier date and a part remained to be delivered in respect of which the railway company after making inquiries for a long time—extending over a year—finally informed the consignee that the undelivered articles were not traceable:

Held, that time to institute suit against the railway company for compensation of lost articles under S. 80, Railways Act (1890) began to run under Art. 31, Limitation Act, from after a definite refusal or declaration of inability to deliver by the railway company held responsible to deliver the lost goods. A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 133=(1945) Mad. W.N. 667=(1945) 2 Mad. L. Jour. 448=58 Mad. L.W. 592.

——Art. 31—Delivery—Starting point.

In a suit for non-delivery where no portion of the consignment has been delivered, it is sometimes necessary to take evidence on the question of when the consignment ought to have been delivered, which must in any case be regarded as a question of fact, but where a great part of a consignment has been delivered on a certain day, there is ordinarily no necessity to enter into evidence on the question of when the balance of the consignment ought to have been delivered because the time when the consignment as a whole ought to have been delivered is manifestly the time when the greater part of the consignment arrived at its destination. 103 Ind. Cas. 383=8 P.L.T. 767=A.I.R. 1927 Pat. 335.

   (c) Easement
   (d) Perversion amounting to ouster.

1 (a). Applicability and scope—General.

——Art. 32—Applicability.

Article 32 is not applicable where the zemindar brings a suit for demolition of a building built by his tenant on the abadi site, which was no part of his tenancy but belonged to the zemindar. The suit is for assertion of zemindar's right and for preventing the tenant from taking exclusive possession. (1937) A.L.J. 515=A.I.R. 1937 All. 472=1937 R.D. 273=I.L.R. (1937) All. 623=1937 A.W.R. 473=170 Ind. Cas. 121.

——Arts. 32 and 143 — Applicability—Suit for ejectment by land-lord—Tenant diverting holding to non-agricultural purposes.

Art. 32 and not Art. 143 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit by a land-lord for ejectment of an occupancy tenant on the ground that he has diverted his holding to non-agricultural purposes. I.L.R. (1947) Nag. 286=229 Ind. Cas. 528=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 20 (1)=1947 N.L.J. 25.

——Art. 32—Perversion.

Where the defendants who are entitled to use the land as a sehan darwaza and as a sehan darwaza only, construct structures on it, they pervert it to other purpose namely, by making certain constructions. A.I.R. 1938 All. 20=(1937) A.L.J. 1231=1938 R.D. 52=1937 A.W.R. 1093=173 Ind. Cas. 140.

——Art. 32—Scope.

Article 32 is applicable to those cases only in which the injury complained of is the perverted user of the property by the defendant, who had the right to use it for a specific purpose, and the plaintiff seeks the assistance of the Court merely to get rid of the perversion. (1937) A.L.J. 515=A.I.R. 1937 All. 472=1937 R.D. 273=1937 A.W.R. 473=I.L.R. (1937) All. 623=170 Ind. Cas. 121.

——Arts. 32 and 120—Suit for ejectment of muqarraridar on ground of perversion of land to unauthorised purpose—Article applicable.

A suit for ejectment of an occupancy tenant or a muqarraridar on the ground of perversion of land to an unauthorised purpose thereby rendering it unfit for the purpose for which it is held, is governed by Art. 32 and not by Art. 120 of the Limitation Act, and the period of limitation is two years from the date on which the perversion first becomes known to the land-lord. 26 L.L.T. 31.

——Art. 32—Applicability.

Article 32 governs cases against persons who having a right to use property for specific purposes, pervert it to other purposes. 11 L.L.J. 493=A.I.R 1929 Lah. 816.

——Art. 32—Excavation by tenant—Compensation for damage.

In a suit for mandatory injunction upon the defendants, to fill up a tank which had been excavated on a portion of the land comprising the tenancy held by some of the defendants under the plaintiffs, in breach of a condition in the Kabuliyat, for compensation and for ejectment of the defendants therefrom, the claim for compensation is independent of and not ancillary to the claim for ejectment and can be maintained although the latter claim fails. Article 32 of the Limitation Act applies to such claim for compensation and not Art. 1 of Sch. 3 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. 62 Ind. Cas. 779=25 C.W.N. 930=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 62.

——Arts. 32 and 143— B. T. Act, S. 155—Suit for possession—Misuse of land by tenant.

Suit for possession under B. T. Act, S. 155 on the ground of tenants misuse of land or user in contravention of the lease terms governed by Art. 32 not Art. 143. 20 C.W.N. 661=33 Ind Cas. 923.

——Art. 32—Suit for removal of structure.

A suit by a land-lord for removal of a structure erected by the mortgagee of an occupancy holding upon the holding without his consent is covered by Art. 32 or by 120 if it is treated as a suit for an injunction. 8 A.L.J. 914=12 Ind. Cas. 108.

——Arts. 32, 120—Injunction—Suit for, as between co-owners.

A suit by one co-owner for an injunction restraining the other co-owners from obstructing a common way is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 32. (1908) 18 M.L.J. 602=4 M.L.T. 278.

1 (b). Applicability and scope—Common right.

——Art. 32—Suit for injunction to remove constructions on shamilat—Limitation.

Where the plaintiff sues for permanent injunction to have certain constructions removed on the ground that they had been built by the defendant upon two pathways, the pathways being part of the village shamilat of which the plaintiff as well as the defendants are some of the owners, the suit does not fall under Art. 32 but is governed by Art. 120. A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 701=35 P.L.R. 472=156 Ind. Cas. 358.

——Art. 32—Common land.

A sued for an injunction to compel B to remove a kotha built on a part of the village common land. This kotha was bulit more than two years before, and less than six years before the institution of the suit.

Held, that the notion that Art. 32 applies only to cases ex contractu was not correct, therefore the suit was barred not under Art. 120 which did not apply but under Art. 32. 121 Ind. Cas. 186=31 P.L.R. 14=A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 283.

——Art. 32—Shamilat land—Perversion of use.

One of the owners of the shamilat which comprised the pattis, reserved for specific purposes, perverted it to other purpose by using it for building purposes. Other co-owner sued for permanent injunction after four years:

Held, that in this case Art. 32 applied because of the perversion to different purpose of the shamilat land in question and hence limitation being two years the suit was time-barred. 118 Ind. Cas. 447=30 P.L.R. 399=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 535.

——Art. 32—Perversion of use.

Where a person has a right to use the shamilat plots for grazing purposes but perverts the same to building purposes, a suit against him claiming permanent injunction for removal of the encroachment falls within Art. 32. Das v. Rama Nand. 115 Ind. Cas. 73 (Lah.)

——Art. 32—Defendent having only a right in common.

Article 32 can properly be applied only where the person proceeded against had, before the preversion in respect of which he is being sued took place, a right to "use the property for specific purposes" peculiar to himself. It is not intended to apply to a case in respect of land in which the person proceeded against had no other right than a right in common with the general public to pass over it. 112 Ind. Cas. 381=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 794.

——Art. 32.

Where a suit was instituted for an injunction that the defendants be restrained from cultivating land on the allegation that according to the custom of the village it was reserved for the common use of all the owners in the village, and that no individual owner was entitled to do anything so as to interfere with such common use:

Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 32 and not by Art. 120. 26 Cal. 564 (F.B.), Foll. 89 Ind. Cas. 405=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 653.

——Art. 32—Shamilat property—Adverse possession by member.

A suit to oust defendant from specific portion of Shamilat Det held by him adversely to the remaining proprietors or to remove obstruction to the enjoyment of the Shamilat is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 32. 132 P.W.R. 1912=124 P. R. 1912=2 P.L.R. 1913=15 Ind. Cas. 285.

——Art. 32—Encroachment on public road.

Suit for removing encroachment on a public road and not on the property of any particular person is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 32. 124 P.R. 1912; A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 242 and 2 L.L.J. 463, Foll. 110 Ind. Cas. 517=29 P. L. R. 308=A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 792.

——Art. 32—Cremation ground.

Where certain persons build on common burning ground, a suit to eject them is governed by Art. 32 as the defendants have a real right in the land itself, parts of which any of them can from time to time temporarily appropriate and use as a support on which to cremate a dead body. 112 Ind. Cas. 844=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 186.

——Art. 32—Public grave-yard.

Where the defendant who had the right to bury his dead in a grave-yard, planted trees therein and converted it into a grove and the plaintiff, the proprietor of the land, sued for possession of the plot and for removal of the trees:

Held, that plaintiff could not sue for its possession, the plot being a public grave-yard, and that the claim for removal of trees was governed by Art. 32. 93 Ind.Cas. 89=13 O.L.J. 428=A.I.R. 1926 Oudh 341.

1 (c). Applicability and scope—Easement.

——Art. 32—Easement—Increase of burden on the servient tenement.

Where plaintiff's complaint was that by placing heavier and more beams for supporting a masonry roof on a wall instead of the lighter beams which previously supported the thatched roof and which had rested on the wall, the burden of an existing servitude had been increased;

Held, that Art. 32 did not apply to the case. 78 Ind. Cas. 193=46 All. 68=4 L. R. A. Civ. 510=A.I.R. 1924 All. 450.

——Art. 32—Increase of burden on the servient tenement.

Where the appellants having a right by way of easement to support a thatch against a wall belonging to the plaintiff-respondent, substituted for the thatch a masonry or semi-masonry building and supported the beams necessary for its construction upon the wall in question:

Held, that they thereby undoubtedly increased considerably the burden upon the wall, and that it was a clear case of perversion of a right, within the meaning of Art. 32 of the Limitation Act. A suit brought therefore 2 years after the plaintiff came to know of the perversion is barred. 69 Ind. Cas. 819= A.I.R. 1922 All. 320.

——Art. 32—Claim of easement—Interruption.

The defendant nearly doubled his wall and erected a second story to his house and put a double sided thatch which increased the burden on the plaintiff's land.

Held, the defendant's case being a case of easement he could acquire it only by 20 years user and Art. 32 was not applicable. 33 Ind. Cas. 90 (All.).

1 (d). Applicability and scope—Perversion amounting to ouster.

——Arts. 32, 142 and 144—Perversion of user of property—Limitation applicable—Test—Nature of relief asked for.

In the case of a perversion of the user of property, it is open to the plaintiff to bring his suit merely for the removal of the perversion. The perversion may give him a right to other reliefs also and the period of limitation for such reliefs would depend upon the nature of the reliefs which he may choose to claim. If the perversion amounts to ouster or entitled the plaintiff to possession over the property and a suit is brought for recovery of possession, the suit would not be governed by Art. 32; but if the suit is only for the removal of the perversion, it would be governed by Art. 32, Limitation Act. If the plaintiff claims other reliefs he should frame his suit accordingly and raise a specific issue as to his right to the relief which he claims and bases on the perversion of the user. I.L.R. 1950 A. 507.

——Art. 32—Perversion.

Where the act of the defendant amounts to an ouster of the plaintiff, Art. 32 has no application although the defendant may, in fact, have perverted the land to some purpose to which it was not originally intended, in addition to ousting the plaintiff from it. 21 P.L.T. 109=A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 106=6 B. R. 48=184 Ind. Cas. 493.

——Art. 32—Perversion—Ouster.

Art. 32 has no application where the defendant's act, though it might also have resulted in the perversion of the user from the original specified purpose really amounted to an ouster of the plaintiff from the property in question, and the object of the suit is not to get rid of the perversion simpliciter, but to have the dispute as to title settled. (1937) A.L.J. 515=A.I.R. 1937 All. 472=1937 R. D. 273=1937 A.W.R. 473= I.L.R. (1937) All. 623=170 Ind. Cas. 121.

——Art. 32—Perversion—Ouster.

Art. 32 does not apply to a case where the defendant's act, though it might also have resulted in the perverion of the user from the original specified purpose, really amounts to an ouster of the plaintiff from the property in question and the real object of the suit is not to get rid of the perversion simpliciter, but to have the dispute as to title settled. 34 P.L.R. 618=14 L. 267= A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 705=145 Ind. Cas. 553 (F.B.).

2. "Right to use."

——Art. 32—'Right to use'.

Art. 32, in referring to a right to use the property does not embrace a mere licence to use the property. A distinction is to be drawn between a legal right to remain in possession of the property and mere licence which is revocable at any time. A.I.R. 1934 All. 836 =153 Ind. Cas. 670.

3. Starting point.

——Art. 32—Starting point of limitation.

If the plaintiffs are dissatisfied and want redress, they ought to come within two years of their knowledge of perversion. A.I.R. 1938 All. 20=(1937) A.L.J. 1231 =1938 R. D. 52=1937 A. W. R. 1093=173 Ind. Cas. 140.

3. Claim against directors of company
4. Claim against tenants
5. Claim against trustee
6. Compensation for detention of goods or money.
7. Compensation for illegal distraint or attachment
8. Starting point.

1. Applicability and scope of article.

——Art. 36—Scope.

Art. 36 is a residuary article. A.I.R. 1935 All. 995 =1935 A.W.R. 1189=58 A. 342=159 Ind. Cas. 977.

——Art. 36—Applicability.

Art. 36 is a residuary article in respect of one class of suits. It is a general article for suits for compensation for acts and omissions amounting to torts which are not provided for elsewhere. That that article is applicable to torts only is indicated in col. I. The mal-feasance, mis-feasance or non-feasance complained of must be "independant of contract" in order to attract that article. That article applies to suit which has for its basis the commission by the defendant of some act which is in itself unlawful or the improper performance of some lawful act, e.g., with negligence or some illegal omission, but the breach must be of a duty imposed by general law of the land and not a duty created by or resting upon a special engagement in which case Art. 36 would not apply. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 483= 46 C.W.N. 294= I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 577=75 C.L. J. 1 =202 Ind. Cas. 389.

——Art. 36—Suit against Receiver for mis-feasance —Limitation.

If any loss occurs by reason of mis-feasance, mal-feasance or non-feasance on the part of a Receiver appointed under O. 40, Civil P. C. in respect of the property committed to his care or if loss results from his management or neglect of duties, he is to make good the loss not by reason of any provision of the general law of the land but because of the breach of the duties he had agreed to discharge The mis-feasance, mal feasance or non-feasance, as the case may be, on his part would not be "independant of contract".

Accordingly, Art. 36 is not applicable to a suit against the Receiver which is not for compensation but is in essence a suit for account of his management. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 483=46 C W.N. 294=75 C.L. J. 1= I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 577=202 Ind. Cas. 389.

——Arts. 36, 39—Scope—Tortious act.

The removal of the earth of a plot by persons who have no title or grant in respect of that earth given by the plaintiffs is a tortious act which comes within the scope of Art. 36 and a suit for compensation against the persons removing the earth is governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 39. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 172=1940 O.W N. 1318=1941 A.W.R. 22=191 Ind. Cas. 885.

——Art. 36—Scope—Suit laid in tort.

In so far as the suit is one laid in tort, the article applicable would be Art. 36. The case not based on any contractual obligation should be brought within two years from the date on which any mal-feasance, mis-feasance or non-feasance, not specially provided for was committed giving rise to a claim for compensation for damages. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 118= 184 Ind. Cas. 130.

——Art. 36—Mis-feasance independent of contract —Slander of title.

Where a person who goes to the intending tenants of a certain building and dissuades them from taking the building on rent by making false statements as to habituality and safety to the building is actuated by malice in so representing, he is liable in tort, the tort being analogous to slander of title and falling within the broader description of injurious falsehood. The wrong complained of in such a case is mis-feasance independant of a contract and Art. 36 applies to such an action. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 84=I.L.R (1938) Nag. 348 =176 Ind. Cas. 257.

——Art. 36—Scope—Tort.

Article 36 is a general article for suits for compensation for all acts and omissions amounting to torts which are not provided for elsewhere. (1936) M.W.N. 196= 70 M.L.J. 255=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 250=43 L.W. 429= 161 Ind. Cas. 538 (2).

——Art. 36—Scope—Claim for interest based on negligence.

The claim for interest based on negligence of the vendor is governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 97 or 62. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 564=187 Ind. Cas. 742.

——Arts. 36, 90, 120—Scope—Non-feasance.

In a case of non-feasance, the article for an action against the person, who has committed it, is Art. 36 and not Art. 120 or 90 of the Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1936 Rang. 310=164 Ind. Cas. 410.

——Art. 36—Applicability.

A suit for recovery of money due to tenants in common which has been received by one or more tenants to the exclusion of the rest is not governed by Art. 36 as the liability is not ex delicto. A.I.R. 1937 Pesh. 28=168 Ind. Cas. 41.

——Arts. 36, 115 and 120.

A suit by one co-sharer against another to recover his share in the profits of a ferry is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 36 or 115 of the Lim. Act. 1 Pat. L.J. 69=35 Ind. Cas. 430.

——Art. 36—Scope—Compensation for exclusion from civil rights.

A suit for compensation for exclusion of the plaintiffs from their civil rights if occasion arises for their exercise in the administration of the caste funds, and the benefit of being able to scrutinise the caste accounts is governed by Art. 36. 37 Bom. L.R. 417=A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 361=158 Ind. Cas. 414.

——Art. 36—Applicability—Suit for compensation for damage done to car lent for use.

Suit by a plaintiff claiming charges for repair and also interest by way of damages, where the defendant who had borrowed the plaintiff's motor car for private use damaged the same in an accident, is not governed by Art. 36 but by Art. 115. 10 O.W.N. 1105=9 Luck. 189=A.I.R. 1933 Oudh 518=145 Ind. Cas. 1001.

——Art. 36—Mis-feasance independant of contract —Suit by attaching creditor.

A suit by an attaching creditor against a third person who has removed and misappropriated the attached movables in collusion with the debtor is governed, not by Art. 48 or Art. 49 but by Art. 36. (1932) A.L.J.

241=16 R.D. 380=A.I.R. 1932 All. 256=54 A. 467=136 Ind. Cas. 809.

——Art. 36—Pledgee and pledgor — Suit to recover pledged property or value

Where a pledgee having power to sell for default, takes over in effect, as if upon a sale the pledged property to himself without the pledgor's authority or giving credit for their full value to him the pledgee is guilty of an unauthorised conversion and the pledgor is entitled to have his property back or its full value but only on payment of debt. A suit brought by the pledgor under the above circumstances within three years from the date of the alleged sale is well within time whether the suit be regarded as one for redemption governed by Art. 145 or as one for damages for breach of contract governed by Art. 115. Article 36 has no application to such a suit. 122 Ind. Cas. 37=30 M.L.W. 898=A.I.R. 1930 Mad 364.

---Art. 36—Implied contract—Injury by owner of the sub-soil to the surface.

Where the owner of the sub-soil causes injury to the surface the wrong cannot be said to be independent of a contract so as to be governed by Art. 36; for there is an implied covenant running with the land that the surface owner will have an inherent right of support from the owner of the sub-soil. 120 Ind. Cas. 626=10 P.L.T. 191=8 Pat. 776=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 245.

——Art. 36—Goods lost by carrier—If possession of carrier is not lawful, Art. 36 applies.

To give rise to these special privileges or liabilities which attach to transactions by or with carriers, the relationship as between a carrier, and his customer has first to be established and, for the presumption of an implied contract to carry delivery of the goods so as to enable the carrier to acquire lawful possession of the goods for the purpose of carriage is the indispensible essential.

Plaintiff put the goods on the defendant's ferry boat for conveyance and himself got on to it. He found that the boat was being overloaded and feeling it unsafe to travel on it, he got down and wanted to take down his goods but the defendant refused to allow him to do so. The boat started on its journey with his goods and capsized on the way and the goods were lost. He sued to recover price of the goods:

Held, that as there was no delivery in this case the article applicable to the case was not Art. 30 or 31 but the general article, namely, Art. 36. 107 Ind.Cas. 723=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 306.

——Art. 36—Trespass.

A suit for damages for wrongfully cutting lac producing trees and removing the trees is a suit for compensation for trespass upon immovable property within Art. 39 and for wrongfully taking specific movable property within Art. 49. 80 Ind. Cas. 769=20 N.L.R. 80=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 125.

——Art. 36—Suit for damages for trespass.

A suit for damages for unlawfully setting fire to and destroying pepper vines is governed by Art. 39 and not 36, which applies to cases of mis-feasance not otherwise provided for. Trespass includes the mischief commited by the trespasser after entering on the land. 12 M.L.T. 538=(1912) M.W.N. 1229=23 M.L.J. 618=17 Ind. Cas. 605.

——Art. 36—Malabar Law—Redemption suit.

A Malabar mortgagor obtained a decree for redemption on 9th March 1907 and was put into possession on 8th December 1908 and carried on the execution proceedings for the recovery of damages subsequent to the decree between 8th November 1908 and 22nd June 1910 which ended unsuccessfully, the Court deciding in appeal that the proper remedy for him was to proceed by way of suit. He then brought a suit for damages both prior and subsequent to the decree. Held, that Art. 36 applied and the mortgagor had only two years from the date of damage to institute the suit. 33 M.L.J. 463=6 L.W. 696=(1917) M.W.N. 822=43 Ind. Cas. 6.

——Arts. 36, 62 and 120—Suit to recover money deposited.

Plaintiff's predecessor got a lease from Collector of certain property for carrying on a grog shop but died shortly after. By way of security for rent of the property he had deposited a sum of Rs. 250 in the Collectorate. Defendant got the lease transferred in his name and the Collector agreed to retain the money in satisfaction and discharge defendant's liability under the lease. Plaintiff brought the present suit to recover the sum. Held, that the suit was one to recover a specific sum of money which had been applied by the defendant for his own use, and was governed by Art. 120 and not by 36 or 62. 38 Ind. Cas. 525 (Pat.).

——Arts. 36, 49, 132—Mortgage—Depreciation—Security—Remedy—Limitation.

Where trees on mortgaged property are cut and carried away by third parties the only remedy of the mortgagee is a suit for damages for the depriciation of the security and the proper article of the Lim. Act applicable would be either Art. 36 or Art. 49. 3 L.W. 341=32 Ind. Cas. 901.

——Arts 36 and 89—Suit for money misappropriated by servant.

A suit for money received and misappropriated by a servant is governed by Art. 89 and not by Art. 36. It is immaterial whether the misappropriation charged is criminal or not. If there is no misappropriation that money is payable by the defendant having been received by him and not accounted for still Art. 89 applies. 28 Ind. Cas 452 (Cal.).

——Arts. 36 and 115—Damages—Person untruly representing himself to be agent of another.

A suit for compensation against a person for untruly representing himself to be the authorised agent of another and thereby inducing the plff. to deliver goods or deal with him as such agent is governed by Art. 115 and not by Art 36. 38 Mad. 275=25 M.L.J. 256=14 M.L.T. 360=(1913) M.W.N. 884=21 Ind. Cas. 65.

——Art. 36—Compensation for injury by mortgagee.

Art. 49 and not Art. 36 governs a suit by mortgagee for compensation from a third person for injury to specific movable property mortgaged to the former. 5 Bur. L. T 156=6 L.B.R. 75=17 Ind. Cas. 906.

——Art. 36—Damages for malicious prosecution.

The limitation for a suit for damages for malicious prosecution begins from the date of the discharge as found in the records and not from any date on which the Magistrate expressed an opinion that there was no case. (1912) M.W.N. 951=16 Ind. Cas. 584.

——Art. 36—Damages resulting from a conspiracy.

A suit to recover damages resulting from a conspiracy falls within Art. 120 or 36 and not within Art. 23. 16 C.W.N. 145=13 Cr.L.J. 65=13 Ind. Cas. 721.

——Art. 36—Damages for assault.

A suit for damages or compensation for injury caused to a person's reputation and for mental pain caused by an assault, is governed by Art. 22 and not by Art. 36. The cause of action is the assault itself, though the damages can be awarded for the resulting insult. 5 Ind. Cas. 124 (All.)

——Art. 36—Things lost owing to servant's negligence.

A suit for the recovery of the price of articles lost by the negligence of the servant where the servant has acknowledged his liability is not governed by Art. 36. 7 M.L.T. 93=5 Ind. Cas. 764.

——Art. 36—Suit for damages for fraud.

See Art. 95. 27 Mad. 343.

——Art. 36—Suit against son, when claim against father is barred.

Where a suit against a father is barred under Art. 36, no suit against his son can lie for the same. 33 Mad. 308=20 M.L.J. 633=8 M.L.T. 321 =7 Ind. Cas. 898.

2. Applicability and scope of Arts. 2 and 36.

——Arts. 36 and 2—Applicability—Suit for compensation for failure of local body to maintain water supply system in proper order.

A suit for compensation for damages said to have been caused by the failure of a local body to maintain its water system in proper order is governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 2.

(Applicability of Arts. 2 and 36 discussed.) 47 P.L.R. 302=A.I.R. 1945 Lah. 324=I.L.R. (1945) Lah. 523 (F. B.).

——Art. 36—Bursting of Municipal fittings

A case of damage to houses by bursting of Municipal fittings, by its negligence is governed by Art. 36 and not Art. 2, Lim. Act. 121 Ind. Cas. 500=A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 730.

——Art. 36—Damage by canal.

Where the canal authorities cut the bank of a canal to avoid accident to the adjoining railway and not to the canal and plaintiff's adjacent mills were damaged:

Held, that Art. 2 was not applicable as the act alleged was not done in pursuance of any enactment. 4 Lah. 428; 79 Ind. Cas. 208; and 4 Lah. 432; 79 Ind. Cas. 185, Reversed. 103 Ind. Cas. 1=1927 M. W .N. 334=4 O.W N. 471=31 C.W.N. 835=26 M.L.W. 134=28 P.L R. 453=39 M.L.T. 343=10 Lah. 161=A.I.R. 1927 P.C. 72 (P.C).

——Arts. 36 and 2—Act done under statute—Act done in improper manner out of malice and carlessness.

The intention of Art. 2 of the Lim. Act is to meet these cases where a public official or a public authority or a private person does an act, injurious or possibly injurious to another under powers conferred or honestly believed to be conferred by some Act of the legislature. Art. 2 does not apply to a case where the damages arise not from the doing of the Act or from the failure to do it, but from doing it in an improper manner out of malice and carelessness such a case would be governed by Art. 36. 16 O. C. 211=21 Ind. Cas. 426.

3. Claim against directors of company.

——Art. 36—Scope — Suit for compensation against directors of company.

A suit against the directors of a company for compensation for loss suffered in consequence of the misleading prospectus issued by the company is governed for purposes of limitation by Art. 36. 57 M. L. W. 546=(1944) 2 M. L. J. 286=1944 M.W.N. 646=I.L.R. (1945) Mad. 325=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 5.

——Art. 36—Scope—Suit for damages against directors of company.

A suit for damages against the directors of a company on the ground that due to their misrepresentations in the prospectus of the company the plaintiff was induced to take shares and thereby sustained loss is governed by Art. 36 and not Art. 120. 57 M.L.W. 312=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 431.

——Art. 36—Applicability—Suit against directors of Bank alleging dishonesty.

A suit by a Bank alleging that in sanctioning a loan the Directors had acted dishonestly and that their conduct was such as to render them liable for the amount lost by the Bank due to wilful breach of their obligation as directors is not governed by Art. 36 but by Art. 90. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 271=167 Ind. Cas. 307.

——Art. 36—Mis-feasance by director of company—Limitation.

A suit for compensation against the director of a company instituted more than 2 years after the date of mis-feasance is barred and the plaintiff cannot avail of the benefit of S. 18 Lim. Act if it is not established that the knowledge of his right was kept from him by means of fraud. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 577=40 P.L.R. 883=178 Ind. Cas. 504.

——Art. 36—Mis-feasance "independent of contract" — Application for mis-feasance under S. 235, Companies Act.

Mis-feasance under S. 235, Companies Act is not independent of contract within the meaning of Art. 36 inasmuch the relation between a director and the company is based on contract. Limitation for an application under S.235. is therefore not governed by Art. 36. A.I.R. 1933 Sind 103= 143 Ind. Cas. 713.

——Art. 36—Suit for compensation under S. 235, Companies Act.

An application under S. 235 of the companies Act of 1918 to recover compensation from an ex-director of a company in respect of an alleged act of mis-feasance or breach of trust, is by virtue of Cl.(3) of the section governed by Art. 36, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 58, Foll. and A.I.R. 1925 All. 519, Not foll. 100 Ind. Cas. 907=8 Lah. 167= 28 P.L.R. 363=A.I.R. 1927 Lah. 433.

——Art. 36 — Mis-feasance of directors of companies.

A right to sue for mis-feasance of directors of companies arises from the date of mis-feasance and is governed either by Art. 120 or Art. 36. 128 Ind. Cas. 477=1930 M.W.N. 966=32 M.L.W. 555=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 58=54 Mad. 153=60 M.L.J. 280.

——Art. 36 — Suit against directors of company —Mis-feasance.

A claim against the directors for mis-feasance or breach of trust is clearly not independent of contract and consequently Art. 36 of the Limitation Act does not apply to the case. The relations between the bank and its directors are in part governed by numerous articles in the articles of association which constitute part, though not the whole of a contract between the bank and its directors. The terms of the contract are to be found mainly in the articles of association but partly dehors the articles. 54 Bom. 226=32 Bom. L.R. 232=A.I.R. 1930 Bom. 572.

——Art. 36.

Whether a director whose acts are the subject of construction was a trustee or a partner or an agent to the Company or to the body of shareholders is to be determined according to the circumstances of each case.

In the particular case the Chairman of the Board of Directors was held to be acting as agent of the company and a suit against him for losses by his negligence was governed by Art. 90 and not Art. 36. 79 Ind. Cas. 740=5 Lah. 27=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 435.

——Art. 36—Suit by liquidator of company.

A suit for recovery of compensation from an officer of company in respect of certain mis-feasance committed by him is barred against the liquidator, if it is brought by the liquidator after 2 years. 71 Ind. Cas. 899=A.I.R. 1923 Lah. 58.

4. Claim against tenants.

——Arts. 36, 115 and 120—Applicability—Suit for damages for use and occupation of shop after notice to vacate.

A suit for damages for use and occupation of a shop, after notice to vacate is governed by Art. 120 and not either by Art. 39 or Art. 115. Art. 39 can have no application because the suit is not for compensation for trespass upon immovable property. The defendant's remaining in possession of the property after the notice to quit does not constitute a trespass upon the property in the required sense. Nor would Art. 115 apply because the liability of the defendant to put the lessor into possession of the property on the determination of the lease is a statutory liability and Art. 115 does not provide for the breach of such a liability or statutory duty. Hence it is that the residuary Art. 120 applies to such a suit. 1946 A.L.J. 305 (2)=1946 A.W.R. (H.C.) 516=1946 A.L.W. 429=A.I.R. 1947 All. 31=231 Ind. Cas. 58.

——Arts. 36, 115—Mis-feasance independant of contract—Suit by land-lord against tenant for damages for unauthorised use of water.

The plaintiff who was a shrotriemdar sought to recover a sum of money from the defendant as damages for the unauthorised use of the shrotriem tank water alleging that though the defendant was, under the terms of the muchilika executed by him, entitled to take water for second crop, he took water, not for the second crop but for watering the field to facilitate ploughing for the next season:

Held, that the cause of action was really a tort and not based on a breach of contract and the suit was, therefore, governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 115. (1936) M.W.N. 196=70 M.L.J. 255=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 250=43 L.W. 429=161 Ind.Cas. 538 (2).

——Art. 36—Suit by land-lord for compensation for removal of trees by tenant.

Art. 48 or 49 of the Lim. Act, 1877, applies to a suit by the land-lord for compensation for removal of trees from the lands against the tenants defendants and not Art. 36. 25 Cal. 692, Foll. 10 C.L.J. 25=2 Ind. Cas. 955.

5. Claim against trustee.

——Art. 36—Trust—Loss occasioned to 'trust' —Suit against trustee to make good loss.

A suit filed against a trustee or ex-trustee to recover the loss sustained by the trust by reason of his omission to collect moneys due to the trust is governed by Art. 120 and not by Art. 36. (1939) M.W.N. 229=A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 353=47 L.W. 344= (1938) 1 M L.J. 334=I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 586=174 Ind. Cas. 459 (F.B.).

——Art. 36—Claim against trustee as in tort.

If the perquisites are received from third persons they are not wages and if the claim is for the recovery from the trustee as in tort Art. 36 and not Art. 102 will apply. 23 M.L.T. 288=45 Ind.Cas. 414.

6. Compensation for detention of goods or money.

——Art. 36—Detention of goods.

A suit for damages against defendant at whose instance plaintiff's goods were detained by customs authorities is governed by Art. 36 and not Art. 49. 106 Ind. Cas. 277=46 C.L.J. 455=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 1.

——Art. 36.

Where Collector of Customs detained plaintiff's goods on representation made by defendant maliciously and without reasonable and probable cause:

Held, suit for damages for such detention against defendant was governed by Art. 36. 04 Ind. Cas. 444=30 C.W.N. 465=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 757.

——Art. 36—Deterioration of fruits.

Article 36 and not Art. 49 applies to a suit for compensation for deterioration of plaintiff's oranges owing to their detention at the police station. 00 Ind. Cas. 509=42 C.L.J. 203=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 177.

——Art. 36—Suit for wrongful detention of plff.'s money.

A suit for a compensation for detention of the plff.'s money by the Court owing to a wrongful act of the deft. is governed not by Art. 36 but by Art. 49. 7 Ind. Cas. 5 (Cal.).

7. Compensation for illegal distraint or attachment.

——Art. 36.

Applicability—Illegal distraint by land-lord of crops of tenant—Suit by later for compensation—Limitation. See Limitation Act, Art. 28. 27 Pat. 680.

——Art. 36—Wrongful attachment of crops.

In the case of a suit for damages representing the value of crops which has been wrongfully attached, cut and removed, the pertinent articles are 48 and 49 and not 29 or 36, Limitation Act. 105 Ind. Cas. 763=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 106.

——Art. 36—Wrongful attachment of crops.

Where the defendant attached the plaintiff's share of standing crops in execution of a decree against the plaintiff's bataidar, and before the date of the order allowing the objection by the plaintiff to the attachment, the crops had become valueless, on plaintiff's suit for damages for wrongful attachment:

Held, Art. 39 and not 36, applies to this case. 65 Ind. Cas. 665=4 N.L.J. 231=18 N.L.R. 96= A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 212.

——Art. 36—Attachment before judgment.

A suit for damages on account of injury to stock caused by making an attchment before judgment is covered by Art. 36. But a suit for damages on account of the sale of the goods attached before judgment, at a low price and for injury to trade and reputation due to the attchment itself is governed by Art. 20. 38 M.L.J. 324=(1920) M.W.N. 192=27 M.L.T. 259=11 L.W. 479=55 Ind. Cas. 786.

——Art. 36—Applicability — Wrongful attachment.

A suit for compensation for wrongful seizure of movables is governed by Art. 29. But a suit for compensation for wrongful attachment of movables by the issue of a prohibitory order is governed by Art. 36 and not by Arts. 42, 46, 62 or 120. Art. 36 is a general article covering all possible acts and omissions commonly-known as torts, that is, wrongs independent of contract and which are not provided for by other articles. 6 O.L.J. 394=22 O.C. 201=53 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Arts. 36 and 29—Attachment of property—Claim allowed—Suit for declaration—To ignore the claim.

A property was attached by P over which the plff.s' predecessor claimed a lien The claim was allowed by the Executing Court and P brought the present suit for a declaration that the plff s' predecessor had no claim. The suit was decreed and proceeds of the attached property were rateably distributed among P and certain other creditors but the decree obtained by P was reversed in appeal and the plff sued him and the other creditors but the decree obtained by P was reversed in appeal and the plff. sued him and the other creditors to recover sums paid, in satisfaction of their claim. Held, that the suit was not governed either by Art. 29 or by Art. 36 as there was not a seizure of money and the defts. were not guilty of any non-feasance, or mis-feasance or mal-feasance in respect of the money. 39 All. 322=15 A.L.J. 295=39 Ind. Cas. 532.

——Art. 36—Wrongful attachment of movables—Prohibitory order.

A suit for compensation for wrongful attachment of movables by the issue of a prohibitory order is governed by Art. 36 and not by Arts. 42, 46, 62 or 120. An attachment by a prohibitory order is not an injunction within the meaning of Art. 42. 31 M.L.J. 257 =35 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Art. 36—Attachment of debt—Assignee of debt—Suit for recovery.

A debt due to judgment-debtor was attached by decree-holder and the attaching creditor received the money paid by the debtor into Court. A third person claming to be assignee of the debt before attachment sued for recovery of the money. Held, neither Art. 29 nor Art. 36 applied. The article applicable was either 62 or 120 and time runs from the date the creditor received the money from the Court. 33 Mad. 972=26 M. L. J. 166=1 L. W. 162=(1914) M. W. N. 348=22 Ind. Cas. 870 (F. B.)

——Art. 36—Seizure of standing crops.

Art. 36 may apply to a wrong consisting solely in the seizure of standing crops, but to a suit for damages for unlawfully distraining cutting or carrying away the crops, Art. 36 does not apply. The article applicable is either 48 or 49. 17 C W. N. 308=17 C. L. J. 206= 18 Ind Cas. 253.

——Art. 36—Illegal attachment—Suit for damages.

Per Sundara Aiyar, J—Where a suit for damages for the value of the standing crops cut during attachment is brought after a suit for declaration that the attachment is illegal has terminated. it is governed by Art. 62 or 120, and the cause of action arises on the termination of the suit declaring the attachment illegal. Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J.—The suit is governed by Art. 29 or 36 and the cause of action arises from the date of attachn ent. 23 M.L.J. 620=(1912) M.W.N. 1222=17 Ind. Cas. 185.

——Art. 36, 39 and 49—Distress—Compensation—Three years limitation.

Art. 36 applies to a suit for compensation for fictitious distress by a fictitious land-lord against a fictitious tenant. Per Doss, J—Art. 49 applies partly and Art. 39 also and the period is three years from the alleged distress. 36 Cal. 141=9 C. L. J. 109=12 C.W.N. 1090=1 Ind Cas. 788.

——Art. 36—Suit for damages for illegal distraint of crops—Limitation—Article applicable, Art. 29 or 36.

In a suit for damages for illegal distraint of crops, it is upon the defendant to prove that the crops were not standing crops, and therefore, Art. 29 and not 36 applied to the case. (1905) 9 C W.N. 376=32 Cal. 459.

——Arts 36, 29, 42, 49—Suit for damages and compensation for wrongful attachment before judgment.

A suit for damages for wrongful attachment before judgment is governed by Art. 36. (1903) 6 Bom. L. R. 704.

8. Starting point.

——Art. 36—Starting point of limitation.

Where certain persons employed in clearance work dispose of the suit by depositing it on the land of the plaintiff, their act will undubitably render the joint owners who have employed the persons, jointly and severally liable; and each act of depositing silt affords the plaintiff a separate cause of of action, the limitation in the case being governed by Art. 36. 27 S.L.R. 41=A. I. R. 1933 Sind 176=144 Ind. Cas. 452.

——Art. 36—Starting point.

If a suit is for compensation for any mal-feasance or mis-feasance independent of contract, and not otherwise provided for, the limitation will be two years, not from the date of the mal-feasance or mis-feasance, but from the time when the injury results. 120 Ind. Cas. 626=10 P.L T. 191=8 Pat. 776=A.I.R. 1929 Pat. 245.

——Art. 36—Misappropriation by administrator—Starting point.

Limitation for a suit against administrator and the surety for their liability to the estate according to the Commissioners's report, runs not from the time that the alleged misappropriation by administrator took place but from the time when the Court confirmed the Commissioner's accounts and the shortage was ascertained. A.I.R. 1924 Rang. 68. Foll. 98 Ind. Cas. 459=4 Rang. 358=A.I.R. 1927 Rang. 28.

——Art. 36—Mal-feasance.

Where sulphuric acid was thrown at the plaintiff and injury was caused to his eye:

Held, (Crump, J.) that if the act of mal-feasance was complete at the time when the vitriol was thrown in the plaintiff's face and the subsequent consequences were no part of the cause of action. 84 Ind. Cas. 796=25 Bom. L. R. 1333=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 290.

——Art. 36—Compensation for mis-feasance—Cause of action—Companies Act, S. 235.

An application for the recovery of compensation for mis-feasance made under S. 235 of the Companies Act is treated as a suit by virtue of sub-S. (3) and such a suit is governed by Art. 36 of the Limitation Act, and as no new rights and liabilities are created, the cause of action does not arise on the date of the winding up order but time must run from the date of the mis-feasance for which compensation is sought. 69 Ind. Cas. 255=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 285.

——Arts. 36, 62—Tort—Money had and received—Commencement of limitation.

The cause of action for damages for a wrong accrues at the date of the wrong. But the cause of action for money had and received is the date of the receipt of the money. 34 Ind. Cas. 173 (All.)

——Art. 36—Suit for damages for non-cultivation.

A suit for non-cultivation of land is governed by Art. 29 or 36. The starting point for a suit for damages to crops belonging to the plaintiff caused by the cutting by the deft. begins on the date of the appropriation by the deft. 14 C.W.N. 96=10 C.L. J. 226=3 Ind, Cas. 12.

——Art. 37—Continuing obstruction—Starting point.

If it is alleged by the plaintiff that the obstruction caused by closing the main sluice of a tank continued and he was prevented from removing the same by threat of violence it is a continuing wrong under Art 37 read with S. 23 of the Limitation Act. The suit would be within time if it is brought within three years of the last day to which the wrong continued. 82 Ind. Cas. 482=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 189.

——Art. 37—Easement—Right of way—Continuing cause of action.

Where on a partition a path was set apart for the joint use of both the branches of the family and it continued to be in the uniterrupted user of both the parties for a long time until the deft. obstructed it and th plaintiff nine years after the obstruction brought a suit for an injunction, held, that the obstruction was in the nature of a continuing nuisance and gave a fresh starting point of limitation de die in diem. 2 Ind. Cas. 410 (Cal.)

——Art. 39.

Municipal Committee holding cattle fair on land of certain person for several years—Agreement to compensate owner of land held to be implied—Suit for compensation—Article 115 and not Art. 39 applied. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 267=178 Ind. Cas. 49.

——Art. 39—Underground trespass.

A claim for damages for trespass and removal of coal from an underground colliery is covered by Arts. 39 and 49 and time begins to run from the inadvertent wrongful taking or from discovery of fraudulent taking. 101 Ind. Cas. 62=31 C.W.N. 82=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 117.

——Art. 39—Injury to crops.

A suit for compensation for injury to crops by the closing of the main sluice of a tank is governed by Art. 39. 82 Ind. Cas. 482=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 189.

——Art. 39—Wrongfully cutting trees.

A suit for damages for wrongfully cutting lac producing trees and removing the trees is a suit for compensation for trespass upon immovable property within Art. 39 and for wrongfully taking specific movable property within Art. 49. 80 Ind. Cas. 769=20 N.L.R. 80=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 125.

——Art. 39—Wrongful attachment of crops.

Where the defendant attached the plaintiff's share of standing crops in execution of a decree against the plaintiff's bataidar; and before the date of the order allowing the objection by the plaintiff to the attachment, the crops had become valueless, on plaintiff's suit for damages for wrongful attachment:

Held, Art. 39 and not 36 applies to this case. 65 Ind. Cas. 665=18 N.L.R. 96=4 N.L.J. 231=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 212.

——Arts. 39, 26 and 29—Wrongful attachment—Standing crop—Damages.

A suit for damages for the wrongful attachment of land and crops and the consequent loss or destruction of the crops is governed by Art. 39. Standing crops at the time of attachment was immovable property and the attachment of the land with the crop thereon if illegally made, constitutes a trespass on immovable property. 25 M.L.J. 447=(1913) M.W.N. 869=14 M.L.T. 225=21 Ind. Cas. 213.

——Art. 39—Suit for possession of land free of houses and trees—Removal of trees.

A suit for possession of land free of the house and trees wrongfully built and planted by the deft. as distinguished from a claim merely for the removal of the trees, is governed by Art. 142 of the Lim. Act. 17 O.C. 252=25 Ind. Cas. 701.

——Art. 39—Suit for damages for trespass.

A suit for damages for unlawfully setting fire to and destroying pepper vines is governed by Art. 39 and not 36, which applies to cases of mis-feasance not otherwise provided for. Trespass includes the mischief committed by the trespasser after entering on the land. 12 M.L.T. 538=(1912) M.W.N. 1229=23 M.L.J. 618=17 Ind. Cas. 605.

——Art. 39—Ejectment suit—Subsequent suit for mesne profits.

Plaintiff sued deft. for mense profits after an ejectment decree against the deft. for the period between the date of the institution of the suit and the date of the judgment. Held, that the suit was one for compensation for trespass upon immovable property as plaintiff must be deemed to have been entitled to possession on the date of the suit. Art. 39 and not Arts. 109 and 120 applies to the case. 34 Mad. 502=9 M.L.T. 35=(1910) M.W.N. 614=8 Ind. Cas. 162.

——Art. 39—Delivery effect of—C. P. C., S. 244.

Delivery of formal possession in execution of a decree for possession gives a cause of action against a defendant who remains in occupation of the premises, which may be enforced in a regular suit. The defendant who remains in actual possession notwithstanding execution must be regarded as a trespasser who commits a fresh act of dispossession and this gives a fresh cause of action. (1903) 8 C.W.N. 49.

——Art. 40—Starting point.

A claim to recover compensation in respect of infringement of copyright for a period within three years prior to the suit is not barred. 38 C.W.N. 604=A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 668=152 Ind. Cas. 835.

——Art. 40—Suit for damages for infringement of trade mark.

A suit for damages for infringement of a trade name or trade mark which is an exclusive privilege, is governed by Art. 40. 45 P.R. 1919=83 P.L.R. 1919=51 Ind. Cas. 434.

——Art. 42—Wrongful attachment of movables—Prohibitory order.

A suit for compensation for wrongful attachment of movables by the issue of a prohibitory order is governed by Art. 36 and not by Arts. 42, 46, 62, or 120. An attachment by a prohibitory order is not an injunction within the meaning of Art. 42. 31 M.L.J. 257=35 Ind. Cas. 98.

——Art. 42—Injunction—Suit for damages for obtaining perpetual injunction maliciously and without reasonable cause.

No suit lies for damages against a deft. for maliciously and without reasonable and probable cause, obtaining perpetual injunction which was subsequently dissolved on appeal. 13 W. R. 305, Doubted. 42 Cal. 550=18 C.W.N. 1189=21 C.L.J. 68=26 Ind. Cas. 296.

——Art. 42.

The present plaintiff began to construct a house on his own land. The present deft. brought a suit for declaration and took out a temporary injunction to stay further progress of the work. The suit was decreed in the Lower Court but dismissed on appeal on July 3, 1905. The present plaintiff applied on 2nd July 1908 under S. 197, C. P. Code (1881) for damages. The Court treated the application as plaint. Held, that the present suit being brought within 3 years from July 3, 1905 was not barred under Art. 42. 16 C.L.J. 34=16 Ind. Cas. 443.

——Art. 42.

Suit for—Procuring erroneous decision—Likelihood of breach of peace, information as to—Action, maintainability—Cause of action—Crops cut and appropriated Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II Art. 42—Injunction—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898) S. 146.

It is well settled that no action will lie against any person for procuring an erroneous decision of a Court of justice. This is so, even though the Court has no jurisdiction in the matter and although its judgment or order is for that or any other reason invalid. Where the defendant informed the Magistrate that there was possibility of a breach of the peace and it was not suggested that the information was untrue in fact and on the recommendation of the Police the Magistrate commenced proceedings under S. 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code, it was held that the plaintiff had no cause of action against the defendant in so far as the plaintiff might have suffered any damage by reason of his inability to cultivate the land attached by the order of the Magistrate. In so far as the crops grown by the plaintiff and cut by the defendant were concerned, the cause of action arose on the day they were appropriated by the defendants. Quaere.—Whether an order under S. 140 of the Code of Criminal Procedure can be treated as an injunction within the meaning of Art. 42, Sch II of Lim. Act. (1909) 10 C.L.J. 226=14 C.W.N. 96=3 Ind. Cas. 12.

——Arts. 42, 29—Injury to property attached—Suit to recover damages for injury caused by injunction.

Attachment in execution having been raised on the plaintiff claiming the property attached, the decree-holder filed a suit to establish his right to attach, and pending it obtained an injunction restraining the plaintiff from taking delivery of the property. The plaintiff having finally won obtained possession of the property and finding the property damaged sued the attaching decree-holder for damages. Held, that Art. 42 and not Art. 29, applied to the case, and that the cause of action arose not on the date of the attachment, but on the date when property was finally restored to him. (1901) A.W.N. 211=24 A. 146.

——Art. 42—Compensation for wrong injunction.

See Art. 29. 27 M. 346.

——Art. 44.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability and scope

3. Aliyasanthana family
4. Joint Hindu family
5. Malabar Tarwad
6. Guardian—Who is
7. Several wards
8. Suit by or against assignee or legal representative of ward
9. Suit by purchaser from guardian
10. Suit for possession
11. Transfer by certificated, natural or other de jure guardian
12. Transfer by de facto guardian
13. Transfer by guardian as his property
14. Transfer of property—Meaning of.

1. Applicability and scope.

——Art. 44—Applicability—Transfer of minor's property by unauthorised person—Limitation.

Where there is a transfer of a minor's property by an unauthorised person acting as a guardian, it is not a case falling within Art. 44 of the Limitation Act but it is a case where the limitation is twelve years from the date of the transfer or three years from the date of attainment of majority, whichever is longer. I.L.R. (1948) 2 Cal. 170=53 C.W.N. 258 (1).

——Art. 44—Scope.

The question whether or not Art. 44, shall apply, depends upon whether the transactions were by the guardian of the minors and whether these require setting aside. Article 44 has no application to cases of transfers by wholly unauthorised persons. A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 203=47 C.W.N. 288=206 Ind. Cas. 599.

——Art. 44—Alienation by unauthorised person.

Where the property of a minor has been transferred by wholly unauthorised person, the transaction is void ab initio and it is not necessary for the minor in order to recover possession of property transferred to have the transfer set aside. In such cases Art. 44 will have no application and the suit will be governed by Art. 144. 1929 A.L.J. 1248=A.I.R. 1929 All. 879.

——Art. 44.

When a sale is made not by a guardian but by a wholly unauthorised person, (in this case by a Mahomedan step mother) Art. 44 is inapplicable but Art. 142 applies and a suit brought within 12 years from date of sale is within time. 84 Ind. Cas. 923=6 L.L.J. 516=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 239.

——Art. 44.

Per M. N. Mukerji, J.—Article 44 is not applicable to the case of an alienation by an unauthorised person. 34 All. 213, Foll. 83 Ind. Cas. 1040=39 C.L.J. 394=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 1008.

——Art. 44—Applicability—Transfer not binding.

The article applies only if the transfer is binding unless it is set aside by a suit. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 589=193 Ind. Cas. 168.

——Art. 44.

It is far from correct to say that a minor cannot repudiate a transfer except by filing a suit under Art. 44. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 822=(1938) M.W.N. 802=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 428=182 Ind. Cas. 862.

——Art. 44—Scope—Not restricted to transfer by certificated guardian.

The words of Art. 44 are very general and have application to every case in which a ward on attaining majority impugns the transfer made by his or her guardian during his or her minority and there is absolutely no warrant for restricting the application of that article to cases of transfers made by a certificated guardian. 1929 A.L.J. 1248=A.I.R. 1929 All. 879.

——Art. 44.

In the case of an alienation by an authorised guardian the minor must sue within three years of his coming of age. 61 Ind. Cas. 384=3 L.L.J. 280=A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 25.

——Art. 44—Condition precedent.

One condition precedent for the application of Art. 44 is that the property should be property belonging to the ward and where it does not so belong, Art. 44 has no application. 7 O.W.N. 150=A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 82.

——Art. 44—Clog on redemption—Suit to set aside.

Article 44 refers to suits brought a minor to set aside the unauthorised acts of his guardian and does not apply to a case where the plaintiff tries to set aside the leases as void as clog on the equity of redemption. 115 Ind. Cas. 405=53 Bom. 360=31 Bom. L.R. 229=A.I.R. 1929 Bom. 186.

——Art. 44—Setting aside decree.

Articles 95, 44 and 91 of the 1st Schedule to the Limitation Act do not apply to a suit to have a decree set aside but the article applicable would be 120. 62 Ind. Cas. 794=4 L.L. J. 211=2 Lah. 164=79 P.L.R. 1921=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 166.

——Art. 44—Execution sale—Property belonging to minor wrongfully attached and sold in a decree against the guardian—Setting aside.

A suit by a minor to set aside a sale in execution of decree obtained against guardian is governed by Art. 44. (1916) 2 U. B. R. 116=10 Bur. L.T. 225=36 Ind. Cas. 3.

——Arts. 44 and 91—Executor—Alienation by.

A sale by an executor of the testator's properties must be governed by the rules relating to an executor and a suit by his son, a legatee, under the will to set aside the sale is not governed by Art. 44. Nor is Art. 91 applicable as the alienation need not be set aside in order to recover possession of the property. 36 Mad. 575=12 M.L.T. 207=23 M.L. J. 306=(1912) M.W.N. 1112=17 Ind. Cas. 4.

2. Defence not barred.

——Art. 44—Scope—Defence not barred.

It is open to the minor to challenge the transfer as a defendant and Art. 44 will be no bar to such a defence. That article only bars the remedy of the plaintiff to get the mortgage-deed set aside but is not fatal to his title. A.I.R. 1940 All. 416=(1940) A.L J. 511=1940 A.W.R. 458=I. L. R. (1940) All. 580=191 Ind. Cas. 647.

——Art. 44—Defence not barred.

Where the vendee from the guardian under a voidale sale sues to recover possession of the property three years after the ward attained majority it is open to the defendant to set up the plea of the invalidity of the sale in defence though a suit by him as plaintiff to avoid the sale would be barred under Art. 44 of the Lim. Act. 42 Mad. 36=35 M. L. J. 652=48 Ind. Cas. 856.

——Art. 44—Defence if barred.

An alienation by guardian ought to be set aside by the ward by instituting a suit within the period prescribed by Art. 44 and till it is set aside the title vests in the alienee. Though Art. 44 describes the suit to be brought by the award as a suit merely to set aside the transfer by guardian, if the transferee has obtained and is in possession the ward has to add a prayer for possession and Art. 44 still applies though the suit relates to both reliefs. A person whose right to set aside an alienation is barred under Art. 44 cannot avoid it as a defendant by denouncing it in a suit for possession brought by the alience. 41 Mad. 102=33 M.L. J. 309=40 Ind. Cas. 664.

3. Aliyasanthana family.

——Arts. 44, 91 and 144—Aliyasanthana family—Alienation by ejaman—Suit to set aside.

A suit by an aliyasanthana family to recover possession of the family properties alienated by its ejaman not being a suit to set aside an instrument within Art. 91 is governed by Art. 144. 27 M. L. J. 60=24 Ind. Cas. 246.

4. Joint Hindu family.

See also Note 6.

——Art. 44—Transfer by karta of joint family.

Per Wadia, J.—Article 44 does not apply to a suit to set aside an alienation of a minor's share by the managing member of the co-parcenary. The fact that the minor's mother joined in the alienation or that she described herself as guardian does not make any difference to the position. When the family is joint, the mother cannot be the legal guardian of the property of her minor sons. A. I. R. 1943 Bom. 278=45 Bom. L.R. 462=211 Ind. Cas. 379.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Joint Hindu family—Suit by minor for possession of his share alienated by uncle.

In case of a joint Hindu family, a minor's suit for possession of his share alienated by his uncle is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 44. 35 P.L.R. 722=A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 601=152 Ind. Cas. 633.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Joint Hindu family—Alienation by mother acting as guardian.

There were two undivided cousins, and at a time when both of them were minors, their mothers, acting as guardians, alienated certain properties belonging to the minors. One of the minors died later on and the survivor sued to recover the property from the alienee on the ground that the alienation was beyond the power of the guardians to make. The suit was instituted within twelve years of the alienation but more than three years after the plaintiff attained majority:

Held, (i) that Art. 44 was not inapplicable merely because the two minor cousins were members of a joint Hindu family inasmuch as there were no adult co-parceners at the time of the alienation;

(ii) that the suit was governed by Art. 44 and not by Art. 144 and was time-barred even though it had been filed within twelve years of the date of the alienation;

(iii) that the suit was barred even as regards the deceased cousin's share. (1934) M.W.N. 960=40 L.W. 760=A.I.R. 1935 Mad. 1 (2)=68 M.L. J. 87=154 Ind. Cas. 616.

——Art. 44—Joint Hindu family.

Article 44 has no application where the suit relates to a transaction entered into by an elder brother to his capacity as manager of a joint Hindu family. 116 Ind. Cas. 195=6 O. W. N. 213=4 Luck. 503= A.I.R. 1929 Oudh 284.

——Art. 44.

Although a person who manages the estate whether of a minor who is the sole owner of the property or of a co-parcenary, in which he has a joint interest with the minor, is entitled to be styled a manager, in matters of alienation, the position of each is different. In one of the alienation is by a manager who has no joint interest with the minor while in the other he has. It is to an alienation of the latter kind that the description alienation by a karta or manager would strictly apply as it is by a person having an interest in the joint property. 88 Ind. Cas. 268=A.I.R. 1925 Nag. 385.

——Art. 44.

A suit to set aside an alienation by a manager of joint Hindu family and for possession of the property is governed by Art. 144 and not by Arts. 44 or 91 of the Limitation Act. 13 A.L. J. 94; 12 N.L.R. 12, Foll. 68 Ind. Cas. 731=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 386.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Hindu Joint-family—Alienation by manager—Suit by minor member for his share.

A suit by a minor since attained majority, to recover his share of joint-family properties transferred by the manager of the joint-family but not as guardian of the plaintiff is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 44. 28 C.L. J. 496=49 Ind. Cas. 118.

——Arts. 44 and 126—Joint Hindu family—Alienation by father as guardian—Suit to set aside—Limitation.

The fact that a Hindu father executed a sale deed as guardian of his son will not take the case out of Art. 126 and bring it under Art. 44 which applies to cases where a minor's property is transferred by his guardian. 23 M.L.T 245=(1918) M.W.N. 892=44 Ind. Cas. 605.

——Art. 44—Joint Hindu family—Suit by minor member.

Art. 44 does not apply to a suit by a minor member of a joint undivided Hindu family on attainment of majority to declare an alienation made by his natural guardian invalid and not binding on him. 5 L. W. 374 =40 Ind. Cas. 145.

——Sch. I, Arts. 44 and 144—Joint Hindu family — Alienation by Manager — Minor's property.

A suit by a member of a joint Hindu family for possession of property alienated by the manager during plaintiff's minority as the guardian of the minor, is a suit for recovery of immovable property within the meaning of Art. 144 of the Lim. Act and not under Art. 44, which applies to cases where a person acts as a guardian of a minor in respect of property which he has individual rights of ownership. 29 Ind. Cas. 199, Foll. 40 Ind. Cas. 418 (Mad.).

——Arts. 44, 91 and 144—Joint Hindu family—Alienation by Hindu father for no benefit or necessity—Suit by minor to set aside—Limitation.

A suit to set aside alienation by Hindu father during son's minority without any benefit or necessity is not governed by Art. 44 or 91 but by Art. 144. 17 Bom. L.R. 1137=(Note) 33 Ind. Cas. 441.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Joint Hindu family—Minor member of a Joint Hindu family—Suit by to set aside alienation by manager—Limitation.

A suit by a member of a joint Hindu family on attaining majority for possession of family property on the allegation that alienation by the manager was without necessity is not governed by Art. 44 or 91 but by Art. 144. This is so even though the manager describes himself as a minor's guardian in the deed of alienation. 12 N.L.R. 12=32 Ind. Cas. 242.

——Arts. 44, 91 and 144—Joint Hindu family—Alienation—Suit after attaining majority—Limitation.

A suit by a minor member of a joint Hindu family to set aside an alienation of his share of the joint family property can be filed within 12 years. If it is brought after three years after attaining majority but within 12 years of date of sale it is not barred by limitation. Art. 44 is not applicable as alienation could not be viewed as one made on behalf of the minor by his guardian for the minor's benefit and his undivided share is not property which can be dealt with by his guardian neither Art. 91 is applicable for it is not intended to apply to suit for possession of immovable property alienated by persons whose powers are restricted such as managers of joint families and religious endowments, Hindu widows, etc. Where a person executing a document had no authority in law to execute it the plaintiff need not sue to set it aside. An express prayer to that effect may be treated as not an essential part of his relief. 84 P.R. 1915=96 P.W.R. 1915=29 Ind. Cas. 199.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Joint Hindu family—Suit to set aside sale—Limitation.

A suit by a junior member to set aside a sale deed by one member of the joint Hindu family and for possession of his property is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 44 or 91. 13 A.L. J. 94=27 Ind. Cas. 687.

——Art. 44—Joint Hindu family—Alienation by uncle and mother of minor—Undivided Hindu family—Setting aside.

Where a minor and his uncle constituted a joint Hindu family and the uncle sold certain joint family property, the mother of the minor jointly executing it as guardian of the minor:

Held, that as the undivided paternal uncle was the guardian in law of the minor and not the mother, a suit to set aside this sale would not fall under Art. 44. 17 M.L.T. 138=27 Ind. Cas. 695.

5. Malabar Tarwad.

——Art. 44—Malabar tarwad.

A suit by the junior members of a Malabar tarwad to recover possession of immovable property alienated by the Karnavathi is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 91. The fact that the Karnavathi purported to execute the document not only as Karnavathi, but also as guardian of the minor plaintiffs, will not make either Art. 91 or Art. 44 applicable to the suit. 78 Ind. Cas. 564=19 M.L.W. 395=34 M.L.T. 89=A.I.R. 1924 Mad. 607=46 M.L. J. 340.

6. Guardian — Who is.

——Art. 44—Guardian, meaning of.

Article 44 refers to the relationship of guardian and ward. A manager, loosely described as a de facto guardian, is not a guardian at all. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 589=193 Ind. Cas. 168.

——Art. 44.

The manager of a joint Hindu family consisting of himself and his minor brothers is not to be deemed their guardian within the meaning of that term in Art. 44. 36 Bom. L.R. 474=A.I.R. 1934 Bom. 234= 151 Ind. Cas. 1043.

——Art. 44—Guardian, meaning of.

Where uncle and minor nephew are members of a joint Hindu family, the uncle cannot be said to be a guardian of the nephew within the meaning of Art. 44. 35 P.L.R. 722=A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 601=152 Ind. Cas. 633.

——Art. 44.

Manager of a joint Hindu family consisting of himself and his two minor brothers is not a guardian within Art. 44. 34 All. 213 (P.C.), Foll. 87 Ind. Cas. 721=27 Bom. L.R. 495=A.I.R. 1925 Bom. 372.

——Art. 44.

Where in a suit for partition the plaintiff asked for setting aside the alienation of some properties which had been alienated by the managing member of the family on behalf of plaintiff and other members:

Held, that the mere description of the manager as guardian of the plaintiff would not at all make him a guardian within the meaning of Art. 44. 86 Ind. Cas. 234=21 M.L.W. 111=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 793.

——Art. 44.

The word 'guardian' as used in Art. 44 is of general import and includes natural and testamentary guardians as well as guardians appointed by Court. A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 605=(1934) M.W.N. 499=67 M.L.J. 322 =40 L.W. 406=57 M. 1062=152 Ind. Cas. 546.

——Art. 44.

The natural mother of an adopted minor is not a guardian de jure under the Hindu Law and a suit by the minor to set aside an alienation by her is not governed by Art. 44. A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 597=(1931) M.W.N. 417=33 L.W. 664=133 Ind. Cas. 773.

——Art. 44—Indian Christians—Mother is natural guardian.

Among Indian Christians, the mother, the father being dead, is not a mere de facto guardian of her minor children, but is their natural guardian for many purposes, and a sale effected by her of her minor children's properties as their guardian is not void but only voidable. A suit for a declaration by the children that such a sale is not binding upon them would, therefore, fall within Art. 44 of the Sch. I of the Lim. Act. (1934) M.W.N. 499=A.I.R. 1934 Mad. 605=40 L.W. 406=67 M.L.J. 322=57 M. 1062=152 Ind. Cas. 546.

——Art. 44—Indian Christians—Guardian.

Failing the father and mother and their appointees, no other person is entitled as of right to the custody of an Indian Christian minor or to the guardianship of his property. 33 L.W. 615=(1931)M.W.N. 415=60 M.L.J. 695=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 529=132 Ind. Cas. 120.

7. Several wards.

——Art. 44.

Alienation of property belonging to Hindu minors by their mother—Suit by minors to set aside alienation more than three years after the eldest brother attained majority.

Held, that the presumption is that the elder brother was the manager of the joint family and the suit brought more than three years after he attained the majority was time-barred under Art. 44. 44 L.W. 479 =(1936) M.W.N. 1128=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 914=165 Ind. Cas. 656.

——Art. 44—Several wards.

Where a mother, as a guardian of her three minor sons alienated some property and a suit was instituted to set aside the alienation, three years after eldest attained majority, it was held that suit was time-barred and eldest was presumed to be manager unless contrary was proved. 1936 M.W.N. 930.

——Art. 44.

A suit to set aside a sale of a family property without necessity by a Hindu mother acting as natural guardian of her sons is barred if instituted after three years of the eldest son's attaining majority. 8 B.R. 72= A.I.R. (1935) Bom. 259=37 Bom. L. R. 225=157 Ind. Cas. 592.

——Art. 44—Testamentary guardian—Joint Hindu family—Setting aside—Limitation Act, S. 7.

It is competent to a Hindu father to appoint a testamentary guardian of the family properties during the minority of his sons. If the guardian makes an improper alienation, the minors will have to set it aside under Art. 44 of the Lim. Act. If the eldest of them is barred, then under S. 7 of the Lim. Act all are barred. 38 Bom. 94=15 Bom.L.R. 882=21 Ind. Cas. 350.

——Art. 44—Right of manager barred—Effect of.

The plaintiffs sued to recover possession of lands after setting aside the sale deed passed by their mother during their minority. The plaintiffs were brothers, members of a joint family. One of them was more that 21 years of age and manager of the joint family when he filed the suit:

Held, that he could have given a discharge and acquittance of all claims against the defendants without the concurrence of the other plaintiffs as manager of the joint Hindu family and so the entire suit was barred by limitation. 59 Ind. Cas. 759=45 Bom. 446= A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 289.

——Art. 44—Alienation by guardian—Setting aside—Minority—Majority of elder brother—Effect.

Where the mother of two Hindu minors sold their properties as guardian and more than three years after the attainment of majority by the eldest brother but within there years of his attaining majority the younger brother sued to set aside the alienation, held, the suit was governed by Art. 44 of the Lim. Act, but that it was barred under S. 8 of the Act. The elder brother on attaining majority could give a discharge on behalf of himself and his younger brother. 38 Mad. 118=25 M.L.J. 405 =14 M.L.T. 401=21 Ind. Cas. 410.

[On appeal from 21 M. L.J. 1041=12 Ind. Cas. 695.]

8. Suit by or against assignee or legal representative of ward.

——Art. 44.

The right to question the validity of the sale is a personal right of the minor which can be exercised by him on attaining majority. The purchasers from minor do not acquire this right by their purchase of property from him. 69 C.L.J. 188=43 C. W. N. 295= A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 460=185 Ind. Cas. 6.

——Art. 44.

Where property of minor is sold by the natural guardian and no suit is brought by the minor to set aside the sale within three years of his attaining majority, the subsequent assignee or vendee from the ex-minor cannot have any higher rights than those which his own assignor would have had, and as the right of the minor was limited to a suit within three years of the attainment of majority, a suit filed by the assignee or vendee for possession of the property transferred more than three years after the attainment of majority by the minor must fail on the ground that the right to sue has come to an end with the expiry of that period. 1939 O.W.N. 241=A.I.R. 1939 Oudh 122=180 Ind. Cas. 329.

——Art. 44—Su it by transferee from minor.

The remedy contemplated by Art. 44 is open to a ward for three years from the date of his attaining majority, and that remedy is not lost, by the mere fact that he purports to transfer his interest in the property such as it is at the date of the transfer, to a third party.

Where a minor's property was sold by the minor's guardian and the minor after attaining age transferred the same property to another and where the transferee as the principal plaintiff and the transferor as the second plaintiff sued to set aside the sale within three years of the minor attaining majority,

Held, that the suit was not barred by limitation. 86 Ind. Cas. 879=49 Bom. 309=27 Bom. L.R. 211=A.I.R. 1925 Bom. 292.

——Art. 44—Transfer by ward—Death of ward—Suit by his legal representative.

A suit by transferee from minor is governed by Art. 44. A.I.R. 1925 Bom. 292, Not Foll.

It may be that if the ward dies during his minority Art. 44 will not apply to a suit by his legal representative for recovering the property alienated by the guardian, yet if the ward dies after the attainment of majority, Art. 44 will apply. 113 Ind. Cas. 481=29 M.L.W. 169=1929 M.W.N. 124=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 313=56 M.L.J. 332.

——Art. 44—Cause of action—Right to sue accruing on alienation—Minor dying—Starting point.

A minor's property was alienated by his mother acting as his guardian. The minor died before attaining majority and was succeeded by his mother. After the mother's death the reversionary heirs instituted a suit to set aside the sale more than three years after the minor's death,

Held, that the suit was time-barred.

Where the guardian of a minor alienates the minor's property, the cause of action arises from the date of the alienation. Section 6 only makes minority a cause for suspending limitation. Article 44 cannot therefore be construed so as to give a new cause of action from the time the minor attains majority. Hence when the minor dies before attaining majority, S. 6 (3) comes into play and the period of limitation is to be recokned from the death of the minor and the fact that the heir of the minor is a female makes no difference. A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 821=127 Ind. Cas. 801=32 M.L.W. 206=1930 M.W.N. 708=59 M.L.J. 196.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession against assignee from purchaser from guardian. The alienee is deriving title pendente lite will be bound by the result of the suit against the alienee; but where the purchaser from the guardian had alienated the whole or a portion of the property before the suit, the alienee from the purchaser will certainly not be bound by any adjudication which the ward may obtain against the original purchaser. If the ward seeks to dispossess the second alienee, the question of the validity of the alienation must undoubtedly be re-tried, and the policy of Art. 44 is that a question of that kind should be investigated and decided within a period of three years after the attainment of majority by the ward. It is fantastic to hold that even if the original alienee had parted with the whole property in favour of a stranger, the requirements of Art. 44 will be satisfied by obtaining a decree against the original alienee in the absence of the later purchaser and on principle, it can make no difference whether the later alienation is of the whole property or only of a part of the property. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 677=(1938) M.W.N. 403=181 Ind. Cas. 697.

9. Suit by purchaser from guardian.

——Art. 44—Joint Hindu family—Suit by alienee of minor brother.

In case of a joint Hindu family, it is not necessary for the minor brother to set aside the alienation within three years nor is there any legal objection to his alienating the right to a share in the property which he possessed. A suit by alienee of the minor brother is not barred by Art. 44. 36 Bom. L.R. 474=A.I.R. 1934 Bom. 234=151 Ind. Cas. 1043.

——Arts. 44 and 91—Suit by purchaser.

Suit by purchaser claiming to set aside a sale by the guardian of his vendor, during the vendor's minority is governed by Art. 44 and not by Art. 91. 5 N.L.R. 50=2 Ind. Cas. 229.

10. Suit for possession.

See also NOTES 11 AND 12.

——Art. 44—Where the guardian alienates the property of the minor ward by means of a deed which is void ab initio, and the minor, after attaining majority, files a suit for its recovery, the suit is not governed by Art. 44 but by Art. 142. A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 172=1940 O.W.N. 1318=1941 A.W.R. (C.C.) 22=191 Ind. Cas. 885.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession.

Article 44 has nothing whatever to do with suits for possession. The only thing which becomes barred at the expiry of time prescribed by Art. 44 is the ward's right to set aside a transfer. The failure to sue within the time prescribed does not extinguish the right to the property under the provisions of S. 28. A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 589=193 Ind. Cas. 168.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession.

Article 44 contemplates a suit for possession and not a mere suit for declaration. If it is a suit for possession, it must obviously be instituted against the parties in possession. A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 677=(1938) M.W.N. 403=181 Ind. Cas. 697.

——Art. 44—A suit for possession by a minor on attaining majority against the transferee from the guardian where the latter had obtained permission from the District Judge to effect the transfer on the ground of fraud, or misrepresentation is governed by Art. 44 and not by Art. 144. (1931) A.L.J. 997=A.I.R. 1932 All. 108=53 A. 738=136 Ind. Cas. 71.

——Arts. 44 and 91—Void and valid deeds—Distinction between.

If a sale is held to be void owing to fraudulent registration, there will be no need to set it aside and a suit to recover possession of the properties by the sale-deed will not be barred, though brought by the ward about eleven years after the date of the sale. If, on the other hand, if it is not void, then such a suit has to be regarded as one for setting aside the sale-deed, in that possession cannot be obtained unless the document is set aside and such a suit should be brought within three years from the date of the sale. 32 M.L.W. 680=1930 M.W.N. 1067=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 45=60 M.L.J. 701=129 Ind. Cas. 245=54 M. 352.

——Art. 44—Void sale.

Where a sale is void Art. 44 is inapplicable and a suit can be brought by a minor to recover possession within a period of 12 years. 107 Ind. Cas. 897=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 262.

——Art. 44—If a sale is effected by a person who is not a minor's guardian either according to his personal law or by appointment by the Court, such a sale is a nullity and does not affect the minor's property. If, on the other hand, the sale is made by a natural guardian, who goes beyond the scope of his authority, the transaction cannot be regarded as a nullity and will bind the minor unless he succeeds in impeaching it within the period prescribed by law. 42 Bom. 626 and 44 Bom. 742, Foll. 32 All. 392, Dissented.

A suit by a quondam minor to set aside an alienation of his property by his guardian is governed by Art. 44, and if he cannot establish his right to possession without first setting aside the alienation, the suit for possession is also governed by that article, and not by Art. 148. 44 Bom. 742 and 25 Bom. 337 (P.C.), Foll. 89 Ind. Cas. 602=6 Lah. 447=7 L.L.J. 556=26 P.L.R. 531=A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 619.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Void sale.

Where the guardian sold properties by a sale deed which was void owing to the fraud upon the Registration Act no valid title passed to the vendee and the article applicable to the suit for possession of the properties sold is not Art. 44 but Art. 144. 43 Mad. 436=11 L.W. 394=38 M.L.J. 327=56 Ind. Cas. 519.

——Arts. 44, 91, 144—Suit for possession—Alienation of stranger.

A suit for possession of immoveable property alienated by a person who is neither a guardian under Mahomedan Law, nor one appointed by Court is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 44 or Art. 91. 83 P.R. 1916=125 P.W.R. 1916=33 Ind. Cas. 943.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Suit for possession—Sale unregistered—Unenforceable—Limitation.

Art. 14 applies only if the sale is valid and enforceable. When the sale is not valid, purchaser is a mere tresspasser who can be ejected as such. 33 Ind. Cas. 436 (Mad.).

——Arts. 44 and 144—Suit for possession—Limitation.

Art. 44 extends the period provided in Art. 144 to three years after the cessation of disabilities in the case of suits of a particular class by minors. 10 M.L.T. 418=(1911) 2 M.W.N. 450=21 M.L.J. 1041=12 Ind. Cas. 695.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Void conveyance.

Art. 44 applies only to cases in which the plaintiff seeks to set aside a genuine transaction. If the transaction is void ab initio, it is not necessary to seek the cancellation of the conveyance. It is only when the transaction is genuine but is in excess of authority of the executant, that Art. 44 will apply. Art. 44 applies to alienations by de facto as well as de jure guardians. 13 C.L.J. 277=9 Ind. Cas. 377.

11. Transfer by certificated, natural or other de jure guardian.

——Art. 44—A deed executed by a certified guardian of a minor mortgagee releasing the sub-soil rights in the mortgaged land from the operation of the mortgage, in favour of the lessee of the mortgagor for a certain consideration is, in effect, the transfer of equity of redemption. The fact that the consideration mentioned in the deed is neither adequate nor reasonable nor for the benefit of the minor is no ground for holding that it is void. It is voidable, and a suit to set aside such deed is governed by Art. 44, Sch. I, Lim. Act. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 337=4 B.R. 697=19 P.L.T. 594=17 Pat. 460=176 Ind. Cas. 273.

——Art. 44—The period of limitation for bringing a suit to set aside a sale-deed executed by a guardian of a minor without the permission of the District Judge is 3 years. 1937 O.W.N. 1012=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 521=171 Ind. Cas. 187.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Suit to impeach sale not brought within 3 years of majority—Title of vendee—Lim. Act, S. 28.

A sale by a certificated guardian of a minor not in accordance with the Court's sanction is voidable, but it is good until it is avoided. If the minor does not, within three years after attaining majority take action for repudiating sale his right to set aside the sale and recover possession of the property is barred. A transferee from him cannot successfully sue the purchaser from the certificated guardian for recovering possession of the property after declaration of title. 52 Ind. Cas. 269 (Cal.).

——Arts. 44 and 144—Applicability—Suit by minor sons to set aside sale by their elder major brother and mother—Self-acquired property of the father devolving on the sons.

Where the self-acquired property of the father devolves upon his sons and the eldest of them, a major, alienates the property along with his mother and a suit is brought by the other sons on their attaining majority, it would be governed by Art. 44 and not by Art. 144 of the Limitation Act. 23 Luck. 58=A.I.R. 1948 Oudh 125=1947 A.W.R. (C.C.) 278=1947 O.A. (C.C.) 278=1947 O.W.N. 558.

——Art. 44—Alienation by natural guardian.

Under Hindu Law, an alienation by a natural guardian, not for necessity, is voidable and a suit to set aside such alienation will be governed by Art. 44. 24 Pat. 273=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 298=11 Cut. L.T. 15.

——Art. 44—The minor, on attaining majority, has a right to have the sale set aside, effected by his guardian for legal necessity, and he must do so within the period fixed by Art. 44 of the Lim. Act. 69 C.L.J. 188=A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 460=43 C.W.N. 295=185 Ind. Cas. 6.

——Art. 44—A suit to set aside a sale by a de jure guardian of a minor of property belonging to the minor is governed by Art. 44 and not by Art. 144 and such a suit would be barred if it is instituted only after three years after plaintiff attained majority though it is filed within twelve years of the date of the sale.

A transfer by a guardian, however improper it may have been, is not a void transaction but only a voidable one and when property cannot be recovered without avoiding it, a suit to recover such property will be governed by Art. 44. (1936) M.W.N. 74=70 M.L.J. 352=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 346=43 L.W. 611=59 M. 549=161 Ind. Cas. 797.

——Art. 44—A sale by a guardian of his ward's property is not void, but voidable, provided that the former ward can show that it was not made for necessity, that is, he is allowed to have it set aside, on making such an allegation and proving it within the time set out in Art. 44, Lim. Act. 34 Bom. L.R. 1512=A.I.R. 1933 Bom. 42=141 Ind. Cas. 806.

——Art. 44—Alienation by guardian of widow.

Alienation by guardian of widow—Renewal by widow—Suit to set aside alienation—Limitation Act. Sch. I, Art. 44, applied and suit was time-barred. 31 L.W. 336=58 M.L.J. 417=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 274=(1930) M.W.N. 97=131 Ind. Cas. 609.

——Art. 44—Alienation by mother—Suit for possession.

Where the mother alienates her minor son's property, and the son after attaining majority sues for possession of the property sold, the suit is governed by Art. 44 and not by Art. 144. 19 P.R. 1902; A.I.R. 1921 Lah. 257; A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 619 and A.I.R. 1929 Lah. 115, Foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 893=11 L.L.J. 108.

——Art. 44—Transfer by natural guardian.

It is now well-settled that Art. 44 applies not only to setting aside the transfer of property made by a guardian appointed by a Court or by will but also to suits for setting aside a transfer of property made by a natural guardian. 118 Ind. Cas. 481=29 M.L.W. 169=1929 M.W.N. 124=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 313=56 M.L.W. 332.

——Art. 44—Alienation without necessity—Made by authorised person.

An alienation by a natural guardian of the minor's property is a voidable, and not a void transaction ; and the fact that it was not for necessity does not alter the nature of the transaction. It is an unauthorized transfer by an authorized guardian and the limitation to set aside such a transfer is prescribed by Art. 44. A.I.R. 1925 Lah. 619 (2), Foll. 103 Ind. Cas. 365=9 Lah. 33=29 P.L.R. 305=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 115.

——Art. 44—Sale of minor's property by father.

Where property which belongs to a minor exclusively is sold by his father as guardian and the minor after attaining majority sues to recover the property, Art. 44 applies to the suit. The mere fact that the father joins in the execution of the deed in his personal capacity and also his brother does likewise in order to remove the apprehensions of the vendee does not take away the case from Art. 44. 62 Ind. Cas. 630=13 M.L.W. 416=1921 M.W.N. 255=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 425=40 M.L.J. 475.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Property transferred by natural guardian.

A suit for the recovery of property transferred during the minority of plaintiff by his natural guardian must under Art. 44 of the Lim. Act be brought within 3 years of attaining majority, such a transfer being voidable and not void. 24 C.W.N. 1016=32 C.L.J. 48=59 Ind. Cas. 589.

——Art. 44—Natural guardian—Alienation by mother—Suit by minor to set aside—Limitation.

During the minority of a person his equity of redemption was sold by his mother acting as his natural guardian, without any legal necessity. Held, the minor must sue to set aside the sale within three years of his attaining majority. Otherwise neither he or his next reversioner can impeach the transfer. 44 Bom. 742=22 Bom. L.R. 680=58 Ind. Cas. 257.

——Art. 44—Natural guardian—Mother—Suit to set aside alienation—Limitation.

A suit by a minor on attaining majority to set aside an alienation of his property by his mother as guardian is governed by Art. 44. 42 Bom. 626=20 Bom. L.R. 408=46 Ind. Cas. 22.

——Art. 44—Natural guardian—Father—Property collaterally inherited by minor.

A suit to set aside alienations by the father as guardian of property surrendered by widow in favour of the minor reversioner is governed by Art. 44. 34 M.L.J. 229=6 L.W. 765=(1917) M.W.N. 854=22 M.L.T. 498=42 Ind. Cas. 939.

——Art. 44—Natural guardian—Alienation by mother.

Per Pratt, J. C.—The article does not apply to alienation by Hindu widow as guardian of her minor son, in excess of her authority. The alienation is void and not voidable. (Per Crouch, A.J.C., contra).—The purchaser is protected by this article in the above circumstances. 10 S.L.R. 381=35 Ind. Cas. 551.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Fraudulent sale by guardian—Right to recover possession—Limitation.

A fraudulent sale by a guardian is only voidable and should be set aside within three years under Art. 44, so that if he fails to so set aside, his right to recover possession is gone. 34 Ind. Cas. 188 (Cal.).

——Art. 44—Natural guardian—Mortgage by mother as guardian—Suit to set aside—Limitation.

A mortgage executed by a Hindu mother of the properties of her minor son, is one by her as guardian though the document does not purport to be as such and a suit to set it aside is governed by Art. 44. 22 M.L.J. 404 ; 20 B. 286 ; 6 M.I.A. 393, Foll. 7 M.L.J. 131, Not Foll. 2 L.W. 1210=31 Ind. Cas. 811.

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Alienation by guardian—Suit to set aside—Limitation.

Art. 44 of the Lim. Act and not Art. 144 applies to a suit by a ward who has attained majority, for possession of properties improperly alienated by his guardian. The sale is not void for mere inadequacy of consideration. 30 M. 393 ; 22 M.L.J. 404, Foll. 2 L.W. 365=28 Ind Cas. 704.

——Art. 44—Natural guardian—Alienation by mother—Consideration applied for the benefit of minor—Suit by minor 3 years after majority.

A suit by minor to set aside an alienation made by his mother acting as guardian brought more than three years after his attaining majority is barred under Art. 44 of the Act. 9 Ind. Cas. 377, Foll. 24 Ind. Cas. 110 (Cal.).

——Art. 44—Suit for possession—Suit by minor after attaining majority for possession of land sold by guardian during minority—Sale within 12 years of suit.

A suit by Hindu minors for possession of lands sold by heir mother as guardian during their minority, brought after 3 years of their attaining majority but within 12 years of the sale, is barred by limitation. 17 O.C. 52=23 Ind. Cas. 406.

——Arts. 44 and 144—Natural guardian—Alienation by mother—Suit by son.

The limitation for a suit for a declaration that a sale of the plaintiff's property by his mother as his guardian is not binding on him is three years from the date of the plaintiff's majority under Art. 44 of the Lim. Act. 23 M. 271 ; 30 M. 393 ; 14 M. 26 ; 7 M.L.J. 131, Foll. 22 M.L.J. 404=11 M.L.T. 198=(1912) M.W.N. 383=15 Ind. Cas. 365.

12. Transfer by de facto guardian.

——Art. 44—If an alienation is made either by a manager of a Hindu family or a de facto guardian of the minor's interest in the property but without legal necessity, it is not voidable but is void in its inception. If the alienation is made by a natural guardian or a guardian appointed by the Court, then only it is required to be avoided within 3 years after attaining majority. A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 187=45 Bom. L.R. 259=208 Ind. Cas. 150.

——Art. 44—In the case of improper or unauthorised alienations by de facto guardians, the minors, when they come of age, need not get the alienations set aside and Art. 44 would not apply to a suit by them for possession.

Where the eldest of three sisters as guardians of the younger sister alienated certain properties belonging to them jointly and it appeared that the eldest sister was not even the de facto guardian of the others and one of the younger sisters instituted a suit for partition after expiry of more than three years of her attaining majority ignoring the alienations :

Held, (i) that the plaintiff was not bound to sue to set aside the alienation made by her elder sister as the latter was neither a de jure or natural guardian nor a guardian de facto ;

(2) that even assuming that she was a de facto guardian, the plaintiff was not bound to set aside the alienations within three years of her attaining majority. (1936) M.W.N. 1032=71 M.L.J. 366=44 L.W. 543=A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 884=165 Ind. Cas. 287.

——Art. 44—Alienation by de facto guardian.

Article 44 applies to alienation by de jure guardians and not to those by de facto guardians. In the latter case, a suit can be brought within twelve years. 33 L.W. 664=(1931) M.W.N. 417=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 597 (2)= 133 Ind. Cas. 773.

——Art. 44—De facto guardian.

Article 44 does not apply to cases of alienations by de facto guardians. 108 Ind. Cas. 529=1927 M.W.N. 356=A.I.R. 1928 Mad. 226.

——Art. 44—Neither Art. 44 nor Art. 91 applies to a suit to set aside alienations by a de facto guardian. The suit can be brought within the ordinary period of 12 years. 99 Ind. Cas. 1050=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 145.

——Art. 44—A person who is not a de jure guardian but purports to assume the guardianship of the estate of a minor (Hindu) is not in a better position than a stranger and has no authority to make any alienations, and Art. 44 does not apply to such a case. 87 Ind. Cas. 1018= A.I.R. 1926 Nag. 124.

——Arts. 44, 91 and 144—De facto guardian—Step-mother.

An alienation by the step-mother of Hindu minor is not governed by Art. 44 as she is not his lawful guardian. Art. 91 of the Limitation Act applies ordinarily only to an instrument executed by a party or his predecessor in title. 15 N.L.R. 55=51 Ind. Cas. 943.

——Art. 44—De facto guardian—Alienation by Hindu mother.

Art. 44 does not apply to the case of a de facto guardian, such as a mother or step-mother; wholly unauthorised to transfer. 17 Bom. L.R. 1134=33 Ind. Cas. 444.

——Arts. 44 and 91—De facto guardian—Alienation—Limitation.

An alienation by a de facto guardian is void and need not be set aside before recovery of possession of the property by the minor. Arts. 44 and 91 do not apply to such suits. 10 N.L.R. 133=26 Ind. Cas. 813.

——Sch. I, Art. 44—De facto guardian—Alienation by.

Art. 44 does not apply to alienation by unauthorised guardians. 38 Mad. 1125=27 M.L.J. 285=26 Ind. Cas. 179.

——Arts. 44 and 144—De facto guardian—Suit by ward for recovery of possession of properties.

It is Art. 144 of the Limitation Act and not Art. 44 that applies to suits by wards to set aside alienations by their de facto guardians. 180 P.L.R. 1912=234 P.W.R. 1912=16 Ind. Cas. 847.

——Art. 44—Article 44 applies to alienations of unofficial guardians. 76 Ind. Cas. 636=A.I.R. 1924 Bom. 517.

——Art. 44—Sale by the de facto guardian for the benefit of the minor is valid. 67 Ind. Cas. 431=A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 421.

——Art. 44—An alienation by the de facto and de jure guardian of the minor is voidable and not void and Art. 44 applies to a suit by the minor to set aside the alienation. 66 Ind. Cas. 303=17 N.L.R. 183=A.I.R. 1922 Nag. 201.

——Art. 44—De facto guardian of Indian Christian—Alienation by—Suit for possession.

An alienation by the de facto guardian of an Indian Christian minor is void and the minor may bring a suit for possession of the alienated property within 12 years of the date of alienation. Article 44 has no application to such a suit. 33 L.W. 615=(1931) M.W.N. 415=A.I.R. 1931 Mad. 529=60 M.L.J. 695=132 Ind. Cas. 120.

——Art. 44—Muhammadan Law—Alienation by mother—Article not applicable.

Under the Mahomedan Law a mother has no power as de facto guardian of her infant children to alienate or charge their immoveable property. If such an alienation is made it is not necessary for the infants to have it set aside within three years after attainment of majority under Art. 44, because the alienation must be deemed to have been effected, not by a guardian but by a wholly unauthorised person. The infant, whose property has thus been alienated, is consequently entitled to institute a suit for recovery of possession within 12 years from the date of sale, or within three years from the attainment of majority, whichever may be the later date. But where the alienation was made in lieu of debts binding upon the infants, Held, that their suit for possession should be decreed subject to their paying the debts. 45 Cal. 878 (P.C.), Foll. 62 Ind. Cas. 428=33 C.L.J. 256=25 C.W.N. 258=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 572.

——Art. 44—De facto guardian—Suit by widow of lunatic for possession of the property sold by his guardian.

The cause of action for a suit by the widow of a lunatic Mahomedan for possession of her husband's property sold for legal necessity by his mother as his de facto guardian accrues not on the date of sale of the property but on the date of the death of her husband. 15 P.R. 1913; 37 M. 514; 34 A. 213 (P.C.); 83 P.R. 1916, Foll. 59 P.R. 1917=100 P.W.R. 1917=41 Ind. Cas. 932.

——Art. 44—De facto guardian—Alienation by the mother of a Mahomedan minor—Suit to set aside—Limitation.

Art. 44 does not apply to a suit to set aside an alienation of a Mahomedan minor's property by his mother, she not being his guardian under Mahomedan Law. 1 Pat. L.J. 188=34 Ind. Cas. 85.

——Arts. 44 and 144—De facto guardian—Alienation—Suit by minor for possession—Mahomedan law.

A suit by a Mahomedan for possession of land sold during his minority by his de facto guardian is governed by Art. 144 and not Arts. 44 and 91. 15 P.R. 1913= 202 P.L.R. 1913=19 Ind. Cas. 235.

——Arts. 44 and 144—De facto guardian—Mahomedan minor's property—Suit for recovery of—Limitation—Property subject to mortgage.

Where property belonging to a Mahomedan minor and subject to a valid mortgage, is alienated by his elder brother acting as his de facto guardian the alienation is void and does not require to be set aside under Art. 44. The minor on attaining majority can sue for possession within the period prescribed by Art. 144. 34 A. 213= 16 C.W.N. 338=11 M.L.T. 145=(1912) M.W.N. 183= 9 A.L.J. 215=15 C.L.J. 270=14 Bom. L.R. 192= 15 O.C. 49=23 M.L.J. 6=39 I.A. 49=13 Ind. Cas. 976 (P.C.).

——Arts. 44 and 91—De facto guardian—Transfer by.

A Mahomedan uncle is not a guardian of his minor nephew within the meaning of Art. 44 and a sale by such a person as de facto guardian is void and need not be set aside either under Arts. 44 or 91 of the Limitation Act. 28 P.R. 1909=1 Ind. Cas. 545.

13. Transfer by guardian as his property.

——Art. 44—De facto guardian—Transfer as his own property.

Article 44 of Lim. Act applies only to a transfer by a guardian, and not to a transfer by one who, though a de facto guardian purports to transfer his ward's property in his own capacity and as his own property. A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 427=41 Bom. L.R. 867=186 Ind. Cas. 1285.

——Art. 44—Transfer by guardian in his own capacity.

Where it appears from a sale-deed that the minor's guardian executed it in her own right and not as guardian of the minor, the case cannot come under Art. 44. 1937 O.W.N. 1012=A.I.R. 1937 Oudh 521=171 Ind. Cas. 187.

——Art. 44—Alienation by guardian as his property.

Where a minor's property is sold by his guardian who professed to act as such or who can be shown to have acted in that capacity, the minor may be bound to have the deed set aside within three years after attaining minority; but where the property has been alienated by the guardian as if it were his own and the alienee treats it as the property of the alleged guardian personally and has it sold as such, Art. 14 cannot apply. Such a transfer is void ab initio. A.I.R. 1935 A. 417=1935 A.W.R. 555=157 Ind. Cas. 118 (2).

14. Transfer of property—Meaning of.

——Art. 44—Applicability—Agreement of sale by guardian.

Art. 44, Limitation Act, applies only to a transfer of property by a guardian of a minor. Where there is only an agreement of sale by the guardian accompanied with delivery of possession to the purchaser, the mere fact the the agreement along with the fact of possession can be availed of for resisting dispossession does not bring into existence a transfer. I.L.R. (1950) Nag. 25 =1950 N.L.J. 30.

——Art. 44—Father of Hindu minor widow executing deed of surrender—Suit by the widow after attaining majority impeaching the deed as not binding on her and for recovery of properties left by her husband—Limitation—Art. 44 not applicable—Article not applicable to transfer by de facto guardian.

Art. 44 of the Limitation Act applies to a suit by a ward who has attained majority to set aside a transfer of property by his guardian and the period of limitation is three years from the date when the ward attains majority. A deed of surrender executed by the father acting as the guardian of a Hindu minor widow is not a transfer of property. The true view under the Hindu Law is that a surrender is a voluntary act of the widow which brings about her civil death. The property devolves upon the surrenderee by operation of the Hindu Law of succession and not by an act of transfer by the widow to the surrenderee. Apart from the question whether under the Hindu Law a valid surrender could be effected on behalf of a widow who is a minor by a guardian, natural or de facto, a surrender does not purport to effect a transfer of the property. Art. 44 of the Limitation Act has no application to a suit by the widow for setting aside the deed. In any event the father cannot be described as a guardian of the widow within the meaning of Art. 44.

The guardian contemplated under Art. 44 is either a natural guardian or a testamentary guardian or a certified guardian; no others are contemplated by the article.

That article has no application to a transfer of property of a minor by a de facto guardian. 1950 M.W.N. 69= 63 L.W. 82=A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 390=(1950) 1 M.L.J. 76.

——Art. 44—Surrender—Suit to set aside.

A suit to set aside an alienation of the properties surrendered by the releasee's guardian is governed by Art. 44 of the Limitation. 34 M.L.J. 229=6 L.W. 765=(1917) M.W.N. 854=22 M.L.T. 498=42 Ind. Cas. 939.

——Arts. 44 and 91—Surrender—Suit to set aside—Limitation.

Arts. 44 and 91 govern a suit to avoid a surrender by an occupancy tenant on the ground of fraud and not S. 94 of the C.P. Tenancy Act. 5 N.L.R. 97=3 Ind. Cas. 51.

——Art. 44—Mother representing minor at partition—No transfer.

Article 44 must relate to property of which the alleged guardian is the real guardian and over which he has powers of transfer. There is no authority for applying this article to partition deed by adult co-parceners, to which the mother of minor co-parceners is a party as the partition is not a transfer by the mother as guardian within the meaning of Art. 44. 61 Ind. Cas. 762=13 M.L.W. 260=A.I.R. 1921 Mad. 553.

——Arts. 44, 10, 12, 111, 136, 137, 138, 147, 165, 166, 167, 172—"Sale" meaning of—Pleadings—Plea in meaning of invalidity of transfer, how far avails in a subsequent suit, where defendant is plaintiff.

The word "sale" in Art. 44 means the transfer for a price of the interest in the subject-matter, whatever that interest may be; and not merely the transfer of ownership. Semble:—Probably in Arts. 10 and 136 the transfer intended is that of ownership, but in all other provisions it includes the transfer for a price without reference to whether the interest amounts to ownership. Plaintiff's guardian, while plaintiff was a minor, brought a suit upon a mortgage and obtained a decree for possession of the mortgaged lands. She subsequently transferred the plaintiff's rights under the decree to the 1st defendant. 1st defendant brought a suit for possession of portion of the lands and the suit was dismissed on the ground that the assignment to him by the guardian was invalid. The plaintiff brought the present suit for recovery of the lands from the 1st defendant, but which did not form part of the subject-matter of the 1st defendant's prior suit. The suit was brought long after years of the attainment of majority by the plaintiff but within twelve years from the date of the original decree obtained by the guardian.

Held:—That the suit was governed by Art. 44 and was barred; that the assignment by the guardian to the 1st defendant of plaintiff's right under the decree was a "sale" within the meaning of Art. 44.

Held, also that though it might have been competent to the plaintiff to have pleaded the invalidity of the sale to 1st defendant in the suit by the latter against him. yet the finding of invalidity of the sale with reference to such a defence cannot relieve the plaintiff from the consequences of his failure to have the transfer set aside within the time limited by law in regard to property of which possession had passed to the defendant under the transfer. (1907) 17 M.L.J. 220=30 M. 393=2 M.L.T. 351.

——Art. 44—Scope—Minor being in joint possession—Suit to set aside sale and for partition—Maintainability.

Cases contemplated by Art. 44 are those in which "transfer of property" has been made by a guardian. It implies that the property has changed hands and does not apply to cases where the erstwhile minor is in possession of his property in spite of deeds of transfer executed by the guardian under which either possession does not pass from transferor to transferee, e.g., deed of simple mortgage, or possession has not been parted with though it ought to have been delivered. A person brought a suit beyond three years of his attaining majority for partition of the house and declaration that the sale effected by his certified guardian without permission of the District Judge was void and ineffectual as against him. He claimed to be entitled to half share of the house which was so transferred and made the other co-sharer of the house as well as the vendee defendant to the suit. It was found that the plaintiff was all along in possession with the co-sharer.

Held, that Art. 44 did not apply to the case, and even if it applied it only barred the remedy of the plaintiff to get the sale-deed set aside but was not fatal to his title which still subsisted and consequently the main relief sought, namely, partition as against the co-sharer was not affected by Art. 44. 1930 A.L.J. 1416=A.I.R. 1930 All. 858.

——Art. 45—Award—No contest or investigation—Mere confirmation of plaintiff's possession.

The "award" contemplated by Art. 45 presupposes a contest between the parties and a decision after proper investigation into the points at issue. Where there is nothing to indicate that there was any contest or a decision on any investigation, but the only object of the suit is that the plaintiffs may be confirmed in their possession of the lands, if they succeed in it, and the settlement by the revenue authorities, in so far as it determined the amount of the revenue payable in respect of the disputed property, would in no way be affected, the only result being that the plaintiffs would in that case, obtain the benefit of the settlement which a third person obtained from the Government, Art. 45 does not apply. 104 Ind. Cas. 655=55 Cal. 201=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 902.

——Art. 45—Suit on title.

Where plaintiff's title was declared against the defendants and the Revenue authorities who had settled the land with the defendants and the plaintiff later on sued for possession.

Held, that Art. 45 does not apply as the object of the suit was not to set aside an award made by the Revenue authorities. 65 Ind. Cas. 833=49 Cal. 37=33 C.L.J. 497=A.I.R. 1922 Cal. 345.

——Art. 45—Bengal Reg. IX of 1825—Alluvial accretion—Settlement of Khas Mahal land—Suit to aside an order refusing settlement.

A suit to set aside an order of the Commissioner refusing to make a settlement of Khas mahal land with the plaintiff who claimed settlement of it as an accretion to his jote is governed by Art. 45 and not by Art. 14. (1908) 12 C.W.N. 910.

——Art. 45—Award, what is.

An order of the Collector under Bengal Regulation (VII of 1822) directing the entry of defendants' names as tenants with occupancy rights in the settlement record is an award. 63 Ind. Cas. 161=33 C.L.J. 317=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 368.

——Art. 46—Award—Collector's decision.

A decision by a Collector of the title between two raiyats is not an award within the meaning of Art. 46 of the Limitation Act. 17 C.W.N. 55=17 Ind. Cas. 881.

——Art. 45—Omission of formal prayer.

The suit is not bad because there is no formal prayer to set aside the order of the Collector. 63 Ind. Cas. 161=33 C.L.J. 317=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 368.

——Art. 46—Bengal Survey Act.

The order under S. 41 of the Bengal Survey Act has, until reversed or modified by competent authority, the force of an order of a Civil Court declaring the parties to be in possession of the land in accordance with the boundary as determined by the Collector. A suit instituted 3 years after the date of the order is not barred by Art. 46 of the Limitation Act. 66 Ind. Cas. 923=34 C.L.J. 465=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 277.

1. (a) Applicability and Scope—(General).

——Art. 47—Applicability—Co-sharers—Suit by one for partition and equal division by metes and bounds—Order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code, declaring joint possession of both—Effect of—Bar under Art. 47—When applies.

Panigrahi, J.—Art. 47 is restricted in its application to those cases where the party is held to be out of possession in a proceeding under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, and cannot apply to a case where the possession of two co-sharers has been confirmed by the Magistrate. There is no need for either of them in such a case to bring a suit for a declaration as to which of the two was entitled to a separate right of possession. And when one of the two co-sharers files a suit for partition and for an equal division by metes and bounds, Art. 47 does not apply.

Das, J.—Where the order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code is not in favour of the defendant, and that order shows that the defendant was not in possession of any of the items of property in dispute, the bar of limitation under Art. 47, Limitation Act, cannot be attracted. I.L.R. (1949) Cut. 611=A.I.R. 1950 Orissa 64.

——Art. 47—Applicability.

A suit for joint possession by a co-owner bound by an order passed under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, in favour of his co-owner whose exclusive possession is maintained by that order comes within Art. 47. A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 67=I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 332=46 C.W.N. 817=76 C.L.J. 342=205 Ind. Cas. 441.

——Art. 47—Applicability.

Where in proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, in respect of certain land there has been no order for possession in favour of one of the parties by the Magistrate under S. 145, but the proceedings have been consigned to records on the application of the parties stating that there was no dispute between them, a suit brought by one of the parties for declaration of his title to such land is not governed by Art. 47. A.I.R. 1942 P.C. 47=1942 O.W.N. 508=55 L.W. 597=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 384=44 Bom.L.R. 868=47 C.W.N. 38=(1942) Kar. (P.C.) 122 (Sup.). =1942 A.W.R. (P.C.) 37=201 Ind. Cas. 499 (P.C.).

——Art. 47—Applicability.

Dispute as to land between landlord and tenant—Proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code—Order in favour of landlord—Suit by tenant for recovery of possession—Suit is governed by Art. 47, Limitation Act. A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 287=8 B.R. 413=198 Ind. Cas. 347.

——Art. 47—Applicability.

Where, in proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code between the plaintiff and the defendant, the Magistrate declares the defendant to be in possession of the property in dispute, a suit by the plaintiff for possession of his share of the property falls under Art. 47. A.I.R. 1941 Peah. 65=42 Cr.L.J. 872=196 Ind. Cas. 444.

——Art. 47—Applicability.

Article 47 read with S. 145, Cr.P. Code shows that the article applies only to those cases in which the Magistrate has declared one of the parties to be entitled to possession until evicted therefrom in due course of law or has restored possession to a party found to have been forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed within two months of his initial order. 1936 O.W.N. 784=A.I.R. 1936 Oudh 387=1936 R.D. 416=12 Luck. 371=164 Ind. Cas. 118.

——Art. 47—Article 47 is applicable only to a case in which a Magistrate under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, confirms the possession of one party or of the other. 26 Mad. 410, Foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 152=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 38.

——Art. 47—Applicability.

Section 145 (6), Cr.P. Code provides that if the Magistrate decided that one of the parties was or should be treated as being in possession of the land in dispute, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law. Thus, if the successful party is evicted by means of a suit by a person other than the parties to the proceeding within the period of three years, the order of the Magistrate being rendered ineffectual, the shorter period of limitation ceases to run against the unsuccessful party, and there can be no room left for the application of Art. 47, and S. 28 will not become operative until the expiry of the limitation period laid down in the ordinary law. A.I.R. 1935 Pat. 164=16 P.L.T. 189=14 Pat. 424=1 B.R. 550=155 Ind. Cas. 1094.

——Art. 47—Applicability.

If the possession of the tenants ceased on account of the land being submerged and on re-appearance of the land, there was no actual possession by the raiyats and no dispossession by the landlord a suit for declaration is governed by Art. 47. 14 P.L.T. 113=A.I.R. 1933 Pat. 224=12 Pat. 261=149 Ind. Cas. 561.

——Art. 47—Order passed under Mamlatdar's Courts Act respecting property.

A suit to deny a right of way which has been affirmed by an order of a mamlatadar under the Malmatadar's Courts Act is governed by Art. 47. A.I.R. 1931 Bom. 256=33 Bom.L.R. 517=135 Ind. Cas. 427.

——Art. 47—Applicability—Nature of suit.

If the whole of the language of Art. 47 be taken into consideration, it is clear that the nature and scope of the suit intended to be comprised in the article must be one whose main object is to set aside the effect of the summary order of a Magistrate with regard to possession in the interest of public peace. 111 Ind. Cas. 152=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 38.

——Art. 47—Right accruing after order.

Article 47 has no application to a case where at the time when the Magistrate's order was passed under S. 145, there was no existing right in the plaintiff to sue for possession of the suit properties. 19 Cal. 646, Foll. 102 Ind. Cas. 360=38 M.L.T. 226=25 M.L.W. 568=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 586=52 M.L.J. 482.

——Art. 47—Possession not given by Magistrate.

Article 47 applies to cases where a person is not given possession by the Magistrate under S. 145, Cr.P. Code. 99 Ind. Cas. 532=1927 M.W.N. 35=38 M.L.T. 217=A.I.R. 1927 Mad. 304.

——Art. 47—Article 47 has no relation to any portion of the order of the Criminal Court which has no reference to the question of possession. 97 Ind.Cas. 73=30 C.W.N. 873=A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 1022.

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 145—Right of way—Three years limitation.

A suit for a declaration of right of way over the land of the defendant need not be instituted within three years of an order under S. 145 of Cr.P. Code made in favour of the defendant as the proceedings under the latter section refer to the possession of land and involve no question of right of way. 57 Ind. Cas. 852 (Cal.).

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 145—No order respecting possession.

Art. 47 of the Limitation Act is inapplicable where there was no order respecting the possession of immoveable property made under Cr.P. Code although the complaint of the plaintiffs was dismissed as they failed to prove their possession. 16 Ind. Cas. 735 (Cal.).

——Sch. I, Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 145—Suit by party bound by order under—Limitation.

A suit by a person against whom an adverse order has been made under S. 145, Cr.P. Code for possession of properties in respect of which the order was made must be brought within 3 years of the order under Art. 47 of the Limitation Act. 137 P.W.R. 1912=84 P.R. 1912=14 Ind. Cas. 566.

——Art. 47—Suit for declaration of plaintiff's right to dams and irrigate.

A suit for declaration of plaintiff's right to put up dams and to irrigate lands by means of such dams is not governed by Art. 47. (1908) 35 C. 851.

——Art. 47—Mamlatdar's Courts Act, (Bom. Act III of 1876), Ss. 18, 21—Possessory suit—Dismissal of suit—Limitation.

A plaintiff suing in the ordinary courts on his title for the possession of land is not bound by reason of anything in Art. 47 of the Limitation Act, or S. 21 of the Mamlatdar's Courts Act, to bring his suit within three years from the previous rejection of his plaint by a Mamlatdar in a suit for possession of that land

Per Jenkins, C.J.—A suit on title being outside the jurisdiction of a Mamlatdar, the mere rejection of a plaint by him in such a suit cannot be treated as an order binding the plaintiff in reference to that which is the cause of action in a suit on title.

Per Chandavarkar, J.—The orders referred to in Art. 46 of the Limitation Act, read with S. 21 of the Mamlatdar's Courts Act, are orders by which a Mamlatdar gives immediate possession to a party or restores the use to him or issues an injunction in his favour. The three years' limitation prescribed by S. 21 of the Mamlatdar's Courts Act and Art. 47 of the Limitation Act, is prescribed for suits of the kind referred to in S. 18 of the former Act, as suits relating to orders respecting possession. For the purpose of the three years limitation applicable to a regular suit in a civil court a party is bound by only that order of the Mamlatdar which restores the adverse party to possession or confirms the latter in possession by means of an injunction.

Per Batty, J.—Neither S. 21 of the Mamlatdar's Courts Act, nor Art. 47 of the Limitation Act, attaches any effect to a bare decision by a Mamlatdar. There is no provision corresponding to S. 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure (O.C.) which would make the decision of the Mamlatdar operative as res judicata. The Mamlatdar's Courts Act, gives the Mamlatdar no power to decide upon the rights of the parties, and the order rejecting a suit or disallowing a claim involves no decision as to right of the plaintiffs to possession. Art. 47 of the Limitation Act and S. 21 of the Bombay Mamlatdar's Courts Act, relate only to orders which are binding, i.e., which are enforceable. (1904) 6 Bom. L.R. 612=28 B. 601 (F.B.).

——Art. 47, C.P. Code (1882), S. 13—Suit brought in one capacity—Subsequent suit in another capacity—Res judicata.

The plaintiff first sued the defendant, the lessee, for possession of a house belonging to the Mutt as the heir of the former manager of the Mutt the person who leased the house to defendant. The suit was dismissed for plaintiff's failure to establish his heirship to the former manager.

Held : (1) that a second suit by the plaintiff for possession on behalf of the Mutt as manager is not barred under Art. 47 or res judicata : (2) that the order in a suit before the mamlatdar does not give rise to the bar of Expl. 2 to S. 13, C.P. Code (O.C.). (1903) 5 Bom.L.R. 932=28 B. 215. See also 28 B. 601.

——Art. 47—Mamalatdar's Courts Act, (Bombay Act 3 of 1876)—Dismissal—Non-appearance of both the parties.

Where a mamlatdar dismisses a possessory suit owing to non-appearance of both the parties to the suit, a regular suit to set aside that order must be brought within three years of its date under Art. 47. (1900) 2 Bom.L.R. 680=25 B. 82.

——Art. 47—Applicability—Person not party to proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code.

A person who is not a party to the proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code is not bound by an order passed under that section and Art. 47 cannot apply to him. A.I.R. 1941 Pesh. 65=42 Cr.L.J. 872=196 Ind. Cas. 444.

——Art. 47—Applicability—Third persons—Bar to a person not a party in a criminal proceeding whether.

Article 47 does not bar a person who was no party to the criminal proceedings in which the order was passed. 23 M.L.J. 348=17 Ind. Cas. 589.

1. (b) Applicability and Scope—Order under S. 146, Cr.P. Code.

——Art. 47—Appointment of Receiver—Effect of necessity to bring a suit for possession.

Where a Magistrate appoints a receiver in possession of immovable property, what happens in the eye of the law is that the property is placed in custodia legis, i.e., in the custody of the Court for the benefit of the person who may eventually and finally succeed in establishing his title to the property. It is not necessary for the person affected by the order to institute a suit for the recovery of possession of the property. He may institute a suit merely to have his right to the property declared. If so, Art. 47, would not apply and a fortiori the consequences of the operation of S. 28, Limitation Act cannot follow. 10 L.W. 637, Not foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 152=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 38.

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 146—Appointment of Receiver—Subsequent delivery of the property and its income by the Receiver to one of the parties—Rights of other party.

In a possession dispute between the 1st defendant and defendants 2 and 3, the Magistrate acting under S. 146, Cr.P. Code, appointed a Receiver on 30th January, 1909. In March, 1913 possession of the property was delivered to 1st defendant by the Receiver together with the income thereof during the period of Receiver's possession. In April, 1913 the plaintiff who was the holder of a money decree against defendants 2 and 3, attached the income of the property handed over by the Receiver to the 1st defendant. The 1st defendant put in a claim petition which was allowed. In a suit by the decree-holder for the declaration of his right to attach the income.

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation as defendants 2 and 3 had no subsisting right in the income on the date of the attachment, their interest if any in the suit property, having become extinguished by the operation of Art. 47 and S. 280 f the Limitation Act. 38 Mad. 432, Foll. 10 L.W. 637=27 M.L.T. 53=56 Ind. Cas. 675.

——Arts. 47, 120, 142, 144—Suit for declaration of right to property attached under Cr.P. Code, S. 146.

A suit for declaration of right to property dealt with by a Magistrate under S. 145 (6) whereby he confirms the possession of either party is governed by Art. 47 : and a suit for declaration of right to property attached under S. 146, Cr.P. Code by Art. 120. A suit for lands held under attachment under S. 143, Cr.P. Code is not a suit for possession but a suit for declaration of title only and, consequently, Arts. 142 and 144 will not apply. The cause of action for a suit for a declaration of right is the alleged wrongful denial by either party of the other's right and the procuring of the attachment by the Magistrate. (1902) 26 M. 410. See also 28 C. 86.

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 146.

Quaere.—Whether Art. 47, applies to an order under S. 146, Cr.P. Code. (1900) 5 C.W.N. 160=28 C. 86. See also 26 M. 410.

1. (c) Applicability and Scope—Order under S. 522, Cr.P. Code.

——Art. 47—Order under, S. 522, Cr.P. Code.

The operation of Art. 47 is not confined to orders under Chapter 12 of the Cr.P. Code. An order restoring possession under S. 522 is an order respecting the possession of property within the meaning of Art. 47. 86 Ind. Cas. 744=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 799=48 M.L.J. 372.

2. "Claiming under such person"—Meaning of.

——Art. 47—Scope.

The words "claiming under such person" mentioned in Art. 47, refer to those persons who claim from the person, bound by the order under a title created subsequent to the order and not those who claim under a title created prior to the order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code. A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 629=15 Pat. 481=17 P.L.T. 726=3 B.R. 148=166 Ind. Cas. 29.

3. "To recover the property"—Meaning of.

——Art. 47—"To recover the property," meaning of.

The words "to recover the property" only mean that the suit contemplated is a suit for the enforcement of such right as the person bringing the suit had in the property comprised in the order passed against him. (1937) A.L.J. 225=A.I.R. 1937 All. 300=1937 A.W.R. 235=169 Ind. Cas. 125.

——Art. 47—To recover property—Suit for partition.

The provisions of Art. 47 are applicable to a suit for possession of an undivided share of the property in respect of the whole of which there was a final order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code. It is not contemplated by the provision contained in Art. 47 that the title of the co-sharer of any joint property must be held to be extinguished, and that there could not be any claim for joint possession or for partition in view of an order passed by a Criminal Court not having been challenged by a suit by the co-sharer. The co-sharer's rig t to get exclusive possession is barred on the expiry of the period prescribed by Art. 47 of the first schedule of the Limitation Act, but his title cannot be held to have been extinguished so as to disentitle him to get a decree for partition of joint property. 39 C.W.N. 853=163 Ind. Cas. 370.

——Art. 47—Undivided property.

An undivided share of the property with regard to which there is an order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, cannot for the purposes of Art. 47, be regarded as a different property. 51 C.L.J. 461=128 Ind. Cas. 106=A.I.R. 1930 Cal. 612.

4. Failure to institute suit—Effect of.

——Art. 47 and S. 28—Failure of Hindu widow to institute suit within three years of Magistrate's order—Order does not bind reversioner—Reversioner's right to recover property is not affected.

Failure of a Hindu widow to institute a civil suit within three years of the Magistrate's order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, as prescribed by Art. 47, Limitation Act, can only operate to bar her right to file a suit subsequently. The reversioner, not being a party to the litigation, is not bound by it. Nor can he otherwise maintain the suit as his reversionary right is no better than a mere spes successionis till the widow's death. Section 28, Limitation Act, can therefore extinguish only the widow's rights to the property after expiry of three years but not those of the reversioner. A.I.R. 1946 Oudh 213=1946 Oudh W.N. 195=224 Ind. Cas. 537.

——Art. 47—Partition suit—Where title has been extinguished by an order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code, and Art. 47, Limitation Act.

A suit for partition which seeks for partition of property or to have a share in it, the title to which has already been extinguished by reason of no suit having been instituted to recover possession within three years of the order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code and by virtue of Art. 145 of the Schedule and of S. 28 of the Act, is another name for a suit for recovery of possession and a mere device to evade the provisions of the statute. 51 C.L.J. 461=A.I.R. 1930 Cal. 612=128 Ind. Cas. 106.

——Art. 47—Redemption suit.

Failure to file suit under O. 21, R. 103, Cr.P. Code or within three years of Criminal Court's order refusing right to present possession does not bar the suit for redemption. 105 Ind. Cas. 427=23 N.L.R. 164=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 97.

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 145 (6)—Acquisition of title on unsuccessful party's failure to establish title within 3 years—Limitation Act, S. 28—Previous attornment by tenant to defeated party—Suit for rent.

Where an order is passed by a Magistrate under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, putting one of the parties in possession and the unsuccessful party fails to sue to get rid of the order within three years under Art. 47 of the Limitation Act, the former acquires title to the property under S. 28 of the Act. If the party thus put in possession sues for rent the unsuccessful party in the possession proceedings should not be impleaded as a party defendant if the tenant, had, prior to the institution of the proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, attorned to the latter. 15 Ind. Cas. 24 (Mad.).

5. Final order.

——Art. 47—The " final order " in column 3 of Art. 47, must be understood to refer to the order contemplated by column 1 of the same article. 22 P.L.T. 202=7 B.R. 609=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 372=20 Pat. 735=193 Ind. Cas. 501.

——Art. 47—The order of the High Court dismissing an appeal for want of jurisdiction cannot be the final order. 22 P.L.T. 202=7 B.R. 609=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 372=20 Pat. 735=193 Ind. Cas. 501.

——Art. 47—Final order—Order under S. 145 (6), Cr.P. Code—Revision to High Court—Order dismissing in limine—Order of Magistrate is the " final order ".

Where an order of a Magistrate passed under S. 145 (6), Cr.P. Code, is not modified by the High Court in revision, it is the final order within the meaning of Art. 47 of the Limitation Act. If the application for revision is accepted, and the Magistrate's order is set aside, then his order is no longer the final order ; but until it is set aside or modified, it is. Hence when a revision against an order of a Magistrate passed under sub-S. (6) of S. 145 is dismissed by the High Court in limine it is the order of the Magistrate and not that of the High Court that is the final order within the meaning of Art. 47 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1947) Mad. 179=227 Ind. Cas. 456=57 L.W. 289=1946 M.W.N. 359=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 444=(1946) 1 M.L.J. 398.

——Art. 47—S. 439, Cr.P. Code, itself provides that in revision the High Court may in its discretion exercise any of the powers of an Appellate Court. If, therefore, an order passed by an Appellate Court should be regarded as the final order, there is no reason why an order passed by the High Court in exercise of its power of revision under S. 439 could not be equally regarded as the final order. Whether the High Court ultimately interferes in revision or not, its order is none the less the final order. 22 P.L.T. 202=7 B.R. 609=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 372=20 Pat. 735=193 Ind. Cas. 501.

——Art. 47—Quaere:—Where the High Court summarily dismisses an application for revision, whether its order would be the final order within the meaning of Art. 47, of the Limitation Act. 22 P.L.T. 202=7 B.R. 609=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 372=20 Pat. 735=193 Ind. Cas. 501.

——Art. 47—Final order.

Where the Sessions Judge, in exercise of his power under S. 435, makes a reference to the High Court under S. 438, with the recommendation that the order of the Magistrate be set aside, the matter remains sub judice so long as it is not finally determined by the High Court. The order of the High Court passed under S. 439 will be the final order in the case. 22 P.L.T. 202=7 B.R. 609=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 372=20 Pat. 735=193 Ind. Cas. 501.

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 145—Suit to set aside and for possession—Starting point—Revision by High Court.

The period of limitation under Art. 47 runs from the date of the order of the Magistrate under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, and not from the date on which the High Court refuses to exercise its powers of superintendence in revision against the order. 12 C.W.N. 840, Foll. 4 Pat.L.W. 136=43 Ind. Cas. 955.

——Art. 47—Order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code—Date of the final order in the case—Rule issued by High Court against Magistrate's order.

In the case of an order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code the final order " is the order of the Magistrate and no the order passed in revision by the High Court under S. 15 of the Charter Act." (1908) 12 C.W.N. 840.

6. Limitation under special law.

——Art. 47—Limitation under special law—C. P. Tenancy Act—Sch. 2, Art. 1.

Where the specific article applicable is the one contained in the Tenancy Act, while the more general article is the one contained in the Limitation Act, the former applies. 105 Ind. Cas. 431=10 N.L.J. 246=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 402.

7. Object of Article.

——Art. 47—Object.

The policy of the article in curtailing the period of limitation for a suit for possession from the usual period of twelve years to the shorter period of three years clearly seems to be that when a judicial order under Cr. P. Code, has been passed by a Magistrate respecting the possession of immovable property, then a person bound by the order must bring his suit to recover the property comprised in such order within the shorter period. 1936 O.W.N. 784=A.I.R. 1936 Oudh 387=1936 R.D. 416=12 Luck. 371=164 Ind. Cas. 118.

8. Order without jurisdiction.

——Art. 47—Order without jurisdiction.

Where an order is made under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, awarding possession of immovable property but the order is made without jurisdiction a suit to recover possession is, as regards limitation, governed by Art. 142, and not by Art. 47 of the Limitation Act. 60 Ind. Cas. 860 (Cal.).

——Art. 47—Cr.P. Code, S. 145—Withdrawal by one party—Evidence of other party not taken—Suit for possession.

Per Richardson, J. and Chatterjee, J.—An order on withdrawal by a party to proceedings under S. 145 in favour of the other without recording any evidence is an order deciding the question of possession so as to be covered by Art. 47. The omission of the Magistrate to take evidence on behalf of the second party who was in possession at the date of the preliminary order under S. 145, did not make his final order under that section ultra vires. The defect was curable under S. 537, Cr.P. Code.

Quaere.—Whether a final order under S. 145 of the Cr.P. Code can be made by consent of the parties. 22 C.W.N. 342=18 Cr.L.J. 1024=42 Ind. Cas. 768.

——Art. 47 Sch. I,—Cr.P. Code, S. 145—Order of Magistrate declaring party entitled to possession—Suit for recovery of possession—Limitation.

Where a Magistrate in proceeding under S. 145 Cr.P. Code declared the defendants to be entitled to possession in 1903 but they instituted a suit for recovery of possession in 1909, it was held that the suit was barred by Art. 47. That article applies to suits based on title to ownership. A Magistrate's order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code is not ultra vires because he acted illegally or with material irregularity. 38 Mad. 432=14 M.L.T. 392=(1913) M.W.N. 871=21 Ind. Cas. 564.

9. Persons bound by order.

——Art. 47—Person bound by an order respecting possession—Order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code against husband who sets up his own rights in such proceedings—Wife if bound by such an order.

Where in proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code a husband sets up his own rights and an order is passed in such proceedings, it cannot affect his wife whose rights in the land in question were not placed before the Criminal Court. In such a case the wife is not a party to the proceedings and is not a "person bound by an order respecting possession" within the meaning of Art. 47 of the Limitation Act and the Article will not apply to suit by her for possession. 1950 A.W.R. 635=A.I.R. 1950 All. 693.

——Art. 47—Order against trustee binds the trust—Trustee.

As an order made against a trustee under S. 145, Cr.P. Code binds the Trust, a suit by a subsequent trustee to set aside that order will also be governed by Art. 47. A.I.R. 1936 Mad. 188=43 L.W. 496=70 M.L.J 441=(1936) M.W.N. 457=161 Ind. Cas. 234.

——Art. 47—Order after adjudication by Civil Court.

When a person is a party to a litigation in a Civil Court and an order is made by the Magistrate with regard to the possession of immovable property as the result of the adjudication in the Civil Court, such a person cannot be properly described as a person bound by the order of the Magistrate; nor is such an order of the Magistrate one promulgated under the Cr.P. Code as required by Art. 47. 111 Ind. Cas. 152=A.I.R. 1929 Mad. 38.

——Art. 47—Joint Hindu family—Order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, against father—Sons bound.

In proceedings taken under S. 145, an adverse order passed against a Hindu father in possession of the property bought on behalf of the joint Hindu family is binding on his undivided sons though they were not parties to the proceedings. A suit, therefore, by such undivided sons for possession of the properties—subject-matter of the proceedings—brought more than three years on such order is barred under Art. 47. 122 Ind. Cas. 171=52 Mad. 787=2 M.Cr.C. 183=1929 M.W.N. 518=30 M.L.W. 201=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 48=57 M.L.J. 228.

——Art. 47—Section 145, Cr.P. Code, order against Manager—Effect on the sons.

An order under S. 145 was passed against A the manager of the family of the plaintiffs, in favour of the defendants. A died, and the plaintiffs dispossessed the defendants forcibly. They were convicted and the defendants were put back in possession by the Criminal Court. The plaintiffs thereupon sued for a declaration that they were the owners in possession.

Held, that whether the order under S. 145 was passed against A in his personal capacity or as manager of the family, the plaintiffs are bound thereby and the suit is governed by Art. 47 of the Limitation Act,

Held, further that the plaintiffs cannot claim to enlarge the time by framing the suit as one for declaration 71 Ind. Cas. 402=21 A.L.J. 102=45 All. 306=4 L.R.A. (Civ.) 113=A.I.R. 1923 All. 151.

——Art. 47—Order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, against one member.

An order under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, against one member of a joint family is not binding on other members even when that member has made an application under that section as the head and manager of the joint family and a suit by another member, succeeding by survivorship to the member against whom the order was passed after 3 years of the order is not barred. 66 Ind. Cas. 678=8 O.L.J. 410=A.I.R. 1921 Oudh 191.

——Art. 47—Purchase under mortgage decree—Subsequent suit under the Mamlatdar's Courts Act.

A purchaser of property in Court sale under a decree obtained on a mortgage anterior to the dismissal of the mortgagor's suit against the defendants in respect of the property, is not bound by the dismissal, he deriving his title not only from the mortgagor but also from the mortgagee; consequently, Art. 47 will not apply. (1904) 6 Bom.L.R. 306.

10. Starting point.

See also NOTE 5.

——Art. 47—Starting point of limitation.

If limitation begins to run before the date of the order of attachment under S. 146, Cr.P. Code, it is clear the plaintiffs in a declaratory suit cannot have a fresh start of limitation from the date of the subsequent attachment. 14 P.L.T. 113=12 Pat. 261=A.I.R. 1933 Pat. 224=149 Ind. Cas. 561.

——Art. 47—Successive orders.

Plaintiff obtained an order from Mamlatdar restraining defendant from disturbing his possession. The District Deputy Collector in revision dismissed plaintiff's suit. This order was without jurisdiction. Then plaintiff took proceedings under S. 145, Cr.P. Code, but the Magistrate made an order against him.

Held, that plaintiff's suit brought within 3 years from Magistrate's order was within time. 62 Ind. Cas. 224=45 Bom. 1135=23 Bom.L.R. 468=A.I.R. 1921 Bom. 207.

——Art. 48.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability and Scope.
2. Specific movable property.
3. Starting point.

1. Applicability and Scope.

——Art. 48—Applicability—Official Assignee taking possession of movable property as belonging to insolvent—No step taken by alleged true owner to establish claim for 3 years—Claim if barred by limitation.

Where a person claiming to be the true owner of certain movable property, which was taken possession of by the Official Assignee on the ground that it belonged to an insolvent, does not take steps to st ! lish the claim for 3 years from the date of knowledge of the possession by the Official Assignee, his claim to the property is, even if true, barred by limitation. It is the duty of the Official Assignee to administer the estate of the insolvent for the benefit of the creditors and not to hold, any property that he takes into his possession as the property of the insolvent, on behalf of any person who might subsequently establish a claim to the property. On the contrary, he holds the property adversely to the true owner if the true owner is not the insolvent. 62 L.W. 124=A.I.R. 1949 Mad. 437=1949 M.W.N. 30=(1949) 1 M.L.J. 72.

——Arts. 48 and 49—Applicability—Relative scope—Defendant wrongfully detaining movable property to which plaintiff claims reversionary title and wrongfully refusing to produce and hand over to Receiver in spite of order of Court.

Art. 48 of the Limitation Act deals with specific movable property which falls under one of two classes; (1) property which has been lost; (2) property which has been acquired by (a) theft, (b) dishonest misappropriation or (c) conversion. The Article contemplates suits by plaintiffs who have right to possession, i.e., where they are entitled to immediate possession. Art. 49 applies to a case where the plaintiff has no right to immediate possession at the time whien the cause of action pleaded by him arose and on which he succeeds. Art. 49 would therefore apply to a suit against a defendant who has wrongfully detained movable property to which the plaintiff has a reversionary right and which the defendant, in spite of a decree in a prior suit, has a false pretext, refused to produce and hand over to a Receiver when asked to do so. I.L.R. (1948) 1 Cal. 55=51 C.W.N. 544=A.I.R. 1948 Cal. 97=82 C.L.J. 173=229 Ind. Cas. 373.

——Arts. 48, 49 and 120—Applicability—Suit by trustee against beneficiary to recover movable property—Limitation—Starting point.

A suit by a trustee against the beneficiaries to recover certain movable properties belonging to the trust for the trust, is governed not by Art. 48 or 49, but by Art. 120 of the Limitation Act. Art. 48 has clearly no application as the defendants themselves are co-beneficiaries under the trust and the nature of their possession is the same as that of the plaintiff and it is not their case that they had acquired the movable property by any of the ways mentioned in that article. Art. 49 has no application where a claim is made in a representative capacity as in this case by a trustee against the beneficiaries. The facts of the case are governed by Art. 120 and the suit is in time if filed within six years of the refusal by the defendants to return the trust property. A.I.R. 1949 Assam 10.

——Arts. 48, 49 and 29—Applicability—Sewing machine belonging to B attached before judgment and kept in custody of sureties—Attachment subsequently raised as being illegal—B refusing to take back machine as it was found to be useless due to removal of vital parts—Suit by B for return of machine in its original condition or for damages—Limitation—Art. 48 or Art. 49 would apply and not Art. 29.

Where a suit is for compensation for wrongfully taking or detaining the property lost or acquired by theft or by dishonest misappropriation or conversion, Art. 43 would be applicable, and not Art. 29. Even if Art. 48 does not in terms apply, Art. 49, which is a residuary article, would be applicable, since that article deals with suits for specific movable property not otherwise provided for, or for compensation for wrongfully taking or injuring or for wrongfully detaining the same. The period of limitation under both Arts. 48 and 49 is three years and the time is to run from the time when the person having a right to the property first learnt in whose possession it was or when the detainer's possession became unlawful.

A obtained an attachment before judgment against B and attached a sewing machine belonging to B. The machine was then handed over to two sureties C and D. The attachment was subsequently raised as being illegal on application by B. At the time of taking delivery, it was found that the machine was rendered absolutely uselsss by the removal of important parts thereof and it had also become rusty and unworkable. B therefore refused to take delivery of the same and filed a suit against A, C and D for the return of the machine in the condition in which it was at the time of attachment or for damages. It was contended that the suit was barred by limitation under Art. 29, Limitation Act, as it was filed after the expiry of one year from the date of attachment.

Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 48 or Art. 49 and not by Art. 29. The suit being admittedly filed within the period prescribed by those articles was not barred by limitation. A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 453=(1946) 1 Mad.L.J. 241=(1946) Mad.L.W. 256.

——Art. 48—Applicability—Wrongful removal of attached property.

Article relates to specific movable property lost or acquired by theft or dishonest misappropriation or conversion or for compensation for wrongfully taking or detaining the property. It has no application to a suit for compensation for wrongful removal of attached property. 58 M.L.W. 108 (2)=I.L.R. (1945) Mad. 784=1945 M.W.N. 160=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 265=A.I.R. 1949 Mad. 33.

——Arts. 48, 49—Scope.

Articles 48 and 49 are intended to apply only to cases where the plaintiff had a right to possession of the movable property concerned. A.I.R. 1932 All. 256=(1932) A.L.J. 241=16 R.D. 380=54 A. 467=136 Ind. Cas. 809.

——Art. 48—Action for removal of coal from mine—Limitation.

An action for trespass to mine and removal of coal therefrom is an action for trover as far as removal of coal is concerned and is governed by Art. 48 and not by Art. 142 or Art. 144. A.I.R. 1931 Pat. 436=13 P.L.T. 73=133 Ind. Cas. 453.

——Art. 48—Conversion.

An action of trover claiming damages for the conversion by the defendants of specific moveable property, viz., coal wrongfully gotten from the plaintiffs' mines and sold or otherwise disposed of by the defendants to their own use, is governed by Art. 48. Article 48 alone refers to conversion and conversion cannot be split into two classes, one dishonest and the other not dishonest. "Or" preceding conversion is equivalent "or by". 114 Ind. Cas. 604=6 O.W.N. 151=1920 A.L.J. 170=33 C.W.N. 323=10 P.L.T. 155=56 I.A. 93=29 M.L.W. 449=49 C.L.J. 415=31 Bom.L.R. 702=8 Pat. 516=A.I.R. 1929 P.C. 69=56 M.L.J. 517 (P.C.).

——Art. 48—Applicability—Conversion by Railway Company.

A suit for damages for conversion by a Railway Company is governed by Art. 48. A.I.R. 1934 Pat. 507=16 P.L.T. 61=1 B.R. 5= 13 Pat. 752=151 Ind. Cas. 995.

——Art. 48—Scope—Conversion.

Article 48 applies to all conversion, whether dishonest or not. Where the trespass is due to inadvertence or is due to inadvertence and want of reasonable care, both these views of the conversion fall within the terms of Art. 48 under which the limitation period of three years begins to run when the person having the right to possession of the property first learns in whose possession it is. A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 117, Reversed. 123 Ind. Cas. 725=32 Bom.L.R. 654=34 C.W.N. 483=31 M.L.W. 638=51 C.L.J. 407=A.I.R. 1930 P.C. 113=58 M.L.J. 536 (P.C.).

——Art. 48—Scope of.

"Conversion" in Art. 48 means dishonest conversion, ejusdem generis with the words that precede it and the article, in view of the words in the third column, presupposes the existence of the property in the possession of some person. The claim for damags for trespass includes not merely damages for the unlawful entry but also damages for the mischief which the trespasser commits after entry on the land and therefore it is not covered by Art. 48. 101 Ind. Cas. 62=31 C.W.N. 82=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 117.

——Art. 48—Wrongful removal of coal from adjacent mine.

A suit for value of coal wrongfully extracted and carried away is governed by Art. 48. 1.Pat.L.T. 84=55 Ind. Cas. 113.

——Arts. 48 and 49—Unlawful conversion—Moveable property originally lawfully obtained but subsequently converted unlawfully—Rocovery of—Limitation.

A suit for recovery of specific moveable property originally, obtained lawfully, but subsequently converted or retained unlawfully, is governed by Art. 48 and not Art. 49. 3 M.L.T. 324, Not applied. 38 Mad. 783=15 M.L.T. 221=(1914) M.W.N. 319=23 Ind. Cas. 174.

——Art. 48—Criminal charge—Absence of—Section does not apply.

A suit was brought in the Small Cause Court for the recovery of certain ornaments or their value from the defendants who were the sons of a person who kept the ornaments promising to return them. There was no allegation of a criminal charge. The suit was dismissed as barred by Art. 48, Limitation Act:

Held, that criminal charge could not be presumed from the application of Art. 48, Limitation Act, and the suit was not barred under article. 116 Ind. Cas. 785=A.I.R. 1929 All. 208.

——Art. 48—Value of crops attached.

In the case of a suit for damages representing the value of crops which has been wrongfully attached, cut and removed, the pertinent articles are 48 and 49 and not 29 or 36, Limitation Act. 105 Ind. Cas. 763=A.I.R. 1923 Cal. 106.

——Art. 48—Suit for valuables deposited.

Article 145 and not Art. 48 governs a suit for the recovery of jewels deposited with the deceased son of the defendant and alleged to be with the defendant after the son's death. 84 Ind. Cas. 1026=20 M.L.W. 755=1925 M.W.N. 143=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 185.

——Arts. 48, 49, 145—Deposit—Demand and refusal—Limitation.

Where there is a specific article for a class of suits, that article applies and not the more general article which may also cover it in its description. 25 C. 564 at 567, foll. A suit against a depository for the recovery of jewels is governed by Art. 145 and is in time if brought within 30 years of the deposit even though more than 3 years has elapsed from the date of the demand and refusal. (1902) 26 B. 430=4 Bom.L.R. 72.

——Art. 48—Against Bank as trustee.

Where a Bank holding Government Paper held in trust for the plaintiff of which trust it had constructive notice, sold it, and parted with the sale proceeds, and the plaintiff sued the Bank for recovery of sale proceeds with interest.

Held, that the suit is either one for conversion (Art. 48) or for money had and received to the plaintiff's use (Art. 62). 67 Ind. Cas. 761=24 Bom.L.R. 513=A.I.R. 1923 Bom. 155.

——Arts. 48 and 49—Unlawful detention of share certificate—Suit for compensation for loss.

Plaintiff bought five shares of a certain spinning and weaving Company from defendant through X. A receipt for the shares was given by defendant to plaintiff who signed the receipt and gave it back to the defendant to get the share certificate from the Company and make them over to the plaintiff. The defendant got the share certificates from the Company and retained them in his own custody. Plaintiff gave notice to defendant demanding delivery which was refused on some plea of right, but was subsequently obtained on a criminal prosecution. By that time, the shares had fallen in the market, and a suit was brought for compensation for the loss.

Held, that Art. 49 governed the case and that time began to run from the date of the defendants' refusal. Art. 48 of the Limitation Act deals only with specific moveable property which is either acquired by theft or dishonest misapproriation, or conversion. No other kind of moveable property is affected by this article. 12 Bom. L.R. 513=7 Ind. Cas. 447.

——Art. 48—Compensation for trees cut.

Defendant sold standing trees to plaintiff in 1915, by registered deed for Rs. 200 and covenanted that plaintiff should be at liberty to cut them and remove the timber within one year. Plaintiff did not cut within the year. Mean while the land had been sold and was pre-empted and the pre-emptor sold the trees to third persons in 1917 who cut them and the plaintiff in 1920 sued for possession of the timber or Rs. 400.

Held, that this was a sale of moveable property and that Art. 48 or Art. 49 does apply. 73 Ind. Cas. 33=A.I.R. 1924 Lah. 71.

——Arts. 48, 49, 36—Suit by mortgagee against mortgagor's co-tenant for cutting and appropriating timber—Co-tenants.

The mere act of cutting down timber standing on the common property by the mortgagor's co-tenant (the mortgage being only of one co-tenant's share in the land) cannot constitute a wrong as between the co-tenants on the one hand and the mortgagee of the other co-tenants on the other ; a suit by the mortgagor for damages suffered by the co-tenant's appropriation of the wood is governed by Art. 49 and not by either 48 or 36. (1904) 28 M. 208.

2. "Specific movable property."

——Art. 48—Suit for money.

Money is "specific movable property" within the meaning of Art. 48 and where it has been lost, acquired by theft or dishonest misappropriation or conversion or compensation for wrongfully taking or detaining the same Art. 48 will apply. 5 All. 341; 29 All. 579; A.I.R. 1930 All. 397, Foll. 124 Ind. Cas. 180=A.I.R. 1939 All. 573.

——Art. 48—A suit for recovery of money is a suit for specific movable property. 5 All. 341 ; 29 All. 579, Foll. 1930 A.L.J. 1411=124 Ind. Cas. 33=A.I.R. 1930 All. 397.

——Arts. 48, 90, 115, 120—Suit to recover money given to defendant to be delivered to a third person.

A gave Rs. 300 to B in order that it might be delivered to C, who has, a few days previously, executed a mortgage in favour of A. B also executed a bond guaranteeing the repayment of the loan by C. On suit by A against B and C which was decided on the 15th of January, 1901, it was discovered that B had never paid the money to C. On the 1st of December, 1904 A sued B to recover he Rs. 300 paid to him as above described.

Held, that the rule of limitation applicable was tha provided for by Art. 48 (if not by Art. 90 or 115) and the suit was time barred. (1905) 1907 A.W.N. 181 = 4 A.L.J. 671 = 29 A. 579.

——Arts. 48, 109—Suit to recover rents realised by trespasser—Zurpeshgidar realising rents after expiry of lease—Limitation—"Specific moveable property" meaning of—Suit of Small Cause nature of less than Rs. 500 in value—Order of remand, appeal from—C. P. Code (Act XIV of 1882), Ss. 586, 588, Cl. 28.

A suit brought by an owner of lands for the recovery from Zurpeshgidars of rents realised by the latter from the tenants after the expiry of the zurpeshgi lease is governed by Art. 109 and not by Art. 48. By "specific moveable property" in Art. 48 is meant property that can be specified by the delivery of the identical subject and does not cover money. 5 A. 341, diss. from.; 11 B. 183; 8 B. 19, foll. (1907) 11 C.W.N. 862.

——Art. 48—'Specific'—See THE ARGUMENTS IN 9 C.W.N. 443 = 32 C. 799.

3. Starting point.

——Art. 48—Suit for damages for conversion—Time, when begins to rum—Onus.

A suit for damags for conversion of specific immovable property is governed by Art. 48, whether such conversion is dishonest or not.

The time begins to run from the date of the knowledge and the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove that he first came to know of the conversion within three years of the suit. 49 C.W.N. 810 = A.I.R. 1946 Cal. 123.

——Arts. 48, 49—Starting point of limitation—Onus.

The onus is on the plaintiff to prove that he first learnt within three years of the suit that the property which he is seeking to recover was in the possession of the defendant. In other words, he has to prove that he obtained the knowledge of the defendant's possession of the property within three years of the suit, and that is all. If he proves this, then to succeed in the plea of limitation, the defendant has to prove that the fact that the property was in his possession became known to the plaintiff more than three years prior to the suit. 38 Bom.L.R. 712 = A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 322 = 60 B. 848 = 165 Ind. Cas 184.

——Art. 48—Construction—"Whose possession", meaning of.

The words "whose possession" mean the possession of some definite person who can be identified and against whom effective relief for restoration of the property in question can be obtained. 60 B. 848 = A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 222 = 38 Bom.L.R. 712 = 165 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 48—Starting point of limitation.

The plain meaning of Art. 48 is that time begins to run against the owner of the property lost, from the time when he first discovered that it is in the possession of the defendant. A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 322 = 38 Bom.L.R. 712 = 60 B. 848 = 165 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 48—Starting point—Diligence of plaintiff—If relevant.

On the language of Art. 48, no question arises as to whether the owner of the property of the kind mentioned in that article was or was not reasonably diligent to discover in whose possession the property he is seeking to recover in. There are a good many articles in the Limitation Act in which time begins to run from the date of the plaintiff's knowledge of a particular fact or act or when certain relevant facts first became or becomes known to him, but in none of them has the Legislature imposed a condition as to the plaintiff being reasonably diligent in discovering those facts or acquiring that particular knowledge. 60 B. 848 = A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 322 = 38 Bom.L.R. 712 = 165 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 48—Starting point of limitation.

Where the plaintiff knew of the encroachment and of the removal of the coal from his place long before three years from the date of institution of the suit, the fact that the plaintiff did not know that the area from which coal was being removed was his, will be of no advantage to him and will not save the suit from being barred by limitation. The knowledge referred to in Art. 48, Limitation Act, is the knowledge of the taking away of the property. A mistaken belief by the plaintiff that the property removed was not his, will not affect the running of the period of limitation unless, of course, the knowledge of the fact was kept back from him by the fraudulent conduct of the defendant. A.I.R. 1930 Pat. 179 = 2 B.R. 374 = 161 Ind. Cas. 855.

——Arts. 48 and 49—Misappropriation—Starting point.

Materials of a house removed and misappropriated by the defendants is governed by Art. 48 and time begins to run from the date when the plaintiff first learnt in whose possession the materials are. 52 Ind. Cas. 361 (Pat.).

——Art. 48—Pledge by a Commission Agent—Jewel given to him for sale—Suit to recover—Starting point for limitation.

In a suit to recover a jewel or its value from a Commission Agent to whom it was given for sale, but which was pledged by the latter with the defendant the limitation runs from the time when the owner came to know of the jewel being in defendant's possession. 40 Mad. 678 = 30 M.L.J. 587 = 19 M.L.T. 386 = 34 Ind. Cas. 751.

——Art. 48, Sch. I—Stolen property—Suit to recover—Limitation.

A suit to recover stolen property or its value as damages, is governed by Art. 48, and time runs from the date of defendant's possession of the same to the knowledge of the plaintiff. 148 P.W.R. 1911 = 229 P.L.R. 1911 = 11 Ind. Cas. 446.

——Art. 48-A—Suit to recover shares pledged in specie.

Where the shares are lodged with the bank as security for the debt, a suit for their recovery by the pawnor in specie from either the bank or from the person to whom they have been sold is governed either by Art. 48-A or Art. 145. 55 L.W. 90 = A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 386 = 1942 M.W.N. 129 = (1942) 1 M.L.J. 274 = 206 Ind. 1. Applicability and scope.

——Art. 49—Applicability—Conditions. See LIMITATION ACT (9 OF 1908), ARTS. 29 AND 49. (1950) 1 M.L.J. 799. A.I.R. 1950 Mad. 734.

——Art. 49—Removal of attached property—Suit for compensation—Article applicable—Arts. 48, 29 and 68.

The first defendant instituted a suit against one K for the recovery of Rs. 99 alleged to be due by way of rent.

He attached before judgment two brick kilns alleged to belong to K. As it was not possible to remove the kilns, the amin left them in the custody of the first and the second defendant on their entering into a security bond for a sum of Rs. 1,500. The bond was executed on 19th December, 1935. On 17th January, 1936, the plaintiff filed a petition under O. 21, R. 58 objecting to attachment on the ground that the kilns belonged to him. The attachment was cancelled and the first and the second defendants were directed to deliver the kilns to the plaintiff. The delivery was effected on 26th January, 1936. The plaintiff then discovered that all the bricks had been removed from one kiln and a quarter of the bricks from the other. He filed a suit on 25th January, 1939 for compensation for the wrongful removal of the bricks :

Held, that the suit was not on the bond, and hence Art. 68 had no application. This was not also a suit for compensation for wrongful seizure of movable property under legal process. Therefore, Art. 29 also did not apply. Article 48 also had no application. This article related to specific movable property lost or acquired by theft or dishonest misappropriation or conversion or for compensation for wrongfully taking or detaining the property. It was a suit for compensation for wrongful removal of the bricks. Article applicable was Art. 49 which related to a suit for specific movable property or for compensation for wrongfully taking or injuring or wrongfully detaining property. The period was three years from the date of the wrongful taking which must be held to have taken place on 25th January, 1936 and that, therefore, the suit was within time. 1945 M.W.N 160=A.I.R. 1946 Mad. 33=I.L.R. (1945) Mad. 784=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 265=58 M.L.W. 108 (2).

——Art. 49—Applicability.

A suit to recover goods or the value thereof which have been ordered to be returned by the Magistrate under the Punjab Pure Food Act is governed by Art. 49 and not Art. 2. A.I.R. 1942 Pesh. 57=202 Ind. Cas. 218.

——Art. 49—' Other ', meaning of.

The word " other " in Art. 49, means specific movable property in general as distinguished from the movabl property mentioned in the previous articles. A.I.R. 1942 Pesh. 57=202 Ind. Cas. 218.

——Art. 49—Scope.

Article 49 would apply to a suit for recovery of specifi movable property which is other than the specific movable property described in Art. 48. In other words, specific movable property in Art. 49 must be the property which is not lost to the owner as a result of theft, or dishonest misappropriation, or conversion. A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 322=38 Bom. L.R. 712=60 B. 848=165 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 49—Specific movable property—Fish.

The period of limitation for claims to damages for wrongful taking of fish can in no way be different from that for a suit to recover compensation for damages for cutting and carrying away or misappropriating crops or a suit to recover compensation for wrongful removal of trees after they have been cut down and Art. 49 governs the case. A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 461=61 C. 45=151 Ind. Cas. 813.

——Arts. 49, 29—Scope.

A suit for the return of the property which has been wrongfully attached and released subsequently, is governed by Art. 49 and not by Art. 29, as it is not one for compensation for wrongful seizure. A.I.R. 1935 All. 915=(1935) A.L.J. 1010=1935 A.W.R. 957=158 Ind. Cas. 1014.

——Arts. 49—Value of crops attached.

In the case of a suit for damages representing the value of crops which has been wrongfully attached, cut and removed, the pertinent articles are 48 and 49 105 Ind. Cas. 763=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 106.

——Art. 49—Compensation for trees cut.

Although to cut down trees in breach of an occupancy tenancy agreement is not only a breach of the agreement but also a trespass to immovable property, yet when the trees have been cut down, they certainly become specific movable property, and if they are taken away and sold, the suit is one for compensation as defined by Art. 49. 25 Cal. 602, Foll. 94 Ind. Cas. 336=A.I.R. 1928 All. 462.

——Art. 49—A suit for damages for wrongfully cutting lac producing trees and removing the trees is a suit for compensation for trespass upon immovable property within Art. 39 and for wrongfully taking specific movable property within Art. 49. 80 Ind. Cas. 769=20 N.L.R. 80=A.I.R. 1924 Nag. 125.

——Art. 49—Declaration and possession of movables.

If, in a declaratory suit in respect of a movable property, the main relief claimed is the same as consequential relief, i.e., the possession of the property and not the declaration whether declaration be necessary or merely ancillary, the suit is governed by Art. 49 and not 120. 15 Ind. Cas. 545, Foll. 70 Ind. Cas. 841=1 Bur.L.J. 85=A.I.R. 1923 Rang. 11.

——Art. 49—Partition of movables.

A suit for partition of movables of a Mohammadan falls under Art. 120 and not 49. 64 Ind. Cas. 974=44 All. 244=20 A.L.J. 71=A.I.R. 1922 All. 525.

——Arts. 49 and 62—Suit for recovery of document.

In a suit by a plaintiff claiming recovery of books of accounts, bonds, etc., and money realised by defendant from a business carried on by her deceased husband,

Held that the claim in regard to the sums realised was barred by time under Art. 62 of the Limitation Act, in regard to the books and mortgage deed under Art. 49. 85 P.R. 1919=52 Ind. Cas. 580.

——Arts. 49, 83 and 115—Suit for recovery of losses suffered on behalf of defendant's claim for commission.

Where plaintiffs as commission agents, entered into transactions with third parties on defendant's behalf and sued the latter for recovery of (1) actual bonus (2), Adat, (3) Dalali, (4) Dharman, (5) Stamp charge, (6) carriage hire and labour wages, (7) value of empty bags not returned, (8) redraft paid for defendant :

Held that the claim for (1), (3), (4), (5), (6) and (8) is governed by Art. 49. 26 Ind. Cas. 415 ; 39 A. 81, Foll. 149 P.W.R. (1917)=42 Ind. Cas. 72.

——Art. 49—Compensation for injury to moveable property.

A suit instituted by a mortgagee for compensation from a third person for injury done to specific moveable property mortgaged to the former is governed by Art. 49. 5 Bur.L.T. 156=6 L.B.R. 75=17 Ind. Cas. 906.

——Arts. 49 and 120—Suit for moveable property.

The old temple of the idols of the plaintiffs was blown down by a storm and the idols were placed in the temple of the defendant. The plaintiffs Shebait re-built the temple and wanted to bring the idols to it, but they were opposed by the defendant. The suit was therefore brought with the prayer that the idols may be taken out of the defendant's temple and placed in their new temple.

Held, that Art. 49 did not apply as the suit was not a suit for moveable property but Art. 120 would apply and that the period would run from the time when obstruction was made by the defendant to the worship of the idols being continued by the Shebait plaintiff. 38 Cal. 284=15 C.W.N. 36=7 Ind. Cas. 475.

——Art. 49—Distress—Compensation, suit for.

Art. 36 applies to a suit for compensation for fictitious distress by a fictitious landlord against a fictitious tenant.

Per Doss, J.—Art. 94 applies partly and Art. 39 also and the period is 3 years from the alleged distress. 36 Cal. 141=9 Cr.L.J. 109=1 Ind. Cas. 788.

——Arts. 49, 126—Suit to set aside sale of brit jagmani leatis—Ancestral moveable property—Suit not time-barred.

A suit to set aside a sale of brit jagmani leatis purchased with ancestral funds, if otherwise maintainable, would be governed by Art. 126 and not by Art. 49. Art. 126 refers to both moveable and immoveable property belonging to a joint family. (1909) 6 A.L.J. 614=3 Ind. Cas. 505.

——Art. 49—Cutting of wood on common land by one co-tenant—Misappropriation—Limitation Act, Art. 49.

The cutting of wood standing on common land by one co-tenant cannot by itself constitute a wrong, even though its appropriation by one alone would; and a suit by the other tenant or persons claiming through him will be governed by Art. 49. (1904) 28 M. 208.

——Art. 49—Suit for compensation for wrongful attachment. See ART. 36. 6 Bom.L.R. 704.

2. Bailment.

——Arts. 49, 115—Applicability—Bailment.

The plaintiff claimed back the value of certain ornaments on the ground that the defendant had agreed to perform the marriage of the plaintiff's daughter with his son and that the plaintiff, according to the custom of the caste, sent the ornaments for the bride but that subsequently the contract of marriage was broken by the defendant and that the plaintiff's demand for the return of the ornaments was refused by the defendant.

Held, that from the time the defendant came into possession of the ornaments to the time that the ornaments would be gifted to the bride, his possession would be that of a bailee in trust for the plaintiff. His possession was, therefore, lawful, but he was not entitled to retain possession thereof after a clear demand was made for the return of them by the plaintiff. His detention of the ornaments subsequent to the demand without the consent of the plaintiff made his possession of them wrongful and the case was governed by Art. 49 and not by Art. 115. A.I.R. 1939 Nag. 177=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 498=1939 N.L.J. 190=183 Ind. Cas. 386.

——Art. 49—Bailment—Ornaments lent for specific use.

A handed over to B certain ornaments to be used in religious procession in 1924. The ornaments were stolen. B admitted the liability in 1924, but denied it later on and A filed a suit in 1928 for recovery of the ornaments.

Held, that Art. 115 applied to the case and not Art. 49 or Art. 120; that the ornaments had been taken on loan and the transaction was of the nature of the bailment as defined in S. 148, Contract Act; that the ornaments were to be returned within reasonable time according to S. 46, Contract Act, i.e., when the owner demanded them after the ceremony was complete. Time therefore ran from the date when B should have returned the articles to A and suit by A brought three years after that date was barred by time. A.I.R. 1930 Oudh 395=7 O.W.N. 769.

——Arts. 49, 115—Where according to a contract the defendant was on demand after 6 months to return similar tiles lent to him to be approved by the plaintiff and the panchayatdars and if not approved, defendant was to return the identical tiles, and the demand was made some years after the fixed date, it was held, that Art. 115 and not Art. 49 was applicable to this case. 18 M.L.T. 459=(1916) 1 M.W.N. 121=31 Ind. Cas. 335.

3. Deposit.

——Arts. 49, 145—Scope.

Article 49, Limitation Act, (British India) is not so all embracing in its application as it appears. Article 145 (137 Bhopal) affords a clear exception. (1940) 188 Ind. Cas. 437 (Bhopal).

——Art. 49—Intention.

It is no part of the policy of the Limitation Act to make people determine the lawful possession of others who are looking after their property or who have their propperty on deposit. The policy of the Limitation Act is that when once that arrangement is stopped the suit should be brought within a limited time. 106 Ind. Cas. 885=32 C.W.N. 133=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 42.

——Art. 49—Goods deposited.

When goods are deposited, the article applicable is Art. 145; and the mere fact that the depositor demands the thing and the depositee refuses to return the same does not make Art. 49, applicable to the case. Article 145, is not governed by Art. 49. 26 Bom. 430; 33 Mad. 56, Foll. 116 Ind. Cas. 468=6 Rang. 547=A.I.R. 1928 Rang. 309.

——Art. 49—Deposits.

Article 49 is not dealing with articles deposited in any sense. 72 Ind. Cas. 842=17 M.L.W. 467=32 M.L.T. 217=1923 M.W.N. 284=A.I.R. 1923 Mad. 578=44 M.L.J. 431.

——Art. 49—Detention—Deposit of moveables—Suit for recovery.

Where moveables are entrusted to any person on condition that they will be returned on the expiry of a specified periods the fact that they are detained beyond that period and no demand is made for their return, does not render the detainer's possession unlawful. The period of limitation for a suit for the return of the moveables, or, in the alternative, for their value, commences to run from the date of demand and refusal under Art. 49. 42 All. 45=17 A.L.J. 907=52 Ind. Cas. 382.

——Arts. 49 and 146—Gold entrusted to goldsmith for making ornaments—Suit to recover—Limitation.

A suit to recover gold or value entrusted to a goldsmith for making ornaments is not governed by Art. 49 but by Art. 145, even though the gold is not recoverable in specie. 20 C.W.N. 232=23 C.L.J. 145=34 Ind. Cas. 959.

——Arts. 49, 90—Scope of—Mundatum—Deposit.

A transaction by which moveable property deposited with a person is not to be specifically returned but some work is agreed to be performed in connection therewith is not a deposit in the legal sense but only a mundatum governed by Art. 49; if the suit is for recovery of the specific moveables or for compensation for wrongfully detaining it and by Art. 89 or 90 if the suit is one for neglect of agent to do an act for his principal. 24 M.L.J. 184=18 Ind. Cas. 921.

——Arts. 49, 145—Deposit of moveable property.

Suit to recover deposit of movable property comes under Art. 145 and not under Art. 49, whether there has been a demand and refusal or not. 9 M. L.J. 51, Diss. 33 Mad. 56=7 M.L.T. 282=20 M.L.J. 41=5 Ind. Cas. 1.

——Art. 49—Suit by depositor for return of deposit—Demand and refusal. Art. 49 not applicable. See LIMITATION ACT, ART. 145. 20 M.L.J. 41=33 M. 56= 5 Ind. Cas. 1.

——Art. 49—Deposit—Demand and refusal. See LIMITATION ACT, ART. 48. 26 B. 430=4 Bom. L.R. 72.

4. Detention.

——Arts. 49, 115—Applicability—Wrongful detention—Cause of action arising ex delicto—Suit is governed by Art. 49 and not by Art. 115.

Article 49 contemplates a case of a cause of action arising ex delicto whether or not the wrongful taking or wrongful detention was preceded by a contract; the material date is the date when detention becomes wrongful. Even if the possession was at its inception under a contract, that would not preclude the application of Art. 49 because that articles comes into play only at the moment when the possession becomes unlawful or wrongful. A. I.R. 1939 Nag. 177=1939 N.L.J. 190=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 498=183 Ind. Cas. 386.

——Art. 49—Detention of goods.

A suit for damages against a defendant at whose instance plaintiff's goods were detained by customs authorities is governed by Art. 36 and not by Art. 49. 106 Ind. Cas. 277=46 C.L.J. 455=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 1.

——Arts. 49 and 36—Art. 36 and not Art. 49, applies to a suit for compensation for deterioration of plaintiff's oranges owing to their detention at the Police Station. 90 Ind. Cas. 509=43 C.L.J. 203 =A.I.R. 1926 Cal. 177.

——Art. 49—Default — Hire-purchase system — Suit to recover article sold—Limitation.

Non-payment of rent for a sewing machine taken on hire-purchase system does not amount to wrongful detention within Art. 49 of the Limitation Act. To constitute wrongful detention there must be some overt act or demand by the hier and refusal by the purchaser. 13 A.L.J. 81=27 Ind. Cas. 637.

——Sch. 1, Arts. 49 and 36—Deposit of money detained—Suit for compensation for detention.

Art. 49 and Art. 36 applies to a suit for compensation for the Court having unlawfully detained plaintiff's deposit of money owing to the wrong act of the defendants. 7 Ind. Cas. 5 (Cal.).

5. Starting point.

——Art. 49—Starting point of limitation.

Where the plaintiff entrusts specific movable property to the defendant on the understanding that the same would be returned to the plaintiff, limitation for a suit for the return of the property or its value starts when the defendants' possession becomes unlawful. In such a case, the defendants' possession is permissive to start with. Permissive possession cannot become unlawful unless there is at least a refusal on the part of the defendant to return the property. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 303=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 187=55 L.W. 56=1942 M.W.N. 348=205 Ind. Cas. 307.

——Art. 49—Wrongful detention.

A mere demand by the plaintiff will not be enough. Unless the defendant openly asserts that he was not going to return the property, his possession cannot be said to be unlawful. Mere silence on demand being made does not constitute refusal. A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 303=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 187=55 L.W. 56=1942 M.W.N. 348=205 Ind. Cas. 307.

——Art. 49—Wrongful detention.

The detention of property amounts to conversion within Art. 49 only when it is adverse to the owner or other person entitled to possession, that is to say the defendant must have shown an intention to keep the property in fraud of the plaintiff. 60 B. 848=A. I.R. 1936 Bom. 322=38 Bom.L.R. 712=165 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 49—Successive conversions.

Where there have been successive conversions of the same property by different persons, each of these conversions is an independent cause of action, and the barring of one of them by the statute of limitation has no effect on the other. 38 Bom.L.R. 712=A. I.R. 1936 Bom. 322=60 B. 848=165 Ind. Cas. 184.

——Art. 49—Starting point of limitation.

Time for a suit for the return of the property which has been wrongfully attached and released subsequently begins to run from the time when the property is wrongfully taken or injured or when the detainer's possession becomes unlawful, that is, after it is released from attachment. 1935 A.W.R. 957 =(1935) A.L.J. 1010=A.I.R. 1935 All. 915=158 Ind. Cas. 1014.

——Art. 49—Joint Hindu family—Possession lawful at first and subsequently becoming adverse—Applicability.

Article 49 is the ordinary article to apply in a case where the original possession of the defendant is lawful but it becomes unlawful by reason of certain facts. The common case is the case where the demand is made by the plaintiff, the plaintiff having a right to determine the possession of the defendant.

Plaintiff and his step-brothers formed a joint Hindu family. Plaintiff's mother and father died in 1905 and 1909 respectively. The mother left certain valuable ornaments which continued to be in the joint family even after the death of the plaintiff's father. During all the time plaintiff was living with the step-brothers. Plaintiff attained majority in 1910. Step-brothers never claimed the ornaments as their own though they were in their possession. In 1920 there was a partition and in September 1920 the plaintiff brought the suit to recover those ornaments. It was contended that the suit was time-barred.

Held, that Art. 49 applied and the suit was not time-barred, as the time began to run against him in 1920 when he claimed that step-brothers should make over the ornaments to him. 106 Ind. Cas. 885=32 C.W.N. 133=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 42.

——Art. 49—Original possession permissive — Failure to return on demand.

Plaintiff gave two necklaces to the defendant on condition that their price would be paid if they would be approved and they would be returned if they were not approved. The defendant failed to return the necklace in question to the plaintiff, though the latter demanded them by telegram.

Held, that the defendant's possession of the necklaces became unlawful within the meaning of Art. 49 on his failure to return the same after the receipt of the telegram. 105 Ind. Cas. 224=A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 47.

——At. 49—Demand and refusal to comply essential.

Where the original possession of property had been permissive a mere allegation on the part of the possessor, of his or her ownership of the property, does not change the character of his or her possession into an unlawful one, and the possession can become unlawful only on his or her refusal to comply with a demand for the return of the property and under Art. 49, limitation would begin to run only from date of such refusal. 85 Ind. Cas. 10=2 Rang. 555=A. I.R. 1925 Rang. 146.

——Art. 49—Government promissory notes held by defendant for plaintiff—Wrongful disposal of notes—Pledge—Subsequent demand and refusal—Wrongful detention when commences.

The defendant who held certain Government promissory notes in trust of the plaintiff pledged the same for his own purposes and later on when asked, the plaintiff refused to deliver them up.

Held, that a suit by the plaintiff to recover the notes or their value from the defendant was governed by Art. 49 and time commenced running from the date of refusal, notwithstanding that the defendant had wrongfully parted with the notes before that date. The detention of the notes became wrongful from the date of refusal to deliver them up. L.R. 6 C.P. 206 foll. (1908) 12 C.W.N. 1010.

——Art. 49—Removal of coal—Starting point.

A claim for damages for trespass and removal of coal from an underground colliery is covered by Arts. 39 and 49 and time begins to run from the inadvertent wrongful taking or from discovery of fraudulent taking. 101 Ind. Cas. 62=31 C.W.N. 82=A.I.R. 1927 Cal. 117.

——Art. 49—Attachment before Judgment.

In a suit against the plaintiff by the defendant for recovery of money, plaintiff's property was attached before judgment. The suit was decreed by the first Court but dismissed by the appellate Court. Plaintiff sued to recover compensation for loss of profits, etc.

Held, Art. 29 does not apply to the suit for Art. 29 is applicable only to those cases in which the seizure is intrinsically wrongful or perhaps to cases where the seizure is made without jurisdiction. The proper article to be applied is Art. 49 and time for suit runs from the date of appellate decree and not from the date of attachment. 81 Ind. Cas. 1038=22 A.L.J. 977=5 L.R.A. (Civ.) 732=A.I.R. 1925 All. 131.

——Art. 49—Articles left in common house—Starting point.

The three years' rule applies to a suit for recovery of articles left in the house occupied by the plaintiff along with the deceased son of the defendant and subsequently vacated by the plaintiff, the latter leaving in the house the articles in question and alleged to be in defendant's possession. The suit is not barred if brought within three years after the defendant's refusal to deliver or the defendant's denial that he was in possession of the property. 84 Ind. Cas. 1026=20 M.L.W. 758=1925 M.W.N. 143=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 185.

——Art. 49—Illegal distraint—Starting point.

The cause of action for a suit for compensation for illegal distraint does not only arise on the date or the release of the property from distraint, but the cause of action arises on the date of the actual loss of or damage or at the latest when the plaintiff comes to know of such loss. 66 Ind. Cas. 852=A.I.R. 1922 All. 139.

——Art. 49—Conversion — Moveable property—By borrower—Suit for recovery.

In the case of property loaned to be returned when asked for no action would lie until a return has been demanded and refused. The mere fact, that the borrower has unknown to the lender, wrongfully converted, the subject of the loan would not affect limitation. Limitation would run from the date of demand and refusal and not from the date when property was converted wrongfully. (1871) 6 C.P. 206, Foll. 54 Ind. Cas. 159 (Nag.).

——Art. 49—"When the property is wrongfully taken"—Paddy taken by Police on defendant's complaint—Delivery to defendant after trial.

Where on the defendant's complaint, plaintiffs' paddy was taken by the Police, and after the termination of the trial instituted on the defendant's complaint, the paddy was handed over by the order of the Magistrate to the defendant, a suit by the plaintiffs for return of the paddy, if brought within three years from the date of the delivery to the defendant, is within time.

Held, that the cause of action for the suit by the plaintiffs against the defendant to recover the paddy or for compensation for wrongful conversion arose on the date of the delivery. Possession of the Magistrate was possession on behalf of the true owner. (1906) 16 M.L.J. 541=30 M. 12=1 M.L.T. 397.

——Arts. 51 and 31—When goods ought to be delivered.

The expression "when goods ought to be delivered" used in Art. 31 is identical with those in Art. 51. The time for delivery must be a reasonable time after the goods were made over to the carrier. 11 N.L.R. 174=31 Ind. Cas. 474.

——Art. 52.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. "Goods".
3. Starting point.

1. Applicability and scope.

——Arts. 52 and 64—Applicability—Suit for price of goods sold.

A suit for recovery of the price of goods sold, is governed by Art. 52 and not by Art. 64 of the Limitation Act. For the application of Art. 64 the accounts are required to be stated in writing signed by the defendant or his agent duly authorised in this behalf. I.L.R. (1950) Nag. 464=A.I.R. 1950 Nag. 228=1950 N.L.J. 150.

——Art. 52—Scope.

Suit for recovery of price of goods supplied to Cantonment Board is governed by Art. 52 and not by S. 273 of the Cantonment Act. 1934 All. 436=56 A. 885=(1934) A.L.J. 805=3 A.W.R. 393=149 Ind. Cas. 49.

——Art. 52—Applicability.

A claim for price of medicines supplied would fall within Art. 52. (1931) A.L.J. 949=A.I.R. 1931 All. 752=133 Ind. Cas. 537.

——Art. 52—Scope.

A certain firm agreed to act as commission agent for another firm. There was a single contract, viz., a contract of agency. The commission agent firm submitted accounts annually and the amount due at the end of each year was added to the account for the following year. The former firm sued to recover certain sum found due on adjustment of accounts or alternatively for an account and decree for the amount found due:

Held, that this was not a contract for goods sold and delivered. Consequently, Art. 52 had no application. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 245=194 Ind. Cas. 727.

——Arts. 52 and 85—Scope.

Between October 25, 1934, and December 24, 1934, a person sold goods worth Rs. 357-12-6. The purchaser made payments, on account, between October 27, 1934, and October 6, 1935, amounting to Rs. 298-4-6. The seller, on June 23, 1938, brought a suit for the balance of Rs. 59-8-0 together with interest:

Held, that Art. 52 applied because the account consisted entirely of goods delivered on the one hand and payments made towards the price of those goods on the other. Article 85 had no application as there were no reciprocal demands between the parties. A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 307=42 P.L.R. 272.

——Art. 52—Goods sold on credit.

A suit to recover price of goods by a tradesman on credit for which payments were made on presentation of bill is governed by Art. 52 of the Act and the perod of limitation is three years from the date of the delivery of the goods. Article 85 does not apply to such a case. 88 Ind. Cas. 747=A.I.R. 1925 Pat. 806.

——Arts. 52, 96—Scope.

The Municipal Committee supplied electric current to the defendant. The voltage of the current supplied was 440 volts but the meter was one that reported only 220 volts. In order, therefore, to get a correct reading of the cuerrent supplied, the reading indicated by the meter should have been doubled and the Committee issued instructions to their employees to double the reading of the meter by their Inspector before sending in the bill to the defendant. By some mistake or negligence on the part of the employees of the Committee, actual bills sent were only for the single reading without doubling the reading. When the mistake was discovered, the Committee sued for the balance of the bill not charged for or paid by the defendant:

Held, that Art. 96, could not apply to a case like the present where the mistake was not the mistake of the parties in contractual relation or any money paid or property handed over because of a mistake but was due to the mistake of the employees in not following the instructions of the Committee. The case was covered by Art. 52. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 338=40 P.L.R. 143=180 Ind. Cas. 510.

——Art. 52—Goods supplied under mistake.

Where a person, who was dealing in business with two brothers doing business independently sold and despatched to one of them certain goods at his request but entered the debit by mistake in the name of the other, and on refusal by the latter to pay, the mistake was discovered and the dealer presented a demand to the former and filed a suit for recovery of the price of the goods:

Held, that the suit was really one for price of goods sold and delivered and hence was governed by Art. 52 and not by Art. 96. 27 S.L.R. 81=A.I.R. 1933 Sind 32=142 Ind. Cas. 470.

——Arts. 52 and 115—Applicability.

D contracting with N to supply goods and perform duties for fixed sum—D breaking contract—P purchasing debts due to D from N for goods supplied and services rendered—P suing N for debts—Art. 115, and not Art. 52 applies. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 222.

——Arts. 52, 115—Scope.

The defendant, in pursuance of an agreement to purchase 3 motor cars with certain accessories for a lump sum of Rs. 14,000, paid Rs. 2,000 as earnest money and took delivery of a car. He did not make any further payment and did not return the motor car which he had taken. The plaintiff sued for the balance of the price of the car which the defendant had taken and for damages for breach of contract:

Held, that as the defendant had failed to return the car which he had taken delivery of, he must be taken to have consented to pay its price, and the suit, so far as the claim for the balance of the price of that car was concerned, was not a claim for compensation for breach of contract within Art. 115, but one for price of goods sold and delivered within Art. 52. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 309=130 Ind. Cas. 574.

——Art. 52—Price of articles.

Where the plaintiff is suing for a sum of money as representing the price of certain articles sold by him to the defendant Art. 52 and not Art. 115 of the Limitation Act applies to the case. 65 Ind. Cas. 687=2 L.L.J. 191.

——Arts. 52 and 61—Scope.

Where A purchases goods wrongfully in the name of B without the latter's knowledge who is forced to pay the price to the seller, a suit by B to recover from A the amount which has been compelled to pay is not governed by Art. 52 but Art. 61. A.I.R. 1933 Lah. 404=147 Ind. Cas. 57.

——Art. 52—Advance of grain.

A suit to recover advance of grain is governed by Art. 52 and the period, as amended by Punjab Act of 1904, is six years. 2 L.L.J. 191 and A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 271, Foll. 95 Ind. Cas. 25=8 L.L.J. 322=27 P.L.R. 700.

——Art. 52—Price of work done under contract.

A suit for the recovery of the price of work done and materials supplied on a contract to build a house comes under Art. 120; Arts. 52 and 56 are inapplicable to the case. 103 P.R. 1913=81 P.L.R. 1914=22 Ind. Cas. 576.

——Art. 52—Newspaper—Arrears of subscription.

A suit to recover arrears of subscription to a newspaper is governed by Art. 52. (1905) 7 Bom.L.R. 190.

2. "Goods."

——Arts. 52 and 96—'Goods'—'Electric energy' if included in — Claim in respect of electric energy supplied during a period of five years—Article applicable—Limit to relief.

Electric energy is 'moveable property', and therefore "goods" within the meaning of Art. 52 of the Limitation Act. A suit claiming the charges for electric energy supplied during a period of five years can only be decreed so as to cover only a period of three years prior the institution of the suit. The fact that it was owing to a mistake of the meter reader that incorrect bills were issued during the period of five years cannot attract the provisions of Art. 96 of the Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1946) A. 476= 1946 A.W.R. (H.C.) 247=1946 A.L.J. 195=1946 A.L.W. 372=A.I.R. 1946 All. 502.

——Art. 52—Goods—Test.

Articles of food do not lose their character of goods merely because the man who sells them as a shop-keeper happens to be the proprietor of a restaurant, if he sells them in a different department. A. I.R. 1940 Rang. 17=1939 Rang.L.R. 626=186 Ind. Cas. 582.

——Art. 52—Goods—Tinned articles.

If, from restaurant is sent out a case of beer, that would scarcely be drink in that sense of the word. It would be goods and the same applies to articles in tins which do not require immediate consumption. 1939 Rang.L.R. 626=186 Ind. Cas. 582=A.I.R. 1940 Rang. 17.

——Art. 52—Fruits in garden—Suit for price of.

A suit for recovery of the price of fruits standing in a garden and sold to the defendant is governed by Art. 52 of Limitation Act the word "goods" in that article being wide enough to include fruit even before it has been gathered. 66 Ind. Cas. 120 (Lah.).

3. Starting point.

——Arts. 52, 85—Starting point of limitation.

The mere supply of different goods on different dates cannot give rise to a fresh period of limitation from the date of the last supply. If no period of credit was agreed upon, Art. 42, would obviously apply and limitation would start from the date of the delivery of the goods on each occasion unless of course the case can be brought within the ambit of Art. 85. A. I.R. 1943 Mad. 13=1943 M.W.N. 561=55 L.W. 585=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 337=207 Ind. Cas. 133.

——Arts. 52, 115—Scope—Starting point.

In a suit for balance due on account of goods sold and delivered from time to time, the evidence was of sale and delivery of goods and there was no evidence that the buyer ever had any account submitted to him, or that he ever agreed to be bound by any account:

Held, that the cause of action was for the price of goods sold and delivered and not a claim for balance due at the foot on account and the mere fact that the buyer paid moneys on account of what was due from time to time, for which he was given credit could not alter the nature of the seller's cause of action. The case, therefore, fell under Art. 52 and not Art. 115.

Held, also that the starting point of time was the date of the delivery of the goods, and although the cause of action was one for the price of all the goods delivered, the Court was bound to check the various items which went to constitute that cause of action and to apply Art. 52 to deliveries which took place more than three years before the filing of the suit. A. I.R. 1940 Bom. 158=42 Bom.L.R. 227=I. L. R. (1940) Bom. 127=188 Ind. Cas. 300.

——Art. 52—Date of delivery.

Unlike a bill-of-lading a railway receipt when formally made over to a person, is a mercantile document of title to goods and gives the holder thereof the right to lawful possession of the goods and the date of delivery of receipt is the date of the delivery of the goods for the purpose of Cl. (3) in Art. 52. 38 M. 664, Foll. 108 Ind. Cas. 801=A.I.R. 1928 Nag. 181.

——Art. 52—Starting point — Tradesman's account.

The starting point of limitation under Art. 52 is the date of the delivery of goods and in the case of a tradesman's accounts the liability to pay for each item of goods delivered, either day by day or week by week is, in the case of each item, the date of the delivery of that particular item. A.I.R. 1945 All. 185=1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 45=1945 O.W.N. (H. C.) 61=I.L.R. (1945) All. 200.

——Art. 52—Tradesman's account—Starting point —Appropriation of payments.

In the case of a trademan's account the liability to pay for each item of goods delivered, either day by day or week by week is in the case of each item the date of delivery of that particular item.

Where payments are made from time to time by the customer and there is no specification as to the items to which the payments are to be credited the trader is entitled to credit the payments to the earlier of the items but not to the entire balance due up-to date so as to save limitation for all the items. 63 Ind. Cas. 435=19 A.L.J. 555=A.I.R. 1921 All. 325.

——Art. 52—Starting point of limitation.

Where, in the case of sale of different goods by the plaintiff to the defendant on different dates, the defendant makes a payment without instructions to the plantiff to appropriate it towards a particular item and there is nothing to show that the plaintiff had given credit to the defendant towards particular item, the payment must be regarded as a payment generally towards the defendant's account irrespective of the consideration whether the item in the plaintiff's account were barred by limitation or not and the plaintiff is entitled to recover such items as are within time after crediting the payment towards previous items. A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 13=1942 M.W. N. 561=55 L.W. 585=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 337=207 Ind. Cas. 133.

——Art. 52—Starting point of limitation.

If more debts than one are due and a payment is made which is not specifically appropriated, it is a question of fact in respect of which debt the payment was made. This appropriation need not be proved by any express declaration of the debtor at the time of the payment but any expression used by him, either before or after that time, or any other circumstances from which it may be inferred that the payment was intended to be appropriated to any particular debt or debts, or was made on account of all the debts collectively will be sufficient for the purpose. If the evidence shows that the payment was made on account of all, it will prevent any of the debts being barred by statute. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 266=1938 N.L.J. 157=I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 137=178 Ind. Cas. 50.

——Art. 53—Construction of bill—Thavanai in a bill of sale.

The word Thavanai was held to mean credit period and to place the suit for the price of goods sold and purchased within Art. 53 of the Limitation Act in the following circumstances: In the bill for piece-goods purchased, sent by the vendor to the vendee the following words were found at the top "debt interest at ¾ per cent. per mensem after 60 days thavanai." The question arose whether it was a credit sale or a cash transaction when the plea of limitation was set up as a defence to the suit for the money due, and it was held to be a credit transaction. 85 Ind. Cas. 299=48 Mad. 275=20 M.L. W. 981=A.I.R. 1925 Mad. 161=47 M. L. J. 844.

——Art. 54—Applicability.

For Art. 54 to apply, it must be alleged that the hundis were not executed as promised. If the defendants wish to make this allegation, it is for them to make it in their written statement or their pleadings clearly and without any attempt to mislead the plaintiffs. A.I.R. 1936 Lah. 328=162 Ind. Cas. 302.

——Arts. 56, 120—Scope—Pleader's suit for fees.

There was no agreement between the Pleader and his client with regard to the amount of the fees. The Pleader was to submit a bill upon the conclusion of his employment in the case and was to be paid only such charges as the client considered reasonable:

Held, that the suit by the Pleader for the recovery of his fees was governed by Art. 56 and not by Art. 120. A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 444=75 C. L. J. 7=201 Ind. Cas. 650.

——Arts. 56 and 7—Suit by goldsmith.

A suit by a goldsmith to recover the price of his labour in making ornaments falls under Art. 56 and not under Art. 7. A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 286=I.L. R. (1938) Nag. 592=177 Ind. Cas. 345.

——Art. 56—Suit by Contractor against District Board—U. P. Local Boards Act, S. 192.

Where a contractor with a District Board was unable to complete the contract within the stipulated time and he was relieved of his obligations on the apparent understanding that he was to be paid for the work done, and he sued for the same.

Held, S. 191 (1), U.P. Local Boards Act did not apply as it was not a contract by the Board and that Art. 56 applied to the case. 109 Ind. Cas. 639=3 Luck. 584=5 O.W.N. 350=A. I. R. 1928 Oudh 297.

——Art. 56—Contract—Price of work done

A suit for the recovery of the price of work done and materials supplied on a contract to build a house comes under Arts. 120; Arts. 52 and 56 are inapplicable to the case. 103 P.R. 1913=81 P.L.R. 1914=22 Ind. Cas. 576.

——Art. 56—Contract—Ruling Prince.

A suit by contractor engaged in British India by an agent of a Ruling Prince, against the agent for work done by him, is governed by Art. 56. 43 P. R. 1910=70 P.W.R. 1909=4 Ind. Cas. 902.

——Art. 56—Suit for price of work done by plaintiff for the defendant at plaintiff's request—Principal and agent—Contractor employed by agent to do work for principal. See CONTRACT ACT, S. 230 (3). 14 P.L.R. 1909=43 P.R. 1910=4 Ind. Cas. 902.

——Art. 56—Starting point of limitation—Building contract.

According to an agreement between the contractor and the Military Department, the work was to be finished in ten months and during the progress of the work, payments were to be made to the contractor by way of advances to be adjusted at the time of the preparation of the final bills. The balance was to be paid to him after the final bills had been prepared by the Military Department. These bills had to be prepared after final measurements made in the presence of the contractor after the completion of the work. The contractor was also to do such extra work in connection with the construction of the buildings as the Military Engineering authorities should call upon him to do or execute. There was also an arbitration clause in contracts making it incumbent on the parties to refer their disputes to arbitration. Soon after he had completed the work, the contractor requested the Officers of the Engineering Department concerned to measure his work in his presence and to prepare the final bills. He even sent his engineer, but no steps were taken to measure the work in his presence. In fact almost up to date of the suit negotiations continued between the parties as to the correct amount claimable by the plaintiff on account of the work done by him. No reference was made by either party to arbitration and when the contractor filed a suit, even then the other party did not ask for stay of suit and that the dispute be referred to the arbitration:

Held, (i) that since the negotiations for settlement of claim continued up to the date of the suit, no question of limitation under the circumstances arose with regard to the contractor's claim. A.I.R. 1935 Lah. 775=160 Ind. Cas. 739.

——Art. 57.

Synopsis.

1. Applicability and Scope.
2. Money lent on pledge.
3. Mutual, open and current account.
4. Starting point.

1. Applicability and scope.

——Art. 57 and S. 20—Customer of Bank overdrawing account on different occasions—Limitation for recovery—Repayment by customer—If saves limitation in respect of general balance of account.

When the customer of a bank draws a cheque on it, knowing that the funds at his credit are insufficient to meet it but expecting the bank nevertheless to honour it, he impliedly applies to the bank for an overdraft or a loan. Each such transaction is an independent loan, limitation for the recovery of which is determined by Art. 57 of the Limitation Act. Regarded in this light, each payment made by the customer over his signature goes to extend limitation in regard to the particular overdraft which it goes to repay and which would be the earliest item outstanding on the debit side. The payment would therefore be of no avail to save limitation in respect of the general balance of account. The fact that part of the floating balance is secured would not make a difference in this respect. 26 Pat. 231=1948 (Comp. C. 127=A.I.R. 1948 Pat. 18.

——Art. 57—On demand, mearing of.

Under Art. 57, when no time is fixed a loan is payable on demand—that is, forthwith—so when money is lent and charged upon land, and no time is fixed, it is payable on demand—that is, forthwith—as the words "on demand" used in this sense mean "forthwith and without demand". A.I.R. 1941 Sind 158=I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 124=196 Ind. Cas. 565.

——Arts. 57 and 60—Distinction—'On demand'—Meaning — Thavanai account—Money payable on demand—Limitation.

Art. 57 applies to ordinary loans where no time is fixed for payment i.e., to suits for money payable "on demand" in the legal sense of the term. Art. 60 applies to cases of money deposited under an agreement that it shall be repayable "on demand" in the popular sense of the terms i.e., after demand is made; when after expiry of thavanai contract no fresh contract is entered into, the money held is like a deposit in the banker's hands which is ordinarily payable 'on demand' in the legal sense and therefore Art. 60 applies. 13 Bur. L.T. 21=10 L. B.R. 161=57 Ind. Cas. 908.

——Arts. 57, 58—Scope.

A suit in which a lender transfers to the borrower a cheque which had been drawn by another person and endorsed in his favour by the payee does not come within the ambit of Art. 58 but is governed by Art. 57, which is a general article applicable to a suit for the recovery of money payable for the money lent; and the terminus a quo is the date on which the loan is made. Where loan was made on 30th August, 1923, when the money was received by the borrower, the suit brought within three years from that date, must be held to be within time. A.I.R. 1938 P.C. 66=1938 O. W. N. 203=(1938) A. L. J. 148=47 L. W. 234=4 B. R. 305=42 C. W. N. 514=19 P. L. T. 222=I. L. R. (1938) All. 326=(1938) 1 M. L. J. 785=(1938) M. W. N. 573=67 C. L. J. 176=1938 A. W. R. 30=40 Bom. L. R. 752=32 S. L. R. 388=65 I. A. 132 =172 Ind. Cas. 978.

——Art. 57—Claim for personal decree under mortgage—Limitation.

Where, under a mortgage, a mortgagee was to remain in possession for a fixed period, a personal covenant to pay the mortgage money is necessarily implied and the period of limitation to recover the same falls under Art. 57. A.I.R. 1936 Pesh. 43 =160 Ind. Cas. 986.

——Arts. 57. 115—Money lent.

The plaintiffs were dealers in timber and the defendant did the business of sawing wood. According to the plaint, between certain dates, a certain sum of money was advanced to the defendant and the defendant sawed a certain quantity of timber from one date to another mentioned in the plaint and that thereby he did work worth a certain amount. Deducting the value of the work done, the plaintiffs claimed the balance of their money lent:

Held, that Art. 57 governed the suit and not Art. 115, and that the case was similar to that of a party advancing money to another and the borrower repaying the money lent from time to time. A. I.R. 1934 All. 122=3 A.W.R. 190=147 Ind. Cas. 295.

——Arts. 57 and 115—Thavanai account—Relation of parties to.

The relationship between the parties to a Thavanai account is that of lender and borrower. The money is to be paid at a fixed period after two months and unless the lender demands it, the loan is taken to be extended for next two months. Art. 57 and not Arts. 60 and 115 applies to a suit brought on thavanai account. 8 L.B.R. 526=10 Bur. L. T. 53=36 Ind. Cas. 497.

——Arts. 57, 68 and 80—Suit on hundi—Hundi inadmissible — Claim on original consideration—Limitation.

A suit upon two hundis payable in thirty days from the date of execution was brought more than three years from the date of the hundis, but within three years from the expiry of one month within which the hundis were payable. The hundis not being properly stamped were inadmissible in evidence and plaintiff claimed a decree on the original consideration:

Held, that the suit not having been brought within three years from the date of payment of the original transaction, was barred by limitation as the hundis could not be used for extending the time for payment. 7 Cal. 256, approved. 29 C.L.J. 508=51 Ind. Cas. 945.

——Art. 57—Advance in kind and cash—Suit to recover—Applicability.

A suit to recover money on account of advance made in grain and cash is not governed by Art. 57. 103 P.W.R. 1916=37 Ind. Cas. 300.

——Art. 57—Creditor having debtor's funds for payment.

No question of limitation arises where a creditor has funds belonging to the debtor at his disposal to pay himself out of it. 2 O.L.J. 620=32 Ind. Cas. 729.

——Art. 57—Suit for—Money advanced as price —Questions for decision.

Where no time is expressly fixed for delivery of the goods in a suit for the money advanced the Court must find whether by reason of trade, custom or other usage, any particular period can be laid down as the date of delivery failing which, some reasonable time should be fixed after the advance of his money for delivery, having regard to all circumstances. 13 A.L.J. 394=28 Ind. Cas. 969.

——Art. 57—'Deposit'—Meaning of.

On 31st March, 1902, one M sold property to G for a part of debt due to plaintiff the vendee undertook pay the the said debt to plaintiff. On 18th February, 1908 plaintiff sued G's widow for the sum. Defendant pleaded that the money having been left with G as a deposit, the suit was barred by limitation:

Held, that the suit was not barred as it was a suit for money payable for money lent and Art. 57 of the Limitation Act read with the Punjab Act I of 1904, applied. The test to see whether there was a deposit, was whether M remained liable to plaintiff and so retained some sort of dominion over the purchase money in G's hands. It being not so, the case was merely one of transfer from one person to another of liability for debt. 59 P.R. 1910=101 P.W.R. 1910=108 P.L.R. 1910=7 Ind. Cas. 467.

——Arts. 57, 62, 89 and 120—Suit against the sons of the agent for money appropriated by the agent and thrown into his estate—Sons benefited.

A suit by the principal against the sons and representatives of the agent for money received by the agent and not accounted for and which had benefited the estate of the sons is governed by Art. 120 and not by Arts. 57, 62 or 89. (1909) 6 A.L.J. 667=2 Ind. Cas. 118=31 A. 429.

2. Money lent on pledge.

——Art. 57—Money lent—Loan on pledge.

A suit for the recovery of money secured by a pledge is really a suit for money lent and advanced. If the suit is one to recover the unpaid balance of a loan, the fact that movable property has been pledged does not change the nature of the suit and Art. 57 applies. A.I.R. 1935 Bom. 213=37 Bom. L.R. 165=156 Ind. Cas. 531.

——Art. 57—Pawnor and pawnee.

Neither the fact that the pawnee had no power to sell the goods pledged to him, nor the express stipulation that the recovery of the debt should be made out of the proceeds of sale to be held by the pawnor takes away or suspends pawnee's right to sue for the debt under the contract of loan. The suit for the same must be brought under Art. 57 and time runs from the date of the loan. 104 Ind. Cas. 641=A.I.R. 1927 Nag. 346.

——Arts. 57, 115 and 120—Loan—Pledge—Limitation.

A suit to recover the balance of money remaining due after the sale of the articles pledged as its security is merely a suit for money lent and the period of limitation applicable to such a suit is three years from the time the loan is made under Art. 57. 7 Bom. L.R. 739=30 Bom. 218.

——Arts. 57. 120—Pledge of moveables—Right of pledgee — Maintainability of suit for sale—Limitation—Personal remedy—Right of hypothecatee—Contract Act, S. 176.

Held (Per Subrahmania Aiyar and Benson, JJ.). —That a pledgee of moveable property may, notwithstanding that he may have the right to sell the property under pledge under S. 176 of the Contract Act sue to recover the amount due under the pledge by sale of the pledged property. Art. 120 of the Limitation Act governs such a suit for sale, while Art. 57 will apply to a suit to recover the money personally from the debtor. 11 M. 153, not foll. 21 C. 21 and 17 A. 284, foll.

Per Davies, J. contra.—A suit at the instance of a pledgee, to recover the debt by sale of the pledged property is not maintainable. A suit for sale of the pledged property will be barred if a suit for recovery of the debt personally from the pledgee be barred under Art. 57, as the right to sell is only accessory to the right to recover the debt. 11 M. 153, foll. An hypothecatee is entitled to sue for recovery of the debt by sale of the hypothecated property. (1902) 13 M.L.J. 445=27 M. 528 (F.B.).

——Art. 57—Pawnor and pawnee—Suit to recover balance after sale of articles pawned—Limitation. See CONTRACT ACT, S. 176. 1902 A.W.N. 43=24 A. 251.

3. Mutual, open and current account.

——Arts. 57 and 85—Applicability — Mutual accounting ceasing to be such.

Where though an account started as a mutual one, it continues on a different footing and changes its nature, Art. 85 has no application and the proper article applicable is Art. 57. A.I.R. 1937 Rang. 340=1937 Rang. L.R. 254=172 Ind. Cas. 837.

——Arts. 57 and 85—Money lent.

The defendant borrowed money from the plaintiff from time to time, made payments to him occasionally and struck balance in his favour. The transactions created obligations on one side only, those on the other being merely complete or partial discharge of such obligations. On the account as it stood there were no independent obligations and there were and could be no reciprocal demands between the parties:

Held, that the account was not mutual account within Art. 85 and the suit being one for recovery of money payable for money lent, was governed by Art. 57. A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 241=12 L. 420=32 P.L.R. 954=134 Ind. Cas. 513.

——Art. 57—Book accounts.

Plaintiff sued defendant for a sum of Rs. 1,600 due as principal and interest on book accounts. It was alleged that defendant had struck a balance in favour of the plaintiff for Rs. 756-14-0 and that he had since taken a further sum of Rs. 57 and these items together with interest accrued due amounted to a total of Rs. 1,600. The accounts on record were not mutual, open and current and there were no reciprocal demands between the parties:

Held, that Art. 85 does not apply but that the article applicable is either 57 or 64. 4 L.L.J. 65 =A.I.R. 1922 Lah. 204.

——Arts. 57, 64 and 85—Running accounts closed —Money advanced subsequently—Suit to recover —Limitation.

Where running and open accounts were closed and balance struck and an overpayment was made, to the defendant subsequently a suit to recover the latter was held, to be one on a closed account and was governed by Art. 57 or 64 and not by Art. 85. 148 P.W.R. 1916=7 P.L.R. 1917=35 Ind. Cas. 577.

4. Starting point.

——Art. 57—Money paid by cheque—Limitation —When time begins to run.

Limitation to recover money paid by cheque runs from the date of the receipt of the money by the payee and not from the date of delivery of the cheque. 38 Bom. 293=16 Bom. L.R. 121=23 Ind. Cas. 779.

——Art. 58—Scope.

Art. 58 applies to a case in which the lender draws his own cheque and gives it to the borrower. It does not govern a suit in which he transfers to the borrower a cheque which had been drawn by another person and endorsed in his favour by the payee. 67 C.L.J. 176=1938 O.W.N. 203=(1938) A.L.J. 148=A.I.R. 1938 P.C. 66=47 L.W. 234=4 B.R. 305=42 C.W.N. 514=19 P.L.T. 222=I.L.R. (1938) All. 326=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 785=(1938) M. W.N. 573=65 I. A. 132=1938 A.W.R. 30=40 Bom. L.R. 752=32 S.L.R. 388=172 Ind. Cas. 978 (P.C.).

——Art. 58—Starting point of limitation.

The period of three years prescribed by Art. 58 begins to run from the date on which the cheque is paid, and cheque is paid when it is cashed by the lender's bankers. It is only then that the lender's money passes into the hands of the borrower, and the loan is made by the former to the latter, the mere handing over of a cheque by the lender to the borrower does not amount to a payment of the cheque. Nor does the period begin to run against the lender when the cheque received by the borrower is given by him to his own bank and the amount is credited to him by the bank. 1938 O.W.N. 203=(1938) A.L.J. 148=A.I.R. 1938 P.C. 66=47 L.W. 234 =4 B.R. 305=42 C.W.N. 514=19 P.L.T. 222 =I.L.R. (1938) All. 326=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 785 =(1938) M.W.N. 573=67 C.L.J. 176=1938 A.W. R. 30=40 Bom. L.R. 752=32 S.L.R. 388=65 I.A. 132=172 Ind. Cas. 978 (P.C.).

——Art. 58—Starting point—Hundis, transfer of —Loan—Due date.

The mere transfer of hundis for the purpose of making a loan of their value when realized does not amount to a loan until money has been realized by the transferee. Consequently, where hundis were transferred which were mature after a time the starting point of limitation for a suit to recover the loan is the date of the realization of the money and not the date of transfer. L.R. 3 C. P. 300 applied. 2 A.L.J. 579=(1905) A.W.N. 181=28 A. 54.

——Art. 59—Applicability.

There is no reason to distinguish between money lent and payable on demand governed by Art. 57 or 59 and money lent and charged upon land and governed by Art. 132. A.I.R. 1941 Sind 158=I.L. R. (1941) Kar. 124=196 Ind. Cas. 565.

——Art. 59—Loan payable on demand and secured by a mortgage.

Limitation in the case of money lent under an agreement that it shall be payable on demand runs from the time when the loan is made and it would be anomalous if limitation ran from a different time in a case where the money was lent on an agreement that it should be payable on demand but is also secured by a mortgage-deed. It is not necessary in such cases that an actual demand should be made for limitation to commence. 21 Mad. 139, Foll. 111 Ind. Cas. 132=6 Rang. 297=A. I. R. 1928 Rang. 189.

——Arts. 59 and 60—Deposit and loan—Distinction.

Distinction between deposit and loan explained. A.I.R. 1940 P.C. 132=6 B.R. 852=1940 O.W. N. 778=1940 A.W.R. 138=44 C.W.N. 1041=52 L.W. 388=(1940) A.L.J. 612=(1940) M.W.N. 1000=I.L.R. (1940) Kar. (P.C.) 277 (Sup.)=42 Bom. L.R. 971=72 C.L.J. 435=189 Ind. Cas. 444 (P.C.).

——Arts. 59 and 60—Applicability.

Where money is deposited with a banker and is payable on demand, a suit for recovery of the same is governed by Art. 60 and not by Art. 59. A.I. R. 1936 Lah. 718=17 L. 481=38 P.L.R. 1025= 165 Ind. Cas. 699.

——Arts. 59, 60—Limitation — Suit to recover money deposited on current account—Loan—Deposit—Acknowledgment.

Semble.—It is far from easy to say to what class of cases the Legislature meant Art. 60 to apply. It may apply to the transactions between a banker and his customers known as "fixed deposits" or it may apply only to deposits of money made with a private person. But it is not intended to apply to a transaction which is regarded by the law as a loan. A suit to recover money deposited with a banker on a current account is governed as to limitation by Art. 60. 1907 A.W.N. 263=4 A.L.J. 628=29 A. 773.

——Arts. 59 and 116—Applicability — Registered bond.

In the case of a registered bond, the article of the Limitation Act which is applicable is not Art. 59 but Art. 116. A.I.R. 1934 Rang. 227=151 Ind. Cas. 426.

——Art. 59—Overdraft.

An overdraft in the hands of a banker is merely a loan and Art. 59 applies to such overdraft. 102 Ind. Cas. 408=29 Bom. L.R. 423=A.I.R. 1927 Bom. 362.

——Arts. 59, 132—"On demand".

A sum payable "on demand" is repayable forthwith and the words "on demand" are superfluous; in each case the question whether or not the parties intended that the words "on demand" should be treated as an integral or operative part of the agreement depends upon the true construction of the agreement. 11 R. 328=A.I.R. 1933 Rang. 188= 147 Ind. Cas. 281.

1. Applicability and scope.

——Art. 60—Applicability.

Before Art. 60 of the Limitation Act can apply not only must the transaction be a deposit but there must be in addition an agreement that it shall be payable on demand. I.L.R. (1950) Nag. 562=1950 Comp. Cas. 225=A.I.R. 1951 Nag. 255.

——Art. 60—Applicability—'Banker'—' Deposit'—Meaning of.

The word "banker" as used in Art. 60 of the Limitation Act does not necessarily mean a "professional" banker and it applies equally to a trader who acts as a banker in relation to a particular customer or customers. The word "deposit" is not defined in the Act and it does not appear that that word has been used in a technical sense, that is the return of the goods or money in specie. Such a meaning would be contrary to the ordinary usage of the language. Therefore, Art. 60 should be deemed to apply to a case where one man places money in the hands of another on the term that an equivalent sum has to be paid back on demand. I.L. R. (1948) Nag. 340=1948 N.L.J. 513=A.I.R. 1948 Nag. 377.

——Art. 60—Claim for refund of money deposited is governed by Art. 60. A.I.R. 1944 All. 241

——Art. 60—A suit for the recovery of the surrender value of an insurance policy is governed by Art. 60. 1942 N.L.J. 380=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 9 =I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 253=203 Ind. Cas. 193.

——Art. 60—A suit for recovery of a deposit with a banker which is not a fixed term is governed by Art. 60. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 335=1938 Rang. L. R. 468=179 Ind. Cas. 428.

——Art. 60—Essentials.

To bring the transaction under Art. 60, Limitation Act, it is necessary to show not only that there was a deposit, but that the deposit was under an agreement that it shall be payable on demand. 111 Ind. Cas. 210=51 Mad. 549=29 M.L.W. 460=A. I.R. 1928 Mad. 509.

——Art. 60—Breach of agreement to sell—Suit for recovery of deposit.

In a certain contract for the sale of property the vendor was to satisfy certain conditions before completion of the contract, but no time was specified for it. The vendor mortgaged the property to another and afterwards it was sold in satisfaction of that mortgage. The purchaser then sued for recovery of deposit money:

Held, that the purchaser need not have sued within a reasonable time. It was Art. 97 and not 60 nor 115, that governed such a case, and time was to be counted since when the property was sold in satisfaction of the mortgage, because it was then that the contract, having become impossible of performance, ended. 117 Ind. Cas. 700=33 C.W.N. 115 =56 Cal. 455=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 216.

——Art. 60—Balance out of deposits.

Plaintiff sued the defendant for money which plaintiff's father used to deposit every now and then with the defendant and used to withdraw, when necessary, through himself or through others or get money paid to others; and there was also demand on a certain date:

Held, that the suit was governed by Art. 60. 98 Ind. Cas. 554=A.I.R. 1927 Pat. 91.

——Art. 60—Deposit with right to lend—'Banker' —Scope of Art. 59.

The defendants Nos. 1 and 2 were to hold the money deposited by plaintiff for sole custody and by way of deposit: they were at liberty, if they thought it safe and on their own responsibility and risk, to lend the money to others and that, in case they did so, they were to pay a certain sum to the plaintiff as interest on the money so lent, presumably after realizing such interest from the debtors:

Held, that Art. 60 and not 59 applies to suit for recovery of money. Article 60 is not limited in its application to claims against bankers only. 39 Mad. 1081, Foll. 66 Ind. Cas. 752=25 C.W. N. 981=A.I.R. 1921 Cal. 644.
